23 Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco:

24 Section 1. FINDINGS. The Board of Supervisors hereby finds and determines the following:

25 1. Family violence can be defined as a pattern of behavior in any relationship that is used to isolate, neglect, or gain/maintain power and control over an intimate partner, child, elder,

1 and/or dependent adult. Abuse is physical, sexual, emotional, economic or psychological
2 actions or threats of action that influence another person. This includes any behaviors that 3 frighten, intimidate, terrorize, manipulate, hurt, humiliate, blame, injure or wound someone.
4

5 2. Family violence is a serious and widespread social problem in the United States. Family
6 violence in all of its iterations: child abuse, domestic violence, and elder/dependent adult
7 abuse, is a leading cause of serious injury to women. A woman is beaten every nine seconds
8 in the United States. Over 500,000 elders and adults with disabilities are victims of abuse
9 each year. Three million reports of child abuse and neglect are made each year in the United
10 States, though experts estimate that the actual number of incidents is as much as 3 times 11 greater.
12

13 3. Family violence is a serious and widespread social problem in San Francisco. Every year,
14 over 11,000 individuals receive domestic violence services from community-based 15 organizations in San Francisco. Almost half of all incidents of domestic violence against 16 women are not reported to the police. Over 4,000 reports of abuse of elders and adults with 17 disabilities are made to San Francisco Adult Protective Services each year. Over 6,000
18 children are referred one or more times to San Francisco Child Protective Services each year.
19 For every incidence of elder/dependent adult or child abuse that is reported to the authorities,
20 it is believed that four incidents are not reported.

23 4. Family violence services in our City are not adequate to serve the growing numbers of 24 victims. For example: there are only three domestic violence shelters in San Francisco
25

1 offering fewer than 100 beds. In San Francisco, 66% of battered women and children seeking
2 shelter are turned away for lack of space. There is one shelter for abused seniors in the City;
3 it has a capacity of two people at one time. Other vital services, including legal assistance,
4 counseling, transitional housing, are also not able to meet the demand. With limited funding,
5 and in spite of threatened and actual funding cutbacks, agencies have been serving more and
6 more victims of family violence, stretching public and private resources as far as possible.
7

8 5. The Board of Supervisors finds that the reduction of all types of family violence is a critical
9 societal goal. The strategy for change must be carefully planned, as an effective response
10 cannot be accomplished piecemeal.
11

12 Therefore, it is the intent of the Board of Supervisors in 2007 to create the Family Violence
13 Council to address the problems of family violence with recommendations for a strategy that 14 includes all part of the justice system. The Board of Supervisors finds and declares that the 15 Family Violence Council is a framework in which the community and justice system could 16 study the response by public and private agencies and recommend programs, policies, and 17 procedures for those agencies to more effectively respond to and prevent incidents of family
18 violence.
19

20 Section 2. Article XIX of the San Francisco Administrative Code is hereby amended by 21 amending Sections, 5.190 – 5.190-5 to read as follows:
