Section 2. Commemoration of Peter Gabel.

(a) A law professor, writer, and community activist, Peter Gabel devoted his life to the creation of a world based on empathy, compassion, and mutual recognition of our common humanity.

(b) Peter Gabel was a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Harvard College, a magna cum laude graduate of Harvard Law School, and the former president of New College of California, a non-traditional institution which emerged from the social idealism of the 1960s.

(c) Peter Gabel was a founder of the influential Critical Legal Studies movement, and his writings about law have contributed to the pursuit of a more humane, just, and socially connected society and have shown the ways that the principle of individual rights has both advanced and limited social movements. He co-founded and co-chaired the Project for Integrating Spirituality, Law, and Politics, a nationwide group of law teachers, lawyers, and law students who aspire to transform our adversarial, rights-based legal culture into a more inclusive, egalitarian, and community-based legal culture. In addition to authoring many articles in law reviews on the relationship between law and social change, Peter Gabel served as Editor-at-Large of the progressive Jewish magazine Tikkun, and was the author of three books: The Bank Teller and Other Essays on the Politics of Meaning; Another Way of Seeing: Essays on Transforming Law, Politics, and Culture; and The Desire for Mutual Recognition Social Movements and the Dissolution of the False Self.

(d) In the early 1970s, Peter Gabel served as the first chairperson of the City of Berkeley’s Police Review Commission, the first commission in the nation to provide for civilian review of complaints against police officers and build greater trust and understanding between communities and the police. After moving to San Francisco, he won election to the

1 Democratic County Central Committee and persuaded the Board of Supervisors to create the 2 Commission on National and Community Service, on which he served as chair.

3 (e) Peter Gabel was also a community leader in San Francisco’s Noe Valley
4 neighborhood, organizing to save the local bookstore, Cover to Cover, and to stand up for 5 workers fired for seeking to form a union at a local health food store. He was regarded by 6 many as “the Mayor of Noe Valley” and the conscience of the neighborhood. He co-founded
7 the Noe Valley Farmers Market to provide healthy food to its residents while supporting local
8 organic farmers and creating a public space that fosters community. The Noe Valley Farmers
9 Market is a rare neighborhood-run farmers market that was initially run solely by volunteers.

10 (f) The Noe Valley Farmers Market has proposed to install a commemorative 11 plaque in honor of Peter Gabel adjacent to the Noe Valley Farmers Market, and the Noe
12 Valley Farmers Market is committed to raising all funds necessary to design, fabricate, and 13 install this commemorative plaque. The Board of Supervisors supports the placement of a
14 commemorative plaque in honor of Peter Gabel at a site adjacent to the Noe Valley Farmers
15 Market.

16
17 Section 3. Designation of Portion of Sidewalk Adjoining Noe Valley Farmers Market in 18 Commemoration of Peter Gabel.

19 In accordance with Public Works Code Section 789.2(a), the Board of Supervisors, in 20 recognition of the civic contributions of Peter Gabel, hereby designates the portion of sidewalk
21 on the southerly side of 24th Street between Sanchez and Vicksburg Streets, adjoining the 22 Noe Valley Farmers Market (“Noe Valley Farmers Market Sidewalk”), as the site of a future
23 commemorative plaque in honor of Peter Gabel.
