Mayoral Question, April 15, 2014

The text is listed below or attached:

Mr. Mayor: San Francisco has approximately 220 park properties and almost no park patrol officers. Currently, at any given time, there are two park patrol officers on duty to police those 220 properties. That number is woefully inadequate, and our park patrol, compared to other large cities, is tiny – indeed, almost non-existent. Our parks, which constitute about 14% of San Francisco’s land mass, have massive security needs. They are regularly trashed by vandals and covered with graffiti. People are assaulted. The lack of park patrol officers makes it almost impossible to enforce basic park rules and undermines public safety. I will be proposing in the upcoming budget process that we double the size of the park control. Do you agree that we need a larger park patrol and need to hire more park patrol officers? If so, how do you propose we increase the size of the force? If not, how do you think we should improve safety and security in our parks?
