Dear John,

I'm unable to attend today's Land Use and Transportation Committee hearing, but want to voice my support for the above referenced resolution.

I'm glad to see that expanding EV charging facilities in SF is moving forward. I've driven a hybrid car since 2015, but hybrids only get around 30% better mileage than pure gas powered, and I'd much prefer to drive an all-electric car.

A friend in Petaluma has an EV and can't charge at home, but finds she can manage with public charging. I think it remains to be seen how well that can work for people in SF with our crowded streets, so a pilot program is appropriate.

I hope in the future EV charging may be added to inside parking spaces in existing multifamily buildings in SF.

Best regards,

Dave
