FORM B: APPLICATION NARRATIVE

Introduction

Spearheaded by the San Francisco Treasurer's Office of Financial Empowerment (OFE) in partnership with the Mayor's Office and the San Francisco Unified School District (SFUSD), Kindergarten to College (K2C) began as a two-year pilot program in 2011. Today, every child entering kindergarten in the City's public schools automatically receives a college savings account with a starting deposit of $50. K2C encourages families to save by providing additional financial incentives for contributions during the first year after account opening.

The idea of establishing a universal system of children's accounts was first proposed by Professor Michael Sherraden in his seminal book, Assets and the Poor. In this work, Sherraden argued that these accounts could provide a foundation for lifelong asset accumulation, facilitate the delivery of action-oriented basic financial education during the school year and jump-start a savings habit. Other research has indicated that children in low- and moderate-income households with school-designated savings of $500 or less are three times more likely to graduate college than children without.¹ K2C is based on this research, as well as a demonstration led by Prosperity Now (formerly the Corporation for Enterprise Development or CFED) between 2003 and 2008 called Saving for Education, Entrepreneurship and Down payment (SEED).² Evidence from SEED suggested that low-income families can and will save; children's savings accounts (CSAs) promote positive behavioral and attitudinal changes in children; and universal, automatic access to accounts is critical to a program's success. Based on recommendations from SEED and other research, San Francisco launched the first CSA in the country incorporating all five programmatic recommendations:

- Universal: Provides a savings account to all students starting kindergarten, including those who are undocumented, in unbanked families, living in foster care or homeless. This custodial savings account is held on behalf of each student by the City and County of San Francisco.
- Automatic: Enrolls all students automatically, removing two significant barriers for parents—inertia and the cost of opening an account.
- Publicly Funded: The City funds an initial seed deposit of $50 for each child's account, an additional equity deposit for accounts of students from low-income households and K2C's basic operating expenses.

² See Sherraden, M., & Stevens, J. (2010). Lessons from SEED: A national demonstration of child development accounts. Washington, DC: CFED.

- Financial Incentives: Encourage parents and students to save and build financial assets for the future.
- Range of Deposit Options: Offers families multiple ways to contribute to their children's accounts, including in-person, direct deposit, bill pay and by mail. Traditional college savings accounts, such as 529s, only allow for online or mail deposits, require a social security number and do not accept cash, creating a significant barrier to saving for unbanked and undocumented families. They also create barriers for those who lack access to the Internet or the sophistication to navigate market investments.

The creation of a CSA model that can enroll thousands of five-year-old children into their own savings account without the need for a parent signature or social security number is a first-in-the-nation innovation with many advantages. First, K2C reaches a diverse constituency of low- and middle-income families directly through its partnership with the public school system, which provides the connectivity and trust families have with educators. Second, K2C's automatic and universal model provides a savings platform that can be used for a wide range of programmatic interventions to both increase savings and advance educational outcomes. For example, because every child is enrolled, teachers can equip all students in a class with essential financial knowledge that can be applied immediately to their real life savings account. Third, every child begins kindergarten part of the financial mainstream with a financial asset. Much work remains to strengthen the infrastructure necessary to support CSAs, but K2C has demonstrated that automatic child savings programs are possible, effective and scalable. In so doing, K2C has paved the way for other municipalities and communities to launch similar initiatives across the United States.

Target Population

K2C serves every family in the public school system but is especially attuned to low-income families and families of color who face the greatest barriers to post-secondary education. K2C is integrated into the public school system because San Francisco public schools serve a primarily low- to moderate-income population. While the percentage of low-income families across San Francisco generally is 9.5%, 55% of public school students are enrolled in the National School Lunch program. The income threshold to qualify for free lunch is $32,630 for a family of four and the income threshold for reduced-priced lunch is $46,435 for a family of four. So, it's clear the percentage of low-income families with students in the public school system is much higher than the percentage of families whose children attend private schools. San Francisco public schools are also incredibly diverse, with most children coming from minority families: 35% Asian, 27% Hispanic/Latino, 15% White and 7% African-American. In addition, 29% of students are English Language Learners.

Incentives

Funded by private philanthropy and based on the latest insights from behavioral science, K2C currently offers families up to $90 in financial incentives in addition to the initial $50 seed provided by the City:

- $20 Online-Account Registration Bonus: Encourages families to register their account online to view their balance and activity.

- $10 Save Now Bonus: Creates a sense of urgency by encouraging families to save any amount within the first 60 days after the account is opened.
- $10 Save Monthly Bonus: Encourages families to save regularly by offering a $10 bonus in any six months they save at least $10 in the first year the account is opened.

Since inception, K2C has also deposited a $50 incentive into the accounts of all students who qualify for free or reduced-price lunch, provided a parent or guardian consents to share their child's status. Recognizing the barrier such an opt-in requirement presents to families, K2C will pilot a new opt-out equity incentive for students from low-income families identified by SFUSD.

Progress To-Date

Recent findings highlight progress families are making to save in K2C, signaling an expectation that their child will pursue post-secondary education.

Breadth of Outreach

- 100% of elementary school children in San Francisco's public schools have accounts
Thirty-three thousand students now have a K2C account, including all students in kindergarten through 6th grade.
- Families are saving at a higher rate than any comparable program in the country
Twenty percent of families have contributed $3.6 million to their children's K2C accounts. By contrast, less than three percent of families save in a 529 or Coverdell Education Savings account nationally.³
- Families are saving meaningful amounts
Families that have made at least one contribution to their children's K2C account have saved on average $555 for a cumulative total of $3.6 million. Between family contributions and incentives, families have on average $730 for a cumulative total of $6.2 million. Families have contributed 77 percent of this total, saving $3.26 for every $1 of incentive earned.

Depth of Outreach

- Families in the poorest neighborhoods are saving
Even in neighborhoods where more than one in five households is below the poverty line, families are saving. Fourteen percent of families living in the six poorest San Francisco neighborhoods have saved on average $460. Including incentives, these families have on average $623 for their children's future.
- Low-income families are saving
Students who qualify for free or reduced-price lunch—an indicator of low household income—have more than $1.5 million of family contributions in their accounts. Low-income families that have saved have contributed $494 on average, accounting for 40 percent of all contributions in K2C. Including incentives, these families have on average $667 for their children's future.

- African American and Latino families are saving
Eleven percent of African American families and 14 percent of Latino families have saved in their children's account, with an average contribution of $417 and $515, respectively. Including incentives, these families have saved on average $585 and $678 for their children's future.

Conclusion

By 2020, nearly two-thirds of jobs in the United States will require a postsecondary degree.⁴ Expanding access to postsecondary education is critical to ensuring the economy works for everyone, not just those at the top. Yet, just getting young people and their parents to the starting line—believing that post-secondary education is an option—remains one of the greatest barriers for many low-income families and families of color. Even modest savings can have an impact on the decision to pursue post-secondary education, and K2C is helping a growing number of families, including those who face the greatest barriers, to set aside money for their children's future. On average, these families have accumulated $500, dramatically increasing the likelihood their children will attend and graduate from post-secondary education, and benefit from the transformative potential it offers. We still have much work to do, but this progress underscores the pioneering role K2C is playing to support all families in the public school system.

FORM D: Percentage of Low-Income Families

“Percentage of low-income families” means the result determined under this Form D using the 2017 American Community Survey 5-Year Estimate dataset in American FactFinder at (https://factfinder.census.gov/faces/tableservices/jsf/pages/productview.xhtml?pid=ACS_17_5YR_S1702).

Census tracks used to calculate the “percentage of low-income families” in the citywide or regionwide area across multiple census tracts in the citywide or regional community served by the college savings program as set forth in this Form D, may be identified using the following sources:

Individual tract maps by county: https://www.census.gov/geo/maps-data/maps/2010ref/st06_tract.html

Census Tract Map: <https://geomap.ffiec.gov/FFIECGeocMap/GeocodeMap1.aspx>

Applicants must provide a list of all census tracts and counties used to calculate the percentage of low-income families.

Determination of Percentage of Low-Income Families

Using a table generated at https://factfinder.census.gov/faces/tableservices/jsf/pages/productview.xhtml?pid=ACS_17_5YR_S1702 for all census tracts included in the citywide or regional community served by applicant’s college savings program:

Step D1: Determine the “Estimate” corresponding to the column for “All families” - “Percent below poverty level”, for the row corresponding to “Subject” - “With related children of householder under 18 years” (see Example Table – highlighted 16.7%), for each census tract included in the citywide or regional community served by the college savings program. This is the “Census Track Percentage”.

Step D2: For each census track separately, multiply the Census Track Percentage from Step D1 by the “Estimate” corresponding to the column for “All Families” - “Total”, for the row corresponding to “Subject” - “With related children of householder under 18 years” (see Example Table – highlighted 4,485,556). The product is the “Census Track Family Number”.

Step D3: Add together the Census Tract Family Numbers from Step D2 for all census tracts. This is the "Accumulated Number".

Step D4: Add together each "Estimate" corresponding to the column "All families" – "Total", for the row corresponding to "Subject" - "With related children of householder under 18 years" (see Example Table – highlighted 4,485,556) for all census tracts. This is the "Citywide/Regional Total".

Step D5: Divide the Accumulated Number from Step D3 by the Citywide/Regional Total from Step D4. This is the "Percentage of low-income families" for the citywide or regional community served by applicant's college savings program.

Provide the "Percentage of low-income families" for applicant's college savings program here:

9.5 %.

Note: please see attached list of census tracts used to calculate this percentage of low-income families.

FORM E: How Funding From Every Kid Counts Will Be Used

Describe in detail the activities for which the applicant plans to use the EKC grant.

The EKC grant will fund incentives, outreach and research as follows:

A. Incentives

Forty nine percent of the EKC grant will be used for two types of incentives. First, K2C will offer three behavioral (earned) incentives to families of all elementary school students (kindergarten through grade 6): $20 Online-Account Registration Bonus, $10 Save Now Bonus, and $10 Save Monthly Bonus. Second, K2C will provide 600-700 kindergarten students from low-income families an equity incentive that increases the initial amount they have towards college from $50 to $250-$300, depending on the number of incoming students.

B. Outreach

Thirty seven percent of the EKC grant will be used to expand outreach through a variety of activities, including:

- Recruiting an Americorps Vista to train and coordinate K2C School Ambassadors and community volunteers;
- Contracting seven community based organizations to promote K2C in low-income communities and schools with a high percentage of low-income students and a low-K2C saver rate;
- Distributing College Kits that equip schools to promote K2C and college;
- Hosting family workshops; and
- Sending behavioral nudges via text to help families realize their desire to save.

In all cases, outreach will prioritize engagement in neighborhoods with (a) high poverty rates, and (b) schools with a higher percentage of low-income students and (c) lower family engagement with K2C.

C. Evaluation Consortium

Fourteen percent of the EKC grant will enable a half-time research coordinator to:

- Develop a research and evaluation plan and data collection system for an evaluation consortium; and
- Finalize a plan for a two year pilot of an equity incentive that increases the initial amount Kindergarteners from low-income families have for college.

 - 2) To do outreach to educate families about local college savings programs that are in operation or development.
 - 3) To support an established evaluation consortium that monitors, collects data on, and provides analysis on short-term and long-term college savings program trends and the development of best practices. Support under this paragraph may include any of the following:
