My name is Judy Pan and I am an Associate Preschool Teacher at Wu Yee Children's Services, the largest Early Head Start/Head Start provider in San Francisco and a Resource and Referral, serving over 4,000 children each year. Funding for child care - to pay teachers, to support small business owners, and to provide financial assistance to parents to be able to safely leave their children to go to work - is critical for an equitable recovery and allows every other industry to get back to work. Most importantly, our children, those who lack access to excellent early care and education are falling behind. We don't want to leave behind a generation of children from underserved communities who are not ready for school. We need to be able to access child care funds approved by the voters NOW. We support this proposition and we ask you to support it for San Francisco's children.

Thank you.

My name is Lijuan Wu and I am a (parent) at Wu Yee Children's Services, the largest Early Head Start/Head Start provider in San Francisco and a Resource and Referral, serving over 4,000 children each year. Funding for child care - to pay teachers, to support small business owners, and to provide financial assistance to parents to be able to safely leave their children to go to work - is critical for an equitable recovery and allows every other industry to get back to work. Most importantly, our children, those who lack access to excellent early care and education are falling behind. We don't want to leave behind a generation of children from underserved communities who are not ready for school. We need to be able to access child care funds approved by the voters NOW. We support this proposition and we ask you to support it for San Francisco's children.

Re: "Ordinance amending the Business and Tax Regulations Code to: 1) reduce the annual Business Registration Fee for businesses with $1,000,000 or less in San Francisco gross receipts, 2) increase the small business exemption ceiling for the Gross Receipts Tax to $1,500,000 and increase the annual Business Registration Fee on businesses benefiting from this increased exemption ceiling, 3) modify the Gross Receipts Tax rates, 4) repeal the Payroll Expense Tax, 5) increase the Gross Receipts Tax on certain taxpayers for ten years if a court strikes down the Homelessness Gross Receipts Tax Ordinance, 6) impose a new general tax on the gross receipts from the lease of certain commercial space for 10 years if a court strikes down the Early Care and Education Commercial Rents Tax Ordinance, and 7) make other changes to the City's business taxes; and to increase the City's appropriations limit by the total revenues collected under Articles 12-A-1 and 36 of the Business and Tax Regulations Code for four years from November 3, 2020."

My name is Yanling Liu and I am a parent at Wu Yee Children's Services, the largest Early Head Start/Head Start provider in San Francisco and a Resource and Referral, serving over 4,000 children each year. Funding for child care - to pay teachers, to support small business owners, and to provide financial assistance to parents to be able to safely leave their children to go to work - is critical for an equitable recovery and allows every other industry to get back to work. Most importantly, our children, those who lack access to excellent early care and education are falling behind. We don't want to leave behind a generation of children from underserved communities who are not ready for school. We need to be able to access child care funds approved by the voters NOW. We support this proposition and we ask you to support it for San Francisco's children.
