13 WHEREAS, The LEATHER & LGBTQ Cultural District was created to preserve, 14 advance, and promote San Francisco's LEATHER & LGBTQ Cultural District as a local,
15 national, and international resource, and as a culturally and commercially enriched 16 neighborhood and district; and

17 WHEREAS, San Francisco's South of Market has been a local and world capital for 18 leather culture since the 1960s, as well as one of the city's most significant and distinctive 19 LGBTQ neighborhoods since the 1950s, with a unique concentration of businesses, 20 institutions, organizations, events, individuals, and artists that has been an integral part of the 21 City's cultural richness, economic prosperity, and historical significance; and

22 WHEREAS, South of Market had long been the west coast center for printing and 23 publishing, and most of San Francisco's gay and leather printers, typesetters, lithographers, 24 and publications were concentrated South of Market, including Drummer magazine, the most 25 important national and international leather publication from 1975 to 1998; and

1           WHEREAS, After intensive police repression in the early 1960s drove gay businesses
2 from the Embarcadero, many began to flow into the South of Market, where suburbanization,
3 deindustrialization, and urban renewal had resulted in many vacant buildings, which quickly 4 became occupied by queer bars, restaurants, and bathhouses; and

5           WHEREAS, South of Market quickly became one of San Francisco’s major LGBTQ 6 areas, in which most of the city’s gay bathhouses were located, as were innumerable bars
7 catering to diverse populations, such as the lesbian bars the Hula Shack and the Baybrick Inn, 8 famous dance bars such as the Stud and the End-Up (featured in “Tales of the City”) and 9 most recently, the drag-focused Oasis; and

10           WHEREAS, The first gay leather bar in the South of Market, the Tool Box, became 11 world famous when a photo of its interior, with a massive mural painted by local artist Chuck 12 Arnett, was featured in a 1964 Life magazine article titled “Homosexuality in America;” and

13           WHEREAS, South of Market became most identified with the emerging leather 14 community in San Francisco when leather bars such as Fe-Be’s, the Ramrod, and the In 15 Between (now the site of the Powerhouse) opened along Folsom Street, starting the formation 16 of a distinctive leather neighborhood; and

17           WHEREAS, By the late 1960’s Folsom Street had already acquired the nickname of 18 “The Miracle Mile” in maps and travel guides of San Francisco, codifying a leather character 19 that expanded dramatically throughout the 1970s, such that by 1980 there were at least forty 20 South of Market bars, baths, shops, and restaurants serving the leather population, and the 21 area had the largest and most dense concentration of leather institutions anywhere in the 22 world; and

23           WHEREAS, Much of leather social life was produced by the leather motor cycle clubs
24 and leather social organizations, which used the physical spaces, buildings, and streets South

1 of Market for their meetings, gatherings, and events, and which have engaged in long 2 traditions of raising funds for charitable causes; and

3 WHEREAS, Leather places and groups sparked an explosion of art and iconography,
4 much of it generated by dozens of artists and photographers and sculptors whose work 5 adorned the bars and baths and club insignia, and who were featured in galleries such as 6 Fey-Way, 544 Natoma, 80 Langton, and later, Mark I Chester's studio, as well as in the many 7 art shows that were regularly displayed on the walls of bars such as the Ambush and the 8 Eagle; and

9 WHEREAS, South of Market institutions and personnel were centrally involved in the 10 construction of political organizations, such as the Tavern Guild, which give San Francisco its 11 current queer friendly politics and reputation and have helped mitigate the routine police 12 harassment of LGBTQ individuals and businesses; and

13 WHEREAS, During the AIDS epidemic, using the models of mutual aid practiced by the 14 motorcycle clubs, leathermen became leaders in combating the epidemic, established
15 institutions such as the AIDS Emergency Fund, and raised hundreds of thousands of dollars 16 to provide direct assistance for people with AIDS and HIV; and

17 WHEREAS, Sex educators and AIDS activists from the leather community developed 18 and effectively disseminated some of the earliest and most comprehensive safer sex 19 guidelines and practices; and

20 WHEREAS, Despite the consensus among public health professionals that the gay
21 bathhouses were opportunities to promote safer sex practices, the City was swayed by a 22 campaign that erroneously blamed the bathhouses for the AIDS epidemic, and the City 23 adopted regulations that effectively closed the existing bathhouses and sex clubs in San 24 Francisco, badly damaging the gay and leather economies located in the South of Market and 25 drastically reducing the gay and leather presence in the neighborhood; and

1           WHEREAS, Since the 1960s, South of Market has experienced relentless pressure 2 from the urban renewal and redevelopment projects in and around the Moscone Center and 3 Yerba Buena Complex, which have displaced thousands of residents and small businesses in 4 favor of capital-intensive civic construction and private developments; and

5           WHEREAS, The leather and LGBTQ presence in South of Market continues to be 6 imperiled by the displacement caused by rising rents and land costs resulting from the 7 ongoing economic and physical reconstruction of much of South of Market, particularly the 8 current building boom of high end housing and retail and the escalating competition for 9 commercial space; and

10           WHEREAS, Although the first Folsom Street Fair was founded in 1984 as a protest
11 against the impact of such redevelopment on the South of Market, the Folsom Street Fair 12 evolved into an annual event that is the largest celebration of leather sexuality in the world,
13 drawing hundreds of thousands of visitors to what has become a major international festival, 14 while the smaller and more local Up Your Alley Fair, begun as an AIDS fundraiser in 1985, is 15 also a major tourist destination, and both of these street fairs are vivid and cherished 16 expressions of the leather cultural character of the neighborhood; and

17           WHEREAS, The Western SOMA Citizens Planning Taskforce, established by the 18 Board of Supervisors in 2004, worked for almost a decade, consulting with multiple 19 stakeholders in the area in a collaborative planning process, to formulate a plan for 20 sustainable development that would enhance the existing neighborhood rather than destroy it; 21 and

22           WHEREAS, The Western SOMA Citizens Planning Taskforce's Western SOMA
23 Community Plan was adopted by the Board of Supervisors in 2013, and the plan included
24 proposals for a Filipino social heritage district (Recognizing, Protecting and Memorializing 25 South of Market Filipino Social Heritage Neighborhood Resources) and an LGBTQ social

1 heritage district (Recognizing, Protecting and Memorializing South of Market LGBTQ Social 2 Heritage Neighborhood Resources); and

3 WHEREAS, The importance of the leather and LGBTQ presence in South of Market
4 has been recognized in the National Park Service LGBTQ Theme Study (titled “LGBTQ 5 America: A Theme Study of Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, and Queer History”), as 6 well as in the Citywide Historic Context Statement for LGBTQ History, and in the South of 7 Market Historic Context Statement of the San Francisco Planning Department; and

8 WHEREAS, The commemorative installation known as the Ringold Alley Leather
9 History Walk on Ringold Alley, and the Eagle Plaza, are physical manifestations of the rich 10 leather heritage of South of Market; and

11 WHEREAS, In April 2021, the Board of Supervisors, by unanimous vote, approved
12 Resolution No. 141-21, on file with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors in File No. 210223,
13 authorizing the establishment of the LEATHER & LGBTQ Cultural District’s Leather History
14 Cruise and anticipating the future installation of commemorative plaques at various culturally 15 and historically significant sidewalk locations within and near the Leather and LGBTQ Cultural 16 District in the area bounded by Brannan Street, Third Street, Mission Street, 12th Street and 17 Division Street; and

18 WHEREAS, In April 2021, the Civic Design Review Committee of the San Francisco 19 Arts Commission (“Commission”) completed a single-phase review of the “Leather and 20 LGBTQ District Commemorative Plaque Project,” which included the review and approval of 21 the design of the “Leather District Plaque,” a commemorative plaque made of bronze and 22 measuring 18 square inches with a thickness of 3/8 of an inch; and

23 WHEREAS, The District proposes to have the commemorative plaques installed in 24 phases to delineate the Leather History Cruise, depending on the availability of the required 25 funds; and

1           WHEREAS, Following the approval of Resolution No. 141-21, the District’s historians
2 have identified additional sidewalk locations that were omitted from Resolution No. 141-21, 3 which are listed below; and
