

[Recognizing Nora Castañeda, President of the Women's Development Bank in Venezuela.]

Resolution recognizing the central role of Nora Castañeda, President of the Women's Development Bank of Venezuela (Banmujer).

WHEREAS, Nora Castañeda, an economist, is the President of the Women's Development Bank in Venezuela, committed to funding grassroots women's self-help projects as a way to tackle poverty among the poorest families and communities in Venezuela; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Castañeda has prioritized women's issues all her life dealing not only with domestic violence, but with the economy and the distribution of income from grassroots women's point of view; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Castañeda is of African and Indigenous descent like 80% of the Venezuelan population and is committed to the eradication of poverty in which 80% of the population lives; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Castañeda is working to build not only a bank, but a new way of life for women, raising the status of women everywhere; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Castañeda was central to the 1999 constitutional process that is one of the most advanced constitutions in the world, for women and Indigenous people, as well as for all working people and all those who face discrimination on grounds of sex, race, age, disability, political views or any other grounds; and

WHEREAS, Ms. Castañeda organized the daily picket of the Constituent Assembly which won Article 88 of the constitution providing that: "The State guarantees equality and equity between men and women in the exercise of their right to work. The State recognizes work at home as a productive economic activity that creates added value and produces social

1 welfare and wealth. Housewives are entitled to Social Security in accordance with the law;"
2 and

3 WHEREAS, in addition to Article 88, women are visible throughout the Constitution,
4 which has incorporated the female gender in all the text. Other articles, laws and policies favor
5 women heads of households – 70% of households – who are given priority in the distribution
6 of unused land and housing; create breast milk banks and state schools in which one million 7 of the poorest children are receiving three free meals a day in order to improve children's 8 health; guarantee bilingual education, recognizing the language and culture of Indigenous 9 communities passed on from generation to generation by women; and funds an extensive 10 self-help adult literacy program; and now therefore be it

11 RESOLVED, That the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San 12 Francisco hereby recognizes the significant contributions Ms. Nora Castañeda has made to 13 ensure that the Venezuelan economy be a caring economy, an economy at the service of 14 human beings, based on cooperation and mutual support, and be it

15 FURTHER RESOLVED, That since Ms. Castañeda's accomplishments serve as a 16 model for raising the status of women everywhere and better shaping the economy of San 17 Francisco and the world, the City and County of San Francisco declare that January 29, 2004
18 be Nora Castañeda Day in the City and County of San Francisco.
