17       Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco:

18       Section 1. General Findings.

19       (a) Due to the federal government's recent increase in immigration enforcement 20       actions, it is more important than ever for immigrants to be aware of the legal services
21       available to them. The City and others fund immigration legal service providers so they can 22       offer services to low-income members of the community at low or no cost.

23       (b) Immigrants sometimes seek non-legal immigration services at offices of notaries
24       and immigration consultants. Under state law, notaries are authorized to witness the signing 25       of documents, and immigration consultants may assist clients with completing certain immigration forms and submitting required documents. State law prohibits notaries and 1 immigration consultants from providing legal advice, including in immigration proceedings.

2 Nonetheless, there have been instances of notaries and immigration consultants unlawfully
3 holding themselves out as attorneys authorized to provide representation in immigration
4 matters. This unlawful conduct can have a serious adverse impact on the immigration 5 proceedings of individuals who believed they were receiving legitimate legal advice and 6 representation.

7 (c) Notaries and immigration consultants must post notice at their place of business
8 indicating they are not licensed to practice law. And state law prohibits notaries from using 9 the Spanish term "notario" or "notario público" when advertising their services in Spanish, 10 because this term in some Spanish-speaking countries indicates that the person is an 11 attorney.

12 (d) Because immigrants in the City seek assistance with immigration matters from 13 notaries and immigration consultants, it is important that they receive accurate information 14 concerning the availability of legal service providers who can provide advice and 15 representation in immigration proceedings. The purpose of this ordinance is to create a link 16 between individuals seeking legal advice and legal service providers by requiring notaries and 17 immigration consultants to provide clients with a City-created list of pro bono or low-cost legal 18 service providers. People involved in immigration proceedings may also benefit from 19 assistance that the consulate of the country from which they immigrated, and this ordinance 20 also requires the distribution of contact information for such consulates.

21 (e) This ordinance also authorizes the Human Rights Commission to assist individuals 22 who believe that a notary or immigration consultant has engaged in conduct that violates the 23 legal requirements governing their activities to file complaints with the relevant state licensing 24 or enforcement entities.
