Dear Supervisor Matt Dorsey,

I am writing in support of the opening of Mili Wine Bar, at 280 Spear Street for the enhancement of the neighborhood and retail community of the East Cut district of San Francisco.

I believe their addition to the neighborhood block will serve as an ideal place to socialize, unwind, talk about current events, and make friends.

It will be an additional attraction for employees at businesses in the neighborhood, as well as conference attendees, and tourists looking for a wine bar and bite that represents the best that SF has to offer.

For some context, Mili aims to offer fine wines curated from all over the world.

The name "Mili" is from the Sanskrit word which means "coming together" - coming together to find friends, neighbors, or maybe lifelong companions.

With such diversity in the neighborhood, Mili will strive to bring the community together.

Mili has my full support.

Sincerely,

Andrew E. Casco f. - Shift Leader.

Dear Mr. Dorsey,

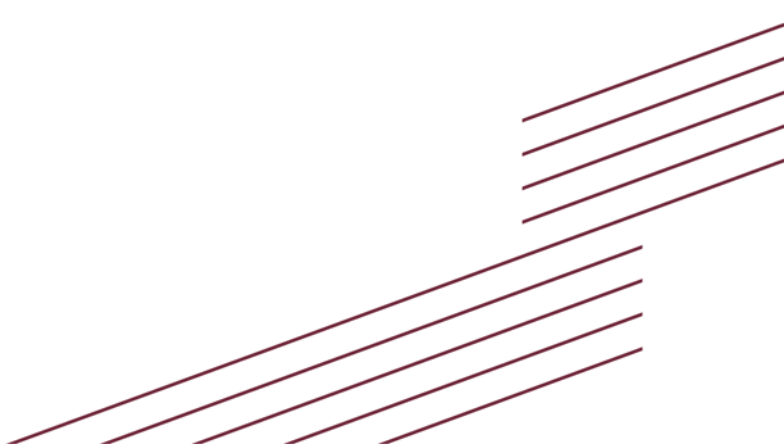

I want to voice my support for the opening of Mili Wine Bar at 110 Folsom Street in the East Cut district. This new wine bar will enhance the retail community and the East Cut residential neighborhood. Its addition will be an ideal place to socialize, unwind, and talk about current events. Mili will be another attraction for employees from nearby businesses and people visiting from out of town looking to enjoy great wine and grab a bite where they can experience the best San Francisco has to offer.

The name "Mili" is from the Sanskrit word, which means "coming together." With such diversity in the neighborhood, Mili will strive to bring it all together over fine wines – a place to find friends, neighbors, and maybe even lifelong companions.

Mili Wine Bar has my full support. Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions.

Thank you,

THE EAST CUT

July 12, 2022

Dear Supervisor Matt Dorsey,

I am writing in support of the opening of Mili Wine Bar ("Mili"), at the foot of the MIRA condominium building, at 280 Spear St.

The addition of Mili to our retail fabric will contribute to the success of the East Cut (which includes Rincon Hill and Transbay) as a truly mixed-use neighborhood.

In a neighborhood with such great diversity, where ground-floor businesses primarily focus on serving lunches to office workers, Mili will contribute to the diversification of the area's retail mix and make the East Cut a more attractive downtown neighborhood for all residents, workers, and visitors.

Mili presents a rare opportunity to enhance the vibrancy of our streets on evenings and weekends and have a place for neighbors and office workers to socialize. It will create an attraction for conference attendees and tourists looking for a wine bar that represents the best that SF has to offer.

Mili's opening will undoubtedly strengthen our local retail community with new small-business entrepreneurs, enabling more community-programming partnerships to enhance the neighborhood's social and cultural value.

For some context, Mili aims to offer fine wines curated from all over the world. The name "Mili" is from the Sanskrit word, which means "coming together" – coming together to find friends, neighbors, or maybe lifelong companions. With such diversity in the neighborhood, Mili will strive to bring it all together.

Mili has the full support of our organization. Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions.

Re: Support for Mili Wine Bar in the East Cut district of San Francisco.

Dear Mr. Dorsey,

My name is Karen MacNeil; I am the author of the best selling wine book in the U.S.: The Wine Bible.

Anirban and Shubhra Sarkar were students of mine in a course I teach for Stanford University called "Wine's Connection to Culture and Place: Stories in a Bottle." I find them both to be hard working wine professionals who have a great passion for the culture of wine.

I am therefore writing to you in support of the opening of their project-- Mili Wine Bar. A good wine bar—like a good café--serves to bring a community together and acts as a trusted local haven. In a city like San Francisco (which of course is on the doorstep of wine country), a wine bar can also attract tourists and visitors in search of a unique wine experience.

I believe that the Sarkars have the best of intentions and will strive to make Mili a great asset to the neighborhood.

Yours Truly,

Karen MacNeil
