Subject: Library's Budget -- Please Do Not Permit Library Hours to be Changed with No Public Input and No Library Commission Input, Approval, or even Notification -- and No Public Process

-- May 25, 2016 Budget & Finance Cmtee Agenda (Items 10 and 11)

Dear Chair Farrell (Budget and Finance), President Breed, and Board Members:

At the Budget and Finance Committee meeting of May 18, 2016, City Librarian Luis Herrera said that his proposed budget is to add 70 open library hours per week to the schedule, spread among 14 branches.

But this was never discussed, or approved, at the Library Commission during any of its budget discussions and actions, or at any other time.

While we generally favor more access via greater open hours, we do not support decision-making on this that lacks public process.

Library open hours for the public are among the most important issues and decisions that the Library must take. This is recognized by the current Library Preservation Fund measure ("Proposition D, Renewing Library Preservation Fund", 2007), which has made San Francisco Public Library richer than almost any other library, on a per capita basis. Prop. D provides a detailed description of how hours changes must be accomplished – and that is, with an extensive public process that includes "establish[ing] a community input process," and via changes "as the [Library] Commission may adopt."

None of this process has happened for the currently-proposed hours changes.

Miserly Main Library Hours, Not Changed in 10-20 Years While Branch Hours
Have Increased Repeatedly

At the May 18 meeting, the City Librarian provided in his presentation a cherry-picked group of four libraries to compare hours against. But even in that group, three out of four libraries have more Main Library evening hours than San Francisco.

San Francisco Public Library's main facility – the one with the greatest facilities, collections, and unique materials – is only open after 6 pm THREE nights per week – and then only until 8pm.

As one example, San Jose Public Library's Martin Luther King (Main Library) location is open 69 hours per week compared with San Francisco's Main Library 60 hours per week: that is 15 percent more hours on a budget that is less than 33% of San Francisco's, and even less on a per-capita basis!

And San Jose Public Library is open four nights per week until 9pm, Sundays until 7 pm -- compared with SF's three nights per week only until 8pm, and Sundays only until 5. San Jose is also open at 8am five days per week, compared with SF's weekday openings of 10am (Mon.), 9am (Tu-Th), and noon (Fri.).

Please do not allow SF to spend money on hours without appropriate public input; we recommend holding the funding until a proper public process has determined where that money should be spent.

Thank you for your attention to this.

Sincerely yours,

Peter Warfield
