12 WHEREAS, Housing trusts are a method by which governments and nonprofit 13 organizations can use a dedicated stream of revenue to assist in the development and 14 preservation of affordable housing; and,

15 WHEREAS, A community land trust, which is a nonprofit membership organization 16 formed to acquire and hold land for the benefit of the community; is one subtype of housing 17 trust; and,

18 WHEREAS, Community land trusts primarily provide permanently affordable housing to 21 community; and,

22 WHEREAS, The Institute for Community Economics, a national community

25 States, collectively supplying 4,793 units of affordable housing; and,

1 WHEREAS, San Francisco already operates a number of programs which could be 2 considered "housing trust funds" in that they are dedicated to providing revenue for affordable

4 needs population; and,

5 WHEREAS, The existing City programs take the form of development of rental 6 housing, assistance to first-time homebuyers, and addressing the rehabilitation needs of 7 existing homeowners; and,

9 that has not been aggressively pursued in San Francisco; and,

10 WHEREAS, While community land trusts may not explicitly address the City's problem 11 of a shortage of rental housing, they may assist in enhancing ownership opportunities and 12 addressing the high cost of housing in San Francisco; and

13 WHEREAS, The Legislative Analysts Office has issued two reports on community land 14 trusts, one to the full Board of Supervisors dated March 26, 1999 and one addressed to
