Work history

Lecturer, Expository Writing (1997-2000)

University of San Francisco

On a part-time basis, I taught expository writing classes to first- and second-year college students.

Small Business Owner (1993-present)

Green Apple Books

Since starting as a temporary employee assisting the bookkeeper in 1993, I quickly progressed through the ranks until I became day-to-day operations manager around 1996. With two partners, I gradually bought the business from the original owner and now serve as CEO and managing partner.

Despite challenges in the book business—from the rise (and partial fall) of big-box superstores to Amazon—Green Apple has remained relevant and thriving through innovation and adaptation under my leadership and direction.

I manage all aspects of this small business, including:

- Personnel: I hire and oversee training for our 28 employees and maintain a positive relationship with the union that represents our employees (UFCW, Local 5), including contract negotiations every three years.
- Finance: I manage all aspects of cash flow, financial planning, investment, banking, evaluation of product mix, sales per linear foot, etc.
- Communications: I founded our blog; act as primary Tweeter (@greenappleguy); developed our Facebook presence and e-commerce website; write, edit and produce our email newsletter with 7,000 subscribers; serve as liaison to the publishing industry, media, government, community partners, etc.
- Project management: when something new comes along, I deal with it. Recent examples include purging a warehouse of 150,000 books via pop-up store; switching point-of-sales system with 12 users for better efficiency; spearheading Groupon and other social media offers; partnering with Sunset district cafes to sell our used books in their cafes, etc.

All these efforts—plus the support of my two partners, our excellent staff, and loyal customers—have kept Green Apple thriving despite the recent economic downturn and a rapidly evolving industry in which so many other bookstores have failed.

Board Service

SFLOMA (San Francisco Locally Owned Merchants Alliance)

Co-founder/steering committee member

Around 2005, I helped found this “Local First” organization which strives to identify and promote locally owned business and educate consumers on the economic power of shopping locally. With Hut Landon (NCIBA) and Rick Karp (Cole Hardware), I have helped develop and steer this organization of local business. In 2007, we commissioned an important economic study that showed, in brief, that if San Franciscans shifted 10% of their spending from chains to local businesses, it would create 1,300 new jobs and $200 million in increased economic activity annually.

NCIBA (Northern California Independent Booksellers Association)

Treasurer

Since 2008, I have been a board member of this association, which is staffed by Executive Director Hut Landon and another employee. NCIBA represents nearly 200 indie bookstores in Northern California. We produce a spring gathering, a fall trade show, a holiday catalog with distribution of 250,000+ copies, and represent our member stores in publisher relations, media, etc.

South End Rowing Club

Treasurer

Since late 2010, I have served on the board of this truly unique non-profit athletic club, overseeing the club's finances and meeting monthly to address issues ranging from America's Cup 2012-2013 to a planned $1.2 million expansion and renovation.

Personal

My family is an important part of my life. Since 2000, I have been married to Samantha Schoech, a freelance writer for Sunset magazine, Babycenter.com, etc. We have 5-year-old twins who attended Laurel Hill Nursery School (a co-op that required lots of participation). The kids now attend kindergarten at Sunset Elementary School.

The city of San Francisco is also a passion of mine; I moved here right after graduating from college in 1993, and I am informally involved in many communities that share my interests, from bay swimmers to Lake Merced rowers, Ocean Beach surfers to the SF Parents of Multiples club. I'm a proud member of the SF Bike Coalition and often commute by bike from home to work.

Objective

I am seeking to apply my extensive experience in commerce, economic and workforce development, and social innovation.

Summary

My career demonstrates the ability to serve as a catalyst of change with companies, legislative bodies, and adversarial groups to design and implement improvement.

As President & CEO of the San Francisco Hispanic Chamber of Commerce and the Economic Empowerment Fund, I have leveraged the existing network of businesses to increase economic development by working with workforce development groups and corporate America. My first-hand experience a strong affinity for small disadvantaged firms and their role in supporting the economy as it relates to social innovation on a local, regional and state level of engagement.

As Commissioner, I worked aggressively with local city officials to increase procurement opportunities for small businesses and to connect small businesses and government agencies. My connections with local businesses throughout California have also enabled me to advocate for businesses to engage in corporate social responsibility and contribute to their community. I successfully connected community agencies to foster job-training programs for unemployed California residents and to position them as strategic partners with small businesses to increase their capacity to compete for contracts.

Throughout my career I have pursued opportunities for businesses to work with their communities and the public sector to yield economic benefits, control costs and maximize efficiencies.

Relevant Areas of Expertise

- Advocacy for social innovation and contracting
- Contract negotiations
- Cooperative leadership
- Developing strategic alliances
- Market assessment & research
- Productivity and process improvement
- Project management
- Strategic business planning

Career Experience

President & CEO, Author, Economic Empowerment Fund, San Francisco, CA

1/2008 – current

Created and executed VINA: the signature experience of wine and food benefiting vineyard workers and their families, benefiting Clinic Ole in Napa. Created and executed The Procurement Marketing Plan as a result of working with several small businesses and corporations to determine how to create advantages for contracting. The Procurement Marketing Plan is a blueprint to certification and marketing, filled with understandings of one's company's assessment to prepare one for certification and worksheets to prepare one to market one's company. A case study executed by Ventura demonstrates how corporate America, the small business community, and workforce development groups can work together towards economic development by closing a $500,000 contract, creating 9 full time jobs and 4 seasonal jobs, without the need for capital by contractual terms negotiated.

Commissioner, Small Business Commission, City and County of San Francisco, CA

03/2004 – 05/2010

Strong advocate for supplier diversity which resulted in an Executive Order issued by Mayor Gavin Newsom directing the Small Business Commission to work with city department heads to increase participation from disadvantaged businesses. Worked effectively with department heads to increase outreach efforts, coordination, publication of business opportunities and community events. Assisted in the selection of a vendor responsible for promoting refrigeration, power and waste management saver programs in the small business community on behalf of the San Francisco Department of Environment and monitored program results measure benefit to small-business community. Elected as Vice President in 2008 and as President in 2009 by peers. As President, created strategic plan with Commissioners and assigned areas of focus for each Commissioner creating a greater number of accomplishments for the Commission creating a more influential Small Business Commission. Influenced Mayor Newsom to hire Executive Director desired by the small business community. Worked closely with Executive Directors to build contact with San Francisco NEDO's and CBO's to promote Small Business Commission activities. In 2008, supports Executive Director in establishing a database of a minimum of 10,000 small businesses for direct communication of Small Business Commission activities. Advocated for business friendly policy. Worked closely with several companies to resolve city related issues resulting in business opening or remaining in San Francisco.

President and CEO, San Francisco Hispanic Chamber of Commerce, San Francisco, CA 03/2003 – 02/2010

Actively promote interests of Hispanic businesses in the San Francisco area and identify opportunities for economic development. Worked with the business community to increase Chamber membership from 56 to more than 500 business members, 42 corporate sponsors and more than 20 partnering organizations. Implemented outreach and marketing program to business community resulting in over 3,100 Bay Area business subscriptions to the weekly electronic newsletter and a database of over 11,000 participants. Co-authored "The Isabela Project: Closing the Capital Parity and Procurement Gap," in 2004 which addressed the need for an innovative source of financing for business owners as well as promoting supplier diversity leading to pilot programs in 2006 and 2008 addressing the educational needs for businesses to compete in contracting opportunities and is available through the Milken Institute. Actively advocating for the support of programs empowering micro and small businesses to compete in second-tier vendor opportunities. Promoted relationships between for-profit and non-profit companies to utilize workforce development programs to help companies increase capacity to compete for contracts. Drafted talking points for members to advocate for legislation and policies.

Co-Founder & Vice President of Business Development, TelUnidos, Inc., Oakland, CA 04/2000 – 08/2002

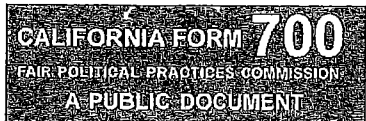

Developed a business plan selected by the Oakland Communications Technology Cluster to be one of 10 start-up companies to participate in an incubator program. This same business plan was used to attract and select corporate advisors, a board of directors and investors to secure $2.5 million in Series A funding. Developed original financial model used to form telecommunications startup and attract investors, thereby eliminating the need for a CFO and saving more than $160,000 in additional administration expenses. Worked with the CPUC and Federal Communications Commission (FCC) to complete all necessary filings in compliance with state and federal utility-regulation requirements. Brought together executive managers and staff using value-based methods.

Principal, Performance Strategy, San Francisco, CA and Dallas, TX 07/1996 – 04/2000

Founded a training and development company with the fourth-largest travel company in the United States as its first client and with training support provided nationwide. Utilized strategic planning, employee-incentive programs and specialized management training to increase overall profitability by 26% within 18 months. Designed a strategic planning program specifically for small business owners and educated employers about the benefits of corporate social responsibility.

Travel Consultant, Trainer & National Training Coordinator, Maritz Travel Company, Dallas, TX 07/1988 – 07/1996

Designed and implemented hundreds training programs on a local, state and national level. Created a National Training Conference for Maritz Inc. to leverage the company's regional and national strengths, standardize training and share resources. Conferences allowed the company streamline and reduce redundancy by cross-promoting training resources without creating additional costs to smaller regions of smaller divisions.

Production of Monoclonal Antibodies Using A Secretion Capture Report Web

06 / 1995

Biotechnology - Authors: Forest Gray, John S. Kenney, Ph.D., John F. Dunne, Ph.D.,

Marie-Helene Anceel

We describe a novel method for the production of monoclonal antibodies using a secretion capture report web (SCRW). Following HAT selection in bulk culture, individual hybridomas are encapsulated in biotinylated agarose drops. Antibody secreted by the hybridoma is captured within the agarose drop using an avidin bridge and biotinylated anti-mouse immunoglobulin. The secreted antibody is detected by a fluorescent reporter which can be either a second anti-mouse antibody or an antigen. The binding of the reporter can be quantitated and the desired hybridoma directly cloned by flow cytometry. Multi-parameter (i.e., two-color) reporter analysis can also be used to selectively enrich and clone rare hybridomas secreting antibodies directed to unique epitopes. The method allows the characterization of thousands of clones per second and the isolation of hundreds of clones per day.

Secretion capture and report web: use of affinity derivatized agarose microdroplets for the selection of hybridoma cells

11 / 1994

Journal of Immunological Methods · Authors: Forest Gray, John F. Dunne, Ph.D., John S. Kenney, Ph.D.

A novel assay is described which allows the entrapment and detection of the immunoglobulin secreted from individual viable hybridoma cells using a secretion capture and reporter web (SCRW). By encapsulating the cells in agarose microdroplets which have been derivatized to create a fluorescent antigen-specific sandwich assay, flow cytometry can be used to identify and sort productive cells from a heterogeneous population. Using agarase, the cells can be recovered from the microdroplets and clonally expanded after selection. The assay has been used to redone rare secretors from hybridoma cultures and to enhance the production of cultures with poor producers. The assay is easily generalized for the detection of any secreted protein for which specific antibodies or other ligands are available.

PUBLIC SERVICE

SOMPAC (South Of Market Project Area Committee – advisory board to the San Francisco Redevelopment agency)

2000- present

- Parliamentarian
- Chair economics committee

During my time on SOMPAC I have testified numerous times at the SFRA in support of funding for facade work and for the build out of Miss Saigon Restaurant, Pearls Deluxe Burgers, Split Pea Seduction, Small Potatoes, Moya Ethiopian restaurant, City Produce and Bindlestiff Theater. These establishments now provide employment for over 50 people. I also have been a staunch supporter and have testified for the creating of the police sub-station on Sixth Street

SOMBA (South Of Market Business Association).

2002 – present

- Board member 2002 – 2005
- President 2006 – present

I have been a dedicated supporter of small businesses in Soma including writing letters of support for the Tempest Bar, The Endup and the Wine Shop and other entities. I also testified at the entertainment Commission, at the BOS Land Use Committee and met with the president of the GGGRA, and representative from the Mayors Office of Neighborhood Services, on expediting of permitting for restaurants.

Western SoMa Citizens Planning Task Force
2006 -- present

- Business and Land Use Committee member

As a member of the Business and Land Use Committee my interest has been in the development and promoting of businesses in Soma. I have spoken in favor of and voted in support of allowing businesses on the ground floor level of buildings in the transit corridors and in areas where the entire committee had decided was sensible for the zoning allowing businesses.

SFCDMA (San Francisco Council of District Merchants Association)

2009 - present

- Board member

As a board member I have participated in promoting of businesses in San Francisco and also have reached out to businesses for the annual SFCDMA dinners. This included soliciting of contributions to the silent auctions.

AFFILIATIONS

Better Business Bureau - 1992 to present

Member of ICC (International Codes Council) -- 2005 to present

Board member of South San Francisco Rotary Club Foundation -- 2008 to present
