EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Legislative Objectives

- The proposed ordinance would appropriate $12.5 million from COVID Response and Economic Loss Reserve to the General City Responsibility to fund a free Muni pilot program July 2021 – September 2021.

Key Points

- The proposed free Muni pilot program is in response to the substantial decrease in use of Muni services during the pandemic. The purpose of the proposed appropriation would be to fund a Free Muni pilot from July 2021 to September 2021, during which fares would not be collected on Muni.
- According to SFMTA staff, the Agency projects $9.3 million in fixed-route fare revenue for the first quarter of FY 2021-22 (July 2021 through September 2021), though fixed-route fare collection may be as high as $10.7 million for that period, based on the recent uptick in ridership during March 2021.

Fiscal Impact

- As noted above, the proposed ordinance would appropriate $12.5 million from COVID Response and Economic Loss Reserve to the General City Responsibility to be transferred to SFMTA to fund a Free Muni pilot.

Policy Consideration

- The COVID Response and Economic Loss Reserve has a fund balance of $505.1 million. If the proposed ordinance is approved, the reserve would have a fund balance of $492.6 million.
- A Muni fare reduction would require a budget amendment that is approved by the SFMTA Board of Directors, after which it would need to be approved by the Board of Supervisors.
- Federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) regulations require that certain paratransit services also be free during a free Muni pilot, including SF Access, Group Van, and Intercounty paratransit. Based on the SFMTA’s projected ridership of those three programs for June 2021, the estimated cost of free Paratransit during the July 2021 – September 2021 pilot period would be approximately $1.8 million This includes an assumed 50 percent increase in SF Access use, and a 25 percent mode shift from Paratransit Taxi, which would not be free during the pilot under ADA rules, to SF Access, which, as noted above, would be free under a free fare pilot.

Recommendation

- Approval of the proposed ordinance is a policy matter for the Board of Supervisors.

MANDATE STATEMENT

City Charter Section 9.105 states that amendments to the Annual Appropriations Ordinance, after the Controller certifies the availability of funds, are subject to Board of Supervisors approval by ordinance.

BACKGROUND

Use of Muni transit services has decreased substantially during the pandemic. According to an April 20, 2021 staff presentation to the Municipal Transportation Agency (SFMTA) Board of Directors, average weekday ridership declined from approximately 704,000 in February 2019 to 200,000 in March 2021, causing a corresponding decrease in fare revenue. According to SFMTA staff, the Agency projects $9.3 million in fixed-route fare revenue for the first quarter of FY 2021-22 (July 2021 through September 2021), though fixed-route fare collection may be as high as $10.7 million for that period, based on the recent uptick in ridership during March 2021.

DETAILS OF PROPOSED LEGISLATION

The proposed ordinance would appropriate $12.5 million from the COVID Response and Economic Loss Reserve to the General City Responsibility to fund a free Muni pilot program July 2021 – September 2021. According to the sponsor’s office, the purpose of the appropriation is to backfill the decrease in fare revenue during July 2021 through September 2021 resulting from a free Muni pilot program, during which fares would not be collected on Muni.

FISCAL IMPACT

As noted above, the proposed ordinance would appropriate $12.5 million from the COVID Loss and Economic Response Reserve to the General City Responsibility to fund a free Muni pilot program July 2021 – September 2021.

POLICY CONSIDERATIONThe COVID Response and Economic Loss Reserve

Section 32 of the Annual Appropriation Ordinance for FY 2020-21 and FY 2021-22 established the COVID Response and Economic Loss Reserve of $507 million, funded by the General Fund. During the current fiscal year, the Board of Supervisors approved an appropriation of $1.9 million to support food and restaurant businesses in Chinatown (File 21-0014), leaving a balance of approximately $505.1 million for this reserve. If the proposed ordinance is approved, the reserve would have a fund balance $492.6 million.

The proposed ordinance would provide for a General Fund transfer to SFMTA in excess of the amount required by the City Charter.

Implementation Considerations

Section 8A.108 of the City Charter states that any Muni fare changes require approval by the Board of Supervisors through an amendment to the SFMTA budget. To accomplish a fare change, SFMTA staff would need to submit a budget amendment for approval by the SFMTA Board of Directors, to be considered at a public hearing of that body. If the fare change is approved by the SFMTA Board of Directors, it would then be submitted to the Board of Supervisors for consideration, who, under Section 8A.106 of the City Charter may approve or disapprove of the SFMTA budget. If the Board of Supervisors takes no action, the SFMTA budget amendment is deemed approved after thirty days.

The SFMTA recently amended its budget to eliminate Muni fares for passengers traveling to get vaccinated against COVID-19 between March 16, 2021 and September 16, 2021. SFMTA communicated the associated budget amendment to the Board of Supervisors on March 17, 2021 and the budget amendment became effective thirty days later, as the Board of Supervisors took no related action.

Paratransit

According to Mr. Samuel Thomas, SFMTA Manager of Analysis and Controls, if the SFMTA implements a free Muni pilot, federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) regulations require the Agency to also make ADA paratransit van services free as well, including during a fare change pilot. If the SFMTA were not able to meet the ADA service requirements, federal funding could be put at risk and SFMTA would risk liability for not meeting ADA service requirements. The paratransit services that would also have to be free are the SF Access service, Group Van service, and Intercounty service.

Based on the SFMTA's projected ridership of those three programs for June 2021, the estimated cost of free Paratransit during the July 2021 – September 2021 pilot period would be approximately $1.8 million. This includes an assumed 50 percent increase in SF Access use, and a 25 percent mode shift from Paratransit Taxi, which would not be free during the pilot under ADA rules, to SF Access, which, as noted above, would be free under a free fare pilot.

RECOMMENDATION

Approval of the proposed ordinance is a policy matter for the Board of Supervisors.

Based on the SFMTA's projected ridership of those three programs for June 2021, the estimated cost of free Paratransit during the July 2021 – September 2021 pilot period would be $2,061,834 ($191,229 in lost fare revenue and $1,845,979 in additional van service costs). Dear Matt,

Your editorial misses the point. I already get free transit and always have with my employer. But due to the hours that I work, and the fact that the Twin Peaks tunnel is closed indefinitely makes free transit completely useless to me. I'd gladly pay $5 a ride, if I knew it was always going to show up, and be at least as fast as driving. (And I'm not going to ride a bike over Mount Sutro in the dark.)

You simply cannot torture people out of their cars. Transit has to be better, not make driving worse.

Jeff knows that I'm a huge fan of rail, having commuted with him for years to Stanford via a Caltrain, and on the Friday night party train. And he helped Stanford create a terrific network of Marguerite rapid shuttles to and from the train station, all free, but more importantly all very frequent, clean, and reliable on a consistent schedule. But ironically, all of us drove our cars to and from the 22nd Street Caltrain station, because there was no fast way to get to the station, and the Muni ride to the station took longer than getting all the way to Palo Alto, something that hasn't changed despite endless red lanes, road diets, parklets and speedbumps.

And Jeff, could you please re-open Church Street and have the J go downtown again? Enough is enough with the "slow streets." Enough with our neighbors all screaming at each other.

Dear Chair Haney and Supervisors:

Please table the proposed measures to establish a Free Muni Pilot Program. The proposed program is unlikely to generate useful information, is unlikely to fully compensate Muni, doesn't include any compensation to BART, and is likely to complicate fare compliance once the program expires.

Although touted as a way to generate data on how eliminating fares will affect ridership, the timing of the proposed program will defeat that purpose. To waive fees at the same time that the economy is opening up and people are more willing to mingle in public and when transit service is being restored means that it will be virtually impossible to evaluate to what extent increased ridership is due to waiving fares and to what extent it is due to other significant factors.

Although the proposed appropriation was increased last week, that appropriation does not compensate Muni for the likely declines in fare compliance after the program expires. It also does nothing to compensate BART for the likely shift in ridership away from BART and to lines such as the 14, 14R, and 49.

The proper time for considering waiving transit fares would be after service has been restored and the economy has fully reopened. If at that time Muni ridership still significantly lags behind pre-pandemic levels, then it might be appropriate to consider whether waiving fares might help restore ridership levels. Any such program, however, should also ensure improvement in service. Without reliable, convenient service, ridership will fall below what's necessary for San Francisco to accomplish its climate and equity goals.

Thank you.

Sincerely,
Christopher Pederson
