- Please describe the experience you have in public health programs related to diabetes, oral health, obesity, and sugary drink consumption.

The experiences I have had related with health problems caused by sugary drinks have been through research and education in my school. As part of our economics course curriculum, I have had the opportunity to directly study and present to my peers the impact of the sugary drink distributor tax on public health and personal income. This included an in-depth analysis of the negative impact obesity has on both an individual's quality of life and standard of living, as well as the particularly harmful physical and emotional effects of childhood obesity on the future development of young people. Considering that this condition can be caused by high consumption of sugary beverages, the benefits to public health of the sugary drink distributor tax quickly became apparent.

More directly, I have had experience in public health programs related to the homeless community of San Francisco. I have been a volunteer at Community Housing Partnership (CHP) over the past 9 months. CHP is a local nonprofit working to help secure housing and advance public policy supporting members of the homeless community. Most recently, our advocacy program has been focusing on ensuring San Francisco implements a treatment on demand (TOD) program per a 2008 ballot measure. TOD entails providing any member of the homeless community with substance abuse or mental health issues free treatment from the city, noting that the two issues are in many cases interlinked. While I was with CHP, I was responsible for outreach to community members about their public health and treatment needs, community leaders about their proposals regarding TOD, and city government officials regarding current programs and information from past attempts at TOD. While this was not directly related to the public health issues caused by sugary drinks, it nevertheless gave me the opportunity to engage with a different area of the public health issues and programs present in our city.

- Please describe the ways in which sugary drinks impact diverse communities across San Francisco.

Sugary drinks impact the diverse range of communities across San Francisco by directly causing or increasing risk factors for significant health issues. The effects of sugary drinks can be seen to impact the consequential community of youth in San Francisco in particular. Slightly more than 24% of youth in the city are estimated to drink one or more sugary drink per day. In addition, 15.6% of kids age 10-17, and an even higher 16.6% of kids age 2-4 are currently obese. Noting that sugary drinks are a well-established cause of childhood obesity, it is not difficult to see the potential link between consumption of these beverages and the development of dangerous health conditions. Furthermore, the effects of obesity and other sugary drink related health conditions such as poor oral health can lead to low self-esteem, depression, bullying, sleep issues, increased risk for cardiovascular disease, cancer, and diabetes, as well as future growth and development impairments. The consumption of highly sweetened drinks adversely impacts the future health and wellbeing of future San Franciscans in an undeniable way.

Another disproportionate impact the consumption of sugary drinks has is on communities of color. Due to a higher lack of access to healthy alternatives, consumption of sugary drinks has historically been higher in communities of color. This can be seen firsthand in the Bayview, Tenderloin, and Oceanview neighborhoods, which have no big-box grocery stores. As a result of higher rates of consumption, it is an unfortunate fact that these communities also face higher rates of obesity and other sugar related health issues; 57% of African Americans and 50% of Latinx pupils in the 9th grade are overweight or obese. While Supervisor Malia Cohen and former Supervisor Eric Mar's pilot program to help reduce this inequity in 2013 has made progress, much more work is needed. With the sugary drink distributor tax, hopefully this inequity can be eliminated.

- Please describe your experience in community-based outreach.

As part of my work listed above with Community Housing Partnership (CHP), I had the great opportunity to meet with individuals and leaders in the homeless community to help compile a history of TOD and better understand the needs of the people I was working for. With this information, I compiled a report for (CHP) on the history of TOD in San Francisco and the most pressing needs of the communities which a new TOD program would serve. This ultimately culminated in a presentation to Supervisor Rafael Mandelman and the representatives of several bay-area organizations working to implement TOD. This community outreach was a truly fulfilling experience, and I hope to have the chance to use this experience to further the work of the Sugary Drink Distributor Tax Advisory Committee (SDDTAC).

In addition to my community-based outreach experience with CHP, I have also had the honor to help intern in Senator Feinstein's office here in San Francisco. As part of this internship, I was able to understand the needs of constituents throughout California, respond to their worries and concerns, and gain knowledge of the policy processes behind the services the government provides, all skills that I hope to bring to the SDDTAC.

- Please describe how your work or life experience will inform the work of the committee.

I hope to help inform the work of the SDDTAC with what I have learned in the classroom regarding the impacts of sugary drinks and regressive taxes as well as my work experience with CHP and Senator Feinstein's office. Through my research in school regarding the sugary drink distributor tax, I appreciate the fact that a per unit tax on the consumption of goods is regressive in nature since it does not consider the income of the person being taxed. Thus, I believe it is a necessity that the revenues of this tax be allocated to programs that enhance the availability of healthy alternatives to communities traditionally impacted by sugary drinks and mitigative programs that reduce the harmful health effects of high sugar consumption. Through expanding the programs already implemented by the SDDTAC, like increased funding for SFUSD water fountains, and developing new initiatives to reduce the consumption of sugary drinks and improve public health, the revenues of this tax can be utilized to their full potential.

In addition, the work I have done with Senator Feinstein's office and CHP has informed me of the importance of community outreach and support for success in government policy. From these experiences I believe that the SDDTAC must remain connected with the diverse community of San Franciscans it serves. If it becomes isolated, it loses its representative power and the ability to most effectively implement change for the communities who need it most. Therefore, I hope to utilize my personal experiences with outreach across San Francisco to further connect the SDDTAC to the constituents it serves and develop the most effective policy proposals to counteract sugary drinks as possible.

RE: Youth Commission Recommendations for Seat 6 on the Sugary Drinks Distributor Tax Advisory Committee (SDDTAC)

13 Pursuant to Administrative Code, Chapter 5, Article XXXIII, Sections 5.33-2, seat 6 on the Sugary Drinks
14 Distributor Tax Advisory Committee is reserved for “[a person who is under 19 years old at the time of 15 appointment and who may be a member of the Youth Commission, nominated by the Youth Commission
16 and appointed by the Board of Supervisors. If the person is under legal voting age and unable to be an 17 elector for that reason, the person may hold this seat, but upon reaching legal voting age, the person
18 shall relinquish the seat unless he or she becomes an elector, in which case the person shall retain the 19 seat]”.

17 In order to fulfill their duties outlined in the administrative code concerning recommendations for seat 6, 18 Youth Commissioners conducted an outreach and application process in which they reached out to 19 youth-serving community organizations across San Francisco to help identify youth interested in serving
20 on the SDDTAC. Youth Commissioners considered applications at their Wednesday, March 27, 2019
21 Executive Committee meeting. Youth Commissioners reviewed the Sugary Drinks Distributor Tax
22 legislation (BOS File No.160729), working carefully to select youth who they believe can provide
23 valuable insight on the diverse experiences and challenges of young people in San Francisco, as well
24 as bring a systems-informed and solution-oriented lens to the work of the SDDTAC.

22 Youth Commissioners are pleased to share their recommendation of Aaron Kunz for appointment
23 consideration to seat 6 on the SDDTAC. Youth Commissioners found that Aaron is well positioned to 24 bring unique and important insights to the work of the SDDTAC through their own experiences and 25 challenges as a young San Franciscan, as well as their dedication to improving health outcomes for young people in our City. Their full application is attached for your review.

1 The Youth Commission is nominating Aaron Kunz to the Sugary Drinks Distributor Tax Advisory
2 Committee's Youth Seat. Aaron Kunz will bring his living experiences to maximize the collective 3 community voice. Aaron brings a critical analytical lens to problem solve with the committee the ways in 4 which sugary drinks have impacted low – income people of color communities across San Francisco.
5 As the youth seat, the Youth Commission trusts that Aaron will move the committee to remain connected
6 with the community. He understands that there needs to be an equity lens to the work and the tax should
7 benefit the community. He believes that it is a necessity that the revenues of this tax be allocated to 8 programs that enhance the availability of healthy alternatives to communities historically impacted by 9 sugary drinks and invest in community health programs that reduce the harmful health effects of high
10 sugar consumption. With his research and community outreach experience through Community
11 Housing Partnership and interning at Senator Feinstein's office, he is adept and able to work with 12 community on educating and uplifting their needs from grassroots to policy making level. And most 13 importantly, he is willing to commit the time and energy to be a vital voice for youths and families on the
