	Proposition C is an economically sound plan that will help San Francisco upgrade city services and run more efficiently.	11 7
	This measure will help the City recruit and retain key personnel in today's highly competitive economy. Without Proposition C, San Francisco will continue to lose qualified nurses, doctors and health safety employees to other cities and counties and to the private sector.	13 8 12 8
	Proposition C restores equity to the City's retirement system. Since 1976, city employees have received retirement benefits substantially inferior to those earned by state employees and most other city and county workers in California. For 24 years, the majority of San Francisco's women and minority personnel have suffered under an inequitable retirement system - this measure corrects that injustice. The voters have already restored parity to the police and fire fighters. It is only fair that other key city employees receive equal treatment. Proposition C will only benefit current and future city employees.	11 10 13 10 10 13 14 10
