LEGISLATIVE DIGEST

(Revised 3/24/2025)

[Administrative Code - Nonprofit Reporting]

Ordinance amending the Administrative Code to change the Annual Economic Statement of City-Funded Organizations requirements to limit the application of nonprofit reporting requirements to organizations receiving more than $1,000,000 annually, reduce required information types, and permit, redaction of information to avoid personal harm.

Existing Law

All nonprofits receiving in excess of $100,000 in funding from the City to provide direct services to the public must annually provide information relating to the organizations' structure, leadership, and finances, to the City Administrator or to a City Department that awards or monitors the contract or grant.

Amendments to Current Law

The proposed amendment would 1) increase the application threshold to $1,000,000, 2) remove five types of documentation from the public posting requirements, and 3) create a justification for redacting information from the required documents if the release of information is may lead to personal harm.

Background Information

In 1981, the City adopted in Section 10.1 reporting requirements for nonprofits providing services to the public, which usually are in the form of a grant. These annual reporting requirements, sent to the Board of Supervisors, allowed greater transparency into the operations of nonprofits receiving City funds. In 2000, Section 10.1 was altered to direct the reports to a predecessor of the City Administrator's Office. In 2011, Section 10.1 was changed to allow reports to be sent to awarding departments instead. In 2023, Section 10.1 was modified to allow nonprofits to post reports on websites, add additional required documents, and increase enforcement efforts. An exception for disclosure was added, where nonprofits may redact information if disclosure would violate laws protecting personal privacy.

In 2025, nonprofit representatives voiced concern that the public posting of personal information required under 10.1 could be misused and cause harm to nonprofit personnel. To ameliorate this, the scope of the ordinance has been reduced by monetary threshold and information required, and a personal safety redaction justification has been added.

Annual Economic Statement Redaction for Personal Safety

Presented to the Board of Supervisors
File 24-1209

CITY & COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO

Office of the City Administrator

Background on Annual Economic Statement

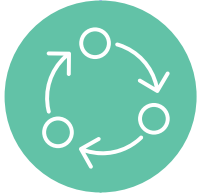

2

Legislative amendments passed in 2023

In 2023, the Board of Supervisors passed amendments to Administrative Code Section 10.1 (Annual Economic Statement – City-Funded Organizations) which required nonprofits who receive more than $100,000 from the City to make certain information publicly available.

New process implemented in 2024

The Office of the City Administrator, in partnership with the Controller's Office, developed a new process to implement this requirement which asked nonprofits to:

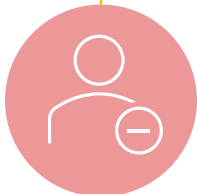

- 1) Post the required information on their public website, and
- 2) Report back to the City that they completed this posting.

Concerns raised from nonprofit community

Several nonprofits contacted the City to report that certain information required by the legislation could compromise personal safety of the organization and their staff.

Redaction legislation introduced

President Mandelman introduced legislation allowing for redaction of information that could compromise public safety, which is here for your consideration today.

Legislation overview & purpose

If passed, this legislation would allow nonprofit organizations to redact the required Annual Economic Statement information in certain situations:

- “to protect personal safety where an organization whose agents, employees, or officers have received threats of violence in the past year”
- “or where an organization performs similar work to another organization whose agents, employees, or officers have received threats of violence in the past year.”

LEGISLATIVE DIGEST

[Administrative Code - Redacting Information from Annual Economic Statements]

Ordinance amending the Administrative Code to permit, for reasons that may compromise personal safety, redaction of information otherwise required in the Annual Economic Statement of City-Funded Organizations.

Existing Law

All nonprofits receiving in excess of $100,000 in funding from the City to provide direct services to the public must annually provide information relating to the organizations' structure, leadership, and finances, to the City Administrator or to a City Department that awards or monitors the contract or grant.

Amendments to Current Law

The proposed amendment would create a justification for redacting information from the required documents if the release of information could lead to endangering personal safety.

Background Information

In 1981, the City adopted in Section 10.1 reporting requirements for nonprofits providing services to the public, which usually are in the form of a grant. These annual reporting requirements, sent to the Board of Supervisors, allowed greater transparency into the operations of nonprofits receiving City funds. In 2000, Section 10.1 was altered to direct the reports to a predecessor of the City Administrator's Office. In 2011, Section 10.1 was changed to allow reports to be sent to awarding departments instead. In 2023, Section 10.1 was modified to allow nonprofits to post reports on websites, add additional required documents, and increase enforcement efforts. An exception for disclosure was added, where nonprofits may redact information if disclosure would violate laws protecting personal privacy.

The new system was rolled out in 2024, and as the deadline approached, certain nonprofits became aware of the scope of the disclosure and public nature. Nonprofits were concerned that disclosure of individual information could lead to harm to such individuals, as employees working in family planning services and LGBT rights groups have been targeted in the past. To ameliorate this potential harm, the personal privacy redaction justification has been expanded to include redaction to protect personal safety.

Hi Arthur,

I haven't had a short and long title rewritten before. I usually think of clerical edits as things like punctuation or misspellings. I'm guessing this was rewritten because the character count was 3 too many? Apologies. Can we just remove "of Organizations" at the end of the short title instead? See below for preferred short title. This change would also be for the leg digest.
