1 [Board Response - Civil Grand Jury Report - Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from
2 San Francisco's Commissions]

3 Resolution responding to the Presiding Judge of the Superior Court on the findings
4 and recommendations contained in the 2023-2024 Civil Grand Jury Report, entitled
5 “Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco’s Commissions;” and 6 urging the Mayor to cause the implementation of accepted findings and 7 recommendations through her department heads and through the development of the 8 annual budget.

10 WHEREAS, Under California Penal Code, Section 933 et seq., the Board of
11 Supervisors must respond, within 90 days of receipt, to the Presiding Judge of the Superior
12 Court on the findings and recommendations contained in Civil Grand Jury Reports; and

13 WHEREAS, In accordance with California Penal Code, Section 933.05(c), if a finding or 14 recommendation of the Civil Grand Jury addresses budgetary or personnel matters of a 15 county agency or a department headed by an elected officer, the agency or department head
16 and the Board of Supervisors shall respond if requested by the Civil Grand Jury, but the 17 response of the Board of Supervisors shall address only budgetary or personnel matters over 18 which it has some decision making authority; and

19 WHEREAS, Under San Francisco Administrative Code, Section 2.10(a), the Board of 20 Supervisors must conduct a public hearing by a committee to consider a final report of the 21 findings and recommendations submitted, and notify the current foreperson and immediate 22 past foreperson of the Civil Grand Jury when such hearing is scheduled; and

23 WHEREAS, In accordance with San Francisco Administrative Code, Section 2.10(b), 24 the Controller must report to the Board of Supervisors on the implementation of

25

1 recommendations that pertain to fiscal matters that were considered at a public hearing held
2 by a Board of Supervisors Committee; and

3 WHEREAS, The 2023-2024 Civil Grand Jury Report, entitled “Commission Impossible?
4 Getting the Most from San Francisco’s Commissions” (“Report”) is on file with the Clerk of the 5 Board of Supervisors in File No. 240709, which is hereby declared to be a part of this 6 Resolution as if set forth fully herein; and

7 WHEREAS, The Civil Grand Jury has requested that the Board of Supervisors respond
8 to Finding Nos. F1, F2, F3, F4, F5, F6, F7, F8, and F9 as well as Recommendation Nos.
9 R1.2, R1.3, R2.1, R2.2, R2.3, R2.4, R2.5, R2.6, R2.7, R3.1, R4.1, R4.2, R4.3, R5.1, R5.2, 10 R6.1, R7.1, R7.2, R8.1, R9.1, R9.2, and R9.3, contained in the subject Report; and

11 WHEREAS, Finding No. F1 states: “No up-to-date, accurate list of active appointed 12 bodies exists, which impedes government transparency;” and

13 WHEREAS, Finding No. F2 states: “It’s difficult to evaluate appointed bodies, because 14 no authority systematically reviews their performance;” and

15 WHEREAS, Finding No. F3 states: “The high number of advisory bodies creates 16 unnecessary administrative burdens;” and

17 WHEREAS, Finding No. F4 states: “Unfilled seats can result in canceled meetings, 18 which imposes extra costs and delays decision-making;” and

19 WHEREAS, Finding No. F5 states: “Most appointed bodies have no sunset dates, 20 which affects their relevance and accountability;” and

21 WHEREAS, Finding No. F6 states: “The descriptors for commissions are varied and 22 confusing;” and

23 WHEREAS, Finding No. F7 states: “Annual reports vary in content and availability, 24 which greatly undermines their value;” and 25

1           WHEREAS, Finding No. F8 states: “The appointment process lacks visibility into 2 appointee political activities;” and

3           WHEREAS, Finding No. F9 states: “A lack of training and performance reviews 4 hampers commissioner effectiveness;” and

5           WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R1.2 states: “By December 17, 2024 if feasible, or 6 by January 31, 2025 if not feasible, the Board of Supervisors shall pass an ordinance
7 requiring the City Attorney’s Office by January 31 of each year to prepare and make available
8 to the public an up-to-date, accurate list of active commissions and other appointed bodies, as 9 described in Recommendation 1.1;” and

10          WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R1.3 states: “The report referenced in 11 Recommendation 1.1 shall be posted not only on the City Attorney’s website, but also on a
12 new Commissions Oversight Body (COB) website (see Recommendation 2.1) or on a city
13 website that is used more frequently by the public to obtain information about city programs
14 and services. Good examples include Los Angeles County and San Diego County;” and

15          WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R2.1 states: “By May 1, 2025, the City shall enact
16 an ordinance to create the Commissions Oversight Body (COB), or a body by another name
17 as the Board of Supervisors deems appropriate. This ordinance shall set forth the 18 membership requirements and the duties of the COB;” and

19          WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R2.2 states: “The ordinance described in 20 Recommendation 2.1 shall set forth the membership requirements of the COB as follows:

21           • One representative from the Controller’s Office, who will chair the COB. The 22 Controller’s Office shall provide the professional expertise and administrative assistance
23 necessary to support the COB’s duties.

24           • One representative from the Mayor’s Office.

25           • One representative from the Office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.

1           • Four residents of San Francisco who do not work in city government, who are not
2 members of any commission or board, and whose professional experience or civic
3 participation qualify them for this role. The Controller, Mayor, Board of Supervisors and City
4 Attorney shall each appoint one of these residents, with no confirmation requirement;” and

5           WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R2.3 states: “The ordinance described in
6 Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB, by June 30 each year, to i) evaluate all
7 appointed bodies on the list that will be issued by the City Attorney per Recommendation 1.1,
8 and ii) produce an annual report containing the COB’s evaluations and recommendations
9 pertaining to all commissions (COB Annual Report) that shall be forwarded to the Board of 10 Supervisors and the Mayor for further action;” and

11           WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R2.4 states: “For each appointed body to be 12 evaluated per Recommendation 2.3, the ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall 13 require the COB to collect and include the following information in the annual report:

- 14           • Statement of purpose
- 15           • Effective date
- 16           • Sunset date (if any)
- 17           • Body’s classification as decision-making or advisory, quasi-judicial, associated with 18 state or federal law
- 19           • Legal authorization, whether by charter, ordinance, resolution, or by other means
- 20           • Appointing authority
- 21           • Summary of the body’s key actions and accomplishments
- 22           • Link to the body’s most recent annual report, if applicable
- 23           • Link to the body’s website
- 24           • Number of members
- 25           • Number of required meetings per year

- 1           ● Number of actual meetings
- 2           ● Number of canceled meetings
- 3           ● The number of board or commission member self- and peer-reviews completed
- 4           ● Number of vacancies
- 5           ● Number of expired terms with holdover members;” and

6           WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R2.5 states: “For each appointed body to be 7 evaluated per Recommendation 2.3 and 2.4, the ordinance that is described in 8 Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to recommend changes (if any) regarding the 9 appointed body, to the Board of Supervisors and the Mayor, and to other entities as 10 necessary to implement these recommendations. These recommendations can include, but 11 are not limited to, a recommendation to remove members of a body, abolish the body, or 12 retain the body with changes to its composition, duties, authority, meeting requirements, and 13 sunset date;” and

14           WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R2.6 states: “The ordinance described in 15 Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to evaluate advisory bodies annually, and to 16 evaluate all other bodies every three years, with the option to do so on a rotating basis 17 (evaluating about one-third of such bodies in year 1, one-third in year 2, and one-third in 18 year 3);” and

19           WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R2.7 states: “The Mayor’s Office shall include 20 funding in the fiscal 2025 budget for additional staff or other resources, as needed, for the 21 Controller’s Office to perform the duties required by the COB as described in 22 Recommendation 2.2;” and

23           WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R3.1 states: “The ordinance described in 24 Recommendation 2.1 shall require that for each appointed body, the COB recommend 25 retaining, abolishing, or merging with another appointed body, as part of the evaluation

1 process described in Recommendations 2.3, 2.4, and 2.5. To aid in making its initial 2 recommendations, the COB shall review Appendix B: Abolish or Retain;” and

3 WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R4.1 states: “The City shall enact an ordinance
4 limiting the membership of new decision-making bodies to 7 members or fewer and limiting 5 the membership of new advisory boards to 11 members or fewer;” and

6 WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R4.2 states: “The ordinance described in 7 Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to recommend reducing the size of all existing 8 commissions and boards according to Recommendation 4.1;” and

9 WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R4.3 states: “The ordinance described in 10 Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to develop guidelines for simplifying and 11 streamlining the criteria for who can serve on commissions and boards;” and

12 WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R5.1 states: “By May 1, 2025, the City shall enact 13 an ordinance or propose a ballot measure to codify a sunset date that does not exceed three 14 years for all advisory bodies for which it has the authority to pass such an ordinance or 15 propose such a ballot measure. If passed, this law shall apply immediately to advisory bodies
16 that currently have no sunset date. For advisory bodies with a sunset date, this law shall apply 17 if or when the body is reauthorized;” and

18 WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R5.2 states: “The Clerk of the Board shall notify the 19 City Attorney six months before a body is scheduled to sunset so that the City Attorney can 20 remove the body from the code if it is sunsetted;” and

21 WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R6.1 states: “By May 1, 2025, the City shall enact 22 an ordinance or policy to standardize the names of future commissions and other appointed 23 bodies. The Jury recommends the following naming conventions and recommends that the 24 Board of Supervisors present the text of the ordinance or policy to the COB for approval:

- 25
- Commission or Board for a decision-making body, for example, Film Commission or

1 Assessment Appeals Board.

2 • Advisory Committee or Task Force for an advisory body. For example, Advisory
3 Committee for bodies with a broad scope that have a longer duration (Bicycle Advisory
4 Committee) and Task Force for bodies with a narrow scope and shorter duration (Permit
5 Prioritization Task Force);” and

6 WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R7.1 states: “By May 1, 2025, the Board of 7 Supervisors shall amend as follows Administrative Code Section 1.56 requiring appointed
8 bodies to submit annual reports:

9 (a) Annual reports shall be submitted to the COB for its review by March 31 of the 10 following year.

11 (b) Annual reports shall include the information specified in Appendix D: Annual Report
12 Requirements.” and

13 WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R7.2 states: “If the COB is not enacted, By 14 May 1, 2025, the Board of Supervisors shall amend as follows Administrative Code
15 Section 1.56 requiring appointed bodies to submit annual reports:

16 (a) Annual reports shall be submitted to the COB for its review by March 31 of the 17 following year.

18 (b) Annual reports shall include the information specified in Appendix D: Annual Report
19 Requirements;” and

20 WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R8.1 states: “By May 1, 2025 the City shall enact an 21 ordinance requiring appointee Notice of Appointment statements for an appointed body to 22 include the following information:

- 23 • Previous service as a member of a commission or board;
24 • Political activity, including service as an officer, employee, consultant, or volunteer for 25 a political party or campaign committee;

- 1           ● Lobbying activity, including contacting any legislative member, legislative staff, or
- 2           government employee to influence the support or opposition to specific legislation;
- 3           ● Local political campaign contributions in excess of $500 per campaign;
- 4           ● Relevant work or life experience that qualifies the appointee for the commission and
- 5           reasons for wanting to serve;” and

6           WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R9.1 states: “By May 1, 2025 the City shall enact an
7           ordinance requiring that within three months of an individual’s initial appointment to a
8           commission or board (including advisory bodies), the individual must undergo training to serve 9           with excellence in the role. This training would be in addition to any other training required by 10          law;” and

11          WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R9.2 states: “The Jury recommends that the training 12          required by the ordinance described in Recommendation 9.1 be no less than two hours and 13          no more than four hours in length. The ordinance shall designate one or more city
14          departments as responsible for developing and administering the training program. The 15          ordinance could but need not specify components of the training program. In addition to its 16          being required for new commissioners, the program would be available on an optional basis to 17          all commissioners;” and

18          WHEREAS, Recommendation No. R9.3 states: “By May 1, 2025 the city shall enact an 19          ordinance requiring that commissioners (including advisory body members) participate in an 20          annual performance review program that includes self- and peer-reviews. This ordinance shall 21          designate one or more city departments as responsible for this performance review program;”
22          and

23          WHEREAS, In accordance with California Penal Code, Section 933.05(c), the Board of
24          Supervisors must respond, within 90 days of receipt, to the Presiding Judge of the Superior
25          Court on Finding Nos. F1, F2, F3, F4, F5, F6, F7, F8, and F9 as well as Recommendation

1 Nos. R1.2, R1.3, R2.1, R2.2, R2.3, R2.4, R2.5, R2.6, R2.7, R3.1, R4.1, R4.2, R4.3, R5.1,
2 R5.2, R6.1, R7.1, R7.2, R8.1, R9.1, R9.2, and R9.3 contained in the subject Report; now,
3 therefore, be it

4 RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports to the Presiding Judge of the 5 Superior Court that they disagree partially with Finding No. F1 for the following reasons:
6 multiple departments currently publish lists; including the City Administrator, who publishes a
7 commissions database; the City Attorney's office, which publishes a list of commissions; and
8 the Clerk of the Board, which posts a list of commission vacancies as required by the Maddy
9 Act; however, these lists do not track whether a commission is actively meeting; and, be it

10 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports to the Presiding Judge
11 of the Superior Court that they disagree partially with Finding No. F2 for the following reasons:
12 it is true that there is no specific authority charged with systematically evaluating or reviewing 13 commissions' performance, although individual appointing bodies may stay up to date on their 14 appointed commissioners' work and consider commissioner performance, especially in 15 connection to potential reappointment; and, be it

16 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports to the Presiding Judge
17 of the Superior Court that they disagree partially with Finding No. F3 for the following reasons:
18 the number of advisory bodies does create an administrative burden, but is not
19 "unnecessary;" and, be it

20 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports to the Presiding Judge
21 of the Superior Court that they agree with Finding No. F4; and, be it

22 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports to the Presiding Judge
23 of the Superior Court that they disagree partially with Finding No. F5 for the following reasons:
24 many appointed bodies do not have sunset dates, but many bodies continue to be relevant
25 (i.e., Police Commission, Health Commission, etc.); and, be it

1 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports to the Presiding Judge
2 of the Superior Court that they agree with Finding No. F6; and, be it

3 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports to the Presiding Judge
4 of the Superior Court that they disagree partially with Finding No. F7 for the following reasons:
5 while there is some basic information that can likely be standardized among annual reports,
6 the diversity of purposes for each commission or advisory body requires some flexibility for 7 each commission on the format and timing of their reports; and, be it

8 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports to the Presiding Judge
9 of the Superior Court that they agree with Finding No. F8 for the following reasons: people 10 who apply or are nominated to commissions do not currently have to file a disclosure of 11 political donations, affiliations, or lobbying activity with their applications, which obscures
12 political activity in the appointment process; and, be it

13 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports to the Presiding Judge
14 of the Superior Court that they disagree partially with Finding No. F9 for the following reasons:
15 many commissioners excel in their roles without formal training, but ensuring that 16 commissioners receive training on rules of order, department processes, and overview of the 17 city's structure may improve effectiveness overall; and, be it

18 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
19 No. R1.2 requires further analysis for the following reasons: Section 1.57 of the SF
20 Administrative Code, which requires an online database on appointments and commissions, is 21 already on the books; in addition, the City Administrator already maintains a database with 22 much of the information required; however, within six (6) months, the Board of Supervisors
23 intends to work with the Mayor's Office, City Attorney's office, City administrator's office, Clerk
24 of the Board, and other relevant departments/bodies to improve on the existing ordinance to 25

1 ensure that the database reflects active appointed policy bodies with the following information
2 about each body:

3 (a) Statement of purpose;

4 (b) Effective date;

5 (c) Sunset date (if any);

6 (d) Body's classification as decision-making or advisory, quasi-judicial, associated with
7 state or federal law;

8 (e) Legal authorization, whether by charter, ordinance, resolution, or by other means;

9 (f) Link to the body's most recent annual report, if applicable;

10 (h) Link to the body's website;

11 (i) Number of members; and

12 (j) Whether they have met in the last year; and, be it

13 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
14 No. R1.3 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 15 following reasons; as explained in more detail below, any discussion about adding a new 16 body, including a Commission Oversight Body, should be part of the process that takes place
17 after the November 2024 election; however, while the Board of Supervisors will not create a 18 new body, it will partially incorporate this recommendation into the ordinance described in its 19 response to R1.2, and intends to require that a link to the commissions database be posted
20 on the websites of any appointing authorities, including the City Attorney's Office, Mayor's
21 office, and Board of Supervisors; and, be it

22 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
23 No. R2.1 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 24 following reasons: there is currently a citywide conversation about how we want to approach
25 the oversight and reduction in city commissions; any proposals to add additional bodies

1 should be folded into whichever process is created following the November 2024 election,
2 which includes two ballot measures on the subject; and, be it

3 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
4 No. R2.2 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the
5 following reasons: the COB will not be created for the reasons outlined in R2.1, so this
6 recommendation will not be implemented; and, be it

23 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
24 No. R2.7 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 25 following reasons: the Board cannot conduct a meaningful analysis of whether additional

1 funding is necessary until it understands the full extent of the changes to commissions that will
2 be proposed and adopted following the processes resulting from the November 2024 election;
3 and, be it

4 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation

8 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
9 No. R4.1 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 10 following reasons: there is currently a citywide conversation about how we want to approach
11 the oversight and reduction of city commissions; any proposals to reduce the size of all 12 commissions should be folded into whichever process is created following the 13 November 2024 election, which includes two ballot measures on the subject; and, be it

14 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
15 No. R4.2 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 16 following reasons: the COB will not be created for the reasons outlined in R2.1, so this

20 following reasons: the COB will not be created for the reasons outlined in R2.1, so this
21 recommendation will not be implemented; and, be it

22 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
23 No. R5.1 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the
24 following reasons: there is currently a citywide conversation about how we want to approach
25 the oversight and reduction of city commissions; any proposals for additional ballot measures

1 or ordinances regarding sunset dates should be folded into whichever process is created
2 following the November 2024 election, which includes two ballot measures on the subject;
3 and, be it

4 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
5 No. R5.2 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 6 following reasons: while the Clerk of the Board already notifies commissions and the City
7 Attorney's office about commissions and advisory bodies that are close to sunseting as a
8 courtesy, the authorizing authority for several commissions already directs the City Attorney to 9 remove the commission on its designated sunset date; and, be it

10 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
11 No. R6.1 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 12 following reasons: there is currently a citywide conversation about how we want to approach
13 the oversight and reduction in city commissions; any proposals to standardize names of future
14 commissions should be folded into whichever process is created following the
15 November 2024 election, which includes two ballot measures on the subject; and, be it

16 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
17 No. R7.1 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 18 following reasons: many commissions and advisory bodies already have legal deadlines for 19 their annual reports that sometimes vary depending on the type of work they do; changes to 20 existing deadlines for their annual reports should be folded into whichever process is created
21 following the November 2024 election, which includes two ballot measures on the subject;
22 and, be it

23 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
24 No. R7.2 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 25 following reasons: the Board of Supervisors will incorporate portions of Appendix D into its

1 legislation in response to R1.2, including requiring the following information to be posted:
2 statement of purpose, list of commission members, vacant seats, commission clerk/staff
3 contact information, and information about when the commission meets; and, be it

4 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
5 No. R8.1 1 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 6 following reasons: the Board of Supervisors intends to implement this requirement but will 7 need to perform further analysis within six (6) months to determine how this will be 8 implemented legally and logistically in light of the various departments involved in running the 9 city's commissions and the need to expand existing ethics requirements for all
10 commissioners/appointees; and, be it

11 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
12 No. R9.1 requires further analysis to be completed within six (6) months for the following 13 reasons: there is currently a citywide conversation about how we want to approach the 14 oversight and reduction in city commissions; any proposals to add additional training 15 requirements should be folded into whichever process is created following the 16 November 2024 election, which includes two ballot measures on the subject; and, be it

17 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
18 No. R9.2 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 19 following reasons: while training requirements may be implemented in the future, the nature
20 and length of the required training should be discussed and adopted as part of the process
21 that takes place following the November 2024 election; and, be it

22 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors reports that Recommendation
23 No. R9.3 will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable for the 24 following reasons: while performance reviews may be formalized in the future, the nature of 25

1 performance metrics should be discussed and adopted as part of the process that takes place
2 following the November 2024 election; and, be it

3 FURTHER RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors urges the Mayor to cause the 4 implementation of the accepted findings and recommendations through her department heads
5 and through the development of the annual budget.

Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions

June 20, 2024

CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO
2023–2024 CIVIL GRAND JURY

About the San Francisco Civil Grand Jury

The San Francisco Civil Grand Jury (the “Jury”) is a government oversight panel of volunteers who serve for one year. Each Jury determines which local government entities within San Francisco it will investigate. Private citizens also may submit written complaints to the Jury, for investigation at the Jury’s discretion. The Jury cannot investigate disputes between private parties, criminal activity, or activities outside its jurisdiction, which is the government of the City and County of San Francisco and any other local governments within city limits.

In reports made available to the public, the Jury documents findings and recommendations based on its investigations. Reports do not generally identify individuals by name, and disclosure of the specific identity of anyone interviewed by the Jury is prohibited.

The San Francisco Civil Grand Jury consists of 19 city residents impaneled by a Superior Court Judge. By state law, a person is eligible for Civil Grand Jury service if the person is a U.S. citizen, 18 years of age or older, of ordinary intelligence and good character, and has a working knowledge of the English language.

Summary

Starting with the first 21 commissions created with the San Francisco City and County Charter in 1898, the number of commissions, advisory boards, and other appointed bodies in the city has grown to 115 today. In this report, we refer collectively to these entities as commissions and boards, commissions and other appointed bodies, or simply commissions.<sup>1</sup> Our investigation looked into how well these bodies serve San Franciscans.

The Jury's challenges began with determining how many commissions San Francisco currently has. We discovered there is no centralized list of commissions, and there is no department or agency that is responsible for overseeing their effectiveness.

This lack of a single, authoritative list of commissions was the first of the Jury's several discoveries and indicated to us that the entire commission system suffers from a lack of transparency and structure. We believe this lack of clarity and structure has contributed to a declining level of confidence in the commission system.

The Jury compiled what we believe is the first accurate and comprehensive list of commissions in San Francisco. Our list describes their roles and responsibilities, meeting requirements, the area of city government they advise or oversee, sunset dates, and more.

Compared to peer cities in California, San Francisco has a lot of commissions. Because San Francisco is both a city and a county, we compared our commissions to city and county commissions relevant to peer cities and made adjustments when necessary. After accounting for this and adjusting for population, we determined that San Francisco has approximately twice as many commissions as its peers in California.

Our investigation uncovered many essential commissions that run effectively and are integral parts of San Francisco government. We also discovered other commissions whose benefits do not appear to outweigh their costs.

The primary value of San Francisco's commissions are their oversight role in city and county government, public engagement, transparency and accountability, but these benefits come with costs. Commissions with oversight power and decision-making responsibilities require dedicated staff, office space, and legal support.

Commissions' biggest costs are the amount of time that city staff incur preparing for commission meetings and responding to requests from the commission for information and various analyses. We determined this can be as high as 10% of staff time.

Staffing the nearly 1,200 seats on San Francisco's many commissions is a particularly burdensome process. At various points during our investigation, we found up to 15% of commission seats were unfilled. These open seats often prevent commissions from having quorums – that is, a required minimum number of attendees – which leads to canceled or rescheduled meetings, delaying such vital business as approving contracts.

We recommend that the city create a permanent Commission Oversight Board (COB) whose purpose will be to: i) regularly evaluate the performance of San Francisco's commissions; ii) create standards for the duties, responsibilities and performance of commissions and the commissioners and members who serve on these bodies; and iii) periodically identify commissions that should be changed or abolished.

The rich irony of recommending a new commission to reduce the number of commissions is not lost on us. However we believe such a body is vital in order to optimize and streamline the city's byzantine commission system.

While most commissions play a necessary role in San Francisco governance and perform well, some are of questionable value. The system needs significant reform which includes fewer commissions, centralized oversight, consistent standards, and performance assessments.

Background

Several media stories have asserted that San Francisco’s many commissions – more than Los Angeles, more than San Diego, all unelected – add a layer of bureaucracy that constrains the city’s ability to address our most pressing problems.<sup>2</sup> In interviews with the Jury, city officials and employees shared similar concerns. We interviewed nearly 100 of them as we sought to learn how commissions originate, how they operate, and whether they are effective. The results of that work follow in this report.

A Brief History of San Francisco’s Commissions

The California state constitution was ratified in November 1849. In February 1850, the state legislature divided California into counties, including San Francisco. In April of the same year, the City of San Francisco was established by the state and in September statehood was granted by the US Congress. Six years later, in April 1856, the state legislature passed the Consolidation Act, which consolidated the county and city government of San Francisco and established the physical boundaries that we have today.<sup>3</sup>

San Francisco voters passed our first city charter in 1898 (the 1898 Charter), which became law in 1900. The Charter establishes “home rule” authority, whereby San Francisco is able to make its own laws at the local level, and exercise wide-ranging authority in municipal matters. The 1898 Charter embodied a “strong mayor” model: the Mayor was the presiding officer of the Board of Supervisors, had veto power over legislation and the budget, and had sole appointment authority for commissioners. City government consisted of an executive branch (Mayor), legislative body (Board of Supervisors or Board), and 21 charter boards and commissions to provide oversight of core city departments.<sup>4</sup>

A revised City Charter approved by voters in 1932 gave voters the power to create policy by amending the Charter through ballot measures, and the Board of Supervisors the power to create boards and commissions by ordinance which must be signed by the Mayor.<sup>5</sup>

San Francisco's 1996 Charter, enacted as November 1995's Proposition E, took effect on July 1, 1996.<sup>6</sup> Since then a number of new commissions have been added to the Charter by amendment, and the Charter has also been amended to incorporate changes to existing commissions including changes as to which elected officials make appointments.

San Francisco Has Many Commissions

San Francisco has 115 active commissions. That's more than the cities of San José (27),<sup>7</sup> Los Angeles (48),<sup>8</sup> and San Diego (49).<sup>9</sup> Even on a county basis, with the exception of Los Angeles, San Francisco has more commissions: Santa Clara (70),<sup>10</sup> Los Angeles (151)<sup>11</sup> and San Diego (96).<sup>12</sup>

The growth in San Francisco commissions started in earnest in the 1970s, increasing nearly four-fold between 1970 and 2020. Not surprisingly, the proliferation of commissions has outpaced the city's ability to keep track of them. The Jury compared numerous lists of commissions and boards provided by various city departments – and found none of them to be complete, or fully consistent with one another.

Accordingly, we conducted an extensive review of these lists and other sources to produce Appendix A: Active San Francisco Commissions and Boards, a compilation of every active appointed body that we discovered during our investigation.

The Jury also collected information about each commission, including its purpose, statutory basis, sunset date, frequency of meetings, vacancies and much more. Throughout this process, we gathered insights and information from a large number of city employees and officials familiar with commissions, as well as a number of commissioners themselves.

This process required constant vetting, as new commissions are created and sunset dates for existing commissions are extended on a regular basis. In addition, some commissions are difficult to find in the Municipal Code.

This list does not include appointed bodies that we determined to be inactive – or possibly so – but that still appear in the Charter or Municipal Code and often in lists provided by city departments. For a discussion of these apparently inactive bodies, see Appendix C: Inactive Bodies.

Commissions Go By Many Names

Appointed bodies established by the city employ an astounding array of descriptors, including commission, board, committee, task force, council, working group, and so on. In fact, the Jury found 25 different permutations of these terms.

Table 1: Permutations of names for appointed bodies in San Francisco

Different Names of San Francisco Boards, Commissions and other Bodies
Advisory Board	Coordinating Council
Advisory Committee	Council
Advisory Council	District
Advisory Group	Executive Committee
Authority	Group
Authority Board	Oversight and Advisory Committee
Board	Oversight Board
Board of Directors	Oversight Committee
Board of Trustees	Partnership
Commission	Public Authority
Committee	Task Force
Coordinating Board	Working Group
Coordinating Committee

Other than the use of commission to refer to the appointed bodies outlined in Article IV of the San Francisco Charter, we could not find consistent naming standards. (What’s more, there are non-Article IV bodies called commissions.) It’s unclear what criteria, if any, define a commission as opposed to a board or a council.

In this report we use the terms commissions and boards, commissions and other appointed bodies, and sometimes simply commissions to refer collectively to the appointed bodies whose purview includes one or more of the following responsibilities:

- Overseeing city departments, with the power to approve budgets and in some cases hire and remove department heads
- Advising city departments and/or the Mayor’s Office
- Adjudicating issues (appeals boards)
- Advising the Board of Supervisors
- Advising other commissions. For example, a citizens advisory committee may advise a commission that oversees a city department.

We also refer to commissions and boards as being either “decision-making” or “advisory.” This is largely based on classifications from the Office of the City Attorney and the Jury’s research. Decision-making bodies exercise the sovereign powers of the city and others are advisory.

Not All Commissions Are Alike

Nearly all commissions are authorized by either the San Francisco Charter<sup>13</sup> or the Municipal Code. Within the Municipal Code, most commissions are authorized by the Administrative Code, although some are authorized by the Planning Code, Building Code, Health Code, and Police Code. Some commissions are created by the Charter but with composition or responsibilities defined by an ordinance. Their roles, authority, size, and requirements for membership vary greatly.

This report delves into these differences in an attempt to classify and evaluate San Francisco’s myriad commissions.

<sup>13</sup> San Francisco City Charter, Article IV: Executive Branch—Boards, Commissions and Departments.

Analysis

---

The Jury found it useful to distinguish commissions based on their statutory origin and authority, which among other things reveals how much power – or how little – a particular body has. We developed this approach from commission lists provided by the City Attorney’s Office and other city entities, provisions in the City Charter and Municipal Code, and interviews with city officials and employees who work with or regularly appear before commissions.

Commissions Created by Charter

Charter commissions are created by and derive their authority from the City Charter. The oldest existing commissions – some of the most powerful – were created by Charters adopted in 1898 and 1932. For example, the predecessors for the current Recreation and Park, Fire and Police commissions were established in 1898. Out of the 115 commissions we identified, 42 are charter commissions.

Most charter commissions oversee major components of the city’s executive branch – the Mayor, city departments, and other units of government. Although the Board of Supervisors cannot directly engage city departments regarding day-to-day operations, the board can have an oversight role in investigating departmental operations.

Only through voter approval of a charter amendment or adoption of a new Charter can a charter commission be created, dissolved, or modified. The Board of Supervisors can place a charter amendment on the ballot with a simple majority (6 out of 11 votes), while citizens can do so with signatures from at least 10% of the total number of voters in the most recent election.<sup>14</sup>

<sup>14</sup> City of San Francisco, “Guide to Qualifying San Francisco Initiative Measures,” City of San Francisco, Accessed May 21, 2024.

Depending on the requirements outlined in the Charter, members of a charter commission may be appointed exclusively by the Mayor (for example, the Health Commission, Human Rights Commission), jointly by the Mayor and Board of Supervisors (Planning Commission, Police Commission), or jointly by the Mayor, Board, and other entities (Elections Commission, Ethics Commission).

There are important caveats, however. Certain mayoral appointments to charter commissions take effect immediately and the Board of Supervisors has 30 days to reject such appointments by a supermajority of 8 out of 11 votes (Airport Commission, Civil Service Commission) or a simple majority (Police Commission, Public Utilities Commission). In some cases, the Mayor's choice is limited to the Commission's own nominees (Asian Art Commission).

The Mayor, on the other hand, has no power to approve or reject appointments made by the Board of Supervisors. This imbalance means that the Board of Supervisors generally has more power than the Mayor over who is appointed to charter commissions.

Commissions Created by Ordinance

An ordinance is a law that either has been passed by the Board of Supervisors with a simple majority, with presentation to the Mayor for signature, non-signature, or veto, or has been adopted by the voters at an election. Most commissions created by ordinance are authorized in the Administrative Code, such as the Immigrant Rights Commission, Ballot Simplification Committee, and the Film Commission. A few are established by other municipal codes like the Building Code (Access Appeals Commission) and the Health Code (Commission of Animal Control and Welfare). Out of the 115 commissions we identified, 73 were created by ordinance.

Depending on the commission, members may be appointed: i) solely by the Mayor; ii) solely by the Board of Supervisors; iii) jointly by the Mayor, Board of Supervisors, or other entities such as the Controller's Office; or iv) jointly or solely by other entities other than the Mayor and Board of Supervisors.

Commissions created by ordinance are generally easier to establish, amend, or abolish, than charter commissions because they don't require voter approval unless the commission had originally been established by the voters.

Commissions Associated with State or Federal Law

The city has created commissions to meet requirements for receiving state and federal funds, or to otherwise implement state or federal legislation. For example, the Children and Families Commission (formerly First 5 of San Francisco) is authorized by the administrative code to guide the local distribution of Prop 10 funding, which uses monies from a statewide tobacco tax.

Decision-Making Commissions

Decision-making commissions oversee the department or agency with which they're associated. They can create, revise, and approve department policies, programs, and proposed budgets. Depending on their purview, they can also hear testimony and conduct investigations into departmental operations, and they can recommend for appointment or remove department heads. Out of the 115 commissions we identified, 52 are decision-making.

Nearly all charter commissions are decision-making, although a few, like the Youth Commission and the Public Utilities Rate Fairness Board, are advisory. In addition, while some commissions created by ordinance are decision-making, such as the Film Commission and Assessment Appeals Board, most are advisory.

Quasi-Judicial Commissions

Some decision-making commissions have a quasi-judicial function, meaning they can hear evidence, make findings, and issue rulings based on evidence and applicable law. Quasi-judicial functions include issuing and revoking permits, and adjudicating matters between the city and its employees, and between the city and private parties. Out of the 115 commissions we identified, 26 have quasi-judicial authority.

For example, the Police Commission, in addition to overseeing the Police Department, has a quasi-judicial role, specifically:

[T]he chief of the police department ... may temporarily suspend a member of the department pending a hearing before the police commission on disciplinary charges against the member....<sup>15</sup>

As noted, this provision gives the Police Commission authority to adjudicate employee discipline matters through a hearing process.

Similarly, the Planning Commission oversees the Planning Department and issues development permits through its quasi-judicial hearings. The Board of Appeals, on the other hand, is an example of a quasi-judicial commission with no oversight power – its only role is to hear and decide appeals on licenses and permits that have been denied by city agencies or departments.

Advisory Commissions

In contrast to decision-making commissions, advisory bodies have no real authority or oversight power. Typically they are created to provide broader and deeper opportunities for community engagement, such as to collect feedback and make recommendations for matters being considered by the Board of Supervisors, city departments, and the Mayor. These bodies often have a narrow focus and connections to specific city constituencies. For the most part, advisory bodies did not come into existence until the 1970s – decades after the first decision-making commissions were created under the 1898 Charter. Out of the 115 commissions we identified, 63 are advisory. While most advisory commissions were created through the Administrative Code, a few, like the Youth Commission, are charter commissions.

Does San Francisco Have Too Many Commissions?

The Jury reviewed the historical growth of commissions. We identified all commissions in several cities and counties in California of similar size and character, and compared these to San Francisco's commissions. We also analyzed the benefits and costs of commissions.

San Francisco has 115 Active Commissions

The proliferation of San Francisco's appointed bodies began in earnest in the 1970s, when the city had about 30 of them, and has grown nearly fourfold, to 115 active commissions today. (For the criteria we used to include or exclude appointed bodies from our list, see Appendix A: Active San Francisco Commissions and Boards.)

Growth in Commissions

Figure 1 shows the number of San Francisco commissions beginning to increase in the early 1970s. This growth was largely driven by the introduction of advisory boards into the Municipal Code.

Today, San Francisco has more advisory boards (63) than decision-making commissions (52). In addition, the number of advisory boards and other types of bodies (73) now greatly exceeds the number of charter commissions (42).

Growth in Charter Commissions

Several charter commissions have been added in recent years: Public Works Commission (newly formed in 2020), Sanitation and Streets Commission (2020), Sheriff's Department Oversight Board (2020), and Homelessness Oversight Commission (2022). Other charter commissions added since the 1970s include the Youth Commission, Asian Art Commission (previously an advisory body), Airport Commission, Human Rights Commission, Commission on the Status on Women, Health Commission, Small Business Commission, Ethics Commission, Historic Preservation Commission, and Building Inspection Commission.

<sup>16</sup> See Methodology for a description of the Jury's use of historical commissions documents.

Growth in Advisory Boards

Beginning in the 1970s, the Board of Supervisors got into the practice of creating new advisory boards to address specific issues. Although Section 2.21 of the Board of Supervisors Rules of Order provides that advisory boards should sunset after three years, many advisory bodies have been in existence for decades. Repeatedly, many of these bodies have been legislatively reviewed and renewed by the Board.

Among the changes introduced by the 1996 City Charter was a transfer of the power to appoint certain department heads from their related commissions to the Mayor. In the ensuing years, however, the Board of Supervisors has endeavored to take some of this new authority away from the Mayor by initiating legislation that gives the Board more power to appoint commissioners.

For example, starting in 2000, the Board created several ballot measures, subsequently approved by voters, that gave them more power over a number of important commissions including the Planning Commission, Board of Appeals, and Police Commission. One critical change approved by the voters: the threshold by which the Board can reject certain mayoral commission appointments was reduced from a supermajority to a simple majority.

Veteran city officials and employees indicated to the Jury that these changes accelerated the creation of more advisory bodies, such as the Park, Recreation and Open Space Advisory Committee (2000) and the Public Utilities Commission Citizens Advisory Committee (2004). since these bodies provided more opportunities for departmental oversight.

Comparison to Peer Cities and Counties

To put the total number of San Francisco's commissions in context, the Jury compared San Francisco's commissions to those in metropolitan Los Angeles, San Diego, and San José.

This analysis was not without a few challenges. Because San Francisco is unique in its status as a city and county, it was necessary to analyze peer cities and their surrounding counties. Certain types of commissions exist on a city-only basis (for example, police), some cover city and county (health, airport) and others are county-only (sheriff).

Second, because commissions with similar functions had varying names, we had to develop a system of classifying these commissions to facilitate an apples-to-apples comparison.

Third, counties spanning large geographical areas often had many commissions of the same type across the county. For example, Los Angeles County has 48 water commissions.

Fourth, the cities and counties we selected have much larger populations. This difference required us to compare both the absolute number of commissions as well as the number of commissions per capita.

The analysis was quite revealing: although San Francisco has the smallest population compared to its peers, the city has about one and a half times as many commissions and, if we adjust for population, about five times as many commissions.

Table 2: Number of San Francisco commissions as compared to peer cities and counties

Peer Comparison— Cities
City	San Francisco	Los Angeles	San Diego	San José
Number of Residents	848,000	4,050,000	1,420,000	1,078,000
Number of Commissions	115	48	49	27

Peer Comparison— Counties
County	San Francisco	Los Angeles	San Diego	Santa Clara
Number of Residents	848,000	9,539,730	3,298,000	1,840,000
Number of Commissions	115	151	96	70

Our peer cities and counties analysis demonstrates that it is possible to run large cities and counties with many fewer commissions and boards than we have in San Francisco.

Benefits of Commissions

However challenging a commission-counting exercise may be, their absolute number is less important than their value to citizens and the city entities that they oversee or advise.

We conducted interviews with about 100 city officials and employees familiar with the workings of specific commissions. Given the number of commissions, it was not practical to speak with representatives from each of them, but we believe our large sample set made it possible to apply what we learned to all of San Francisco's appointed bodies.

Commissions Are Valuable Checks and Balances

When San Francisco's commission structure was created in the first Charter, its objective was to oversee the office of a strong mayor. The power that the Board of Supervisors and the Mayor wield in regard to commissions has see-sawed over the years, yet commissions continue to provide important checks and balances by preventing the Board or the Mayor from having undue influence over city departments.

The greatest benefits of our commissions and boards are the opportunity for the public to learn what their government is doing and to provide forums for inquiry and feedback, through a body that is largely independent of the Mayor and Board of Supervisors.

Commissions Provide Citizen Engagement

San Franciscans are notably vocal and involved in local politics. Commissions are a primary means by which they can engage directly with the government. Nearly all commissioners are residents of San Francisco and together reflect the wide variety of constituencies that make up the city.

Most commissions hold regular public meetings and engage in public outreach to connect people to their elected and appointed officials. Ideally, these officials then make more informed decisions.

Commissions Foster Transparency

The primary benefits of citizen engagement are transparency and accountability. By soliciting public feedback and encouraging public inquiry, departments know that the citizens they serve are paying attention.

Many commissions work directly with the departments they oversee to create policies and operating plans that are presented to the public. As a result, the public can see department goals, proposed budgets, and programs. By preparing annual reports, commissions also enable citizens to evaluate departments' effectiveness and oversight.

Commissions Promote Accountability

Accountability flows from transparency. Because decision-making commissions often have responsibilities for approving budgets and contracts and conducting department heads' performance evaluations, these commissions' very existence communicates to elected and other city officials that the public is paying attention, ideally leading to more careful decisions by these officials.

Commissions Provide Oversight

The commissions in the 1898 Charter were created to provide an important oversight role in the "strong mayor" model. Today, when a department has an oversight commission, the department head reports to both the Mayor and the commission. With few exceptions, decision-making commissions have the power to approve contracts, approve department budgets for submission to the Mayor, conduct the performance evaluation of the department head and, if necessary, remove the department head.

Because it's not feasible for the Board of Supervisors to manage the day-to-day operations of departments, commissions provide a certain level of scrutiny and oversight that would otherwise not happen. However, notwithstanding the buffer that commissions provide between the Mayor and department heads, veteran city officials let us know that if the Mayor were determined to remove a department head, the effort would likely be successful.

Commissions Contribute Expertise

Commissioners contribute a wide range of knowledge, experience, and community connections. Many are experts in fields related to the departments they oversee, bring decades of other relevant experience, and are deeply connected to communities that benefit from their commissions' work.

Commissioners, who are essentially part-time volunteers, can't be expected to have as deep and nuanced understanding of day-to-day issues facing departments as full-time departmental staff. However, we learned from many higher-level department figures that there is a general appreciation for the guidance commissioners provide to departments.

Costs of Commissions

As volunteers, members of decision-making bodies generally receive small stipends for attending meetings, and some commissioners are also entitled to San Francisco health insurance benefits, although very few take advantage of it. In the context of the San Francisco budget, these costs are insignificant.

Costs come in the form of time and effort spent by administrative and department management staff to support commissions. Other costs, harder to gauge but real enough, include decisions deferred and programs delayed as a result of the Board of Supervisors appointing a board to study an issue and make recommendations, rather than the Board or the appropriate city department taking action themselves.

Administrative Costs

For nearly every commission, one or more employees of the department that the commission oversees or advises is responsible for scheduling meetings, preparing and circulating meeting materials, exchanging documents with the City Attorney's office, and coordinating public meeting broadcasts with SFGovTV. In part, their work is mandated by San Francisco's Sunshine

Ordinance<sup>17</sup> and California’s Brown Act,<sup>18</sup> which require that meetings be open to public comment and that related materials be publicly available.

The Jury determined that the average advisory board required 0.8 full-time equivalent (FTE) staff, while the average decision-making commission required double the staffing resources, or 1.5 FTE. In the case of a few advisory bodies, a member of the body performed administrative tasks, but for most advisory and all decision-making bodies, the role is typically filled by a commission secretary or other administrative staff who are city employees.

In addition to administrative staff, many commissions also require assistance from the City Attorney’s Office for tasks such as preparing and reviewing contracts. Although the Office does not precisely track how much time their attorneys spend supporting commissions, it was clear, from discussions with the Office, that their assistance adds up to a significant amount of time.

Department Management Costs

In addition to their day-to-day job, city department heads, senior department staff, and analysts must also work to support the city’s commissions. They routinely prepare presentations and reports for commission meetings – and often must present similar reporting to multiple appointed bodies.

From interviews, the Jury found that these tasks consume about 8% of senior department staff time, with decision-making commissions requiring an average of 10% and advisory commissions an average of 6.5%. We also learned that the preparation and presentation of departmental reports to commissions can be a major distraction from the department’s focus on the delivery of city services. This time spent supporting commissions represents the most significant driver of commissions’ cost.

Appointment Costs and Vacancies

Approximately 1,200 seats are authorized for San Francisco commissions. The process for recruiting, vetting, and approving so many commissioners is arduous, time-consuming – and inadequate.

The Jury obtained data on both required and actual membership of 110 commissions and advisory bodies. In nearly a quarter of cases, these bodies had less than three fourths of their required members. We researched the number of expired terms among all seats on 98 commissions, and found 228, representing over 15% of commission seats. Members of non-charter commissions with expired terms often continue in their roles until they are replaced,<sup>19</sup> but the volume of holdovers is evidence that the city’s appointment processes struggle to keep up.

Table 3: Commission metrics for advisory and decision-making bodies

	Vacancies	Meetings Canceled	Members
Advisory Bodies	20%	25%	13.0
Decision-Making Bodies	11%	10%	8.2

To navigate the many and varied requirements governing the commissioner appointment process, a full-time staffer in the Mayor’s Office manages mayoral appointments to commissions, while the Board of Supervisors’ Rules Committee and the Clerk of the Board spend significant time managing that body’s appointments and approvals. After each potential commissioner is recruited, a Notice of Appointment is submitted to the Rules Committee for approval.

The Jury determined that if the number of commissions were reduced from 115 to 100, and the average number of seats per commission decreased from 12 to 10, then the number of commissioners would decrease by almost 20%.

In addition to decreased appointment costs, the benefits of fewer commissions seats would be more fully-staffed commissions, more selective appointment of commissioners, and fewer meetings canceled for lack of quorum – resulting in more work performed.

Nearly 20 Percent of Meetings Canceled in 2023

In 2023, almost 20% of commission and board meetings were canceled. Advisory boards were more likely to have canceled meetings (25%) than decision-making boards (10%). In addition to wasted administrative resources and inconvenience to members of the public who may have traveled to attend the meeting, canceled meetings are particularly problematic when a commission is responsible for approving contracts. Delayed contract approvals can result in late payments to organizations that furnish vital services to the city's most vulnerable residents.

Deferred Decisions, Delayed Policies and Programs

Several city officials cited a perception that officials tend to refer difficult decisions to commissions instead of taking action directly, resulting in delays. Through resolution and ordinance, the Board of Supervisors has created task forces to address a myriad of issues in which decisions might have proven politically controversial or unpopular.

We found more than 40 resolutions and ordinances to establish task forces or advisory bodies to study, provide input, and make recommendations. A typical resolution created a committee “to supervise a consultant study to develop policy criteria and recommendations.”

Annual Reports Required But Not Readily Available

Nearly all San Francisco commissions are required to provide annual reports. Per the City Charter, annual reports for charter commissions must document the commission's activities, areas of jurisdiction, authority, purpose, and goals. The Administrative Code requires reports to provide a general summary of commission services, programs, and achievements.<sup>20</sup>

<sup>20</sup> San Francisco Administrative Code § 1.56, “Annual Reports.” San Francisco City Charter, § 4.103, “Boards and Commissions – Annual Report.”

Crucially, however, the Jury found no consistent or simple means of obtaining this reporting. We observed that some commissions post reports on their website, some append them to annual budget proposals, and some furnish them to the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors for inclusion in the Board meeting agenda – although we did not find evidence that the Board discussed or acted on these reports. Links to some reports, but not all, are available on a San Francisco Public Library webpage.<sup>21</sup>

The reports themselves varied greatly in their composition and reporting depth. These ranged from two simple paragraphs to glossy reports of many pages.

Because of the effort required to obtain these reports, they provide little to no benefit for monitoring the performance of commissions, nor do they furnish transparency for the public.

The Jury believes the city would be well served by having clear requirements for comprehensive annual reports. Such reporting ought to include statements of purpose, areas of jurisdiction, authorities, goals, summaries of services and programs, highlights of achievements, commission/body members, commissioner attendance, history of vacant seats, meeting frequency, canceled meetings, support staff, other costs and more.

Evaluating Commission Performance

To evaluate the effectiveness of commissions and boards, the Jury collected data on each commission, including its purpose, statutory basis, corresponding city department, number of seats and vacancies, meeting requirements, and actual meetings. We also reviewed meeting agendas, minutes to assess each body's accomplishments and level of public comment and participation. This research was supplemented by over 100 interviews with officials, commission members, and city employees.

Charter Commissions

The City Charter has a total of 42 commissions of which a majority, 23, are established in Article IV. The remaining commissions are established in other articles, including Article V (for example, the Arts Commission), Articles VIIIA (Municipal Transportation Agency Board of Directors) and VIIIB (Public Utilities Commission), Article X ( Civil Service Commission), Article XII (Retirement Board), Article XIII (Elections Commission), and Article XV (Ethics Commission).

The decision-making charter commissions are essential oversight bodies for key departments and agencies. In general, the Jury found these commissions to be professionally run and to perform their oversight roles adequately; that is, the benefits of nearly all these commissions exceeded their costs. That said, we encourage these commissions to consider the Jury’s recommendations regarding commission structure and management.

Charter Article V Commissions

Article V represents the arts commissions. The museum commissions (Asian Art, Fine Arts, and War Memorial Board of Trustees) are charitable trust departments, which differ from other charter commissions in several respects. They acquire, protect, and conserve art and other assets; make them available to the public; and raise money to further these goals. The Jury found these commissions to be serving their purpose well.

Table 5: Article V commissions

Arts Commissions

Other Charter Commissions

The Jury identified 15 commissions established in other Articles of the Charter, including Articles VII, VIII, VIIIA, VIIIB, X, XII, XIII, XV, and XVI. Our evaluations found that most of these boards and commissions perform well. We encourage them to review our recommendations at the end of this report.

Quasi-Judicial Bodies

Out of the 115 commissions the Jury identified, we determined that 26 have quasi-judicial authority. These bodies hear evidence, make findings, and issue rulings based on the evidence and applicable law. Their functions include issuing and revoking permits, adjudicating matters between the city and its employees, and between the city and private parties. They play an important role in the functioning of our government. In general, these bodies perform their functions well. We believe they should continue, and we encourage them to review our recommendations at the end of this report.

Bodies Associated with State or Federal Laws

Out of the 115 commissions the Jury identified, we determined that 16 are either required by state or federal law or are set up to access state and federal funds. They play an important role supporting the City's relationships with other related governments. In general, these bodies perform their functions well. We encourage them to review our recommendations at the end of this report.

Advisory Bodies

Out of the 115 commissions the Jury identified, we determined that 63 are advisory, shown in Table 9. Advisory bodies typically have limited or no authority or oversight power, but nonetheless still provide broad and deep opportunities for diverse participation and community engagement. We found more variation in advisory board and commission performance than with other types of commissions. They were more likely to have canceled meetings, member vacancies, and overlapping responsibilities with other bodies. Our recommendations for abolishing or retaining advisory bodies follow in Table 10.

Abolish or Retain? The Jury Recommends

The Jury recommends abolishing boards that it found to be redundant or otherwise unnecessary, shown in Table 10. Only one, the Sanitation and Streets Commission, is a charter commission.

In the course of interviewing officials and employees at different levels for most major city departments, the Jury found no shortage of appointed bodies to advise them. A few noted that boards advise them in areas where city department heads and staff are themselves quite knowledgeable.

The Department of Homelessness and Supportive Housing (HSH) has an oversight commission and four advisory boards. One oversight commission and five other boards advise the Department of Public Health (DPH). The Public Utilities Commission (PUC) has them all beat with one oversight commission and six additional boards. Moreover, five bodies affiliated with children's services advise several city departments.

Inevitably, multiple advisory bodies working in the same area leads to redundant efforts and wasted time and funding. City department staff and managers often must present the same report to more than one board. To get an idea of how much overlap there is among boards and commissions, see Appendix B: Abolish or Retain, with appointed bodies grouped by similar purview.

Other factors that went into the Jury recommendations to abolish various boards include, according to the Jury’s research, numerous canceled meetings, little public comment or engagement at meetings, and a lack of substantive achievements.

Table 10: Commissions recommended by the Jury for abolishment

Commission Name	Comments
Advisory Committee of Street Artists and Craftsmen Examiners	Redundant; we recommend the Arts Commission perform this activity.
Advisory Council to the Disability and Aging Services Commission	Redundant; we recommend this body be merged into the Disability and Aging Services commission.
City Hall Preservation Advisory Commission	Redundant; we recommend this body be merged with the Historic Preservation Commission.
Early Childhood Community Oversight and Advisory Committee	Redundant; we recommend this body be merged into the Children and Families commission.
Food Security Task Force	Redundant; we recommend the Human Services Agency perform this activity.
Free City College Oversight Committee	Redundant; we recommend the City College Board of Trustees perform this activity.
Housing Stability Fund Oversight Board	Redundant; we recommend the Mayor's Office of Housing and Community Development perform this activity.
Long Term Care Coordinating Council	Redundant; we recommend the Department of Disability and Aging Services perform this activity.
Mayor's Disability Council	Redundant; we recommend this body be merged into the Disability and Aging Services commission.
Public Utilities Revenue Bond Oversight Committee	Redundant; we recommend the City Service Auditor perform this activity.
Rate Fairness Board	Redundant; we recommend the Public Utilities Commission perform this activity.
Sanitation and Streets Commission	Obsolete; Sanitation and Streets Department no longer exists.
Service Provider Working Group	Redundant; we recommend this body be spun off as an entity unconnected to the city.
Shelter Grievance Advisory Committee	Redundant; we recommend the Department of Homelessness and Supportive Housing perform this activity.
Sweatfree Procurement Advisory Group	Redundant; we recommend the Office of Labor Standards perform this activity.

Inactive Bodies

The Jury found 20 bodies, all but one advisory, that appear to be inactive. (See Appendix C: Inactive Bodies for more detailed information.) Most of these bodies have not met in several years; are past their sunset dates with no indication of having been reauthorized; have been subsumed into other commissions; or otherwise appear inactive. However, their authorizations still appear in the Administrative Code. Moreover, a May 7, 2024 memo from the City Attorney’s office, List of Boards, Commissions, and Advisory Bodies Created by Charter, Ordinance, or Statute,<sup>22</sup> shows all of these bodies, and some still appear on other recently published lists as well.

Commission Sizes: From the Few to the Many

The membership rosters for San Francisco commissions range from 3 to 38 – or 42, if you count bodies that the Jury considers inactive.

On the whole, charter and other decision-making commissions tend to have fewer members than do advisory boards. Ten active commissions have 20 or more members, all but two of which are advisory. Advisory bodies average 13 members, while for decision-making bodies it's just over 8 members. Article IV charter commissions are smaller still, averaging 5 to 7 members. It's worth noting that the most powerful commissions typically have the fewest members.

It goes without saying that if commissions and boards had fewer members, keeping them fully staffed would be a smaller administrative burden.

Appointment Criteria: Complex and Varied

With few exceptions, commissioners must be residents of San Francisco and of voting age (18 or older). One or more members of most charter and other decision-making commissions need professional experience or expertise that relates directly to the commission's purview. Beyond that, appointment criteria can vary widely.

Many bodies require relevant "lived experience," such as homelessness (for the Homelessness Oversight Commission), residing in an area of concern to the commission (Bayview Hunters Point Citizens Advisory Committee), or fitting a particular demographic served by the commission (Disability and Aging Services Commission). Both the Municipal Transportation Agency Board of Directors and its Citizens Advisory Council require most members to ride MUNI regularly throughout their terms.<sup>23</sup>

For more than a few advisory bodies, each of the 11 supervisors must appoint at least one person to the body from that supervisor's district. Moreover, it's often the case that one body requires appointments by multiple department heads and a different set of qualifications for each appointment.

---

Consider the Sugary Drinks Distributor Tax Advisory Committee. The appointing authorities for this 16-member body include the Board of Supervisors, Department of Public Health, Office of Economic and Workforce Development, Department of Children, Youth, and Their Families, San Francisco Unified School District, and Recreation and Park. The qualifications for each respective appointment are distinct: a nonprofit advocate for communities disproportionately affected by consuming sugar-sweetened beverages, a medical employee with experience treating diseases linked to these beverages, a DPH employee who treats chronic disease, a person with expertise in oral health, someone with expertise in “food security” or access, an employee of Park and Rec, a parent of an SFUSD student, and so on.<sup>24</sup>

Interviews confirmed the importance of staffing a commission with people who have a connection to the constituencies the commission serves. However, the Jury also found that recruiting and appointing commission members is most time-consuming – and can lead to more vacancies – for bodies with a wide range of requirements. Where possible, the Jury recommends relaxing membership qualifications to facilitate the appointment process.

The Appointment Process

The majority of appointments to commissions come from the Mayor's Office and the Board of Supervisors, although other city departments make quite a few as well. Most mayoral appointments to charter and other decision-making bodies require some level of approval from the Board of Supervisors, while the Mayor has no say over Board appointments. (For more detail on these requirements, see the table in Appendix A: Active San Francisco Commissions and Boards and its Appointed By column.)

At least one full-time employee in the Mayor's office sources candidates for Mayoral appointments. All supervisors and their staff spend significant time sourcing Board appointments. The Mayor's office submits notices of appointment to the Clerk of the Board for processing, and the Board of Supervisors Rules Committee holds hearings for appointments.

Commission secretaries also assist with staffing commissions. They keep track of term expiration dates, encourage appointing bodies to find new members, and track appointment status with the Rules Committee to help facilitate quorums for meetings.

As outlined in Charter Section 3.100(18), a Notice of Appointment includes statements of qualifications including how the appointment represents the communities of interest, neighborhoods, and diverse populations of San Francisco. Appointees for most decision-making commissions also must complete a California Statement of Economic Interests (Form 700). In reviewing these statements, we found short biographies (usually three paragraphs) and appointee résumés or CVs. Compared to the detailed applications the San Francisco Civil Grand Jurors completed, or the applications for redistricting commissions for the State of California and some counties, these statements do not provide enough information for thorough applicant reviews.

An Overly Political Process?

In conversations with the Jury, city officials made the common observation that the process for appointing commissioners is overly political. Although it's not surprising for politicians to appoint people sympathetic to their views, we heard distinct concerns over an inclination to appoint supporters and friends, with qualifications being secondary.

One way to provide more political transparency to the commissioner appointment process is to ask appointees to disclose their political activities. This information includes service as an officer, employee, consultant, or volunteer for a political party or campaign committee, as well as campaign contributions and lobbying.

Commissioners Are Generous Political Donors

We found that commissioners and members of advisory bodies are active political donors. According to the San Francisco's Ethics Commission, a little over 400 (about a third of the total) have contributed an average of $2,500 (median $900) to political campaign committees over the past several years. This compares with the slightly less than 3% of registered voters who have contributed an average of $525 (median $300) to political campaigns as tracked by the Ethics Commission.

This data is based on donations reported on behalf of individuals. There are other ways to effectively donate to political campaigns that are not captured in this data.

More than 75 Percent of Advisory Bodies Have No Sunset Dates

A sunset statute or provision establishes a date, or the occurrence of a specific event, on which an entity, law, or benefit will expire without specific legislative action to continue it, usually through reauthorization by the legislative body that created the statute or provision. Sunset provisions give governments the latitude to reconsider the merits of a past decision in light of current needs, policies, and public sentiment.

The sunset provision (if any) for a commission or advisory board is embedded in the legislation that establishes the body. Perhaps understandably, no charter commissions have sunset dates, as most of them are decision-making bodies with ongoing oversight responsibilities for key city departments and agencies. That said, we determined that 6 charter commissions are advisory bodies, and of the 63 advisory bodies on the Jury's list, only 15 have sunset dates.

Rule 2.21 of the Board of Supervisors Rules of Order holds that "Whenever the Board creates or reauthorizes, by ordinance or resolution, a board, committee, task force, or other multi-member body,... [t]he enabling legislation shall include [among other requirements] a sunset clause not to exceed three years."

Yet the Board pays scant heed to its own rules. For example, the sunset clause in the Administrative Code for the South of Market Community Planning Advisory Committee states: "Notwithstanding Rule 2.21 of the Board of Supervisors Rules of Order, which provides that advisory bodies created by the Board should sunset within three years, the Board intends the Committee to exist for longer than three years." That committee, established in 2019, has a sunset date of January 1, 2035. We noted that several other advisory bodies containing the “Notwithstanding Rule 2.21” language were given sunset dates of 10 years or more.

Many advisory bodies with sunset dates have been reauthorized multiple times by the Board. Sunset clauses in the Municipal Code for all but one of these advisory bodies qualify the sunset provision with “unless the Board of Supervisors by ordinance extends the term” or similar language.

Sometimes an advisory body will actually sunset. But that’s no guarantee it will not resurface. The Graffiti Advisory Board, established in 1993 and renewed on multiple occasions, was finally allowed to sunset in 2022. But the sun rose again on this board in late 2023 when it was reauthorized by the Board of Supervisors, with 15 voting members (the previous board had 25).<sup>25</sup>

No Formal Evaluation Process for Commissions

The Jury did not find any formal process for evaluating the effectiveness of commissions in San Francisco. To learn more about how the performance of oversight bodies can be evaluated, we searched for examples from other municipalities. We found numerous articles indicating that measuring performance is critical to improving performance. The Jury consulted articles from the Georgia City-County Management Association,<sup>26</sup> Harvard Business Review,<sup>27</sup> and EY (Ernst & Young).<sup>28</sup>

Comprehensive commission evaluations can involve many criteria and be challenging to administer. One of the most effective methods we discovered was self-evaluation and peer evaluation in which commissioners are given questionnaires that cover different aspects of overall commission performance and individual commissioner contributions.

Given the large number of commissions in San Francisco, any process for evaluating commission performance needs to be easy to implement and any questionnaire simple to complete. Further, we believe that it would be possible for an organization responsible for managing San Francisco commissions to develop a relatively short self-evaluation form that could be administered on an annual basis which would generate valuable insights leading to significant improvements in the effectiveness of commissions.

Commissioner Performance: Mixed

We heard from a broad range of city officials and employees that commissioner performance is mixed. In particular, members of charter commissions, which oversee departments that provide the most crucial city services (Police, Fire, Public Health, and so forth) must be knowledgeable, exercise sound judgment, and act in the public interest. However, we did not find evidence of any formal processes for evaluating commissioner performance. The Jury assumes that some evaluation of performance is done when a commissioner or advisory body member is reappointed, but we did not find any standard process for this, either.

Given the anecdotal nature of the data regarding commissioner performance, we don't have a firm idea of how many commissioners are performing well and how many are not. During interviews, we frequently heard that it would be valuable to have a more formal commissioner performance evaluation system.

Valuable Commissioners

The Jury found many deeply committed individuals who bring relevant expertise, experience, and passion to their commission duties and who engage constructively with the public. They show up prepared for every meeting, and the heads of the departments they oversee value their input and seek it out. Although it's rare that commissioners have more expertise or knowledge of core department issues and policies than department managers, these commissioners do provide counsel and perspective that improves decision-making. Some commissioners, while lacking directly relevant experience, nevertheless have valuable connections to their community and are productive members of their commissions.

Not-So-Valuable Commissioners

Some commissioners frequently miss meetings or arrive unprepared, and generally lack necessary levels of engagement. Although it's certainly not the norm, we even learned of commissioners who fall asleep at meetings.

We learned from the literature cited above that a common method for gauging the effectiveness of members of appointed bodies is self- and peer-evaluations. We believe that the performance of boards and commissions would benefit from an ongoing, consistent process that includes self- and peer-review.

Commissioner Training: Yes, Please

Our investigation found a relatively ad hoc system for onboarding and training commissioners. The primary resource is the network of commission secretaries who provide reports, agendas, and other materials commissioners need to prepare for meetings. Commission secretaries do not have any formal organization through which they can support each other and commissioners, although the Director of Boards and Commissions in the Mayor's Office organizes a voluntary quarterly meeting that had been well attended pre-COVID.

Commissioners receive the Good Government Guide from the City Attorney's Office, and they receive sunshine and ethics training from that office under the auspices of the Ethics Commission.

Notwithstanding this training, 24 commissioners and board members missed the April 2 deadline<sup>29</sup> to file a Statement of Economic Interest (Form 700), which requires city officials to disclose possible conflicts of interest with their government role. (Members are barred from voting and participating in meetings until they file Form 700.)<sup>30</sup>

---

<sup>29</sup> Kelly Waldron, "450+ San Francisco Officials Have Not Disclosed Financial Interests," Mission Local, April 9, 2024.

From numerous interviews, we learned that some members of advisory boards need to “stay in their respective lanes” – that is, to grasp the limitations of their roles in regard to the city departments or oversight commissions that they advise. Administrative staff are sometimes asked to analyze and report on matters that are not within an advisory board’s purview, resulting in unnecessary time and effort by city employees.

We believe that providing training on the roles and responsibilities of commissions could help commissioners “stay in their lane” and would lead to improved commission performance and lower administrative costs.

Findings and Recommendations

---

The Jury made the following findings and recommendations.

Finding 1: No up-to-date, accurate list of active appointed bodies exists, which impedes government transparency

Most city departments are overseen or advised by one or more commissions and boards. Yet there is no readily available, reliable way to identify all currently active bodies.

Recommendation 1.1 By October 1, 2024, the City Attorney’s Office shall prepare and publish an up-to-date, accurate list of active commissions and other appointed bodies each year. In preparing the list, the City Attorney’s Office should consult this report, including especially the list created by this Civil Grand Jury as shown in Appendix A: Active San Francisco Commissions and Boards, and the list of inactive bodies shown in Appendix C: Inactive Bodies.

Recommendation 1.2 By December 17, 2024 if feasible, or by January 31, 2025 if not feasible, the Board of Supervisors shall pass an ordinance requiring the City Attorney’s Office by January 31 of each year to prepare and make available to the public an up-to-date, accurate list of active commissions and other appointed bodies, as described in Recommendation 1.1.

Recommendation 1.3 The report referenced in Recommendation 1.1 shall be posted not only on the City Attorney’s website, but also on a new Commissions Oversight Body (COB) website (see Recommendation 2.1) or on a city website that is used more frequently by the public to obtain information about city programs and services. Good examples include Los Angeles County<sup>31</sup> and San Diego County.<sup>32</sup>

<sup>32</sup> County of San Diego. “San Diego County Boards and Commissions.” County of San Diego. Accessed May 21, 2024.

Recommendation 1.4 In the event the ordinance referenced in Recommendation 1.2 is not enacted in time to take effect by January 31, 2025, the City Attorney shall prepare and make available to the public by January 31, 2025 an up-to-date, accurate list of appointed bodies.

Finding 2: It's difficult to evaluate appointed bodies, because no authority systematically reviews their performance

Recommendation 2.1 By May 1, 2025, the City shall enact an ordinance to create the Commissions Oversight Body (COB), or a body by another name as the Board of Supervisors deems appropriate. This ordinance shall set forth the membership requirements and the duties of the COB.

Recommendation 2.2 The ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall set forth the membership requirements of the COB as follows:

- One representative from the Controller's Office, who will chair the COB. The Controller's Office shall provide the professional expertise and administrative assistance necessary to support the COB's duties.
- One representative from the Mayor's Office.
- One representative from the Office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors.
- Four residents of San Francisco who do not work in city government, who are not members of any commission or board, and whose professional experience or civic participation qualify them for this role. The Controller, Mayor, Board of Supervisors and City Attorney shall each appoint one of these residents, with no confirmation requirement.

Recommendation 2.3 The ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB, by June 30 each year, to i) evaluate all appointed bodies on the list that will be issued by the City Attorney per Recommendation 1.1, and ii) produce an annual report containing the COB's evaluations and recommendations pertaining to all commissions (COB Annual Report) that shall be forwarded to the Board of Supervisors and the Mayor for further action.

Recommendation 2.4 For each appointed body to be evaluated per Recommendation 2.3, the ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to collect and include the following information in the annual report:

- Statement of purpose
- Effective date
- Sunset date (if any)
- Body's classification as decision-making or advisory, quasi-judicial, associated with state or federal law
- Legal authorization, whether by charter, ordinance, resolution, or by other means
- Appointing authority
- Summary of the body's key actions and accomplishments
- Link to the body's most recent annual report, if applicable
- Link to the body's website
- Number of members
- Number of required meetings per year
- Number of actual meetings
- Number of canceled meetings
- The number of board or commission member self- and peer-reviews completed
- Number of vacancies
- Number of expired terms with holdover members

Recommendation 2.5 For each appointed body to be evaluated per Recommendation 2.3 and 2.4, the ordinance that is described in Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to recommend changes (if any) regarding the appointed body, to the Board of Supervisors and the Mayor, and to other entities as necessary to implement these recommendations. These recommendations can include, but are not limited to, a recommendation to remove members of a body, abolish the body, or retain the body with changes to its composition, duties, authority, meeting requirements, and sunset date.

Recommendation 2.6 The ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to evaluate advisory bodies annually, and to evaluate all other bodies every three years, with the option to do so on a rotating basis (evaluating about one-third of such bodies in year 1, one-third in year 2, and one-third in year 3).

Recommendation 2.7 The Mayor's Office shall include funding in the fiscal 2025 budget for additional staff or other resources, as needed, for the Controller's Office to perform the duties required by the COB as described in Recommendation 2.2.

Finding 3: The high number of advisory bodies creates unnecessary administrative burdens

The sheer number of advisory bodies results in redundancy (multiple bodies with a similar purview) and administrative burdens for city departments in staffing the bodies and in preparing for meetings.

Recommendation 3.1 The ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall require that for each appointed body, the COB recommend retaining, abolishing, or merging with another appointed body, as part of the evaluation process described in Recommendations 2.3, 2.4, and 2.5. To aid in making its initial recommendations, the COB shall review Appendix B: Abolish or Retain.

Finding 4: Unfilled seats can result in canceled meetings, which imposes extra costs and delays decision-making

The primary reason for canceled meetings is the lack of a quorum. The process of recruiting and appointing members is a time-intensive, significant cost of commissions and boards. Reducing the size of commissions and boards and limiting specific member requirements can reduce the time and cost of appointing members.

Recommendation 4.1 The City shall enact an ordinance limiting the membership of new decision-making bodies to 7 members or fewer and limiting the membership of new advisory boards to 11 members or fewer.

Recommendation 4.2 The ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to recommend reducing the size of all existing commissions and boards according to Recommendation 4.1.

Recommendation 4.3 The ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to develop guidelines for simplifying and streamlining the criteria for who can serve on commissions and boards.

Finding 5: Most appointed bodies have no sunset dates, which affects their relevance and accountability

More than 75 percent of advisory bodies do not have sunset dates despite the guidance in the Board of Supervisors' Rules of Order that all advisory bodies have a sunset date that does not exceed three years.

Recommendation 5.1 By May 1, 2025, the City shall enact an ordinance or propose a ballot measure to codify a sunset date that does not exceed three years for all advisory bodies for which it has the authority to pass such an ordinance or propose such a ballot measure. If passed, this law shall apply immediately to advisory bodies that currently have no sunset date. For advisory bodies with a sunset date, this law shall apply if or when the body is reauthorized.

Recommendation 5.2 The Clerk of the Board shall notify the City Attorney six months before a body is scheduled to sunset so that the City Attorney can remove the body from the code if it is sunsetted.

Finding 6: The descriptors for commissions are varied and confusing

Recommendation 6.1 By May 1, 2025, the City shall enact an ordinance or policy to standardize the names of future commissions and other appointed bodies. The Jury recommends the following naming conventions and recommends that the Board of Supervisors present the text of the ordinance or policy to the COB for approval:

- Commission or Board for a decision-making body, for example, Film Commission or Assessment Appeals Board.
- Advisory Committee or Task Force for an advisory body. For example, Advisory Committee for bodies with a broad scope that have a longer duration (Bicycle Advisory Committee) and Task Force for bodies with a narrow scope and shorter duration (Permit Prioritization Task Force).

Finding 7: Annual reports vary in content and availability, which greatly undermines their value

The requirements for annual reports that commissions and other appointed bodies must submit are vague; the annual reports vary greatly in substance and quality; and they are difficult to find, all of which limits their value.

Recommendation 7.1 By May 1, 2025, the Board of Supervisors shall amend as follows Administrative Code Section 1.56 requiring appointed bodies to submit annual reports:

- (a) Annual reports shall be submitted to the COB for its review by March 31 of the following year.
- (b) Annual reports shall include the information specified in Appendix D: Annual Report Requirements.

Recommendation 7.2 If the COB is not enacted, the Board of Supervisors shall amend Administrative Code Section 1.56 requiring appointed bodies to submit annual reports as follows:

- (a) Annual reports shall be submitted to the COB for its review by March 31 of the following year.
- (b) Annual reports shall include the information specified in Appendix D: Annual Report Requirements.

Finding 8: The appointment process lacks visibility into appointee political activities

The current process for appointing board and commission (including advisory body) members has minimal requirements for information relevant to the appointee's activities and qualifications, especially political activity.

Recommendation 8.1 By May 1, 2025 the City shall enact an ordinance requiring appointee Notice of Appointment statements for an appointed body to include the following information:

- Previous service as a member of a commission or board;
- Political activity, including service as an officer, employee, consultant, or volunteer for a political party or campaign committee;
- Lobbying activity, including contacting any legislative member, legislative staff, or government employee to influence the support or opposition to specific legislation;
- Local political campaign contributions in excess of $500 per campaign;
- Relevant work or life experience that qualifies the appointee for the commission and reasons for wanting to serve.

Finding 9: A lack of training and performance reviews hampers commissioner effectiveness

Recommendation 9.1 By May 1, 2025 the City shall enact an ordinance requiring that within three months of an individual's initial appointment to a commission or board (including advisory bodies), the individual must undergo training to serve with excellence in the role. This training would be in addition to any other training required by law.

Recommendation 9.2 The Jury recommends that the training required by the ordinance described in Recommendation 9.1 be no less than two hours and no more than four hours in length. The ordinance shall designate one or more city departments as responsible for developing and administering the training program. The ordinance could but need not specify components of the training program. In addition to its being required for new commissioners, the program would be available on an optional basis to all commissioners.

Recommendation 9.3 By May 1, 2025 the city shall enact an ordinance requiring that commissioners (including advisory body members) participate in an annual performance review program that includes self- and peer-reviews. This ordinance shall designate one or more city departments as responsible for this performance review program.

Methodology

---

To prepare this report, the San Francisco Civil Grand Jury:

- Created an up-to-date, accurate list of commissions and boards largely derived from the following sources:
  - Office of the City Attorney, “List of City Boards, Commissions, and Advisory Bodies Created by Charter, Ordinance or Statute,” dated May 7, 2024<sup>33</sup>
  - Office of the City Attorney, Memorandum re: “Mayoral Appointments to and Seats on Boards, Commissions, and Other Bodies,” dated May 7, 2024<sup>34</sup>
  - Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, “2024 Annual Listing of Active Boards, Commissions, Committees, and Task Forces with Requirements for Membership, Qualifications, Appointment and Term Dates, and Terms Expiring in 2023,” dated December 29, 2023
  - San Francisco Boards & Commissions website<sup>35</sup>
  - Jury discussions with the Office of the Mayor, San Francisco.
- Conducted interviews with nearly 100 city officials and employees including various commissioners and board members.
- Submitted and reviewed surveys provided to city employees in order to assess the costs of administering commissions.

- Reviewed commission meeting videos, agendas, and minutes.
- Reviewed the websites and related Municipal Code for all commissions and for the city departments that they oversee or advise.
- Obtained from the Ethics Commission itemized political campaign donations for each commissioner over a 10-year period.
- Analyzed data from peer cities San José, San Diego, and Los Angeles.

Appendix A: Active San Francisco Commissions and Boards

---

The Civil Grand Jury compiled an up-to-date list of what we believe to be all active commissions and other appointed bodies whose exclusive purview is the City and County of San Francisco.

About this list, please note:

- We excluded bodies whose jurisdiction is not limited to the city (for example, the Metropolitan Transportation Commission).
- We excluded bodies that govern agencies distinct from the city (Housing Authority Commission).
- We excluded bodies in the Municipal Code and in the City Attorney's 2024 list of boards and commissions that we determined to be inactive (see Appendix C: Inactive Bodies).
- We excluded all elective bodies (San Francisco Board of Supervisors).
- In addition to bodies created by ordinance or charter, we included advisory bodies approved through executive authority rather than legislation (Mayor's Disability Council).
- For commissions that constitute more than one body, we included the total number of bodies (the Assessment Appeals Board consists of three separate boards).

In the Appointed By column, some entries for Mayoral appointments are marked with asterisks to denote conditions for approval:

* Each appointment is effective immediately unless rejected by a two-thirds vote of the Board of Supervisors within 30 days following the transmittal of the Notice of Appointment to the Clerk of the Board.

** Each appointment is subject to approval by a majority vote of the Board of Supervisors. If the Board does not act on the nomination within 60 days following the transmittal of the Notice of Appointment to the Clerk of the Board, the nominee is deemed approved and the appointment becomes effective.

*** Each appointment is subject to approval by a majority vote of the Board of Supervisors. If the Board does not act within 30 days following the transmittal of the Notice of Appointment to the Clerk of the Board, the nominee is deemed approved and the appointment becomes effective.

**** Each appointment is subject to approval by a majority vote of the Board of Supervisors. These appointments are not effective until the Board approves them.

MEMORANDUM

---

---

Date: September 4, 2024
To: Honorable Members, Board of Supervisors
From: ACC Angela Calvillo, Clerk of the Board
Subject: 2023-2024 CIVIL GRAND JURY REPORT
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions

---

We are in receipt of required responses to the San Francisco Civil Grand Jury report released June 20, 2024, entitled: "Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions." Pursuant to California Penal Code, Sections 933 and 933.05, named City Departments shall respond to the report within 60 days of receipt, or no later than August 20, 2024.

For each finding the Department response shall:

- 1) agree with the finding; or
- 2) disagree with it, wholly or partially, and explain why.

As to each recommendation the Department shall report that:

- 1) the recommendation has been implemented, with a summary explanation; or
- 2) the recommendation has not been implemented but will be within a set timeframe as provided; or
- 3) the recommendation requires further analysis. The officer or agency head must define what additional study is needed. The Grand Jury expects a progress report within six months; or
- 4) the recommendation will not be implemented because it is not warranted or reasonable, with an explanation.

The Civil Grand Jury Report identified the following City Departments to submit responses:

- Office of the Mayor
- Controller's Office
- Office of the City Attorney

These City Departments submitted a consolidated response on August 20, 2024.

These departmental responses are being provided for your information, as received, and may not conform to the parameters stated in California Penal Code, Section 933.05 et seq. The Government Audit and Oversight Committee will consider the subject report, along with the responses, at a hearing in September 2024.

The Honorable Anne-Christine Massullo
Presiding Judge, Superior Court of California, County of San Francisco
400 McAllister Street, Room 008
San Francisco, CA 94102-4512

Dear Judge Massullo,

In accordance with Penal Code 933 and 933.05, the following is in response to the 2023-2024 Civil Grand Jury Report, Commission Impossible: Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions. We would like to thank the members of the 2023-2024 Civil Grand Jury for their interest in the City's various appointed commissions, including how they originated, how they operate, and whether they are effective. Your analysis of how to improve the City's appointed commission structure is both timely and important.

The City's commission operations and reporting structure should be transparent and accountable, not just for the appointing bodies, but to all city residents. We welcome your recommendations to ensure standardization across our commissions to improve that transparency. However, systemic improvement of the City's commission structure – including potentially streamlining commission requirements and eliminating or consolidating certain commissions – would be best accomplished through broader Charter reform, which will reflect the interaction of commission changes together with other needed changes to City government.

Executive Directive 24-03 directs the Controller and City Administrator, in coordination with the Board of Supervisors, to conduct a comprehensive review of how to improve service delivery across our city. Through this process, we will examine and incorporate the Jury's findings and recommendations.

We appreciate the opportunity to comment on the Civil Grand Jury report's findings and recommendations. Please note the Office of the City Attorney's response will be included as a separate response but is supported by the Mayor's office.

A detailed response from the Mayor's Office and the Controller's Office is attached.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "London Breed".

London N. Breed
Mayor

Greg Wagner
Controller

2023-24 CIVIL GRAND JURY FINDINGS, RECOMMENDATIONS, AND RESPONSES TO FINDINGS AND RECOMMENDATIONS

Report Title [Publication Date]	F#	Finding	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Finding Response (Agree/ Disagree)	Finding Response Text
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	F1	No up-to-date, accurate list of active appointed bodies exists, which impedes government transparency	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Disagree wholly	The City Attorney's Office maintains a list of boards and commissions, which has been updated to be comprehensive. Additionally, in alignment with the Maddy Act, the Clerk of the Board maintains an annual list of bodies, positions, and their requirements, along with a list of any current vacancies among those commissions.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	F2	It's difficult to evaluate appointed bodies, because no authority systematically reviews their performance	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Disagree partially	The Mayor's office monitors the activities of many of the various boards and commissions, and can evaluate the effectiveness of those bodies based in accordance with Mayoral priorities. Establishing universal performance metrics would require policy alignment that does not currently exist; indeed, the purpose of the commissions is to openly surface and debate differences in policy outlooks.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	F3	The high number of advisory bodies creates unnecessary administrative burdens	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Agree
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	F4	Unfilled seats can result in canceled meetings, which imposes extra costs and delays decision-making	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Agree
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	F5	Most appointed bodies have no sunset dates, which affects their relevance and accountability	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Disagree partially	The Board of Supervisors' Rules of Order require "a sunset clause not to exceed three years" when creating policy bodies as a default provision. However, the Board and the Mayor may determine that a three-year sunset rule is not appropriate, on a case-by-case basis.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	F6	The descriptors for commissions are varied and confusing	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Agree
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	F7	Annual reports vary in content and availability, which greatly undermines their value	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Disagree partially	Annual reports should be easily accessible by the public. However, while there are benefits to consistency, the City disagrees that any inconsistency in content "greatly undermines" the reports' value, as there are policy reasons for variation in both content and timing.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	F8	The appointment process lacks visibility into appointee political activities	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Disagree partially	The San Francisco Charter requires the Mayor to set forth "the appointee's qualifications to serve and a statement how the appointment represents the communities of interest, neighborhoods and diverse populations of the City and County." Moreover, while the information is not included with appointment or nomination letters, campaign contributions and lobbying activity are publicly reported.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	F9	A lack of training and performance reviews hampers commissioner effectiveness	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Disagree partially	As stated in the above response to Finding 2, it is difficult to establish a uniform standard of efficacy and performance, both across policy areas & commissions as well as policy outlooks. The Mayor monitors her appointees and generally will work with those commissioners to ensure engagement and policy awareness. Nevertheless, additional training on engagement and rules of order may be helpful.

Report Title [Publication Date]	R# [for F#]	Recommendation	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Recommendation Response (Implementation)	Recommendation Response Text
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	R1.2 [for F1]	By December 17, 2024 if feasible, or by January 31, 2025 if not feasible, the Board of Supervisors shall pass an ordinance requiring the City Attorney's Office by January 31 of each year to prepare and make available to the public an up-to-date, accurate list of active commissions and other appointed bodies, as described in Recommendation 1.1.	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable	Additional legislation is not warranted, as the City Attorney's Office currently maintains a list of City boards and commissions and posts it on its website to the best of its ability. There is nothing to suggest that the City Attorney's office does not strive to accurately and completely list those boards and commissions, and the list has been updated to include commissions identified by the Grand Jury.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	R1.3 [for F1]	The report referenced in Recommendation 1.1 shall be posted not only on the City Attorney's website, but also on a new Commissions Oversight Body (COB) website (see Recommendation 2.1) or on an city website that is used more frequently by the public to obtain information about city programs and services. Good examples include Los Angeles County and San Diego County.	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable	The Mayor and the City Attorney will work with the City Administrator to determine any appropriate additional website on which to post the City Attorney's online list of policy bodies. Reflecting the response in R2.1 below, the Mayor does not plan to legislate a Commissions Oversight Body.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	R2.1 [for F2]	By May 1, 2025, the City shall enact an ordinance to create the Commissions Oversight Body (COB), or a body by another name as the Board of Supervisors deems appropriate. This ordinance shall set forth the membership requirements and the duties of the COB.	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable	While the Mayor agrees that the Commission structure requires some restructuring and streamlining to improve efficacy, a specific Commissions Oversight Body is not warranted. The Mayor has issued Executive Directive 24-03, convening a working group to include the City Attorney, City Administrator, City Controller, and Board of Supervisors in order to study, recommend, and implement good government Charter reform to increase the efficacy government and improve delivery of services. These will include an overhaul in commission structures.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	R2.2 [for F2]	The ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall set forth the membership requirements of the COB as follows: a) One representative from the Controller's Office, who will chair the COB. The Controller's Office shall provide the professional expertise and administrative assistance necessary to support the COB's duties. b) One representative from the Mayor's Office. c) One representative from the Office of the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors. d) Four residents of San Francisco who do not work in city government, who are not members of any commission or board, and whose professional experience or civic participation qualify them for this role. The Controller, Mayor, Board of Supervisors and City Attorney shall each appoint one of these residents, with no confirmation requirement.	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable	As reflected in response to R2.1, the Mayor does not plan to legislate a COB. However, the process laid out in ED 24-03 is similar in that it the mandated Working Group will include City Attorney, City Administrator, City Controller, Board of Supevisors, and other relevant departments.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	R2.3 [for F2]	The ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB, by June 30 each year, to i) evaluate all appointed bodies on the list that will be issued by the City Attorney per Recommendation 1.1, and ii) produce an annual report containing the COB's evaluations and recommendations pertaining to all commissions (COB Annual Report) that shall be forwarded to the Board of Supervisors and the Mayor for further action.	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable	As reflected in response R2.1, the Mayor does not plan to legislate a COB. The process mandated by ED 24-03 will evaluate and make recommendations for improvement, and may recommend a process for ongoing oversight. However, ongoing reporting as proposed will require considerable time and cost, as evaluation rubrics should be tailored to each commission given the considerable variability of the City's commissions structures, responsibilities, and authority.
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions [June 20, 2024]	R2.4 [for F2]	For each appointed body to be evaluated per Recommendation 2.3, the ordinance described in Recommendation 2.1 shall require the COB to collect and include the following information in the annual report: a) Statement of purpose b) Effective date c) Sunset date (if any) d) Body's classification as decision-making or advisory, quasi-judicial, associated with state or federal law e) Legal authorization, whether by charter, ordinance, resolution, or by other means f) Appointing authority g) Summary of the body's key actions and accomplishments h) Link to the body's most recent annual report, if applicable i) Link to the body's website j) Number of members k) Number of required meetings per year l) Number of actual meetings m) Number of canceled meetings n) The number of board or commission member self- and peer-reviews completed o) Number of vacancies	Mayor [August 19, 2024]	Will not be implemented because it is not warranted or is not reasonable	As reflected in response to R2.1, the Mayor will not convene the COB as described, and will not issue an annual report on commissions. The proposed information is available through the Maddy Act report, issued by the Clerk of the Board, and through the minutes of individual Commissions. Centralized evaluation of Commission "metadata" does not clearly lead to improved oversight of the overall system.

Re: City Attorney Office's response to the June 2024 Civil Grand Jury Report entitled, "Commission Impossible?"

Dear Judge Massullo:

In accordance with Penal Code Sections 933 and 933.05, the City Attorney's Office submits this written response to the Civil Grand Jury Report entitled, "Commission Impossible?" issued in June 2024. The Jury requested that this Office respond to two findings and four recommendations in the report. We understand that other City departments are also responding to the report's findings and recommendations, but we are submitting this response separately because of the unique role this Office plays in advising and monitoring the activities of City boards and commissions.

For Civil Grand Jury findings 1 and 5, you asked that the we either:

1. agree with the finding; or
2. disagree with it, wholly or partially, and explain why.

For Civil Grand Jury recommendations 1.1, 1.3, 1.4, and 5.2, you asked that we report either:

1. The recommendation has been implemented, with a summary of the implementation;
2. The recommendation has not yet been, but will be implemented in the future, with a timeframe for implementation;
3. The recommendation requires further analysis, with an explanation, scope, and parameters of that analysis, and a timeframe for discussion not more than six months from the publication of the grand jury report; or
4. The recommendation will not be implemented because it is not warranted or reasonable, with an explanation.

Accordingly, the City Attorney's Office responds as follows:

Finding No. 1: No up-to-date, accurate list of active appointed bodies exists, which impedes government transparency: Most city departments are overseen or advised by one or more

Letter to Hon. Anne-Christine Massullo
Page 2
August 19, 2024

commissions and boards. Yet there is no readily available, reliable way to identify all currently active bodies.

City Attorney's Office Response to Finding No. 1: Disagree. The City Attorney publishes and regularly updates a list of all City policy bodies established under state and local law. That list is available on our website, at www.sfcityattorney.org/good-government/list-of-commissions-boards/. Indeed, when the San Francisco Standard inquired last year into the number of City commissions, advisory bodies, and departments, the Standard reported that Jen Kwart, the City Attorney's Director of Communications and Media Relations, was the "knight in shining armor" who provided the answer based on our Office's comprehensive list.

By way of background, in 2014, the Civil Grand Jury issued a report entitled, "Survey of San Francisco Commission Websites," in which the Jury found that there was "no easy reference to all of the commissions in San Francisco" and recommended that the City Attorney "ensure that there is an annual list of active commissions that is complete and listed alphabetically." In response to that report, the City Attorney posted just such a list on our website in 2014, and we have regularly updated it ever since. The list comprehensively includes all City policy bodies created by the City Charter, City ordinance, or California statute. The list does not include what San Francisco's Sunshine Ordinance refers to as "passive meeting bodies" created by the Mayor or a City agency without legislation because those bodies tend to be more informal and short-lived and because they are not subject to the many procedural rules that state and local laws impose on policy bodies, such as regular meeting schedules, agendas, and opportunities for public comment.

In its 2024 report, the Jury compiled its own list of "active San Francisco boards and commissions." We appreciate the Jury's thorough work to compile that list, which largely overlaps with our own. The Jury's list includes two policy bodies—the Human Rights Commission's LGBTQI+ Advisory Committee and the Long-Term Care Coordinating Committee—that we did not include in the most recent list on our website. Both of those bodies are referenced in City law, but we understand that neither of them has met regularly in the past several years. Still on July 8, for consistency, we updated our website to include both of those bodies. The Jury's list also includes two passive meeting bodies—the Citywide Affordable Housing Loan Committee and the Mayor's Disability Council—that we do not include in our list because they are not policy bodies. And the Jury's list includes the Assessment Appeals Board three times (for Boards 1, 2, and 3). Our list already includes the Assessment Appeals Board, and separate cataloguing is not necessary.

The Jury's report also includes a separate list of 20 bodies that the Jury found are inactive, many of which appear on the City Attorney's list of policy bodies. It is sometimes difficult to determine whether a policy body is truly inactive, no longer intends to meet, and should not be listed. We are currently working with City departments to determine which of these bodies have stopped meeting permanently. We will work with those departments to introduce ordinances to remove any such bodies from the Municipal Codes, unless the bodies are required under the Charter or State law. After the Board of Supervisors and Mayor enact those ordinances, we intend to update our online list to remove those bodies.

Finding No. 5: Most appointed bodies have no sunset dates, which affects their relevance and accountability: More than 75 percent of advisory bodies do not have sunset dates despite the guidance in the Board of Supervisors' Rules of Order that all advisory bodies have a sunset date that does not exceed three years.

Letter to Hon. Anne-Christine Massullo
August 19, 2024

City Attorney's Office Response to Finding No. 5: Partially disagree. The Board of Supervisors' Rules of Order require that ordinances creating or reauthorizing policy bodies must include "a sunset clause not to exceed three years." Since the Board adopted that rule several years ago, the three-year sunset rule has become a default provision in most ordinances establishing or extending a policy body. But as to any particular ordinance the Board and Mayor have discretion to make a policy decision whether to establish a longer sunset period or even no sunset period at all. In some instances, the Board and Mayor have determined that allowing a body to exist without a sunset date does not have a negative impact on the body's relevance or accountability. While we agree that it is a best practice to include a reasonable sunset date in any ordinance establishing an advisory body, it is ultimately a judgment call for the Board of Supervisors and Mayor.

Recommendation No. 1.1: By October 1, 2024, the City Attorney's Office shall prepare and publish an up-to-date, accurate list of active commissions and other appointed bodies each year. In preparing the list, the City Attorney's Office should consult this report, including especially the list created by this Civil Grand Jury as shown in Appendix A: Active San Francisco Commissions and Boards, and the list of inactive bodies shown in Appendix C: Inactive Bodies.

City Attorney's Office Response to Recommendation No. 1.1: As discussed above in response to Finding 1, the City Attorney's Office has already implemented this recommendation.

Recommendation No. 1.3: The report referenced in Recommendation 1.1 shall be posted not only on the City Attorney's website, but also on a new Commissions Oversight Body (COB) website (see Recommendation 2.1) or on a city website that is used more frequently by the public to obtain information about city programs and services. Good examples include Los Angeles County and San Diego County.

City Attorney's Office Response to Recommendation No. 1.3: The City Attorney's Office has not implemented this recommendation as to posting on another website but will do so within 90 days. Since a new Commissions Oversight Body does not yet exist, the City Attorney's Office will work with the City Administrator to determine an appropriate additional website on which to post the City Attorney's online list of policy bodies.

Recommendation No. 1.4: In the event the ordinance referenced in Recommendation 1.2 is not enacted in time to take effect by January 31, 2025, the City Attorney shall prepare and make available to the public by January 31, 2025 an up-to-date, accurate list of appointed bodies.

City Attorney's Office Response to Recommendation No. 1.4: As discussed above in response to Finding 1, the City Attorney's Office has already implemented this recommendation.

Recommendation 5.2: The Clerk of the Board shall notify the City Attorney six months before a body is scheduled to sunset so that the City Attorney can remove the body from the code if it is sunsetted.

City Attorney's Office Response to Recommendation No. 5.2: This recommendation requires further analysis. The City Attorney's Office currently works with the publisher of the Municipal Codes to track when various provisions sunset, and we will continue to do so. The City

Attorney' Office will discuss this recommendation with the Clerk of the Board within the next 90 days to determine whether the recommendation is feasible or necessary in light of the system that the City Attorney's Office currently uses to track sunset dates.

The Board of Supervisors' Government Audit and Oversight Committee is in receipt of the San Francisco Civil Grand Jury (CGJ) report released June 20, 2024, entitled: "Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions":

Pursuant to California Penal Code Sections 933 and 933.05, the departments must:

Respond to the report within 60 days of receipt, or no later than September 18, 2024.
For each finding the Department response shall:

- 1) agree with the finding; or
- 2) disagree with it, wholly or partially, and explain why.

As to each recommendation the Department shall report that:

- 1) the recommendation has been implemented, with a summary explanation; or
- 2) the recommendation has not been implemented but will be within a set timeframe as provided; or
- 3) the recommendation requires further analysis. The officer or agency head must define what additional study is needed. The Grand Jury expects a progress report within six months; or
- 4) the recommendation will not be implemented because it is not warranted or reasonable, with an explanation.

The Civil Grand Jury Report identified the following City Departments to submit responses:

- Office of the Mayor
- Board of Supervisors
- Office of the Controller
- Office of the City Attorney

From: APC Angela Calvillo, Clerk of the Board
Subject: 2023-2024 CIVIL GRAND JURY REPORT
Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions

On June 20, 2024, the 2023-2024 San Francisco Civil Grand Jury issued a press release, publicly announcing the issuance of their report, entitled:

Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions

Pursuant to California Penal Code, Sections 933 and 933.05, the Board must:

1. Respond to the report within 90 days of receipt, or no later than September 18, 2024; and
2. For each finding the Department response shall:
  - agree with the finding; or
  - disagree with the finding, wholly or partially, and explain why.
3. For each recommendation the Department shall report that:
  - the recommendation has been implemented, with a summary of how it was implemented;
  - the recommendation has not been, but will be, implemented in the future, with a timeframe for implementation;
  - the recommendation requires further analysis, with an explanation of the scope of the analysis and timeframe of no more than six months from the date of release; or
  - the recommendation will not be implemented because it is not warranted or reasonable, with an explanation.

Pursuant to San Francisco Administrative Code, Section 2.10, in coordination with the Committee Chair, the Clerk will schedule a public hearing before the Government Audit and Oversight Committee to allow the Board the necessary time to review and formally respond to the findings and recommendations.

The Budget and Legislative Analyst will prepare a resolution, outlining the findings and recommendations for the Committee's consideration, to be heard at the same time as the hearing on the report. These matters are anticipated for hearing in Government Audit and Oversight during a regular committee meeting in September of 2024.

Civil Grand Jury: Commissions Impossible

2023–2024 San Francisco Civil Grand Jury Report Provides a Comprehensive List of San Francisco Commissions, Recommends the Creation of a Commission Oversight Board and the Abolishment of 15 Commissions.

SAN FRANCISCO (PR NEWSWIRE) June 20, 2024 – A new Grand Jury report shows the number of commissions in San Francisco government has swelled to 115, which is significantly more than the commission count in larger peer cities and counties in California. Commissions have been a core part of San Francisco’s unique city and county government structure since the first 21 were created in 1898. Their numbers grew dramatically in the 1970s, driven largely by the creation of advisory bodies.

During its investigation, the Jury found that most commissions provide important oversight of city departments, government transparency and community engagement, but shortcomings exist, specifically:

- No accurate and comprehensive list of commissions exists within city government.
- Fifteen commissions are redundant or unnecessary, and the Jury recommends that they be abolished.

- Twenty commissions are inactive but currently remain on at least one official city list and in the San Francisco Municipal Code.
- The entire commission system suffers from a lack of cohesion, transparency, and accountability.

“Our Jury concluded that San Francisco has too many commissions and that reducing their number and improving their effectiveness are of vital importance,” said John Monson and Niall Murphy, Investigation Committee Co-Chairs. “To address this matter, the Jury recommends that San Francisco create a new commission, the Commission Oversight Board, to track, evaluate and report on the efficacy of the city’s many commissions. The irony of creating another commission to address this pressing issue is not lost on us.” The Jury recommends that the responsibilities of the Commission Oversight Board include:

- Maintaining an up-to-date, accurate, and comprehensive list of all San Francisco commissions
- Creating performance standards for each commission
- Regular reviews of each commission, including an assessment of their annual reports
- Implementing a more rigorous commissioner training program and performance evaluation system

About the San Francisco Civil Grand Jury

The Superior Court selects 19 San Franciscans to serve year-long terms as Civil Grand Jurors. The Jury has the authority to investigate City and County government by reviewing documents and interviewing public officials and private individuals. At the end of its inquiries, the Jury issues reports of its findings and recommendations. Agencies identified in the report must respond to these findings and recommendations within either 60 or 90 days, and the Board of Supervisors conducts a public hearing on each Civil Grand Jury report after those responses are submitted. June 17, 2024

The Honorable London Breed
Mayor of San Francisco,
City and County of San Francisco
1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place, Room 200
San Francisco, CA 94102

Dear Mayor Breed,

The 2023-2024 Civil Grand Jury will release a report entitled, "Commission Impossible? Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions," to the public on June 20, 2024. Enclosed is an advance copy. By order of the Presiding Judge of the Superior Court, Hon. Anne-Christine Massullo, this report is to be kept confidential until the date of release.

California Penal Code §933(c) requires a response to be submitted to the Presiding Judge no later than August 19, 2024.

California Penal Code §933.05 states that as to each finding, the response must indicate one of the following:

1. The respondent agrees with the finding; or
2. The respondent disagrees with the finding, wholly or partially, with an explanation.

As to each recommendation, the response must indicate one of the following:

1. The recommendation has been implemented, with a summary of the implementation;
2. The recommendation has not yet been, but will be implemented in the future, with a timeframe for implementation;
3. The recommendation requires further analysis, with an explanation, scope, and parameters of that analysis, and a timeframe for discussion not more than six months from the publication of the grand jury report; or
4. The recommendation will not be implemented because it is not warranted or reasonable, with an explanation.

Please e-mail your response to Presiding Judge Anne-Christine Massullo at CGrandJury@sftc.org or mail to 400 McAllister Street, Room 008, San Francisco, CA 94102-4512.

Respectfully,

Mayor's Disability Council

Sheri Albers
Alex Madrid
Co-Chairs

September 11, 2024

Supervisor Aaron Peskin
San Francisco Board of Supervisors

Dear Supervisor Peskin,

We are writing to express our strong disagreement with the recommendation regarding the Mayor's Disability Council (MDC) in the Civil Grand Jury Report, "Commission Impossible: Getting the Most from San Francisco Commissions".

"Getting the most" from the MDC means understanding its purpose. The Report's recommendation suggests a poor grasp of the MDC's mission and the scope of the problems it addresses.

The MDC ensures a voice for one of San Francisco's largest marginalized communities. One in ten San Franciscans -- 96,000 residents -- report having a disability. Almost half of people with disabilities are under age 65. One in four people with disabilities live in poverty. Even adults with disabilities who are employed are more than twice as likely to experience poverty. 64% of residents with disabilities are people of color. DAAS-infographic-disability-2021-v5 \(sfhsa.org\)

People with disabilities are very diverse. We have different accessibility and service needs. There is no substitute for our lived experience...which should guide and inform the many departments and offices in San Francisco government that we often depend upon. Little in the Civil Grand Jury Report appears to value this lived experience. Especially because the City of San Francisco has very few employees with disabilities in policy positions, the real world experience of people with disabilities is vital for San Francisco to adequately serve a very large constituency.

The mission of the MDC is to bring our personal knowledge to San Francisco through

- Advising the Mayor and City Departments on disability issues
- Working with the Mayor's Office on Disability to ensure ADA Compliance
- Providing a public forum to discuss disability issues

In fact, the Civil Grand Jury report mistakenly describes the MDC's mission as:

"Recommends policies to improve coordination of care within different settings (home-based, community-based, and institutional care) and service sectors (health, supportive services, housing)." Page 60.

While inaccurately assuming that the purpose of the MDC involves “care,” the Civil Grand Jury recommends that the MDC be abolished. In contrast, the Civil Grand Jury does not recommend abolishing other boards and commissions focusing on marginalized communities

San Francisco can only benefit from hearing directly from the disability community. We are baffled by the apparent indifference to the specific needs of people who are historically ignored and underserved, and whose civil rights are too often thwarted. For decades, the disabled community has had to face such a lack of understanding of the severe challenges it faces, and has always been placed last. This is the situation which which the MDC aims to address and improve.

If the initiatives on the November ballot to reduce the number of boards and commissions are approved, there must be specific measures to counteract the bias against people with disabilities evident in this report. We hope that you will be open to meeting with us to explore how to protect and retain the role we have served.

Sincerely,

San Francisco Board of Supervisors
Angela Calvillo, Clerk of the Board

Dear Angela Calvillo:

As the Chair of the San Francisco Food Security Task Force (FSTF), I am writing to correct misconceptions in the Civil Grand Jury 2023-24 report Commission Impossible pertaining to the operations, achievements, and benefits of the FSTF.

The FSTF is a nationally respected public body that benefits the City and County of San Francisco by contributing expertise to elected officials and city departments, fostering cross sector collaboration, promoting transparency, providing community informed data and recommendations, and supporting a healthier San Francisco.

Finding 3.1 in Commission Impossible refers to Appendix B “Abolish or Retain”, a list of commissions/boards the report advises to abolish or retain. According to the report, out of 115 boards and commissions listed, “[t]he Jury found 15 that appear to duplicate the work of other bodies and/or whose minutes and other documents show numerous canceled meetings, little to no public engagement, or a lack of concrete achievements.” The FSTF is named as one of the 15 to be abolished. The report incorrectly asserts that it is “Redundant” recommending that the Human Service Agency perform this activity. The FSTF is the only group dedicated to cross sector collaboration to address food insecurity.

Below is additional information about the Food Security Task Force:

Civil Grand Jury rationale for which commissions to abolish	Facts pertaining to the Food Security Task Force
Costs: Average FTE of 0.8 staff support per Commission	FSTF has less than 0.8 FTE in city staff support.
Redundant Efforts	There is no other city department or public body dedicated to cross sector collaboration to address food insecurity.
Meetings cancelled due to lack of quorum	FSTF has not canceled meetings due to lack of quorum. The FSTF has less than 15% average vacancy.
Little public comment or engagement at meetings	The FSTF is well attended by the public (12-40 non-members per meeting) and non-members regularly engage and comment. Since January 2023, the average number of non-member attendees 23.
Annual Reports not available	FSTF issues annual report of recommendations. Includes current data, threats to food security, and opportunities and recommendations to improve food security. All reports are provided to the BOS, sent across a listserv of over 200 members, and posted to the FSTF website. The report is also presented to elected officials, community coalitions and department leaders.
More than 75% of advisory bodies have no sunset date	FSTF has a sunset date of July 1, 2026.

Few accomplishments	See following list of accomplishments
----------------------------	--

Accomplishments of the Food Security Task Force:

- Regarded as a national model for food advisory bodies. Other cities, counties and coalitions across the country regularly contact the Food Security Task Force as they form their own food advisory bodies.
- Strong attendance by multiple City agencies (about 6 – 8 Departments regularly) and community groups (about 10 - 15 regularly) at FSTF meetings.
- Supports cross sector alignment to address food insecurity in San Francisco (government, CBOs, Faith based organizations, private philanthropy, public)
- Conducts city-wide food assessments in 2013, 2018, and 2023.
- Held two Special Meetings to review data and provide recommendations for the 2023 Biennial Food Security and Equity Report. Meetings were attended by city agencies, Mayor’s Office, and community organizations.
- Makes annual recommendations for food programming, funding, and policy to improve food security and equity.
- Provides updates on state and federal food policies that impact San Francisco.
- In preparation for the FSTF sunset date, and in alignment with BOS and Mayor Breed’s leadership to reimagine food security, the FSTF formed a subcommittee to explore best practices from other food advisory bodies from across the United States. Recommendations will be presented in Fall 2024.
- Advanced standard measurement of food security across city and community programs.

Comparison to Peer Cities and Counties

Addressing food insecurity and advancing food justice requires the collective effort of government, community, philanthropy, and residents to address. According to Johns Hopkins Center for Livable Futures, there were over 300 active food policy councils in the United States in 2023. Below are examples of food policy advisory councils such as the Food Security Task Force embedded in government:

- LA County Food Equity Roundtable
- City of Houston Food Insecurity Board
- Indianapolis Community Food Access Advisory Commission
- Baltimore Food Policy Action Coalition
- Knoxville-Knox County Food Policy Council (Knoxville TN)
- DC Food Policy Council
- Denver Sustainable Food Policy Council

Please feel free to reach out to me for further information.

Sincerely,

Cissie Bonini

Commission Impossible?

Getting the Most from San Francisco's Commissions

Structure of San Francisco Government

Commission Impossible Report - Key Findings

- No current and accurate list of active commissions and other appointed bodies exists
- The consensus is there are too many commissions, especially advisory bodies
- Commissions are poorly managed
  - No authority reviews commission performance on a regular basis
  - Annual reports are either not prepared or difficult to locate
  - Commission seat vacancies lead to lack of quorums and cancelled meetings
  - Many commissions lack sunset dates
  - Appointment process lacks transparency

Commission Impossible Report - Key Recommendations

Publish an Accurate List of Commissions

- City Attorney to publish on an annual basis an accurate list of all active commissions and other appointed bodies

Improve the Management of Commissions

- Create a permanent Commissions Oversight Body (COB) to oversee and manage the commission system:
  - Annual report evaluating commission performance
  - Recommend which commissions should be retained, abolished or merged
  - Develop guidelines for simplifying the criteria for new commission members
- Limit decision-making bodies to 7 members and advisory bodies to 11 members
- Require all commissions to prepare an annual report which includes the information prescribed in the Commission Impossible report
- Provide more transparency on the commission appointment process
- Improve commissioner training
- Require a sunset date of 3 years for all advisory bodies

Mayor and City Attorney Responses* to the Key Finding: “No Current and Accurate List of Active Commissions and Other Appointed Bodies Exists”

➤ Mayor’s response

- Disagree wholly
  - “The City Attorney’s Office maintains a list of boards and commissions, which has been updated to be comprehensive.”

➤ City Attorney’s response

- Disagree
  - “The City Attorney publishes and regularly updates a list of all City policy bodies established under state and local law.”

* Responses are dated August 19, 2024

Civil Grand Jury Response to Mayor and City Attorney Responses

➤ 2014 Civil Grand Jury recommendation

- “The City Attorney should ensure that there is an annual list of active commissions that is complete and listed alphabetically.”

➤ 2024 Civil Grand Jury recommendation

- “By October 1, 2024, the City Attorney’s Office shall prepare and publish an up-to-date, accurate list of active commissions and other appointed bodies each year.”

➤ City Attorney response 2024 Civil Grand Jury recommendation

- “The City Attorney publishes and regularly updates a list of all City policy bodies established under state and local law .”

Civil Grand Jury Response to Mayor and City Attorney Response

- The latest City Attorney's list dated July 8, 2024 does not comply as follows:
  - The list has been published only 5 times since 2014; the 2014 grand jury recommended that it be published annually
  - The list improperly includes 20 inactive bodies; the 2014 and 2024 grand juries recommended that only active bodies be included
  - The list improperly excludes 5 passive meeting and other bodies; the 2024 grand jury recommended that commissions and other appointed bodies be included
  - The list improperly classifies 7 commissions as decision-making when they are, in fact, advisory and 2 commissions as advisory when they are, in fact, decision-making
- The City Attorney re-issued its 2024 list in response to the Commission Impossible report
  - The revised list includes only 3 corrections
  - This suggests that their process for maintaining the list is deficient

It is clear that the City Attorney's list does not comply with the 2014 and 2024 Civil Grand Jury recommendations

Managing Each Commission Requires Multiple Perspectives

Public Opinion

- The public is concerned about the high number of commissions. There is a perception that:
  - Commissions often impede the ability of the city to get things done
  - No one in city government knows how many there are. Who's minding the store?
  - Media, public policy bodies and even city employees reflect these concerns
    - Many lead stories in SF Chronicle, Examiner, SF Standard and more (see Appendix)
    - SPUR Designed to Serve report released in August 2024
    - Many city employees interviewed indicated frustration with the high number of commissions and believed that many are unnecessary

We Currently Have Too Many – What's the Right Number?

Commission Impossible Report - Key Takeaways

- Produced the first ever accurate list of commissions
  - Up-to-date list of active commissions grouped by function
- Compared the list with peer cities and counties (benchmarking analysis)
- Identified 15 commissions whose functions could be integrated into other bodies or departments
  - Recommend they be abolished
- Further evaluations of commissions needs to be a public process with a minimum of politics
  - Recommend the creation of the Commissions Oversight Body
- Expect the COB will recommend the elimination of more commissions
  - The optimal number of commissions expected to be in the “Goldilocks Zone”

Key Recommendation - Commissions Oversight Body is Needed for Management of Commissions

➤ The Mayor's response

- A Commissions Oversight Body “... is not warranted or is not reasonable ”
- Mayor's Office already monitors commissions
  - Grand jury response - The public, through a commission oversight body, should have a more direct role in monitoring commissions
- Requires policy alignment
  - Grand jury response - Our recommendations relate to process not policy
- Commissions vary too much for this to work
  - Grand jury response - The key to improving commissions are uniform performance standards and transparency
- Systemic improvement will be addressed in the Mayor's ED 24-03
  - Grand jury response - The Mayor's executive directive delays commission reform until November 2026 (kicks the can down the road)

Key Recommendation - Commissions Oversight Body is Needed to Manage Commissions

- Commissions are a critical component of San Francisco government structure
- The citizens of San Francisco need a structure that provides:
  - Better transparency
  - Clearer standards and accountability
  - An enduring commitment to improving the performance of commissions

The City needs a Commissions Oversight Body

A panoramic view of San Francisco at sunset. The sky is a mix of blue and orange, with soft clouds. In the foreground, there's a green field with a fence. In the middle ground, there are several buildings, including a prominent white building with a tall, ornate tower. In the background, the city skyline is visible, with many skyscrapers, including the Transamerica Pyramid. The overall scene is peaceful and scenic.

City Attorney's New List of Commissions is Rife with Errors

LIST OF CITY BOARDS, COMMISSIONS, AND ADVISORY BODIES CREATED BY CHARTER, ORDINANCE, OR STATUTE

Last updated July 8, 2024

This document lists all boards, commissions, and advisory bodies of the City and County of San Francisco (the "City") that have been created by the City Charter, City ordinance, or California statute. The City Attorney's Office prepared this list in response to the Civil Grand Jury's June 2014 report entitled "Survey of San Francisco Commission Websites," and has updated it periodically. The Civil Grand Jury's report found that "[t]here is no easy reference to all of the commissions in San Francisco," and recommended that "[t]he City Attorney should ensure that there is an annual list of active commissions that is complete and listed alphabetically."

- This new list was released in response to the Commission Impossible report, yet it still includes many errors:
  - Numerous inactive commissions (20 total) are improperly included
  - Numerous active commissions (5 total) are improperly excluded
  - Numerous commissions are improperly classified as decision-making when they should be advisory (7 total), while other commissions are classified as advisory when they should be decision-making (2 total)

City Attorney's List Includes Inactive Commissions

- The jury found 20 commissions that appear to be inactive and yet they continue to be included in the new City Attorney's list. A few examples:
  - Adult Day Health Care Planning Council: Their last meeting was in 2000!
  - Pedestrian Safety Advisory Committee: This body sunset in 2020
  - Single Room Occupancy Task Force: This body sunset in 2021
  - Close Juvenile Hall Working Group: This body ceased activity in 2021
- The top of page 1 of the new City Attorney's list suggests they are following the 2014 Civil Grand Jury recommendation that they provide a list of only "active" commissions; however, at the bottom of very same page, they state their list includes bodies that may not currently hold regular meetings (i.e. inactive commissions):

Some of the bodies in the list below may not currently hold regular meetings, but the legislation authorizing them remains on the books. The list does not include bodies that the City Attorney has confirmed no longer exist.

- Because the new City Attorney list includes inactive commissions, it is NOT complying with the 2014 or 2024 Civil Grand Jury recommendations

City Attorney's List Excludes Active Commissions

Excerpt from the City Attorney's List:

The list below does not include the following types of bodies:

- City advisory bodies created by the Mayor or a City agency but not created or approved through legislation.

- Why are these bodies excluded when the 2024 civil grand jury report specifically recommended that the City Attorney's list include "other appointed bodies"?
- The jury found 5 active other appointed bodies that are excluded from the City Attorney's List:
  - Citywide Affordable Housing Loan Committee (5 members; most recent meeting was on August 16th)
  - Advisory Council to the Disability and Aging Services Commission (22 members; most recent meeting was on August 21st)
  - Age and Disability Friendly SF Implementation Workgroup (Unknown number of members; most recent meeting was on September 6th)
  - Mayor's Disability Council (11 members; most recent meeting was on June 21st)
  - Paratransit Coordinating Council (38 members; most recent meeting was on August 14th)

City Attorney's List

Decision-Making or Advisory – Which Is It?

- The City Attorney's list is comprised of two sections: commissions that are decision-making and commissions that are advisory. Yet the list in each section is replete with misclassifications (9 total)

Commission	CA Classification	Jury Classification
Citizens' Committee on Community Development	Decision-making	Advisory
Immigrant Rights Commission	Decision-making	Advisory
Public Utilities Rate Fairness Board	Decision-making	Advisory
Public Utilities Revenue Bond Oversight Committee	Decision-making	Advisory
SOMA Community Stabilization Fund Community Advisory Committee	Decision-making	Advisory
Southeast Community Facility Commission	Decision-making	Advisory
Sunshine Ordinance Task Force	Decision-making	Advisory
Committee on Information Technology	Advisory	Decision-making
Relocation Appeals Board	Advisory	Decision-making

Commission: Impossible

Civil Grand Jury | Government, Audit, Oversight Committee

September 2024

Broad Alignment on Commissions

San Francisco's commissions are an essential part of our public engagement process and should operate with transparency.

- Commissions should add value, not just process.
- City should facilitate transparency in decision making, noticing, and meeting structure to maximize broad-based public engagement

Alignment on Need for Reform

San Francisco's Commission structure is under appropriate scrutiny and must be evaluated holistically.

- Citywide attention: CGJ report, SPUR report, 2024 Prop D, 2024 Prop E
- Reform work must be considered in public partnership, and must not be conducted in a piece-meal fashion

Implementation of Recommendations

Broad-based Charter reform process, led by Controller, will facilitate analysis of these recommendations in context

- Charter reform process will consider the following recommendations through that process:
  - Streamlining guidelines for appointments
  - Reducing the size & number of commissions
  - Standardizing naming conventions

Implementation of Recommendations

The Mayor does not intend to pursue a new “commission on commissions,” and will not implement any related recommendations.

- The following recommendations will not be prioritized:
  - Performance evaluation at Commission level
  - Standardization of annual reports
