San Francisco, CA 94102

Dear Mayor Breed, Supervisor Peskin, Commissioner Elias, and Director Davis:

RE: Third Quarter 2023 Report per Chapter 96A, Law Enforcement Reporting Requirements and Chapter 96E, Domestic Violence Data Reporting

The reporting requirements under Chapter 96A to include reporting of officer activity (Chapter 96A.3, 96A.4), crime victim data (Chapter 96A.5), and Domestic Violence Reporting (Chapter 96E) for Quarter 3 (July, August and September) will be delayed.

Our efforts to meet the deadlines imposed under the various local statutes, including the additional reporting elements under Chapter 96E, domestic violence data, and the expanded analyses requested by stakeholders (per capita comparisons), require extensive information gathering above and beyond the original mandated data sets. Additionally, the cutover to an improved stop data collection system has imposed some technical hurdles that have taken longer than expected to overcome.

As a result of this additional workload coupled with the current shortage of professional staff resulting from the assignment of staff temporarily to support the APEC event, we anticipate this report will be completed late. We anticipate this report will be completed and available by the fourth week of December 2023.

Your patience and consideration are greatly appreciated. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact me or my staff, Director of Policy and Public Affairs, Diana Aroche at diana.aroche@sfgov.org.

Sincerely,

WILLIAM SCOTT

Together, the Commercial Parcels consist of approximately 9,512 square feet of ground floor space.

C. Mission Economic Development Agency, a California nonprofit public benefit corporation (“MEDA”), and Turk Street, Inc., a California nonprofit public benefit corporation (“TNDC” and, together with MEDA, the “Sponsors”), were selected by the City as joint venture partners to develop the Site, pursuant to a Request for Proposals issued by the City on October 13, 2016. Sponsors subsequently formed 681 Florida Housing Associates, L.P., a California limited partnership (“Residential Borrower”), to develop the Site with 130 units of affordable housing for low-income persons consisting of 44 studios, 31 one-bedroom units (including one manager’s unit), 41 two-bedroom units, and 14 three-bedroom units (the “Residential Project”). Sponsors have also formed Tenant for the purpose of developing and operating the Commercial Parcels as public benefit or community-serving space (the “Commercial Project”).

D. The City entered into that certain Amended and Restated Loan Agreement with Residential Borrower, dated as of September 25, 2020 (“MOHCD Residential Loan Agreement”), for the purpose of constructing, developing, and operating the Residential Project, as well as constructing and developing certain warm-shell improvements for the Commercial Project.

In particular, Section 14.03 of the Residential Ground Lease states that upon construction completion of the Residential Project and prior to Residential Borrower’s conversion of construction financing to permanent financing, Residential Borrower will convey the Commercial Parcels to Tenant. As part of such conveyance, City intends to enter into this Commercial Ground Lease with Tenant for the Commercial Parcels, in accordance with all applicable approvals and MOHCD's Commercial Underwriting Guidelines, and intends to amend the Residential Ground Lease to remove the Commercial Parcels from the leasehold of the Residential Ground Lease.

G. City is willing to lease the Commercial Parcels to Tenant for the purposes of Tenant owning, operating, and managing the Commercial Project for public benefit or community-serving uses during the Term and in accordance with the provisions of this Lease.

H. Concurrently with execution of this Lease, City and Tenant will execute that certain Commercial Loan Agreement dated as of [_____], 2023 (the "MOHCD Commercial Loan Agreement") and corresponding commercial loan documents to reflect Tenant's assumption of a portion of the MOHCD loan to Residential Borrower under the MOHCD Residential Loan Agreement, in an amount equal to the purchase price of the Commercial Parcels ("MOHCD Commercial Loan"). Also concurrently with execution of this Lease, City and Residential Borrower will amend the Residential Ground Lease and MOHCD Residential Loan Agreement to remove the Commercial Parcels from the leasehold of the Residential Ground Lease and to reduce the amount of the MOHCD loan by the MOHCD Commercial Loan amount.

NOW, THEREFORE, in consideration of the mutual promises and covenants, the purposes stated in the above Recitals, and other valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are hereby acknowledged, Landlord and Tenant (the "Parties") hereby agree as follows:

ARTICLE 2 RENT AND FINANCIAL ACCOUNTING

2.1 Ground Rent During Term.

(a) Payment of Ground Rent. Tenant shall pay the City per lease year (i) Base Rent, as defined in Section 2.1(b), and (ii) if applicable, Percentage Rent, as defined in Section 2.2(a), without offset of any kind and without necessity of demand, notice or invoice from the City (together, “Ground Rent”).

(b) Base Rent. “Base Rent” means, One and No/100 Dollars ($1.00) in any given Lease Year. Base Rent shall be due and payable in arrears on January 31st of each Lease Year, provided, however, that at Tenant’s election, Tenant may prepay the cumulative Base Rent for the entire Term in one lump sum in the first Lease Year.

2.2 Percentage Rent. After full repayment of the MOHCD Commercial Loan, Tenant will pay to City the Percentage Rent, if any, in addition to the Base Rent under Section 2.1.

(a) Annual Statements.

(i) On or before May 30th immediately following each anniversary of the Effective Date, Tenant will deliver a complete statement (each, an “Annual Statement”) showing the computation of the Commercial Parcels for the immediately preceding Lease Year in a form approved by City. Each Annual Statement must show in reasonable detail (i) the Commercial Income for the immediately preceding Lease Year, including an itemized list of any and all deductions or exclusions from Commercial Income that Tenant may claim and that are expressly permitted under this Commercial Ground Lease, (ii) the Commercial Expenses for the immediately preceding Lease Year, and (iii) a computation of the Percentage Rent for the immediately preceding Lease Year. Each Annual Statement must be certified as accurate, complete, and current by an independent certified public accounting firm acceptable to MOHCD or the City's Director of Property in his or her sole discretion. Tenant may coordinate with Sponsors to submit a joint annual statement that combines the Annual Statement with Sponsors' Annual Monitoring Report.

(ii) If Tenant fails to deliver any Annual Statement within the time period set forth in this subsection (regardless of whether any Percentage Rent is actually paid or due to City for the preceding Lease Year) and that failure continues for three (3) days after the date Tenant receives (or refuses receipt of) written notice of the failure from the City, the City will have the right, among its other remedies under this Commercial Ground Lease, to employ a certified public accountant to make an examination of Tenant's Books and Records (and the Books and Records of any other occupant of the Commercial Parcels) as may be necessary to certify the amount of the Commercial Income and Commercial Expenses for the period in question. The certification will be binding upon Tenant and Tenant will promptly pay to the City the total reasonable cost of the examination and the City's other reasonable costs (including attorneys' fees) in exercising its examination rights, together with the full amount of Percentage Rent due and payable for the period in question. Tenant acknowledges that the late submittal of any Annual Statement will cause the City increased costs not contemplated by this Commercial Ground Lease, the exact amount of which will be extremely difficult to ascertain. The parties agree that the charges set forth in this Section represent a fair and reasonable estimate of the cost that City will incur by reason of Tenant's lateness, but the City's acceptance of any such amount will not limit the City's rights or remedies under this Commercial Ground Lease for Tenant's failure to perform its obligations under this Section.

(i) After full repayment of the MOHCD Commercial Loan, by no later than June 30 immediately following each anniversary of the date the MOHCD Commercial Loan is fully repaid, Tenant will pay to the City, in addition to the Base Rent payable by Tenant, the Percentage Rent for the Lease Year immediately preceding such payment date. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary in the foregoing sentence, if this Commercial Ground Lease terminates before the anniversary of the Effective Date, then Tenant will pay to the City a final payment of Percentage Rent on or before the sixtieth (60th) day immediately following such termination, which payment shall be in an amount equal to forty percent (40%) of the Net Commercial Cash Flow for the period (i) between the last anniversary of the Effective Date before such termination date and (ii) the termination of this Commercial Ground Lease.

(ii) The City's acceptance of any sums paid by Tenant as Percentage Rent as shown by the applicable Annual Statement will not be an admission of the accuracy of the Annual Statement or the amount of the Percentage Rent payment. The City's receipt of a portion of Percentage Rent will be deemed strictly as rental and nothing in this Commercial Ground Lease will be construed to create the legal relation of a partnership or joint venture between the City and Tenant.

(iii) Tenant will maintain adequate accounting systems and controls reasonably satisfactory to Landlord to ensure that Commercial Income collected and all Commercial Expenses incurred are properly accounted for and recorded on a cash basis.

(iv) Any provision to the contrary notwithstanding, it will be a material breach of this Lease if, at any time, Tenant takes any action or enters into any arrangement or agreement with any subtenant of any portion of the Commercial Parcels, or Tenant's employees, creditors, officers or any other person which arrangement or agreement is intended to understate or to conceal Tenant's Percentage Rent under this Lease.

(v) Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, for purposes of calculating the Percentage Rent, Landlord and Tenant agree that Tenant shall be allowed to recoup in future years its Commercial Expenses for the Commercial Project to the extent Net Commercial Income is negative in any year. In the event Tenant's Commercial Expenses exceed Tenant's Commercial Income in any given year (a "Rental Shortfall"), the calculation of Net Commercial Income in any following year shall be reduced by any Rental Shortfall accumulated from prior years until all prior Commercial Expenses have been recovered by Tenant.

(c) Books and Records; Audit.

(i) "Books and Records" means all of Tenant's books, records, and accounting reports or statements relating to the business at or use of the Commercial Parcels, this Commercial Ground Lease, the Improvements, any alterations, and the operation and maintenance of the Commercial Parcels, including, without limitation, cash journals, rent rolls, general ledgers, income statements, bank statements, income tax schedules relating to the business in or use of the Commercial Parcels, and any other bookkeeping documents Tenant utilizes in its business operations for the Commercial Parcels. Tenant must maintain a separate set of accounts to allow a determination of all Commercial Expenses, all Commercial Income generated directly from the Commercial Parcels, and all exclusions therefrom.

(ii) Tenant agrees that the business conducted in the Commercial Parcels will be operated with a non-resettable register and so that a duplicate dated sales slip or such other recording method reasonably acceptable to the City is issued with each sale, whether for cash, credit, or exchange. Furthermore, Tenant will keep (and will cause its agents, subtenants, assignees, licensees, and concessionaires, or otherwise to keep) at the Commercial Parcels, at all times between the Effective Date and the expiration or earlier termination of this Commercial Ground Lease, complete and accurate Books and Records that contain all information required to permit the City to verify Commercial Income, deductions and exclusions therefrom, and Commercial Expenses that are in accordance with this Commercial Ground Lease and with generally accepted accounting practices consistently applied from period to period with respect to all operations of the business to be conducted in or from the Commercial Parcels. Tenant will retain (and will cause its agents, subtenants, assignees, licensees, and concessionaires, or otherwise to retain) such Books and Records for a period (the "Audit Period") that is the later of (1) four (4) years after the end of each Lease Year (or portion thereof) to which such Books and Records apply or, (2) if an audit is commenced or if a controversy arises between the parties regarding the Percentage Rent payable, until such audit or controversy is terminated.

(iii) Tenant will make its Books and Records available to the City, any City auditor, or any auditor or representative designated by the City (each referred to in this subsection as "City's Audit Representative"), on no less than fifteen (15) business days' prior written notice to Tenant, for the purpose of examining said Books and Records to determine the accuracy of Tenant's reporting of Percentage Rent for a period not to exceed the Audit Period after an Annual Statement is delivered to the City. Tenant will cooperate with the City's Audit Representative during the course of any audit, provided however, such audit will occur at Tenant's business office, or at such other location in San Francisco where the Books and Records are kept, and no books or records may be removed by City's Audit Representative without the prior express written consent of Tenant (but copies may be made by City's Audit Representative on site), and once commenced, with Tenant's cooperation, the audit will be diligently pursued to completion by the City within a reasonable time, so long as that Tenant makes available to the City's Audit Representative all the relevant Books and Records in a timely manner. If an audit is made of the Books and Records and the City claims that errors or omissions have occurred, the Books and Records will be retained by Tenant and made available to the City's Audit Representative until those matters are expeditiously resolved with Tenant's cooperation. If Tenant operates the Commercial Parcels through one or more subtenants or agents or otherwise, Tenant will require each such subtenant or agent or other party to provide the City with the copy of this audit right. Upon completion of the audit, the City will promptly deliver a copy of the audit report to Tenant.

(iv) If an audit reveals that Tenant has understated its Net Commercial Cash Flow for the applicable audit period, Tenant will pay the City, promptly upon demand, the difference between the Percentage Rent payment Tenant has paid and the Percentage Rent payment it should have paid to the City, plus, if the difference is a material amount and if required by the City, interest from the date of the error in the payment equal to ten percent (10%) per year or, if a higher rate is legally permissible, the highest rate an individual is permitted to charge under applicable law, if the City elects to charge such interest. If an audit reveals that Tenant has overstated its Net Commercial Cash Flow for the applicable audit period, Tenant shall be entitled to a credit equal to the difference between the amount Tenant has paid and the amount it should have paid to City against the next installment of Percentage Rent owed by Tenant. If Tenant understates the Net Commercial Cash Flow for any audit period by three percent (3%) or more, Tenant will pay the reasonable cost of the audit. A second understatement of three percent (3%) or more within any three (3) Lease Year period will be a material default of this Commercial Ground Lease.

(d) Tenant's Compliance with City Business and Tax and Regulations Code. Tenant acknowledges that under Section 6.10-2 of the San Francisco Business and Tax Regulations Code, the City Treasurer and Tax Collector may require the withholding of payments to any vendor that is delinquent in the payment of any amounts that the vendor is required to pay the City under the San Francisco Business and Tax Regulations Code. If, under that authority, any payment City is required to make to Tenant under this Commercial Ground Lease is withheld, then City will not be in breach or default under this Lease, and the Treasurer and Tax Collector will authorize release of any payments withheld under this paragraph to Tenant, without interest, late fees, penalties, or other charges, upon Tenant coming back into compliance with its San Francisco Business and Tax Regulations Code obligations.

2.3 Triple Net Lease. This Lease is a "triple net lease," and it means Tenant shall pay for all taxes, maintenance and other costs, charges, impositions and obligations attributed to the Commercial Parcels, Improvements located in the Commercial Parcels, and its leasehold interest under this Lease ("Carrying Costs"). If Landlord pays any Carrying Costs, whether to cure a default or otherwise protect its interests hereunder, and provided Landlord has provided Tenant with notice and an opportunity to cure, as required below in this Section 2.3, Tenant shall reimburse Landlord the Carrying Costs as Additional Ground Rent on the next Ground Rent payment date. Tenant is responsible for all of Tenant's expenses, and Landlord shall be indemnified against all liabilities and expenses arising from the development and operation of the Commercial Parcels, except those arising from Landlord's gross negligence or willful misconduct. Landlord shall not pay any Carrying Costs without providing at least fifteen (15) days prior written notice to Tenant unless for immediate safety reasons or to prevent cancellation of required insurance policies or to avoid the imposition of penalties if earlier payment is required, and in such instances Landlord shall provide written notice to Tenant as soon as possible.

ARTICLE 3 PAYMENT OF IMPOSITIONS

3.1 Taxes

(a) Tenant's Covenant to Pay Impositions. Subject to any available exemptions to Tenant, Tenant covenants and agrees to pay, before delinquency and before any fine, penalty, interest or cost may be added thereto for the nonpayment thereof, all Impositions which are or may have been or shall be assessed, levied, confirmed, imposed or become a lien upon the Commercial Parcels or any part thereof that become payable until the later of (i) the last day of the Term, or (ii) the last day Tenant has possession of the Commercial Parcels. If any applicable law, code, regulation or rule permits Tenant to pay any such Imposition in installments, Tenant may pay the same (and any accrued interest thereon) in installments prior to delinquency and before any fine, penalty, interest or cost may be added thereto for the nonpayment thereof. As used herein, “Impositions” means all taxes and all transit taxes, possessory interest taxes associated with the Commercial Parcels and assessments (including, without limitation, all assessments for public improvements or benefits, whether or not commenced or completed prior to the date hereof and whether or not to be completed within the Term of this Lease), taxes assessed by any governmental authority by virtue of any operations by Tenant conducted in on or out of the Commercial Parcels and the Improvements located thereon, fees, water, sewer or similar rents, rates and charges, excises, levies, vault license fees or rentals, license fees, permit fees, inspection fees and other authorization fees and other governmental charges of any kind or nature whatsoever, whether general or special, ordinary or extraordinary, foreseen or unforeseen, or hereinafter levied or assessed in lieu of or in substitution of any of the foregoing of every character, except as expressly stated herein to the contrary (including all interest and penalties thereon), which at any time during or in respect of the period to the later of (i) the last day of the Term, or (ii) the later of the last day Tenant (a) is in or (b) has a right to possession of the Commercial Parcels, may be assessed, levied, confirmed or imposed on or in respect of or be a lien upon the Commercial Parcels, any buildings or Improvements which are now or hereafter located thereon, any Personal Property now or hereafter located thereon, on the leasehold estates created hereby or which may be imposed upon any taxable interest of Tenant acquired pursuant to this Lease or on account of any taxable possessory right which Tenant may have acquired pursuant to this Lease, or any part thereof. Tenant must pay or reimburse Landlord, as the case may be, for any fine, penalty, interest or cost which may be added by the collecting authority for the late payment or nonpayment of any Imposition required to be paid by Tenant hereunder. All Impositions imposed for the tax years in which Tenant vacates the Commercial Parcels will be apportioned and prorated between Tenant and Landlord. Upon demand made from time to time by Landlord, Tenant will furnish to Landlord for inspection, immediately upon receipt thereof, official receipts of the appropriate taxing authority, or other proof satisfactory to Landlord evidencing the payment of such Imposition.

(b) Landlord's Right to Pay. Unless Tenant is exercising its right to contest under and in accordance with the provisions of Article 4, if Tenant fails to pay and discharge any amounts payable pursuant to this Article 3 Landlord, at its option, may (but is not obligated to) pay or discharge the same; and the amount paid by Landlord and the amount of all costs, expenses, interest and penalties connected therewith, including attorneys' fees, together with interest at an interest rate equal to the lesser of: (a) ten percent (10%); or (b) the maximum lawful rate of interest accruing from the date of such payment, shall be deemed to be and shall be payable by Tenant as Additional Ground Rent and must be reimbursed to Landlord by Tenant on demand.

3.2 Taxes, Assessments, Licenses, Permit Fees and Liens

(a) Tenant recognizes and understands that this Lease may create a possessory interest subject to property taxation and that Tenant may be subject to the payment of property taxes levied on such interest.

(b) Tenant agrees to pay taxes of any kind, including possessory interest taxes, that may be lawfully assessed on the leasehold interest hereby created and to pay all other taxes, excises, licenses, permit charges and assessments based on Tenant’s usage of the Premises that may be imposed upon Tenant by law, all of which shall be paid when the same become due and payable and before delinquency.

(c) Tenant agrees not to allow or suffer a lien for any such taxes to be imposed upon the Premises or upon any equipment or property located thereon without promptly discharging the same, provided that Tenant, if so desiring, may have reasonable opportunity to contest the validity of the same pursuant to Article 4, below.

(d) San Francisco Administrative Code Sections 23.38 and 23.39 require that the City and County of San Francisco report certain information relating to this Lease, and any renewals thereof, to the County Assessor within sixty (60) days after any such transaction, and that Tenant report certain information relating to any assignment of or sublease under this Lease to the County Assessor within sixty (60) days after such assignment or sublease transaction. Tenant agrees to provide such information as may be requested by the City to enable the City to comply with this requirement.

ARTICLE 4 CONTESTS

4.1 Contests. Tenant has the right, after not more than ninety (90) days nor less than ten (10) business days prior written notice to Landlord, to contest the amount or validity of any Imposition, Law or Ordinance, and/or lien by appropriate proceedings promptly initiated and conducted in good faith and with due diligence, at its sole cost and expense; provided, that (i) Landlord shall have determined reasonably that neither the Premises, nor any part thereof or interest therein, will be in danger of being sold, forfeited, terminated, canceled or lost, (ii) Tenant shall have furnished such security as may be required in such proceedings or as may from time to time be reasonably requested by Landlord, and (iii) Landlord shall have determined reasonably that Landlord shall not be in danger of being subjected to fines, penalties or criminal liability as a result of such contest. Tenant shall not be required to pay any Imposition or lien being so contested during the pendency of any such proceedings unless payment is required by the court, quasi-judicial body or administrative agency conducting such proceedings. Before any fine, interest, penalty or cost may be added thereto for nonpayment. Tenant must pay and discharge the amounts involved in or affected by such contest, together with any penalties, fines, interest, costs and expenses that may have accrued thereon or that may result from any such contest by Tenant. After such payment and discharge by Tenant, Landlord will promptly return to Tenant the unused portion of such security as Landlord received in connection with such contest, without interest. If Landlord is a necessary party with respect to any such contest, or if any law now or hereafter in effect requires that such proceedings be brought by and/or in the name of Landlord or any owner of the Premises, Landlord, at the request of Tenant and at Tenant's sole cost and expense and with counsel selected and engaged by Tenant, subject to Landlord's reasonable approval, shall join in or initiate, as the case may be, any such proceeding. Landlord, at its own expense and at its sole option, may elect to join in any such proceeding whether or not any law now or hereafter in effect requires that such proceedings be brought by and/or in the name of Landlord or any owner of the Premises. Neither Landlord nor the Premises may be subjected to any liability for the payment of any fines, penalties, costs, fees, including attorneys' fees, or expenses in connection with any such proceeding, and Tenant covenants to indemnify, defend and hold harmless Landlord and the Premises from any such fines, penalties, costs, fees or expenses.

4.2 Contesting Impositions. At its own cost and after notice to Tenant of its intention to do so, by appropriate proceedings conducted in good faith and with due diligence, Landlord may but in no event shall be obligated to contest the validity, applicability and/or the amount of any Impositions. Landlord in so contesting any Imposition, shall hold all other parties harmless from and against any loss, cost or damage they suffer by reason of such contest. Nothing in this Section requires Landlord to pay any Impositions as long as it contests the validity, applicability or the amount thereof in good faith and so long as it does not allow the portion of the Premises affected thereby to be forfeited to the imposer of such Impositions as a result of its nonpayment.

Landlord must give notice to all other parties within a reasonable period of time of the commencement of any such contest and of the final determination of such contest.

Such services and utilities shall include, without limitation, the water supply system, drainage, sewer system, wires leading to or inside the Premises, gas, electric or telephone services.

If it appears that the provisions of this Section 10.3 may apply to a particular event of damage or destruction, Tenant shall notify the Landlord promptly and not consent to any settlement or adjustment of an insurance award without the Landlord's written approval, which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld or delayed. In the event that Tenant terminates this Commercial Ground Lease pursuant to this Section 10.3, all insurance proceeds and damages payable by reason of the casualty shall be divided among Landlord, Tenant and Lenders in accordance with the provisions of Section 10.4. If Tenant does not terminate this Commercial Ground Lease within such thirty (30) day notice period, this Commercial Ground Lease shall continue in full force and effect.

11.4 Effect on Rent. If any portion of the Improvements is taken by Condemnation and this Lease remains in full force and effect, then on the date of taking the rent shall be reduced by an amount that is in the same ratio to the rent as the value of the area of the portion of the Improvements taken bears to the total value of the Improvements immediately before the date of the taking.

Nothing herein shall imply any duty upon the part of Landlord to do any such work which under any provision of this Lease Tenant may be required to perform, nor to place upon Landlord any obligation, or liability whatsoever, for the care, supervision or repair of the Premises. During the progress of any work on the Premises, Landlord may keep and store therein all necessary materials, tools and equipment required for such work, which must be stored therein. Landlord shall not in any event be liable for inconvenience, loss of business or other damage to Tenant by reason of the performance of any such work on the Premises, or on account of bringing materials, supplies and equipment into or through the Premises during the course thereof.

13.2 Assignment Subject to Assumption of Performance Obligation. No assignment of any interest in this Lease made with Landlord's consent, or as herein otherwise permitted, will be effective until there has been delivered to Landlord, within thirty (30) days after Tenant entered into such assignment, an executed counterpart of such assignment containing an agreement, in recordable form, executed by the assignor and the proposed assignee, wherein and whereby such assignee assumes performance of the obligations on the assignor's part to be performed under this Lease to the end of the Term.

(i) any proposed transferee, by instrument in writing, for itself and its successors and assigns, and expressly for the benefit of Landlord, must expressly assume all of the obligations of Tenant under this Lease and agree to be subject to all of the conditions and restrictions to which Tenant is subject; provided, however, that the fact that any transferee of this Lease, or any other successor in interest whatsoever to this Lease, whatsoever the reason, does not assume such obligations will not relieve or except such transferee or successor of or from such obligations, conditions, or restrictions, or deprive or limit Landlord of or with respect to any rights or remedies or controls with respect to this Lease, the Premises or the construction of the Improvements unless and only to the extent otherwise specifically provided in this Lease or agreed to in writing by Landlord. It is the intent of this Lease, to the fullest extent permitted by law and equity and excepting only in the manner and to the extent specifically provided otherwise in this Lease, that no transfer of this Lease, or any interest therein, however consummated or occurring, and whether voluntary or involuntary, may operate, legally or practically, to deprive or limit Landlord of or with respect to any rights or remedies or controls provided in or resulting from this Lease with respect to the Premises that Landlord would have had, had there been no such transfer or change;

(ii) all instruments and other legal documents involved in effecting transfer shall have been submitted to Landlord for review, and Landlord shall have approved such documents which approval shall not be unreasonably withheld or delayed; and Tenant shall have complied with the provisions of this Article 13.

13.6 Reserved.

13.7 Landlord's Sale or Assignment. Landlord has the right to sell and/or assign all or any portion of its interest in all or any portion of the Premises and/or this Lease, without the prior written consent of Tenant, provided, however, that no such transfer of the Premises may be effective until there is delivered to Tenant an agreement of the transferee reasonably satisfactory to Tenant expressly assuming all of Landlord's obligations hereunder with respect to those portions of the Premises so transferred, which obligations arise from and after the date of transfer. Upon delivery of such agreement, Landlord will be relieved of all obligations hereunder arising from and after the date of such transfer with respect to those portions of the Premises so transferred.

ARTICLE 14 INDEMNIFICATION OF LANDLORD

Tenant will protect, indemnify, defend, and hold Landlord and its officers, directors, employees, agents, successors, assigns and Supervisors (each, an “Indemnified Party”) harmless from and against any and all loss, liabilities, obligations, claims, damages, penalties, causes of action, costs and expenses (including, without limitation, reasonable attorney fees and all costs, disbursements and expenses of legal counsel) imposed upon or incurred by or asserted against any such Indemnified Party or the Premises by reason of the occurrence or existence of any of the following (except to the extent such losses, liabilities, obligations, claims, damages, penalties, causes of action, costs and expenses arise from the gross negligence or willful misconduct of the Indemnified Party): (a) any accident, injury to or death of persons (including workers) or loss of or damage to property occurring in the Premises or any part thereof; (b) any use, possession, occupation, operation, maintenance, management or condition of the Premises or any part thereof; (c) any failure on the part of Tenant to perform or comply with any of the terms of this Lease; (d) performance of any labor or services or the furnishing of any materials or other property in respect of the Premises or any part thereof; (e) any negligence on the part of Tenant or any of its agents, contractors, servants, employees, sublessees, licensees or invitees; (f) the death of or any accident, occurrence, injury, loss or damage whatsoever caused to any natural person or to the property of any persons as shall occur in or on the Premises during the Term hereof; or (g) any Hazardous Material Claims. Upon the occurrence of an Event of Default, Tenant shall have no right to sublet or assign its interest in the Premises and/or this Lease without Landlord's written consent, which may be given or withheld in Landlord's sole and unfettered discretion.

No failure by Landlord or Tenant to insist upon the strict performance of any term hereof or to exercise any right, power or remedy consequent upon a breach thereof, and no submission by Tenant or acceptance by Landlord of full or partial Ground Rent during the continuance of any such breach shall constitute a waiver of any such breach or of any such term. No waiver of any breach shall affect or alter this Lease, which shall continue in full force and effect, or the respective rights of Landlord or Tenant with respect to any other then existing or subsequent breach.

ARTICLE 22 DEFAULT BY LANDLORD; TENANT'S REMEDIES

ARTICLE 25 END OF LEASE TERM

Upon the expiration or other termination of the Term, Tenant shall quit and surrender to Landlord the Premises in good order, condition and repair, reasonable wear and tear excepted to the extent the same is consistent with maintenance of the Premises in good order, condition and repair. Tenant hereby agrees to execute all documents as Landlord may deem necessary to evidence such termination of this Lease. Landlord may recover from Tenant, but not from any officer, member, director, employee, representative or attorney, past, present or future of Tenant, and/or any Mortgagee that has acquired Tenant's interest in this Lease and/or the Premises at a foreclosure sale or by deed in lieu of foreclosure of the Mortgage held by such Mortgagee and/or any successor to Tenant and any such Mortgagee, only those damages that arise out of or in connection with (i) any Impositions not paid by Tenant; (ii) the amount of any insurance premiums paid for by Landlord pursuant to this Lease; (iii) the application of any insurance or Condemnation proceeds in a manner inconsistent with or contrary to the provisions of this Lease, except as applied as required by any Mortgage; (iv) the cost of razing any Improvements Tenant fails to raze in accordance with the terms of this Lease; (v) any damages suffered by Landlord as the result of the breach by Tenant of the covenants contained in this Lease, whether or not any action or proceeding is commenced, including, without limitation, reasonable attorney fees and all costs, disbursements and expenses of Landlord's outside counsel, expert witness fees, transcript preparation fees and costs and document copying, exhibit preparation, courier, postage, and facsimile expenses; (vi) any expenses in enforcing the limited recourse provisions of this Article 31, whether or not any action or proceeding is commenced, including, without limitation, reasonable attorney fees and all costs, disbursements and expenses of Landlord's outside counsel, expert witness fees, transcript preparation fees and costs and document copying, exhibit preparation, courier, postage, and facsimile expenses; (vii) the portion of any amounts paid to Tenant for the period ending on the date of termination of this Lease which Tenant is required to pay Landlord as Ground Rent under this Lease; and (viii) waste committed or permitted by Tenant.

32.1 No Recourse to Other Persons.

Tenant agrees that it will have no recourse with respect to any obligation of Landlord under this Lease, or for any claim based upon this Lease or otherwise, against any officer, director, employee, Supervisors, representative or attorney, past, present or future, of Landlord, or against any person other than Landlord, or against Landlord except to the extent of the value of Landlord's interest in the Premises, whether by virtue of any constitution, statute, rule of law, rule of equity, enforcement of any assessment as penalty, or by reason of any matter prior to the execution and delivery of this Lease, or otherwise. By Tenant's execution and delivery hereof and as part of the consideration for Landlord's obligations hereunder all such liability is expressly waived.

32.2 Limitation on Landlord's Liability.

In the event of any transfer of Landlord's interest in and to the Premises, Landlord, subject to the provisions hereof, (and in case of any subsequent transfers, the then transferor) will automatically be relieved from and after the date of such transfer of all liability with regard to the performance of any covenants or obligations on the part of Landlord (or such transferor, as the case may be) contained in this Lease thereafter to be performed, but not from liability incurred by Landlord (or such transferor, as the case may be) on account of covenants or obligations to be performed by Landlord (or such transferor, as the case may be) hereunder prior to the date of such transfer; provided, however, that (a) any funds in Landlord's possession (or in the possession of the then transferor at the time of such transfer) in which Tenant has an interest must be turned over to the transferee, in trust, for application pursuant to the provisions hereof and such transferee shall assume all liability for all such funds so received by such transferee from Landlord and (b) any amount then due and payable to Tenant by Landlord or the then transferor under any provisions of this Lease must be paid to Tenant.

Landlord hereby agrees to subordinate its lien in all Personal Property to any purchase money lien in any Personal Property (such subordination shall be self-operative; however, in confirmation thereof, upon the request of each such lienor in Tenant's Personal Property, Landlord shall execute a subordination agreement in form and substance reasonably satisfactory to such lienor and to Landlord). if any of such Personal Property is leased from third parties, Tenant agrees to collaterally assign its leasehold interest to Landlord upon terms and conditions and pursuant to an assignment acceptable in form and substance to Landlord to secure the performance by Tenant of all of its obligations under this Lease. Tenant shall execute from time to time such additional documents as may be necessary to effectuate and evidence such assignments if requested to do so by Landlord. Upon the occurrence of an Event of Default on the part of Tenant, Landlord shall have the immediate right of possession of all of the Personal Property and the right to assume the leasehold interest of Tenant in such Personal Property, subject to the interest of the lien of any Mortgagee.

ARTICLE 34 NO JOINT VENTURE

Nothing contained in this Lease shall be deemed or construed as creating a partnership or joint venture between Landlord and Tenant or between Landlord and any other party, or cause Tenant to be responsible in any way for the debts or obligations of Landlord, except as otherwise provided to the contrary herein, or cause Landlord to be responsible in any way for the debts or obligations of Tenant or any other party.

35.1 No Mortgage Except as Set Forth Herein. Except as permitted in this Article 35 or as consented to by Landlord, Tenant shall not:

(a) No Mortgages, Except as Permitted. Engage in any financing or other transaction creating any mortgage or deed of trust upon the Premises or upon Tenant's leasehold estate therein; or

(b) No Liens/Encumbrances Except as Permitted. Place or suffer to be placed upon the Premises or Tenant's leasehold estate therein any lien or other encumbrances (other than as permitted by this Lease). Any such mortgage, encumbrance or lien not permitted by this Article 35 shall be deemed to be a violation of this covenant on the date of its execution or filing of record regardless of whether or when it is foreclosed or otherwise enforced.

35.2 Leasehold Liens.

(a) Tenant Remains Liable to pay Ground Rent. At any time and from time to time during the Term, Tenant may assign or encumber the estate created by this Lease by way of leasehold mortgages or other security instruments of any kind to the extent permitted hereby; provided, however, that notwithstanding any foreclosure thereof, Tenant shall remain liable for the payment of Ground Rent and other sums payable hereunder to the extent provided in this Lease.

(b) No Greater Rights to Mortgagees, Except as Granted. With the exception of the rights expressly granted to Mortgagees in this Lease, the execution and delivery of a Mortgage shall not give or be deemed to give a Mortgagee any greater rights than those granted to Tenant hereunder.

(c) Rights Apply to no More Than two Mortgagees. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary set forth herein, any rights given hereunder to Mortgagees shall not apply to more than two (2) Mortgagees at any one time. Once a Mortgagee is designated by Tenant, Tenant shall not designate different or additional Mortgagees without the written consent of the Mortgagees first designated. In the event that at any time there are more than two (2) Mortgagees, Tenant shall notify Landlord in writing of the Mortgagee to which such rights should apply.

35.3 Notice of Liens. Tenant shall notify Landlord promptly upon becoming aware of any lien or encumbrance of which Tenant has knowledge and which has been recorded against or attached to the Premises or Tenant's leasehold estate hereunder after the date of this Lease whether by act of Tenant or otherwise, other than Mortgages expressly permitted hereunder or consented to by Landlord.

35.4 Purpose of Mortgage.

(a) During Term. During the Term, a Mortgage can be made for any purpose.

(b) Landlord Statement Permitting Security Instruments. Landlord agrees within thirty (30) days after request by Tenant to give to any holder or proposed holder of a mortgage, deed of trust, sale and leaseback or other form of conveyance a statement in recordable form as to whether such mortgage, deed of trust, sale and leaseback or other form of conveyance is permitted hereunder to secure all of the advances and indebtedness stated by the terms of the applicable financing documents. Except as set forth in such statement, such a statement shall estop Landlord from asserting that such mortgage, deed of trust, sale and leaseback or other form of conveyance is not permitted hereunder, but shall create no liability on Landlord, and, if the same states that such conveyance is not permitted, shall set forth the reasons therefor in reasonable detail. In making a request for such statement, Tenant shall furnish Landlord copies of such financing documents as are required to permit Landlord to make the determination whether such conveyance is permitted hereby. In no event, however, shall any failure by Tenant or other party to comply with the terms of any Mortgage, including without limitation the use of any proceeds of any debt, the repayment of which secured by a Mortgage, be deemed to invalidate the lien of a Mortgage.

(c) Mortgagee Not Obligated to Construct. A Mortgagee, including the successors, assigns or designees of the Holder, is not obligated to complete any construction of the Improvements or to guarantee such completion; and no covenant or any other provision of this Lease may be construed to obligate the Mortgagee or its successors, assigns or designees. However, if a Mortgagee undertakes to complete or guarantee the completion of the construction of the Improvements, nothing in this Lease will be deemed or construed to permit or authorize a Mortgagee or its successors, assigns or designees to devote the Commercial Parcels or any portion thereof to any uses, or to construct any Improvements on the Commercial Parcels, other than those uses or Improvements authorized under Section 15.1 and any reasonable modifications in plans proposed by a Mortgagee or its successors in interest proposed for the viability of the Commercial Project approved by the City in its reasonable discretion. To the extent any Mortgagee or its successors in interest wish to change such uses or construct different improvements, Mortgagee or its successors in interest must obtain the advance written consent of the City.

(d) Failure of Mortgage to Complete Construction. In any case where six (6) months after assumption of obligations under Section 35.4(c) above, a Mortgagee, having first exercised its option to complete the construction, has not proceeded diligently with completion of the construction, the City will have all the rights against the Mortgagee it would otherwise have against Tenant under this Lease for events or failures occurring after

35.5 Interest Covered by Mortgage.

A Mortgage recorded for the Commercial Parcels shall cover no interest in any real property other than (a) Tenant's leasehold interest in the Commercial Parcels and fee interest in the Improvements thereon or some portion thereof, (b) any subleases thereon, if applicable, (c) any Personal Property of Tenant, (d) Tenant's interest, and (e) real property interests of Tenant directly related to Tenant's interest in or use of the foregoing interests described in clauses (a)-(d), unless expressly approved by Landlord.

35.6 Institutional Lender; Other Permitted Mortgagees. A Mortgage may be given only to a lender which shall have been approved in writing by Landlord.

35.7 Rights Subject to Lease.

(a) Rights Acquired by a Mortgagee. All rights acquired by a Mortgagee under any Mortgage shall be subject to each and all of the covenants, conditions and restrictions set forth in this Lease, and to all rights of Landlord hereunder, none of which covenants, conditions and restrictions is or shall be waived by Landlord by reason of the giving of such Mortgage.

(b) Mortgagee's Rights to Prevent Termination. Subject to the terms and conditions of Section 35.10 below, each Mortgagee has the right, but not the obligation, at any time before termination of this Lease and without payment of any penalty other than the interest on unpaid rent, to pay all of the rents due under this Lease, to effect any insurance, to pay any taxes and assessments, to make any repairs and improvements, to do any other act or thing required of Tenant or necessary and proper to be done in the performance and observance of the agreements, covenants, and conditions of this Lease to prevent a termination of this Lease to the same effect as if the same had been made, done, and performed by Tenant instead of by Mortgagee.

35.8 Required Provisions of any Mortgage. Except for the First Mortgage Lender, Tenant agrees to have any Mortgage provide the following:

(a) That the Mortgagee shall by registered or certified mail give written notice to Landlord of the occurrence of any event of default under the Mortgage;

(b) That Landlord shall be given notice at the time any Mortgagee initiates any foreclosure action. It shall not be deemed a breach of this Lease if Landlord acknowledges compliance with this Section 35.8 in a separate agreement entered into with a Mortgagee.

(c) In the event of a default or breach by Tenant under any Mortgage, and Tenant's failure to timely commence or diligently prosecute cure of such default or breach, Landlord may, at its option, cure such breach or default during the one hundred ten (110) days after the date that the Mortgagee files a notice of default. In such event, Landlord will be entitled to reimbursement from Tenant of all costs and expenses reasonably incurred by the City in curing the default or breach. Landlord will also be entitled to a lien upon the leasehold estate or any portion thereof to the extent such costs and disbursements are not reimbursed by Tenant. Any such lien will be subject to the lien of any then-existing Mortgage authorized by this Lease, including any lien contemplated because of advances yet to be made. After ninety (90) days following the date of Mortgage filing a notice of default and expiration of all applicable cure periods of Tenant under the terms of the applicable Mortgage, the City will also have the right to assign Tenant's interest in the Lease to another entity, subject to all Mortgagees' (if any) written consent, and which consent may be conditioned, among other things, upon the assumption by such other entity of all obligations of Tenant under the Mortgage and the assignee meeting all reasonable underwriting standards of the Mortgage.

35.9 Notices to Mortgagee.

(a) Landlord's Notice to Mortgagee about Tenant's Default. If Tenant shall have granted any Mortgage and if the Mortgagee thereunder shall have given to Landlord written notice substantially in the form provided in Subsection (b), Landlord shall give to Mortgagee a copy of any and all notices of default or of the occurrence of an Event of Default from time to time given to Tenant by Landlord at the same time as and whenever any such notice shall be given by Landlord to Tenant, addressed to such Mortgagee at the address last furnished to Landlord. Landlord shall acknowledge in writing its receipt of the name and address of a Mortgagee so delivered to Landlord. No such notice by Landlord shall be deemed to have been given to Tenant unless and until a copy thereof shall have been so given to Mortgagee. Any such notices to Mortgagee shall be given in the same manner as provided in Section 28.2.

(b) Mortgagee's Notice Requesting Landlord to Notify Mortgagee. The Mortgagee under any Mortgage shall be entitled to receive notices from time to time given to Tenant by Landlord under this Lease in accordance with Subsection (a) above provided such Mortgagee shall have delivered a notice to Landlord in substantially the following form:

The undersigned does hereby certify that it is a Mortgagee, as such term is defined in that certain Lease entered into by and between the City and County of San Francisco, as Landlord, and 681 Florida Street Commercial LLC, as Tenant ("Lease"), of Tenant's interest in this Lease demising the Commercial Parcels. The undersigned hereby requests that copies of any and all notices from time to time given under this Lease to Tenant by Landlord be sent to the undersigned at the following address:

35.10 Mortgagee's Right to Cure. If Tenant, or Tenant's successors or assigns, shall mortgage this Lease in compliance with the provisions of this Section 35, then, so long as any such Mortgage shall remain unsatisfied of record, the following provisions shall apply, and Landlord may not terminate this Lease or enforce any of its remedies hereunder so long as any Mortgagee has a right to cure the applicable default of Tenant:

(a) Periods for Mortgagee to Cure Tenant's Default. In the case of any notice of default given by Landlord to Tenant and Mortgagee in accordance with this Lease, the Mortgagee shall have the same concurrent cure periods as are given Tenant under this Lease for remedying a default or causing it to be remedied, plus, in each case, an additional period of (30) days after the later to occur of (i) the expiration of such cure period provided Landlord has delivered timely notice to the Mortgagee in accordance with this Lease, or (ii) the date that Landlord has served a notice of default upon Mortgagee provided Mortgagee shall have the entirety of the applicable initial cure period available to it in addition to the stated thirty (30) day period, and Landlord shall accept such performance by or at the instance of the Mortgagee as if the same had been made by Tenant; provided, however, if such default cannot reasonably be cured or remedied within such additional thirty (30) period, such cure period shall be extended (and no Event of Default shall be deemed to have occurred under this Lease) in Landlord's reasonable discretion so long as the Mortgagee commences the cure or remedy within such period, and prosecutes the completion thereof with diligence and dispatch, subject to Force Majeure and delays caused by bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings.

(b) Instances When Landlord Would Forebear From Taking Action on Tenant's Default. Anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding, upon the occurrence of an Event of Default, other than an Event of Default due to a default in the payment of money or other default reasonably susceptible of being cured prior to Mortgagee obtaining possession (each of which shall be subject to the cure provision set forth in Section 35.10(a) above), Landlord shall take no action to effect a termination of this Lease if, prior to the expiration of the cure provision set forth in Section 35.10(a), including any extension granted by Landlord, a Mortgagee shall have (x) obtained possession of the Premises (including possession by a receiver), or (y) commenced foreclosure proceedings or otherwise acquire Tenant's interest under this Lease, and thereafter promptly prosecutes and completes such proceedings with diligence and dispatch (subject to Force Majeure and delays caused by bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings). A Mortgagee, upon acquiring Tenant's interest under this Lease, shall be required promptly to cure all other defaults for which the Mortgagee has received notice pursuant to Section 35.10 then reasonably susceptible of being cured by such Mortgagee. The foregoing provisions of this Subsection (b) are subject to the following: (i) no Mortgagee shall be obligated to continue possession or to continue foreclosure proceedings after the defaults or Events of Default hereunder referred to shall have been cured; (ii) nothing herein contained shall preclude Landlord, subject to the provisions of this Section, from exercising any rights or remedies under this Lease (other than a termination of this Lease to the extent otherwise permitted hereunder) with respect to any other Event of Default by Tenant during the pendency of such foreclosure proceedings; and (iii) such Mortgagee shall agree with Landlord in writing to comply during the period Landlord forebears from terminating this Lease with such of the terms, conditions and covenants of this Lease as are reasonably susceptible of being complied with by such Mortgagee prior to obtaining possession of the Premises. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary, including an agreement by Mortgagee given under clause (iii) of the preceding sentence, Mortgagee shall have the right at any time to notify Landlord that it has relinquished possession of the Premises or that it will not institute foreclosure proceedings or, if such foreclosure proceedings have commenced, that it has discontinued them, and, in such event, the Mortgagee shall have no further liability under such agreement from and after the date it delivers such notice to Landlord, and, thereupon, Landlord shall be entitled to seek the termination of this Lease as otherwise herein provided. Upon any such termination, the provisions of Section 35.10(d) shall apply. Notwithstanding anything to the contrary contained herein, in no event shall the First Mortgage Lender be required, as a condition to preventing the termination of this Lease, or obtaining a new ground lease hereunder, to (A) cure any default by Tenant under Section 35.8(c) of this Lease, or (B) the cure any default by Tenant in the payment of any amounts payable by Tenant under any indemnification provisions of this Lease, and upon completion of a foreclosure (or deed in lieu thereof), all such defaults shall automatically be deemed cured and waived.

(c) Court Action Preventing Foreclosure. If a Mortgagee is prohibited by any process or injunction issued by any court or because of any action by any court having jurisdiction of any bankruptcy or insolvency proceeding involving Tenant from commencing or prosecuting foreclosure or other appropriate proceedings in the nature of foreclosure, the times specified in Sections 35.10(a) and 35.10(b) above for commencing or prosecuting such foreclosure or other proceedings will be extended for the period of such prohibition. If this Lease is terminated or rejected by Tenant in bankruptcy, then Landlord agrees to enter into a new ground lease with the Lender (or its designee) as set forth in Section 35.10(d) below.

(d) Landlord's Notice to Mortgagee Upon Lease Termination and Mortgagee's Option. In the event of the termination of this Lease prior to the expiration of the Term, except (i) by eminent domain, or (ii) as the result of damage or destruction as provided in Article 10, Landlord shall serve upon the Mortgagee written notice that this Lease has been terminated, together with a statement of any and all sums which would at that time be due under this Lease but for such termination, and of all other defaults, if any, under this Lease then known to Landlord. The Mortgagee shall thereupon have the option to obtain a new Lease in accordance with land upon the following terms and conditions:

(i) Upon the written request of the Mortgagee, within thirty (30) days after service of such notice that this Lease has been terminated, Landlord shall enter into a new lease of the Premises with the most senior Mortgagee giving notice within such period;

(ii) If there is more than one Mortgagee, Landlord will offer the new lease to each Mortgagee in the order of priority until accepted; and

(iii) Such new Lease shall be entered into at the reasonable cost of the Mortgagee thereunder, shall be effective as of the date of termination of this Lease, and shall be for the remainder of the Term and at the Ground Rent and upon all the agreements, terms, covenants and conditions hereof, including any applicable rights of renewal or extension. Such new Lease shall require the Mortgagee to perform any unfulfilled obligation of Tenant under this Lease which is reasonably susceptible of being performed by such Mortgagee other than obligations of Tenant with respect to construction of the Improvements, which obligations shall be performed by Mortgagee in accordance with this Lease. Upon the execution of such new Lease, the Mortgagee shall pay any and all sums which would at the time of the execution thereof be due under this Lease but for such termination, and shall pay all expenses, including reasonable counsel fees, court costs and disbursements incurred by Landlord in connection with such defaults and termination, the recovery of possession of the Premises, and the preparation, execution and delivery of such new Lease. Upon the execution of such new Lease, Landlord shall allow the Mortgagee, and such Mortgagee shall be entitled to, an adjustment in Ground Rent in an amount equal to the net income derived by Landlord from the Premises during the period from the date of termination of this Lease to the date of execution of such new Lease.

(e) Exercise of Mortgagee's Rights. Any rights of a Mortgagee under this Section, as amended hereby, may be exercised by or through its nominee or designee other than Tenant; provided, however, that no Mortgagee shall acquire title to this Lease through a nominee or designee which is not a person otherwise permitted to become Tenant hereunder; provided, further that a Mortgagee may acquire title to this Lease through a wholly owned (directly or indirectly) subsidiary of Mortgagee.

(f) Automatic Transfer of Tenant's Rights Under Subleases. If applicable, effective upon the commencement of the term of any new Lease executed pursuant to Section 35.10(d), all subleases then in effect shall be assigned and transferred without recourse by Landlord to Mortgagee and all monies on deposit with Landlord which Tenant would have been entitled to use but for the termination or expiration of this Lease may be used by Mortgagee for the purposes of and in accordance with the provisions of such new lease. Between the date of termination of this Lease and the later of (1) the expiration of the election period for Mortgagee to elect to execute a new Lease or (2) if so elected by the Mortgagee, the commencement of the term of the new lease, Landlord shall not (i) enter into any new subleases, management agreements or agreements for the maintenance of the Premises or the supplies therefor which would be binding upon Mortgagee if Mortgagee enters into a new lease, (ii) cancel or materially modify any of the existing subleases, management agreements or agreements for the maintenance of the Premises or the supplies therefor, or (iii) accept any cancellation, termination or surrender thereof without the written consent of Mortgagee, which consent shall not be unreasonably withheld or delayed. Effective upon the commencement of the term of the new lease, Landlord shall also transfer to Mortgagee, its designee or nominee (other than Tenant), without recourse, all Personal Property.

(g) Benefits Inure to Mortgagee Holder. Anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding, the provisions of this Section shall inure only to the benefit of the holders of the Mortgages which are permitted hereunder.

(h) Mortgagee's Written Consent Required for Material Revisions to this Lease. No agreement between Landlord and Tenant materially amending, terminating or surrendering this Lease, or election by Tenant not to continue this Lease as provided for herein, shall be valid or effective without Mortgagee's written consent.

(i) No Merger of Landlord and Tenant's Interests in this Lease Without Mortgagee's Consent. No union of the interests of Landlord and Tenant herein shall result in a merger of this Lease in the fee interest, so long as any Mortgage shall be unsatisfied, without Mortgagee's written consent.

(j) Mortgagee not Liable without Ownership of Leasehold Interest. Anything herein contained to the contrary notwithstanding, no Mortgagee, or its designee or nominee, shall become liable under the provisions of this Lease unless and until such time as it becomes, and then only for so long as it remains, the owner of this leasehold estate created hereby.

(k) Instances of When Mortgagee is Not Obligated to Cure an Event of Default. Except as provided herein, a Mortgagee, and its designee or nominee (other than Tenant), shall have no obligation to cure any Event of Default by Tenant under this Lease.

35.11 Assignment by Mortgagee. If a Mortgagee or a purchaser at a foreclosure sale shall acquire Tenant's interest in this Lease as a result of a sale under said Mortgage pursuant to a power of sale contained therein, pursuant to a judgment of foreclosure, through any transfer in lieu of foreclosure, or through settlement of or arising out of any pending or contemplated foreclosure, bankruptcy or insolvency action, or in the event a Mortgagee becomes Tenant under this Lease or any new Lease obtained pursuant to the terms hereof, such Mortgagee's or purchaser's right thereafter to assign or transfer this Lease or such new Lease shall be subject to the restrictions of Article 15. In the event Mortgagee subsequently assigns or transfers its interest under this Lease after acquiring the same by foreclosure or deed in lieu of foreclosure or subsequently assigns or transfers its interest under any new lease obtained pursuant to the terms thereof, and in connection with any such assignment or transfer, Mortgagee takes back a mortgage or deed of trust encumbering such leasehold interest to secure a portion of the purchase price given to Mortgagee for such assignment of transfer, then such mortgage or deed of trust shall be considered a Mortgage, and Mortgagee shall be entitled to receive the benefit and enforce the provisions of this Article and any other provisions of this Lease intended for the benefit of the holder of a Mortgage.

35.12 Preservation of Leasehold Benefits. Until such time as a Mortgagee notifies Landlord in writing that the obligations of Tenant under its Mortgage have been satisfied, the City agrees:

(i) That subject to Section 17.1 the City shall not voluntarily cancel or surrender this Lease, or accept a voluntary cancellation or surrender of this Lease by Tenant, or amend this Lease to materially increase the obligations of Tenant or the rights of Landlord under this Lease, without the prior written consent of the Mortgagee (which may not be unreasonably withheld or delayed);

(ii) That Landlord shall not enforce against a Mortgagee any waiver or election made by Tenant under this Lease that has a material adverse effect on the value of the leasehold estate without the prior written consent of the Mortgagee (which will not be unreasonably withheld or delayed); and

(iii) That Landlord shall provide reasonable prior notice to each Mortgagee of any proceedings for adjustment or adjudication of any insurance or condemnation claim involving the Premises and will permit each Mortgagee to participate in the proceedings as an interested party.

ARTICLE 36 CITY REQUIREMENTS

36.1 Nondiscrimination.

(a) Tenant's Covenant not to Discriminate. In the performance of this Lease, Tenant agrees not to discriminate against any employee, any City employee working with Tenant, or applicant for employment with Tenant, or against any person seeking accommodations, advantages, facilities, privileges, services, or membership in all business, social, or other establishments or organizations, on the basis of the fact or perception of a person's race, color, creed, religion, national origin, ancestry, age, height, weight, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, domestic partner status, marital status, disability or Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome or HIV status (AIDS/HIV status), or association with members of such protected classes, or in retaliation for opposition to discrimination against such classes. .

(b) Others Bound by the Nondiscrimination Provisions. Any transferee, successor, assign, or holder of any interest in this Lease or the Premises, or any occupant or user thereof, whether by contract, lease, rental, sublease, license, deed or mortgage or otherwise, and whether or not any written instrument or oral agreement contains the foregoing prohibitions against discrimination, will be bound hereby and shall not violate in whole or part, directly or indirectly, these nondiscrimination requirements. In addition, Tenant shall incorporate by reference in all subleases and other subcontracts the provisions of Sections 12B.2(a), 12B.2(c)-(k), and 12C.3 of the San Francisco Administrative Code and shall require all subtenants and other subcontractors to comply with such provisions. Tenant's failure to comply with the obligations in this subsection shall constitute a material breach of this Lease.

(c) Nondiscrimination in Benefits. Tenant does not as of the date of this Lease and will not during the Term, in any of its operations in San Francisco or where the work is being performed for the City, discriminate in the provision of bereavement leave, family medical leave, health benefits, membership or membership discounts, moving expenses, pension and retirement benefits or travel benefits (collectively "Core Benefits") as well as any benefits other than the Core Benefits between employees with domestic partners and employees with spouses, and/or between the domestic partners and spouses of such employees, where the domestic partnership has been registered with a governmental entity pursuant to state or local Law authorizing such registration, subject to the conditions set forth in Section 12B.2 of the Administrative Code.

(d) CMD Form. As a condition to this Lease, Tenant shall execute the “Chapter 12B Declaration: Nondiscrimination in Contracts and Benefits” form (Form CMD-12B-101) with supporting documentation and secure the approval of the form by the San Francisco Contract Monitoring Division, to the extent applicable. Tenant hereby represents that prior to execution of this Lease, (i) Tenant executed and submitted to the CMD Form CMD-12B-101 with supporting documentation, and (ii) the CMD approved such form.

(e) Incorporation of Administrative Code Provisions by Reference. The provisions of Chapters 12B and 12C of the San Francisco Administrative Code relating to non-discrimination by parties contracting for the lease of City property are incorporated in this Section by reference and made a part of this Agreement as though fully set forth herein. Tenant shall comply fully with and be bound by all of the provisions that apply to this Lease under such Chapters of the Administrative Code, including but not limited to the remedies provided in such Chapters. Without limiting the foregoing, Tenant understands that pursuant to Section 12B.2(h) of the San Francisco Administrative Code, a penalty of Fifty Dollars ($50) for each person for each calendar day during which such person was discriminated against in violation of the provisions of this Lease may be assessed against Tenant and/or deducted from any payments due Tenant.

36.2 No Relocation Assistance; Waiver of Claims. Tenant acknowledges that it will not be a displaced person at the time this Lease is terminated or expires by its own terms, and Tenant fully RELEASES, WAIVES AND DISCHARGES forever any and all Claims against, and covenants not to sue, City, its departments, commissions, officers, directors and employees, and all persons acting by, through or under each of them, under any laws, including, without limitation, any and all claims for relocation benefits or assistance from City under federal and state relocation assistance laws (including, but not limited to, California Government Code Section 7260 et seq.), except as otherwise specifically provided in this Lease with respect to a Taking.

36.3 MacBride Principles – Northern Ireland. The City and County of San Francisco urges companies doing business in Northern Ireland to move toward resolving employment inequities and encourages them to abide by the MacBride Principles as expressed in San Francisco Administrative Code Section 12F.1 et seq. The City and County of San Francisco also urges San Francisco companies to do business with corporations that abide by the MacBride Principles. Tenant acknowledges that it has read and understands the above statement of the City and County of San Francisco concerning doing business in Northern Ireland.

36.4 Tropical Hardwood and Virgin Redwood Ban. The City and County of San Francisco urges companies not to import, purchase, obtain or use for any purpose, any tropical hardwood, tropical hardwood wood product, virgin redwood or virgin redwood wood product. Except as expressly permitted by the application of Sections 802(b) and 803(b) of the San Francisco Environment Code, Tenant shall not provide any items to the construction of Tenant Improvements or alterations, or otherwise in the performance of this Lease which are tropical hardwoods, tropical hardwood wood products, virgin redwood, or virgin redwood wood products. In the event Tenant fails to comply in good faith with any of the provisions of Chapter 8 of the San Francisco Environment Code, Tenant shall be liable for liquidated damages for each violation in any amount equal to Tenant’s net profit on the contract, or five percent (5%) of the total amount of the contract dollars, whichever is greater.

36.5 Restrictions on the Use of Pesticides. Chapter 3 of the San Francisco Environment Code (the Integrated Pest Management Program Ordinance or “IPM Ordinance”) describes an integrated pest management (“IPM”) policy to be implemented by all City departments. Tenant shall not use or apply or allow the use or application of any pesticides on the Premises or contract with any party to provide pest abatement or control services to the Premises without first receiving City’s written approval of an IPM plan that (i) lists, to the extent reasonably possible, the types and estimated quantities of pesticides that Tenant may need to apply to the Premises during the term of this Lease, (ii) describes the steps Tenant will take to meet the City’s IPM Policy described in Section 300 of the IPM Ordinance and (iii) identifies, by name, title, address and telephone number, an individual to act as Tenant’s primary IPM contact person with the City. Tenant shall comply, and shall require all of Tenant’s contractors to comply, with the IPM plan approved by the City and shall comply with the requirements of Sections 300(d), 302, 304, 305(f), 305(g), and 306 of the IPM Ordinance, as if Tenant were a City department. Among other matters, such provisions of the IPM Ordinance: (a) provide for the use of pesticides only as a last resort, (b) prohibit the use or application of pesticides on property owned by the City, except for pesticides granted an exemption under Section 303 of the IPM Ordinance (including pesticides included on the most current Reduced Risk Pesticide List compiled by City’s Department of the Environment), (c) impose certain notice requirements, and (d) require Tenant to keep certain records and to report to City all pesticide use at the Premises by Tenant’s staff or contractors.

If Tenant or Tenant’s contractor will apply pesticides to outdoor areas at the Premises, Tenant must first obtain a written recommendation from a person holding a valid Agricultural Pest Control Advisor license issued by the California Department of Pesticide Regulation (“CDPR”) and any such pesticide application shall be made only by or under the supervision of a person holding a valid, CDPR-issued Qualified Applicator certificate or Qualified Applicator license. City’s current Reduced Risk Pesticide List and additional details about pest management on City property can be found at the San Francisco Department of the Environment website, <http://sfenvironment.org/ipm>.

36.6 Sunshine Ordinance. In accordance with Section 67.24(e) of the San Francisco Administrative Code, contracts, contractors’ bids, leases, agreements, responses to Requests for Proposals, and all other records of communications between City and persons or firms seeking contracts will be open to inspection immediately after a contract has been awarded. Nothing in this provision requires the disclosure of a private person’s or organization’s net worth or other proprietary financial data submitted for qualification for a contract, lease, agreement or other benefit until and unless that person or organization is awarded the contract, lease, agreement or benefit. Information provided which is covered by this Section will be made available to the public upon request.

36.7 Conflicts of Interest. Through its execution of this Lease, Tenant acknowledges that it is familiar with the provisions of Section 15.103 of the San Francisco Charter, Article III, Chapter 2 of City’s Campaign and Governmental Conduct Code, and Section 87100 et seq. and Section 1090 et seq. of the Government Code of the State of California, and certifies that it does not know of any facts which would constitute a violation of said provisions, and agrees that if Tenant becomes aware of any such fact during the term of this Lease Tenant shall immediately notify the City. Tenant further certifies that it has made a complete disclosure to the City of all facts bearing on any possible interests, direct or indirect, that Tenant believes any officer or employee of the City presently has or will have in this Commercial Ground Lease or in the performance thereof or in any portion of the profits thereof. Willful failure by Tenant to make such disclosure, if any, will constitute grounds for City’s termination and cancellation of this Commercial Ground Lease.

36.8 Prevailing Wage and Working Conditions.

(a) Any undefined, initially-capitalized term used in this Section has the meaning given to that term in San Francisco Administrative Code Section 23.61. To the extent applicable, Tenant will require its Contractors and Subcontractors performing (i) labor in connection with a “public work” as defined under California Labor Code Section 1720 et seq. (which includes certain construction, alteration, maintenance, demolition, installation, repair, carpet laying, or refuse hauling work if paid for in whole or part out of public funds) or (ii) Covered Construction, at the Premises to (A) pay workers performing that work not less than the Prevailing Rate of Wages, (B) provide the same hours, working conditions, and benefits as in each case are provided for similar work performed in San Francisco County, and (C) employ Apprentices in accordance with San Francisco Administrative Code Section 23.61 (collectively, “Prevailing Wage Requirements”). Tenant will cooperate with City in any action or proceeding against a Contractor or Subcontractor that fails to comply with the Prevailing Wage Requirements.

(b) To the extent applicable, Tenant will include, and will require its subtenants, and Contractors and Subcontractors (regardless of tier), to include in any Construction Contract the Prevailing Wage Requirements, with specific reference to San Francisco Administrative Code Section 23.61, and the agreement to cooperate in City enforcement actions. Each Construction Contract will name the City and County of San Francisco, affected workers, and employee organizations formally representing affected workers as third-party beneficiaries for the limited purpose of enforcing the Prevailing Wage Requirements, including the right to file charges and seek penalties against any Contractor or Subcontractor in accordance with San Francisco Administrative Code Section 23.61. Tenant’s failure to comply with its obligations under this Section will constitute a material breach of this Lease. A Contractor’s or Subcontractor’s failure to comply with this Section will enable City to seek the remedies specified in San Francisco Administrative Code Section 23.61 against the breaching party. For the current Prevailing Rate of Wages, see www.sfgov.org/olse or call City’s Office of Labor Standards Enforcement at 415-554-6235.

36.9 Prohibition of Tobacco Sales and Advertising. Tenant acknowledges and agrees that no advertising or sale of cigarettes or tobacco products is allowed on the Premises. This advertising prohibition includes the placement of the name of a company producing, selling or distributing cigarettes or tobacco products or the name of any cigarette or tobacco product in any promotion of any event or product. This advertising prohibition does not apply to any advertisement sponsored by a state, local, nonprofit or other entity designed to (a) communicate the health hazards of cigarettes and tobacco products, or (b) encourage people not to smoke or to stop smoking. In addition, Tenant acknowledges and agrees that no Sales, Manufacture, or Distribution of Tobacco Products (as those capitalized terms are defined in Health Code Section 19K.1) is allowed on the Premises and such prohibition must be included in all subleases or other agreements allowing use of the Premises. The prohibition against Sales, Manufacture, or Distribution of Tobacco Products does not apply to persons who are affiliated with an accredited academic institution where the Sale, Manufacture, and/or Distribution of Tobacco Products is conducted as part of academic research.

36.10 Prohibition of Alcoholic Beverage Advertising. Tenant acknowledges and agrees that no advertising of alcoholic beverages is allowed on the Premises. For purposes of this section, “alcoholic beverage” shall be defined as set forth in California Business and Professions Code Section 23004, and shall not include cleaning solutions, medical supplies and other products and substances not intended for drinking. This advertising prohibition includes the placement of the name of a company producing, selling or distributing alcoholic beverages or the name of any alcoholic beverage in any promotion of any event or product.

36.11 Requiring Health Benefits for Covered Employees. Unless exempt, Tenant agrees to comply fully with and be bound by all of the provisions of the Health Care Accountability Ordinance (HCAO), as set forth in San Francisco Administrative Code Chapter 12Q, including the remedies provided, and implementing regulations, as the same may be amended from time to time. The provisions of Chapter 12Q are incorporated herein by reference and made a part of this Lease as though fully set forth. The text of the HCAO is available on the web at <http://www.sfgov.org/olse/hcao>. Capitalized terms used in this Section and not defined in this Lease shall have the meanings assigned to such terms in Chapter 12Q.

(a) For each Covered Employee, Tenant shall provide the appropriate health benefit set forth in Section 12Q.3 of the HCAO. If Tenant chooses to offer the health plan option, such health plan shall meet the minimum standards set forth by the San Francisco Health Commission.

(b) Notwithstanding the above, if Tenant is a small business as defined in Section 12Q.3(d) of the HCAO, it shall have no obligation to comply with subsection (a) above.

(c) Tenant's failure to comply with the HCAO shall constitute a material breach of this Lease. City shall notify Tenant if such a breach has occurred. If, within thirty (30) days after receiving City's written notice of a breach of this Lease for violating the HCAO, Tenant fails to cure such breach or, if such breach cannot reasonably be cured within such period of thirty (30) days, Tenant fails to commence efforts to cure within such period, or thereafter fails diligently to pursue such cure to completion, City shall have the right to pursue the remedies set forth in Section 12Q.5(f)(1-5). Each of these remedies shall be exercisable individually or in combination with any other rights or remedies available to City.

(d) Any Subcontract entered into by Tenant shall require the Subcontractor to comply with the requirements of the HCAO and shall contain contractual obligations substantially the same as those set forth in this Section. Tenant shall notify City's Purchasing Department when it enters into such a Subcontract and shall certify to the Purchasing Department that it has notified the Subcontractor of the obligations under the HCAO and has imposed the requirements of the HCAO on Subcontractor through the Subcontract. Each Tenant shall be responsible for its Subcontractors' compliance with this Chapter. If a Subcontractor fails to comply, the City may pursue the remedies set forth in this Section against Tenant based on the Subcontractor's failure to comply, provided that City has first provided Tenant with notice and an opportunity to obtain a cure of the violation.

(e) Tenant shall not discharge, reduce in compensation, or otherwise discriminate against any employee for notifying City with regard to Tenant's compliance or anticipated compliance with the requirements of the HCAO, for opposing any practice proscribed by the HCAO, for participating in proceedings related to the HCAO, or for seeking to assert or enforce any rights under the HCAO by any lawful means.

(f) Tenant represents and warrants that it is not an entity that was set up, or is being used, for the purpose of evading the intent of the HCAO.

(g) Tenant shall keep itself informed of the current requirements of the HCAO.

(h) Tenant shall provide reports to the City in accordance with any reporting standards promulgated by the City under the HCAO, including reports on Subcontractors and Subtenants, as applicable.

(i) Tenant shall provide City with access to records pertaining to compliance with HCAO after receiving a written request from City to do so and being provided at least five (5) business days to respond.

(j) City may conduct random audits of Tenant to ascertain its compliance with HCAO. Tenant agrees to cooperate with City when it conducts such audits.

(k) If Tenant is exempt from the HCAO when this Lease is executed because its amount is less than Fifty Thousand Dollars ($50,000), but Tenant later enters into an agreement or agreements that cause Tenant's aggregate amount of all agreements with City to reach Seventy-Five Thousand Dollars ($75,000), all the agreements shall be thereafter subject to the HCAO. This obligation arises on the effective date of the agreement that causes the cumulative amount of agreements between Tenant and the Contracting Department to be equal to or greater than Seventy-Five Thousand Dollars ($75,000) in the fiscal year.

36.12 Notification of Limitations on Contributions . For the purposes of this Section, a “City Contractor” is a party that contracts with, or seeks to contract with, the City for the sale or leasing of any land or building to or from the City whenever such transaction would require the approval by a City elective officer, the board on which that City elective officer serves, or a board on which an appointee of that individual serves. Through its execution of this Agreement, Tenant acknowledges that it is familiar with Section 1.126 of the San Francisco Campaign and Governmental Conduct Code, which prohibits a City Contractor from making any campaign contribution to (1) the City elective officer, (2) a candidate for the office held by such individual, or (3) a committee controlled by such individual or candidate, at any time from the commencement of negotiations for the contract until the later of either the termination of negotiations for that contract or twelve (12) months after the date that contract is approved. Tenant acknowledges that the foregoing restriction applies only if the contract or a combination or series of contracts approved by the same individual or board in a fiscal year have a total anticipated or actual value of $100,000 or more. Tenant further acknowledges that (i) the prohibition on contributions applies to Tenant, each member of Tenant’s board of directors, Tenant’s chief executive officer, chief financial officer and chief operating officer, any person with an ownership interest of more than ten percent (10%) in Tenant, any subcontractor listed in the contract, and any committee that is sponsored or controlled by Tenant, and (ii) within thirty (30) days of the submission of a proposal for the contract, the City department seeking to enter into the contract must notify the Ethics Commission of the parties and any subcontractor to the contract. Additionally, Tenant certifies it has informed each of the persons described in the preceding sentence of the prohibitions contained in Section 1.126 by the time it submitted a proposal for the contract to the City, and has provided the names of the persons required to be informed to the City department seeking to enter into that contract within thirty (30) days of submitting its contract proposal to the City department receiving that submittal, and acknowledges the City department receiving that submittal was required to notify the Ethics Commission of those persons.

36.13 Preservative-Treated Wood Containing Arsenic. Tenant may not purchase preservative-treated wood products containing arsenic in the performance of this Lease unless an exemption from the requirements of Environment Code Chapter 13 is obtained from the Department of Environment under Section 1304 of the Environment Code. The term “preservative-treated wood containing arsenic” shall mean wood treated with a preservative that contains arsenic, elemental arsenic, or an arsenic copper combination, including, but not limited to, chromated copper arsenate preservative, ammoniac copper zinc arsenate preservative, or ammoniacal copper arsenate preservative. Tenant may purchase preservative-treated wood products on the list of environmentally preferable alternatives prepared and adopted by the Department of Environment. This provision does not preclude Tenant from purchasing preservative-treated wood containing arsenic for saltwater immersion. The term “saltwater immersion” shall mean a pressure-treated wood that is used for construction purposes or facilities that are partially or totally immersed in saltwater.

36.14 Resource Efficient City Buildings. Tenant acknowledges that the City and County of San Francisco has enacted San Francisco Environment Code Sections 700 to 713 relating to green building requirements for the design, construction, and operation of buildings owned or leased by City. Tenant hereby agrees that it shall comply with all applicable provisions of such code sections.

36.15 Food Service Waste Reduction. Tenant will comply with and is bound by all of the applicable provisions of the Food Service and Packaging Waste Reduction Ordinance, as set forth in the San Francisco Environment Code, Chapter 16, including the remedies provided therein, and implementing guidelines and rules. The provisions of Chapter 16 are incorporated into this Lease by reference and made a part of this Lease as though fully set forth. Accordingly, Tenant acknowledges that City contractors and lessees may not use Food Service Ware for Prepared Food in City Facilities and while performing under a City contract or lease (1) where the Food Service Ware is made, in whole or in part, from Polystyrene Foam, (2) where the Food Service Ware is not Compostable or Recyclable, or (3) where the Food Service Ware is Compostable and not Fluorinated Chemical Free. The capitalized terms (other than Tenant and City) in the previous sentence are defined in San Francisco Environment Code Section 1602.

36.16 San Francisco Packaged Water Ordinance. Tenant will comply with San Francisco Environment Code Chapter 24 (“Chapter 24”). Tenant may not sell, provide, or otherwise distribute Packaged Water, as defined in Chapter 24 (including bottled water), in the performance of this Lease or on City property unless Tenant obtains a waiver from City’s Department of the Environment. If Tenant violates this requirement, City may exercise all remedies in this Lease and the Director of City’s Department of the Environment may impose administrative fines as set forth in Chapter 24.

36.17 Criminal History in Hiring and Employment Decisions.

(a) Unless exempt, Tenant agrees to comply with and be bound by all of the provisions of San Francisco Administrative Code Chapter 12T (Criminal History in Hiring and Employment Decisions; “Chapter 12T”), which are hereby incorporated as may be amended from time to time, with respect to applicants and employees of Tenant who would be or are performing work at the Premises.

(b) Tenant shall incorporate by reference the provisions of Chapter 12T in all subleases of some or all of the Premises and shall require all subtenants to comply with such provisions. Tenant’s failure to comply with the obligations in this subsection shall constitute a material breach of this Lease.

(c) Tenant and subtenants shall not inquire about, require disclosure of, or if such information is received base an Adverse Action on an applicant’s or potential applicant for employment, or employee’s: (1) Arrest not leading to a Conviction, unless the Arrest is undergoing an active pending criminal investigation or trial that has not yet been resolved; (2) participation in or completion of a diversion or a deferral of judgment program; (3) a Conviction that has been judicially dismissed, expunged, voided, invalidated, or otherwise rendered inoperative; (4) a Conviction or any other adjudication in the juvenile justice system; (5) a Conviction that is more than seven years old, from the date of sentencing; or (6) information pertaining to an offense other than a felony or misdemeanor, such as an infraction.

(d) Tenant and subtenants shall not inquire about or require applicants, potential applicants for employment, or employees to disclose on any employment application the facts or details of any conviction history, unresolved arrest, or any matter identified in subsection (c) above. Tenant and subtenants shall not require such disclosure or make such inquiry until either after the first live interview with the person, or after a conditional offer of employment.

(e) Tenant and subtenants shall state in all solicitations or advertisements for employees that are reasonably likely to reach persons who are reasonably likely to seek employment with Tenant or subtenant at the Premises, that Tenant or subtenant will consider for employment qualified applicants with criminal histories in a manner consistent with the requirements of Chapter 12T.

(f) Tenant and subtenants shall post the notice prepared by the Office of Labor Standards Enforcement (“OLSE”), available on OLSE’s website, in a conspicuous place at the Premises and at other workplaces within San Francisco where interviews for job opportunities at the Premises occur. The notice shall be posted in English, Spanish, Chinese, and any language spoken by at least 5% of the employees at the Premises or other workplace at which it is posted.

(g) Tenant and subtenants understand and agree that upon any failure to comply with the requirements of Chapter 12T, the City shall have the right to pursue any rights or remedies available under Chapter 12T or this Lease, including but not limited to a penalty of $50 for a second violation and $100 for a subsequent violation for each employee, applicant or other person as to whom a violation occurred or continued, termination or suspension in whole or in part of this Lease.

(h) If Tenant has any questions about the applicability of Chapter 12T, it may contact the City’s Real Estate Division for additional information. City’s Real Estate Division may consult with the Director of the City’s Office of Contract Administration who may also grant a waiver, as set forth in Section 12T.8.

36.18 Reserved

36.19 Local Hiring Policy. Any undefined, initially-capitalized term used in this Section shall have the meaning given to such term in San Francisco Administrative Code Section 6.22(G) (the “Local Hiring Policy”). To the extent applicable, the Tenant Improvements and any alterations are subject to the Local Hiring Policy unless the cost for such Tenant Improvement Work or alteration is (i) estimated to be less than $750,000 per building permit or (ii) meets any of the other exemptions in the Local Hiring Policy. Accordingly, as a condition of this Lease, Tenant agrees that it shall comply with the requirements of the Local Hiring Policy applicable to the Tenant Improvements or any Alteration and shall require its subtenants to comply with those requirements to the extent applicable. Before starting any Tenant Improvement Work or any Alteration, Tenant shall contact City’s Office of Economic Workforce and Development (“OEWD”) to verify if any Local Hiring Ordinance requirements apply to such Tenant Improvement Work or Alteration. Tenant shall comply with all such applicable requirements. Tenant’s failure to comply with its obligations under this Section shall constitute a material breach of this Lease and may subject Tenant and its subtenants to the consequences of noncompliance specified in the Local Hiring Policy, including but not limited to penalties. Without limiting the foregoing:

(a) For a Covered Project estimated to cost more than $750,000, Tenant and its subtenants shall comply with the applicable mandatory participation levels for Project Work Hours performed by Local Residents, Disadvantaged Workers, and Apprentices as set forth in San Francisco Administrative Code Section 6.22(G)(4).

(b) For a Covered Project estimated to cost more than $1,000,000, Tenant and its subtenants shall prepare and submit a local hiring plan to OEWD for approval as set forth in San Francisco Administrative Code Section 6.22(G)(6) prior to commencing any of the work subject to the Local Hiring Policy.

(c) Tenant and its subtenants shall comply with the applicable record keeping and reporting requirements and shall cooperate in City inspections and audits for compliance with the Local Hiring Policy, including access to employees of its contractors and subcontractors and other witnesses at the Premises.

(d) Tenant agrees that (i) Tenant shall comply with all applicable requirements of the Local Hiring Policy; (ii) the provisions of the Local Hiring Policy are reasonable and achievable by Tenant and its subtenants; and (iii) Tenant has had, and its subtenants will have prior to signing their subleases for the Premises, a full and fair opportunity to review and understand the terms of the Local Hiring Policy.

36.20 Public Transit Information. Tenant shall establish and carry on during the Term a program to encourage maximum use of public transportation by personnel of Tenant employed on the Premises, including, without limitation, the distribution to such employees of written materials explaining the convenience and availability of public transportation facilities adjacent or proximate to the Commercial Parcels and encouraging use of such facilities, all at Tenant's sole expense.

36.21 First Source Hiring. Tenant and City are parties to the First Source Agreement attached to this Lease as Exhibit pursuant to San Francisco Administrative Code, Chapter 83 (the "First Source Agreement"). Any default by Tenant under the First Source Agreement shall be a default under this Lease.

36.22 Graffiti Removal. Tenant agrees to remove all graffiti from the Premises within forty-eight (48) hours of the earlier of Tenant's: (a) discovery or notification of the graffiti or (b) receipt of notification of the graffiti from the Department of Public Works. This section is not intended to require a tenant to breach any lease or other agreement that it may have concerning its use of the real property.

36.23 Drug-Free Workplace. Tenant acknowledges that pursuant to the Federal Drug-Free Workplace Act of 1989, the unlawful manufacture, distribution, possession or use of a controlled substance is prohibited on City premises. Tenant agrees that any violation of this prohibition by Tenant, its Agents or assigns shall be deemed a material breach of this Lease.

36.24 Vending Machines; Nutritional Standards. Tenant may not install or permit any vending machine on the Premises without the prior written consent of the Director of Real Estate. Any permitted vending machine will comply with the food and beverage nutritional standards and calorie labeling requirements set forth in San Francisco Administrative Code Section 4.9-1(c), as may be amended from time to time (the "Nutritional Standards Requirements"). Tenant will incorporate the Nutritional Standards Requirements into any contract for the installation of a vending machine on the Premises or for the supply of food and beverages to that vending machine. Failure to comply with the Nutritional Standards Requirements or to otherwise comply with this Section 36.24 will be a material breach of this Lease. Without limiting Landlord's other rights and remedies under this Lease, Landlord will have the right to require the immediate removal of any vending machine on the Premises that is not permitted or that violates the Nutritional Standards Requirements.

36.25 All-Gender Toilet Facilities. If applicable, Tenant will comply with San Francisco Administrative Code Section 4.1-3 requiring at least one all-gender toilet facility on each floor of the Building where extensive renovations are made. An "all-gender toilet facility" means a toilet that is not restricted to use by persons of a specific sex or gender identity by means of signage, design, or the installation of fixtures, and “extensive renovations” means any renovation where the construction cost exceeds 50% of the cost of providing the toilet facilities required by Administrative Code Section 4.1-3. If Tenant has any question about applicability or compliance, Tenant should contact the Director of Property or MOHCD for guidance.

36.26 Tenant’s Compliance with City Business and Tax Regulations Code. Tenant acknowledges that under Section 6.10-2 of the San Francisco Business and Tax Regulations Code, the City Treasurer and Tax Collector may require the withholding of payments to any vendor that is delinquent in the payment of any amounts that the vendor is required to pay the City under the San Francisco Business and Tax Regulations Code. If, under that authority, any payment City is required to make to Tenant under this Lease is withheld, then City will not be in breach or default under this Lease, and the Treasurer and Tax Collector will authorize release of any payments withheld under this paragraph to Tenant, without interest, late fees, penalties, or other charges, upon Tenant coming back into compliance with its San Francisco Business and Tax Regulations Code obligations.

36.27 Consideration of Salary History. In addition to Tenant's obligations as an employer under San Francisco Police Code Article 33J, Tenant must comply with San Francisco Administrative Code Chapter 12K. For each employment application to Tenant for work of eight (8) or more hours per week at the Premises, Tenant must not consider the applicant's current or past salary (a “Salary History”) in deciding whether to hire the applicant or what salary to offer the applicant unless the applicant voluntarily discloses that Salary History without prompting. In addition, Tenant must not (1) ask those applicants about their Salary History, (2) refuse to hire, or otherwise disfavor, injure, or retaliate against applicants that do not disclose their Salary History, or (3) disclose a current or former employee's Salary History without that employee's authorization unless it is required by law, publicly available, or subject to a collective bargaining agreement. Tenant is subject to the posting, enforcement, and penalty provisions in Chapter 12K. Information about Chapter 12K is available on the web at <https://sfgov.org/olse/consideration-salary-history>.

36.28 GASB 87 Lease Accounting. The Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB), an independent organization that establishes accounting and financial reporting standards for U.S. state and local governments, issued Statement 87 to improve certain reporting and accounting practices. In connection with GASB 87, Tenant agrees to complete a checklist provided by the City within thirty (30) days of the Effective Date in order to facilitate the City’s collection and evaluation of information for City’s financial reporting purpose.

ARTICLE 37 GENERAL PROVISIONS

37.1 Cooperative Drafting. This Lease has been drafted through a cooperative effort of both parties, and both parties have had an opportunity to have the Lease reviewed and revised by legal counsel. No party shall be considered the drafter of this Lease, and no presumption or rule that an ambiguity shall be construed against the party drafting the clause shall apply to the interpretation or enforcement of this Lease.

37.2 Amendments. Neither this Lease nor any terms or provisions hereof may be changed, waived, discharged or terminated, except by a written instrument signed by the party against which the enforcement of the change, waiver, discharge or termination is sought. No waiver of any breach shall affect or alter this Lease, but each and every term, covenant and condition of this Lease shall continue in full force and effect with respect to any other then-existing or subsequent breach thereof.

37.3 Authority . If Tenant signs as a corporation or a partnership, each of the persons executing this Lease on behalf of Tenant does hereby covenant and warrant that Tenant is a duly authorized and existing entity, that Tenant has and is qualified to do business in California, that Tenant has full right and authority to enter into this Lease, and that each and all of the persons signing on behalf of Tenant are authorized to do so. Upon Landlord's request, Tenant shall provide Landlord with evidence reasonably satisfactory to City confirming the foregoing representations and warranties.

37.4 Survival of Indemnities . Termination of this Lease shall not affect the right of either party to enforce any and all indemnities and representations and warranties given or made to the other party under this Lease, nor shall it affect any provision of this Lease that expressly states it shall survive termination hereof.

ARTICLE 38 RECORDATION OF LEASE

Landlord and Tenant shall record on, or as of, the Effective Date a memorandum of this Lease for the Premises, substantially in the form and substance as set forth in Exhibit 3, in the Official Records. This Commercial Ground Lease shall not be recorded.

ARTICLE 39 ENTRY

39.1 Entry. The City reserves for itself and its authorized representatives the right to enter the Site at all reasonable times during normal business hours upon not less than forty-eight (48) hours' written notice to Tenant (except in the event of an emergency), subject to the rights of the occupants, tenants, and others lawfully permitted on the Site, for any of the following purposes:

(a) to determine whether the Premises is in good condition and to inspect the Premises (including soil borings or other Hazardous Substance investigations);

(b) to determine whether Tenant is in compliance with its Lease obligations and to cure or attempt to cure any Tenant default;

(c) to serve, post, or keep posted any notices required or allowed under any of the provisions of this Lease;

(d) to do any maintenance or repairs to the Premises that the City has the right or the obligation, if any, to perform hereunder; and

(e) to show the Premises to any prospective purchasers, brokers, Lenders, or public officials, or, during the last year of the Term of this Lease, exhibit the Premises to prospective tenants or other occupants, and to post any reasonable "for sale" or "for lease" signs in connection therewith.

39.2 Emergency Entry. In the event of any emergency, as reasonably determined by the City, at its sole option and without notice, the City may enter the Premises and alter or remove any Improvements or Tenant's personal property on or about the Premises as reasonably necessary, given the nature of the emergency. The City will have the right to use any and all means the City considers appropriate to gain access to any portion of the Premises in an emergency, in which case, the City will not be responsible for any damage or injury to any property, or for the replacement of any property, and no emergency entry may be deemed to be a forcible or unlawful entry onto or a detainer of the Premises, or an eviction, actual or constructive, of Tenant from the Premises or any portion thereof.

39.3 Liability. The City will not be liable in any manner for any inconvenience, disturbance, loss of business, nuisance, or other damage arising out of the City's entry onto the Premises, except to the extent damage arises out of the active gross negligence or willful misconduct of the City or its agents. The City will be responsible for any losses resulting from its active gross negligence or willful misconduct and will repair any resulting damage promptly.

39.4 No Abatement. Tenant will not be entitled to any abatement in Base Rent if the City exercises any rights reserved in this Article, subject to Section 39.3 above.

39.5 Reasonable Conduct. The City will use its reasonable good faith efforts to conduct any activities on the Premises allowed under this Article in a manner that, to the extent practicable, will minimize any disruption to Tenant's use of the Premises as permitted by this Lease.

ARTICLE 40 LIST OF EXHIBITS

FIRST AMENDMENT TO GROUND LEASE

THIS FIRST AMENDMENT TO GROUND LEASE (this “Amendment”) is entered into as of October 16, 2023, in San Francisco, California, by and between the CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO, a municipal corporation (“City” or “Landlord”), represented by the Mayor, acting through its Real Estate Division and the Mayor's Office of Housing and Community Development (“MOHCD”), and 681 FLORIDA HOUSING ASSOCIATES, L.P., a California limited partnership (“Tenant”).

RECITALS

This Amendment is made with reference to the following facts and circumstances:

A. City and Tenant previously entered into that certain Ground Lease, dated as of October 15, 2020 (the “Lease”), and that certain Memorandum of Ground Lease dated as of October 15, 2020, and recorded in the Official Records on October 15, 2020 as Document Number 2020031158, for the lease of the real property located at 681 Florida Street in San Francisco, California, Assessor’s Parcel Block 4022, Lots 239, 240, and 241 (the “Premises”). Block 4022, Lot 239 shall be referred to herein as the “Residential Parcel” and Block 4022, Lots 240 and 241 shall be referred to herein as the “Commercial Parcels.”

B. Tenant has developed the Premises with 130 units of affordable housing for low-income persons consisting of 44 studios, 31 one-bedroom units (including one manager’s unit), 41 two-bedroom units, and 14 three-bedroom units (the “Residential Project”), and two ground floor commercial spaces (the “Commercial Project”).

C. Section 14.03 of the Lease states that upon construction completion of the Residential Project and prior to Tenant’s conversion of construction financing to permanent financing, Tenant will convey the Commercial Parcels to an affiliate of Tenant. As part of such conveyance, City intends to enter into a Commercial Ground Lease with 681 Florida Street Commercial LLC for the Commercial Parcels, in accordance with all applicable approvals and MOHCD’s Commercial Underwriting Guidelines and intends to amend the Lease to remove the Commercial Parcels from the Tenant’s leasehold under the Lease.

D. The parties now desire to modify the Lease on the terms and conditions as set forth herein.

AGREEMENT

ACCORDINGLY, in consideration of the matters described in the foregoing Recitals, and for other good and valuable consideration, the receipt and sufficiency of which are mutually acknowledged, the City and Tenant agree as follows:

1. Lease Amendments. The Lease is hereby amended as follows:
  - a. Attachment 1 (Legal Description of the Site) of the Lease is hereby deleted and replaced in its entirety with the attached Attachment 1.

- b. Recital C of the Lease is hereby amended and restated in its entirety to read as follows:

“Mission Economic Development Agency, a California nonprofit public benefit corporation (“MEDA”), and Tenderloin Neighborhood Development Corporation, a California nonprofit public benefit corporation (“TNDC” and, together with MEDA, the “Developer”), were selected as joint venture partners by the City to develop the Site under a Request for Proposals issued by the City on October 13, 2016. MEDA and TNDC have formed Tenant to undertake the development of the Site with 130 units of affordable housing for low-income persons consisting of 44 studios, 31 one-bedroom units (including one manager’s unit), 41 two-bedroom units, and 14 three-bedroom units (the “Project”).

- c. Section 9.01 (Permitted Uses and Occupancy Restrictions) of the Lease is hereby amended and restated in its entirety to read as follows:

“The permitted uses of the Project are limited to 130 units of affordable rental housing including one manager’s unit (collectively, the “Residential Units”) and common areas. Upon the completion of construction, one hundred percent (100%) of the Residential Units, with the exception of the manager’s unit, in the Project will be leased to households certified as Qualified Households, as set forth in MOHCD’s Declaration of Restrictions and any amendments thereto mutually agreed upon by the parties; provided, however that the maximum initial occupancy income level restrictions when averaged for all Residential Units in the Project may not exceed sixty percent (60%) of AMI and subject to any applicable regulatory agreement, restrictive covenant, or other encumbrance. Residential Units must be occupied and rented in accordance with all applicable restrictions imposed on the Project by this Ground Lease and by Lenders for so long as the restrictions are required by the applicable Lender. In addition, Tenant will enter into a Local Operating Subsidy Program (“LOSP”) grant agreement with MOHCD, applicable to thirty-nine (39) Residential Units, and such Residential Units will be subject to the terms of the LOSP grant agreement and applicable Laws.”

- d. Section 4.05 (Commercial Revenue Sharing) of the Lease is hereby deleted in its entirety.

2. No Joint Venture. This Amendment or any activity by the City hereunder does not create a partnership or joint venture between the City and Tenant relating to the Lease or otherwise. This Amendment does not constitute authorization or approval by the City of any activity conducted by Tenant, and the City shall in no way be responsible for the acts or omissions of Tenant on the Premises or otherwise.

3. Attorneys Fees. In the event a dispute arises concerning this Amendment, the party not prevailing in such dispute shall pay any and all costs and expenses incurred by the other party in enforcing or establishing its rights hereunder, including, without limitation, court costs and reasonable attorneys' fees. For purposes of this Amendment, reasonable fees of attorneys of City's Office of the City Attorney shall be based on the fees regularly charged by private attorneys with the equivalent number of years of experience in the subject matter area of the law for which the City Attorney's services were rendered who practice in the City of San Francisco in law firms with approximately the same number of attorneys as employed by the Office of the City Attorney.

4. References. No reference to this Amendment is necessary in any instrument or document at any time referring to the Lease. Any future reference to the Lease shall be deemed a reference to such document as amended hereby.

5. Applicable Law. This Amendment shall be governed by, construed and enforced in accordance with the laws of the State of California.

6. Further Instruments. The parties hereto agree to execute such further instruments and to take such further actions as may be reasonably required to carry out the intent of this Amendment.

Golden Gate Park Access and Safety Program
Quarterly Report
Quarter ending September 30, 2023

BACKGROUND

On March 16, 2020, the City issued shelter-in-place orders to prevent the spread of COVID 19. On April 27, 2020, the Recreation and Park Department (RPD) created JFK Promenade in Golden Gate Park by closing JFK Boulevard to cars and creating a safe, fun place to play, roll and stroll. On April 26, 2022, the Board of Supervisors approved Ordinance 74-22 which amended Park Code Section 6.13 Section 5 reporting as follows:

“(a) Beginning July 1, 2023, and annually thereafter until July 1, 2033, the San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency and Recreation and Park Department shall submit to the Board of Supervisors a joint report on the impacts of the street closures and on the implementation of Golden Gate Park Access and Safety Program. The annual reports shall include but not be limited to: annual visitation data to the Academy of Sciences, de Young Museum, and Gardens of Golden Gate Park; relevant analysis of park visitation data including access from equity priority communities, feedback from the disability community, a summary of traffic safety and collisions; and data and analysis on the usage of the Music Concourse Garage.

(b) Beginning July 1, 2022, and every three months thereafter until July 1, 2024, the San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency and Recreation and Park Department shall submit to the Board of Supervisors a joint report addressing the implementation status of the policy initiatives included in the Golden Gate Park Access and Safety Program and described in subsection (6)(d) of Section 6.12 of the Park Code. Quarterly reports submitted in July of each year may be consolidated with the annual reports required under subsection (a).”

The legislation became effective June 7, 2022. On Nov 8, 2022, voters approved Proposition J making JFK Promenade permanent and Proposition N transferring ownership of the Golden Gate Park Concourse Garage to RPD.

The reporting period of this quarterly report is July 1 through September 30, 2023.

EQUITY

Summer of 2023 marked 18 months of free, radically inclusive, live performance events at the Bandshell. Since its inception in August 2021, Free Live has provided 350 shows with 2,000+ performers, for more than 500,000 audience members. Music is performed every Wednesday, Friday, and Sunday evening, with some daytime shows on Saturday afternoons.

Types of Performances included: Singer/Songwriter, Rock, R&B, Soul, Funk, Reggae, Jazz, Latin Rock Fusion, Classical, Blues, Hip Hop, Salsa, Brazilian, African and Indian Dance and Drumming, Children's Music, Poetry, Jam Band, Bluegrass, Brass Ensembles, Choir and Holiday Music, and other genres.

Junior Guides

During FY23, the Recreation & Park Department, in partnership with the Gardens of Golden Gate Park, the de Young Museum, SFMTA, and the San Francisco Parks Alliance, expanded the Golden Gate Park Junior Guides field trip program to engage community organizations supporting residents in environmental justice communities. The field trips invited 1,070 San Francisco children aged 5-12 and 178 teen leaders plus 11 community groups. The goal of the program was to expose more people to the wonders of Golden Gate Park and empower them to return with their families and serve as Honorary Guides to the park.

Originally planned for 2020 as part of Golden Gate Park's 150th birthday celebration, the program was postponed due to COVID. The 2021 and 2022 Junior Guides program served over 1,500 San Francisco children and attending summer camps, plus 11 groups in Environmental Justice Communities.

Summer 2023 Quarter Highlights

Community Shuttle Program:

The Community Shuttle transports adults from Environmental Justice Community neighborhoods and provides a guided experience to the cultural institutions, JFK art installations, and landscaped beauty of our parks. During summer 2023 the shuttle program brought 330 adults from across the city to enjoy our parks.

Community Gathering:

On Saturday August 5, 2023, JFK hosted a free community event for more than 1,000 soccer fans from around the Bay Area with a World Cup quarterfinal match viewing party to watch Netherlands and South Africa play. With live music and a World Cup Village with food trucks, face painting, games for the kids, and sunshine, it was an energetic quarterfinal game.

ACCESSIBILITY

Adaptive Bike Program

The Adaptive Bike Programs returned to San Francisco and the Bay Area Outdoor Recreation Program (BORP) operated all summer. This free program runs at two locations on alternating weekends, Golden Gate Park and Upper Great Highway. BORP takes reservations to ensure that the right type of adaptive bike is available, and BORP staff assist participants to use their bicycles.

Outside Lands

More than 225,000 people attended Outside Lands (OSL) festival August 11-13, 2023 and accessibility to GGP was enhanced by a variety of transportation elements:

- Shuttles provided by OSL served 9,000 per day

Summer 2023 Quarter Highlights

- SFMTA provided a record number of additional buses and services
- Three Transportation Network Company stations were established to allow pick up and drop off by Uber and Lyft
- Bike parking was available

MOBILITY

JFK Shuttle

The JFK shuttle's regular weekend service supported transportation access for Outside Lands and Hardly Strictly Bluegrass and ridership was more than double the usual rate on those weekends.

Bike Mobility

There are now 11 new bike racks installed adjacent and near JFK. A total of 20 racks with capacity for 96 bikes are planned, with the remainder scheduled to be installed in early 2024.

There are also five new Lyft shared bike stations in the park. In community engagement during COVID, bike share stations were repeatedly requested by the public as a great way to enhance mobility and enjoy recreational access within the park. Locations are:

1. Pompei Circle at JFK Dr
2. MLK Jr. Dr at 7th Ave
3. JFK Dr at 8th Ave/Music Concourse Dr
4. JFK Dr at Ocean Beach
5. Spreckels Lake

STREET SAFETY

JFK Promenade

The project to grind off most traffic paint lines on JFK has begun! The center line and crosswalks will remain, but parking lines, bus zone markings, and other vehicle-related paint will be removed. This will enhance clarity in the space and improve the look of the promenade. The project is scheduled to be completed in early 2024.

UPCOMING INITIATIVES AND NEAR-TERM WORK IN PROGRESS

- The jurisdictional transfer of the Music Concourse Garage is still in process, now expected to be complete in early 2024. Once completed, RPD will be able to:
  - Institute flexible pricing and reduce rates at less popular hours for all users,
  - Increase the time limit on the free loading zone in the garage from 15 minutes to 30 minutes,
  - Provide additional subsidized parking for Discover and Go and Museums for All pass users, and
  - Install improved directional signage for better access to and flow within the garage.
- As part of the Slow Street Network, MTA is planning to conduct an evaluation of the street conditions along JFK. This will include four days of observation (weekdays and weekends) to better understand visitor behavior, modal interactions, and opportunities for improvement.
- A Disability Access Coordinator (DAC), a new position approved in the RPD's budget, is expected to begin work in late November 2023. The DAC will plan, develop, and implement architectural accessibility projects along with developing and supporting programmatic access policies, practices, and procedures. The DAC will streamline departmental compliance set forth by state and federal codes, as well as other relevant laws, ordinance and regulations impacting people with disabilities, consistent with the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA).
- RPD is committed to ADA improvements along the north side of JFK at Conservatory Drive East, Pompeii Circle, and Conservatory Drive West. As part of a larger barrier removal project on JFK, the Department is replacing 10 curb ramps and improving three crosswalks. The estimated project cost is $350,000 and is being funded by the City's Certificates of Participation program. Construction is scheduled to begin winter 2024.
- RPD is also studying the feasibility of reconfiguring the roadway at Conservatory Drive West to include a turnaround circle near the intersection of JFK. This would allow passengers to drop park users off at the ADA path of travel, closest to the Conservatory of Flowers. Cost estimation has begun.

Staffing Analysis of the San Francisco Police Department

September 30, 2023

City & County of San Francisco
Police Department

About this report

In November 2020, San Francisco voters approved Proposition E, amending the City Charter to remove the previously established Police staffing baseline and requiring the Police Department to submit a report and recommendation on staffing levels every two years to the Police Commission for consideration when approving the Department's budget. The purpose of this report is to determine and recommend baseline staffing levels for the San Francisco Police Department using rigorous, industry-reputed methodologies.

Executive Summary

Background & Purpose

In 2018, the San Francisco Police Department formed a Task Force on Strategic Police Staffing (“Staffing Task Force”) per direction from the Board of Supervisors and the Police Commission as adopted in Resolution No. 63-17. Resolution No. 63-17, supported and signed by the Mayor, “[urged] the San Francisco Police Commission to form a Task Force, in collaboration with the San Francisco Police Chief, on Strategic Police Staffing and with the purpose of determining the best methodology for establishing staffing levels in the San Francisco Police Department.” Resolution 63-17 was adopted to initiate an update to the 1994 Proposition D Charter amendment by determining SFPD staffing levels using a workload methodology based on the demand for police services rather than utilizing other metrics such as population size.

RESOLUTION 63-17 CALLED FOR THE FORMATION OF A TASK FORCE ON STRATEGIC POLICE STAFFING TO INITIATE AN UPDATE TO THE PREVIOUSLY ESTABLISHED BASELINE USING INDUSTRY-REPUTED, DATA-DRIVEN METHODOLOGIES.

As prescribed in Resolution No. 63-17, the Staffing Task Force included a cross-section of community stakeholders, nationally recognized police staffing experts, data analysts, City and County of San Francisco agency partners, and Police Commissioners. In early 2019, the San Francisco Police Department hired police staffing expert Matrix Consulting Group, Ltd (“Matrix”) to conduct a comprehensive staffing analysis of the Department. Matrix was directed to develop an understanding of SFPD staffing, operations, and workload; and to develop methodologies to use in the analysis. In 2019, Matrix developed the staffing analysis framework and presented the methodologies throughout the duration of the project to the Staffing Task Force to seek input and direction. In early 2020, Matrix released its report that described the methodologies used to establish SFPD staffing levels, developed in collaboration with the Staffing Task Force; and provided the results of the staffing analysis.

MATRIX CONSULTING GROUP DEVELOPED A STAFFING ANALYSIS FRAMEWORK IN COLLABORATION WITH THE STAFFING TASK FORCE AND RELEASED THE RESULTS OF THE ANALYSIS IN EARLY 2020.

In November 2020, San Francisco voters approved Proposition E, amending the City Charter to remove the previously established 1,971 baseline staffing level and requiring the Police Department to submit a report and recommendation on staffing levels every two years to the Police Commission for consideration when approving the Department’s budget. The purpose of this report is to recommend baseline staffing levels for the San Francisco Police Department using the rigorous, industry-reputed methodologies developed and used by Matrix Consulting Group and vetted by the Staffing Task Force.

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

In mid-June 2021, following the passage of Proposition E, the Police Commission adopted Resolution No. 21-60 which prescribes the methodologies to be used in establishing San Francisco Police Department staffing levels in this 2021 report. Per the Resolution, Chief Scott directed the Project Team to utilize the following methodologies, as developed and used by Matrix Consulting Group and vetted by the Staffing Task Force, in establishing staffing levels for the Department.

Workload-based Methodology

This analysis utilizes a workload-based methodology that uses quantitative metrics, including community-generated calls for service (CFS), to quantify staffing required for Sector Patrol cars.

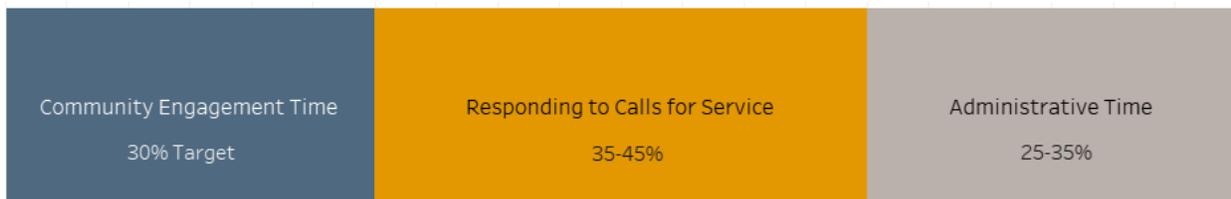

THIS WORKLOAD-BASED METHODOLOGY IS THE INDUSTRY STANDARD. IT HAS BEEN UTILIZED IN PREVIOUS ANALYSES ON DEPARTMENT STAFFING AND CITED IN VARIOUS REPORTS AS THE BEST PRACTICE FOR DETERMINING POLICE STAFFING.

- Matrix Consulting Group’s 2020 “Report on the Police Department – Staffing Study” used the percentage of time spent responding to calls for service from the public, and a target percentage of time devoted to community engagement, to establish recommended staffing levels for patrol officers.
- The Controller’s Office’s 2018 “SFPD Car Sector Patrol Staffing Analysis” conducted best practices research including interviews with police staffing experts and a literature review. The Controller’s Office determined that a workload-based approach was the most rigorous and appropriate methodology and used a framework based on a target percentage of time spent responding to community-generated calls for service and a percentage of time devoted to community engagement, to establish recommended staffing levels for patrol officers.
- The Police Executive Research Forum’s (PERF) 2008 “Organizational Assessment of the San Francisco Police Department” determined via extensive interviews with San Francisco community members, members of the Police Department, and elected and appointed local government officials that “Officers assigned to the 10 districts are expected to perform reactive policing tasks in response to calls for service but also to perform proactive tasks featuring substantial community engagement and partnership.” PERF uses a workload-based methodology with various targets for percentage of time spent responding to community-generated calls for service, with a percentage of time devoted to community policing and problem-solving, to establish recommended staffing levels for patrol officers.
- The San Francisco Budget and Legislative Analyst’s 2016 policy analysis report “Best Practices Related to Police Staffing and Funding Levels found that “the preferred approach by experts in the field, as well as professional organizations, is the workload-based approach as it considers historical workload data, such as calls for service.” The report recommends that “any changes to the SFPD’s minimum staffing level should be based on a workload-based assessment that accounts for department-specific conditions, as well as a comprehensive examination of historical workload data.”

- Ph.D. Professor James McCabe’s International City/County Management Association (ICMA) Center for Public Safety Management White Paper analyzes police department staffing and reviews findings from 62 agencies nationwide. The White Paper recommends staffing decisions made on actual workload, as “it relies on actual levels of demand for police services and matches that demand with the supply of police resources.” The report notes that a workload-based approach does have shortcomings because demand is modeled entirely on calls for service and “ignores other elements of community demands placed on a department.” Therefore, ICMA advocates for modeling workload and then placing the quantitative analysis in context with other demands facing a department, resulting in “a comprehensive assessment of workload through both calls for service and other sustained operational commitments placed on the department.” The report asserts that a workload-based methodology is the most accurate and reliable predictor of police staffing levels.

Sector Patrol staffing is determined using a workload-based methodology which, as demonstrated by the research presented here, is the industry best practice. This workload-based analysis uses the demand for police services, represented by the time spent responding to calls for service (CFS) from the public, and a target percentage of time devoted to community engagement, to establish recommended staffing levels for Sector Patrol Officers. This is the same methodology used by Matrix Consulting Group in 2020 and aligns with the methodology utilized by the Controller’s Office in 2018 and the Police Executive Research Forum in 2008. An illustration is shown below.

A workload-based methodology is also employed to determine recommended staffing levels for positions with investigative caseloads. Matrix Consulting Group used the same methodology; a basic equation is shown below.

Investigative Workload = [Number of cases assigned] x [Time spent working each case]

Ratio-based Methodology

This analysis utilizes the ratio-based methodology to determine recommended staffing levels for supervisory positions and positions that scale directly with another metric. One example is Sergeants that provide street-level supervision for Sector Patrol Officers.

1 Sergeant to 6 Officers – the police organization industry standard for patrol officer oversight

Fixed Post Methodology

This analysis utilizes the fixed post methodology to establish recommended staffing levels for positions that must be staffed at a specific level for a determined number of hours. The fixed post methodology is an operational analysis such that the Project Team calculated recommended staffing based on designated number of positions or teams must be staffed for a designated timeframe to meet operational coverage needs for the Department.

Non-scaling Methodology

This analysis utilizes the non-scaling methodology to recommend staffing levels for positions that fulfill unique Department functions and are staffed electively to facilitate citywide and Department priorities. Positions that use the non-scaling methodology to determine recommended staffing do not scale based on workload metrics such as calls for service (CFS) or other determined ratios (e.g., number of sworn members in the Department). A senior leadership position is one such example.

Detailed methodological descriptions are provided in each Bureau section.

Approaches Utilized in the Staffing Analysis

- Data Wrangling and Analysis: The Project Team conducted extensive quantitative data analysis on calls for service (CFS) to determine recommended staffing levels for Sector Patrol Officers. This workload-based analysis utilizes demand for police services and is the industry best practice that has been utilized in the previous three analyses on SFPD staffing. The Project Team developed and documented replicable data cleaning and data filtering steps for preparing and analyzing the data. This methodology can be used ongoing and will be utilized in future Department staffing analyses.
- Interviews and Data Collection: The Project Team conducted extensive qualitative data analysis in the form of interviews with every Bureau, Division, and unit in the Department. The objectives of the interviews were to learn about the function and role of the unit, understand contextual factors that may impact staffing, and to collect data (e.g., caseload data from investigative units).
- Information Synthesis and Analysis: Using methodology guidance from the Matrix Consulting Group staffing analysis and police organization industry best practices, the Project Team synthesized both the quantitative data analyzed and the qualitative information collected to determine recommended staffing levels across all Bureaus, Divisions, and units in the Department. These are the “Recommended” figures presented in the report. The “Current” numbers presented are as of June 2023. Given the dynamic nature of the “Current” number, the “Recommended” number is the unchanging baseline.

Major Findings

The results of the analysis indicate that the San Francisco Police Department has a significant staffing deficit across both sworn and non-sworn professional staff.

A summary table showing current and recommended staffing for the San Francisco Police Department by Bureau is shown below followed by a brief discussion of high-level themes and recommendations.

Sworn Staff: High-level Themes

The San Francisco Police Department has a substantial sworn staffing shortage in the Field Operations, Investigations, and Special Operations Bureaus.

In line with industry best practices, the Project Team conducted a workload-based quantitative analysis using community-generated calls for service (CFS) to determine that the District Stations have a significant resource need in Sector Patrol, representing those Officers in sector cars that are responsible for responding to calls for service from the public. According to the President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing, building trust and legitimacy on both sides of the police-citizen divide is the foundational principle underlying relations between law enforcement and the communities they serve. Therefore, the Department and the City have set the directive and expectation that Sector Patrol Officers should not only respond to calls for service, but also ideally have dedicated time for engaging with community residents and local businesses. Per the report on 21st Century Policing, community policing emphasizes working with neighborhood residents to coproduce public safety. Law enforcement agencies should, therefore, work with community residents to identify problems and collaborate on implementing solutions, yet these activities are resource intensive, requiring time from police officers and Department personnel, and must be accounted for when determining staffing need.

In the post-pandemic environment, the City's objective is to ensure that

San Francisco is a vibrant and welcoming place for residents and visitors alike. The City has launched various initiatives aimed at keeping San Francisco's communities safe, such as targeted interventions addressing gun violence. San Francisco's gun intervention program, launched in February 2021 as a coordinated response between the City's law enforcement agencies, implements strategies to help reduce shootings, break the cycle of recidivism, and build trust between the community and the Police Department. Other initiatives include the Mid-Market Vibrancy and Safety Plan, the Tourism Deployment Plan, and the Drug Market Agency Coordination Center. SFPD is central to these initiatives by providing staffing resources to deter crime, engage with the community, and problem-solve with other involved agencies. The Department is fully supportive – but it must be recognized that such initiatives require specialized resources. Due to staffing shortages and citywide resource prioritization, some of the smaller District Stations have temporarily disbanded their specialized units such as Footbeat and Homeless Outreach Officers to ensure adequate Sector Patrol coverage. Additionally, members needed for sworn administrative functions have been assisting Sector Patrol on a rotational basis, which provides some relief in patrol, but at the expense of delays or backlog in the administrative functions.

In addition to the Field Operations Bureau, the Investigations Bureau and the Special Operations Bureau, whose functions require law enforcement expertise and jurisdiction in all operations, have demonstrated sworn staffing need based on workload and coverage metrics. Current trends in organized retail theft, shootings, and homicides require that the Investigations Bureau collaborate with other regional agencies and City partners to address complex, organized crime, and increase investigative efforts across the Bureau in response to rising caseloads. Staffing needs in the Special Operations Bureau has been identified in the traffic enforcement and in the Tactical Division, to ensure minimum coverage for specialized units such as SWAT that operate in teams.

Professional Staff: High-level Themes

Professional staff, Department members who are not sworn police officers, possess unique expertise and skills in areas such as analysis, and hence contribute to Department operations and support in critical

SFPD HAS A SIGNIFICANT NEED FOR HIGHLY TRAINED PROFESSIONAL STAFF TO SUPPORT ANALYTICAL, TECHNICAL, AND MANAGEMENT FUNCTIONS THROUGHOUT THE DEPARTMENT.

WHILE THE MAJORITY OF THE STAFFING NEED AT THE DISTRICT STATIONS IS IN SECTOR PATROL, THERE IS A RESOURCE NEED IN SPECIALIZED UNITS (E.G., FOOTBEATS) AT THE DISTRICT STATIONS.

areas. Throughout the report, these Department members are referred to interchangeably as professional staff, civilians or civilian members, and non-sworn staff. The San Francisco Police Department has a shortage of professional staff given the increasing demand for analytics and reporting, policy development, technology, and specialized expertise.

Over the last several years, the breadth and depth of analytical projects in the Department have increased dramatically due to various factors. These include the Collaborative Reform Initiative (CRI) implementation and ongoing progress monitoring; an internal shift toward using management analyses in decision-making, with specialized units such as the Crime Strategies Division and the Staffing and Deployment Unit undertaking such data-oriented projects; and increased externally facing reporting and interface with external partners, exemplified by the work conducted by the Business Analysis Team and the Policy and Public Affairs Office.

Conducting and managing the Department's analytical projects is one piece, and the other is technology. Given the increasingly technological nature of the field, driven in part by the demand for large IT infrastructure projects and systems that can seamlessly store and report large volumes of data, and the continuously involving demand for advanced IT security, the Department has a significant need for technically trained professional staff, in areas from IT Project Management to IT Architecture and Operations to IT Support.

There is a significant need for professional staff who possess a broad skillset in management operations to enhance the functionality of units across the Department. Historically, operational units have relied heavily on Clerks for data entry and record keeping, and it would be beneficial to expand the role of professional staff in administrative management. A classification such as a Management Assistant can manage office operations, conduct basic reporting and analysis, author memos and newsletters, and develop and implement processes. Various units across the Department would greatly benefit from professional staff trained in operational management, from the Captain's Staff at District Stations to the Community Engagement Division, to the units responsible for the Department's permitting functions.

Other examples of professional staffing needs can be seen with the Department's Forensic Services Division, which requires specialized positions such as Criminalists, who are trained in forensic investigation; and in the ID Unit, which requires Fingerprint Technicians, who are trained in biometric identification systems. The Project Team recommends full civilianization of the Crime Scene Investigations (CSI) unit, transitioning Sworn Sergeants and Officers to the civilian Criminalist or Latent Examiner classification.

At the District level, Police Services Aides (PSAs) would be beneficial as they are able to work alongside sworn members in areas such as staffing public facing windows at the District Stations and taking certain types of reports. PSAs would also prove useful in areas such as the Report Writing Units by facilitating continuity in operations and providing high-quality service and may yield opportunities to civilianize portions of sworn member job duties.

According to the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) Model Policy establishing law enforcement agencies' commitment to hiring and utilizing professional staff, the "efficiency and effectiveness of law enforcement agencies is enhanced when sworn and non-sworn personnel are appropriately used to perform those functions that are best suited to their special knowledge, skills and abilities." Throughout, the full report suggests civilian staffing opportunities that can be categorized by: the complete civilianization of a position, the addition of a civilian position to remove some job duties from a sworn member and hence utilize the sworn member's expertise elsewhere, and the addition of a civilian position because the unit's responsibilities necessitate additional staffing and specialized professional staff expertise in particular. The full report provides detailed analysis and considerations.

Methodologies Used to Determine Recommended Staffing

The methodologies used to determine staffing levels for the Field Operations Bureau are listed below followed by brief Bureau-specific examples.

- Workload-based Methodology: The Project Team conducted a workload analysis based on community-generated calls for service (CFS) to determine staffing for Sector Patrol Officers.
- Ratio-based Methodology: The industry best practice span of control ratio of one Sergeant to six Officers is used to determine staffing for Sector Patrol Sergeants, who provide street-level supervision to Sector Patrol Officers.
- Non-scaling Methodology: An example here is Community Engagement Division (CED), as staffing levels are driven by Department priorities, initiatives, and staffing availability.

Summary and Recommendations

- The majority of sworn need in the Field Operations Bureau is in Patrol (District Stations), where the Project Team recommends an additional 404 sworn members across the Metro Division and the Golden Gate Division. The workload-based analysis indicates that the majority of sworn staffing need is in Sector Patrol for both Divisions, with additional resources needed to fully staff District Station specialized assignments such as Foot Beat Officers.
- The City and the Department need to determine priorities and vision around SFPD's involvement in the City's response to homelessness. In September 2021, SFPD's HSOC staffing level was the bare minimum for SFPD having any presence at all at HSOC the Department's HSOC presence had been entirely disbanded due to SFPD's ongoing operational need for staffing. However, with recent changes to Department prioritization, HSOC has been restaffed and restructured to work within the new Mid-City Division. Future SFPD staffing at HSOC must be driven by the City's vision for the Department's role in HSOC and staffing availability. Similarly, staffing for the Community Engagement Division (CED) is based on Department policy initiatives and staffing levels must be determined based on prioritization and resource availability.

- There are opportunities for increased professional staffing in various units throughout the Field Operations Bureau to facilitate improved operational management and service delivery. Subunits such as [Overtime] Police Law Enforcement Services (PLES) in the FOB-HQ have significant administrative tasks involving record keeping and coordination and could benefit from a Management Assistant; Alcohol Liaison Unit and Permits similarly are responsible for a range of different administrative processes and coordination with internal and external partners and could benefit from professional staff trained in operations. At the District Stations, a Management Assistant would play a valuable role on the Captain's Staff and would be tasked with office operations, basic reporting and analysis, and authoring newsletters. Finally, the Department should consider utilizing professional staff rather than sworn members on temporary modified duty (TMD) in the newly formed Report Writing Unit to promote continuity and a high level of service.
- Given the breadth and depth of the analytical work conducted by the Crime Strategies Division (CSD), there is a significant need for Analyst positions in the Division. CSD supports the entire Operations branch of the Department – Field Operations Bureau, Investigations Bureau, and Special Operations Bureau – in conducting strategic, tactical, and operational analyses and case support. Using a ratio-based methodology established by the International Association of Crime Analysts (IACA), the Project Team recommends additional staffing in CSD.

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

The methodologies used to determine staffing levels for the Investigations Bureau are listed below followed by brief Bureau-specific examples.

- Workload-based Methodology: The Project Team conducted analyses using the number of assigned cases to be investigated and hours per case to determine staffing such as Sergeant Investigators in investigative units and Fingerprint Technician in the Forensic Services Division.
- Ratio-based Methodology: The Project Team used a ratio-based span of control methodology to determine staffing for supervisory positions such as Sergeants supervising Officers in some investigative units and Criminalist Supervisors supervising Criminalists in the Forensic Services Division.
- Non-scaling Methodology: Examples of positions that do not scale to workload or other metrics include leadership positions such as the Lieutenant that serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of an investigative unit and positions in Special Investigations such as the liaison with the US Marshall's Task Force.

Summary and Recommendations

- Based on the caseload-based analyses conducted, the Project Team recommends additional sworn staffing primarily in the Strategic Investigations Division, the Major Crimes Division, and the Special Victims Unit. In the Strategic Investigations Division, caseload data indicates the need for additional Investigators in the Homicide Unit and Crime Gun Investigation Center (CGIC); in the Major Crimes Division, there is a need for additional Investigators in the Robbery, Burglary, and Narcotics Units. Special Victims Unit (SVU) covers a broad range of person crimes and conducts a large portion of the Department's rebookings; caseloads have remained relatively constant, yet current staffing is down significantly due to retirements and assignment to other units.

- The Forensic Services Division has a need for professional staff who possess specialized skills and training in specific areas. For example, Criminalists in Forensic Services are trained to scientifically analyze the nature, origin, and significance of physical evidence in criminal investigations; additional Criminalists are needed to support the chemical analysis function in the Forensic Alcohol section. The ID Unit requires additional Fingerprint Technicians, trained specifically in fingerprinting and biometric identification systems, to support the unit's workload.
- The Project Team recommends that the Department initiate the process of civilianizing Crime Scene Investigations (CSI). This process is possible but not timely; the Department should explore civilianization options for the Unit while maintaining current staffing to provide continuity of operations and service.

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

The methodologies used to determine staffing levels for the Special Operations Bureau are listed below followed by brief Bureau-specific examples.

- Workload-based Methodology: The Project Team conducted a workload-based analysis using the number of investigated traffic collisions and the time per case to determine recommended staffing for the Traffic Collision Investigations Unit (TCIU).
- Ratio-based Methodology: The Project Team used a ratio-based span of control methodology to determine staffing for supervisory positions such as Sergeants supervising Officers on Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) teams
- Fixed Post Methodology: The Project Team used the “fixed post” methodology to determine staffing for units with coverage requirements, meaning that the Project Team must consider that operationally teams must be staffed on both sides of the watch and across multiple shifts. One example is the SWAT team: to ensure full coverage, recommended staffing is four teams of one Sergeant and seven Officers.
- Non-Scaling Methodology: The Special Operations Bureau has several positions that do not scale to workload or other metrics. Examples are positions whose staffing is determined via directive codified in grant agreements with other City and regional/federal agencies such as positions in the Port Unit and Homeland Security/Urban Areas Security Initiative. The non-scaling methodology is also used to determine staffing for positions that provide highly specialized skills and expertise to the Department.

Summary and Recommendations

- The Project Team recommends additional staffing in the Traffic Division, the Tactical Division, and the Homeland Security Unit based on analyses conducted using the methodologies described above. In the Traffic Division, resources are recommended primarily in Traffic Enforcement, with some additional staffing recommended in Traffic Collision Investigations Unit (TCIU). In the Tactical Division, additional resources are recommended in SWAT and in the Honda Unit based on the fixed post, team-based structure utilized by both units. Minimal positions are recommended in Homeland Security based on grant funding agreements currently in place.

- The Project Team recommends that the Department explore options for civilianizing the Department Operations Center (DOC). Currently DOC is staffed with sworn members who are less than full duty (and therefore not fully deployable to other assignments) based on some sort of temporary modified duty (TMD) classification or pending disciplinary investigation. Therefore, sworn members in this assignment are often only temporarily assigned to provide call center services, and may not provide a standard level of service and continuity. As a large portion of DOC staffing does not require law enforcement expertise, the Department should consider civilianizing DOC for both continuity and to promote high quality service.

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

The methodologies used to determine staffing levels for the Administration Bureau are listed below followed by brief Bureau-specific examples.

- Workload-based Methodology: The Project Team conducted a workload-based analysis using the number of background investigations for potential Police Officer candidates and the time per case to determine recommended staffing for the Background Investigations Unit.
- Ratio-based Methodology: The Project Team used a ratio-based methodology to determine staffing for units like Fleet and Facilities, where a ratio based on the number of Department vehicles and Department facilities, respectively, is used to determine recommended staffing; the Range, where a ratio based on the number of sworn members in the Department is used; and various units in the Academy, where Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) mandates instructor-to-trainee ratios in training classes.
- Non-scaling Methodology: Examples include staffing for units that are specific Department and citywide priorities such as the Office of Equity and Inclusion (OEI). San Francisco’s Office of Racial Equity (ORE) was established via ordinance in July 2019; ORE has the authority to enact a citywide Racial Equity Framework and to direct City departments to develop and implement mandated Racial Equity Action Plans (REAP). SFPD’s OEI was created in response to the Racial Equity Framework and the Department’s REAP.

Summary and Recommendations

- The Administration Bureau needs additional professional staff in some key areas: Fleet and Facilities in the Administration Division, various units in the Staff Services Division, and in Crime Information Services. The Project Team recommends additional staff in the Fleet and Facilities units to effectively manage and maintain the Department’s physical assets. In the Staff Services Division, additional analytical resources are needed to support the Bureau’s analytical projects on recruitment, hiring, training, retention, and staffing.

- The Department should consider centralizing command of the Fleet and Facilities unit entirely within the Administration Division. Currently, the Automotive Service Workers and the Facilities Coordinators that manage and maintain the District Station vehicles and facilities, respectively, report to the Commanding Officers of their respective stations. Developing a centralized management and reporting structure would facilitate standardized processes, unified direction, and more efficient management of the Department's physical assets.
- The Department worked with the City's Department of Human Resources (DHR) to create a civilian Background Investigator classification that is now active. Background Investigators are important because they are responsible for conducting background investigations on potential police officer candidates, a critical role in the Department's hiring pipeline. Past studies identified the Background Investigator position as an opportunity for civilianization and this recommendation has largely been fulfilled, as the unit is comprised of predominantly professional staff. Many of the civilian part-time Investigators in the Background Investigations unit are now under the new classification, and the Department should continue to explore the implications of utilizing part-time versus full-time Investigators.
- There is an opportunity to civilianize all sworn positions within the Records Management of CIS. Records Management is responsible for the collection, storage, and distribution of all incident reports; and the maintenance of historic records, with the added responsibility of ensuring that all digital records are searchable and available to be used for statistical and investigative purposes. Staff in the unit are responsible for fulfilling information requests from the public, other agencies, and internal units. While some Officers are assigned to Records Management due to temporary activity restrictions, there are some sworn members who hold a permanent assignment. All duties and responsibilities of Records Management, which are largely administrative, can be performed by professional staff.
- The Property Control Division of CIS needs additional support and can utilize members on temporary modified duty (TMD) to prepare for the Division's anticipated planned relocation. The Property Control Division is responsible for maintaining and processing all property and evidence that is entered into the custody of the San Francisco Police Department. Considering physical limitations, additional support is needed with administrative tasks to prepare for the move. Thousands of old cases will need to be reviewed to determine if property and evidence can be disposed of and items will need to be barcoded, packed, transported, and/or prepared for destruction. This is a temporary assignment that provides an opportunity for the Department to utilize sworn members with temporary activity restrictions in the one-time, critical task of assisting with the Division's anticipated relocation.

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

The methodologies used to determine staffing levels for the Strategic Management Bureau are listed below followed by brief Bureau-specific examples.

- Ratio-based Methodology: The Project Team used a ratio-based span of control methodology to determine the appropriate staffing levels for supervisory roles based on the targeted number of direct reports for a specific unit/function. For example, span of control for the Program Manager of the Business Analysis Team scales at a rate of one full-time equivalent (FTE) per 10 direct reports; the Business Analysis Team currently has seven Analysts which can be managed by one Program Manager.
- Non-scaling Methodology: Many of the units and roles within the Strategic Management Bureau are specialized and are not scalable to workload or other metrics. These positions are unique and staffing levels are determined by Department leaders and key decision makers.

Summary and Recommendations

- The Project Team recommends additional professional staff in the Professional Standards and Principled Policing (PSPP) Unit to support growing needs in data collection, monitoring, and reporting. The Collaborative Reform Initiatives (CRI) has been a high priority for the Department over the last seven years. With 90% compliance of the 272 DOJ recommendations, the CRI Team has developed individual project plans with aspirations to complete the remaining recommendations by April 2024. Professional Standards and Principled Policing will need additional resources to sustain the CRI efforts and implement change management. Data collection and transparency continue to be critical aspects of Department operations, and additional analytical resources are needed to meet the demands of data-driven decision-making and data reporting requirements
- The Project Team recommends additional professional staff in the Fiscal Division, which handles all budgeting, accounting, contracts, and grants for the Department. The Fiscal Division has several vacancies, and citywide changes in technology procurement as well as the City's transition to a new financial management system have placed additional pressure on the Fiscal Division's capacity. The Budget Manager has remained vacant since December 2022 and an additional Analyst is needed to support the workload of the Contracts and Budget Managers.

- The Project Team recommends additional professional staff in various units of the Technology Division as the IT Portfolio Solutions Unit and the Technical Support & Services Unit. The Technology Division provides all communication and information technology support services for the Department in areas including IT Project Management, Architecture and Operations, Applications, Business Intelligence, and IT support. The Project Team recommends additional resources to develop a long-term IT strategic framework and a comprehensive technology training program for the Department, to create redundancy in crucial security and database programming functions, to support the Department's evolving business analysis needs, and to provide high-quality technological support that enables Department members to do their jobs effectively.

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

The methodologies used to determine staffing levels for the Office of Chief of Staff are listed below followed by brief Bureau-specific examples.

- Workload-based Methodology: The Project Team conducted analyses on various measures throughout the different Divisions to determine appropriate staffing levels for Officers, Sergeant Investigators, Legal Assistants, and Clerks. Examples of workload measures include the total number of various Public Records Act (PRA) requests, the number of Internal Affairs (IA) investigations, and the number of officer-involved shootings.
- Ratio-based Methodology: The Project Team used a ratio-based methodology to determine staffing for positions supporting the Court Liaison Unit. Recommended staffing for sworn and civilian members is scaled to the total number of court dates within the calendar year.
- Non-scaling Methodology: Many of the units and roles within the Office of Chief of Staff are specialized and are not scalable to workload or other metrics. These positions are unique and staffing levels are determined by Department leaders and key decision makers.

Summary and Recommendations

- Given recent legislative changes, the Project Team recommends additional professional staff in the Legal Division within the Risk Management Office. Senate Bill (SB) 1421, which mandates the disclosure of all records connected to officer-involved shootings, use of force resulting in great bodily injury, and cases of dishonesty and/or sexual assault by Department members, has increased workload significantly for all Divisions and a significant backlog exists. Senate Bill (SB) 16, which became effective on January 1, 2022, has also increased the workload for all Risk Management units, as this bill expands use of force disclosures and allows for the release of sustained findings of unlawful/discriminatory conduct by Department members.

- The Media Relations Unit and the Policy and Public Affairs Office need additional specialized and analytical professional staffing. As social media platforms continue to evolve, there is a great demand for video content and Media Relations needs an additional videographer to support the Department's multiple video projects. In addition to liaising with the Board of Supervisors and collaborating with the Police Commission, the Policy and Public Affairs office must stay up to date with constantly changing legislation. Currently the unit does not have the resource availability to routinely review more than 30 state bills that impact the Department and participate regularly in all committee meetings and therefore additional analytical support is recommended.
- Given the Police Commission's decision to apply the Department's Code of Conduct (DGO 2.01) and all other DGOs to civilian employees, the Labor Relations Office needs additional analytical support. Prior to this decision, the Labor Relations Office only worked with the two unions for sworn members: Police Officers Association (POA) and the San Francisco Municipal Executives Association (SFMEA). Effective September 2021, the Labor Relations Office must now provide an opportunity to meet and confer for the general ordinance with all 10 unions that represent employees in the Department.

Summary and Recommendations

- There is a need for additional support within the Chief's Office to assist with various administrative tasks. Members in the Chief's Office provide high-level administrative support for the Chief of Police in managing the oversight of the Department and its operations. Sworn Detail triages, refers, and elevates points of contact to the Chief as appropriate, and serves as an escort detail for the Chief. Staffing has decreased in recent years due to promotions and other Department staffing priorities. The Department has created a Constitutional Policing Unit to provide policy advice to the Chief of Police and Department staff on strategies to support effective, constitutional policing through identifying areas of improvement, policy development, and facilitation of Department training and policing strategies.

Conclusion

The analysis shows that the San Francisco Police Department has a significant staffing deficit across both sworn and professional staff when assessed against recommended staffing levels, determined using the industry-reputed methodologies used by Matrix Consulting Group and prescribed in Police Commission Resolution No. 21-60. # Field Operations Bureau

Overview

The Field Operations Bureau provides patrol services to the City and County of San Francisco. There are 10 District Stations located throughout San Francisco, organized under two Divisions: Metro and Golden Gate. Each District Station includes Sector Patrol cars, which respond to community-generated calls for service, and specialized station assignments like Foot/Bike Beat, Homeless Outreach, and Housing officers. Full duty sworn members across all ranks in Patrol – meaning, assigned to the District Stations – represent approximately 65% of the Department’s full duty sworn workforce.

The Field Operations Bureau also includes specific units located at Police Headquarters that provide centralized operational support to the Bureau in areas such as creating citywide event plans, managing vendor contracts in the hiring of off duty personnel to provide uniformed patrol, and coordination of the Department’s Cadet program. The Field Operations Bureau also includes citywide units that operate permitting and crisis intervention training and implementation, and SFPD’s unit within San Francisco’s Healthy Streets Operations Center (HSOC). The Department’s Community Engagement Division (CED) and new Drug Market Agency Coordination Center (DMACC) also sits within the Field Operations Bureau.

Recommended Staffing

The results of the analysis indicate a significant staffing need at the District Stations in order to handle workload demand. The next section provides an explanation of the workload-based methodology utilized to determine staffing.

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

Workload-based Methodology

Sector Patrol Officers are responsible for responding to community-generated calls for service; these are the Officers that arrive on-scene when members of the public request law enforcement services. At each District Station, Lieutenants oversee the Sector Patrol function, while Sergeants provide street-level supervision and the Police Officer rank responds to calls for service.

The District Stations represent approximately 65% of the Department's sworn full duty workforce, and approximately 80% of Officers at the District Stations are assigned to Sector Patrol. Providing direct patrol services accounts for a significant portion of the Department's resources and this function is paramount to the services provided by any law enforcement agency. The following section provides a detailed description of the methodology used to determine workload and service levels at each District Station, metrics that are then used to determine recommended staffing levels for Sector Patrol Officers. Per industry best practices, Sector Patrol Officer staffing needs are determined using a workload-based methodology based on calls for service from the public.

Sector Patrol Officer Definition

- SECTOR PATROL ONLY: Sector Patrol units are identified in the data by a "call sign" code that indicates the District Station, the assignment, and the shift. To be included in this analysis, the assignment number must represent a Sector Patrol unit. Other station personnel assigned to units such as Foot/Bike Beat, Housing, Homeless Outreach, and Plainclothes are not included in this analysis. Even though officers in specialized units do respond to calls for service (e.g., a Footbeat officer may respond to call for service in the designated beat area), it is not their primary responsibility to do so, as is the case with Sector Patrol.
- OFFICER RANK ONLY: Sector Patrol supervisors (Lieutenants and Sergeants) are not included in this analysis. Other methodologies such as span of control are used to determine Sector Patrol supervisory staffing levels.

METHODOLOGY SUMMARY: Recommended staffing for Officers assigned to Sector Patrol is calculated by measuring workload, which is community-generated calls for service (CFS), and the time it takes to respond to the CFS workload, as well as accounting for time dedicated to community engagement and time dedicated to administrative tasks. Time spent on community engagement is a policy decision for which a target must be set. Workload is then assessed against staffing availability, which is the net available work hours (NAWH) for personnel, representing work time available after leave and training.

Workload – Community-Generated Calls for Service (CFS)

Data

The Project Team calculated the community-generated calls for service workload of Sector Patrol Officers by analyzing incidents in the computer-aided dispatch (CAD) system for calendar year 2022. The Covid-19 pandemic dramatically impacted law enforcement call volume across the nation in calendar year 2020 and has been declining each year since.

Criteria

For incidents to be classified as a community-generated call for service in this analysis, the following criteria must be met:

- The incident was first created in calendar year 2022.
- The incident must have been assigned to a unit designated as Sector Patrol via the “call sign” identifier 1-19. This includes both one-person and two-person Sector Patrol units.
- The incident is a community-generated call for service and therefore NOT an “on view” incident (e.g., a self-initiated traffic stop). Specific incident types that are likely to be self-initiated as well as administrative call codes are excluded from this analysis.
- The incident is a unique record (duplicate records have been eliminated from the analysis).

Using this methodology, the Project Team determined the community-generated calls for service workload for Sector Patrol officers at the 10 District Stations. It should be noted that the calls for service figures presented in this analysis are a specific subset of SFPD total calls for service given that these incidents represent: 1) only those that are community-generated (rather than self-initiated), 2) were responded to by a unit assigned to Sector Patrol, and 3) by personnel holding the Officer rank.

Workload Hours – Time Spent on Calls for Service

Calls for service workload hours – the hourly measurement of the time spent responding to CFS – are determined by multiplying the number of community-generated calls for service and the time spent responding to (“handling”) this workload. “Handling time” (HT) represents the duration of time from the call dispatch timestamp to the call close time stamp in order to accurately account for the interval of time that a unit spends committed to a call. This is the same handling time interval used by Matrix Consulting Group to calculate Sector Patrol workload hours. It should be noted that this analysis excludes the duration between the time a call was created to the dispatch timestamp. This time is often included in the overall response time in other reports which includes responsibilities handled by both DEM and SFPD.

Furthermore, more serious calls for service result in an assigned (primary) unit responding to the incident with an additional backup unit(s) subsequently responding to provide additional support. As these backup units are devoting staffing hours toward a particular call, backup unit responses and backup unit handling time must also be included in the calls for service workload hours. On average, backup unit handling time is longer than assigned unit handling time for a few key reasons. First, incidents that warrant support from additional units are inherently more severe and hence generally record longer handling times. Similarly, incidents of higher severity often require multiple backup units, and additional handling time for all backup units must be included to accurately represent workload hours.

Based on professional experience, Matrix Consulting Group estimated backup unit handling time at a rate of 75% of the assigned unit’s handling time on each individual call, and the Project Team used the same methodology and estimate. The overall average backup unit handling time is higher than the overall average handling time for assigned units for the reasons described above.

Therefore, the workload hours calculation of Sector Patrol staffing must include:

- The number of community-generated calls for service for the assigned unit, and the number of backup unit responses to these calls for service
- Average handling time for assigned unit and backup units

The following table presents these calculations, showing the total workload hours resulting from the community-generated calls for service workload.

CFS hours are taken in tandem with administrative time and an established community engagement time target to determine the number of unit hours needed to handle workload. This entails handling calls for service and related administrative tasks, while retaining sufficient time for Officers to engage in community engagement activities.

Utilization

Administrative Time

Recent staffing analyses have measured and estimated time spent on administrative tasks using slightly different methodologies. While the CAD system includes various administrative codes (under the “10-7” identifier) to indicate unit administrative activity, the 10-7 code is used inconsistently – and on a limited basis – across the District Stations. For example, units are often writing reports but display themselves in CAD as available (“10-8”) should they need to respond to a call, and events like meal breaks are rarely recorded in the CAD system. As units run from call to call, administrative time is limited, fragmented, and not recorded consistently in the dispatch system.

Previous Analyses

In spring 2018, the Controller’s Office released a report on Sector Patrol staffing. The Controller’s Office analyzed the 10-7 code in CAD from FY 2015 to FY 2017 and found that Sector Patrol officers spend 25% of available work time on administrative tasks; the report acknowledged that because “the tracking of administrative tasks is done inconsistently, time on Admin could be higher than 25%” and that 25% administrative time should be considered the minimum. The Controller’s Office also found that call duration for the administrative codes increased by 26% from FY 2015 to FY 2017 and attributed this increase at least in part to policy changes that impact report writing and other policing protocols. In the years since the Controller’s Office analysis, additional reform efforts and subsequent policy changes have come into effect. Therefore, it is likely that Sector Patrol Officer time spent on administrative tasks greatly exceeds the 25% baseline calculated by the Controller’s Office.

Matrix Consulting Group used figures developed from prior work with other jurisdictions to estimate the time spent on two key types of administrative time:

- Administrative time (meal breaks, line up, gas, email, etc.) – estimated at 263 hours
- Report writing time – based on number of reports written and estimated at 45 minutes per report

Due to the inconsistency of the administrative time data in the CAD system, the Project Team utilized the same estimates and methodology as those utilized in the analysis conducted by Matrix Consulting Group. Estimated report writing time, which is a component of administrative time for which an actual hour estimate is available, is shown below.

Report Writing Hours by District Station

| District Station           | # Reports | Estimated Time/Report (Hours) | Report Writing Hours |
|----------------------------|-----------|-------------------------------|----------------------|

Community Engagement Time

Community engagement time is calculated by deducting 1) CFS workload hours and 2) administrative hours from net available work hours (NAWH). Community engagement time represents the balance of time units have available after responding to calls for service and conducting job-related administrative work. Setting a target for community engagement time enables units to problem-solve and interact with the community – residents, visitors, and merchants – in a manner that is not possible when units are running from call to call to call.

It is important to note that setting a target for the amount of community engagement time is a policy decision that must be set by the organization or jurisdiction based the priorities of the community that the agency serves. The Police Executive Research Forum’s (PERF) 2008 “Organizational Assessment of the San Francisco Police Department” determined via extensive interviews with San Francisco community members, members of the Police Department, and elected and appointed local government officials that “Officers assigned to the 10 districts are expected to perform reactive policing tasks in response to calls for service but also to perform proactive tasks featuring substantial community engagement and partnership.” In the many years since the PERF study was conducted, the expectation that officers engage with the community has only increased given reform efforts, many of which are explicitly recommended in the Department’s Collaborative Reform Initiative (CRI) and the ongoing recognition that community engagement and policing is a cornerstone of 21st century police reform. Best practice research indicates that the industry standard target for time devoted to community engagement should be 30-40%<sup>1</sup>. Matrix

<sup>1</sup> Previous analyses conducted by the Controller’s Office and by the Police Executive Research Forum (PERF) utilized the following breakdown: 30-35% time spent responding to calls for service, and 25-30% administrative time with a remaining balance of approximately 40% community engagement time, respectively.

Consulting Group used a target of 30% of Sector Patrol time devoted to community engagement. This analysis uses the same target of 30% community engagement time.

Staffing Availability

Out of the total number of hours that an employee could theoretically work over the course of the year, only a certain percentage of these hours are actually worked and spent on-duty in the employee's assignment after leave and training. This figure represents net available work hours (NAWH).

Net Available Work Hours Calculation

| Definition                             | Explanation                                    | Number of Hours |
|----------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|-----------------|
| Max # work hours per year              | 40 hours/week x 52 weeks/year                  | 2,080           |
| Leave hours                            | Estimated usage of paid leave (FH, SP, VA)     | (310)           |
| Court hours                            | On duty court time                             | (60)            |
| Training hours                         | On duty training allotment per year            | (50)            |
| Net Available Work Hours (NAWH) | Time balance available for on-duty work | 1,660    |

It is a policy decision whether an agency chooses to operate one- or two-person units. SFPD's Chief has previously directed that Sector Patrol should operate two-person units for officer safety and officer accountability. In response to declining staffing levels and to maintain coverage, one-person units are prevalent during certain shifts and at particular stations. Matrix Consulting Group estimated that 98.2% of Sector Patrol units are two-person and therefore the Project Team deemed it necessary to conduct an analysis of calls responded to by one-person units by District Station. For each District Station, the Project Team analyzed the percentage of calls within the respective district that were responded to by a one-person versus a two-person unit, identified by the unit's "call sign" identifier.

Calls for Service Responded to by One- and Two-Person Units by District Station

| District Station           | One Person Units | Two Person Units | Total       |
|----------------------------|------------------|------------------|-------------|
| Co. A - Central Station    | 14.58%           | 85.42%           | 100.00%     |
| Co. B - Southern Station   | 19.90%           | 80.10%           | 100.00%     |
| Co. C - Bayview Station    | 3.13%            | 96.87%           | 100.00%     |
| Co. D - Mission Station    | 8.94%            | 91.06%           | 100.00%     |
| Co. E - Northern Station   | 7.81%            | 92.19%           | 100.00%     |
| Co. F - Park Station       | 12.58%           | 87.42%           | 100.00%     |
| Co. G - Richmond Station   | 18.06%           | 81.94%           | 100.00%     |
| Co. H - Ingleside Station  | 4.27%            | 95.73%           | 100.00%     |
| Co. I - Taraval Station    | 15.88%           | 84.12%           | 100.00%     |
| Co. J - Tenderloin Station | 8.58%            | 91.42%           | 100.00%     |
| Citywide            | 11%       | 89%       | 100% |

The results of the analysis indicate that citywide, two-person units respond to approximately 89% percent of calls, and one-person units respond to approximately 11% of calls. This is a departure from previous operating procedures. The District Station-level results show that some stations respond to calls with two-person units over 90% of the time, while others run one-person units more frequently.

While it may be appropriate in limited instances to run one-person units, the Department aims to staff Sector Patrol with two-person units to promote officer safety and accountability. Significantly, two-person units align with the reform efforts and training that the Department has been implementing around de-escalation and Critical Mindset and Coordinated Response (CMCR) training. This analysis uses the two-person unit “ideal state” in determining staffing need. Therefore, in this Sector Patrol analysis, the staffing availability figure in question is for the Sector Patrol unit – two Officers that jointly operate a sector car – rather than an individual employee. The number of Sector Patrol units by District Station is shown below.

Sector Patrol Units by District Station

| District Station           | # Ofc. | # Units |
|----------------------------|--------|---------|
| Co. A - Central Station    | 96     | 48      |
| Co. B - Southern Station   | 124    | 62      |
| Co. C - Bayview Station    | 102    | 51      |
| Co. D - Mission Station    | 122    | 61      |
| Co. E - Northern Station   | 112    | 56      |
| Co. F - Park Station       | 52     | 26      |
| Co. G - Richmond Station   | 62     | 31      |
| Co. H - Ingleside Station  | 96     | 48      |
| Co. I - Taraval Station    | 84     | 42      |
| Co. J - Tenderloin Station | 84     | 42      |

Putting the Analysis Together

Workload hours are then assessed against staffing availability, which includes unit NAWH with utilization rates for administrative time (reporting writing time and an estimate for tasks such as Department emails, gas, etc.) and community engagement time, set at 30% of NAWH), factored in. This calculation hence determines the recommended number of Sector Patrol Officers by District Station based on workload.

Additional Staffing Considerations

Hospital Watch

For incidents in which SFPD makes an arrest, the prisoner must see a nurse prior to being admitted to the County Jail. If the nurse rejects the prisoner’s admission for medical reasons, the prisoner must go to Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital (ZSFGH) until cleared. SFPD is responsible for remaining with the prisoner until they are officially booked, taking available work time away from District Station patrol efforts. In the first 24 hours of a hospital watch, the arresting Sector Patrol Officers are generally responsible for the remaining with the prisoner. The Project Team analyzed the 10-7H “Admin Time – Hospital Watch” code and found that citywide in 2022, approximately 15,000 hours were devoted to hospital watch. In order to account for this known number of workload hours, the Project Team incorporated District Station-level hospital watch data into the workload analysis. These figures are minimal compared to the workload hours devoted to responding to calls for service; however, it is important to factor in known workload where data is available.

Shift Schedules

The SFPD uses a 10-hour shift platoon schedule for officers assigned to patrol. A research study funded by the Police Foundation analyzed the differences between an 8-hour, 10-hour, and 12-hour shift lengths (Karen L. Amendola, 2011). The study sample included 226 volunteers from the Detroit Police Department and Arlington Police Department over the course of two years. Researchers examined numerous areas of interest, including officer performance, safety, health, quality of life, fatigue, sleep, and extra-duty employment, in order to examine the potential advantages and disadvantages associated with various shift schedules. Key findings from the study suggests that:

- 10-hour shifts have several advantages over 8-hour shifts:
  - Reduces the number of days worked, the total amount of commute time, and the likelihood of working on a holiday
  - Provides an overlap period between shifts when officers from two shifts are working, effectively allowing the Department to double staffing during peak demand times
  - Officers assigned to 10-hour shifts reported significantly more sleep per night (over half an hour) and a significantly higher quality of work life
  - Officers assigned to 10-hour shifts worked the least amount of overtime amongst the three shift-lengths
- Benefits from 10-hour shifts did not extend to 12-hour shifts:
  - Officers assigned to 12-hour shifts did not report sleeping significantly more hours than those on 8-hour shifts
  - Officers assigned to 12-hour shifts worked less overtime than those working 8-hour shifts, but worked comparatively more overtime hours than those on 10-hour shifts
- 12-hour shifts may pose safety risks to officers and the public:
  - Officers assigned to 12-hour shifts had significantly lower levels of alertness and were sleepier than those on 8-hour shifts. These findings were not true for those on 10-hour shifts
- 8-hour shifts may be more costly
  - Officers assigned to 8-hour shifts worked significantly more overtime than those on 10-hour or 12-hour shifts

The study noted that shift length did not have a significant impact on measures of performance, safety, work-family conflict, or health. While there may be varying advantages with each shift length, the Department acknowledges that any major changes to the work schedule policy will require a meet and confer process with the Police Officers Association.

Response Times

Response times are not a direct input into the workload-based calls for service methodology, yet analyzing response time service levels provides additional insight into Sector Patrol staffing.

Response time analytics developed by the Controller's Office in partnership with SFPD and the Department of Emergency Management (DEM) define the SFPD response time as call entry to on-scene, representing the interval from when the DEM dispatcher enters the call into the queue until the time that the first SFPD unit arrives on-scene. For the Fiscal Year 2021-2022, the median SFPD response time for Priority A calls was 6.64 minutes. This means that for half of the calls with imminent threat to life or property, an SFPD unit arrived on scene within 6.64 minutes or faster, indicating an effective response to high priority incidents. However, as the Department continues to experience staffing challenges, response times have increased compared to prior years.

For Priority C calls, the median SFPD response time over the same time period was 64 minutes, meaning that only half of non-emergency calls were responded to within that time. In this analysis, 26% of calls were classified as Priority C. It is not typical for a response time to have wait times of well over an hour in many instances. This finding indicates a resource shortage: Sector Patrol units are quickly responding to high priority incidents, but are running from call to call without adequate time to address lower priority incidents, which are subject to significant wait times.

SFPD, the Controller's Office, and DEM continue to monitor Priority A, B, and C response times through a dashboard developed via a mutually agreed upon methodology.

Events, Special Details, and Backfill

SFPD must plan for and staff events throughout San Francisco and there are hundreds of events citywide every year. The number of citywide events is expected to approach pre-Covid-19 levels. With the significant staffing losses from the past three years, a larger portion of required event staffing is now performed on overtime; however, on-duty work time likely accounts for a significant portion of event staffing, particularly for smaller events localized to individual Districts. SFPD currently does not have a comprehensive methodology for tracking all the time spent on events. The lack of personnel resources and the disparate systems used for scheduling and payroll currently makes this a difficult and time-consuming task. The Department should determine a system and methodology for tracking event staffing to be included in future analyses. Event staffing is not factored into this analysis.

Moreover, there are specific, high priority incidents such as stunt driving and shootings that specialized units at the Stations are often pulled to handle in order to generate a citywide response. SFPD does not currently have an easy and comprehensive system and methodology for tracking the time that specific District Station units are pulled for these incidents. The Project Team recommends that the Department determine a process and technological solution for doing so in the future. Time spent on these special details are not included in this analysis.

Other methodologies used to determine staffing levels in the Field Operations Bureau include:

Ratio-based Methodology: The industry best practice span of control ratio of one Sergeant to six Officers is used to determine staffing for Sector Patrol Sergeants, who provide street-level supervision to Sector Patrol Officers.

Fixed Post Methodology: An example here is Homeless Outreach Officers for which the Department has determined that District Stations should have coverage in this position throughout the week. Though these Officers are not posted at a specific location, staffing is determined via coverage assignment.

Non-scaling Methodology: Example here is Community Engagement Division (CED), as staffing levels are driven by Department priorities, initiatives, and staffing availability.

FOB Patrol – Unit Descriptions

This section provides an overview and discussion of the units at the District Stations with some additional methodological description where relevant.

Sector Patrol

As described in the previous section, staffing for Officers assigned to Sector Patrol is determined using a workload-based methodology based on community-generated calls for service (CFS).

Patrol Sergeants provide direct supervision to Sector Patrol Officers, providing street-level supervision and responding to serious and complicated calls as needed. Patrol Sergeants also supervise other officers from specialized units (e.g., Foot/Bike Beat, Homeless Outreach) that work the same shift. Sergeants also provide management and guidance in administrative tasks and must sign off on every correspondence or report authored by an Officer. The new Use of Force policy has likely increase administrative time significantly for Sergeants, as they are the first line of review and sign off on all paperwork that must be completed; however, this metric is difficult to measure. As mentioned above, Sergeant staffing is determined via a “span of control” ratio-based methodology in which a single Sergeant should supervise a designated number of Officers based on industry standard of 1:6.

Patrol Lieutenants are responsible for the day-to-day running of the watch to which they are assigned, serving as the operational lead under the District Station Captain. Lieutenants provide minimal direction and supervision in the field and spend the majority of their time managing station operations, including creating staffing and deployment plans, implementing operational orders, addressing personnel-related matters like training and scheduling, reading and signing off on police reports, and various other operational and administrative tasks. Given that Patrol Lieutenants provide day-to-day station-level supervision, Patrol Lieutenant staffing is determined using the fixed post methodology based on watch coverage: Patrol Lieutenants are assigned to opposite watches with morning and afternoon/evening shift start times to ensure coverage.

Foot/Bike Beats

Foot/Bike Beats, referred to as such or as “Footbeat Officers” or “uniformed foot patrol,” facilitate desired public safety outcomes through improved community relationships and high visibility. While foot and bicycle officers do respond to calls for service in their beats, their primary functions are to engage and forge relationships with merchants, residents, and visitors; and to serve as a visible law enforcement presence in the community to deter crime.

Due to the community engagement component of the assignment, Foot/Bike Beats do not scale directly with workload. Staffing is determined using the fixed post methodology in which the Project Team assessed the appropriateness of the current footbeat sectors, utilizing the results of an analysis conducted by public policy think tank California Policy Lab (CPL). Given the demonstrated appropriateness of the current footbeat sectors, the Project Team determined the resources required to provide consistent coverage to these designated footbeat areas. It should be noted that Footbeat staffing may also be determined electively, based on Department and/or citywide prioritization or directive.

The Project Team uses this section to:

1. Provide a discussion on the benefits and efficacy of footbeat staffing in meeting various desired public safety outcomes; and
2. Incorporate available data into the methodology for determining footbeat staffing.

The Benefits of Foot/Bike Beats & Current Initiatives

Footbeat Officers and Community Policing. In 2017, the SFPD Community Engagement Division convened an Executive Sponsor Working Group (ESWG) comprised of SFPD and community stakeholders to develop the Department's first Community Policing Strategic Plan. The Plan was developed in response to the 2016 United States Department of Justice (DOJ) Collaborative Reform Initiative (CRI) and lays out goals, objectives and measures for each unit. Footbeat officers feature prominently throughout the Plan and particularly in the "Goal 4: Relationship-Building" section, with a stated objective of "[increasing] visible officer presence and proactive, positive engagement with individuals outside of calls for service." Toward this objective, ESWG brainstormed that casual interactions or those unrelated to a specific crime incident help build goodwill, as "it is easier to build relationships in good times than in crisis." The group identified "[increasing the] number of foot and bicycle beat officers" as a strategy for promoting relationship-building, also noting that "staffing and funding availability is a huge barrier." Community policing is also the central strategy in the President's Task Force on 21st Century Policing. The introduction of the Implementation Guide describes that: "Community policing is a philosophy as well as a way of doing business. The commitment to work with communities to tackle the immediate and longer-term causes of crime through joint problem-solving reduces crime and improves quality of life."

Footbeat Officers and Decreased Crime. In 2018, nonprofit policy group California Policy Lab (CPL) released a report evaluating the reallocation of police officers from Plainclothes and other special assignments to uniformed foot patrol. The analysis assessed the impact of this reassignment on reported daily criminal incidents for the 120-day period surrounding the policy change, which took place on September 1st, 2017. CPL analyzed micro-level data for the ten most frequently reported offenses and found statistically significant declines in the daily level of larceny thefts and assaults that correspond with the reallocation of police officers to uniformed foot patrol. While this study assesses a short time period and acknowledges that there may be additional external factors at play, the findings suggest that foot beat officers are an effective tool that police departments can utilize to deter crime.

Footbeat Officers and the Reopening of San Francisco. As San Francisco continues to recover and reopen following the 2020 pandemic shutdown, footbeat officers play a critical role in reinvigorating the city and helping to ensure that residents, visitors, and businesses feel welcome and safe. Current initiatives in which SFPD uniformed foot patrol play a vital role include the following:

- Gun Violence Prevention Program. In February 2021, the City introduced the strategies for addressing gun violence through targeted interventions. A coordinated effort between the City’s law enforcement agencies, these programs aim to reduce shootings, break the cycle of recidivism, and build trust between the community and the Police Department.
- Mid-Market Vibrancy and Safety Plan. In May 2021, Mayor London Breed introduced the Mid-Market Vibrancy and Safety Plan which “includes both a visible increase in police presence to deter criminal activity and a community ambassador program to connect people in need with services, and provide a welcoming presence for residents, workers, visitors, and businesses.” SFPD significantly increased deployments in the Mid-Market, UN Plaza and Tenderloin areas, embodying strategies outlined in the SFPD Community Policing Strategic Plan: working collaboratively to problem-solve around issues that impact local residents, businesses and visitors; connecting individuals in need with appropriate services; and building trust with local residents and visitors in a high visibility assignment.
- Tourism Deployment Plan. In mid-July 2021, SFPD deployed additional officers on bicycle and foot patrols to a number of high-traffic and highly sought-after travel destinations in five of the city’s 10 police districts with the goal of protecting tourists and supporting San Francisco’s tourism industry.
- Organized Retail Crime Initiative. On September 22nd, 2021, Mayor London Breed announced the SFPD-led Organized Retail Crime Initiative aimed at reporting, investigating, and solving retail theft crimes. One key element of the Initiative is increased law enforcement presence in hot spot areas, funded in large part through the 10B program in which private entities hire off-duty law enforcement personnel to provide uniformed presence.
- Increased Uniformed Deployment in Union Square and the Tenderloin. Starting in December 2021, the City increased SFPD deployment significantly in the Union Square area. Also in December 2021, Mayor London Breed announced an emergency declaration to deploy additional law enforcement resources to the Tenderloin District.
- SFPD Community Ambassador Program. SFPD’s Community Ambassador program utilizes the deployment of retired officers to highly-trafficked areas such as Fisherman’s Wharf, Union Square, and the Castro. These SFPD Community Ambassadors serve as a visible law enforcement presence, engage with merchants and visitors, and patrol these areas as needed.

Staffing Discussion

Evidently, uniformed foot patrol provides significant benefits to San Francisco through community policing and problem-solving, visible law enforcement presence, and strategic deployment based on the City's priorities. While metrics related to this assignment cannot be directly quantified via workload, the Project Team determined that mapping the crime incidents in the 10 categories analyzed by CPL within current footbeat boundaries can, by proxy, indicate the appropriateness of SFPD's footbeat locations, given that the CPL study found foot patrol to be an effective deterrent to these crime types.

2022 Top 10 CPL Crime Categories & SFPD Beats

These heat maps indicate that the current foot beat sectors are approximately aligned with the concentration of citywide incidents of the crime types analyzed in the CPL report. It appears that the location and number of the current SFPD "beats" are generally appropriate for promoting a visible law enforcement presence in hot spot areas with high incident counts. Hence, the Project Team assessed the resources needed to adequately staff these beats citywide to determine recommended Foot/Bike Beat staffing levels. The City's current initiatives are discussed but the resources required are not included.

At the citywide-level, District Stations do not have the personnel to adequately staff, at minimum, the current beats. Given current trends and initiatives, the Department has prioritized foot beat staffing in the northeast quadrant of the City, where, for example, there is high-density tourist activity and auto break-ins (Fisherman's Wharf); retail theft in shopping corridors (Union Square); and targeted robbery, theft, and violence against specific communities (e.g., Chinatown/North Beach). The Department has also prioritized foot beat staffing in the central eastern area of the city, around the Transbay Terminal and all along the Mid-Market, UN Plaza, and Tenderloin areas; and to some extent around specific areas such as Golden Gate Park in the western portion of the city. Foot/Bike Beats are a scarce resource that must be allocated across the city, and many District Stations are unable to staff their footbeat assignments consistently or at all. The Project Team recommends that at minimum, each District Station have the Foot/Bike Beat resources to consistently staff the footbeat sectors in the district. Additional resources are required to staff all District Station footbeat sectors on a regular basis. This analysis does not consider the resources needed to fulfill the staffing requirements of the City's current initiatives.

It should be noted that beyond the established beats, footbeat staffing and day-to-day deployment is at the discretion of the District Station Captain with guidance provided by the Field Operations Bureau and the City. District Station Captains must engage in dynamic decision-making on foot beat deployment, given current crime trends, hot spot areas, staffing resources, and other demands of the district.

Housing Sergeants and Officers

Housing units consist of a supervisory Sergeant and a team of Officers and are responsible for patrolling public housing developments and for building relationships with the housing development community; these units are normally operational at five of the 10 District Stations. A significant benefit of the Housing assignment is that the officers have a rapport with the community: they know many of the community advocates and pastors, have credibility for being honest and trustworthy, and already know many of the suspects that they come into contact with. Though Housing officers do handle any calls for service at the public housing developments, much of their work is community engagement. Given the coverage requirements of the Housing assignment, staffing is determined using a fixed-post methodology, with the intention of having a team with full coverage over the course of the week. Housing unit structure examples include:

- 1 Sergeant supervisor (staffing based on span of control) and 6 Officers (electively staffed, team designed to have 3 Officers on each side of the watch)
- 1 Sergeant supervisor (staffing based on span of control) and 4 Officers (electively staffed, team designed to have 2 Officers on each side of the watch)

Through interviews, the Project Team determined that District Station staffing shortages have impacted the Housing assignment in a few different ways. First, District Stations that are directed to staff Housing Units are unable to staff full Housing teams; for example, the supervisory Sergeant is shared amongst other specialized station assignments or there are not enough Officers to equally cover each side of the watch. Second, Housing officers are often utilized to respond to calls for service across the district if day-to-day shortages in Sector Patrol staffing require that resources be drawn from elsewhere in the station staffing. Housing units are often tasked with responding to critical incidents and staffing events.

Plainclothes

The Plainclothes unit provides district-level directed enforcement, with activities directed by the Captain of the District Station based on priorities of the Department and the City. The Plainclothes units does not respond to calls for service; the unit's workload is self-initiated activity and directed enforcement focused on current hot crime types and locations. For example, District Station personnel indicate that the focus of the unit may range from narcotics to auto burglaries and nighttime burglaries/hot prowls to taking guns off the streets. The Plainclothes unit also supports requests from investigative units and writes search warrants. As the Plainclothes unit provides specialized directed enforcement to each District Station, Matrix Consulting Group used a ratio-based methodology based on the station's number of core Sector Patrol Officers to determine a recommended number for Plainclothes officers. This analysis also uses a ratio-based methodology based on the number of Sector Patrol Officers.

Captain's Staff

Captain's Staff at the District Stations are responsible for a variety of different tasks that support the Captain and the operation of the District Station. Captain's Staff includes both sworn officers and Police Services Aides (PSAs) that are largely responsible for managing the public-facing windows at the District Stations and assisting with reports and other law enforcement duties as they are able. Busier District Stations and/or those District Stations that are centrally located within the community and experience a high walk-in volume – generally those stations in the Metro Division – are staffed with more PSAs than those in quieter and/or outlying areas of the city. PSA staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology; however, future analyses should determine if and what workload metrics might be available to determine PSA staffing.

Sworn member duties include issuing and enforcing permits, event planning, including writing operations orders for smaller district events and for coordinating with centralized FOB to plan for large scale events. Generally, Metro Division District Stations have more events than those in the Golden Gate Division and therefore Metro Division Stations warrant a Sergeant position that is responsible for permitting and event planning in the community. Other duties include pulling together crime statistics and other data for internal Department and external community meetings, social media management and responding to inquiries from the community, producing various newsletters for the Station, assisting the Captain in preparing for community meetings, and attending meetings with or standing in for the Captain at meetings as necessary. While Captain's Staff assignment will always need sworn members to operate and enforce permitting, to plan events, and to attend community events as a sworn presence with the Captain, there is opportunity for some of the Captain's Staff tasks currently conducted by sworn members to be transferred to a civilian classification with the appropriate job description.

Recommendation: Every District Station should have a Management Assistant or equivalent classification on the Captain's Staff to assist with analysis, written content, and meeting preparation. Members of the Captain's Staff undertake duties such as managing the District Station's social media accounts, authoring the Station's newsletter, and assisting the Captain in preparing for meetings. These tasks can be conducted by a civilian member. Moreover, the Project Team learned from interviews that it would be useful for the Captain if there were a staff member who could pull and analyze various statistics pulled from the Department's Oracle Business Intelligence (BI) system. The Project Team recommends a classification such as a Management Assistant, whose job description indicates that the position "compiles and produces a variety of status reports for management," and "arranges meetings and assists in development of agenda; participates in department meetings, including making presentations," among many other tasks. This position could undertake tasks such as meeting preparation and newsletter development, enabling sworn members to utilize their unique skillset in relevant areas or for additional patrol support. This position would also prove useful in District Station office management.

Homeless Outreach

Homeless Outreach Officers at the District Stations handle homeless-related calls in the district. SFPD's centralized HSOC unit addresses large-scale issues such as working with other City agencies on encampment response whereas the Homeless Outreach Officers at the stations address localized smaller-scale homeless issues. Homeless Outreach Officers are aware of resources for individuals experiencing homelessness, mental health and/or substance use issues, and are familiar with the unsheltered population in their respective district. District Station staffing shortages have impacted Homeless Outreach staffing: many Stations are unable to field Homeless Outreach officers given resource availability. Homeless Outreach Officer staffing is determined using the fixed post methodology such that there are two to four Homeless Outreach Officers at each District Station, based on the size of and homeless population in the district. Recommended staffing is based on coverage across the week.

Other Assignments

District Stations may have other assignments relevant to the respective district such as Park Car – Officers that patrol Golden Gate Park – and Transbay Joint Powers Agreement (TJPA) Officers. These assignments are elective and at the discretion of the District Station Captain (except for TJPA, which is a funded agreement with the Transbay Terminal and is staffed based on the levels determined in the agreement).

FOB Patrol – Current Trends

Citywide full duty staffing has been declining steadily since the beginning of 2019. The primary indicator that the Department uses to monitor and assess staffing levels is the number of citywide full duty sworn. This figure represents currently deployable members who are not on some type of medical, family, or disciplinary leave; are not recruits in the Academy; and who hold an assignment in the city (rather than the Airport). Due to various factors that are described in detail in the Staffing Context section, this number declined 19% from January 2019 to June 2023 (from 1,868 to 1,503). The Field Operations Bureau includes 65% of the Department's sworn full duty workforce in the city and is the largest Bureau in the Department. Declining citywide staffing levels have significant operational impacts on the Field Operations Bureau.

District Station staffing is declining in tandem with citywide staffing. First and foremost, the Department must always staff police officers at the District Stations, which provide critical law enforcement services at a hyper-localized level. As staffing levels decline, the Department continues to prioritize District Station staffing while also maintain other non-patrol functions, such as Investigations.. As discussed in the Staffing Context section, the number of full duty police officers at the stations has declined in tandem with the citywide full duty staffing, down 21% from January 2019 through June 2023.

The Field Operations Bureau and the District Stations have had to make difficult resource allocation decisions amidst staffing shortages. Sector Patrol officers respond to calls for service from the public, fulfilling the critical mission of the Department: to arrive on-scene when community members request law enforcement services. As staffing levels decline, each District Station, with overall direction from the Field Operations Bureau, has had to make difficult decisions about how to allocate resources amongst competing unit assignments after striving to staff Sector Patrol adequately.

Traditionally, District Station assignments have included Sector Patrol, Foot/Bike Beat, Housing, Homeless Outreach, Plainclothes and Captain's Staff. Staffing shortages at the District Stations have become particularly dire. Sector Patrol staffing is the priority and many other assignments have either been eliminated or are operating at reduced capacity and with concurrent job duties (e.g., Housing officers often get detailed to events or to pulled to assist with other district activity). At some of the smaller District Stations, many of the specialized units have been disbanded due to staffing availability.

Operations

The Operations branch of the Department includes the Field Operations Bureau, the Investigations Bureau, and the Special Operations Bureau. Operations is overseen by an Assistant Chief of Police who is supported by an Executive Secretary. Staffing for this leadership position and supporting position are determined using the non-scaling methodology.

Field Operations Bureau

The Field Operations Bureau is overseen by a Deputy Chief with two Commanders managing field operations. One Commander oversees the Metro Division and select units centralized in FOB and the other Commander oversees the Golden Gate Division and another set of centralized FOB units. The Deputy Chief is supported by an Executive Assistant and the two Commanders are normally supported by a Senior Clerk. There is a third Commander in FOB that heads the Community Engagement Division but is currently on loan to oversee the Mid-City Division which includes the Drug Market Agency Coordination Center (DMACC), Fugitive Recovery Enforcement Team (FRET), and Healthy Street Operations Center (HSOC). With the restructuring of various divisions and units to fall within Field Operations, the Project Team recommends additional clerical support for the Field Operations Administration. All leadership and executive support positions are non-scalable.

FOB Patrol – Metro Division

Metro Division District Stations are generally larger in personnel than those in the Golden Gate Division. These districts are the downtown core of San Francisco, representing relatively small geographic areas that are densely populated and heavily visited. These District Stations situated in the urban city center of San Francisco experience significant calls for service (CFS) volume.

Summary and Trends

- The vast majority of the staffing need identified for the Metro Division is in Sector Patrol. The results of the workload-based calls for service (CFS) analysis indicate that District Stations in the Metro Division require significant additional Sector Patrol officers to handle the calls for service workload while retaining sufficient time for community engagement. The number of additional Sector Patrol officers needed is greater in the Metro Division compared to the Golden Gate Division due to the higher volume of calls for service across Metro Division District Stations.
- While additional resources are needed in the specialized units to ensure that they are fully staffed at each station, the Metro Division stations generally possess the staffing to consistently fill prioritized specialized unit assignments. For example, through the City’s Mid-Market Vibrancy and Safety Plan and due to prioritized deployments in Union Square and in the Tenderloin, the Department has prioritized, on a citywide level, Foot/Bike Beat deployment in the central/north central areas of San Francisco.
- The Metro Division District Stations have a large volume of events such as First Amendment demonstrations and parades and the Captain’s Staff assignment should be staffed accordingly. The Project Team recommends that in the Metro Division District Stations, the Captain’s Staff assignment be staffed with one Sergeant, two Officers, and one Management Assistant, with support from PSAs. The Sergeant oversees event planning. The addition of a Management Assistant to the Captain’s Staff would reallocate some of the administrative and technical tasks to a civilian staff classification best suited for these job duties while retaining sworn members to execute tasks such as permitting and event planning where their sworn expertise and jurisdiction is necessary.

Staffing Notes and Considerations

- The vast majority of Central Station's staffing need is in Sector Patrol. Based on the calls for service (CFS) workload-based methodology, Central Station needs 96 Sector Patrol Officers and 16 Patrol Sergeant supervisors.
- Central Station has heavily prioritized Foot/Bike Beat staffing. The district has four beats, ranging from Fisherman's Wharf, to Chinatown, to North Beach, to Union Square, and given recent trends in retail theft, targeted theft and violence toward the Asian American Pacific Islander (AAPI) community, and auto break-ins and burglaries targeting tourists, these beats are fully staffed. Central Station has beat areas that have been prioritized in the Tourism Deployment Plan. Since September 2021, the Department received directive from the City to increase deployments in Union Square and is doing so primarily on overtime.

Staffing Notes and Considerations

- The vast majority of Southern Station's staffing need is in Sector Patrol. Based on workload-based methodology using calls for service, Southern Station needs 108 Sector Patrol Officers and 18 Patrol Sergeant supervisors.
- Given the unique needs of the district, Southern Station has heavily prioritized staffing Homeless Outreach officers within the specialized units.
- Southern Station staffs the Transbay Terminal with officers that function generally as Foot/Bike Beat officers in this area. There are four beats including the Transbay terminal. To fully staff all beats, the Project Team recommends 11 Officers.
- The Department employs one full-time Security Guard to work in a fixed-post position on Treasure Island. This position is assigned to Southern Station as a specialized position.

- The vast majority of Mission Station’s staffing need is in Sector Patrol. Based on workload-based methodology using calls for service, Southern Station needs 124 Sector Patrol Officers and 21 Patrol Sergeant supervisors.
- Mission Station is one District Station that may benefit from a more innovative approach to Foot/Bike Beat staffing. There are specific geographic areas within the district that may warrant fixed post positions or saturation from additional resources given the prevalence of crime incidents (e.g., narcotics). Any fixed post response would be resource intensive and would require additional officers beyond the figures shown above.

- The vast majority of Northern Station's staffing need is in Sector Patrol. Based on workload-based methodology using calls for service, Northern Station needs 110 Sector Patrol Officers and 18 Patrol Sergeant supervisors.
- Northern Station has heavily prioritized Foot/Bike Beat staffing. The district has six beats, ranging from Union Street, to Japantown and the Fillmore, to Hayes Valley, to City Hall, and these beats have been often difficult to staff due to staffing shortages. Northern Station has beat areas in which staffing has been prioritized via citywide initiatives such as the Tourism Deployment Plan and Union Square deployment and staffing for those initiatives are typically done with overtime and is not included in this analysis.

- Using the calls for service (CFS) workload-based methodology, Tenderloin Station is close to fully staffed for patrol; however, this methodology does not account for factors that impact the Tenderloin specifically. A CFS-based methodology inherently prioritizes responding to community-generated calls for service over other methods of police work, such as self-initiated activity, that is likely more prevalent in the Tenderloin district. In fact, the Controller's Office conducted a workload-based CFS analysis in 2018 and similarly found that Tenderloin Station was adequately staffed with sector patrol officers, yet the Controller also noted that the Tenderloin may be subject to additional staffing considerations above and beyond responding to calls for service given the unique nature of the district. Moreover, Patrol Sergeant staffing differs slightly from the ratio-based methodology result in order to ensure operational coverage in Sector Patrol street-level supervision.
- On a citywide level, Foot/Bike Beat officers have been significantly prioritized in the mid-Market Street area due to the Mid-Market Vibrancy and Safety Plan. In May 2021, Mayor London Breed announced the Plan, "which is aimed at creating a safer and more welcoming environment in the Mid-Market and Tenderloin area. The plan includes both a visible increase in police presence to deter criminal activity and a community ambassador program to connect people in need with services, and provide a welcoming presence for residents, workers, visitors, and businesses."<sup>2</sup>

Effective in May 2021, SFPD increased law enforcement in the area, which spans roughly “every block of the area from Powell Station (5th Street) to 8th Street on Market Street and adjacent areas just south of Market Street, UN Plaza, and the Tenderloin blocks bordered by Larkin Street and Eddy Street.” SFPD’s role in the Mid-Market Vibrancy and Safety Plan embodies the strategies discussed in the Department’s Community Policing Strategic Plan, such as interacting visibly with residents, businesses, and visitors; helping to connect individuals in need with appropriate services; and working collaboratively with other entities such as the community ambassadors to problem-solve.

- SFPD’s increased deployment is in the Mid-Market, UN Plaza and Tenderloin areas. There are 11 footbeat areas plus two floating areas and a roving shoplifting car; core beats are staffed consistently but others are staffed when possible, often on overtime. The additional foot/bike beat officers recommended represent the scenario in which all beats are staffed consistently, if the City and the Department determine that a visible increase in police presence in the mid-Market and Tenderloin area remains a priority. Staffing need does not consider the additional resources needed to fulfill Mayor London Breed’s proposed emergency declaration for the Tenderloin district.

FOB Patrol – Golden Gate Division

Golden Gate Division District Stations are generally smaller in personnel than those in the Metro Division. These districts represent the outlying areas of San Francisco rather than the city center/downtown areas and represent relatively large geographic areas of the City in the west and the south.

Summary and Trends

- The majority of the staffing need identified for the Golden Gate Division is in Sector Patrol. The results of the workload-based calls for service (CFS) analysis indicate that District Stations in the Golden Gate Division require additional Sector Patrol officers to handle the calls for service workload while retaining sufficient time for community engagement. However, the volume of need is not as great as for those District Stations in the Metro Division. This is due to the fact that the Metro Division stations have a higher volume of calls for service.
- Given limited resources, District Stations in the Golden Gate Division have generally prioritized Sector Patrol and are hence running limited specialized units. Given that the Golden Gate Division District Stations have smaller sworn workforces than those in the Metro Division, prioritizing Sector Patrol means that there are fewer officers available to staff specialized units. For example, most Golden Gate Division District Stations do not have the personnel to consistently staff their designated footbeat areas throughout the week. Generally, these District Stations are staffing the one to two specialized units that are most relevant and responsive to the unique needs of the respective district and doing without the other specialized unit assignments.
- Generally, District Stations in the Golden Gate Division do not experience the same volume of events as those District Stations in the Metro Division and Captain's Staff should be staffed accordingly. Aside from some major events in Golden Gate Park, these District Stations do not see the same volume of First Amendment events, parades, etc. as those in the Metro Division. The Project Team recommends that the Captain's Staff assignment be staffed with two Officers and one Management Assistant with support from PSAs. As these District Stations are generally less busy, with less walk-up traffic, than those in the Metro Division, Golden Gate Division has fewer PSAs than the Metro Division. The addition of a Management Assistant to the Captain's Staff would reallocate some of the administrative and technical tasks to a civilian staff classification best suited for these job duties.

- The vast majority of Bayview Station's staffing need is in Sector Patrol. Based on workload-based methodology using calls for service, Bayview Station needs 102 Sector Patrol officers and 17 Patrol Sergeant supervisors.
- Bayview Station currently has staffing distributed across all station specialized units; however, further prioritizing any specific specialized unit will require additional resources. For example, Bayview Station has only three beats. If additional beat areas are determined necessary, Bayview will require additional foot/bike beat officers to staff these areas.
- Bayview Station has one officer devoted to searching for and towing abandoned cars throughout the district.

Staffing Notes and Considerations

- The calls for service workload-based methodology indicates that Park Station needs a reduction in Sector Patrol Officers; however, the calculated number does not provide adequate coverage to staff both sides of the watch, all shifts, and all of the district's car sectors. Therefore, the Project Team has determined the number of Sector Patrol Officers that are operationally viable. The calls for service analysis does not account for the reality of operational coverage. Similarly, Patrol Sergeant staffing differs slightly from the ratio-based span of control result. The designated number is the minimum needed for operational coverage and to provide sufficient street-level supervision.
- Park Station has four foot beats, which are not always staffed due to staffing availability. Additional Foot/Bike Beat officers would enable Park Station to staff all four areas consistently.
- Park Station has no Plainclothes team. Four Officers and one Sergeant are recommended based on the ratio-based methodology based on Sector Patrol Officer numbers and the span of control needed to field a Plainclothes team.
- Park Station has limited Homeless Outreach staffing. The Project Team recommends two Officers, one on each side of the watch, to ensure that this important position is consistently staffed.

- The majority of Ingleside Station's staffing need is in Sector Patrol. Based on workload-based methodology using calls for service, Ingleside Station needs 96 Sector Patrol Officers and 16 Patrol Sergeant supervisors.
- With limited resources, Ingleside Station has prioritized Sector Patrol and hence does not have staffing available for specialized units such as Foot/Bike Patrol. Within specialized units, Ingleside Station has prioritized the Housing Unit with limited staffing. Ingleside Station has three beats but at this time does not have a Foot/Bike Beat team, no Plainclothes team, and no Homeless Outreach team. The Project Team recommends additional staffing to all teams in this district.

- The majority of Taraval Station's staffing need is in Sector Patrol. Based on workload-based methodology using calls for service, Taraval Station needs 84 Sector Patrol Officers and 14 Patrol Sergeant supervisors.
- Taraval Station needs additional resources to ensure that all specialized units are staffed. Taraval Station is currently operating a Plainclothes team, a limited Homeless Outreach team, and a limited foot beat team. Taraval Station has three beats and additional resources would ensure that these three beats are consistently staffed with Foot/Bike Beat officers.

FOB – Other Units

The Field Operations Bureau includes additional units that provide centralized support in functions such as event planning, licensing and permitting, the City’s Healthy Streets Operations Center (HSOC) initiative, and community engagement. Recommended staffing is shown below and the following sections describe the duties, responsibilities, and staffing metrics for each unit.

Police Headquarters (FOB-HQ)

The Field Operations Bureau (FOB) includes specific units located at Police Headquarters that provide centralized operational support to the Bureau in areas such as creating staffing plans for City events such as protests, parades, and street fairs; managing contracts with vendors who wish to hire off duty personnel to work in uniform; and coordination of the Department’s Cadet program. Centralized FOB also manages staffing plan development, and sign-ups for the District Stations that occur twice annually. FOB provides general staffing guidelines and direction to the District Stations. FOB-HQ units are often tasked with special projects such as re-writing Department General Orders (DGOs) and working on initiatives related to calls for service. This section includes an overview of the services provided by FOB-HQ and recommended staffing. Assignments and sub-unit responsibilities shift amongst personnel based on Department priorities.

10B [Overtime] Police Law Enforcement Services (PLES)

The Police Law Enforcement Services (PLES) program allows outside vendors, such as Apple, Salesforce and Walgreens, to hire off duty police officers in full uniform to provide law enforcement services. The program has staffed over 100,000 billable hours. The demand for vendor-sought law enforcement services is extremely high and there is not sufficient staffing – off duty personnel available to work overtime – to fill the volume of requests that are received. Available staff has become even more difficult in recent years as the Department must prioritize backfill staffing to Sector Patrol and events.

The unit provides scheduling, billing, and payroll for 200+ vendors per year. Coordination and communication with vendors represents the workload for the unit: emails, calls, and notifications come in at all hours and unit staff is responsible for filling, canceling, or changing shifts based on vendor requests.

Plainclothes

The centralized Plainclothes Coordinator manages the various Plainclothes teams assigned to the various District Stations throughout the City. Duties in this assignment include coordinating operations, training, policy updates, and coordinating equipment for all Sergeants and Officers to Plainclothes.

Events

The Events unit assists with staffing, guidance, and logistics with special events for all 10 District Stations. There are hundreds of First Amendment events (e.g., demonstrations) each year, in addition to scheduled parades, street fairs, and other events throughout the City. The Events units is responsible for determining staffing plans for large citywide events, and for assisting the District Stations manage events in their district. The unit must also coordinate with the Staffing and Deployment Unit to support backfill staffing for patrol. At this time, there are no workload metrics for the unit and staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

Report Writing Unit

This unit takes “cold” reports from citizens after being transferred from dispatch. The unit was reconvened during the initial phase of Covid-19 to avoid exposure. The Department of Emergency Management has a set of criteria for dispatching calls to the Report Writing Unit. Due to staffing shortages, the Report Writing Unit (RWU) has been temporarily suspended. Previously, the unit was staffed by individuals who were on temporary modified duty (TMD); one challenge is that there is no permanent staffing and significant turnover. The Department should explore if this unit could be staffed by Police Services Aides (PSAs) or professional staff. This unit can be responsive to the public while enabling full duty officers to handle more serious calls for service.

Night Captains

The Captains assigned to this role provide Captain-level supervisory duties to all District Stations throughout the city during the nighttime shift, when the regular District Station Captains are off duty.

Alcohol Liaison Unit (ALU) and Permits

The Alcohol Liaison Unit (ALU) is responsible for processing license and permit applications, which includes background checks on applicants and field inspections of permitted locations. The unit processes approximately 30 applications per month, and approximately 400 total Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) licenses processed, including new licenses, transfers, and modifications. Each ABC application requires the unit to conduct an investigation for the specific location, including running statistics like saturation and complaints, and then has 30 days to make a recommendation to ABC about how to proceed. The unit is also involved in any public hearings that occur; if licensee rejects terms, they can go before the Board of Supervisors (BOS).

The unit also conducts enforcement on active license of which there are currently 4,566 Alcoholic Beverage Control licenses in San Francisco. The unit works with ABC on decoy programs and enforcement at venues during big City events. The sworn members in the unit are responsible for these decoy and enforcement efforts and the unit also enlists additional sworn personnel to assist with these efforts.

Previously, ALU and Permits were separate units but are currently merged into one unit. The unit handles approximately 40 types of permit applications for San Francisco businesses, including commercial parking lots, parking garages, tow operators, and secondhand dealers. For these types of applications, the business pays an application fee and the unit conducts background checks and an investigation. The unit processes over 800 permit applications per year, including both new applications and renewals. There is a six-week window for this process, as 95% of permits must have a hearing. Hearings occur every Wednesday, during which the public can comment. The unit is unable to approve or deny permits until referrals are approved by all stakeholders and agencies. The permit intake process as well as the background check process is by appointment only, which creates challenges with scheduling and processing applicants. Furthermore, the unit will be responsible for Article 25 of the Municipal Police Code regarding oversight and processing of security firms' permits within San Francisco. The number of current active guard cards within the City and County of San Francisco are estimated to be nearly 10,000. Additionally, the California Department of Consumer Affairs, Bureau of Security and Investigative Services continues to issue more licenses that will have to be processed by the ALU and Permits team.

Ideally, the unit would also provide enforcement services, which would include going out and checking on locations to make sure they are abiding by the regulations stipulated on permits. However, the unit is unable to currently do this based on the current staffing levels.

The Sergeant in the unit supervises the Officers and the professional staff and investigates matters pertaining to licensing or premises. The unit also has a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) and work order agreement with the Department of Public Health (DPH) to conduct tobacco decoy operations, and the Sergeant is responsible for this work, as well as investigating complaints and collaborating with other City agencies. The Officers in the unit are responsible for investigating all matters regarding ABC licensing. The Management Assistant primarily handles the ALU side, maintaining reports, managing professional staff, and conducting data entry. The unit Clerks assist with daily duties including answering the phones, assisting applicants during the intake process, and coordinating with other City agencies (e.g., communicating with the Treasurer and Tax Collector on applicant information).

Crisis Intervention Team (CIT)

The Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) aims to improve police contacts with those individuals experiencing mental health and/or substance use crises by equipping officers with knowledge and providing techniques for reducing risk in the encounters. The Crisis Intervention Team operates a training program that provides comprehensive and relevant CIT training to all police personnel in the Department and responds to incidents in the field, facilitating practical applications of CIT alongside behavioral health professionals.

The CIT Program provides a 40-hour Crisis Intervention Certification Course to Law Enforcement as well as a 10-hour CIT Field Tactics Course to patrol, both of which are certified by Police Officer Standards and Training (POST). The 40-hour CIT training focuses on crisis intervention and mental health awareness. As of September 2023, approximately 71% of sworn members have received the 40-hour training, with the goal that all sworn members in the Department receive the training. Amidst the Covid-19 pandemic in 2020, the CIT Instructors designed a fully operational digital classroom for the 40-hour training. With this strong core of crisis intervention training, patrol has a wealth of capable and invested officers who are committed to the practices and principles of crisis intervention. The 10-hour CIT training – “Field tactics/CIT Course” – must be completed by all members assigned to patrol, investigative, and administrative units. As of September 2023, 99% of all sworn members have received 10-hour CIT training (only those on leave have not been trained).

The Crisis Intervention Team has a partnership with DPH Comprehensive Crisis Services (CCS). The CIT Field Unit will respond to situations alongside DPH Crisis Specialists to provide supportive assistance when they need to engage higher risk subjects who pose public safety concerns and danger potential.

In this partnership, CIT and CCS work together to effectively assist subjects in crisis, with joint emphasis on scene safety and subject engagement. DPH CCS has an existing infrastructure to provide services and support to subjects who need assistance, and trained CIT officers are able to contribute on-scene support via practical applications of de-escalation, crisis negotiations, and safety protocols.

Department General Order (DGO 5.21) directs all 10 District Stations throughout San Francisco to have designated “CIT Liaisons” who specialize in matters pertaining to Crisis Intervention at their respective Station. The 20+ CIT Liaisons throughout the city act as an auxiliary CIT unit at their respective stations, facilitating CIT training and practices amongst patrol members, and working with the centralized CIT Field Unit to ensure that crisis subjects who are most concerning are identified, engaged, and/or connected effectively with programs and services. CIT is a Department and City priority and staffing does not scale to workload or other metrics.

DEM Liaison

Within FOB, there is one Lieutenant who serves as the liaison between SFPD and the Department of Emergency Management (DEM). The liaison assists with ensuring that policy and procedural issues are resolved, coordinating with DEM for the Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) project, and acting as the Department’s Disaster Coordinator. The liaison also works closely with HSU and DOC to respond to various special events and disasters. Due to the unique duties and responsibilities of this position, it is considered non-scalable for the purpose of this assessment.

Recommendations and Considerations

- The Department should consider formalizing and expanding the Report Writing Unit and staffing the unit with professional staff or Police Services Aides (PSAs). A unit made up of professional staff and/or PSAs would have more continuity than sworn personnel on temporary modified duty (TMD) and would hence be better equipped to operate efficiently, provide excellent customer service, and utilize skills more appropriate to non-sworn classifications. This would serve to provide high-quality service to the public while also ideally removing workload from sworn members in the field. This is directly aligned with the Department's Strategic Goal of being responsive to the community in an innovative way.

- Due to the heavily administrative nature of permit processing in ALU and Permits, and the additional responsibilities of Article 25, the Project Team recommends additional civilian staffing to ensure sworn resources are more effectively utilized and new responsibilities will be completed.
- The City and County of San Francisco is currently initiating various programs to provide assistance and services to individuals in the community who are experiencing mental health and/or substance use crises. Many of these programs are in development or in initial stages of implementation. The City and the Department should determine the role of SFPD CIT response within these citywide programs and assess staffing need based on how trained law enforcement personnel fit within citywide priorities and San Francisco’s vision for addressing crisis response.

Mid-City Division

In 2023, the San Francisco Police Department launched its new Mid-City Division structured under Field Operations currently overseen by a Commander. The Commander is loaned from the Community Engagement Division to ensure high-level oversight for the new division to address and respond to the growing crimes around the Mission and Tenderloin districts, especially as it relates to the ongoing issues regarding the use and sale of drugs. Within this new division, the Department has members assigned to focus on the new Drug Market Agency Coordination Center (DMACC), Fugitive Recovery Enforcement Team (FRET), Healthy Streets Operations Center (HSOC), and Narcotics.

Drug Market Agency Coordination Center (DMACC)

As part of the Mid-City Division, the new Drug Market Agency Coordination Center aims to centralize various units to enable better coordination and collaboration of operations and investigations especially as it relates to narcotics. The overarching goal is to disrupt open air drug markets in San Francisco by a comprehensive collaboration between SFPD, law enforcement partners (local, state, and federal), other city agencies, and community-based organizations. The Department is currently evaluating and allocating available resources to implement these strategies. As the work and responsibilities that fall within DMACC are based on Mayor initiatives, the positions and responsibilities are fluid and may change over time.

Fugitive Recover Enforcement Team (FRET)

The Fugitive Recover Enforcement Team has been reestablished at SFPD as part of the new Mid-City Division. The team’s primary responsibility is to locate and apprehend individuals who have skipped bail or are fugitives from the law. This includes various operations, tracking and surveillance, and ultimately apprehending fugitives and returning them to jail.

Healthy Streets Operations Center (HSOC)

The Healthy Streets Operations Center (HSOC) aims to address homelessness and unhealthy street behavior via coordination amongst the many City agencies that provide response and assistance to unsheltered persons experiencing homelessness on the streets of San Francisco. HSOC functions as the Department liaison and working collaboratively with other City agencies to problem-solve. HSOC aims to ensure that San Francisco's streets are safe and clean, meet the shelter and service needs of individuals on the streets, and establish a unified City response to homelessness and street behavior. HSOC is structured as a unified command center: representatives from those City departments that have a role in addressing homelessness and street behavior convene in a singular location – the Emergency Operations Center (EOC) – and plan, triage, and coordinate responses to incidents of street behavior and homelessness. SFPD's role in HSOC is to provide representation at the command center and to provide engagement and, if necessary, enforcement, in those incidents where law enforcement presence is warranted.

In recent years, SFPD's HSOC staffing was scaled down due to staffing shortages, but due to shifting priorities, resources have been reallocated to the unit to provide support as part of the Drug Market Agency Coordination Center.

Community Engagement Division (CED)

The Community Engagement Division (CED) runs various programs and initiatives that promote engagement between the Department and citizens and youth in the community. CED is overseen by a Commander with a Captain and Lieutenant serving as the Commanding Officer and Officer in Charge (OIC) to manage day-to-day operations.

CED provides the strategy and framework for continuously developing the Department's relationships with San Francisco's many communities. Members assigned to CED work collaboratively to support the effort of all Stations, Bureaus and assignments in promoting community policing and community engagement policies; implementing Collaborative Reform Initiative (CRI) recommendations and projects; interfacing directly with residents, visitors, and youth; and conducting outreach to disadvantaged communities in San Francisco. Given that the activities of the Division are driven largely by executive-level policy decisions, there are no specific staffing metrics. All positions in the unit are elective based on the unique roles they serve, and the Division's activities are scaled based on priorities and staff availability. CED's units and activities are described below.

- Youth and Community Engagement includes the Police Activities League (PAL), which runs programs such as the Community Youth Academy, which provides youth instruction on the policing profession; and the youth football league. Youth and Community Engagement also runs a summer youth employment program, the annual holiday toy drive, and a wilderness program for disadvantaged youth.

- CED runs a Limited English Proficiency (LEP) program that aims to promote better services for and engagement with limited English speakers in the community. LEP establishes protocols for the Department for providing translation services while in the field, and conducts internal coordination for language training and certification with outside vendors.
- CED facilitates direct stakeholder engagement by providing oversight to the District Stations that run each their own community policing advisory board. CED serves as the centralized conduit for these forums, providing administrative support and guidance in agendas, meeting minutes, and facilitation. CED also operates the Community Police Academy, which is an educational program about how the Department operates and serves as a recruitment tool for the Academy and Reserve Officers. CED also operates the Auxiliary Law Enforcement Response Team (ALERT), in which community members can partake in training to gain basic skills and knowledge in policing protocols so that the Department and the community can work together to coproduce public safety.
- The Community Liaison Unit (CLU), created as a result of crimes against the AAPI community, ensures that all victims are receiving the resources they need. The aim of the unit is to provide guidance on resources and services to all communities throughout the City.
- The Cadet Program is responsible for employing and training 18-22 year-old college students in departmental procedures, while utilizing them for various tasks at all District Stations and in other Bureaus. Cadets must be enrolled in college to work in this paid position in which they gain clerical and logistical skills.

Recommendations and Considerations

- There is significant opportunity for the development of professional staff positions and functions in the Community Engagement Division. Until mid-2020, CED had a Manager-level Senior Advisor who was responsible for organizing, implementing, and executing events and programs in the community; and engaging with citizens and youth via sports leagues and other community functions. There is opportunity for CED to develop this capability in the future. Professional staff members have the ability to interact with members in the community and to strengthen the relationship between the Department and the citizens it serves. The Department should explore opportunities for professional staff in CED and the Manager position recommended should lead strategy development and implementation. To this end, the Project Team recommends replacing the Lieutenant position with a Manager position, as both positions are mid-senior level. Professional staff in this role would be responsible for engaging with the community and also leading high-level CED strategic planning efforts under the direction of the Commander and/or Captain.

Crime Strategies Division

The Crime Strategies Division (CSD) supports the Operations branch of the Department and provides crime analysis and conclusive intelligence to the Field Operations, Investigations, and Special Operations Bureaus; and provides strategic analysis and intelligence to other agencies (e.g., Naval Criminal Investigative Service) and community-based organizations (CBOs). CSD is both strategic and analytical in nature, promoting data-driven policing by providing crime analysis and actionable summaries and insight for tactical and operational efforts, and by providing insight and analysis for strategic initiatives and community collaboration.

Prior to 2018, the unit was called Crime Analysis and strictly supported the Investigations Bureau, providing case support and data analysis, and had little interface with the 10 District Stations. In 2019, the unit became the Crime Strategies Division and adopted a broader scope of duties, including case support, operational data analysis, and strategic analysis through a multitude of platforms and programs.

On the strategic side, CSD Analysts are responsible for running and preparing for Crime Strategies meetings every other week; preparing weekly reports such as the Shooting Log and the Gun Violence Report to support community initiatives; fulfilling requests for conclusive intelligence and crime analysis and summaries for the Board of Supervisors, Police Commission, and Command Staff; and preparing reports and crime analysis data for community initiatives. Recurring weekly reports such as the Shooting Log and the weekly Shooting Report require significant time and resources. The strategic scope of CSD also has a strong community component: community members are actively engaged with the data and analysis received from CSD and are often interested in looking at the data along different crosstabs such as age, demographic group, and specific communities (e.g., AAPI). CSD assists CBOs in formulating strategies based on data and intelligence and is engaged in special projects such as a community violence prevention joint partnership and gun violence program under the Mayor's Office and other grant-funded initiatives.

CSD also performs significant tactical and operational analyses, including case support. For example, CSD receives interagency requests from organizations like the Naval Criminal Investigative Service that require extensive reporting beyond providing crime stats; the prepared reports serve as conclusive intelligence and include temporal and spatial analysis, trends, summaries, and actionable strategy. On the case support side, CSD defines work in terms of an operation ("op"), and an op consists of cases linked to multiple individuals (e.g., organized retail theft). From 2018 to mid-summer 2021, there were five major ops that were 6-8 months-long projects. In 2020, the unit received 81 requests on the strategic side, aside from cases and ops. Through 2021 mid-summer, the unit received 31 requests for strategic support, and 11 requests for case support. Tactical analyses are on a case-by-case basis.

Case support requires a specialized skillset so that Analysts can testify in court. Some of this specialized skillset is gained officially through trainings on specific areas such as forensics and some expertise is gained through on the job training. One major challenge is that there is currently no clear separation between tactical, operational and strategic analyses within the unit, in terms of both skillset and the nature of the reporting. This is due primarily to limited staffing: CSD does not have the bandwidth to devote Analysts specifically to certain focuses within CSD.

On the project side, some of these major ops are ongoing, others are ad hoc and urgent, and still others are scheduled and recurring. Given the volume and sequencing of work product expected from CSD, the unit is often overwhelmed with competing deadlines. On the personnel side, subject matter experts (SMEs) who are able to testify in court have a specialized skillset that supports the Department in a unique way. However, due to certified analyst staffing, CSD is providing limited support to the Bureau at this time.

Recommendations

- The Department should explore splitting Crime Strategies Division into two separate units, one devoted to strategic analyses, and the other specifically focused on tactical and/or operational analyses and case support. Given the different workflows for these separate types of projects, and the different skillsets required (e.g., certifications and case/court knowledge), this shift may enable the units to support the Department more efficiently. Additionally, projects can be planned versus unplanned, and may often have competing deadlines (e.g., providing case support based on court date). Moreover, the Department has somewhat limited and inconsistent analytical support currently. The Project Team learned during interviews that some investigative units rely on PSAs for analysis, while others interface with Crime Strategies when possible; developing and centralizing analytical support for Operations (Investigations, Field Operations, Special Operations) may ensure that all investigative units and the District Stations are able to access analytical information consistently and timely.

The Department should determine how to bring more Crime Analysts who are certified to testify in court into CSD. This may require creating a new classification, a Crime Analyst, or at the very least, maintaining and developing positions in the City's 1820 series, but ensuring that the sub-unit is structured such that there is room for advancement. If an Analyst comes into the unit and subsequently seeks additional training (official and on the job) to gain certification, they must be compensated and given promotional opportunity given their newly acquired responsibility and skillset. Moreover, there may be potential for certified Analysts to testify instead of sworn members, enabling professional staff to undertake traditionally sworn duties and allowing sworn members to use their expertise elsewhere. This is beyond the scope of this analysis, but something that the Department should consider in the future.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- CSD is overseen by a Director. Given the unique leadership duties of this position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- CSD has one Principal Administrative Analyst that coordinates all aspects of the program, including training and managing the SharePoint platform; and coordinating with all Department units, District Supervisors, and Captains. This position also reviews all work product for the unit and creates and goes over reports and presentations for Command Staff, the Mayor's Office, and the Board of Supervisors. Given the unique duties of these positions, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- CSD has Senior Administrative Analyst positions and Administrative Analyst positions. These Analyst positions are grouped together in determining staffing numbers, but the functions are delineated such that the Senior Administrative Analysts are responsible for supervising the Administrative Analysts in the tactical, operational, and strategic branches of the Division; and this classification also serves as the promotional classification for Administrative Analysts that become certified for court testimony, hence gaining additional SME skills. Administrative Analysts are the primary analytical classification for CSD. The International Association of Crime Analysts (IACA) recommends using a ratio of one Crime Analyst for every 70 officers in an organization to determine staffing. Staffing levels for Senior Administrative Analyst/Administrative Analyst positions were therefore determined using the ratio-based methodology of one crime analyst for every 70 sworn officers (citywide, excluding the Airport).

Investigations Bureau

Overview

The Investigations Bureau includes Divisions and units that are responsible for investigating potentially solvable cases<sup>3</sup> for major crimes, general crimes, and person crimes. The Bureau is also responsible for developing and implementing multi-disciplinary proactive investigative work such as coordinating with other state-wide agencies to monitor and respond to regional and national trends in retail theft. The Bureau is constantly evolving in order to be responsive to current crime trends in, for example, shootings, homicides, and narcotics. The Investigations Bureau continuously innovates on how units within each Division work together to problem-solve, interface with the District Stations to address crime at the hyper-localized level, and collaborate with other regional and national agencies in response to increasingly complex organized criminal activity.

Effective September 4th, 2021, the Department reorganized the Investigations Bureau “to better align units to improve communication, solvability, and pool resources” (Department Notice 21-132). The current organizational structure of the Investigations Bureau is shown on the following page.

Recommended Staffing

The Project Team conducted thorough interviews with investigative units in the Bureau to obtain both qualitative and quantitative data to analyze staffing needs. Using the methodologies developed by Matrix Consulting Group with input and direction from the Staffing Task Force, the Project Team determined recommended staffing levels based on current data and the ever-evolving roles and responsibilities of each unit as the Bureau develops and implements strategies to address current crime trends.

The table below shows recommended staffing for the Investigations Bureau.

| Investigations Bureau    |            |             |            |           |             |            |

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

Workload-based Methodology

Most investigative units in the Department consist of a Lieutenant who serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of the unit, supervising Sergeant Investigators whose primary responsibility is to investigate assigned cases. Generally, Sergeant Investigators are the predominant classification in each unit. In some units, Officers perform law enforcement functions (e.g., surveillance and video retrieval) that directly contribute to the casework and/or activities of the unit.

Workload Hours

In general, Sergeant Investigator staffing is determined using a workload-based methodology in which the number of cases assigned is the significant metric in determining workload. Potentially solvable cases are assigned to an investigator, who then spends time and effort “working” the case. Therefore, an additional key metric in the workload-based methodology used to determine staffing for Investigators is the time spent working the case, with utilization rates applied to account for proactive and administrative duties. Workload hours can therefore be represented by the following equation:

$$\text{Workload Hours} = [\text{Number of cases assigned}] \times [\text{Time spent working each case}]$$

Staffing Availability

The calculated amount of time needed for the unit’s Investigators to work the unit’s caseload can be represented by workload hours plus a utilization rate time factor to account for administrative and proactive time. This number of required hours is then assessed against the unit’s staffing levels, which is represented by the net available work hours (NAWH) of the individuals in the unit. The following table shows net available work hours for each Investigator in the unit.

| Definition                             | Explanation                                    | Number of Hours |
|----------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|-----------------|
| Max # work hours per year              | 40 hours/week x 52 weeks/year                  | 2,080           |
| Leave hours                            | Estimated usage of paid leave (FH, SP, VA)     | (270)           |
| Training hours                         | On duty training allotment per year            | (50)            |
| Net Available Work Hours (NAWH) | Time balance available for on-duty work | 1,760    |

Utilization

As described in the Field Operations Bureau – Patrol section, the workload-based methodology must account for proactive and administrative time. Similar to FOB – Patrol, administrative time includes tasks such as reading and signing off on Department Bulletins and other Department email correspondence that is not directly case-related. All investigative units have administrative time in the 10-20% range, which is the industry standard also used by Matrix Consulting Group.

Proactive time varies by unit. Some investigative units, such as Homicide and Special Victims Unit (SVU), follow the “traditional” investigative model: cases are assigned to the unit and subsequently to a lead investigator, who then works independently and with other unit investigators on the various component tasks that comprise “working” a case. These units have little or no proactive time incorporated into the utilization rates accounted for in determining recommended staffing levels.

Other units similarly investigate assigned cases, but devote significant time to proactive law enforcement functions in their designated area of expertise. One such unit is the Crime Gun Investigations Center (CGIC), which investigates specific gun-related cases but also conducts, for example, surveillance for illegal firearm tracing. These tasks are considered proactive efforts because they may contribute to effective casework in the future. The Project Team used a workload-based methodology based on caseload to determine staffing levels for CGIC, but with a utilization rate that accounts for the proactive investigative efforts required in the unit’s operations.

The following table shows NAWH with a 10% utilization rate to account for administrative time incorporated into the staffing availability calculation.<sup>4</sup>

| Definition                             | Explanation                                    | Number of Hours |
|----------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------|-----------------|
| Max # work hours per year              | 40 hours/week x 52 weeks/year                  | 2,080           |

| NAWH (with Utilization Rate)    | Time balance available for casework     | 1,584    |

The table below shows the figures needed to determine staffing.

| Workload Hours           |                                           | Staffing Availability                                                                           | Utilization                                                                                                    |
|--------------------------|-------------------------------------------|-------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Workload                 | Time per Task                             |                                                                                                 |                                                                                                                |
| Number of cases per year | Amount of time it takes to work each case | Net available work hours (NAWH), representing staffing hours available after leave and training | % of time spent on Administrative tasks% of time spent on Proactive tasks (e.g., working with other units) |

Subsequently, the calculation to determine staffing can be shown with this equation:

$$\frac{\text{Workload Hours}}{\text{Time per Task}} = \text{Number of staff required}$$

NAWH, with utilization rate(s) incorporated

This workload-based methodology is used for almost all investigative units to determine staffing levels for Sergeant Investigators. Again, Sergeant Investigators are the primary personnel in most units in the Investigations Bureau.

<sup>4</sup> Please note that the example included here is for the Homicide Unit in the Strategic Investigations Division.

Ratio-based Methodology

Span of control is the ratio-based methodology utilized most frequently in determining recommended staffing for the Investigations Bureau and represents industry standard best practices in how many direct reports each supervisory position should oversee.

Non-scaling Methodology

The non-scaling methodology is utilized to determine staffing for those positions that provide the Department with a unique function or capability, such as a leadership position that does not scale based on workload or a role that directly supports a Department initiative or priority.

Some investigative units such as the Community Violence Reduction Team (CVRT) are entirely proactive, with activities directed by the Department based on current trends and priorities. A non-scaling methodology is used to determine staffing levels for these units.

Recommended Staffing by Division and Unit

Investigations – Administration

The Investigations Bureau is overseen by a Deputy Chief who reports directly to the Assistant Chief of Operations. A Commander reports directly to the Deputy Chief and oversees the Investigations Divisions: Strategic Investigations, Major Crimes, General Crimes, and the Special Victims Unit. The Investigations Bureau executive team is supported by a Sergeant, an Executive Secretary, and a Clerk. Police Services Aides (PSAs) are assigned to the administrative branch of the Bureau but are shared amongst the units in the Bureau, providing critical support in data entry and analysis and operational case support. Given the unique leadership and support roles of these positions, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

Strategic Investigations Division

The Strategic Investigations Division includes the Homicide Unit, the Community Violence Reduction Team (CVRT), and the Crime Gun Investigations Center (CGIC). Strategic Investigations was created in September 2021 to realign Homicide, CVRT, and CGIC together to improve communication and pool resources amidst current trends in gun violence. In 2021, the number of non-fatal shootings as well the number of homicides with a firearm both increased over prior year figures. A Captain oversees the Strategic Investigations Division, a leadership role that is not scalable to any workload measures.

Homicide Unit

The Homicide Unit is responsible for investigating all homicides and deaths that are classified as suspicious by the SF Medical Examiner's office; in-custody deaths, which were previously investigated by SFPD Internal Affairs (IA) and the SF District Attorney's Office; officer-involved shootings (OIS) committed by an external agency, such as the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI); and assisting with SFPD OIS investigations. Due to the complex and significant nature of these cases, homicide investigations require extensive investigative work up and time-intensive documentation. One lead Sergeant Investigator is assigned to each homicide case and is generally assisted by one to two other Investigators.

Caseload & Current Trends

| Homicide Data, 2019 – 2022   |      |      |      |      |               |

Over the past four years, the number of cases has steadily increased. Moreover, the number of tasks per case and the amount of time required has increased slightly due to some key factors. First, the unit has experienced policy and procedural changes that dictate updated guidelines for working with the District Attorney's office. Homicide Investigators are now responsible for scanning all case files and documentation to send to the District Attorney's office, time-consuming tasks that were previously handled by Clerks in the District Attorney's office prior to 2020. Second, Homicide Investigators now collaborate more closely with the Investigators in CVRT and CGIC, particularly in cases of homicide with a firearm; this collaboration is necessary and must be factored into the time that it takes to work a case.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- The Lieutenant position serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of the Homicide Unit. Given the unique supervisory duties of the position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- The Sergeant Investigator position is responsible for the core investigative functions of the unit. Staffing is determined using the workload-based methodology based on 56 cases and 655 hours per case (one lead Investigator with others assisting).
- The Officer position is solely responsible for all video retrieval related to all cases assigned to the Homicide Unit. This position also provides support to the District Attorney's office regarding video requests for cases. Given the unique responsibilities of this position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- The Secretary position handles a variety of administrative responsibilities, including but not limited to scheduling, overtime and payroll, case tracking, incident recaps, and unit requests. Given the unique responsibilities of this position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

Community Violence Reduction Team (CVRT)

The Community Violence Reduction Team (CVRT) investigates high violence incidents and gang-related crimes in San Francisco communities. It does this by working extensively with other SFPD units, as well as state and federal partners in multi-agency efforts to address complex, highly-organized local criminal activities and crime syndicates from abroad. The Unit leads the Department's Shooting Review Meeting, providing weekly enforcement recommendations to the Field Operations Bureau. CVRT also provides extensive support in gang-related investigations that are led by other SFPD investigative units such as Homicide. These cases are not assigned to CVRT and hence are not reflected in the CVRT caseload.

A significant portion of CVRT's work differs from the "traditional" investigative model in which cases are assigned to a unit and the unit's Investigators workup potentially solvable cases to determine a resolution. Much of CVRT's work is proactive and the unit includes Officers who focus specifically on field surveillance and field investigations, proactively searching for and investigating gang encounters and violent criminal activity based on pre-existing knowledge and research. Given the increasing complexities of organized crime, the Officers in this unit must maintain extensive working knowledge of gang-related dynamics in the city, region, and state via ongoing surveillance of social media websites and attending events such as concerts. Field investigations and field surveillance result in extensive documentation of gang members, gang activity, and any other information gathered. Moreover, CVRT spends a significant amount of time on surveillance and intel support for investigations assigned to other units. Surveillance and intel support are very time consuming, often taking weeks on end to gather information.

CVRT also provides court testimony for SFPD and outside agencies, conducts probation and parole searches, conducts search warrants, holds informant debriefs, and maintains a gang member registry in compliance with court order. Additionally, due to internal policy changes, CVRT also investigates shootings that may be gang-related as opposed to only those that are known to be gang-related.

In ongoing efforts to be more proactive and strengthen community ties, one Lieutenant and one officer are assigned to this unit to support the strategy, closely working with the Community Initiatives & Policy team, which is the programmatic team of this initiative and resides in another SFPD unit. As part of the initiative, the Lieutenant deconflicts with CVRT, other internal units and the City's Street Violence Intervention Program (SVIP) to strategize on outreach and intervention plans. The Lieutenant primarily works in the field with the community and city partners, directly messaging with potential participants of the program. Furthermore, the officer assigned to this work supports the Lieutenant and operations of the VRI strategy.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- The Lieutenant position serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of CVRT. Given the unique supervisory duties of the position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- The Sergeant Investigator position is responsible for the core investigative functions of the unit. Investigators in CVRT investigate assigned cases but also perform extensive proactive work such as directing the field surveillance activities of the Officers in the unit and providing assistance in surveillance and intel to other units. Staffing for this position is determined using a workload-based methodology based on 172 cases, 36 hours per case, and a 40% proactive time utilization rate to account for the unit's extensive surveillance efforts.
- The Officer positions are responsible for assisting Sergeant Investigators in surveillance and search warrants on an Enforcement Team sub-unit. SFPD introduced this team based on the finding from the California Partnership Program data and study (2021) that recommended additional staffing to support field and street enforcement. There is also one Officer position solely responsible for all video retrieval related to all cases assigned to CVRT. Given the unique functions of the Officers in the unit, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

Crime Gun Investigations Center (CGIC)

The Crime Gun Investigations Center (CGIC) is responsible for a variety of functions related to crime gun intelligence, firearm tracing, case investigation, and proactive surveillance related to illegal firearm tracing. CGIC interfaces with the National Integrated Ballistic Information Network (NIBIN) through various channels. One such way is producing crime gun intelligence through coordination with the federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms and Explosives (“ATF”) and the SFPD Crime Lab and SFPD Property Control to get results through a gun and/or casings used in a crime. Gun intelligence data is entered into NIBIN, which identifies whether the particular gun corresponds with other criminal activity or homicides in the network. Using NIBIN, the unit investigates different cases involving firearms, including firearm trafficking; data analysis on potential shots fired (the Shot Spotter program); and proactively investigates potential cases such as identifying illegal firearm trafficking through firearm tracing, social media surveillance, and/or undercover work. Over the past few years, the number of cases has been increasing in addition to the various tasks required to investigate each case with the use of NIBIN. CGIC and CVRT also partner to run the Department’s weekly shooting review, providing data analysis and areas of focus for the Department’s enforcement efforts.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- The Lieutenant position serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of CGIC. Given the unique supervisory duties of the position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- Staffing for the Sergeant Investigator position is determined using the workload-based methodology based on 315 cases, 12 hours per case, and a 33% proactive time utilization rate to account for the unit’s extensive surveillance efforts.
- Staffing for the Officer position is determined using the workload-based methodology based on 315 cases and 12 hours per case. Casework is split collaboratively Sergeants and Officers; however, Officers conduct designated casework tasks such as search warrants and surveillance.

Major Crimes Division

The Major Crimes Division includes Robbery, Burglary/Organized Retail Theft, and Narcotics. Major Crimes is responsible for investigating significant and serious crimes. Unit case assignments have shifted dynamically in recent years between Robbery, Burglary, and the General Works Detail in the General Crimes Division to be responsive to current trends and case volume. A Captain oversees the Major Crimes Division, a leadership role that is not scalable to any workload measures.

Robbery

The Robbery Unit is responsible for investigating serious robbery cases that meet specific criteria and that generally require lengthy and extensive investigations due to their complexity (e.g., series robberies). Department Notice 22-032 (DN 22-032), effective March 2022, listed the protocols for Robbery investigations and stated that the Robbery Unit would take most Robbery cases, review all robbery reports, and consult with the General Work Detail regarding which unit will investigate a robbery case. DN 22-020 directs that the Robbery Unit will investigate cases such as bank and armored transport robberies, home invasions, carjacking incidents, robberies where hostages are taken, robberies where the victim is injured, and robbery series involving multiple districts or jurisdictions.

Since 2017, Robbery Unit case criteria and assignment between the Robbery Unit, General Work Detail, and the Burglary Unit has continued to evolve based on current trends and case volume. Over the last few years, robberies as well as the complexity of robbery cases have increased and the Robbery Unit is unable to investigate all robbery cases. For example, there has been an increase in Estes robberies in which store employees or other personnel focused on loss prevention pursue and try to stop a shoplifter who then uses force or threat of force to avoid apprehension and get away with the merchandise. The use of force component in an Estes robbery elevates shoplifting to the more serious crime of robbery.

Given the volume of cases, the Robbery Unit now addresses only the most serious and complex robbery cases and the Burglary Unit now take many of the cases that previously may have been assigned to the Robbery Unit. General Work Detail investigates basic street robberies with no significant injuries and robberies with known suspects. With improved video retrieval and localized knowledge, Investigators and Officers focused on the District Stations can more effectively identify and arrest known suspects. The Burglary Unit now has a dedicated Organized Retail Theft sub-unit. Retail theft cases were sometimes handled by Robbery prior but are now all assigned to Burglary/Retail Theft. Though General Work Detail and Burglary now investigate specific case types that were previously assigned to the Robbery Unit, the Robbery Unit workload has increased because assigned cases are highly complex, serious robberies.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- The Lieutenant position serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of Robbery. Given the unique supervisory duties of the position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- The Sergeant/Investigator position is responsible for the core investigative functions of the unit. Staffing is determined using the workload-based methodology based on 732 cases and 48 hours per case.

Burglary/Organized Retail Theft

The Burglary Unit is responsible for investigating auto, residential, and commercial burglaries that occur in San Francisco. Prior to late 2017, there was no centralized Burglary Unit and since then case criteria have changed and case assignments have shifted dynamically amongst Robbery, Burglary, and General Work, as mentioned above.

Auto Burglaries

In August 2017, following a sharp year-over-year increase in the number of auto burglaries, SFPD expanded the number and locations of foot and bicycle patrols in areas most impacted by this trend, and engaged with community groups in an aggressive educational component. A dramatic decrease in the number of incidents was seen right away – a 17% drop when comparing 2018 numbers to those of 2017. However, as the City emerged from the pandemic, there has been a 39% increase of auto burglary incidents from 2020 to 2021. This upward trend continued with another 8% increase in 2022.

Organized Retail Theft

Organized retail theft crimes are greatly impacting retailers, both national corporations and locally owned businesses. According to the 2022 Retail Security Survey conducted by the National Retail Federation, organized retail crime is a $100 billion problem nationwide and rising. The same survey also identified San Francisco as the second most impacted area for organized retail crimes, followed by Los Angeles.

On September 22nd, 2021, Mayor London Breed announced the details of San Francisco's Organized Retail Crime Initiative, a focused plan to increase reporting, investigating, and solving of retail theft cases and the upstream criminal enterprises that enable them. The Organized Retail Theft Initiative is led by the San Francisco Police Department (SFPD) in partnership with local retailers and regional law enforcement agencies. The Plan aims to expand and reallocate SFPD investigative resources, strategically restructure publicly and privately funded deployments, and facilitate public-private partnerships aimed at reporting, investigating, and solving cases.

Unit members will investigate cases locally within their citywide purview as well serve as full partners to the California Highway Patrol's Organized Retail Crime Task Force, to identify and prosecute organized theft rings, recover lost merchandise, collaborate with the retail industry to reduce theft and improve safety for shoppers.

Other Tasks

Each investigative unit is responsible for several different tasks, including but not limited to cases assigned for investigation and rebookings. Rebookings are time-consuming and difficult to schedule because they must be completed under specific time constraints and the amount that comes in on any given day is unpredictable.

Narcotics

The Narcotics Unit is an entirely proactive unit that investigates mid- and street-level narcotic incidents that occur in San Francisco. Narcotics operates in a manner similar to District Station Plainclothes teams in that much of the work is directed enforcement, targeting hot spot areas in the city based on citywide crime trends and leads from confidential informants. Narcotics operates primarily in the Tenderloin area; however, the unit also focuses on other parts of the city such as the Mission, Bayview, and Ingleside.

Unlike some of the other investigative units in the Department that primarily work assigned cases, Narcotics is actively conducting search warrants, making arrests, and booking offenders. Narcotics also rebooks cases for the District Attorney's office. Based on current crime trends, the Narcotics Unit is understaffed and unable to meet the demands of the Tenderloin in addition to other areas of the city.

The Sergeant Investigators in the unit primarily work on cases, with tasks including authoring search warrants, arrest warrants, and memos; and conducting rebookings, arrests, and stakeouts. Sergeants lead investigative teams within the unit that generally work collaboratively on proactive, longer-term investigative efforts. The Sergeant positions also supervise the Officers in the unit, directing the Officers in conducting law enforcement activities that are critical to working cases. Therefore, the Officers in the unit primarily focus on proactive law enforcement in various situations related to casework.

For example, Officers conduct buy-bust operations and hundreds of hours are utilized when a mid- to high-level trafficker is identified and an investigation is initiated. Law enforcement operations that must be undertaken include surveillance, buys, meeting with informants, locating residence(s), and authoring various search warrants. Depending on how many locations are identified, a significant amount of time may be utilized on search warrant days. Narcotics also includes three Task Force Officers (TFOs) who are assigned to liaise with federal agencies such as the Department of Homeland Security and the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) on various initiatives.

As Narcotics is an entirely proactive unit, its staffing level and focus should align with Department priorities and community needs. Matrix Consulting Group noted that tracking key performance indicators (KPIs) is beneficial for proactive units to monitor systems for decision-making, internal accountability, and operations. If Narcotics does not already have some key indicators identified, this is an area that the unit should explore in the future.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- The Lieutenant position serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of Narcotics. Given the unique supervisory duties of the position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- The Sergeant position leads teams that conduct proactive, long-term investigative efforts. As the Sergeant position is responsible for leading these teams and supervising the Officers in the unit, it is appropriate to use a ratio-based methodology with span of control set at 1:7.
- The Officer position conducts proactive law enforcement activities as directed by the needs of the cases. Staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

General Crimes Division

The General Crimes Division includes the General Work Detail (formerly the Station Investigation Teams), and Night Investigations Unit (NIU). Effective March 2022, the district Station investigation Team (SIT) transitioned into General Work Detail (Department Notice 22-040) and continues to investigate incidents that were previously handled by SIT. The General Work Detail is responsible for investigating general crime incidents throughout the 10 District Stations that do not meet the criteria for assignment to other investigative units such as Robbery and Burglary. Night Investigations is responsible for responding to crime scenes after-hours when no other investigative units are regularly scheduled to be on-duty. NIU generally investigates serious cases and may carry out the full investigation if specific criteria are met. Otherwise, NIU initiates the investigation at the crime scene and directly before the case is assigned to another investigative unit.

General Crimes is overseen by a Captain, a leadership position that does not scale based on workload. Recommended staffing for the General Crimes Division is shown below.

General Work Detail

The General Work Detail is managed by a Lieutenant and the unit is responsible for investigating general crimes incidents throughout the 10 District Stations that do not meet criteria for assignment to other investigative units such as Special Victims, Community Violence Reduction Team (CVRT), Robbery, and Burglary. As described in the Robbery and Burglary sections, case assignment has shifted somewhat between General Work Detail, Robbery, and Burglary over the past few years; General Work Detail is now responsible for case types previously assigned to Robbery and Burglary, as the latter two units now investigate the most complex cases in their respective focus areas. Generally, the types of cases assigned to General Work Detail include, but are not limited to, aggravated assaults, possession of a firearm (felony/non-gang related), some terrorist threats, and non-domestic violence related kidnappings. Given current crime trends as well as case reassignment protocols, General Work Detail experiences a significant case volume and the workload-based analysis indicates that General Work Detail's caseload warrants significant resources.

The structure and organization of General Work Detail within the Bureau – whether command is centralized in Investigations or decentralized at the District Stations – has switched over the years to be responsive to current priorities and staffing levels. Currently, command is centralized in the Investigations Bureau under the Captain that oversees General Crimes. Sergeants serve as the Investigators and primarily spend their time working cases with time allotment for court and minimal administrative time.

Generally, the busier District Stations in the Metro Division have higher caseloads than the smaller District Stations in the Golden Gate Division.

Police Service Aides perform a variety of different tasks, including but not limited to data entry, authoring crime alert emails, answering report requests, tracking caseload metrics, supporting research for investigative staff, providing rebooking support where appropriate, reviewing crime bulletins, and record payroll. This position provides valuable administrative support and enables sworn Investigators to focus on specialized casework. Given the extensive supportive duties and responsibilities of the PSAs, it is appropriate to use the fixed post methodology and assign four PSA to support General Work Detail.

General Works Detail handles a significant number of the Department's rebookings. Over the 90-day period from April – June 2021, the unit handled 35% of rebookings (469 out of 1,350). Rebookings account for substantial workload as they must be done under specific time constraints and the number that come in on a day-to-day basis is unpredictable.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- There is one Lieutenant that serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC). Due to the unique responsibilities of this position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- Staffing for the Sergeant Investigator position that investigates cases is determined using a workload-based methodology based on 2,149 cases citywide and 10.5 hours per case.
- The Officer positions serve as video retrieval officers for all of General Work Detail. Given the unique responsibilities of this position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- The PSA positions are determined using fixed-post methodology, with the intention of having adequate administrative support coverage for sworn personnel assigned to the unit.

Night Investigations Unit

The Night Investigations Unit (NIU) is responsible for providing after-hours detective response to major crimes. NIU responds to active crime scenes and investigates cases that meet specific criteria or conducts preliminary investigative work before the case is assigned to another investigative unit for completion. NIU is responsible for initiating the investigative effort for after-hours crime scenes even if the case is subsequently assigned to another unit. In 2020, NIU's days and hours changed such that the unit is now considered active all day on Saturday and Sunday (previously the unit ran limited hours on weekends). More cases now occur within NIU's jurisdiction and this has increased caseloads for the unit.

NIU is overseen by a Lieutenant who serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC). Sergeant Investigators are responsible for conducting the unit's investigative work: assisting with cases throughout the night, triaging cases based on criteria, responding to crime scenes, interviewing witnesses and victims, coordinating with other Sergeants and Officers and Crime Scene Investigations (CSI), and collecting and reviewing video. These Investigators manage active crime scenes to provide oversight regarding the protocols and procedures that must be followed to initiate an investigative effort.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- The Lieutenant position serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of Night Investigations. Given the unique supervisory duties of the position, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- Sergeant Investigator staffing is determined using a workload-based methodology based on 202 cases, 38 hours per case, and a 35% "responding time" utilization factor to account for those investigations in which NIU initially responds to and manages the active crime scene and initial investigation before the case is subsequently assigned to another investigative unit based on case assignment criteria.

Special Investigations Division (SID)

The Special Investigations Division (SID) is responsible for a variety of unique investigative efforts and responsibilities that support regional initiatives, service internal and external stakeholders, and provide dignitary protection. SID has several specialized sub-units including Dignitary Protection, Hate Crimes, and Arson, as well as other sub-units that liaise with regional and national initiatives.

Special Investigations is overseen by a Lieutenant. The sub-units in the Special Investigations Division all serve unique functions, with assignments and unit size dictated by factors such as requests from City leadership, commitments to provide a dedicated level of interagency support, or Department policy or directive. Due to the specialized functions of units within the Special Investigations Division, staffing for these units is determined using the non-scaling methodology. Recommended staffing is provided below followed by a brief overview of the responsibilities of each sub-unit.

- Designated Investigations investigates crimes and threats such as hate crimes, threats to elected officials, violent threats against schools and workplaces, public corruption, crimes against foreign dignitaries, confidential cases referred from Internal Affairs or Command Staff, threats against sworn Department members, and threats of mass shootings. In recent times, there has been a significant increase in the number of cases assigned to SID by Command Staff, and workplace shooting threats. Moreover, there has been an increase in hate crimes targeting specific groups such as the Asian American Pacific Islander (AAPI) community. These investigations have added additional workload to Designated Investigations and one additional Investigator is recommended to focus on investigating hate crimes specifically.
- Dignitary Protection serves as the liaison to the State Department, Capitol Police, Secret Service, and various Consulates, and provides physical security to dignitary officials, including the Mayor. This unit is also responsible for protest intel.
- Technical Services Unit assists other Investigative units such as Homicide, Robbery, Burglary and the Community Violence Reduction Team in locating suspects. Technical Services conducts physical surveillance and electronic surveillance (phones) to locate and arrest suspects. Unit personnel are experts on cell phone tracking regulations and laws and assist other investigators in writing warrants. The unit's workload is based on that of other units.
- Arson Task Force is responsible for investigating criminal fire-related incidents including explosions, major fire scenes, accidental fatalities during fires, and fires three-alarm and larger.

Once the San Francisco Fire Department determines that a fire was intentionally set, Arson Task Force initiates an investigation.

- Northern California Regional Intelligence Center (NCRIC) liaises with the regional law enforcement intelligence group, providing information regarding threats to public safety. NCRIC serves as an information clearinghouse, disseminating information to multiple local agencies.
- US Marshall's Task Force consists of one Sergeant assigned to the US Marshall's that is responsible for locating and arresting fugitives all over the state. This position is also responsible for extradition of prisoners from other jurisdictions and physically works out of the Federal building with a team of US Marshall's.

Special Victims Unit

The Special Victims Unit (SVU) investigates various types of person crimes including sex assault, domestic violence, child abuse, elder abuse, and financial crimes. SVU follows the traditional investigative model in which Sergeant Investigators work assigned cases, without significant proactive time like some of the other units in the Bureau. SVU is overseen by one Captain and three Lieutenants and an administrative team that is responsible for various tasks related to case assignment and case tracking.

SVU staffing is down significantly due to retirements and assignment to other investigative units. The Project Team recommends additional staffing in SVU based on the caseload volume experienced by many of the sub-units. Recommended staffing for SVU is shown below followed by a description of each sub-unit.

Given the size of the unit and the volume of various case types that are assigned to the unit, SVU has an administrative team that consists of both sworn and non-sworn personnel. The administrative team is responsible for assigning and tracking cases within the unit, video retrieval, payroll, external requests/inquiry, and special projects. Due to the unique responsibilities of the positions within the SVU administrative subunit, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

SVU sub-units consist of Sergeant Investigators who investigate cases in their respective area. Sub-units are designated as follows:

- One large team of Sergeants investigates Domestic Violence, Child Abuse, and Sex Assault.
- One team of Sergeants investigates Financial Crimes cases, which are time-consuming and are becoming increasingly complex given financial innovations (e.g., cryptocurrency).
- Two single Sergeant sub-units investigate Elder Abuse, designated as either physical or financial, and Stalking.
- Another team of Sergeants investigates Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC).
- The remaining sub-units, each staffed with two to four Sergeants, investigate Human Trafficking, Missing Persons, Cold Cases, and Sex Offenders.

It should also be noted that SVU handles a significant number of rebookings for the Bureau. Many of these cases are high liability and require quick turnaround, with close monitoring by the District Attorney's Office.

Staffing Methodologies for Sergeant Investigators

The workload-based methodology is used to determine staffing for the Sergeants in Domestic Violence, Child Abuse, and Sex Assault (1,344, 75, and 578 cases, respectively); Financial Crimes (1,964 cases filed and 89 cases worked/rebooked); Elder Abuse (71 cases); Stalking (54 cases); Human Trafficking (51 cases); and ICAC (85 cases).

The non-scaling methodology is used to determine staffing for some Sergeant positions, given the unique nature of the work (e.g., there are no consistent workload metrics associated with cold case investigations). These sub-units include Missing Persons, Cold Cases, and 290 Sex Offenders.

Forensic Services Division

The Forensic Services Division includes the Crime Lab, Crime Scene Investigations, and the ID Unit (referred to as ID-ABIS). Forensic Services is overseen by a professional staff Director who reports directly to the Deputy Chief of the Investigations Bureau. The Crime Lab and the ID Unit are both staffed exclusively with professional staff members and are each overseen by a professional staff Manager. Crime Scene Investigations (CSI) is overseen by a Lieutenant and staffed predominantly with sworn members; this section includes a discussion of how the Department might initiate the process of civilianizing CSI in the future. Recommended staffing levels for the Forensic Services Division are shown below followed by a description of each unit.

Crime Lab

The Crime Lab is responsible for scientifically analyzing the nature, origin, and significance of physical evidence in criminal investigations. It is overseen by the Crime Lab Manager and organized into four subunits, with supervisors in each area: Forensic Biology/DNA, Firearms/Toolmark, Forensic Breath Alcohol/Chemical Analysis, and Quality Assurance/Gun Shot Residue. A significant change that will impact Crime Lab workload is the planned reopening of the Chemical Analysis unit within Forensic Breath Alcohol, which will require hiring and training new Criminalists as well as validating new equipment.

The Forensic Biology/DNA Unit is responsible for examining evidence for the presence of biological materials such as blood, semen, and saliva. The Unit performs DNA analysis on biological materials and reference samples, issues reports, and testifies to findings when needed. The Unit is led by a DNA Technical Lead Manager, which is required to maintain the lab's accreditation. The Criminalist III position predominantly supervises Criminalist IIs, who perform most of the DNA analysis investigations. The Unit uses a batch method to process significantly more samples and has a low backlog.

The Firearms and Toolmark Unit is responsible for microscopically comparing shell casings, bullets and toolmarks to verify their origination to a source; restoring obliterated serial numbers; determining the distance from which a gun was fired; and issuing reports and testifying as needed. When eligible, shell casings are entered into the National Integrated Ballistic Information Network (NIBIN) database for searching across agencies, which is performed by the NIBIN technical Examiners. The Unit is staffed with a supervising Criminalist III, Criminalist II positions that perform the casework, two Examiners, and three lab technicians.

The Forensic Breath Alcohol/Chemical Analysis Unit maintains breath alcohol instruments, provides training to officers on instruments, and testifies to intoxication levels in court. The Forensic Breath Alcohol Unit has planned to bring the chemical analysis service back, with the anticipated reopening in June 2024, which will require additional staffing. The work is currently outsourced to Alameda County. In order to be fully operational, validate instruments, and conduct the work currently outsourced, it is estimated that the Unit would need seven Criminalist II positions and two Criminalist III supervisors. Going forward, the Project Team recommends that the Chemical Analysis Unit capture data on chemical analysis cases, validating and maintaining instruments, and training provision.

Quality Assurance/Gun Shot Residue is performed by one Criminalist Supervisor who divides their time between the different sub-units, and supervises a lab technician/entry-level Criminalist who also performs duties across all sub-unit disciplines. Quality Assurance is responsible for ensuring compliance during audits for lab accreditation.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

The sub-units in the Crime Lab are all organized in a similar structure, with the same classifications performing similar job duties across all sub-units, each with a specific focus based on the specialized nature of the respective unit. Therefore, the methodologies utilized to determine recommended staffing levels are relevant at the classification level.

- Any Manager-level positions are determined using a non-scaling methodology due to their unique responsibilities. For example, the Forensic Biology/DNA Unit is overseen by a DNA Technical Lead Manager, a position that is required in the unit to maintain the lab's accreditation.
- All sub-units include Criminalist III positions that are responsible for some casework (e.g., DNA analysis investigations), but the predominant responsibility of these positions is to directly supervise Criminalist IIs in casework and other unit activities. Therefore, Criminalist III staffing is primarily determined using a ratio-based methodology using a span of control of 1:6. Few Criminalist III positions use the non-scaling methodology based on specialized job duties that do not include supervision.
- Criminalist II positions are responsible for performing the casework relevant to the specific unit. For example, in Forensic Biology/DNA, cases are DNA analysis investigations; in Firearms and Toolmark, cases are firearms investigations. Therefore, Criminalist II staffing in each unit is determined using a workload-based methodology based on the number of investigations and the time per investigation.

- Some positions serve unique roles for their respective sub-units and therefore staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology, including:
  - Examiners in the Firearm and Toolmark Unit, who are responsible for input and Department maintenance of NIBIN
  - Criminalist II staffing in the newly added Chemical Analysis section of Forensic Breath Alcohol
  - The two positions that provide Quality Assurance and Gun Shot Residue services and comprise that unit

Crime Scene Investigations (CSI)

Crime Scene Investigations (CSI) is responsible for supporting and responding to requests for any special forensic process needs, including fingerprints, DNA and digital evidence collections, and examinations. CSI also responds to crime scenes for evidence processing. CSI includes the Media Evidence Unit (MEU), a Photo Lab, a Forensic Artist, and SFPD members staffed at the Silicon Valley Regional Computer Forensics Laboratory (SVRCFL). The whole unit was moved in to the new SFPD crime facility, along with the Crime Lab units, in early 2022. The Crime Lab and CSIU have additional benefits to co-location in terms of internal communications and processes.

CSI staffing levels have declined in recent years due to retirement, transfer, and promotion. CSI is currently comprised of predominantly sworn members and has vacancies for specific professional staff positions and is currently recruiting to fill these positions.

Recommendation: The Project Team recommends that the Department continue the process of civilianizing CSI, while recognizing that this change will take significant time and that current staffing must remain as-is during the initial stages in order to maintain service levels and accreditation. Police Executive Research Forum (PERF) made a similar recommendation in its 2008 report. One critical consideration is that it is likely that new professional staff classification(s) will need to be created in order to ensure that the unit is staffed with well-trained civilian specialists. This process is possible but not timely. The Department should explore civilianization options for the unit while maintaining current staffing to provide continuity of operations and service. As the staffing analysis is conducted on a bi-annual basis, this long-term civilianization process is recommended yet staffing remains as-is in this assessment to maintain accreditation.

Staffing Methodologies

Staffing for all sub-units in CSI is determined using the non-scaling methodology; this section details the unique duties and responsibilities of each sub-unit. The Project Team has used current staffing as a baseline with the recommendation for a significant shift in sworn versus non-sworn personnel ahead.

Generally, sworn members in CSI are serving in the forensic examiner capacity, providing technical expertise in video, computer and cellphone evidence. Though there may be specific instances in which sworn expertise and jurisdiction is necessary (e.g., going out on search warrants), the Department should explore the possibility of creating or utilizing civilian classifications that are authorized and trained to conduct forensic examination. CSI is operating with minimum staffing currently and this may be an opportunity to hire civilian classifications that already exist to supplement operational need now and to create additional civilian classifications to civilianize the unit in the long-term. Additionally, the Project Team recommends that workload metrics be tracked and utilized to determine staffing in future analyses.

The Media Evidence Unit (MEU) is responsible for collecting, documenting, examining, analyzing, clarifying, and archiving forensic media (video and audio) evidence. The unit provides technical support to the Department in cell phone, video, sketch, and photography mediums. MEU interfaces with the various video retrieval positions throughout the Investigations Bureau, providing support in casework, archived evidence, and equipment. With CSI's move to the new crime lab, all CSI video technicians will be co-located, and the Department should explore whether or not this presents an opportunity to consolidate video retrieval more generally to serve the Bureau in a centralized unit.

MEU consists of a supervising Sergeant and one Officer. Previously the unit was staffed with additional Officers, each of whom has their own area of expertise (video, computer, cellphone), as well as a Forensic Artist and a Photographer. Most critically, the unit has a resource need in cellphone examiner positions due to technological advancements and cultural shifts. Cellphones are more resource intensive than computers to examine.

The Photographer performs all Photo Lab functions, including taking and processing photos of Academy graduations and other Department events and processing and archiving photos of news conferences, court cases, and homicide investigations. The Photographer also answers questions related to camera usage from investigators, maintains camera equipment, and manages the CSI photo storage system in Crime Data Warehouse.

The Digital Forensics team currently consists of two Officers that examine and extract data from mobile devices such as cell phones, tablets, computers, DVRs, or any electronic device that may contain data relevant to an investigation.

The Forensic Artist performs all forensic duties for the Department including creating freehand art sketches of victims and witnesses using composite art sketches as investigative tools to aid in the identification, apprehension and/or elimination of suspects, victims, and witnesses; altering or modifying likenesses to aid in the identification of victims, witnesses, or suspects; creating three-dimensional reconstruction (sculptures) from physical data of decomposed or partially decomposed human remains for the purposes of forensic identification; and conducting interviews with crime victims and witnesses to create freehand drawings or sculptures of criminal suspects.

The Regional Digital Crime Lab – Silicon Valley Regional Computer Forensics Laboratory (SVRCFL) is a regional, multi-agency laboratory and as such, workload measures for individual positions are not attributable to independent agencies.

ID-ABIS

ID-ABIS conducts identification procedures ("ID") and operates Automated Biometric Identification Systems ("ABIS"). The primary responsibilities of ID-ABIS (also referred to as the ID Unit) are to conduct fingerprinting for the City and County of San Francisco, identify criminal suspects, identify applications, and verify records and criminal history. The ID Unit services the entire City on a 24/7 basis. In 2015, Records Management moved from the Hall of Justice to the Public Safety Building (Police Headquarters), and subsequently the work of verifying and editing criminal history was transitioned from Records to the ID Unit. As dictated by the Department of Justice, this work includes processing bookings and restraining orders. In this transition of work, the ID Unit grew from only including Fingerprinting Technicians to also including Clerks, who are responsible for processing restraining orders.

Given these changes and the fact that ID Unit staffing has steadily declined due to retirements and transfers, the Project Team recommends some additional staffing in the ID Bureau. Moreover, the ID Unit has a digitization case backlog and the statewide policy changes such as the September 2020 expansion of the sex offender law is anticipated to increase applications. Over the last few years, the Department has made an effort to transfer relevant positions into the ID Unit after significant staffing declines.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- The ID Bureau has one Manager and one supervising Fingerprint Technician Manager. Given the specialized supervisory nature of these positions, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- Recommended staffing for Fingerprinting Technician Supervisors is determined using a ratio-based methodology using 1:7 span of control. Fingerprinting Technician Supervisors do perform fingerprinting work but serve as the supervisor on each shift.
- Recommended staffing for Fingerprinting Technicians is determined using a workload-based methodology based on the total number of cases of fingerprints processed, including applicants, adult criminal suspects, juvenile criminal suspects, registrants, adult citations, and deceased subjects for the Medical Examiner.
- Recommended staffing for Clerks in the ID Bureau is determined using a workload-based methodology based on the number of misdemeanor citations entered and updated in the content management system. Clerks work different shifts to ensure coverage.
- The IS Engineer position is funded through a federal Automated Fingerprinting Identification Systems (AFIS) program.

Special Operations Bureau

Overview

The Special Operations Bureau (SOB) supports the other Bureaus and units in the Department by providing specialized expertise and equipment when operationally necessary. Examples of this support include the Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) Team safely arresting a barricaded suspect, the Bomb Squad checking out a suspicious package, the Marine Unit rescuing a person from the Bay, the Traffic Company monitoring driving behavior in school zones, or the Homeland Security Unit planning for the safety of a large parade.

Recommended Staffing

Through extensive interviews and quantitative data analysis, the Project Team identified specialized sworn staffing need in the Bureau's Traffic and Tactical Divisions. The Project Team also identified areas where the Department could initiate civilianization efforts in the Department Operations Center (DOC) within the Homeland Security Division.

Organizational Chart

Special Operations Bureau

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

Workload-based Methodology

The Project Team used a workload-based methodology to determine staffing levels for specific units in the Special Operations Bureau, based on unit workload metrics and available data. Examples include:

- Traffic Collision Investigations Unit (TCIU): TCIU functions as a traditional investigative unit that conducts workups on assigned cases. The number of assigned cases, and the average number of hours required to conduct a workup for each case, serve as the workload metrics for this unit.

Fixed-post Methodology and Operational Analyses

The Project Team used a fixed-post framework coupled with an assessment of operational needs to determine staffing levels for units such as the Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) Team in the Tactical Division. In the specific context of SOB staffing, the term “fixed-post” does not necessarily reflect an actual posted area of assignment, but rather the essential coverage needed for an assignment. In order to provide full coverage across all days every week, the SWAT Team must be staffed with four teams. Operationally, each team should be staffed with one Sergeant and seven Officers to remain within industry standards for span of control (1:7) and to fulfill the operational needs of the Department.

Ratio-based Methodology

As in other Bureaus, staffing levels for many supervisory positions in the Special Operations Bureau are determined using industry standard span of control metrics.

Non-scaling Methodology and Grant Funded Positions

The Project Team used the non-scaling methodology to determine staffing levels for positions that provide the Department with unique functions, and particularly in the Special Operations Bureau, specialized expertise. Moreover, the Special Operations Bureau has a number of positions that are funded and staffed through grant agreements. Examples of these grant-funded positions include:

- Homeland Security/Urban Areas Security Initiative (UASI): These units have positions that are grant-funded through various regional and national programs.
- Port Unit: These positions are funded via work order agreement with the Port of San Francisco.

Additional methodological detail is provided in each Division and unit section.

Recommended Staffing by Division and Unit

SOB – Administration

The Special Operations Bureau is overseen by a Deputy Chief that reports directly to the Assistant Chief of Operations. The Deputy Chief is supported by an Executive Secretary. Both positions are unique and are not scalable to any workload measures.

| Special Operations - Administration |          |             |          |          |             |          |

Traffic Division

The objectives of the Department’s Municipal Transportation Agency (MTA) Traffic Division (referred to hereafter as the “Traffic Division” so as not to confuse with the City agency SFMTA) is to increase safety for all pedestrians, cyclists, and motorists who use the City’s streets. Education and various enforcement strategies are deployed throughout San Francisco to ensure safe driving practices. Other responsibilities include responding to major traffic collisions, coordinating special events (e.g., motorcades), and responding to stunt driving incidents.

Traffic Division and Traffic Company – Administration

The Traffic Division operates under the direction of a Commander who is supported by a Clerk who also serves as the Secretary for the Collision Board of Review, a group of various members within the Department who come together to review cases to determine disciplinary action regarding member-involved collisions. Leadership and administrative support positions for the Traffic Division are unique and not scalable to any workload metrics.

The Traffic Company is organized within the Traffic Division and works collaboratively with other personnel in the Department to review collision data and employ strategies to increase traffic safety for pedestrians, cyclists, and motorists. The Traffic Company includes Traffic Enforcement, Commercial Vehicle Unit, Stunt Driving Response Unit, and Traffic Collision Investigations Unit (TCIU). The Traffic Company is overseen by a Captain who receives administrative and analytical support from one Clerk and one Analyst. There are no workload measures directly related to these positions, so they are considered non-scalable for the purpose of this assessment.

The Traffic Company is also responsible for managing the Hall of Justice's STOP Window, the tow release window where members of the public come to claim their towed vehicles. Currently there are two Police Services Aides (PSAs) assigned to the STOP Window who receive support from one sworn member who is primarily assigned to the Commercial Vehicle Unit. The STOP Window requires the addition of one Sergeant to supervise the public-facing window, to investigate tow hearings with appropriate law enforcement training, and to ensure proper handling of City funds and vouchers. This position requires supervisory jurisdiction and law enforcement expertise and is a Vehicle Code requirement.

The Traffic Company also has two Officers assigned to Red Light Enforcement and driving under the influence (DUI) misdemeanor rebookings. There are no workload measures associated with these positions, so they are classified as non-scalable for this assessment. The Project Team recommends implementing an analyzable tracking system for Red Light violations and misdemeanor DUI rebookings in order to utilize a workload-based methodology to assess staffing in future analyses.

Traffic Company – Traffic Enforcement

The Traffic Enforcement unit collects data and implements traffic enforcement for all ten District Stations. Based on data collected, police officers are assigned to specific areas to conduct proactive traffic enforcement with the primary objective of reducing the occurrence of fatal and major injury vehicular collisions. Areas of enforcement are determined via a multi-departmental data analysis project that identifies high injury corridors and by instances of citizen complaints. In addition to traffic enforcement, the unit provides additional support to the District Stations by saturating specific areas to increase visibility and deter crime.

The City and County of San Francisco adopted the Vision Zero policy in 2014, committing to build better and safer streets, educate the public on traffic safety, enforce traffic laws, and adopt policy changes that save lives. One strategic goal of Vision Zero is to create a culture that prioritizes traffic safety and to ensure that mistakes on the roadways do not result in serious injury or death. The Vision Zero initiative aims to eliminate all traffic-related fatalities and reduce severe and fatal injury to pedestrians, motorists, and cyclists. To facilitate San Francisco's "Vision Zero," proactive efforts are dedicated to enforcing traffic laws. Using multi-year collision data, the Traffic Company focuses on enforcing the five violations that are the primary collision factors in most fatal collisions (e.g., speeding, illegal right turns, etc.). Fifty percent of traffic citations issued by the Traffic Company are related to violations identified by Vision Zero.

The Traffic Enforcement unit is also assigned to all escort details involving dignitaries, parades, demonstrations, and funerals. Dignitary escorts for heads of states, including the President of the United States, require a large number of sworn personnel for safe execution. A safe number of motorcycle officers, referred to internally as "Solos", for a presidential escort is 50. The Solos also get requests from the Field Operations Bureau and District Stations to assist with traffic for events, demonstrations, marches, and parades. For many large events that span multiple districts, Traffic Company will plan and execute the event planning, deployment, and facilitation. Solos are also used as the primary units for incidents of stunt driving.

For the 2021 Staffing Analysis Report, the Project Team employed a workload-based methodology based on the number of traffic violations issued in combination with an operational assessment based on escort staffing and Traffic Enforcement's team-based deployment strategy to determine recommended staffing for Officers in the unit. However, with the significant reductions in sworn staffing, sworn personnel in the Traffic Division has dropped to its lowest staffing level in 30 years as the Department has prioritized its staffing resources toward patrol and responding to calls for service. The Traffic Division has also been tasked in helping with efforts to increase police presence to combat public safety issues in the Tenderloin, including the Mid-Market Vibrancy and Safety Plan, the Tourism Deployment Plan, and the City's commercial corridors. As a result, 2022 traffic violation citations fell to 4,006 as compared to 2019 traffic violation citations of 42,971 issued by SFPD. The drop in the number of citations is not an indication of a reduced need for traffic enforcement; the number of traffic-related deaths increased by 34% from 2019 (29 fatalities) to 2022 (39 fatalities). While the number of reported traffic injury crashes reduced during the COVID-19 pandemic, the number of reported traffic injury crashes has been increasing for each of the last two years. The number of reported traffic injury crashes in 2022 (2,787 crashes) is 15% higher than the low experienced in 2020 (2,405) as workers have begun to resume a hybrid-work schedule and a return to the office.

Given the changing dynamics impacting traffic enforcement activities and the lack of quality data, the Project Team is not recommending any staffing changes from its 2021 Staffing Analysis Report and will revisit Traffic Enforcement staffing in the next report revision.

Traffic Company – Commercial Vehicle Unit (CVU)

The Commercial Vehicle Unit (CVU) is responsible for enforcing commercial vehicle laws throughout the City and investigates commercial vehicle collisions resulting in death or serious bodily injury. The unit also reviews hit and runs, performs vehicle inspections, and collaborates with outside agencies on related commercial vehicle issues. Unit members also handle forensic reconstruction on serious collisions as well as most officer-involved shootings (OIS) and assists other investigative units with reconstructing crime scenes. The unit also serves as the Department's subject matter experts for traffic-related Department General Orders (DGOs) and Department Notices (DNs).

Conducting commercial vehicle enforcement has been difficult due to lack of staffing and other responsibilities. CVU is currently staffed with one Sergeant and one Officer and both positions are on-call 24/7. Currently there are no tracked workload measures so these positions are considered non-scalable for this assessment.

Traffic Company – Stunt Driving Response Unit (SDRU)

The Stunt Driving Response Unit was established in 2020 to address the increasing number of informal demonstrations of automotive stunts in San Francisco. Stunt driving occurs when vehicles and/or pedestrian spectators block intersections to perform vehicle maneuvers such as donuts, figure eights, and ghost driving while crowds gather to watch. SDRU is responsible for the Department's response to stunt driving events which have become far more frequent and gained a great deal of media attention over the last year. When necessary, the unit pulls personnel and resources from multiple District Stations when such events occur. Other unit responsibilities include investigating incidents related to street racing, reckless driving, and evasion.

SDRU is currently staffed with only one full dedicated Sergeant, but previously staffed two. There are currently no workload measures directly related to these positions and they are considered non-scalable for this assessment.

Traffic Company – Traffic Collision Investigations Unit (TCIU)

The Traffic Collision Investigations Unit (TCIU) is responsible for investigating vehicle collisions resulting in death or serious injury. The unit also focuses on high-profile collisions and conducts review for hit and run incidents. As part of a September 2021 Department-wide restructuring, TCIU is now under the command of the Deputy Chief of the Special Operations Bureau. TCIU was moved from the Investigations Bureau to SOB to improve communication and solvability and to pool resources.

The unit is currently staffed with one Lieutenant and five Sergeants. The unit previously received support from one Officer, responsible for conducting video retrieval duties, and one Police Services Aide (PSA) assigned to the Investigations Bureau. The Project Team recommends transferring the PSA currently assigned to the Investigations Bureau to the Special Operations Bureau under TCIU, which is reflected in the table below and in the relevant Investigations Bureau section. The Lieutenant serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of the unit and the Officer and PSA both provide unique support functions; these positions are classified as non-scalable for this purpose of this assessment.

On average, each Sergeant is assigned a minimum of five collision reports to investigate every week which involves reviewing and gathering information for rebooking cases. The Project Team used a workload-based methodology to determine the recommended number of Sergeants needed to adequately staff the unit; TCIU functions as an investigative unit and so recommended staffing is determined using the number of cases and the amount of time it takes to work each case. In 2022 there were 255 cases assigned, each taking approximately 48 hours to complete (including case workup and rebooking). Based on these measures, TCIU needs six Sergeants to handle the unit's caseload.

Muni Enforcement

Muni Enforcement is overseen by one Lieutenant who manages the MTA K-9 Unit. Previously, Muni Enforcement also included the Muni Response Team (MRT) and Muni Task Force (MTF). However, due to exigent staffing shortages, members assigned to MRT and MTF were transferred to district stations and urgent patrol responsibilities that were needed. Currently, the Department is unable to staff the MRT and MTF units due to the patrol shortage. At this time, overtime is utilized to help provide additional Muni Enforcement and to staff special events as needed. Once there is sufficient patrol staffing, the Project Team recommends that the Department considers re-staffing the MRT and MTF units.

The Department's MTA K-9 Unit operates in close coordination with the San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency's (SFMTA) Security, Investigations, and Enforcement Section. The SFMTA directly funds personnel assigned to SFPD's Muni Enforcement Division via Work Order budget agreements. There are two types of work orders between SFPD's Muni Enforcement and SFMTA: Operational-Funded Work Orders and Grant-Funded Work Orders. Operational Work Orders are fee-based agreements where SFPD is paid – meaning, positions are funded – following services rendered. Grant-Funded Work Orders are agreements where SFPD makes an upfront commitment to provide specific services via funded positions; funds for positions that are not actually staffed may ultimately be paid back to SFMTA. Although the Muni Enforcement Team is funded by SFMTA, staffing has been limited due to staffing shortages throughout the Department. The Lieutenant position is a leadership position and therefore it is considered non-scalable for this assessment.

MTA K-9 Unit

The MTA K-9 Unit is the explosive threat assessment and detection resource that serves the City's transit system. Canine handlers with their canine partners trained in explosive detection patrol the Muni transit environment, conducting spot checks of metro stations, cable car turnarounds, Muni historic sites, maintenance facilities, and warehouses. MTA K-9 Unit teams are deployed in the transit system during special events and commute hours as a terrorism deterrent. The MTA K-9 Unit also provides support to the Tactical K-9 Unit and the Airport K-9 Unit as needed. Due to the MTA K-9 Unit's advanced training, they may support other jurisdictions that do not have access to these resources. Similar to the Muni Response Team, the positions within the MTA K-9 Unit are funded through an Operational Work Order in which SFMTA pays for services rendered by SFPD, and the canines in the unit are owned by the Transportation Security Administration (TSA) and paid for by SFMTA. Funding, ownership, and canine availability are the metrics that determine staffing for the MTA K-9 unit. Given the current operational funding and resource arrangements and the unique duties of this unit, the non-scaling methodology is used to determine staffing. The unit is currently staffed with one Sergeant, four Officers, and five dogs.

Tactical Division

The Tactical Division is comprised of the Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) Team, the Explosive Ordinance Disposal Unit (EOD), the Honda Unit, the Mounted Unit, and the Canine (“K-9”) Unit. The Tactical Division also oversees the Specialists Team and the Crisis/Hostage Negotiation Team (C/HNT), which include members who possess specialized training and hold other full-time assignments in the Department, yet are utilized in situations that warrant specific expertise. Recommended staffing for the Tactical Division is shown below followed by a description of each unit and its role and function within the Department.

Tactical Division – Administration

The Tactical Division is overseen by a Captain that reports directly to the Deputy Chief of Special Operations. The Captain is supported by one Clerk. Both positions are unique and are considered non-scalable for the purpose of this assessment.

Special Weapons and Tactics (SWAT) Team

SWAT provides a variety of tactical-related and support services to the Department during critical incidents, high-risk search warrants, protection of officers and civilian during high-profile events, dignitary protection, and demonstrations. SWAT is tasked with leading crowd control events. On a weekly basis, SWAT is deployed to patrol designated hot spot areas of San Francisco based on current trends in violent crime such as shootings, homicides, and narcotics activity. SWAT also assists units in the Investigations Bureau with surveillance and with arresting violent wanted suspects.

SWAT provides training in crowd control, critical incidents, and chemical agents to officers and Academy recruits. In addition, SWAT assists in training officers in the Critical Mindset Coordinated Response (CMCR) Course, provides schools and private companies with trainings (e.g., active shooter trainings), and is called out to provide expertise in addressing incidents with barricaded suspects. Increased Department-wide training that facilitates “time and distance” in these critical situations have increased SWAT callouts and the need for specialized expertise. One SWAT team is always on call 24/7.

The Project Team determined SWAT Team recommended staffing levels using the fixed-post methodology and an assessment of operational need. The SWAT team is divided into four teams that should consist of one Sergeant and seven Officers based on industry standard span of control and on required duties of the unit.

Explosive Ordinance Disposal Unit (EOD)

EOD provides explosive and ordinance identification, removal, and detonation. EOD responds to critical incidents and calls of suspicious devices and conduct sweeps during parades and concerts and in areas where large crowds gather such as political events and dignitary visits. EOD also provides training on explosives to Department members.

The Project Team determined the recommended EOD staffing levels using the fixed-post methodology given the unique expertise that the EOD unit provides to Department operations.

Honda Unit

The Honda Unit is primarily responsible for patrolling the downtown corridor, Golden Gate Park, and other City parks and beaches throughout San Francisco on dual sport motorcycles. The Hondas are a critical part of SFPD’s directed enforcement. Like the SWAT Team, the Hondas are on weekly rotating assignment amongst the ten District Stations and are deployed to areas with higher rates of vehicle burglaries, for example. The Hondas play a key role in crowd control and enforcement for demonstrations and special events such as Outside Lands, Pride, and other parades.

Like SWAT, the Honda Unit operates in a team format. A Lieutenant serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of the unit. Staffing for this leadership position is determined using the non-scaling methodology. Over the last couple of years, the Honda Unit has downsized from four full teams to two modified teams due to the Department’s staffing shortages. The Project Team determined recommended staffing levels for the Honda Unit using the fixed-post methodology in which there are four teams that each consist of five Officers and one Sergeant (based on span of control). Department priorities and resource availability should determine the total size of the Honda Unit and number of teams going forward.

Mounted Unit

The Mounted Unit is responsible for patrolling Golden Gate Park around the stables and for the upkeep and maintenance of the horses in the unit. The Mounted Unit is also detailed to ceremonial duties and parades, swearing in for City officials, color guard for funerals, National Night Out events, and school field trips. The Mounted Unit (equine) is a voter-approved legislative directive and thus its existence is mandated (though not its size). The Mounted unit is supported by civilian Stable Attendants who are responsible for the care and maintenance of the stable itself must provide 24/7 coverage; one additional Stable Attendant is recommended so that this position is staffed across the week on all shifts. The Project Team determined recommended staffing levels using the non-scaling methodology given the unique duties and responsibilities of the unit and the legislative directive that requires the Department to maintain a Mounted Unit.

Citywide Canine (“K-9”) Unit

The Citywide K-9 Unit supports patrol and provides canine resources to assist in searches by tracking and locating suspects in conditions where normal searches are higher-risk. Canines are only authorized to search for suspects who are wanted for a felony. The K-9 Unit conducts building sweeps as necessary in residences, warehouses, and schools. Additionally, canines are trained to detect bombs, narcotics, and other contraband in secret areas in which canine searches are most appropriate. Moreover, the City is potentially exposed to weapons of mass destruction (WMD) opportunities given its high profile and geographic locale; therefore, the use of “bomb dogs” is considered best practice. The Project Team determined recommended Citywide K-9 Unit staffing levels using the non-scaling methodology given the unique duties and responsibilities of the unit. The Citywide K-9 unit is currently staffed with one Sergeant and three officers.

Specialists Team

Note: Specialists and members trained in Crisis/Hostage Negotiation are assigned to the District Stations in the Field Operations Bureau. These members possess specialized skills and training and are utilized by the Special Operations Bureau as necessary.

Specialists are patrol officers assigned to District Stations who are trained to support the SWAT Team. Specialists work part-time in Special Operations in that they can be redeployed when on duty for a specific call out that warrants their skills and expertise. Specialists assist with search warrants, critical incidents, and special events, and support SWAT in dignitary protection. Specialists provide rapid response teams for demonstrations and mass arrests and have trained snipers. Since Specialists are assigned to District Stations, they assist patrol with everyday operations that may not necessarily activate SWAT. Specialists go through an application, testing, and interview process to garner their credentials.

Crisis/Hostage Negotiation Team (C/HNT)

Similar to Specialists, C/HNT members are assigned to other units in the Department and work in a part-time capacity as negotiators. C/HNT are on call and respond to situations with barricaded suspects and critical and non-critical incidents, and assist in search warrants and in California Highway Patrol (CHP) calls. C/HNT members respond to incidents where subjects are not responsive or are not cooperating with law enforcement. When dealing with barricaded suspects, increased training to create time and distance has also increased C/HNT callouts.

On any given day, there are 6 to 25 C/HNT members working. There are currently 36 active members total who are C/HNT trained due to an increase in these types of calls for service. Over the last three years, C/HNT callouts have increased: in 2018 there were 29, in 2019 there were 40, and in 2020 there were 79, and in 2022 there were 93.

Homeland Security Division

The Homeland Security Division includes the Homeland Security Unit (HSU), the Marine Unit, the Department Operations Center (DOC), and the Port Unit. A Captain oversees the Homeland Security Division; this position is funded through a grant with Urban Areas Security Initiative (UASI). The Captain is supported by one Clerk to assist with the administrative functions of the Division. Both positions are unique and are not scalable to any workload measures.

Homeland Security Unit (HSU)

The Homeland Security Unit (HSU) is a vital component in the safekeeping and protection of the City and County of San Francisco. The unit conducts site safety surveys and inspections for key buildings, locations, transit hubs, events, stadiums, arenas, high profile public spaces and structures, areas of large public gatherings, government facilities, consulates, embassies, houses of worship, potential soft target locations, and other notable areas.

HSU gathers intelligence and disseminates it through Department channels and provides weekly briefings to SFPD's Command Staff. HSU is also the Department's liaison with State and Federal Fusion Centers, communicating information to further prevent and respond to all threats and hazards. Furthermore, the unit participates in Silicon Valley Homeland Security Coordination meetings to improve its efforts by collaborating with other nearby Homeland Security agencies.

As part of the unit's responsibilities, HSU plans events throughout the City and supports the Field Operations Bureau's event planning initiatives. For these special events, HSU staffs Command Centers to monitor events and provide intelligence support, command van deployment, and radiological detection. The staffing and security for all events at Oracle Park and Chase Center are also managed through HSU. Additionally, the unit provides training as needed to other SFPD members in topics such as the utilization of radiological detection devices.

The Homeland Security Unit also oversees the Terrorism Liaison Officer (TLO) program, managing and reviewing all TLO incident reports and communicating information through all proper channels.

In addition to regular responsibilities, the Homeland Security Unit has also been tasked with coordinating and managing public safety services for the upcoming Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) Leaders' Meeting. In November 2023, San Francisco will be hosting APEC, which will be the biggest global event hosted in San Francisco in recent years. During the week of November 12-18, the Department will be supporting public safety for approximately 30,000 delegates from across 21 APEC Member Economies, 1,200 CEOs from around the world, and 600 media representatives for this 30th annual event. Most of the official events will take place at the Moscone Center. As such, the Homeland Security Unit is tasked with implementing significant security presence in the Moscone Center area, as well as near hotels and other neighborhoods during the conference. The Department expects that large attendance and security will significantly impact traffic, public transportation lines, and parking. The Department's MTA K-9 Unit will also be assisting to conduct bomb sweeps to ensure areas are free of explosive devices and to act as a visual deterrent to potential acts of terrorism. Ensuring public safety measures for APEC 2023 will have a great impact on the increased workload for the Department, especially within the Homeland Security Unit. This includes a temporary allocation of additional resources assigned to the Homeland Security Unit to help prepare and coordinate for APEC 2023.

There are no workload measures associated with these positions, so they are considered non-scalable for the purpose of this assessment. As discussed further in the Administration Bureau section of this report, the Project Team recommends centralizing Automotive Service Workers into one unit and therefore the reduction of the Automotive Service Worker counted in Administration, but the position would continue to support the vehicles within the Homeland Security Division as well as other vehicles throughout the Department as needed.

Marine Unit

The San Francisco Police Department Marine Unit is responsible for patrolling over 64 square miles of San Francisco County waterways, overlapping jurisdiction with the United States Coast Guard (USCG) – but the responsibilities and capabilities differ. The USCG is responsible for enforcing Federal laws, while the Marine Unit is responsible for enforcing State and local laws. The mission of the Marine Unit is to support maritime homeland security, law enforcement, and search and rescue operations with local, state, and federal partners. In the course of their duties, Marine Unit members regularly engage in search and rescue missions with the USCG and San Francisco Fire Department as well as other Bay Area law enforcement and fire rescue agencies. These operations include vessels in distress, boating accidents/collisions, and rescue of recreational sports enthusiasts who often get into distress due to the dynamic conditions both on the San Francisco Bay and outside of the Golden Gate. The Marine Unit also responds to investigate or mitigate any criminal activity and maritime-related incidents on San Francisco Bay waters, such as Boating Under the Influence (BUI), theft, vandalism, burglaries in the marinas or piers, drownings, suicides and other deaths, trespassing, unlawful discharge of oil or sewage, and any Port of San Francisco property waterside-related incident. The Marine Unit has a long tradition of being the primary law enforcement agency in the San Francisco Bay Region and is a primary responder in case of major catastrophes including, but not limited to, earthquakes and tsunamis. The Marine Unit is prepared to assist in disaster mitigation and resumption of commerce/transportation through sub-surface sonar inspection of piers and docks and first-responder trans-Bay transport via water.

In addition to the Marine Unit's primary responsibilities, the unit provides safety oversight and assistance at numerous, large waterfront events, including fireworks shows, Fleet Week, US Naval vessel security detail, POTUS security and waterside screenings, and various large-scale swim events across the Bay each year. Additionally, the Unit maintains vessels outfitted with highly specialized gear for low-visibility search missions on the surface and comprise the Department Dive Team for underwater victim/evidence search and recovery missions through use of highly technical underwater robots, sonar equipment, and SCUBA dive operations.

The current staffing for the Marine Unit consists of one Sergeant and three Officers. Typically, the Department would have additional sworn members divided into two separate teams to cover all seven days in the week. For proper officer safety and operation of each Marine vessel and to promote readiness of the Dive Team, protocols dictate that each boat should be staffed with three Officers and one Sergeant supervisor. Due to the unique duties and responsibilities of these positions, they are considered non-scalable for the purpose of this assessment. Department priorities and resource availability should determine the total size of the Marine Unit and number of teams going forward. Based on the desired number of teams and required staffing on each team, the Project Team recommends two Sergeants and six Officers..

The Port Unit

The Department is establishing a Port Unit structured under the Homeland Security Division which will include four Officers. These positions are funded by a work order with the Port of San Francisco. Duties include providing safety and security and investigative police services to various Port properties. Given the varying nature of the workload and based on the work order agreement, staffing for this unit is determined using the fixed-post methodology.

Department Operations Center (DOC)

The primary function of the Department Operations Center (DOC) is to coordinate activity, information, and requests for assistance between patrol and investigative units. In addition, the unit provides timely notifications to Command Staff for their situational awareness and functions as an Emergency Operations Center (EOC) during planned and spontaneous events/incidents. The DOC operates 24/7 and staffing levels for Sergeants, Officers, and PSAs were determined using the fixed-post methodology to ensure the DOC is staffed at all times.

The Project Team recommends that the Department explore options for civilianizing the Department Operations Center (DOC). A large portion of DOC staffing does not require law enforcement expertise. Currently DOC is staffed with sworn members who are less than full duty (and therefore not fully deployable to other assignments) based on some sort of temporary modified duty (TMD) classification or a pending disciplinary investigation. Therefore, sworn members in this assignment are often temporarily assigned to provide call center services and may not provide a high level of customer service based on the transitional nature of the assignment and other dynamics between the member and the Department. For both continuity and to promote high quality service, the Department should consider the implications of staffing DOC with civilian staff such as Police Services Aides (PSAs) or another call center-oriented classification and utilizing sworn members on TMD in areas such as Written Directives that may require sworn insight and expertise.

For those members with pending disciplinary cases, the Department should consider either staffing these members in a unit that does not have a customer service component or not utilizing these members at all until their investigations have reached a resolution. Civilianizing the unit will require that the Department determine how to address the less than full duty sworn members who currently hold a DOC assignment.

Urban Areas Security Initiative (UASI)

The Urban Areas Security Initiative (UASI) unit was implemented in 2013 within the Homeland Security Division, but later reorganized as a separate Division that reports directly to the Special Operations Bureau Deputy Chief. The unit works closely with the Bay Area UASI to enhance public safety and security throughout the Bay Area, and is comprised of local, state, and federal subject matter experts working to achieve Homeland Security goals and objectives. The unit works on special projects for the Department, such as upgrading Police Intercommunications (PIC) radio, Personal Radio Nuclear Detector (PRND), as well as grant writing for equipment, training, and infrastructure funding.

The positions within UASI are grant-funded which determines staffing levels and therefore the Project Team recommends maintaining current staffing as agreed upon with the Department's regional partners in the existing work order.

Administrative Services Bureau

Overview

The Administrative Services Bureau (also referred to as the Administration Bureau) consists of four Divisions: Administration Division, Academy Division, Staff Services Division, and Crime Information Services (CIS). The Administration Division includes the Department's Fleet and Facilities units, as well as the Office of Equity and Inclusion (OEI). The Academy Division consists of multiple units who manage training, certification, and professional development for both Recruit Officers and Department personnel. The Staff Services Division include units that oversee a broad range of administrative functions that support the Department, including recruiting and backgrounding Police Officer applicants, processing payroll and medical accommodations, and conducting analyses on staffing and deployment. The Crime Information Services is responsible for a wide range of functions in Department recordkeeping, information provision, and property control.

Recommended Staffing

The table below shows recommended staffing for the Administration Bureau by Division. The Bureau has sufficient sworn staffing, and the Project Team recommends civilianizing Records Management in CIS. The Bureau has demonstrated a need for professional staff in key areas including the Fleet and Facilities unit in the Administration Division, in the Staff Services Division, and in Crime Information Services to support civilianization efforts.

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

Staffing for the Administrative Services Bureau is determined using the following methodologies.

Workload-based Methodology

A workload-based methodology is used to determine staffing for certain units such as Background Investigations, for which the number of potential applicant cases multiplied by the time per case is calculated to generate workload hours and subsequently the number of staff required.

Ratio-based Methodology

A ratio-based methodology is used to determine staffing for many units in the Administration Bureau. Examples include Fleet and Facilities, where a ratio based on the number of Department vehicles and Department facilities, respectively, is used to determine recommended staffing; the Range, where a ratio based on the number of sworn members in the Department is used; and various units in the Academy Division, where Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) mandates instructor-to-trainee ratios in training classes.

Non-scaling Methodology

An elective or non-scaling methodology is used to determine staffing for leadership positions that do not scale based on any metrics and for units that fulfill specific Department objectives such as Force Tactics Field Options.

Recommended Staffing by Division and Unit

Administrative Services – Administration

The Administration Bureau is overseen by a Deputy Chief who reports directly to the Assistant Chief (Chief of Staff). A Commander reports directly to the Deputy Chief and provides assistance in the management of the Administration Bureau and also directly oversees the Office of Equity and Inclusion (OEI). The Deputy Chief is supported by an Executive Secretary who manages emails, scheduling, and other administrative support assignments. Given the unique leadership and support functions of these positions, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

Office of Equity and Inclusion (OEI)

The Office of Equity and Inclusion (OEI) was established in March 2021 to create and sustain an equitable, supportive, and professional environment for all Department members. OEI was created per the Mayor's mandate to implement racial equity and action plan initiatives at the department level. To ensure that OEI is vested with the appropriate level of importance and influence to drive significant Department initiatives, the unit reports directly to the Commander of the Administration Bureau. OEI works in collaboration with all units, Divisions, and Bureaus in the Department and undertakes activities to promote racial equity at the line staff level. OEI interfaces with internal and external stakeholders – Command Staff, various Commissions, Board of Supervisors – to share activity results. OEI is a result of and a continuing component of the Department's Collaborative Reform Initiative (CRI).

The unit undertakes special projects such as working with external vendor BiasSync, a science-based solution for conscious management of unconscious bias, to administer the program to all Department members. In early 2023, the Department also signed on to the 30 by 30 Pledge and reaffirmed the commitment to the recruitment, retention, and advancement of women in policing. OEI leads the Department's initiative aiming to increase the representation of women in police academy recruit classes to 30 percent by 2030 and to ensure that police policies and culture intentionally support the success of women officers throughout their careers.

The Office of Equity and Inclusion is currently managed by only one Lieutenant with limited support from employees of other units. Previously, OEI utilized light duty officers to help report functions related to racial equity impacts, as well as share diversity, equity, and inclusion related information in the field and the Department. The Project Team recommends the addition of one Senior Administrative Analyst to align the growing workload of OEI with the appropriate job classification. With additional support to the unit, the Lieutenant will be better equipped to focus on high-level strategic planning and oversight as OEI interfaces regularly with executive-level City leadership including SFPD Command Staff and Commissioners. Many of OEI's current and planned initiatives are data-driven, and a Senior Administrative Analyst would be responsible for all research and data analysis required for OEI's projects, as well as capable for supporting other administrative functions for the unit.

Administration Division

The Administration Division includes the Bureau's Administrative Office and two units that are responsible for managing the Department's physical assets: Fleet and Facilities. Fleet and Facilities are responsible for managing the Department's vehicles, buildings and facilities.

Although the Department has its own staff to monitor and record maintenance needs for its physical assets, significant maintenance is generally performed by other City departments. Fleet and Facilities both currently operate under a decentralized model in which line-level staff do not report directly to Fleet or Facilities, but rather to their respective station Commanding Officer (e.g., Vehicle Maintenance personnel at the District Stations report to the respective Captain).

Recommended staffing for the Administration Division is shown below, followed by a discussion of the units in the Division.

| Administrative Division    |          |             |          |           |             |            |

Office and Fleet and Facilities Administration

The Administration Division Office is overseen by a civilian manager, with support from both sworn and professional staff. The unit has one Sergeant that reports directly to the Deputy Chief of Administration Bureau providing high-level administrative support as needed while assisting both fleet and facilities. The unit is also supported by lower-level managers, supervisors, and clerks who are assigned to either Fleet or Facilities. Each employee has their own role and responsibility providing assistance related to the various projects and ongoing maintenance and coordination of Fleet and Facilities.

Fleet

The Fleet unit is responsible for managing the Department's vehicles. The Fleet Manager is responsible for managing the whole unit and overseeing its projects. The Auto Service Worker Supervisor provides direct supervision to the Auto Service Workers who perform the functional maintenance work of the unit. Both leadership roles are unique and are classified as non-scalable.

Auto Service Workers maintain DMV records, oversee the writing of vehicle and equipment specifications, direct the outfitting of marked and unmarked vehicles, transport vehicles to and from their assigned stations for maintenance and repair, and respond to service requests. As of June 2023, only eight of the ten district stations are staffed with an Auto Service Worker. Additionally, there are three Auto Service Workers assigned to non-district station assignments, such as the Homeland Security Unit (HSU), Academy, and the centralized Fleet unit in Administration.

Recommendation: The Department should consider realigning the reporting structure so that all Auto Service Workers report directly to the Fleet Manager. Currently, the majority of Auto Service Workers are assigned to and physically report to the District Stations. Centralized command would consolidate span of control over this technical service line and improve the Fleet Manager's ability to manage the Department's fleet support needs and improve coordination with Auto Service Workers to support other areas more effectively. For example, some District Stations are less busy than others and there may be instances in which a Station does not need a full-time Auto Service Worker. Centralized management would allow effective reallocation of resources when needed.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- Fleet Manager and Auto Service Worker Supervisor are supervisory positions that are classified as non-scalable.
- The clerk position that provides additional administrative support is also classified as non-scalable.
- Auto Service Worker staffing is determined using the ratio-based methodology.
  - One Auto Service Worker is assigned to each District Station. Each District Station has multiple vehicles that require servicing and maintenance and therefore one dedicated Auto Service Worker is appropriate.

- For vehicles not assigned to the District Stations, a ratio of one Auto Service Worker to 150 vehicles is appropriate. Approximately 934 Department vehicles are utilized and located at non-district station assignments.

At the time of the study, there were 11 Auto Service Workers; five additional Auto Service Workers are required based on the ratio-based methodology and calculations shown above. If a centralized Fleet unit is implemented, it may be appropriate to change the ratio of vehicles per staff as it may allow for more effective allocation of resources.

Facilities

Facility Coordinators inspect and monitor the Department's facilities for preventative and corrective maintenance needs and works with San Francisco Public Works and the San Francisco Real Estate Division to coordinate all maintenance work, in addition to a range of other activities necessary to manage the Department's facilities and physical assets. The Facilities unit is responsible for maintaining 37 buildings used by the Department. Currently, there are seven Facility Coordinators each assigned to of the ten District Stations and the remaining 27 facilities are supported primarily by the Building and Grounds Maintenance Superintendent, Maintenance Planner, and Facility Coordinators assigned to the Administration Division.

In the Facilities unit, the Building and Grounds Maintenance Superintendent manages memoranda of understandings (MOUs) and facility projects and the Maintenance Planner provides indirect oversight to the Facility Coordinators; however, not all the Facility Coordinators report directly to the Facilities unit. The other positions report to the respective Commanding Officer at the District Station to which they are assigned.

Recommendation: The Department should consider realigning the reporting structure so that all Facility Coordinators report directly to the Building and Grounds Maintenance Superintendent and/or the Maintenance Planner. Similar to the Fleet reporting structure, the majority of the Facility Coordinators report to the Commanding Officer of their respective assigned District Station. Centralized command would consolidate span of control and promote efficiencies in managing all facilities across the Department.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- Given the leadership roles and unique project-based duties of the positions, and administrative support functions, the Building and Grounds Maintenance Superintendent and the Maintenance Planner position are classified as non-scalable.
- Facility Coordinator staffing is determined using a ratio-based methodology. A ratio of one Facility Coordinator per District Station is adequate to oversee the asset management program for those facilities. Since the remaining 27 facilities are not as active as the 10 District Stations, a Facility Coordinator has greater capacity to support multiple non-District Station facilities.
  - The Project Team estimates that a ratio of one Facility Coordinator per four non-District Station facilities is adequate to manage the Department’s asset management program. This will enable the Building and Grounds Superintendent and Maintenance Planner to focus on high-level project management and planning for the Department instead of conducting regular preventative and corrective monitoring and maintenance. This ratio infers that six Facility Coordinators are needed to adequately support the non-Station facilities. Altogether, the Project Team estimates that 17 Facility Coordinators are required to support the Facilities Division.

Academy Division

The Academy Division (referred to as the Academy) includes the Professional Development Office, the Field Training Office (FTO), Field Tactics Force Options unit, and the Basic Recruit Course. The mission of the San Francisco Police Department’s Regional Training Academy is to develop and deliver comprehensive, innovative, and timely education and training to Recruit Officers and Department members. The Academy also aims to inspire leadership, enhance mindsets and skillsets, and manifest mastery in members’ professional and personal development.

Recommended staffing for the Academy is shown below, followed by a discussion of the units in the Division.

Professional Development Office

The Professional Development Office includes the Professional Development Unit (PDU), the Video Production Unit, and various other assignments staffed with single individuals that are responsible for functions such as managing Advanced Officer (AO) training in the Department.

The Professional Development Office monitors and coordinates the ongoing in-service training needs of the Department, which entails providing instruction to in-service members, Recruit Officers, and Police Services Aides (PSAs). The Professional Development Unit also serves as a resource for Department members who are conducting their own training needs identification and implementation, but need assistance related to course identification, professional development, and training follow up.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

Staff responsibilities are assigned as follows:

- The Professional Development Office is overseen by a Lieutenant; due to the leadership responsibilities of the position, it is classified as non-scalable.
- Sergeant positions:
  - One Sergeant serves as the liaison to the Institute of Criminal Investigation (ICI), a regional POST training program. This position serves as the Institute’s administrator and is responsible for managing the logistics of hosting this regional training event periodically throughout each year. Pursuant to a contract with the State to administer this POST program, the current deployment of a Sergeant to run the Institute satisfies

- minimum staffing requirements. Due to the contract requirement, this position is elective and non-scalable.
- One Sergeant is responsible for all coordination and logistics for Advanced Officer – Continued Professional Training (AO/CPT). This is a mandatory training all sworn members must take on a regular basis per Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) and Department of Justice (DOJ) guidelines.
  - One Sergeant serves as the Leadership Development Institute (LDI) Program Coordinator. This position is non-scaling with staffing based on the Department’s objectives for administering this cohort-based, yearlong leadership program for sworn and civilian staff.
  - One Sergeant is responsible for Reserves/Roll Call; staffing for this position is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- The Officer position serves as a POST/College Liaison Coordinator whose primary duties are to manage the POST certifications for the entire Department. This position also teaches booking and detention as a co-instructor, assists with AO training, assists with LDI, and manages the billing for training courses. This position is non-scalable and electively staffed based on operational needs.
  - The Management Assistant positions are described below. As there are no workload metrics associated with these positions, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology. The Department should develop and monitor workload metrics so that in future analyses, staffing can be determined using a workload-based or ratio-based methodology.
    - One Management Assistant is the AO training manager and monitors Continuing Professional Training (CPT) records for the Department to ensure ongoing compliance.
    - One Management Assistant is the outside training manager and reviews, approves, and processes all outside training requests for the Department. This position also assists with grant development.
    - One Management Assistant is the internal training manager and processes billing for the unit and monitors City-mandated training requirements as well as POST certification.
  - Media Production Technicians in the Video Production Unit are responsible for producing digital media used in a range of training courses for the Department, from Academy training to ongoing in-service training. The work of a Media Production Technician is complex: staff must script productions, coordinate with subject matter experts and other stakeholders to verify script content, cast, coordinate with staff for productions, record the production, and edit productions for release. Staffing for these positions is classified as non-scalable given the unique skillset required for the role.

Field Training Office (FTO)

The Field Training Office (FTO) manages and coordinates the Department’s field training program in which Recruit Officers who graduate from the Basic Recruit Course are then assigned to a training-designated District Station and are paired with a Training Officer to gain experience and training in the field. FTO oversees the progress of trainees and acts as the departmental liaison with the Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST) on program compliance issues; the program is administered at the seven training District Stations. FTO consults with other City Departments such as the Department of Human Resources and Americans with Disabilities Act Unit and internally with the Behavioral Sciences Unit and sub-units in the Basic Recruit Course including Report Writing, Physical Training and Defensive Tactics, and Emergency Vehicle Operation Course to conduct remediation on any training and protocol-related deficiencies.

The critical and primary responsibility of FTO is to document and evaluate trainee progress and to address any issues that arise in a timely and effective manner. FTO staff ensures that all the administrative evaluation documents (Daily Observation Reports and Sergeant Weekly Reports) are completed for each trainee. Reviewing Daily Observation Reports (DOR) amounts to a workload average of approximately 30 per day with an additional 30 weekly supervisor reviews, each of which is estimated to approximately 16 to 34 minutes. This includes reviewing trainee ratings and ensuring that ratings are consistent with the standardized evaluation guidelines established by POST. FTO subsequently notes any deficiencies in performance and conducts bi-weekly meetings to problem-solve the trainee's issues.

The FTO Office is responsible for maintaining the rolls of eligible Field Training Officers and Sergeants. The FTO Office ensures program compliance with POST by ensuring all FTO Officers and Sergeants complete the 40-hour certification course, refresher 24-hour course, and Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) training. FTO is also responsible for tracking the Performance Improvement Plan (PIP) monthly evaluations for every probationary officer and coordinating the re-entry of permanent officers from administrative assignments to field work. Every month, the probationary officers have an appraisal completed, consisting of eight pages and six categories. The Field Training Office estimates that each monthly appraisal takes approximately 30 minutes to review and file for compliance. As of June 2023, there were approximately 60 probationary officers; this number changes dynamically throughout the year based on officers moving from field training to probation and probation to permanent status.

At reporting time, there are 116 certified FTO trainers; however, only 109 are assigned to District Stations that are eligible to receive trainees. As of June 2023, there were 11 trainees in the FTO program, which constitutes a ratio of approximately nine eligible trainers for every trainee.

Since 2019, FTO's responsibilities have increased due to additional administrative tasks required to develop policy and training materials. Over the past few years as the number of Recruit Officers graduating from the Basic Recruit Course has declined, FTO has redoubled efforts to monitor trainee progress and remediate performance issues where possible while working to ensure that POST standards and guidelines are being met. Hence, FTO has conducted more bi-weekly performance counseling sessions in an effort to mitigate performance deficiencies reported in FTO reports. However, 2023 is estimated to have significantly more applications moving forward, and the most recent Academy class (Class 280) started with 32 Recruits; the largest class since 2019.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- The Lieutenant serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of the unit. Due to the unique leadership role, this position is classified as non-scaling.
- The Sergeant and the Officers in the unit conduct all of the coordination and evaluative work of the unit, and the Sergeant can direct and supervise work as necessary. Staffing levels are determined using a ratio-based methodology using a ratio of one staff member for every 10-15 trainees, based on the estimated time needed to review DORs, Weekly Sergeant Reports, PIPs, and other documentation; coordinate with District Stations and POST; ensure Training Officers have updated certifications, etc. Current staffing is appropriate with estimated 30 – 45 trainees in the FTO program; in prior years, there have been approximately 30 trainees at any given time.
- The Clerk position manages all administrative duties of the unit and staffing is classified as non-scaling.

Force Tactics Field Options (FTFO)

Force Tactics Field Options was formed in November 2018 to promote the Department's objective of promoting timely and relevant training so that members are equipped to utilize force tactics and field options that are aligned with the principles of 21st Century Policing. FTFO administers all field tactic and force options trainings, hence providing oversight, consistency, and guidance in sworn members' application of field tactics and force options during encounters with suspects. FTFO provides instruction to members and enhances officers' basic tactical knowledge, skills, and abilities. FTFO is also responsible for participating in incident review boards as necessary and subsequently preparing training-related analysis and recommendations. Staff are also responsible for conducting reviews of all officer-involved shootings (OIS), in-custody deaths, and other force-related incidents as requested. It is important to note that a Field Tactics Force Options unit is not typical in other law enforcement agencies, yet SFPD has prioritized a training program that equips members with best practices in field tactics and force options and a concurrent review program to promote a continuous improvement loop. FTFO is a Department priority and directive, and staffing is classified as non-scaling based on the subject matter and the unique service FTFO provides to the Department's sworn workforce.

Physical Training and Defensive Tactics (PT/DT)

The Physical Training and Defensive Tactics Unit (PT/DT) now also falls under the command of the FTFO Lieutenant. PT/DT manages physical training and defensive tactics training for Recruit Officers and manages and coordinates ongoing physical testing and training for in-service members.

Unit responsibilities in defensive tactics training for Recruit Officers includes researching, generating, and implementing lesson plans on arrest and control; staying current on and instructing POST-mandated topics and procedures in physical training/defensive tactics, impact weapon, weaponless defense, and force options; and reviewing reported uses of force to update or amend training, study trends, and report findings. Standards for instructor-to-student ratios for most defensive tactics techniques are mandated in POST guidelines, requiring one training officer for 17 Recruit Officers in physical training and one training officer for 16 Recruit Officers for defensive tactics. Some high intensity defensive activities require a 1:1 ratio; however, each course is broken down and rotated accordingly such that all Recruit Officers are receiving the necessary attention and training. To account for these ranges, the Project Team utilizes a ratio of one training officer to 12 Recruit Officers for the purpose of this analysis.

For in-service personnel, the unit provides continued professional training (CPT). The unit is responsible for developing the curriculum, which incorporates updates to case law, force case studies, and resultant changes to the defensive tactics techniques and protocols instructed to and used by sworn members in the Department.

On the physical training side, the unit coordinates and administers physical fitness exams for both Recruits and in-service personnel. For Recruits, the POST battery outlines five different tasks that must be completed successfully within a certain timeframe: a 1.5-mile run, 500-yard sprint, climbing over a six-foot wall and sprinting 50 yards, climbing over a six-foot fence and sprinting 50 yards, and completing an obstacle course. For in-service personnel, vacation time is awarded based on individual score and members are tested twice per year.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- A Sergeant serves as the supervisor of the unit and staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- Officers instruct on defensive tactics and administer physical fitness testing and training. Staffing is determined using a ratio-based methodology of one training Officer per 12 Recruit Officers and up to 35 Recruit Officers per class.

Range

Range is responsible for managing and administering firearms training and qualification which all sworn members (including Reserve Officers) in the Department must complete twice per year. Range staff also teaches the initial rifle training courses for all personnel assigned rifles and host other agencies at the range (e.g., San Francisco Sheriff's Department).

Unit workload is based on firearms qualification and training duties for Department members, and therefore, required Range staffing scales based on Department size: the larger the department, the greater the workload. As a result, the staffing methodology used for Range personnel scales based on the number of sworn members in the Department (as civilian-related workloads are minor). Staffing is set as a ratio of 1 FTE for every 200 sworn positions in the Department. The ratio was developed by comparing range-master functions in other large metropolitan agencies.

For Range-related training at the Academy, POST certification requirements mandate an instructor-to-recruit ratio of 1:3. For in-service firearms qualification and training, a ratio of 1:5 is required. Testing and training is scheduled and does not occur concurrently, and so staffing for the Range unit is based upon the number of sworn members in the Department. However, it is important to note that the workload of the Range fluctuates based on Academy classes.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- One Sergeant oversees the unit. Due to the leadership duties of this position, it is classified as non-scaling in this analysis.
- Staffing for Officers that manage Range operations and train and certify members is established based on a ratio of 1 Range staff member to 200 sworn members in the Department. As of June 2023, there were 1,907 sworn members citywide and at the Airport (both full duty and less than full duty). Using the ratio-based methodology, the Project Team determined that 10 Officers are needed to staff the Range. These Officers are split between the citywide Range at Lake Merced and the Airport Range.

Basic Recruit Course

The Basic Recruit Course operates all components of the training academy for Recruit Officers. Basic Recruit Course includes the Recruit Training Office (RTO) as well as Emergency Vehicle Operations Course (EVOC).

SFPD runs multiple training classes per year, with the full Basic Recruit Course for new Officers lasting 1,240 hours (roughly 8 months) and the course for lateral officers lasting eight weeks. In the past three fiscal years (FY), SFPD ran two to four classes per year. FY 2020 through FY 2023 were heavily impacted by the hiring freeze and decreasing interest in law enforcement careers. However, the Department is expected to run four classes again in FY 2024, with current trends showing an increasing number of applicants similar to data prior to 2019. Staffing figures for the units in this section are generally determined using the number of Academy classes operating concurrently and/or the number of Recruit Officers currently in the Academy.

Recommended staffing for Basic Recruit Course is below, followed by a discussion of each unit. Basic Recruit Course is overseen by a Lieutenant (denoted in the Administration section below) who serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of the unit and is hence classified as a non-scaling position in this analysis.

Recruit Training Office (RTO)

Recruit Training Office (RTO) is responsible for coordinating, managing, and operating the training academy for all new sworn personnel. In addition to overseeing all training- and qualification-related activities, RTO includes specific training academy sections: Scenarios and Reporting Writing.

Over the past several years, the average number of Recruit Officers in each Recruit Class has declined from roughly 50-55 in 2017 and 2018 to roughly 20-30 in recent years. This is due partly to the 2020 hiring freeze and partly due to various social, regional, and economic factors that have presented challenges in hiring and recruiting potential law enforcement candidates. However, the most recent Academy class, which started in June 2023, had over 30 Recruit Officers, and the Department expects larger class sizes in the future. For the purpose of this analysis, the Project Team uses a Recruit Class size of 25 entering Recruit Officers and approximately four Recruit Classes per year, with the potential for two Academy classes to be run concurrently. These figures align with current trends and with historical data from previous years.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- Two Sergeants serve in leadership roles. One Sergeant is the Basic Coordinator and is responsible for managing and supervising both the training officers and the Recruit Officers as well as instructing when needed. One Sergeant serves as both the Scenario Manager and the Report Writing Instructor, overseeing the programs, the training Officers within, and the Recruit Officers when they are receiving instruction in these specific areas. Due to the unique managerial responsibilities of these roles, they are classified as non-scalable.
- Officers serve as the Scenario Evaluators and Report Writing Instructors. These duties occur periodically throughout the year when testing occurs and are scheduled far in advance; these Officers are also responsible for assisting with instruction. The current POST-approved safety policy mandates one training officer per 25 Recruits. Therefore, Officer staffing is determined using a ratio-based methodology. One Officer provides assistance in the management of Recruit Officers, instructs courses as needed, and is responsible for all data entry and coordination with POST. This position is classified as non-scalable in this analysis.

Emergency Vehicle Operation Course (EVOC)

EVOC trains all Recruit Officers on the POST and state mandated EVOC course and conducts all in-service EVOC training. Several years ago, Recruit Officers began to experience difficulty passing the EVOC component of the Basic Recruit Course due to generational shifts in driving and other factors. Since then, EVOC has expanded its curriculum and instruction and now the Department's EVOC course is 104 hours, above the state minimum of 40 hours. The EVOC unit also develops and administers training for the Department's in-service members, including developing additional training on pursuits. As of January 1, 2022, Advanced Officer (AO) training for in-service members requires a minimum of four hours of behind the wheel training.

The EVOC unit is managed by a Sergeant and includes two full-time Officers. Given the current course structure and resource demands, the unit utilizes overtime: 8-10 part-time instructors teach Recruit Officers the EVOC course, which includes skill instruction and testing in a variety of techniques that must be completed within time limits to simulate high stakes situations, such as completing safe U-turns, forward and backward slalom, reverse parking in stalls, and T-turns.

Utilizing part-time staff is efficient for many reasons: additional Recruit Officer practice and re-testing is often conducted outside of regular work hours, on weekends, and same for some in-service training, in order to accommodate members on midnight shifts. Moreover, there are specific training and testing time periods for EVOC over the course of the Basic Recruit Course and it may not be necessary to have full-time trainers assigned to EVOC. On the other hand, trainer availability is dependent on member schedules and using overtime may not be a viable or desired solution. For the purpose of this analysis, the Project Team assumes the current model, with the recommendation that the Department continue to assess the full-time versus part-time staffing model for administering mandated EVOC training.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- One Sergeant serves as the supervisor of the unit, supervising the Officers and trainers. Staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.
- Officers are responsible for coordinating and administering training for Recruit Officers and in-service training for members as well as subject matter expert (SME) tasks such as reviewing pursuits and Code 3 driving responses and reviewing all officer-involved collisions. Within the current unit structure and model, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology based on the unique expertise these members provide to Department training and operations.

Staff Services Division

The Staff Services Division includes several units that provide a broad range of administrative functions that support the Department. Staff Services contains the following units:

- Medical Liaison, which reviews and processes all Department member health and medical claims and serves as liaison and coordinator for a range of medical support services;
- Background Investigations (“Backgrounds”), which manages and conducts background investigations for candidates seeking employment with the Department and for vendors seeking to do business with the Department;
- Payroll, which conducts payroll for the Department, including bi-weekly payroll processing and payroll adjustments;
- Behavioral Science, which coordinates a range of mental health services to support Department staff by responding to critical incidents, consulting on disciplinary actions, and managing peer support programs to assist staff in managing stress, depression, and alcohol dependency;

- Recruitment, which performs various activities including conducting outreach in the community, administering workshops, and providing education services in order to recruit quality applicants to apply for the Police Officer position;
- Personnel, which provides human resources support for the Department in collaboration with the City's Department of Human Resources, with tasks including processing the onboarding and termination of employees;
- Staffing and Deployment, which conducts special projects and analysis on a broad range of topics including high-level Department staffing indicators and Department operations in order to drive data-driven decision-making amongst Department and City leadership. The unit also manages the new patrol backfill and overtime deployment for sworn members.
- Concealed Carry Weapon Unit (CCW), which handles all CCW license applications for the City and County of San Francisco.

Recommended staffing for the Staff Services Division is shown in the table below, and the following sections provide an overview of the duties and responsibilities of each unit.

Staff Services – Administration

The Staff Services Division is overseen by a Captain with assistance from a Lieutenant who directly manages the units in the Division. The Captain is supported by a Secretary position. Given the unique leadership duties of the Captain and Lieutenant and the administrative role of the Secretary, staffing for these positions is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

Medical Liaison

The Medical Liaison unit is responsible for managing medical and health claims for Department members. This entails reviewing, processing, and monitoring medical claims, medical records, substance abuse testing, and disability leave. The unit typically manages well over 100 employees who are on some sort of medical leave or temporary modified accommodation, and the count is currently over 150. This number had also increased due to the Covid-19 pandemic.

Medical Liaison is overseen by a Sergeant who has previously received assistance from an Officer which has now been replaced with a civilian Health & Safety Manager position. The Project Team recommends that Medical Liaison utilize a professional staff member in the Management Assistant classification to assist the Sergeant with day-to-day management of the unit. Per the Management Assistant job requirements, someone in this classification would have the skills necessary to assist with record keeping and reporting, to manage office operations, and conduct special projects as needed.

Other than the Sergeant, Medical Liaison is staffed with professional staff: Clerk, Police Physician, Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Specialist, Health & Safety Manager, and Benefits Technician. Based on the specialized functions of each position in the unit, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology. The Department should look evaluate sworn versus non-sworn supervision for this unit of specialty medical staff. There is no legal requirement or best practice for sworn supervision and this is an area simply for Department consideration. Moreover, the Project Team recommends that the Medical Liaison unit monitor and record data and information on service delivery so that workload metrics may be utilized in future analyses.

Background Investigations

Background Investigations (“Backgrounds”) conducts background investigations on all applicants, sworn and non-sworn, who are seeking employment with the San Francisco Police Department. Backgrounds also conducts investigations on external parties (e.g., consultants) that seek to do business with the Department. The unit relies heavily on part-time retired sworn members who serve as investigators and hence these members are included in the staffing analysis, whereas in other sections, part-time retirees are not addressed specifically in the report. Generally, background investigations for potential sworn hires, Police Service Aides, and Police Cadets are conducted by sworn members in the unit, supplemented with assistance from part-time retirees. Background investigations of other potential civilian hires are often conducted by an external backgrounding company. Clerks in the unit generally take on background investigations for contractors and vendors in addition to their administrative duties.

The City and the Department should work jointly to re-initiate an increased non-sworn presence in Background Investigations. The Department of Human Resources and SFPD worked together to create the non-sworn classification “Background Investigator,” and this classification became officially active in October 2019. The unit conducted interviews and was in the process of hiring some full-time individuals into the Background Investigator classification, but due to budget impacts from the 2020 Covid-19 pandemic, all vacant professional staff positions were eliminated during the budget process. Currently, part-time retirees are working in the unit as part-time Background Investigators with minimal sworn presence. The unit should re-initiate the hiring process for civilian Background Investigators to allow for the reallocation of the Officers to other areas of the Department with greater need for sworn members.

Staffing Methodologies by Position

Supervisor(s): Background Investigations is overseen by a Sergeant who is responsible for supervising sworn and non-sworn investigators; triaging, assigning, and reviewing all cases; attending hiring meetings; and approving all conditional offer of employment (COE) letters. The Sergeant also leads all special projects to the unit, including process improvements and audits. For this supervisory position, staffing can be determined using the ratio-based span of control methodology set at 1:7. If part-time Background Investigators are considered 0.5 FTE, the unit requires one additional supervisor. The Department should assess the implications of sworn versus non-sworn supervision in the future.

Investigators: Staffing for sworn and non-sworn investigators is determined using a workload-based methodology based on the number of sworn candidate background packets received annually and the time required to work each background packet.

- In the past three years, the Background Investigations Unit received an average of roughly 250 sworn background packets; a significant reduction compared to 567 packets in 2019 due to the Covid-19 pandemic, the hiring freeze, and the George Floyd civil unrest. However, with the recent changes to public perception of law enforcement needs, the Department's increased efforts in recruitment, the Background Unit has seen a dramatic increase in workload for the new year. For the purposes of this analysis, the project team estimated the expected number of background cases at 560 for the current year 2023. The first six months showed roughly 280 background packets were received and assigned to the unit, including cases for potential Officers, Police Service Aides, and Cadets. Although staffing, hiring, and recruitment for law enforcement remains difficult, the Department is experiencing an upward trend of applicants compared to recent years, and the recommended number for Background Investigator staffing is shown above.

Clerks: The unit clerks undertake a broad range of administrative responsibilities related to tracking candidate information. Moreover, the Principal Clerk is responsible for conducting background investigations on external vendors. Given the unique responsibilities of these positions, staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

Recommendations and Considerations

- The Department should determine a comprehensive plan for employee classifications and long-term priorities and structure of the unit. There are advantages and disadvantages to utilizing part-time Background Investigators. On one hand, staffing can be relatively easily scaled up or down based on caseload volume. On the other hand, part-time investigators inherently work reduced work-weeks and this may impact the unit's ability to conduct investigations in a timely manner. Moreover, this structure necessitates having multiple investigators working on one background, which requires additional coordination and supervisory effort. Under the current model, a comprehensive candidate tracking system is imperative.
- The unit is currently undertaking a special project to implement a new system that will enable better tracking of caseloads, more effective processing of case files, oversight of candidate progress, and reporting of performance metrics. In the highly competitive applicant pool, such a system will enable the unit to understand pain points in conducting timely investigations and identify situations in which more resources are needed to adhere to service delivery standards and make data driven decisions for process improvement. Such a system will also facilitate internal tracking and coordination and enable other supervisory decision-making as needed.

Payroll Unit

Clerks in the Payroll unit are responsible for processing the bi-weekly payroll and making manual adjustments to time and payroll records for the whole Department. Payroll audits records, resolves problems, and facilitates solutions to all payroll-related questions and issues. Covid-19 and updated Collective Bargaining Agreement changes have recently created additional payroll processing workload and the staffing recommendation for the unit is shown below.

| Payroll Clerk         |         |             |      | 6        | 8           | +2        |

Staffing Methodologies by Position

- The Payroll unit is overseen by a Manager and supported by a Clerk Typist. Both positions provide specialized expertise – leadership and administrative duties for the unit, respectively – and staffing is therefore determined using a non-scaling methodology.
- Payroll Clerks conduct the key work of the unit. There is one Chief Payroll Clerk, who supervises the Payroll Clerks, but also conducts direct payroll-related work and is therefore included in the Clerk count. In line with previous studies and industry standards, staffing for Clerks is determined using a ratio-based methodology that scales based on the size of the Department: one Payroll Clerk per 275 employees. As of June 2023, there were 2,272 active employees in the Department, including both sworn and non-sworn employees that work in the City.

Behavioral Science Unit (BSU)

The Behavioral Health Science Unit (BSU) is available 24/7 to both sworn and non-sworn Department members to provide support and assistance in both work-related and off-duty health and wellness. BSU staff manages mental health and peer support programs, including services to help staff manage stress, depression, or unhealthy habits, such as alcohol dependency. Workload for the unit has increased significantly over the last few years due to the Covid-19 pandemic and the George Floyd civil unrest. The City has an Employee Assistance Program (EAP) for general City employees that serves as a resource for Department members; the SFPD BSU program provides law enforcement-specific support, services, and insight, which is why sworn members are necessary in these positions.

| Behavioral Science Unit |          |             |           |          |             |      |
|-------------------------|----------|-------------|-----------|----------|-------------|------|
|                         | SWORN    |             |           | CIVILIAN |             |      |
|                         | Current  | Recommended | Need      | Current  | Recommended | Need |
| BSU              | 4 | 6    | +2 |          |             |      |
| Sergeant                | 1        | 1           | 0         |          |             |      |
| Officer                 | 3        | 5           | +2        |          |             |      |

BSU serves a unique role for the Department and therefore staffing is determined using the non-scaling methodology. The Department should periodically assess current events and how external factors impact the BSU workload. The Project Team recommends that BSU implement a system for tracking caseloads and average time spent on each case, as well as time spent providing proactive support (e.g., support groups), so that a workload-based methodology may be utilized in future analyses.

Recruitment Unit

The SFPD Recruitment Unit (RU) conducts outreach to potential candidates and participates in regular recruitment events locally and outside of San Francisco/Bay Area. The unit recruits Entry-Level Police Officers, Lateral Police Officers, Reserve Police Officers, Police Interns, Police and PAL Cadets. The focus of many recruitment efforts is to establish a diverse and equitable Police Department that mirrors the local San Francisco environment and population. In tandem with the overall goal of recruiting qualified and diverse candidates, the RU has prioritized mentorship and applicant outreach efforts that improve success rates in the initial testing components of the Police Officer application process. This process is administered by the City's centralized Department of Human Resources (DHR).

The high-level mission of a recruitment unit is to increase the number of potential candidates available to fill positions in a department that are vacant or anticipated to become vacant. If a department had zero vacancies and an extremely low rate of attrition, few if any staff would likely be needed to keep those positions filled. Conversely, a department with a significant number of vacancies has a much greater need to fill, which requires a more robust approach to attracting new candidates.

Given these considerations, staffing for sworn and non-sworn recruiters in this unit are determined using a ratio of staff to the sum of two variables:

- The number of sworn vacancies in the department, and
- The three-year average total of sworn resignations, terminations, and retirements.

As of September 2023, there were approximately 325 sworn vacancies in the Department, and over the past three fiscal years, the average attrition figure equates to 154 per year (retirements, resignations, and terminations, not including training attrition), which sums to a figure of 479. In order to adequately address these needs, the staffing target ratio is set at 1 FTE per 50. This ratio indicates that RU should be staffed with nine individuals, with a mix of sworn and non-sworn recruiters. It is important that the Department staff the unit with sworn members so that potential recruits can ask sworn, uniformed personnel about the experience of being a police officer at the many events and points of contact that RU has with potential applicants. For some events, RU can utilize sworn members from outside the unit, but it is important that the unit have core sworn members for coverage and continuity.

| Recruitment Unit             |          |             |          |          |             |           |
|------------------------------|----------|-------------|----------|----------|-------------|-----------|
|                              | SWORN    |             |          | CIVILIAN |             |           |
|                              | Current  | Recommended | Need     | Current  | Recommended | Need      |
| RU                    | 4 | 4    | 0 | 4 | 7    | +3 |
| Sergeant                     | 1        | 1           | 0        |          |             |           |
| Officer                      | 3        | 3           | 0        |          |             |           |
| Recruiter                    |          |             |          | 3        | 6           | +3        |
| Media Programming Specialist |          |             |          | 1        | 1           | 0         |

It is also important to highlight that the effectiveness of recruitment extends beyond staffing. Recruiting for law enforcement positions, particularly in recent years, is an especially competitive hiring market. Police departments face additional challenges that are rare in the private sector, including long hiring processes. Best practice recruiting operations utilize digital marketing effectively to reach younger generations. SFPD is working with an outside vendor to increase its media presence and has hired a Media Programming Specialist to coordinate with the vendor, conduct in-house media productions, and manage social media for the unit. The unit has also worked with the City Controller's Office to identify areas of process improvement, key performance measures, and various recruitment strategies.

Human Resources/Personnel

Personnel staff are responsible for administering a range of human resources related processes, including processing new hires, promotions, leaves of absence, separations, personnel file maintenance, and custodian of secondary employment application documents. This Unit also participates in and advises upon negotiations and implementation of Collective Bargaining Agreements with various local employee representative groups covering Department employees in conjunction with the Labor Relations unit. Additionally, the unit has launched its new talent development and mentorship program to further the development and growth of all members, both sworn and professional staff. Mentoring connections will help members to expand networks, gain new knowledge and insight, and build new skills.

The Society of Human Resources Management (SHRM), Academy to Innovate HR (AIHR), and other established human resource organizations describes various factors in determining best practice HR to employee ratio, including organizational size, the role of the organization's HR unit, and industry. A ratio of one HR employee to 200 full-time equivalent positions is appropriate for SFPD given these considerations. First, SFPD is considered a large organization, and there are economies of scale gained through standardized processes and automation. Second, HR/Personnel is not directly responsible for some functions that HR units in other organizations are often responsible for, including retirement and benefits administration, labor relations, and recruitment. Other units in the Department and the City's centralized Department of Human Resources (DHR) are tasked with leading these functions. All staff members in HR/Personnel serve unique functions in the human resources space and are considered in the ratio-based calculation. As of June 2023, there were 2,616 full-time equivalent (FTE) employees in the Department. Part-time and as-needed employees are counted as 0.5 FTE for the purposes of this analysis.

The total number of employees required for the entire HR team is shown below, using the ratio-based methodology

Staffing and Deployment Unit

The Staffing and Deployment Unit (SDU) was formed in April 2018 to manage all personnel movement within the Department; to track, monitor, analyze, and present all staffing-related metrics to internal and external stakeholders; and to conduct special projects and operational analytics as requested by Command Staff. SDU was created per SFPD Chief’s vision to have one neutral entity responsible for overseeing personnel movement in the Department and to facilitate the ongoing tracking and reporting of key metrics to drive data-driven decision-making related to high-level Department staffing. Since 2018, SDU’s scope has increased significantly to include extensive ongoing reporting, operational analyses for other units in the Administration Bureau, and numerous special projects, including the comprehensive staffing analysis mandated by Proposition E. The unit is also responsible for the mandatory deployment of sworn members for overtime and patrol details due to staffing shortages.

Over the last several years since its inception, SDU has assumed the role of an analytical unit for Staff Services and the Administration Bureau in addition to the analytical work conducted for all staffing-related projects and requests. SDU has conducted ongoing and ad hoc analyses for Recruitment and the Department of Human Resources Public Safety Team, Background Investigations, and the Academy. Moreover, SDU has developed detailed dashboards for these units that promote ongoing data-driven decision-making. There is no shortage of analytical work and projects, and what SDU can produce is based entirely on resource availability.

Voters passed Proposition E (“Prop E”) in November 2020, mandating that SFPD prepare a comprehensive staffing analysis of the entire Department every odd year for consideration by the Police Commission. SDU is tasked with conducting the Prop E staffing analysis, a massive undertaking requiring complex quantitative data analysis, qualitative interviews, and extensive information synthesis. As a result of this significant and important project, all SDU analytical projects were put on hold and additional analysts were assigned to the unit, leaving their respective units with limited resource availability.

In addition to the various analytical projects in SDU, the unit has also expanded in 2023 to include the responsibility of backfill patrol and event deployment, both overtime and on-duty due to current sworn staffing shortages. Currently without the ability to use scheduling software or technology, the unit utilizes one Sergeant and three Officers to handle all overtime and on-duty detail deployments for events, tourism, and patrol backfill. Since inception and launch of this new team in early 2023, the unit has deployed over 2000 sworn members to work over 50 different deployments, including Union Square Safe Shopper, unplanned special events, and the President of the United States visit to San Francisco. Moreover, the workload for these types of deployments may be spontaneous requiring significant amounts of ongoing administrative support, coordination with Field Operations, and individual members.

Recommendations and Considerations

- As the analytical arm of SDU is distinct from its operational duties, the Project Team recommends building out the analytics side of SDU with additional official responsibilities and staff. First, the Department should consider modifying SDU's structure so that a supervisor-level position leads all analytical projects and initiatives for the Administration Bureau and for Staff Services. A professional staff leadership position would promote continuity in the unit and would also be the appropriate classification for an individual responsible for long-term planning, project management, personnel management, and analytical execution. Second, additional analytical staff would enable SDU to provide ongoing analytical support to other units in Staff Services and in the Administration Bureau; all work would be directed by supervisor-level position. Shared work responsibility for three additional Senior Administrative Analysts may take the following form:

  - One Senior Administrative Analyst would focus predominantly on long-term SDU projects, transfers and deployment, and ongoing reports.
  - One Senior Administrative Analyst would focus on providing project work and analytical support to SFDHR/Recruitment, Retention, and Backgrounds and assist with SDU projects as needed
  - One Senior Administrative Analyst would focus on the Academy Division (Basic Recruit Course and Field Training) and respond to PRAs and other internal and external requests
- The Department should determine how to execute Proposition E ongoing. The Proposition calls for a report every odd year. The Department should determine how to make the reporting process relevant and sustainable, and the Department the City must factor the work here into ongoing resource conversations and decisions.
- SDU should explore technological support to alleviate the amount of manual processes associated with backfill and event deployments. The backfill team may also benefit from some civilian support as most duties are administrative in nature. This may allow the Department to reallocate its limited sworn staffing resources.
- SDU should determine methodologies for quantifying workload to be used in future analyses. At this time, all positions in the unit are classified as non-scalable. Tracking projects and estimated hours required may be one such method. The Manager-level position should invest time and effort into determining performance metrics for the unit.

Concealed Carry Weapon (CCW) Unit

In June 2022, the Supreme Court ruled on concealed carry weapon laws that has created a spike in CCW license applications in the City and County of San Francisco. With these legislative changes, the Department created a new CCW Unit in January 2023 under Staff Services to research best practices, industry standards, and state/federal law related to CCWs. The unit started with one Lieutenant to launch and lead all aspects of the new unit, and has since assigned one Sergeant, two modified-duty Officers, and three part-time retirees. Since its inception, the unit has created a plan and process for investigating and administering CCW applications, developed a CCW Unit manual, and vetted nine different firearms training providers. The unit completely processed and issued over 70 CCW licenses out of approximately 350 applications, while still receiving 10 new applications per week. The remaining applications are pending various steps in the application process such as firearm training or psychological evaluation. It has also been estimated that each application takes roughly 6-7 hours to process completely.

Recommendations and Considerations

The unit should continue to track CCW applications and amount of workload to better identify staffing needs for future analyses. Due to the unique nature of this new and evolving unit, all positions have been identified as non-scalable. The project team recommends the unit continue to utilize one Lieutenant to oversee all aspects of the CCW process, including continued research of applicable laws, trends and best practices, and staffing needs. The project team also recommends one Sergeant and two Officers to continue the current process as it seems sufficient for handling new incoming applications. Lastly, an administrative Clerk or Management Assistant will be beneficial to the unit to handle the administrative tasks, as well as reduce the need for part-time retirees in the unit. Furthermore, the Department should consider this new unit as another area for civilianization if the job responsibilities do not require sworn members.

Crime Information Services (CIS)

The Crime Information Services (CIS) is composed of two sections and is responsible for the management of records, property control, and crime analysis. According to regulations and mandates, CIS maintains a database for all stolen, lost, and recovered property entered into evidence, as well as property destroyed. The Division maintains all evidence and found property in a secure facility and compiles statistics and performs analysis of Department resources. Recommended staffing for CIS is presented below.

CIS - Admin

CIS is divided into Records Management and Property Control. A Captain oversees the two sections and is supported by a Clerk and two Lieutenants that manage their respective sections. The Admin Team is responsible for supporting administrative duties, serving as a liaison for Department projects, as well as distributing and overseeing staff workload. For the purpose of this analysis, the Admin positions are considered as unique and not scalable to any workload measures.

Records Management

Records Management is responsible for the collection, storage, and distribution of all incident reports. These reports are submitted by Department members, outside agencies, and by members of the public using the Department's website (CopLogic) and/or the City's 311 system. Records Management also keeps and maintains historic records, with the added responsibility of ensuring that all digital records are searchable and available to be used for statistical and investigative purposes. Another essential duty is maintaining the front window, which requires a supervisor to be present to approve requests and respond to potentially hostile citizens and/or requests that cannot be filled. Additionally, the unit also serves as the administrator for some of the software programs that the Department uses, including GovQA, CopLogic, and Laserfiche. Recommended staffing for Records Management is shown below.

Recommendations and Considerations

Records Management faces many challenges due to recent turnover and current vacancies. As of June 2023, the unit is staffed with nine modified-duty Officers, three modified-duty Sergeants, one Lieutenant, and 17 clerks. In practice, many of the staff members are cross-trained in the areas listed below but have primary assignments and responsibilities. Typically, the Lieutenant is the Officer in Charge (OIC) with one Sergeant and two Chief Clerks to provide supervision of the whole unit for both day and swing shift. However, the unit also utilizes members on modified duty due to high levels of workload and vacancies.

All tasks performed by Records Management can be performed by civilian staff. This is a civilian unit composed predominantly of Clerks who are used interchangeably. However, there are some Officers assigned to the unit. Most are on temporary modified duty (TMD) or non-public contact and are placed here due to work activity restrictions, but there are also several Officers who hold permanent work restrictions. There is an opportunity to civilianize these positions and utilize the sworn members in other areas of the Department as civilian/professional staff are capable of serving the same functions.

Previously there were two Sergeants who provided oversight for the sworn members within the Division but currently there is one Lieutenant, three modified duty Sergeants, and two Chief Clerks who are responsible for supervising nine Officers and 17 Clerks within Records Management. The Lieutenant being heavily involved in the day-to-day operations has limited the overall capacity of the sub-units and is not feasible for the long-term. As mentioned above, with the recommendation to civilianize Records Management, the Project Team recommends four Chief Clerks to oversee daily operations for day and swing watch.

Duties and responsibilities of personnel assigned to Records Management include fulfilling any report requests from members of the public, outside agencies, and insurance companies; entering stolen and/or lost and found property into the California Law Enforcement Telecom System (CLETS) and entering reports from outside agencies; entering stolen and/or lost records regarding firearms into the California Law Enforcement Telecom System (CLETS) and entering reports from outside agencies; scanning and entering traffic reports, evidence sheets, arrest reports, non-arrest reports, COPLOGIC reports, FCNs, stolen and recovered vehicle reports, and crime lab reports into the Laserfiche Imaging Archive System (LIAS); and sealing of court documents and supporting requests from external law enforcement agencies. The mailroom and external background requests are also functions within Records Management, each of which requires one full-time employee.

Over the past few years, Records Management has been diligently working to fulfil a number of requests that have been backlogged due to staffing shortages, Covid-19, and the Shelter-in-Place policy by the City and County of San Francisco. Similar to the rest of the Department, Records Management has faced various challenges such as navigating remote employees and lack of technological and equipment resources. As of July 2023, Records Management shows a backlog of 685 GovQA requests, 210 Background requests, and over 20,000 Automated Firearms System (AFS) entries.

The Project Team recommends hiring more civilian clerks to fill current vacancies as result of retirements and to reduce the workload backlogs. Additionally, the unit would benefit greatly from software and systems that could automate some of the time-consuming manual processes currently performed by the Clerks. Even with the support from temporarily assigned members, the unit is significantly understaffed and requires additional full-time dedicated staff to fulfil operational needs.

Property Control

Property Control, often referred to Property Control Division (PCD), is responsible for maintaining and processing all property and evidence that is entered into the custody of the San Francisco Police Department. Property Control also handles evidence for SFPD investigations and ensures that evidence is barcoded and entered into the Evidence on Q system. This includes the collection, storage and tracking of all evidence including firearms, narcotics, and cash, from District Stations and other units. PCD maintains the important chain of custody for all evidentiary items at various locations and is also responsible for researching and returning lost or stolen items that are processed. A recent organizational restructuring moved the Supplies Unit from the Fiscal Division to Property Control. A supervising Lieutenant has oversight over Property Control, which is currently composed of both sworn and civilian employees, including Officers, Storekeepers, one Account Clerk, one Administrative Clerk, and part-time retirees (960s).

Recommendations and Considerations

Property Control is split into multiple subunits located at three different locations. They are also in the process of preparing for its relocation before which all items will need to be barcoded or disposed of.

Thousands of old cases will need to be reviewed to determine if property can be disposed of and support is also needed with barcoding, destruction, packing, and evidence transport. The magnitude of this project alone will require significant staffing which Property Control will not be able to handle on its own without disrupting daily operations. To effectively staff PCD, the Project Team recommends additional Storekeepers and part-time Officers (960s) and/or utilizing Officers who are on Temporary Modified Duty (TMD) to provide support.

Full duty Officers within Property Control have specialized assignments while civilian staff are cross trained and share responsibilities of the core functions described below.

Currently there is one supervising Lieutenant and one Sergeant to oversee Property Control. There is an immediate need for an additional Sergeant to support daily operations, cross-train staff, facilitate various projects and tasks such as the Division's relocation project, and provide direct supervision of staff. Applying the span of control methodology, the Project Team recommends the addition of one Sergeant to help with supervisory duties. In addition to the Lieutenant and Sergeant that provide oversight and supervision, Property Control staffs one Account Clerk and one Storekeeper for more general administrative tasks, such as managing payroll, currency evidence, and all evidence tracking in the Evidence on Q system. Sworn staff members are needed to supervise the handling of certain types of evidence and property.

Full duty Officers and Storekeepers are responsible for the initial collecting, sorting, categorizing, and data entry of all property and evidence being received and released. Officers conduct daily runs to the 10 District Stations and other units to collect evidence and handle items that are dropped off throughout the day. This team requires full-duty (armed) Officers to handle evidence and property which often includes firearms. With the implementation of Evidence on Q, all items are now being tracked through barcodes.

A workload-based methodology is applied to determine staffing for this sub-unit and uses the following measures from 2022 to determine appropriate staffing levels: 10 hours per day for daily station runs (collection and data entry), 105,160 total property items collected and processed, and approximately 11,333 items released from the front counter. Due to current staffing shortages, often times members are pulled from their primary assignment to cover the front counter.

The firearm processing team is responsible for the daily intake of firearms, release of firearms and related evidence, and the destruction of firearms. Staff members examine firearms, review case reports, categorize firearms, photograph firearms, maintain a firearms database, and cross reference items in various data systems. This team also now pulls daily gun reports to determine if they meet the criteria to be sent to the Crime Gun Information Center (CGIC) for further investigation. Unit members also prepare firearms for lab testing and destruction when needed. Firearms requiring destruction must be property documented and dismantled.

A workload-based methodology is applied factoring in the total number of firearms processed annually. In 2022, there were 1,247 firearms processed, each taking approximately one hour. Additionally, the unit has approximately 7,000 firearms currently backlogged that have not been processed due to current staffing shortages. Using the previously established workload-based methodology, the Project team recommends two Officers and two Storekeepers to perform these particular responsibilities. The temporary light duty Officers and part-time retirees can also assist as needed.

Duties for the Narcotics team include storing and maintaining narcotics evidence, destruction of narcotics, and transporting substances to the Alameda Crime Laboratory for testing. Sworn officers retrieve evidence from the narcotic drop box located at Property Control, ensure the items are packaged and barcoded properly, and enter information into the Department's data systems. These Officers receive requests for items to be tested from Department members and specialized units, and the District Attorney's office. Officers also transport items that need to be destroyed and are often required to provide courtroom testimony. A workload-based methodology is applied factoring in the total number of narcotics envelopes received for intake, the total number of envelopes sent to the Alameda County Sheriff's Office for narcotics testing, and the total number of trips to Alameda for testing. In 2022, there were a total of 6,832 envelopes received at intake and 3,749 envelopes sent out for testing. Due to staffing shortages, less trips were taken, roughly 50 in 2022, but ideally at least two trips per week would be taken to Alameda for consistent testing. It should be noted that each envelope often contains multiple drugs. Based on these measures, the Project Team recommends additional Officer support.

The Holds and Destruction Team retains items that may be needed for investigations and disposes of items that investigators have determined are no longer needed. Investigators with case property in storage are sent forms on a regular basis to maintain an updated status of the items. This team supports destruction, donation, and recycling of items, such as e-waste, metal items, and biohazards. In 2022, this team processed 1,568 items requiring holds, and 34,422 items requiring destruction. Time per task is highly variable. These positions are unique and are not scalable to any workload measures. However, the team is also facing backlogged cases that need review and processing and the Project Team recommends two Storekeepers and additional support from part-time retirees.

The Lost and Found unit is responsible for returning property to rightful owners. Lost and found items are kept in a separate area from evidence. Items are booked into a database with as much identifying information as possible, and staff members conduct various searches while attempting to locate the owner of the property. The team must also coordinate with the FounDrop webpage for found items with unknown owners, as well as collaborate with Investigations and SFPD's Legal team. The function of this Parcel and Auctions within Property Control is to prepare items for shipping, such as found property and evidence to other agencies, and to maintain the Property room webpage for auctioning items. The Storekeepers in Lost and Found, FounDrop, Parcels, and Auctions should all work closely together and be crossed train. These positions are unique and considered as non-scalable. The Project Team recommends four Storekeepers to effectively manage these various responsibilities in Property Control.

PCD also provides uniforms and equipment for sworn officers and uniformed civilians, including stars, vouchers, radios, and helmets. Staff track the assignment of stars and equipment, maintain files for uniform vouchers, and report to the Fiscal Unit on expenditures. This is a unique position and is considered non-scalable for this analysis.

The Overflow Warehouse stores items long-term, such as large bulky items, narcotics, bicycles, and freezer items. It also supports entry of items submitted from the Crime Lab. This team also supports destruction, donation, and recycling of items, such as e-waste, metal items, and biohazards. The unit is responsible for barcoding legacy items and adding them to the Evidence on Q database. These positions are classified as unique and non-scaling. The Project Team recommends four Storekeepers and utilizing part-time retirees as needed.

The Supplies Unit manages the procurement of all supplies needed by Department personnel and distributes the items to District Stations and specialized units. This includes stationary items, office supplies, and cleaning products. The unit also provides reproduction services including printing of brochures, pamphlets, and other materials needed by staff. The Supplies Unit is currently operated by one Senior Storekeeper (Supervisor), two Storekeepers and one Clerk. The Supervising Storekeeper is based on span of control, whereas the other positions are considered non-scalable for this analysis.

Strategic Management Bureau

Overview

The Strategic Management Bureau (SMB) is responsible for implementing tools and best practices regarding organizational change while simultaneously integrating change initiatives into the Department's strategic framework. The Department currently faces more than a dozen major change initiatives, many driven by external factors, such as the California Department of Justice (CalDOJ) Collaborative Reform Initiative (CRI), the San Francisco Office of Racial Equity's Racial Equity Action Plan (REAP), the Mayor's policing reform initiatives, and new legislation at the local, state, and federal levels.

Strategic Management is broken into one unit and two Divisions: Professional Standards and Principled Policing (PSPP) Unit, Fiscal Division, and Technology Division. PSPP works collaboratively with internal and external stakeholders to update policies, implement policy changes and initiatives, and drive improvements rooted in reform efforts. The Strategic Management Bureau is also responsible for ensuring financial stewardship. SMB puts technological and procedural systems in place, as well as the monitoring and maintenance thereof, to enable members to do their jobs effectively. Finally, the Strategic Management Bureau coordinates annual and longer-range strategic planning efforts, which set and communicate the Department's priorities, both internally and externally, as to where effort and resources should be directed.

Recommended Staffing

The table below provides a staffing overview for the various Divisions within the Strategic Management Bureau. While sworn staffing levels are appropriate to meet workload demands, there is a significant need for highly trained professional staff with expertise in analytics and technology. A detailed analysis for each Division/unit is provided in the following sections.

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

Staffing for the Strategic Management Bureau is determined using the following methodologies. Examples are provided below.

Ratio-based Methodology

The Project Team used a ratio-based span of control methodology to determine the appropriate staffing levels for supervisory roles based on the targeted number of direct reports for a specific unit/function. For example, span of control for the Program Manager of the Business Analysis Team scales at a rate of one full-time equivalent (FTE) per 10 direct reports; the Business Analysis Team currently has seven Analysts which can be managed by one Program Manager. Another example is the Accounting Unit in the Fiscal Division, where a ratio based on the number of sworn staff in the Department is used to determine staffing.

Non-scaling Methodology

Many of the units and roles within the Strategic Management Bureau are specialized and are not scalable to any performance measures. These positions are unique and staffing levels are determined by Department leaders and key decision makers.

Recommended Staffing by Division and Unit

Strategic Management Bureau – Administration

The Strategic Management Bureau is managed by a civilian Executive Director who reports directly to the Chief of Police and receives administrative support from an Executive Secretary. These positions are unique and considered non-scalable for the purpose of this analysis.

| Strategic Management Bureau |         |             |      |          |             |           |

|                             | SWORN   |             |      | CIVILIAN |             |           |
|                             | Current | Recommended | Need | Current  | Recommended | Need      |
| Administration       |         |             |      | 2 | 3    | +1 |
| Executive Director          |         |             |      | 1        | 1           | 0         |
| Manager                     |         |             |      | 0        | 1           | +1        |
| Executive Secretary         |         |             |      | 1        | 1           | 0         |

The Project Team recommends adding a Manager to support the Executive Director and to provide additional oversight and leadership for the Bureau. This position would be well-versed in the Department's budget process and technologies and understand the functions of all three Divisions within the Bureau. As the Department prepares to transition to a brand-new Records Management System, this position would be responsible for assisting with implementation, oversight, and communication throughout the Department.

Professional Standards and Principled Policing (PSPP) Unit

Members of PSPP are responsible for working collaboratively with internal and external stakeholders to update policies, implement policy changes and initiatives, drive improvements rooted in reform efforts, and work with leadership to determine strategic goals and annual initiatives. Professional Standards is composed of four units who work collaboratively on reform initiatives and various Department priorities.

PSPP – Administration

A Captain and Lieutenant provide general oversight of PSPP, with a Manager position serving as both the Executive Director's lead on special initiatives – policy implementation coordination and strategic planning – and the Manager of the Business Analysis Team (BAT). Given the leadership responsibilities of these positions, they are considered non-scalable.

Professional Standards Unit – CRI Team

The Professional Standards Unit, also referred to as the CRI Team, has the primary responsibility of driving Department-wide change initiatives relating to the Collaborative Reform Initiative (CRI) with the California Department of Justice (CalDOJ). Prior to January 2019, the CRI Team was composed of mostly sworn Officers. However, Department leadership determined that it would be more appropriate to have Sergeants in these roles, as the new direction of CRI would require more communication with executive sponsors and Command Staff. The unit is overseen by one Lieutenant and is currently composed of two Sergeants and four Officers. Team members are assigned to support a portfolio of recommendations for five different focus areas/objectives that were identified by the DOJ (Use of Force, Bias, Community Policing, Accountability, and Recruitment). Each Sergeant oversees their own focus area(s) which typically contains more than 30 recommendations. Their duties include collaborating with project managers, communicating with executive sponsors and external partners (e.g. CalDOJ and Hillard Heintz), facilitating meetings & workgroups, writing recommendations, and providing supporting documents.

The work completed by the CRI Team is complex and involves collaboration with various stakeholders throughout the Department. Significant progress has been made with the Collaborative Reform Initiatives as it has been the Department's top priority. As of June 30, 2023, the Department is in substantial compliance with 245 of the 272 (90%) DOJ recommendations. While the goal of the CRI team is to have the remaining 27 recommendations finalized by April 2024, the unit's focus will shift towards sustainability efforts, which includes conducting reviews to ensure that all action items associated with the CRI recommendations are being completed consistently by the Department.

The CRI Team has consolidated the remaining recommendations into individual project plans and will prioritize the different initiatives within those plans. The objective and focus of this unit will continue to evolve so these positions are considered as non-scalable for the purpose of this staffing analysis. As additional information is collected and work assigned, the Project Team recommends that a workload-based methodology be used in future analyses.

For this unit's scope of work, it is essential to include staff that retain institutional knowledge that is specific to policing: how members patrol, how members are using force, how members are interacting with the community, etc. However, the unit could also benefit from having a dedicated Analyst in the unit who can provide administrative support in the areas of change management and/or policy development and implementation. Having an analyst working collaboratively with sworn members will align with the unit's objective of sustaining changes from the CRI recommendations and allow the Department to utilize sworn members elsewhere. The Project Team recommends adding one Analyst position to provide additional administrative support.

Staff Inspections Unit (SIU)

The Staff Inspections Unit (SIU) serves as an internal audit unit for the entire Department. The unit is tasked with monitoring ongoing compliance with the Department's wide range of policies and procedures, and for conducting audits that are requested by various external agencies. SIU is a specialized unit; all members receive training and certification in law enforcement audit procedures. The unit frequently handles confidential information and must abide by the Generally Accepted Government Auditing Standards (GAGAS).

The unit has focused its efforts on reviewing all accountability recommendations that were implemented through CRI. SIU currently operates with one Sergeant who is supported part-time by an Analyst assigned to the Business Analysis Team (BAT).

The Staff Inspections Unit's current staffing and limited capacity makes it difficult to support the entire Department. The team needs dedicated Analysts to develop reports and manage large datasets that are pulled routinely from various systems. Additional sworn members are also needed to enable the unit to work on multiple audits and inspections simultaneously. As use of force policies change and new legislation is passed, the volume of compliance-checking from the Body Worn Camera Unit will also continue to increase to ensure the Department is compliant with all new requirements.

| Officer                                             | 0        | 2           | +2        |          |             |           |

The number of hours dedicated to complete audits is not currently tracked and therefore the positions within the unit are recognized as non-scalable in this analysis. The Project Team recommends that SIU develop, track, and monitor metrics on audit completion so that unit staffing can be determined using a workload-based methodology in the future. Based on the unit's needs and growing responsibilities, the Project Team recommends the addition of two dedicated Analysts and two Officers to allow the unit to function efficiently and to ensure Department accountability.

Business Analysis Team (BAT)

The Business Analysis Team (BAT) was established in 2018 to centralize data-related work across the Department. Prior to 2018, there were no delineated roles between crime analysts and data analysts. The goal of BAT is to provide data to all stakeholders in a way that is informative, interesting, and accurate. The unit supports the Department with non-operational analytical requests and aims to improve data-driven decision making. The unit's primary responsibilities are to provide data analysis and generate various mandated reports to federal, state, and local officials. Some mandated reports include the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program, use-of-force reports, stop data reports, Law Enforcement Enterprise Portal Reporting (FBI), and local MOU reports. The Business Analysis Team is also responsible for responding to legal inquiries, CLERY requests (requirements of educational institutions), and other requests from stakeholders such as the Chief of Police, the Mayor's Office, and the Board of Supervisors.

BAT is comprised of one civilian Manager who oversees seven Senior Administrative Analysts and one Project Manager. The Analysts work collaboratively to respond to requests and generate routine reports but must also manage various projects within their specialized areas of focus. Focus areas include a data transparency program with the Department of Police Accountability, development of academic partnerships, data development for Department General Orders, strategic planning, dashboard development, and internal database development. In addition, each Analyst must also dedicate time to provide direct support to other units throughout the Bureau and Department (CRI Team, Staff Inspections Unit, Written Directives Unit, Policy Public Affairs Office).

Data collection and transparency are critical to the Department. Trends toward data-driven decision-making and increased data reporting requirements will continue to place greater pressure on the Business Analysis Team. BAT serves as a critical data team both internally (helping the Department understand what the data means) as well as externally (providing information to government officials and members of the public). With the growth of data collection and systems, the Business Analysis Team is no “data rich”, however, a lack of data manipulation, coding, and analytical skills hinders the team’s ability to conduct more complex analysis over time.

Recently the Business Analysis Team has been directed to support the Strategic Management Bureau is more strategic level, enterprise-wide project, and change management initiatives. The department receives, on average, 4 major change directives from the legislature, Executive Branch, Police Commission, and elsewhere, that require skilled and dedicated resources to develop and implement. Major project delivery for non-IT based projects have traditionally been a challenge for the department. As such, one Sr Admin Analyst has been hired to directly support major projects and strategic level initiatives. These projects include things like the decennial station boundary analysis, department and interagency strategic planning, annual department level budget prioritization, and responding to process and change initiatives recommended or mandated internally or by third parties. Additionally, in support of major change initiatives, the Business Analysis Team has been increasing the amount of time dedicated to Academic level engagement with various institutions of higher education, and other think tanks. This engagement, tied to potential growth in evidence based policing practices in the SFPD, may yield benefits to efficiency and effectiveness across the department.

Current staffing and the growing demand for data analyses and reporting from the Business Analysis Team has not allowed the unit to operate to its full potential. Some of the required statutory reports are not submitted by required deadlines and the unit is unable to execute their plans for new development projects. Analysts are unable to devote time to more complex analytical work and fulfilling requests for analytical support from other Bureaus/units has been challenging. With only one Project Manager on staff, only one major initiative can be handled at this time, despite the average of 4 major projects per year. Additionally, with a lack of dedicated analysts to assist with evidence- based policing evaluation, the promise of testing and keeping what works remains just a promise. To meet required deadlines and provide a level of service that enables data-driven decision making, the Project Team recommends the addition of one Senior Administrative Analyst and one Senior Information Systems Engineer to allow the Business Analysis Team to meet their growing demand and better serve the Department.

At this time, the work performed by the Business Analysis Team varies immensely in scope and nature; therefore, the positions within BAT are recognized as non-scalable for this staffing assessment. The Project Team recommends that BAT develop and track metrics that represent workload for use in future analyses.

Fiscal Division

The Fiscal Division is divided into three units and is responsible for carrying out all administrative functions related to budgeting, accounting, contracts, and grants. This includes executing the Department's annual budget, financial plans, financial analysis, supplemental appropriations, grant awards, and other revenue programs. The Chief Financial Officer provides oversight over the Division and is supported by three managers: Budget Manager, Contracts Manager, and Accounting Manager.

Fiscal Division – Administration

Currently, the Fiscal Division is understaffed due to several vacancies which has limited its operating efficiencies. A Grant Analyst position is currently vacant and the Budget Manager position has been vacant since December 2022. This has required a reprioritization of staff time toward only high-priority projects, and ultimately, project timelines have been significantly delayed and other initiatives suspended indefinitely, resulting in providing a lower level of service and support to Department staff.

The approval of the Acquisition of Surveillance Technology Ordinance (19B) by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors has also impacted the overall capacity of the Fiscal Division. The 19B ordinance requires Departments obtain Board approval for any technologies subject to the Surveillance Technology Ordinance. The ordinance requires the Department to go through a Surveillance Technology Review Process, which includes additional administrative work to adhere to the requirements. The significant amount of staff time and resources required to put together a surveillance technology review package has placed a significant strain on staffing resources. The various review packages require the coordination and input of various stakeholders before submission and presently, the work is performed ad-hoc, primarily by the Chief Financial Officer.

Additionally, the citywide Office of Contracts Administration has been revising its guidance and instructions to Departments on what types of technology commodities and services are eligible for the Technology Marketplace. Factors determining the applicability may include, but are not limited to, the cybersecurity risk factor, a purchase covering multiple fiscal years, or instances wherein the City desires to higher contract liability thresholds. More and more information technology service contracts that were once procured through the Technology Marketplace now warrant a separate solicitation and contract agreement. With the increased workload and limited capacity, the Project Team recommends the addition of a Senior Administrative Analyst to provide direct support to the Contracts Manager and Budget Manager and to facilitate requests for 19B Surveillance Ordinance Requirements.

Accounting Unit

The Accounting Unit provides centralized accounting support for the whole Department. Responsibilities include reviewing, analyzing, and interpreting City accounting records and policies; identifying and allocating revenue and expenditures; financial record keeping within complex accounting systems; processing of deposits, reimbursements, and interdepartmental charges; reviewing invoices and purchase orders; and presenting accounting activity to various Department members. The unit is managed by an Accounting Manager who is currently supported by two Supervising Accountants, an Accountant, and three Senior Account Clerks.

The City's transition to a new financial management system has created many challenges for the entire Division and has reduced the overall productivity of staff within the Accounting Unit. Although the new system has some new/additional functionalities, there are limitations and inefficiencies within the system that have impacted the unit. For example, previous functionality that enabled employee reimbursements to be processed via batch processing is no longer possible and this has lengthened the amount of time required to process each document and the work required to perform the task. Changes in accounting and procurement policies has also added additional administrative time to process requisitions and purchase orders. New workloads from activities associated with Chase Center events and other projects such as the Mission Bay Transportation Improvement Fund have increased the need for additional accounting support. Staff has spent much more of their time on new workflows to ensure continued department operations are supported, but this has caused disruptions in other workloads.

Grants Unit

The Grants Unit is comprised of a Grant Manager and two Grant Analysts in the Senior Administrative Analyst classification who are responsible for analytical work in the areas of grant administration. Their primary duties include preparing grant claims, preparing grant budget modifications, assisting with audits and monitoring visits, the City's Post Audit, and preparing the general ledger. One of the Grant Analyst recently vacated a position and the Project Team recommends filling the position so the unit can fulfill all of its responsibilities.

Contracts Unit

The Contracts Unit manages procurement activities related to all SFPD professional services, warranty, and maintenance contracts. The unit is operated by one Contracts Manager who is responsible for implementing contract administrative procedures; contract preparation, execution, and administration; and performing requests for proposals or other solicitation methods.

The Office of Contract Administrations recently implemented changes to the City's procurement process which has added a number of administrative requirements. The added tasks and increased processing times have made it challenging for all departments to complete contracts in a timely manner; however, current staffing is appropriate for this unit. As the Contract Manager provides unique services to the Department and the position is considered non-scalable for this staffing assessment.

Technology Division

The Technology Division provides all communication and information technology support services for the Department. The Division is divided into five units who work collaboratively to ensure that the Department's information systems are up-to-date and functioning properly, so that sworn and civilian members can perform their jobs efficiently. Members throughout the Department use various systems for record keeping, report writing, generating data, business intelligence, and data management.

High-level Department priorities and citywide trends include an effort to modernize technology platforms, which includes introducing and implementing new systems for records management and business intelligence. This will bring additional functionality for SFPD officers and become compliant with the FBI's National Incident-Based Reporting System (NIBRS).

NIBRS, which became the national standard for law enforcement crime data reporting in the US as of January 2021, represents both a significant shift and improvement in how reported crime is measured and estimated by the federal government.

SFPD is also currently working with the Department of Emergency Management (DEM) on a Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) system which would improve the use of mobile technology and be utilized as a tool by Officers in the field. The primary role of the Technology Division is to understand the needs of end-users and develop systems and programs accordingly.

Projects and workload are only expected to increase with the nature of the Division's work gravitating towards business analysis. To keep pace with Citywide trends and standards for technological development, the Division will need to bolster its Business Analyst/Project Manager staffing capacity.

*The Technical Services & Support Unit currently relies on four contracted full-time employees to support their unit. Those employees are not reflected in the table above.

Management and Administration Unit

The Management and Administration Unit provides the division with leadership, strategic management and planning, budget and procurement support, and daily administrative oversight. The Deputy Director III serves as the Chief Information Officer (CIO) and two Manager V positions serve as Deputy CIOs over the four IS Project Directors. Three business analysts provide technology procurement support and budget management, time and leave management and analysis, and an Agency CLETS Coordinator to ensure compliance with Criminal Justice Information Systems (CJIS) policies and procedures. The secretary position provides executive assistance and administrative support to the CIO and deputy CIOs.

IT Portfolio Solutions Unit

IT Portfolio Solutions manages Information Systems (IS) projects as well as applications related to the Web, HRMS and no code/low code solutions. The unit is run by a Project Director and is currently supported by 6 Project Managers (IS Bus Analyst-Principal), one Programmer Analyst-Senior, and two Programmer Analysts.

Thus, IT Portfolio Solutions Unit has the responsibility for two distinct, but related areas:

- Projects
- Applications

Projects

Projects within IT Portfolio Solutions are structured to consist of Project Managers (IS Business Analyst-Principal) and Business Analysts (IS Business Analyst-Senior), the latter of which none are currently staffed.

Project Managers perform project management responsibilities of scoping out Department projects, gathering business requirements, project scheduling, executing schedules and plans with both internal and external parties, monitoring the implementation, and Go-Live – including post Go-Live stabilization. Major multi-year projects in Technology include:

- Implement a vendor RMS (Records Management System) that meets the new FBI reporting standard NIBRS (National Incident-Based Reporting System) to replace CDW (Crime Data Warehouse) which is based on an old reporting standard that the FBI will not accept.
- HRMS upgrade and migration to a sustainable infrastructure platform.
- City's Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) replacement project with DEM.
- Fleet vehicle technology modernization project.
- Transition from A-number to DSW number with the City's Identity Access Management.
- Benchmark Analytics.
- Transition to new Department facilities/locations.
- Transition of the Department's call manager to the City-wide call manager.
- Infrastructure and foundational improvement.

Projects has no capacity to absorb additional short-term projects without impacting multi-year projects, least to say insufficient back-up coverage for existing staff when they take time-off. Additionally, there is an immediate and critical need for Business Analysts (IS Business Analyst-Senior) to conduct business and workflow AS-IS and TO-BE analyses for current and future projects.

In summary for Projects, IT Portfolio Solutions recommends the addition of one Project Manager and three Business Analysts.

Applications

Applications within IT Portfolio Solutions is structured to consist of Programmer Analysts (IS Programmer Analyst-Principal, IS Programmer Analyst-Senior, Programmer Analyst) to cover Web Accessibility, NIBRS RMS, HRMS, and no code/low code solutions.

Using programming languages and configuration tools, Programmers perform the responsibilities of analyzing, designing, proof of concepts for stakeholders, developing, testing, and Go-Live – including post Go-Live stabilization and any troubleshooting during the life of the solution. In addition to programming for new solutions, programmers must be able to respond to all support requests of existing solutions. It also includes reviewing and improving current solutions, such as Web design simplification for an improved user experience.

No code/low code solutions use a model of rapid deployment when compared to formal projects. It is an important complement to Projects given its ability to implement solutions relatively quickly for the Department.

Current staffing does not even meet minimum coverage standards. There is no Portfolio Solutions back-up for Web, HRMS, and no code/low code solutions. Each of these three areas has only one Programmer who is specialized only in their area of responsibility.

In summary for Applications, IT Portfolio Solutions recommends the addition of two Programmers for Web and three Programmers for NIBRS RMS who would also be backup for other Programmer areas of responsibility.

IT Infrastructure and Operations Unit

The Infrastructure and Operations Unit provides technical support and maintenance for all Networks, Systems, Storage, Security, and access controls used in Department applications and systems. The unit is led by an IS Project Director and administered by 11 IS Engineers. One of the unit's IS Engineer serves as the Department's Information Security Manager (DISO), while another supports the Department's Infrastructure. The remaining engineers are dedicated to supporting the different critical systems.

The Infrastructure and Operations Unit has been tasked with an increasing number of new projects but has not received any additional support. Current unit priorities include:

- NIBRS-RMS infrastructure setup and Network transport connectivity to AWS Cloud.
- Replacing and providing maintenance for aging infrastructure (e.g., replacing the video wall system at DOC)
- AD integration to Oracle IAM with SSO login for all the applications.
- Network upgrade to 10G with dual ring in all the core sites and district stations.
- HRMS application migration to OCI Cloud
- CELTS Migration from HOJ to PHQ and increase the bandwidth connectivity using ASE circuits.
- Increasing storage capacity and improving network performance
- Improve Infrastructure monitoring and Alerting.
- Call Manager and VOIP migration
- Setup AWS Cloud Infrastructure and migrate workloads from on-premises.
- Protecting the Department's network against the increasing number of cybersecurity threats.
- Compliance with the increasing number State and Federal regulations regarding criminal justice information

Due to the complexity of the variety of projects and technical tasks managed by each engineer, productivity is not measured through simple workload measures. However, there are industry best practices for applying a ratio of engineers based solely on specific technical functions.

The Technology Division manages a large network including 252 network switches, 82 wireless access points, 76 routers, 24 firewalls, 22 critical systems, 248 servers along with 2 Enterprise File storage arrays and Data Protection appliance replicated across two sites. The Department currently has one dedicated security manager to oversee this broad network. While industry ratios for security personnel vary, the Department needs to allocate two IS Engineers to create stability and redundancy in security oversight. Additional staff will mitigate the loss of institutional knowledge and allow for continuous coverage through succession planning should the current incumbent vacate the position. Doing so will also offer immediate relief whenever the current incumbent is out of the office or unavailable.

As for network support, the unit also only employs one engineer to manage 252 network switches, as well as the wireless access points, routers, and firewalls. Industry best practices recommended a ratio of one engineer per 100 network switches. For SFPD, this would amount to 2.5 full-time engineers. Based on these industry standards, the Project Team recommends hiring two additional full-time engineers to provide more oversight of the Department's broad network.

Business Intelligence (BI) and Geospatial Technology Unit

The BI and Geospatial Technology Unit reports directly to the Deputy Chief Information Officer and is managed by the IS Project Director. The team consists of four IS Business Analysts and five IS Programmer Analysts who are responsible for synthesizing all the data collected by the Department and centralizing it into one database so that members can access it; various databases are created, and tools are developed that enable end-users to extract data. This also includes centralizing GIS reporting for the department.

Over the last 18 months, the BI and Geospatial Technology Unit provided technological support for many Collaborative Reform Initiatives (CRI) Recommendations. Through collaboration with the CRI Team, various data models and dashboards were created related to stop data, and officer conduct and performance. These high-priority projects have been extremely time consuming, and the unit requires additional support to take on new initiatives and maintain other unit responsibilities.

The BI and Geospatial Technology Unit has concerns for providing redundancy in service coverage and preserving institutional knowledge for core support operations. Currently there is only one programmer for metadata modeling, and two programmers for ETL (extraction, transformation, loading) development. These roles are crucial in allowing dashboards and automated reports to accurately extract data and information. As the department becomes more technologically advanced and relies on data dashboards for a range of operational needs, the need for supporting these programming roles increases. Based on these needs, the Project Team recommends hiring four additional Programmers and one IS Engineer to support metadata modeling and ETL development. Doing so would also mitigate the risk of loss of institutional knowledge and optimize coverage for this function when the incumbents are unavailable.

IT Technical Support and Services Unit

The Technical Support and Services Unit manages the 24-hour help desk and provides regular ongoing technical support for the entire department. The unit is managed by the IS Project Director and is currently comprised of 9 IT Operations Support Administrators (engineers), one IS Business Analyst, and one Officer.

Technical services include:

- Body worn camera deployment and support
- District station and field support
- Mobile device management
- Training for law enforcement applications
- Supporting Department-wide telecommunications
- E-Citations Support
- Testing applications coming out of build
- Script writing
- Monthly Security patches
- PC Desktop, Laptop, Tablet, Copier-Printer-Scanner, Mobile and Desk phone support
- Applications support – User access, p/w reset

Due to the lack of sufficient staffing and increasing demand from the Department, the unit must rely on four contractors who operate on a full-time basis responding to field work, service requests, and providing front counter support along with BWC devices technical support.

Smart phone accessibility has been a priority for the Department over the last few years. The mobile platform continues to evolve and allows sworn members to have access to data and information while they're in the field. New applications are constantly being developed and added to mobile devices, which is proving to be a great benefit for SFPD members. However, the addition of each application increases the scope of services to support and requests to manage thereby putting additional burden on already resource constraint Technical Support and Services Unit.

Since the Covid-19 pandemic, drastic changes within the Department's work environment have been introduced where members are also working remotely. Supporting this hybrid work environment has required the Department to adopt new technology and systems which has put significant additional demand on the unit. The number of laptops distributed increased exponentially; support for VPN connectivity has increased; requests for troubleshooting VPN/Cisco-related issues increased; the volume of requests for support of new systems/software (e.g., MS Teams, Zoom, Webex, etc.) has increased; and more technology such as speakers and webcams is required.

There are several upcoming high-priority initiatives that will also have a huge impact on the Technical Services and Support Unit. The first major change will be the implementation of the National Incident-

Based Reporting System (NIBRS). The implementation of a new Records Management System (RMS) will require an immense amount of training, guidance, and support to lead the Department through this transition. The new RMS will potentially have various modules and it is anticipated that the entire ecosystem will change with the possibility of moving to a web-based application. The Computer Aided Dispatch (CAD) project with DEM is another initiative that will increase the unit's workload exponentially. This will require changing and standardizing all computers and related components in every patrol car and providing appropriate training and support. This project alone will pull staff away from their current areas of responsibility so additional staff will be needed to support the various initiatives.

The positions within the Technical Support and Services Unit are considered as non-scalable as there are no measures directly related to the work performed. However, based on current staffing and various Department initiatives, the Project Team recommends hiring eleven additional full-time IT Operations Support Administrators (engineers). This would establish a core group of Engineers who could focus on managing their respective technical service areas while also allowing the unit to support new Department priorities. The Department would also no longer need to rely on the four contract employees for support.

New positions recommended:

1093, Permanent – 4 (Body Worn Camera Support Administrators)

BWC devices are an integral part of law enforcement activities and of huge importance for SFPD so much so that there is a dedicated BWC unit that works non-stop managing the entire eco system including interpreting laws and policies that change dramatically and ensuring their proper implementation, adherence, and monitoring.

These four BWC support staff will maintain and provide Tier I and Tier II support for the BWC cameras ecosystem implemented at SFPD.

This includes support for BWC cameras, docking stations, desktop applications and portals, mobile applications such as Axon View and Axon Sync.

Since BWC touches many key components of support and across multiple platforms such as Active Directory, Smart Phone interface, VPN Connectivity, Mobile Application tagging, CAD attribute mapping, SSO (Single Sign-On through ADFS), we require specialized support staff which is well trained in BWC eco system.

As SFPD faces a host of complex challenges with the BWC functionality, these four BWC support staff positions will help officers in training, Bluetooth pairing, BWC dock management and maintenance and integration of other smart devices with body worn cameras (BWCs) in ensuring its proper functioning around the clock.

Body Worn Cameras also present significant data management challenges like data storage, maintaining end to end encryption security for thousands of videos uploaded monthly. These four support staff members will constantly monitor to help ensure the devices are performing as expected and videos offloaded on a timely basis as per department policies.

Having to support a host of issues to keep the department in compliance with the state and federal laws and department policies, puts a significant burden on technical support team and these four BWC support positions will be the backbone support in untangling the complicated knot of issues around body worn cameras.

1093, Permanent – 3 (RMS Support Analysts) - NIBRS

These three analysts will provide critical and applicable interface configurations mapping and support to the 20 various NIBRS modules.

1094, Permanent – 2 (Principal Technical Leads) - NIBRS

There are 20 modules that a user would use and interact within the new NIBRS system and having minimum two leads (Application subject matter experts) is a basic requirement to adequately support an enterprise-wide application of this scale.

1095, Permanent – 2 (IT Technical Support Manager) - NIBRS

The two IT Applications Support Managers will help manage our new critical enterprise-wide systems/ applications such as NIBRS and BWC while serving as technical lead supervisory authority for NIBRS/ BWC's support activities. They will also help upskill the current support staff to better position them for supporting latest technologies and migrating the department to a newer Virtual Desktop Infrastructure (VDI) technology that completely transforms end-user computing (EUC), making it secure and more easily accessible.

Office of Chief of Staff

Overview

The Office of Chief of Staff reports directly to the Chief's Office and consists of six units: Strategic Communications, Policy and Public Affairs Office, Labor Relations Unit, Risk Management Office, the Police Commission Office, and Policy Development Division.

Strategic Communications includes the Media Relations Unit and is responsible for strategizing all external messaging and communications on behalf of the Department.

The Office of Policy and Public Affairs provides direct support to the Chief's Office and serves as a dedicated liaison to the San Francisco Board Supervisors (BOS). The unit is responsible for collaborating with the Police Commission and providing guidance to the Department regarding policy, legislation, and government mandates.

The Labor Relations Unit is responsible for any Department items that fall within the scope of representation. Among other things, this includes collective bargaining and meet-and-confers for general orders and policies.

The Risk Management Office is composed of two divisions: the Legal Division and Internal Affairs Division. Collectively it is the responsibility of the Risk Management Office to ensure that the Department complies with all applicable laws and legal requirements imposed by local, state, and federal mandates.

The Police Commission Office serves as a liaison for the Police Commission and is the point of contact for all Commission matters.

The Policy Development Division is responsible for the Department's policy development process of general orders and policies. These tasks include providing the Department with a suite of policy development services, including researching and drafting policy updates, collaborating with the other units to ensure policy revisions are clear, cohesive, and practical.

Recommended Staffing

The following table provides a staffing overview for the various Divisions within the Office of Chief of Staff. Collectively, the staffing levels for sworn members appear to be appropriate for the current workload amongst the Divisions. However, there is a significant need for civilian staffing to increase the level of administrative and analytical support across the Bureau. A detailed analysis for each Division/unit is provided in the following sections.

Organizational Chart

Office of Chief of Staff

Methodologies Used to Determine Staffing

Staffing for the Office of the Chief of Staff is determined using the following methodologies. Examples are provided below.

Workload-based Methodology

The Project Team conducted analyses on various measures throughout the different Divisions to determine appropriate staffing levels for Officers, Sergeant Investigators, Legal Assistants, and Clerks. Examples of workload measures include the total number of various Public Records Act (PRA) requests, the number of Internal Affairs (IA) investigations, and the number of officer-involved shootings.

Ratio-based Methodology

The Project Team used a ratio-based methodology to determine staffing for positions supporting the Court Liaison Unit. Recommended staffing for sworn and civilian members is scaled to the total number of court dates within the calendar year.

Non-scaling Methodology

Many of the units and roles within the Office of Chief of Staff are specialized and are not scalable to any measures. These positions are unique and staffing levels are determined by Department leaders and key decision makers.

Recommended Staffing by Division and Unit

One of the Department's Assistant Chiefs serves as Chief of Staff and is the link between the Chief of Police and various units within the Department. The Chief of Staff is responsible for the oversight of the Strategic Communications Division (Media Relations Unit), the Policy and Public Affairs Office, the Labor Relations Office, the Risk Management Office, and the Commission Office. The Deputy Chief of the Administration Bureau also reports directly to the Chief of Staff.

The Chief of Staff receives administrative support from one dedicated Executive Secretary. The Secretary's responsibilities include calendar management, tracking of all incoming/outgoing correspondence, preparing documentation/talking points for appearances at specific events, miscellaneous report tracking, and other administrative duties. Both roles are unique and are classified as non-scalable.

Strategic Communications/Media Relations Unit

The Strategic Communications Office is responsible for strategizing all external messaging and communications on behalf of the Department. The Director of Strategic Communications provides oversight to the Media Relations Unit (MRU), which consists of nine sworn and civilian members who act as the point of contact for the various media outlets (print, television, radio, and social media). Members of the unit provide information to the public by responding to media inquiries, compiling information for public records requests, and by creating multimedia content to convey messages from the Department. Unit members are delineated into the following roles:

- A civilian Director oversees Strategic Communications and the MRU
- A Sergeant is the Officer in Charge (OIC) of the Media Relations Unit and acts as the Public Information Officer for the Department
- Four sworn Officers perform Public Information Officer (PIO) duties and respond to media and external inquiries on a regular basis and coordinate public messaging on behalf of the Department
- One civilian Public Information Officer responds to media and external inquiries on a regular basis and coordinates public messaging on behalf of the Department as well as provides administrative support for the office. One Social Media Manager works on messaging for the Department as well as maintains certain aspects of the Department website

- One fulltime Videographer supports the entire Department
- One Clerk provides administrative support to the unit

Recommendations and Considerations

The demand for videographer capabilities has increased significantly in recent years. Social media platforms continue to evolve and there is a greater demand for the unit to produce more video content and explore new avenues with social media. The Covid-19 pandemic has also caused the unit to change their practices and adapt to new social distancing protocols. Many interviews are now conducted remotely and the Chief's Office is receiving an increasing number of requests for various video productions in lieu of invitations for the Chief to speak in person. If an officer-involved shooting (OIS) occurs, the videographer must dedicate several days to the production of video footage in preparation for Town Hall meetings and footage release to the public. With only one videographer on staff to support the entire Department, the MRU has struggled to meet growing demand and requires additional support. Other members have been cross-trained in the basic fundamentals of video editing but lack the proficiency required to produce professional videos/projects. The addition of a Videographer would provide backup and allow the MRU to work on more projects simultaneously for the Department.

Language capability is a huge need for the Media Relations Unit. Bilingual staff would improve communication and build better rapport with non-English speaking communities in San Francisco. However, bilingual resources are currently centralized in the Community Engagement Division and the Department should consider where and under what structure bilingual officers are best utilized in the Department.

All roles within the Media Relations Unit are non-scalable. However, based on the increased demand for video productions, the Project Team recommends the addition of one Videographer (Media Production Technician). The unit also previously had a civilian Website Manager that currently no longer exists. This position is required and plays a significant role in keeping the Department website up to date. The Department should consider consolidating the roles of the Social Media Manager and Website Manager.

In the Controller’s Office’s May 2019 report “Civilianization Progress and Options”, the Controller identified the Media Relations Unit’s Officer positions as potential candidates for civilianization. After reviewing the unit’s staffing structure and duties, the Project Team recommends that MRU maintain its current structure of utilizing sworn Officers as Public Information Officers so that the Department’s media representatives possess the applicable field knowledge and sworn expertise to respond effectively to public and media inquiries.

Policy and Public Affairs Office

The Policy and Public Affairs Office reports directly to the Chief of Staff and is composed of all civilian members. The unit was established in 2019 to serve as a dedicated liaison with the San Francisco Board of Supervisors (BOS). Responsibilities have continued to expand, and other functions include supporting the Chief’s Office, being the Department’s liaison to the Mayor’s Office and the Police Commission, analyzing legislation and government mandates, reviewing Department reports, preparing Command Staff for public hearings/appearances, and contributing to messaging and negotiations during the budget cycle. The unit has established a Community Initiatives & Policy team dedicated to administering the Violence Reduction Initiative (VRI) grant program through 2025.

The primary function of the Policy and Public Affairs Office is acting as a liaison with the legislative bodies of the City & County of San Francisco and articulating the Department’s position on legislations, mandates, and forthcoming policies. The BOS routinely submit proposals for new ordinances and/or make amendments to existing police codes based on priorities of various Supervisors that can directly impact Department operations. The Policy and Public Affairs Office must facilitate the review of proposed ordinances by consulting with Command Staff and the City Attorney to consider all liabilities and policy decisions and impacts. The unit is also responsible for ensuring that the BOS understand the impact of proposed bills and new legislation so that all ordinances are in alignment. Reviewing state legislation and attending committee hearings are essential to understand the impact of amendments and determine if the Department needs to lobby for or against a bill through the Mayor’s Office. The same is true for items considered by the Police Commission. Additionally, the Policy and Public Affairs Office provides strategic support during the Department’s budget submission, including advocacy, preparation, deliberation, and execution of the Department’s budget positions for BOS and Police Commission hearings.

The Community Initiatives & Policy team provides critical VRI grant support and is funded by the Board of State and Community Corrections (BSCC) grant. The civilian team consists of one Manager and three Analysts. Responsibilities include providing on-site technical assistance to the grant partners, tracking program metrics, creating program systems, and providing quarterly and as-needed reporting for the BSCC and Department. The team takes an engaging and collaborative role with community-based and regional partners as well as other City agencies to administer the grant program, including participating in public-facing events. In 2022, the Community Initiatives & Policy team facilitated 50 coordination meetings with grant partners. At the end of Fiscal Year 2023, the team conducted 268 direct communications, enrolled 39 participants, and outreached to 89 unique candidates for supportive services.

Collaboration with the Police Commission occurs routinely to review policies and develop strategic messaging as it relates to legislative priorities. In today's climate, the direction of Department policies is heavily influenced by community input and high-profile incidents that occur often demand immediate action. In response to the George Floyd incident in 2020, the Policy and Public Affairs Office was able to work with the Commission to expedite the Department General Order (DGO) concurrence process to revise the Department's use of force policy (DGO 5.01).

The Policy and Public Affairs Office provides administrative support to the Chief's office and provides consultation to Command Staff prior to any BOS or Police Commission hearings. The unit reviews all shared information and prepares all presentations to ensure that messaging aligns with the Chief's vision and Department priorities. As these positions provide strategic leadership and direct support to Command Staff, they are unique and considered non-scalable in the staffing analysis. However, the Policy and Public Affairs Office currently does not have the bandwidth required to stay up to date with state legislation. The Project Team recommends an additional Analyst to conduct routine review of more than 30 state bills and participate in all committee hearings.

Labor Relations Office

The Labor Relations Office was established in June 2020 and is currently staffed by two civilian members: one Director and one Senior Labor Personnel Analyst. The unit is responsible for collective bargaining, meet and confers for general orders and policies, any Department items that fall within the scope of representation, and the review of all changes and/or implementations related to DOJ recommendations or the Department's Collaborative Reform Initiative (CRI). The unit also provides guidance and recommendations to the Chief of Police and Command Staff when complex issues arise and regularly consults with the Police Commission and Board of Supervisors on labor-related issues.

In August 2021, the Police Commission made the decision that the Department’s Code of Conduct (DGO 2.01) and all Department General Orders (DGOs) must apply to all civilian employees within the Department. This decision has continued to have a great impact on the workload of the Labor Relations Office. Prior to this decision, the Labor Relations Office only worked with the two unions that represent sworn members: San Francisco Police Officers Association (SFPOA) and the San Francisco Municipal Executives Association (SFMEA). Effective September 2021, the Labor Relations Office must now provide an opportunity to meet and confer for the general ordinance with all 10 unions that represent Department employees. In 2021, the Labor Relations Office conducted 11 meet and confers.

In addition to meeting with unions on department general orders, the Labor Relations Office is required to meet with unions to discuss departmental policies that fall within the scope of representation. This includes policies involving new assignments, uniforms, administrative appeals, mandatory overtime, and compensatory time off.

The Labor Relations Office also participated in the bargaining of the Memorandum of Understandings that impacted the development. In the last year, the office has also been working with the Mayor’s Office to utilize Police Services Aide in the department in alignment with their counterparts in other agencies throughout the Bay Area to relieve sworn officers from administrative duties due to staffing shortages. These internal meetings are ongoing, and the Labor Relations Office will need to continue to work with the Department of Human Resources and the unions to discuss the change in working conditions.

The roles within the Labor Relations Office are unique and are not currently scalable to any workload measures. However, based on the Police Commission’s recent approval to include all civilian employees under DGO 2.01, the unit’s workload will increase significantly and requires additional analytical support. The Project Team suggests closely monitoring the unit’s workload and recommends the addition of one Labor Personnel Analyst to provide meet and confers for the additional unions that represent civilian members.

Risk Management Office (RMO)

The Risk Management Office (RMO) is split between the Legal Division and the Internal Affairs Division (Administrative and Criminal). It is the responsibility of Risk Management to ensure that the Department complies with all the applicable laws and legal requirements imposed by local, state, and federal mandates. The two Divisions work collaboratively to monitor the conduct of all Department members to ensure that a high level of integrity is upheld and to mitigate misconduct and/or at-risk behavior. The table below provides an overview of current and recommended staffing in the two Risk Management Divisions. A summary and analysis of each RMO unit are provided in this section.

Current Trends

Senate Bill (SB) 1421 and SB 16 has increased workload significantly for all Risk Management Divisions. SB 1421, effective January 1, 2019, amended the Police Bill of Rights and expands the Public Records Act (PRA) to allow individuals to request documents that were previously able to be withheld by law enforcement agencies. This includes any records relating to incidents where: (1) an officer discharges a firearm at an individual; (2) an officer's use of force results in death or great bodily injury; (3) a sustained finding that an officer engaged in sexual assault involving a member of the public; and (4) a sustained finding that an officer was dishonest during the investigations, reporting, or prosecution of a crime.

Senate Bill (SB) 16, approved by the Governor of California on September 30, 2021, SB-16 expands the categories of disclosure previously defined by SB-1421 under the California Public Records Act. First it expands use of force disclosures to include sustained findings involving all use of force that is unreasonable or excessive. This bill also allows for release of sustained findings of unlawful searches/arrests and all records that show racist or discriminatory conduct by a member. SB-16 also expands the type of administrative investigations subject to disclosure and expands the definition of sustained cases which will require revisiting previously reviewed cases. SB-16 has the potential to produce 18,000 backdated/historical cases, in addition to 1,000+ new cases per year.

Staffing levels have not been adjusted to meet the demand of additional work created through DOJ recommendations and other PRA policy changes/requirements. Ongoing staffing shortages coupled with increased responsibilities has created backlog that will remain for some time. This has caused delays in service from various units and has made it difficult for Risk Management units to respond to requests within customary time frames without impinging on the ability to perform other duties. DOJ recommendations and legislation have had the greatest impact on Department policies. Various processes now require additional steps and have become more time-consuming.

RMO – Legal Division

The Legal Division is responsible for ensuring that the Department complies with all applicable laws and legal requirements imposed by local, state, and federal mandates. The Division also monitors litigation in which the Department, its members, or the Chief is named and works with the City Attorney’s Office on civil litigation matters. The Legal Division consists of five sub-units that are described below.

Legal Unit

The Legal Unit provides support and guidance to Department members and also handles the majority of requests made by the public and other City agencies under the CA Public Records Act (PRA) and Sunshine Ordinance. The process of fulfilling a PRA request begins when it is received. A legal assistant is assigned to the request and subsequently enters it into an information management system to monitor and track the Department’s progress in completing the request. Through the same system, the Legal Unit acknowledges that the request was received and provides a response within 10 days. The Department is also able to file for a 14-day extension if additional time is warranted.

While PRA requests are not new to the Department, they have increased in both activity and, in many cases, complexity given the emergence of body-worn cameras and the passing of SB-1421 and SB-16. Requests vary extensively, ranging from narrow focuses that may only require a few hours to fulfill, to a vast and complicated request that requires significant research and legal analysis with contributions from multiple Divisions/units. Due to this variance, these positions are considered non-scalable in this staffing analysis. However, in 2021, the Legal Unit received 1,026 PRA requests and that number increased by 41% in 2022. The Project Team recommends that the Legal Unit have four Legal Assistants and one Management Assistant to support the growing demands of fulfilling PRA requests.

Early Intervention System (EIS) Unit

The EIS Unit operates an early warning intervention program that aims to ensure member accountability and increase performance. EIS is an information management system that monitors the conduct of all sworn members and creates alerts for members who show patterns of at-risk behavior. If alerts are triggered, the EIS Unit will notify the District Stations and work with supervisors to coordinate interventions/trainings.

The methodology for determining staffing for the EIS sergeant is workload-based, assigning an estimated amount of time to review an alert and determine if an intervention is required. In 2022, there were 2,119 alerts generated by the EIS. There was a large influx of EIS alerts from April to December 2022 during which Department General Order 5.01 was changed to include drawing and exhibiting a firearm as a reportable use of force. The estimated time per alert is calculated from a base of 60 minutes to complete a comprehensive analysis of the alert and officer history, plus an additional average of 30 minutes to close the alert and/or initiate follow-up. In total, each alert represents 90 minutes of workload.

Overall, at over 900 hours, EIS-related workload (including all follow-up and intervention coordination) warrants the full-time Sergeant position. In addition to conducting EIS work, the Sergeant also serves as the Officer in Charge (OIC) of the unit. The Senior Administrative Analysts assigned to EIS are set as non-scalable support to the Sergeant. They play a valuable role in analyzing data, developing reports, and focusing on use of force incidents. Civilianization of the Sergeant position is not recommended, as law enforcement experience greatly aids in understanding the full context of each situation and the personnel record of the individual for whom an alert has been generated.

Court Liaison Unit

The Court Liaison Unit has several sub-units and is responsible for the administrative processing of subpoenas, front counter interactions with the public, scheduling and payroll, and record keeping. The unit also provides legal counsel regarding subpoenas and various court issues and acts as a liaison between the Department and the SF City Attorney, SF Superior Court, SF District Attorney, and SF Public Defender.

Unit staffing has decreased over the years due to retirement and reassignment which has resulted in staff performing the duties of multiple positions. In June 2020, the unit's payroll clerk retired and this position has remained vacant. This role is essential to the unit as the member was responsible for processing and approving court-related overtime for the entire Department in a timely manner. The unit is also staffed with only one paralegal who is performing the duties of two distinct positions. Their primary responsibility is to act as the Department's Custodian of Record in responding to criminal records subpoenas. However, this member has also been taking on the duties of responding to civil records subpoenas which should be covered by a second paralegal position.

Although staffing levels have been insufficient for a number of years, the unit's workload has increased simultaneously causing backlog and delays in timely subpoena service. Prior to the COVID-19 pandemic, the volume of defense and civil subpoenas had increased at an alarming rate. With only a single clerk to manage front counter secretarial duties as well as all Department witness subpoenas, served subpoenas often do not arrive until well after the court date, if at all. Approximately less than 25% of all subpoenas sent for service are returned.

The courts also recently added a fifth day (Friday) to the weekly calendar which has increased the number of monthly traffic hearings by 25%, from 640 to 800. Criminal records subpoenas have not increased in volume but have begun to include subpoenas from the Grand Jury which are extremely time consuming. The scope and frequency is expected to increase over time and continue with the passing of SB-16 and the growing attention to cases involving officer use of force.

Many of the functions performed by the Court Liaison Unit are manual processes that involve the over-processing of documents. For example, the Traffic Subpoenas subunit is tasked with daily printing of Department-wide e-citations and is required to physically deliver them to various offices. The unit could work more efficiently and streamline their processes if automated systems were put in place.

Given that the unit's scope of work continues to evolve and increase in volume, specifically the number of court hearings, a ratio-based methodology was used to assess the appropriate staffing levels of the unit for sworn and civilian members who share responsibilities. The ratio-based methodology recommends the addition of one sworn Officer, one legal clerk, and two civilian clerical positions. However, it appears that the Court Liaison Unit could benefit from civilianizing the additional sworn position to provide additional administrative support. Therefore, the Project Team recommends the addition of one paralegal to support the unit's legal counsel, and three clerical roles to support work with traffic subpoenas, records subpoenas, and witness subpoenas. Adding these roles will enable the unit to process all subpoenas in timely manner.

Body Worn Camera (BWC) Unit

The Body Worn Camera Unit is responsible for retrieving, editing, redacting, and processing audio and video footage for requesting parties. Requestors include the general public, media, the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU), the Department of Police Accountability (DPA), the SF Public Defender's Office, traffic courts, and various City agencies. Requests vary considerably in their scope, ranging from pulling one narrowly defined video to numerous videos over a period of time. A Sergeant supervises the BWC Unit; however, a Lieutenant oversees both the BWC Unit and the SB-1421/SB-16 unit.

The workload required to fulfill a request also depends on the party requesting video, as the standards and specifications needed for redactions and edits vary considerably. A video released to the public, for instance, will be far more heavily redacted than a video released to the Department of Police Accountability (DPA). Requests made by other agencies, for instance, typically involve pulling far more videos, resulting in longer processing times. However, the most significant factor in determining workload is the number and length of videos requested. The industry standard for redaction is 6-9 times the amount of the recording being reviewed, based on technological tools and resources available. This does not account for the time spent locating videos, preparing letters, and completing other administrative tasks associated with the process.

A single Lieutenant oversees the BWC and SB-1421/SB-16 units with two Sergeants serving as the direct supervisor of each unit. The Officer assigned to the BWC Unit shares some responsibilities with the Legal Assistants. However, there is some role delineation where the civilian members focus on redacting videos, while the Officer spends the majority of their time locating and reviewing videos being sent to other law enforcement agencies for prosecution.

The Body Worn Camera Unit does not have the bandwidth to meet the growing demand for audio/video requests. With current staffing levels, the BWC Unit is only able to process approximately 50,000 minutes of video per year without employing overtime. The current demand is more than 100,000 minutes per year. In 2022, the unit allocated a significant amount of overtime and was able to respond to 519 requests and produce 200,118 minutes of redacted audio/video. Using the industry standard of redaction taking 6-9 times the amount of recorded footage reviewed as noted above, this corresponds to approximately 28,350 hours spent on audio/video redaction<sup>5</sup>. A huge backlog remains which has resulted in the unit's inability to meet deadlines for requests from various requestors and City agencies such as DPA. On average, the unit typically has 75,000 - 80,000 minutes of audio/video backlog that has been requested and is awaiting processing. The volume of visual and audio recordings created each day continues to increase and the Department must now retain and document more body worn camera footage than previously required. This is due to SB-1421, SB-16, and other mandates.

One of the primary obstacles in performing video and audio redactions are the tools associated with the Department's current software. Some videos could potentially be outsourced for redaction but before release of any video for anything other than criminal prosecutions and investigations, state law requires the redaction of any CORI/CLETS information captured. This information is primarily captured on computer screens, printouts, and audio transmissions. Videos processed by an outside vendor would need to be processed for CLETS redactions prior to sending out and would need to be reviewed by staff prior to public release. Outsourcing this work would also require approval by the Civil Service Commission and notification to Local 21. Hiring provisional or temporary employees to clear the backlog would not be cost effective based on office space limitations and the training and time needed to gain competency and purchase additional equipment.

The Department's current redaction software has many shortcomings. The object tracking is inconsistent, and results in employees having to apply manual redactions throughout. The software does not provide a tracking log for redactions applied to video or audio, requiring notes of redactions to be made during the process, further compounding the length of time required to process video. More robust software suites have features such as masks automatically applied to computer screens and transcription that allows the user to easily locate and redact required CLETS audio as well as provide automated redaction audit trails. These features would greatly enhance the efficiency of the redaction workflow.

Using established workload-based methodologies, the Project Team recommends the addition of four Legal Assistants and one Officer to the Body Worn Camera Unit. Increased staffing levels will allow the unit to keep pace with the increasing demand for audio/video requests while decreasing overtime utilization. Additional work has been generated from the passing of SB-16.

Senate Bill (SB) 1421 and SB-16 Unit

The SB-1421/SB-16 Unit manages the disclosure of all records connected to officer-involved shootings (OIS), use of force resulting in great bodily injury, and cases of dishonesty and/or sexual assault by a Department member. The Department has received a number of requests for previously confidential peace officer records made public because of the passage of SB-1421 and SB-16. Despite the Department's best efforts to respond promptly, a backlog has quickly developed and will remain for some time.

Responding to each request is extremely time-consuming and involves many hours of research, analysis, and redaction. The Department has received general requests for disclosure of all records in all categories and requests by specific incidents and by specific officers. This requires a robust tracking and cross-tracking of all of the sub-requests contained within single requests as well as overall request tracking. The SB-1421/SB-16 Unit collaborates with other units within the Legal Division to provide responses in the form of acknowledgement of receipt, extension of time, clearance letters for non-responsive category requests for specific officers, and productions of responsive documents.

SB-16 expanded the categories of disclosure previously defined by SB-1421 under the California Public Records Act. First it expanded use of force disclosures to include sustained findings involving all use of force that is unreasonable or excessive. This bill also allows for release of sustained findings of unlawful searches/arrests and all records that show racist or discriminatory conduct by a member. The bill also expands the type of administrative investigations that are subject to disclosure and expands the definition of sustained cases which will require revisiting previously reviewed cases. The passing of SB-16 has led to the potential production of 18,000 backdated/historical cases (does not include paper files) and an additional 1,000+ new cases per year.

Responding to SB-1421 and SB-16 requests has proven to be challenging and extremely time consuming and the Department has not been able to respond within customary time frames. The Department began using an electronic tracking system (AIMS) to capture use of force incidents in 2006. However, the entries only indicate that a reportable use of force had occurred and did not track the type(s) of force used or whether great bodily injury occurred. Records created from 2016 to present indicate the type of force used, but the Department has only recently begun to track great bodily injury. Injury is not always apparent at the initial use of force and may become apparent later; this information may not be available in the form of a police report. Risk Management Divisions do not have electronic entries sufficient to determine the eligibility of a record for disclosure without reviewing the physical file for most cases.

Each case contains multiple line items that must be evaluated. Additional documents exist that must be evaluated by reviewing paper files. Locating and preparing documents for review for determination is a lengthy process which requires checking multiple electronic platforms, ordering physical files from offsite, and documenting each step for tracking purposes. Thousands of new records are generated yearly. These numbers do not include the time required to craft correspondence, update internal tracking, generate monthly reports, and review applicable laws and like requests and responses. In 2021, the SB-1421/SB-16 Unit received 92 PRA requests, which resulted in 1,622 releases/responses and more than 10,770 pages released. In 2022, the unit received 31 PRA requests, which resulted in 3,240 releases/responses and more than 17,790 pages released.

Eleven civilian positions were funded to provide support to the SB-1421/SB-16 Unit: one Attorney, one Senior Legal Processing Clerk, and nine Legal Assistants. The positions were initially approved as temporary positions but were recently converted to permanent as the requirements for SB-1421 will remain in place and have been expanded with the passing of SB-16. The unit holds funding for those positions and has resumed the hiring process to fill the vacant positions.

Using established workload-based methodologies, the Project Team recommends the addition of five Legal Assistants and one Legal Clerk to support the SB-1421/SB-16 Unit. Additional members will allow the unit to decrease their amount of backlog and enable them to provide responses in a timely manner. Like the Body Worn Camera Unit, current workload has increased drastically due to the additional work that has been generated from the passing of SB-16. Moving forward and for future analysis, the unit's workload should be monitored closely to better measure/assess the impact of Senate Bill 16.

RMO – Internal Affairs (IA) Division

The Internal Affairs (IA) Division is directed by a Lieutenant and comprised of three units: Internal Affairs Administrative Investigations Unit, Officer-involved Shooting (OIS) Unit, and Brady Unit. The Investigative Services Detail (ISD) is also organized within IA but focuses primarily on criminal investigations and is led by a Lieutenant. The single person Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Office is also organized within IA. The table below provides a staffing overview of the Internal Affairs Division and an analysis of each unit is provided in this section.

IA – Administrative Investigations (Non-OIS)

The primary responsibility of the Internal Affairs (IA) Administrative Investigations Unit is to investigate allegations of policy violations brought against Department members. Unlike criminal investigations, the subject(s) of an administrative investigation is generally known and interviews are scheduled and conducted in accordance with Public Safety Officers Procedural Bill of Rights Act (POBRA) and collective bargaining agreement protocols. A union representative is present during interviews and subjects are required to provide responses to questions relating to the alleged policy violations. Once an investigation is complete, a determination of the finding is conducted internally along with any proposed discipline that may be warranted. The discipline component is intended to be corrective so that such behaviors do not occur again; however, it is essential that this unit is staffed adequately so that investigations are comprehensive and corrective measures can be implemented as soon as possible.

The IA Administrative Unit is composed of seven Sergeant Investigators, one Attorney, and one Senior Clerk (both of whom work with all units in the Division). Staffing for the Investigators and Attorneys assigned to the unit are determined through a workload-based methodology, the structure of which mirrors the calculation process that is used for investigative units. As with many units in the Investigations Bureau, staff assigned to Internal Affairs are case-driven, following a process in which working a case entails case assignment, information retrieval and witness identification, interviews, and concluding with written investigative findings.

Workload for the IA Administrative Unit has increased as a result of the recommendations made by the US Department of Justice (DOJ) in its 2016 assessment. Through the Department’s Collaborative Reform Initiative (CRI), many of the Department’s policies changed which has created additional steps and made processes more time consuming. The unit is required to generate routine reports and complete trainings on a quarterly/annual basis. Its day-to-day responsibilities have also increased as Investigators now follow additional protocols, including regular monthly follow ups with complainants and additional documentation ensuring “closure.”

The methodology for determining staffing for IA Investigators is workload-based, assigning an estimated amount of time to review and complete administrative investigations (non-OIS). In 2021, there were 170 administrative investigations completed by IA. In 2022, there were 171 administrative investigations. There were also Covid-19 pandemic-related cases that affected the workload of the IA Administrative Unit. During the pandemic, the City required that employees obtain the Covid-19 vaccine and report the vaccination status to the City. The IA Administrative Unit was tasked with significantly more workload due to the Covid-19 mandate where they investigated 200 Covid-19 cases in 2021 and 32 cases in 2022. The estimated time required to complete a comprehensive investigation is approximately 30 hours. Using this workload-based methodology, the Project Team does not recommend any changes to the number of administrative Investigators.

A workload-based methodology is also used to determine Attorney assignments. However, since this position provides support to the entire IA Division (OIS and Non-OIS), the cases are categorized differently. There are minor cases which are considered “Chief’s Level Investigations” and major cases which are “Commission Level Investigations.” From the Attorney perspective, these cases are categorized based on the level of discipline sought rather than the underlying type of misconduct. For example, an OIS case could be considered a Chief’s Level Investigation and result in written reprimand, or it could be more severe and considered a Commission Level Investigation and result in termination. Determining whether a case is minor or major also drastically changes the amount of work that goes into the investigation. In 2021, the IA Division completed 160 Chief’s Level (minor) Investigations and 12 Commission Level (major) Investigations. In 2022, the number of Chief’s Level Investigations increased to 282 and Commission Level Investigations remained at 12. Chief’s Level investigations are estimated to take 35 hours to complete, while Commission Level investigations take approximately 140 hours. In IA Administrative Investigations, some of this workload is also distributed amongst the Sergeant Investigators, who provide assistance to the Attorneys in the cases described above. Using this workload-based approach, the Project Team recommends the addition of one Attorney to provide additional legal support to the entire Internal Affairs Division.

Special Covered Incidents Unit

Previously, the Internal Affairs Division assigned Sergeant Investigators directly to investigate and review special covered incidents such as officer-involved shootings (OIS), in-custody deaths, and use of force cases with great bodily injury. However, due to staffing resources and shortages, there are no Sergeants dedicated to this team and the workload is shared amongst the Sergeants assigned to general administrative investigators. Their work investigating these incidents entail reviewing all documents and investigative materials from an officer-involved shooting; investigative work itself is conducted by Investigative Services Detail and District Attorney’s office. Reviews focus on policy, training, and supervision are used to determine whether the use of force falls within policy and training. Unlike general investigations, reviews do not require new investigations or interviews, but rely on investigations that are already completed. An OIS review can be started before other investigations are complete, but cannot be concluded until all other processes have been completed.

The prior staffing report used a workload-based methodology with the 10-year average for OIS incidents as the primary metric. Since 2013, officer-involved shootings have decreased by 50%. This workload-based approach uses 2022 data, during which five OIS incidents occurred, each incident requiring approximately 800 hours of investigative time. There are currently no Investigators assigned to the Special Covered Incidents Unit. However, this methodology shows that only two Investigators are required given the number of cases and the time per case.

Brady Unit

The Brady Unit is comprised of one Attorney and two Legal Assistants. Upon request, it is the unit's primary responsibility is to review conduct that calls into question the integrity of a member of the Department. Requests are most often received from the SF District Attorney's Trial Integrity Unit. The unit responded to 48 requests for Brady material in 2021 and 55 requests in 2022.

The Brady Unit has taken on additional responsibilities pertaining to State Bill (SB) 2 compliance. The stated intent for SB 2 is to increase accountability for misconduct by peace officers. SB 2 requires law enforcement agencies to employ as peace officers only those individuals who hold a current and valid Basic certificate from the Commission on Peace Officer Standards and Training (POST), except for provisional employment for up to 24 months of individuals awaiting certification. It also requires POST to revoke certification when an individual has become ineligible to hold office as a peace officer under Government Code section 1029, or when an individual has been terminated for cause for, or otherwise engaged in, "serious misconduct". Beginning on January 1, 2023, SB 2 will require all agencies that employ peace officers to begin submitting reports to POST any time one of the following occurs:

- The agency employs, appoints, terminates, or separates from employment any peace officer, including involuntary terminations, resignations, and retirements.
- A complaint, charge, or allegation of conduct is made against a peace officer employed by the agency that could result in decertification.
- A civilian oversight entity or review board, civilian police commission, police chief, or civilian inspector general makes a finding or recommendation that a peace officer employed by the agency engaged in conduct that could result in decertification.
- The final disposition of an investigation determines that a peace officer engaged in conduct that could result in decertification, regardless of the discipline imposed (if any).
- A civil judgment or court finding is made against a peace officer based on conduct that could result in decertification, or a settlement is reached in civil case against a peace officer or the employing agency based on allegations of officer conduct that could result in decertification.

Although the reporting requirement does not begin until January 2023, it does apply to events that occurred before January 2023. SB 2 specifically requires agencies to report any instance of a listed event that took place between January 1, 2020, and January 1, 2023.

The Brady Unit has been tasked with all SB 2 compliance as it relates to reporting responsive misconduct allegations and cases to POST. Workload includes identifying cases, preparing and providing investigative material (1-5 hours per investigation depending on the amount of investigative material), BWC review and redactions, and completing related tasks assigned by POST. To date, 146 allegations and cases have been reported to POST. Prior to being assigned additional SB 2 work, the Brady Unit already had a full-time assignment in identifying Brady material and litigating Brady motions. Since being assigned SB 2 compliance, the Brady Unit has been provided with one additional Legal Assistant.

Due to extensive variation in the workload involved in handling a Brady request and SB 2 compliance, it is not feasible to construct an overall average. Moreover, the number of miscellaneous tasks associated with the role would require a very high generalized administrative time figure. As a result of these considerations and due to the unique role of the Brady Unit, the Attorney and Legal Assistant positions have been set as unique/non-scalable. The Brady Unit should be monitored for backlogs and processing delays in the future, as these may indicate that staffing levels should be reexamined.

Equal Employment Opportunity (EEO) Office

The Equal Employment Opportunity Office investigates Equal Employment Opportunity complaints for referral to the Human Resources Department; work is conducted by a single Inspector (Sergeant rank equivalent). Based on data previously reported by the Department, the EEO Office handled 60 cases in 2021 and was able to close 24. In 2022, the EEO Office handled 76 cases and closed 29 cases. Turnaround times for case reviews are unavailable to estimate staffing capacity so this position has been classified as non-scalable for this assessment. Workload and turnaround time should be tracked and monitored for use in future analyses.

Investigative Services Detail (ISD) – Criminal Investigations

The primary responsibility of Investigative Services Detail is to conduct investigations of alleged criminal misconduct by Department members within the City and County of San Francisco. The unit frequently receives allegations from the Department of Police Accountability, various Department memos, and through referrals from the Internal Affairs Administrative Investigations Unit. Such cases have potential to be very high-profile so the unit needs to be extremely thorough when conducting investigations.

ISD investigations are different than criminal cases in that the subject of the investigation is generally known, interviews are scheduled in advance and are conducted in accordance with the union collective bargaining agreement (CBA), and there is typically counsel present. Officers cannot be compelled to make statements that could be used against them in a criminal proceeding and therefore the subject of the investigation is not required to answer questions. If statements are compelled, they cannot be used outside of internal discipline. Once an investigation is complete, it is forwarded for a determination of prosecution.

In 2019, a new MOU was created with the SF District Attorney’s Office that defined “covered incidents” that would fall under the responsibility of the Investigative Services Detail. Most notably, these “covered incidents” included officer-involved shootings and in custody deaths. Prior to 2019, OIS were the responsibility of the Homicide Unit. With the new MOU, if an OIS occurs, ISD would be responsible for investigating the ancillary crime while the District Attorney would investigate the OIS. Officer-involved shootings take priority over all other investigations and the unit devotes one hundred percent of their time for a minimum of four to six days following an OIS. Tasks include collaborating with the DA and collecting all pertinent information to present to Command Staff in preparation for Community Town Hall Meetings, which must occur within ten days of the incident.

With the new MOU, the Investigative Services Detail has taken on more responsibilities. Simultaneously, the unit’s staffing level has decreased as they have lost two Investigators since 2019 and one Officer since April 2023. A workload-based methodology is used in determining the staffing levels for both Investigators and Officers. In 2022, the unit conducted 36 criminal investigations, each requiring approximately 300 hours of investigative time from the Sergeant Investigators and approximately 50 hours of administrative support that is currently spread amongst the four Sergeants. Since there is no Officer or clerical support at this time, the Sergeants are tasked with fulfilling additional support work, including filing records and case files, payroll management, and supply ordering. Using this workload-based approach, the Project Team recommends an additional civilian position to be added.

Policy Development Division

The Policy Development Division was established in May 2023 and task with providing the department with a suite of policy development services, including research and drafting policy updates, collaborating with the Academy Training Division, Operations Bureaus, Risk Management, Policy and Public Affairs and other units to ensure policy revisions are clear, cohesive, and practical. The Division ensures policy discussions and agreements between the Department, the Department of Police Accountability (DPA) and any other stakeholder are received, tracked, or responded to in a transparent and consistent way. The division is overseen by a Captain and a manager who reports directly to the Assistant Chief of the Chief of Staff. The division is comprised of three units: the Written Directives Unit (formerly under the Professional Standards and Principled Policing Unit in the Strategic Management Bureau), the Policy and Community Working Group Management Unit, and the Policy Development Unit.

Written Directives Unit

The Written Directives Unit is responsible for coordinating Department-wide policy reviews and disseminating all orders to the Department (e.g., Department General Orders, Department Bulletins, Department Notices). The unit is currently managed by a Sergeant with support from one Officer and one Management Assistant. Functionally, the unit provides administrative support and facilitates the concurrence process, which includes reviews by the Chief of Police and members of the Command Staff. The unit also devotes a significant amount of time to drafting and editing policy content for subject matter experts (SMEs).

The Written Directives Unit also works on pulling Department policies for the Legal Division for PRA requests, and fulfilling requests for the City Attorney's Office, Department of Police Accountability (DPA), and other stakeholders. From August 2019 through September 2020, team members spent a majority of their time procuring PowerDMS, a policy management software, for the Department.

The table below represents the number of policies, manuals, and orders that were worked on by the Written Directives Unit and issued by the Department. Although the unit can quantify these measures, it does not reflect their other duties and responsibilities, nor their work performed for those policies/orders that were not issued by the Department. The unit's work relies heavily on contributions from other stakeholders, which is why there are no measures directly related to workload. These positions are non-scalable for this staffing analysis.

* Please note the #s above do not include policies that were not issued by the Department

The Written Directives Unit faces many challenges with the Department's concurrence process. There are many stakeholders and subject matter experts (SMEs) involved from other Bureaus/units, making it very difficult to facilitate the process and meet deadlines. This process could be more efficient if it were centralized within one unit. As recommended by CalDOJ, the Department is currently looking into creating a Policy Team that would be composed of a dedicated group of report writers and policy experts. This team's primary responsibility would be researching and drafting all policies for the Department.

If the Written Directives Unit was adequately staffed with a mix of sworn members and Analysts (policy writers), the unit could own and streamline the concurrence process. Current unit members would continue to handle the administrative side, and a policy development sub-unit would be responsible for developing drafts, managing workgroups, communicating with SMEs, providing DGO updates to Deputy Chiefs as necessary, facilitating discussions with the Department of Police Accountability (DPA), and finalizing documents. The Chief of Police also has special policies that require best practices research, including analyzing other jurisdictions and their policies to determine how and if the Department may be able to adopt some of these identified practices. Analysts could also help draft/propose policies that the Chief and Command Staff could further develop.

Based on these needs and the Department's intent to form a Policy Team, the Project Team recommends the addition of one Officer and three Senior Administrative Analysts who are dedicated to policy development. Implementing such changes within the Written Directives Unit would also create an opportunity for the Department to utilize sworn members who are on Temporary Modified Duty (TMD) to contribute to policy development with their field expertise. The Department should monitor workload and Policy Team roles and responsibilities to assess staffing needs ongoing as the unit develops.

Policy and Community Working Group Management Unit

The Policy and Community Working Group Management Unit convenes as part of the Department General Order (DGO) review process to gain a balance perspective from internal and external stakeholders before updating Department policies. Upon input from DPA and the Chief of Police, the unit establishes working group protocols, applicable codes of conduct, and provides guidance on selecting working group participants.

The unit was established in July 2022 under the revised DGO 3.01 for Department Written Directives. At this time, there is insufficient data to compute a proper workload-based staffing methodology and the positions in this unit will be considered non-scalable for this report.

Policy Development Unit

The Policy Development Unit is responsible for rev, in accordance with a tiered system. General Orders will be designated as follows:

- “Tier 1” are high priority and shall be reviewed annually and updated as necessary.
- “Tier 2” are medium priority and shall be reviewed every three years and updated as necessary.
- “Tier 3” are lowest priority and shall be reviewed every five years and updated as necessary.

In the General Order development process, the Chief of Police notifies the unit of a new DGO or a DGO amendment. The unit will assign an SME and determine the development timeline, typically not to exceed ninety (90) business days. The SME and the unit will work various stakeholders to initiate the drafting of the DGO or amendment by incorporating existing Department Bulletins/Notices, local, state, or federal law changes, community needs, accepted DPA recommendations, and Department identified policy goals, as appropriate and through research of other law enforcement agency best practices. Upon completing the draft DGO, the unit will work with DPA and/or the Police Commission to incorporate policy recommendations into the revision, as needed. Prior to submitting the draft policy for concurrence, the draft policy will be posted on the Department’s website to provide members of the public and Department members thirty (30) business days to submit recommendations. The unit is responsible for capturing and consolidating all substantive edits in the concurrence process before the final draft DGO is submitted to the Police Commission for approval.

Police Commission Office

The Police Commission Office acts as a liaison between the Department and the Police Commission and reports directly to both the Chief of Staff as well as the President of the Police Commission. A sworn Commission Secretary (Sergeant) provides oversight and conducts duties such as handling discipline matters and reviewing policies. Other responsibilities include working on DOJ recommendations and reform initiatives, responding to PRA requests received by the Police Commission specifically, attending meetings on behalf of the Commission, coordinating weekly agendas with the Commission President, contributing to policy reviews/amendments, participating in workgroup meetings, and collaboration with the City Attorney's Office on discipline cases and other Commission matters.

There are no workload measures to determine staffing for the Police Commission Office and thus the positions are classified as non-scalable. Current staffing levels are adequate; however, it is recommended to closely monitor the number of PRA requests generated by SB-1421 and SB-16.

Chief's Office

Overview

Members in the Chief's Office provide high-level administrative support for the Chief of Police in managing the oversight of the Department and its operations. The Chief's Office is currently comprised of three full-time positions and several part-time retirees. The Sworn Detail includes one Sergeant and one Officer who share responsibilities for oversight of the office. They triage, refer, and elevate points of contact to the Chief as appropriate. This includes fielding phone calls, emails, and in-person contact directed at the Chief in the office as well as in public spaces. The Sworn Detail also acts as an escort detail for the Chief, which includes driving the Chief to events and providing general security. The Chief also has an Executive Assistant who manages scheduling, emails to the Chief, and other administrative support assignments and special projects. The Chief's Office also includes a newly established Constitutional Policing Unit with one Director, one Sergeant, and one Professional Staff assigned to provide legal advice and strategic guidance on constitutional policing for the Department. Workload for these positions is not captured through specific measures and therefore these positions have been classified as non-scalable.

Staffing within the Chief's Office has decreased in recent years due to promotions and other Department staffing priorities. In recent years, the Chief's Sworn Detail alone included one Sergeant and four Officers. Previously there were also two Managers who were responsible for managing and coordinating oversight for special projects assigned by the Chief. These two positions are now assigned to the Policy and Public Affairs Office; they support policy work for the Chief under the direction of the Director of Policy and Public Affairs.

Chief's Office

Although positions within the Chief's Office are non-scalable, there is a need for additional clerical support to assist with various administrative tasks such as payroll and processing Captain's compliments. The Project Team recommends the addition of one civilian Clerk to meet demands the Chief's Office.

Constitutional Policing

The Constitutional Policing Unit provides policy advice to the Chief of Police and Department staff on strategies to support effective, constitutional policing through identifying areas of improvement, policy development, and facilitation of Department training and policing strategies. The unit is comprised of an attorney who serves as the Director of Constitutional Policing and is supported by a sergeant and professional staff.

Unit responsibilities include policy development and legal advice for topics such as First and Fourth Amendment, use of force, bias, and criminal procedure. The Director of Constitutional Policing will be responsible for strategic guidance such as reviewing and advising the Chief of Police on Internal Affairs investigations involving the First and Fourth Amendment, providing policy advice concerning the adjudication of Officer-Involved Shootings and other covered incidents, and facilitating the development of Department policies and procedures. The Director will also help draft/revise new and existing constitutional policing-related policies as needed (e.g., Department General Orders, Department Notices, Bureau and Unit Orders, Roll-Call Trainings). In 2022, there were 14 Department General Orders and 2 Bureau Orders that necessitated extensive guidance related to these constitutional policing topics.

One Sergeant will provide support to the Director of Constitutional Policing and work closely with Investigations and Field Operations Bureaus to identify areas where additional guidance and training is needed. The Sergeant will also design and implement internal trainings related to the Fourth Amendment and will conduct legal and policy research on projects as assigned. The Professional Staff will support the unit by providing high-level administrative support such as tracking project completion and deadlines and providing regular updates to Command Staff members and impacted stakeholders. The Professional Staff will also assist with internal and external correspondence, track criminal law related cases from state and federal courts, track new state and federal legislation that may impact the Department, and conduct legal and policy research on projects as assigned. Given the varying nature of the workload and the recency of its establishment, staffing for this unit is determined using the non-scaling methodology.

Discussion of Non-Police Response

Project Overview

The City and County of San Francisco has implemented various strategies to promote alternatives to policing such as using the Street Crisis Response Team (SCRT) to address specific mental health-related calls and reassigning specific Priority C call types from the Police Department to other City agencies.

The San Francisco Police Department has engaged with the City Performance Unit of the Controller's Office to initiate a joint project to determine 1) the ongoing SFPD workload related to 800-B calls as SCRT continues to develop, and 2) to assess if and how other City agencies may be able to handle workload currently attributed to SFPD for specific Priority C calls in areas such as homelessness, mental health, substance use, and traffic enforcement.

Street Crisis Response Team (SCRT)

In December 2019, the City and County of San Francisco enacted legislation to establish Mental Health SF, a program that provides access to mental health, substance abuse, and psychiatric care services to homeless and uninsured San Franciscans. In November 2020, the City launched the first phase of San Francisco's Street Crisis Response Team (SCRT) pilot program. The goal of SCRT is to provide rapid, trauma-informed response to calls for service for people experiencing crisis in public spaces; to reduce the frequency of police responses to non-violent, non-criminal, behavioral health-related calls; and to reduce unnecessary emergency room occupancy. The first SCRT team began responding to calls on November 30, 2020, with a focus in the Tenderloin. Following data analysis and impact reports, SCRT expanded to six fully operational teams that provide services in areas impacted by severe behavioral health conditions in San Francisco.

Each SCRT team has a community paramedic from SF Fire Department, a behavioral health clinician from HealthRIGHT 360, a peer specialist from Richmond Area Multi-Services (RAMS), and a care staff dedicated to linkages and follow up support services. The first two teams launched and subsequently provided coverage seven days a week for 12 hours each day. Following the implementation of the additional four teams, coverage expanded to 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, with each team focusing on different areas of San Francisco.

SCRT teams respond to 911 calls that are designated as "800-B" – those calls whose code indicates a classification of mentally disturbed person and whose priority level indicates an active incident that is not a threat to public safety. SCRT teams can also respond to "on view" cases in which they encounter a person in crisis within their designated neighborhoods or receive a notification from another City agency.

The Department has worked collaboratively with partners to ensure a successful transition of calls to SCRT. As SCRT builds capacity, the Department is still co-responding to several calls or responding entirely when SCRT teams are limited or fully occupied. In 2020, SFPD responded to approximately 652,622 calls for service. Of those, 20,950 calls were mental health-related (e.g., 800-B mentally disturbed person and 801 person attempting suicide) and 28,628 check on well-being (code 910) calls for service for a total of 49,578 mental health-related incidents. Similarly in 2022, SFPD responded to approximately 50,125 total mental health-related calls for service (code 800-B, 801, 910). Available data indicates that SFPD still responds to a large number of mental health-related calls for service even after the implementation of SCRT. The Department looks forward to ongoing evaluation and transfer of calls to SCRT.

Understanding the complexities of mental health issues, substance abuse issues, and homelessness, the City has supported the development and proposals of other groups, such as the Compassionate Alternative Response Team (CART) and the Street Wellness Response Team (SWRT). CART proposes to respond to all homeless C-Priority calls, coded 601 (trespassing - unauthorized person occupying others property), 916 (suspicious person in car), 917 (suspicious person), 919 (sit/lie), 910 (well-being check), and overflow 800. CART teams would be composed of community workers trained in mental health and first aid to de-escalate crisis and connect people to supportive services. The SWRT wellness teams would work 12-hour shifts and include paramedics with the Fire Department and members of the Homeless Outreach Team (HOT). SWRT would be two-member teams that drive around the City to assist located individuals who are not in an acute behavioral health crisis but may require immediate attention. Again, the Department is committed to ongoing conversations with City officials, City partners and community groups, to provide the appropriate care to those individuals who are non-violent but in need of assistance.

Priority C Calls

This discussion provides some preliminary data on calls for service related to homelessness, behavioral/mental health, substance abuse, well-being, and other low priority, non-violent public safety areas.

Homelessness

Calls for service related to homelessness include the call codes 915 (Homeless related) and 919 (Sitting or Lying on Public Sidewalks). In 2022 there were approximately 3,798 Priority C computer-aided dispatch (CAD) records with one of these codes listed as the final call type. In comparison, 2019 has approximately 48,224 CAD records of the same call type.

Behavioral/Mental Health

Behavioral/mental health call codes include 800 (Mentally disturbed person) and 5150 (Psychiatric Evaluation/Hold). Other call codes to consider in future analyses would be 801 (Person attempting suicide), 806 (Juvenile Beyond Parental Control), 800CR (Mentally Disturbed Person/Weapon or Potential for Violence) and 801CR (Person Attempting Suicide/Weapon or Potential for Violence). However, the severity of these calls types generally warrant a Priority A or B response and therefore may not be appropriate to transfer wholly to other agencies. At this time, SFPD's Crisis Intervention Team (CIT), specifically trained in crisis response, address 800CR and 801CR incidents with other City behavioral health specialists.

As discussed in the SCRT section, the Street Crisis Response Team aims to respond to 800-B calls at this time, though SFPD is still the responding agency, or one of the responding agencies, in many instances. Priority C calls account for less than 1% of mental health calls (codes 800 and 5150 in this analysis), with 24 CAD records. Priority C mental health calls could potentially be handled by SCRT, which is already intending to handle 800-B mental health calls.

Well-Being Check

The CAD call code for Well Being Check is 910. Priority A and Priority B calls represent the majority of 2022 CAD records where the final call code is 910. There were 13,401 Priority A calls for service and 16,079 Priority B calls for service. For Priority C well-being checks, there were only 23 calls for service.

Substance use calls may also be considered under calls related to well-being checks. Call types specific to substance use include 811 (Intoxicated person), 106N or 6N (Narcotics). The majority of these substance use CAD entries in 2022 are Priority C, at 360 calls. Combined there were 141 Priority A and B calls for service.

The preliminary data presented here indicates that some call types, such as those related to Homelessness, may have a volume of Priority C calls that could be appropriate for other City agencies to handle, warranting further analysis here. On the other hand, CAD records from 2022 indicate that a majority of calls related to behavioral/mental health and to well-being checks are classified as high priority – Priority A and Priority B rather than Priority C, as initially designated for analysis. Further exploration of these calls codes and priority designations is needed to determine if transferring specific call codes in the Priority C designation is a viable strategy for facilitating non-police response – and at what workload magnitude.

Civilian Staffing Opportunities

Overview

According to the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) Model Policy establishing law enforcement agencies' commitment to hiring and utilizing civilian personnel, the "efficiency and effectiveness of law enforcement agencies is enhanced when sworn and non-sworn personnel are appropriately used to perform those functions that are best suited to their special knowledge, skills and abilities." One primary goal of SFPD's civilianization effort is to enable sworn personnel to be properly assigned to patrol or other law enforcement-specific roles, yet the Department is also invested in ensuring that members, sworn and non-sworn, are performing job duties most aligned with their unique skillsets so that the Department can most efficiently provide services to the City and County of San Francisco. Allocating professional staff throughout the Department in a thoughtful and sustainable way can help build an infrastructure to effectively handle the public safety demands placed experienced by San Francisco.

Therefore, it should be noted that civilian staffing opportunities encompass various structural and job classification changes that aim to best align sworn and non-sworn members with the appropriate duties. These changes include:

- The complete civilianization of a position or unit because a civilian could execute the job duties of a sworn member and garner salary savings.
- The addition of a civilian position to a unit so that this position can execute some of the job duties performed by a sworn member, but not all duties. This results in more effective delineation in job duties such that sworn members can devote their time to activities that necessitate sworn expertise and/or a reduction in the number of sworn in the position.
- The addition of a civilian position to a unit because the unit responsibilities necessitate additional staffing and the specialized skills and abilities of trained professional staff provide the unit with function(s) that enhance unit operations.

Throughout, the report suggests civilian staffing opportunities that can be categorized by the situations described above. The full report provides detailed analysis and considerations of these recommendations. A summary table, including timeframes and relevant discussion, is shown below.

Challenges

Work Culture

SFPD is relatively new to integrating professional staff above the Clerk level into business administration processes and leadership. In a para-military organization, sworn hierarchy is inherently rigid, information-sharing is conducted on a need-to-know basis, and policies around personnel transfers and rotation decrease continuity or expertise in specific areas. Non-sworn with backgrounds in the private or public sector may be accustomed to process-driven information-sharing, open door access to leadership, and positions with growth pathways. Due to these differences, the Department must commit to establishing a culture that embraces non-sworn professional staff at all levels, provides career growth opportunities, and creates ways in which sworn can understand the positions being introduced in certain units.

As part of the non-sworn/professional staff integration process, the Department could consider introducing a rank equivalency structure. This structure not only creates a standard that is easily understood by sworn assigned to work directly with or for professional staff, but also aides the Department in determining equivalent classifications when civilianizing specific positions. For example, an administrative role typically managed by a Lieutenant can be replaced by an 0922 Manager I classification with the growth potential to promote to a 0923 Manager II position. A transparent and delineated classification structure allows for civilian job growth which facilitates continuity, minimizing attrition due to lack of in-house promotional opportunities.

Other Considerations

By exploring the civilianization opportunities identified in this analysis, the Department can strategically align with citywide goals of achieving salary savings, moving sworn from administrative functions back to patrol, and managing a major metropolitan Police Department in an effective and sustainable way. Some other areas that may present challenges to the Department and hence warrant consideration are the need to develop a comprehensive general civilian personnel policy, funding, and collective bargaining agreements that dictate the working rights of sworn versus non-sworn members. Moreover, it is critical that the Department determine how to utilize sworn members who are less than full duty, given that this number fluctuates, and the inherently temporary nature of the assignment presents challenges for work continuity. Less than full duty statuses also vary; sworn members may be coming back from a work-related injury and have temporary activity restrictions or may have a pending disciplinary investigation that limits public contact. These factors drive if and how less than full duty sworn can be utilized, and the Department should determine appropriate assignments or alternative processes given the designation.

SFPD Staffing Context

Summary

- SFPD staffing levels have been steadily declining over the past several years, and even more so in 2021 and 2022. From January 2019 to September 2023, the number of full duty sworn officers in San Francisco declined 21%, from 1,868 to 1,474. FY 2022 showed the highest number of separations since the end of the DROP program in FY 2012.
- Over the past five fiscal years FY 2019 – FY 2023, an average of 125 active sworn members have separated from the Department each year due to retirement, resignation, and termination. This does not include training attrition, which are those separations that occur in the Academy and during Field Training (FTO).
- Given the demographics of the Department, it is likely that retirements will increase significantly in the coming fiscal years as sworn members reach retirement age. This is a national trend; those police officers hired in 1991-1994, largely due to hiring increases related to the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994, are aging out of the workforce. As of June 2023, the Department has 491 sworn members over age 50.
- Over the last five years, there has been a significant decline in the number of Recruits entering the Academy due to fewer Academy classes, and smaller class sizes. As of June 2023, there are 41 Recruits in the Academy across two Academy classes. Training attrition occurs in Academy and FTO – and the reality is that it always will – even as SFPD implements targeted initiatives to improve training retention. Therefore, 125 Recruits entering the Academy does not eventually equate to 125 sworn active members in the Department due to training attrition.
- All of these points taken together indicate that even to just maintain staffing levels, SFPD will need to hire significantly more than 125 Recruits to 1) account for training attrition, and 2) to backfill those active sworn members who separate due to retirement, resignation, and termination.

Trends in Declining Staffing Levels

Declining Citywide Full Duty Staffing

SFPD staffing levels have been declining steadily since the beginning of 2019. The primary indicator that the Department uses to monitor and assess staffing levels and the overall staffing health of the Department is the number of full duty sworn in San Francisco. This metric represents those members who are currently fully deployable because they are not on some type of medical, family, or disciplinary leave; are not recruits in the Academy; and who are assigned to a unit and location within San Francisco rather than holding an assignment at the Airport. As illustrated on the chart below, SFPD citywide full duty staffing has declined 21% over the roughly five-year period from January 2019 to September 2023, from 1,868 to 1,474.

Declining District Station Staffing

Operationally, SFPD monitors the number of full duty Police Officers (entry level rank) at the District Stations. The Department must always prioritize District Station staffing, as the District Stations provide critical law enforcement services of responding to calls for service from the public. The number of full duty Police Officers at the District Stations has declined in tandem, and because of, the decline in citywide full duty sworn over the past roughly five years.

The number of full duty sworn Police Officers at the District Stations has declined 23% over the roughly five-year period from January 2019 to September 2023, from 1,012 to 774. The number of full duty sworn Police Officers at the District Stations has declined slightly more (23%) than the number of citywide full duty sworn (20%) because there was a significant number of patrol level officers that separated from the Department due to the Covid-19 mandate and City policies. The Department continues to prioritize District Station staffing due to its paramount function of responding to community-generated calls for service, but challenges exist as other functions relating to investigations and special operations are also in need of staffing.

Reasons Behind Declining Staffing Levels

Department Separations, FY 2005-06 to FY 2022-23

SFPD monitors separations across four different categories to track and analyze the total number of individuals separating from the department.

Separations: Fully Active, Sworn Members

- Retirements: This category includes both service retirements, calculated based on an individual's age and years of service, and non-service retirements, when individuals retire without full age and years of service eligibility.
- Resignations and Terminations: This category includes individuals who are terminated from the Department, for example, for disciplinary reasons; and those who resign to, for example, seek employment with another law enforcement agency ("lateral" to another agency).

Separations: Sworn Members in Training

- Separations in Academy/Field Training (FTO): This category includes those individuals who have been hired into the Department as a sworn member, but who separate via release (e.g., training failure or disciplinary issue) or resignation (e.g., personal issue) sometime during the two training phases, the Police Academy ("Academy") or Field Training ("FTO").

SFPD also tracks the “In Memoriam” category for each fiscal year.

The chart below shows the count of individuals in each separation category for the respective fiscal year. Deferred Retirement Option Program (DROP) was effective from July 1, 2008 through June 30, 2011, encapsulating FY 2009 through FY 2011; the large spike in the chart represents the significant number of retirements (244) in FY 2012 after the program lapsed.

SFPD Separations by Major Category, FY 2006 – FY 2023

For the purpose of this analysis, we explore separation trends in the four major categories over the past five fiscal years, FY 2019 to FY 2023.

Retirements

Retirements typically hovered around 60-80, but there was a slight dip in FY 2020. However, FY 2022 shows the highest number of retirements over the past 10 years. The Department anticipates that the number of retirements will trend upward significantly in the coming fiscal years due to the age demographic of SFPD’s sworn workforce. Nationally, law enforcement agencies are beginning to experience a wave of retirements as those officers hired via funding available in the Violent Crime Control and Law Enforcement Act of 1994 (“1994 Crime Bill”) reach retirement age. SFPD’s sworn workforce age demographics reflect this national trend: as of the end of June 2023, 491 sworn members in the Department were over age 50. As roughly a quarter of SFPD’s sworn workforce is age 50 and over, it is likely that retirements, including service and non-service, will continue to trend upward.

Resignations and Terminations

Resignations and terminations trended sharply upward in FY 2021 up to 85. Officers separating due to the Covid-19 mandate was the primary driver of this increase. Many sworn members “lateraled” to other law enforcement agencies while others were terminated from their position based on City policies. SFPD analyzed lateral locations and found that most sworn members were leaving the Department to seek employment with smaller agencies in the greater Bay Area, potentially closer to home, or were leaving the Bay Area – or the state of California – altogether. The Department has made efforts to attract members to work for SFPD and continues to monitor reasons for separations. Retention is becoming a priority for the Department to retain its valuable talent and 2023 is showing a significant decrease in members resigning to “lateral” to other law enforcement agencies. There has also been an increase in members returning to SFPD who had resigned.

Training Separations

When analyzing separations in Academy and FTO, it is more productive to assess the number of separations against the number of individuals beginning training – the graduation rate – than to look only at separation counts. In the chart and table above, it appears that separations in Academy and FTO are trending downward in recent fiscal years, but there have been fewer classes entering the Academy in FY 2019 – FY 2023 compared to prior years. Training separations are discussed in the next section.

Separation Categories and Staffing Levels

It is important to note how these separation categories influence the inflow and outflow of individuals into the Department, and how this impacts staffing levels. The sole inflow of individuals into the Department is through hiring and subsequent training. Staffing outflow from the Department occurs in many areas: in training, and amongst active members who are already part of SFPD's sworn workforce as members separate due to retirement, resignation, and termination. To maintain staffing levels, the number of individuals graduating from training (passing the Academy and FTO) must at least equal the number of active sworn members already in the Department who separate due to 1) retirement and 2) resignation and termination.

Over the past five fiscal years, an average of 125 individuals per year have separated due to “non-training” separations – retirement, resignation, and termination. Therefore, roughly 125 individuals must fully complete training (Academy and FTO) and enter the sworn workforce to backfill those members that separate.

Trends in the Academy, 2016 – 2023

Over the seven-year period 2016 – 2023, the number of Recruits entering the Academy has trended downward, from 279 in 2016 to 44 in 2023. Factors such as the 2020 Covid-19 pandemic have certainly impacted hiring, but the trend is clear: fewer Recruits are entering the Academy. The table below shows the total number of Recruits entering the Academy in the respective year, and the breakdown of Recruit Class by size.

Recruits Entering and Exiting the Academy, 2016 – 2023

This table illustrates some significant trends. First, fewer Recruits entered the Academy in the years 2019 – 2023 compared to 2016 – 2018, due to both fewer classes and smaller classes. External factors and trends play a role: nationally, Police Officer applications are declining due to changes in public perception of policing, and locally, affordability and a competitive job market impact the supply of qualified candidates. SFPD analyzes data on the end-to-end hiring process, from recruitment through Academy, and facilitates a Recruitment and Hiring Working Group to convene all stakeholders and address issues identified. The reality is that fewer Recruits are entering the Academy. Given the trends apparent here, SFPD is currently in the midst of developing and implementing various recruitment strategies.

Second, attrition occurs in the Academy, as not all Recruits graduate and enter Field Training (FTO) – and not all Officers in Field Training proceed into probation. Recruits separate from the Academy because they fail a training component or resign for personal or other reasons. To address training releases, SFPD has conducted analysis on training failures and implemented targeted additional instruction and remediation in problem subject areas to mitigate Academy releases. To address resignations, which generally occur due to personal reasons that result from a confluence of stressful factors, SFPD has implemented resources for incoming Recruits, such as a pre-Academy workshop for Recruits and their families to understand the demands of the job. SFPD is constantly exploring strategies for improving Academy retention, but the reality is that there will always be attrition during Police Officer training.

The table above also shows the overall graduation rates for the classes that entered the Academy in each respective year; over this time period, the overall graduation rates range from 53% to 75% (and additional attrition occurs in FTO as well). The critical takeaway is that 125 Recruits in the Academy does not ultimately lead to 125 active sworn members in the Department due to training attrition in the Academy and in FTO. Given that non-training separations have averaged 125 sworn active members over the last five fiscal years, SFPD would have to hire significantly more than 125 Recruit Officers to backfill these separations due to training attrition.

SFPD will need significantly more support to recruit and hire officers to account for the widening deficit between its current full-duty sworn officer level and the recommended full-duty staffing level. The City's Department of Human Resources (DHR) oversees all Public Safety test administration. During the COVID-19 pandemic, DHR suspended in-person testing for the Police Officer job classification when the San Francisco Department of Public Health (SFDPH) issued a shelter-in-place order to prevent the community spread of COVID-19. In June 2020, virtual, proctored testing was also suspended, in line with the Board of Supervisors resolution to review hiring and promotion for law enforcement classes. DHR contracts with the National Testing Network (NTN) for entry-level test administration and scoring. A top-to-bottom review of the application process to recruit, promote, and retain highly qualified police officers resulted in a new Public Safety Job Suitability Assessment focused on measuring bias, integrity, inappropriate use of force, and commitment to equity. The new test measures specific biases that may be present, as well as the potential biases that may develop over time as an officer. NTN has been working on the development of several additional tests specifically designed to target elements critical to equitable policing. The testing and hiring of entry-level police officers resumed in March 2021.

The Department recognizes that recruitment and retention are of utmost importance in addressing SFPD's staffing levels, which currently show a significant shortage when assessed against recommended levels. Given trends in retirements, resignations, and terminations; and Recruits entering the Academy, it is projected that the observed decline in citywide staffing will continue. The Department is currently exploring and developing aggressive recruitment and retention initiatives to address declining staffing levels through every strategy possible. Funding will, of course, play a role in the implementation of many of these initiatives.

Board of Supervisors Bond Sale Report

To: Public Utilities Commission of the City and County of San Francisco ("SFPUC")
From: PFM Financial Advisors LLC ("PFM")
Date: November 2, 2023

I. Background

Proposition A, approved by voters of the City of San Francisco in 2018, authorizes the issuance of revenue bonds by the SFPUC, when authorized by ordinance approved by a two-thirds vote of the Board of Supervisors of the City and County of San Francisco ("Board of Supervisors").

Pursuant to Resolution No. 23-0162, passed on September 20, 2023, the SFPUC issued $123.9 million of the Power Revenue Bonds, 2023 Series A (the "2023 Power Bonds") on October 12, 2023.

Per Ordinance 109-22, within 30 days of bond issuance, the SFPUC must file with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors a report ("Report") showing the results of the bond/note sale including (i) principal amount sold and method of sale, (ii) true interest cost, (iii) final maturity, (iv) the facilities constructed and/or improved, and (v) a statement about the remaining bond authorization under Ordinance 109-22.

The SFPUC has requested that PFM, who served as municipal advisor to the 2023 Power Bonds, prepare this Report for purposes of complying with the requirements set forth in Ordinance No. 109-22.

II. Bond Sale Report

Power Facilities

Hydroelectric power is generated by the SFPUC’s power facilities, which consist of three hydroelectric powerhouses: Moccasin, Kirkwood, and Holm. Moccasin and Kirkwood receive water from the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir, while Holm is fed from Lake Eleanor and Lake Lloyd Reservoir (Cherry Lake). The electricity generated at the three powerhouses is transmitted through a system of high-voltage power transmission lines from the Sierra Nevada mountains across the Central Valley to PG&E’s transmission system, interconnecting at Newark Substation. Electricity is transmitted through PG&E’s transmission system to San Francisco. For more information, see “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT.”

The 2023A Bonds are not secured by a legal or equitable pledge of, or charge, lien or encumbrance upon, any of the property of the SFPUC or of its income or receipts, except Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits (as each such term is defined herein). See “SECURITY FOR THE BONDS.”

OFFICIAL STATEMENT

$123,905,000

PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION OF THE CITY AND COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO POWER REVENUE BONDS, 2023 SERIES A

INTRODUCTION

This Introduction is qualified in its entirety by reference to the more detailed information included and referred to elsewhere in this Official Statement. The offering of the 2023A Bonds to potential investors is made only by means of the entire Official Statement. Terms used in this Introduction and not otherwise defined have the respective meanings assigned to them elsewhere in this Official Statement, including “APPENDIX A – SUMMARY OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF THE INDENTURE.”

General

This Official Statement, including the cover page and Appendices hereto, is provided to furnish certain information in connection with the offering by the Public Utilities Commission of the City and County of San Francisco (the “SFPUC”) of its Power Revenue Bonds, 2023 Series A (the “2023A Bonds”).

Authority for Issuance

The SFPUC is issuing the 2023A Bonds pursuant to authority granted by the Charter (the “Charter”) of the City and County of San Francisco (the “City”), ordinances passed by the Board of Supervisors of the City (the “Board of Supervisors”) authorizing the issuance and sale of power revenue bonds and other forms of indebtedness of the SFPUC, a resolution adopted by the SFPUC governing body (the “Commission”) on September 20, 2023, and a Trust Indenture, dated as of May 1, 2015, as amended and supplemented (the “Master Indenture”), including as supplemented by a Third Supplemental Trust Indenture, dated as of October 1, 2023 (the “Third Supplemental Indenture” and, together with the Master Indenture, the “Indenture”), each by and between the SFPUC and U.S. Bank Trust Company, National Association as trustee (the “Trustee”).

The San Francisco Public Utilities Commission and the Power Enterprise

The SFPUC is a department of the City responsible for the maintenance, operation and development of three utility enterprises: (i) the Water Enterprise, (ii) the Wastewater Enterprise and (iii) Hetch Hetchy Water and Power and CleanPowerSF. The Water Enterprise provides drinking water to retail customers in San Francisco, to certain retail customers outside of San Francisco and to wholesale customers in San Mateo, Alameda and Santa Clara counties. The Wastewater Enterprise provides wastewater and stormwater collection, treatment and disposal services to residential, commercial, and industrial customers in San Francisco and three municipal sewer service providers serving residents and businesses in northern San Mateo County. For financial purposes, the Hetch Hetchy Water and Power and CleanPowerSF enterprise is comprised of three funds: (i) Hetch Hetchy Water, (ii) Hetch Hetchy Power (known as, and referred to in this Official Statement as, the “Power Enterprise”) and (iii) CleanPowerSF. See “San Francisco Public Utilities Commission Enterprise Funds Organization Chart” below.

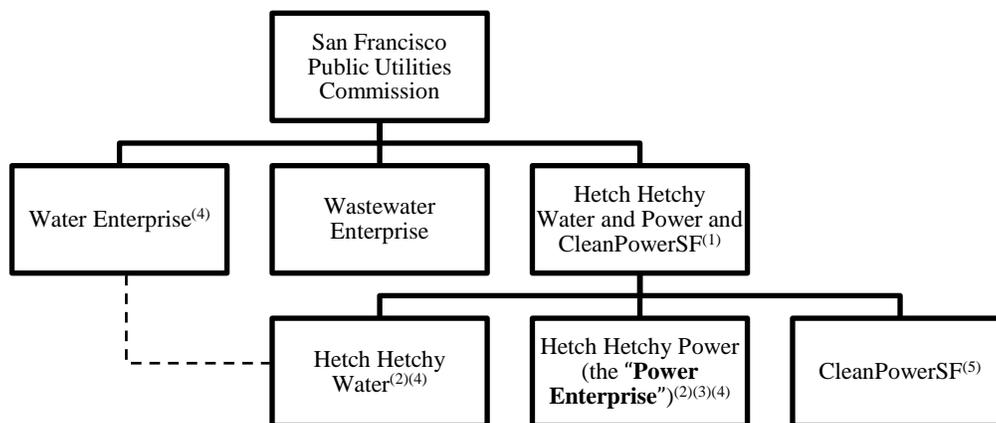

Hetch Hetchy Water operates and maintains the Hetch Hetchy Water and Power Project, including (i) the O’Shaughnessy Dam, the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir, the Canyon and Mountain Tunnels, the Kirkwood, Moccasin and Holm Powerhouses, Cherry Lake and its dam, Lake Eleanor and its dam, the related water storage and transportation and hydroelectric generating facilities down to and including the Moccasin Powerhouse, all located in Yosemite National Park, Stanislaus National Forest and Tuolumne County, the rights to which were granted to the City by the Raker Act of 1913 (the “Raker Act”), and (ii) the related transmission facilities down to the City of Newark, California (“Newark”) (collectively, the “Hetch Hetchy Project”). The Power Enterprise provides hydroelectric, solar, and other power, serving City municipal customers, the Modesto Irrigation District (“MID”) and the Turlock Irrigation District (“TID” and, collectively with MID, the “Districts”), and other public agencies and retail customers, and also provides pedestrian and streetlight services. The Power Enterprise also operates and maintains natural gas and electric utilities systems on Treasure Island/Yerba Buena Island pursuant to an agreement with Treasure Island Development Authority (“TIDA”). See “THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION,” “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT” and “THE POWER ENTERPRISE.” CleanPowerSF (“CleanPowerSF”), a Community Choice Aggregation (“CCA”) program that began serving customers in May 2016, is a “Separate System” under the Indenture. CleanPowerSF is financially independent from the Power Enterprise, with the ability to set rates and charges with adequate revenues and to issue debt to support its operations and future projects. See “THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION – Organization, Purposes and Powers – CleanPowerSF.”

Several Hetch Hetchy Project facilities are joint assets and are used for both water transmission and power generation and transmission, benefiting both Hetch Hetchy Water and the Power Enterprise (the “Joint Facilities”). All publicly-owned utility power sales revenues from providing hydroelectric, solar, and other power, all operating and capital costs benefiting the Power Enterprise, and 55% of the combined operating and capital costs of the Joint Facilities are allocated to the Power Enterprise. Operating and capital costs benefiting Hetch Hetchy Water and 45% of the combined operating and capital costs of the Joint Facilities are allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water. Hetch Hetchy Water’s expenses are paid primarily from charges for service paid by the Water Enterprise, and are not secured by Revenues of the Power Enterprise.

The following chart shows the organizational structure of the SFPUC’s three enterprise funds:

San Francisco Public Utilities Commission Enterprise Funds Organization Chart

- (1) The “Hetch Hetchy Water and Power and CleanPowerSF” enterprise is comprised of three funds: (i) Hetch Hetchy Water, (ii) Hetch Hetchy Power (known as, and referred to in this Official Statement as, the “Power Enterprise”), and (iii) CleanPowerSF.
- (2) Hetch Hetchy Water operates and maintains the Hetch Hetchy Project, which provides water for distribution through the Water Enterprise and hydroelectric power for delivery through the Power Enterprise.
- (3) The Power Enterprise is responsible for all SFPUC power utility commercial transactions and in-city power operations.
- (4) Several Hetch Hetchy Project facilities are joint assets and are used for both water transmission and power generation and transmission, benefiting both Hetch Hetchy Water and the Power Enterprise. All publicly-owned utility power sales revenues from providing hydroelectric, solar, and other power, all operating and capital costs benefiting the Power Enterprise, and 55% of the combined operating and capital costs of the Joint Facilities are allocated to the Power Enterprise. Operating and capital costs benefiting Hetch Hetchy Water and 45% of the combined operating and capital costs of the Joint Facilities are allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water. Hetch Hetchy Water’s expenses are paid primarily from charges for service paid by the Water Enterprise, and are not secured by Revenues of the Power Enterprise.
- (5) CleanPowerSF is a “Separate System” under the Indenture and financially independent from the Power Enterprise. References to the “Power Enterprise” in this Official Statement do not include CleanPowerSF.

The 2023A Bonds are secured by a pledge of Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits (each as defined herein). The 2023A Bonds are not secured by or payable from the revenues of the SFPUC's Water Enterprise, Wastewater Enterprise or CleanPowerSF, or the revenues allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water.

Purposes

The 2023A Bonds are being issued to (i) refund approximately $117.7 million principal amount of and interest on Commercial Paper Notes issued to finance a portion of the costs of various capital projects benefiting the Power Enterprise, (ii) fund capitalized interest on the 2023A Bonds to November 1, 2025, and (iii) pay costs of issuance of the 2023A Bonds. See "PLAN OF FINANCE."

Security for the Bonds

Under the Indenture, the SFPUC has irrevocably pledged the Revenues of its Power Enterprise, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits, to the payment of principal of, premium, if any, and interest on any parity revenue bonds issued under the Indenture, including the 2023A Bonds (collectively, the "Bonds"). The 2023A Bonds, all other Bonds and any other parity obligations permitted by the Indenture are secured by a parity lien on Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits. See "SECURITY FOR THE BONDS."

The 2023A Bonds are special limited obligations of the SFPUC. The SFPUC is not obligated to pay the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the 2023A Bonds from any source of funds other than Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits. Neither the general funds of the SFPUC nor the funds of any SFPUC enterprise (other than the Revenues and the funds pledged therefor under the Indenture) shall be liable for payment of the 2023A Bonds. The SFPUC has no taxing power. The General Fund of the City is not liable for the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the 2023A Bonds, and neither the credit nor the taxing power of the City is pledged to the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the 2023A Bonds. The 2023A Bonds are not secured by a legal or equitable pledge of, or charge, lien or encumbrance upon, any of the property of the City or of the SFPUC or any of its income or receipts, except Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits. The 2023A Bonds are not secured by or payable from the revenues of the SFPUC's Water Enterprise, Wastewater Enterprise or CleanPowerSF, or the revenues allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water. See "SECURITY FOR THE BONDS."

No Reserve Account

No Reserve Account will be established for the 2023A Bonds. See "SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – No Reserve Account for 2023A Bonds."

Outstanding and Future Parity Obligations

The 2023A Bonds are the third Series of Bonds to be issued under the Master Indenture. The SFPUC has previously issued two Series of Bonds: (i) its Power Revenue Bonds, 2015 Series A (Green Bonds) (the "2015A Bonds"), and its Power Revenue Bonds, 2015 Series B (the "2015B Bonds" and together with the 2015A Bonds, the "2015AB Bonds") and (ii) its Power Revenue Bonds, 2021 Series A (Green Bonds) (the "2021A Bonds"), and its Power Revenue Bonds, 2021 Series B (the "2021B Bonds" and together with the 2021A Bonds, the "2021AB Bonds"). As of September 1, 2023, the 2015AB Bonds and the 2021AB Bonds are outstanding in the aggregate principal amount of $158,910,000 (collectively, the "Outstanding Bonds"). There are currently no other obligations of the SFPUC payable from Revenues on a parity with the Outstanding Bonds and the 2023A Bonds.

The SFPUC may issue additional Series of Bonds under the Master Indenture and may incur additional obligations payable from Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits, on a parity with the payment of the Outstanding Bonds and the 2023A Bonds. See "SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – Additional Series of Bonds" and "– No Senior Obligations; Other Parity Obligations."

Proposed Transaction with Pacific Gas & Electric Company

In September 2019, in connection with the bankruptcy of Pacific Gas & Electric Company (“PG&E”) and PG&E Corporation, the City submitted a non-binding indication of interest to purchase substantially all of PG&E’s electric distribution and transmission assets needed to provide retail electric service to all electricity customers within the geographic boundaries of San Francisco. The City subsequently submitted additional non-binding indications of interest to PG&E in September 2020 and May 2023. PG&E has not indicated a willingness to sell any such assets. The City remains interested in acquiring these assets from PG&E and, in July 2021, submitted a petition to the California Public Utilities Commission (“CPUC”) for a formal determination of the fair market value of PG&E’s assets the City is interested in acquiring. In April 2023, the City filed direct testimony of four expert witnesses with the CPUC regarding the specific assets under consideration for acquisition and the value of such assets. No transaction has been consummated, and neither the SFPUC nor the City are able to predict whether a transaction will be consummated or what the terms of any such transaction would be, if consummated. For more information regarding the proposed transaction, see “THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION – Proposed Transaction with Pacific Gas & Electric Company.”

Continuing Disclosure

The SFPUC will covenant for the benefit of the Owners and Beneficial Owners (each as defined herein) of the 2023A Bonds to provide certain financial information and operating data not later than March 31 following the end of its Fiscal Year (presently June 30), beginning on March 31, 2024, with the report for Fiscal Year 2022-23, and to provide notices of the occurrence of certain enumerated events. These covenants will be made to assist the Underwriters in complying with Rule 15c2-12(b)(5) of the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “Rule”). Interest on the 2023A Bonds is payable on May 1 and November 1 of each year, beginning May 1, 2024. Interest on the 2023A Bonds will be calculated on the basis of a 360-day year consisting of twelve 30-day months.

Securities Depository and Book-Entry Only System

The 2023A Bonds will be issued in fully registered form, registered in the name of Cede & Co., as nominee for The Depository Trust Company (“DTC”), New York, New York, as the Owner of the 2023A Bonds.

So long as DTC, or its nominee, Cede & Co., is the registered owner (“Owner”) of the 2023A Bonds, all payments on the 2023A Bonds will be made directly to DTC. Disbursement of such payments to the DTC Participants will be the responsibility of DTC, and disbursement of such payments to the Beneficial Owners of the 2023A Bonds will be the responsibility of the DTC Participants. See “APPENDIX E – SECURITIES DEPOSITORY AND THE BOOK-ENTRY SYSTEM.”

Optional Redemption. The 2023A Bonds maturing on and after November 1, 2033 are subject to redemption prior to their respective stated maturity dates, at the option of the SFPUC, from any source of available funds, as a whole or in part, in Authorized Denominations, on any date on or after November 1, 2032, and if in part by lot within such maturity of 2023A Bonds, at a Redemption Price equal to 100% of the principal amount of 2023A Bonds to be redeemed, together with accrued interest thereon to the date fixed for redemption, without premium.

In the event less than all of the Term Bonds of a single maturity are purchased or called for optional redemption, the Mandatory Sinking Fund Payments for such Term Bonds to be reduced shall be specified by the SFPUC.

Selection of 2023A Bonds for Redemption. If less than all of the 2023A Bonds are called for redemption, the maturities of the 2023A Bonds to be redeemed (in whole or in part) shall be determined by the SFPUC. Subject to DTC’s procedures relating to the selection of bonds for redemption (see “APPENDIX E – SECURITIES DEPOSITORY AND THE BOOK-ENTRY SYSTEM”), whenever less than all of the 2023A Bonds of any one maturity are called for redemption, the Trustee will select the 2023A Bonds of the maturity to be redeemed by lot from the Outstanding 2023A Bonds of that maturity. For purposes of such selection, 2023A Bonds will be deemed to be made up of $5,000 portions of principal.

Notice of Redemption. Notice of redemption will be mailed by the Trustee at least thirty (30) days but not more than sixty (60) days prior to the redemption date, to DTC (so long as the DTC Book-Entry System is used). The actual receipt by the owner of any 2023A Bond of notice of such redemption is not a condition precedent to redemption, and failure to receive a redemption notice or any defect in a redemption notice will not affect the redemption or the validity of the proceedings for the redemption of such 2023A Bonds. See “APPENDIX E – SECURITIES DEPOSITORY AND THE BOOK-ENTRY SYSTEM.”

Conditional Redemption; Rescission of Notice of Redemption. In the case of optional redemption of 2023A Bonds, the notice of redemption may state (i) that it is conditioned upon the deposit of money, in an amount equal to the amount necessary to effect the redemption with the Trustee no later than the redemption date, or (ii) that the SFPUC retains the right to rescind such notice on or prior to the scheduled redemption date (in either case, a “Conditional Redemption”), and such notice and optional redemption will be of no effect if such money is not deposited or if the notice is rescinded. The SFPUC may, at its option, prior to the date fixed for redemption in any notice of Conditional Redemption, rescind and cancel such notice of redemption by written request to the Trustee and the Trustee will give notice of such cancellation to the recipients of the notice of redemption being cancelled.

Effect of Redemption. When notice of redemption has been duly given as described above, and moneys for payment of the redemption price are held by the Trustee, the 2023A Bonds called for redemption will, unless the SFPUC has given notice of rescission of the notice of redemption therefor as described above, on the redemption date designated in the redemption notice, become due and payable at the redemption price specified in such notice; and from and after the date so designated interest on the 2023A Bonds called for redemption will cease to accrue, and such 2023A Bonds will no longer be entitled to any benefit or security under the Indenture, and the Owners of said 2023A Bonds will have no rights in respect thereof except to receive payment of the redemption price thereof. The Trustee, upon surrender for payment of any of said 2023A Bonds, will pay such 2023A Bonds at the redemption price, together with accrued interest thereon. All 2023A Bonds redeemed will be cancelled upon surrender and no 2023A Bonds will be issued in place thereof.

Defeasance

The obligations of the SFPUC and the pledge, lien, covenants and agreements of the SFPUC made or provided for in the Indenture will be fully discharged and satisfied as to any 2023A Bond and such Bond will no longer be deemed outstanding thereunder if certain conditions set forth in the Indenture are satisfied. See “APPENDIX A – SUMMARY OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF THE INDENTURE – Discharge and Defeasance.”

PLAN OF FINANCE

SECURITY FOR THE BONDS

Pledge of Revenues

General. Under the Indenture, the SFPUC has pledged and placed a lien and charge upon the Revenues of the Power Enterprise, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits, to the payment of the Bonds, which consist of any parity revenue bonds issued under the Indenture, including the 2023A Bonds, and any additional Series of Bonds. This pledge is subject to the flow of funds contained in the Indenture, as described below. See “– Flow of Funds.”

No facilities of the Power Enterprise or the SFPUC have been pledged or mortgaged for, nor do they otherwise secure, payment of the Bonds.

Pursuant to Section 5451 of the California Government Code, the pledge of, lien on and security interest in Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits, granted by the Indenture to secure the payment of the Bonds is valid and binding in accordance with the terms thereof from the time such pledge was made, such Revenues being immediately subject to such pledge, and such pledge constituting a lien and security interest immediately attaching to such Revenues and effective, binding and enforceable against the SFPUC, its successors, creditors and all others asserting rights therein to the extent set forth and in accordance with the terms of the Indenture irrespective of whether those parties have notice of such pledge and without the need for any physical delivery, recordation, filing or other further act. Such pledge, lien and security interest are not subject to the provisions of Article 9 of the California Uniform Commercial Code.

For definitions of capitalized terms used herein and not otherwise defined, see “APPENDIX A – SUMMARY OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF THE INDENTURE – Definitions.”

Power Enterprise. The Indenture defines “Power Enterprise” as the SFPUC’s Power Enterprise, existing as of the date of the Master Indenture to provide electric power and related services to the City and its departments, agencies and commissions as well as other customers both in and outside of the City, including that portion of the Hetch Hetchy Project allocable to power generation, all other power generation, transmission and distribution facilities and related facilities, streetlights, property and rights constituting a part of the Power Enterprise, and any and all additions, improvements, betterments, renewals, replacements and repairs thereto and extensions thereof, but shall not include: (a) the Water Enterprise, (b) the Wastewater Enterprise, or (c) any Separate System.

The Indenture defines the “Hetch Hetchy Project” as the Hetch Hetchy Water and Power Project, including the O’Shaughnessy Dam, the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir, the Canyon and Mountain Tunnels, the Kirkwood, Moccasin and Holm Powerhouses, Cherry Lake and its dam, Lake Eleanor and its dam, the related water storage and transportation and hydroelectric generating facilities down to and including the Moccasin Powerhouse, all located in Yosemite National Park, Stanislaus National Forest and Tuolumne County, the rights to which were granted to the City by the Raker Act, and the related transmission facilities down to Newark.

The Indenture defines a “Separate System” as any electric power or energy generation, transmission, distribution or other facilities, property and rights that may be, after the date of the Master Indenture, purchased, constructed or otherwise acquired by the SFPUC where the revenues derived from the ownership and operation of which shall be pledged to the payment of bonds or other obligations for borrowed money issued or incurred to purchase, construct or otherwise acquire such facilities, property and rights and shall not be included in Revenues and the operation and maintenance expenses with respect to which shall not be included in Operation and Maintenance Expenses. CleanPowerSF is a “Separate System” under the Indenture.

Net Revenues. The Indenture defines “Net Revenues” as, for any Fiscal Year (or other designated twelve-month period) all of the Revenues in such Fiscal Year (or other designated twelve-month period), less all Operation and Maintenance Expense and Priority R&R Fund Deposits, if any, for such Fiscal Year (or other designated twelve-month period).

For purposes of the Indenture, “Revenues” means all revenues, rates and charges received and accrued by the SFPUC for electric power and energy and other services, facilities and commodities sold, furnished or supplied by the Power Enterprise, together with income, earnings and profits therefrom (including interest earnings on the proceeds of any Bonds pending application thereof), as determined in accordance with GAAP. Revenues shall include payments to the Power Enterprise from any Separate System maintained by the SFPUC on or with respect to loans made by the Power Enterprise to such Separate System. Revenues shall not include (a) proceeds from the issuance of any obligations for borrowed money, (b) amounts loaned to the Power Enterprise, (c) Swap Agreement Receipts, (d) proceeds from taxes, (e) customer deposits while retained as such, (f) contributions in aid of construction, (g) gifts, (h) grants, (i) insurance or condemnation proceeds that are properly allocable to a capital account, (j) non-cash revenues or gains that may be required or permitted under GAAP, including mark-to-market gains and deferred revenues, (k) money received by the SFPUC as the proceeds of the sale of any portion of the properties of the Power Enterprise, (l) amounts by their terms not available for the payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses or principal and interest on the Bonds, (m) Refundable Credits, (n) revenues of any Separate System (including CleanPowerSF), (o) Water Enterprise revenues and (p) Wastewater Enterprise revenues.

For purposes of the Indenture, “Operation and Maintenance Expenses” means the costs of the proper operation, maintenance and repair of the Power Enterprise and taxes, assessments or other governmental charges lawfully imposed on the Power Enterprise or the Revenues, or payments in lieu thereof, as determined in accordance with GAAP. Operation and Maintenance Expenses shall include the payment of pension charges and proportionate payments to such compensation and other insurance or outside reserve funds as the SFPUC may establish or the Board of Supervisors may require with respect to employees of the Power Enterprise, as provided in Section 16.103(a) of the Charter. Operation and Maintenance Expenses shall also include repairs and maintenance costs that constitute operating expenses in accordance with GAAP. Operation and Maintenance Expenses shall not include (a) any allowance for amortization, depreciation or obsolescence, (b) operation and maintenance expenses of the Water Enterprise, (c) operation and maintenance expenses of the Wastewater Enterprise, (d) operation and maintenance expenses of any Separate System (including CleanPowerSF), (e) any expense for which, or to the extent to which, the SFPUC is or will be paid or reimbursed from or by any source that is not included or includable as Revenues, (f) losses from any sale or other disposition of Power Enterprise assets, and (g) non-cash losses and costs that may be required or permitted under GAAP, including deferred expenses and unrealized mark-to-market losses.

For purposes of the Indenture, “Priority R&R Fund Deposits” means, for any Fiscal Year or other designated twelve-month period, the amount, if any, required by the Charter to be deposited into the Reconstruction and Replacement Fund from Revenues prior to deposits in such Fiscal Year into the Bond Fund. The SFPUC has determined that no Priority R&R Fund Deposits are presently required. Priority R&R Fund Deposits could, however, be required in the future.

For purposes of the Indenture, “Refundable Credits” means amounts payable by the federal government under direct-pay subsidy programs substantially similar to the Build America Bond program under Section 54AA of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, as amended (the “Code”).

The Indenture defines “Swap Agreement Payments” as the regularly scheduled net amounts required to be paid by the SFPUC to the Qualified Counterparty pursuant to a Swap Agreement and “Swap Agreement Receipts” as the regularly scheduled net amounts required to be paid by a Qualified Counterparty to the SFPUC pursuant to a Swap Agreement. The SFPUC has not entered into any Swap Agreements payable from Revenues. See “– No Senior Obligations; Other Parity Obligations.”

Limited Obligations

The 2023A Bonds are special limited obligations of the SFPUC. The SFPUC is not obligated to pay the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the 2023A Bonds from any source of funds other than Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits. Neither the general funds of the SFPUC nor the funds of any SFPUC enterprise (other than the Revenues and the funds pledged therefor under the Indenture) shall be liable for the payment on the 2023A Bonds. The SFPUC has no taxing power. The General Fund of the City is not liable for the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the 2023A Bonds, and neither the credit nor the taxing power of the City is pledged to the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the 2023A Bonds. The 2023A Bonds are not secured by a legal or equitable pledge of, or charge, lien or encumbrance upon, any of the property of the City or of the SFPUC or any of its income or receipts, except Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits. The 2023A Bonds are not secured by or payable from the revenues of the SFPUC’s Water Enterprise, Wastewater Enterprise or CleanPowerSF, or the revenues allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water.

Flow of Funds

In the Indenture, the SFPUC covenants and agrees that it will pay into the Revenue Fund as received all Revenues and further covenants and agrees that all Revenues shall be trust funds in the hands of the SFPUC and shall be used and applied as provided by the Indenture, solely for the purposes of operating and maintaining the Power Enterprise and paying all costs, charges and expenses in connection therewith and for the purpose of making repairs, renewals and replacements to the Power Enterprise and constructing additions, betterments and extensions thereto, and for the purpose of paying the Bonds, the Swap Agreement Payments, if any, and all other charges or obligations against the Revenues of whatever nature now or hereafter imposed thereon by law or contract. All such disbursements and deposits must be made in accordance with the provisions of the Charter, including Section 16.103 thereof.

The Indenture provides that Revenues deposited in the Revenue Fund shall be disbursed in the following order of priority:

First, for the payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses;

Second, for any Priority R&R Fund Deposits;

Third, for deposit in the Interest Account of each Bond Fund;

Fourth, for deposit in the Bond Retirement Account of each Bond Fund;

Fifth, for deposit in the Reserve Fund (as applicable);

Sixth, (i) for the payment of principal and premium, if any, and interest on any Subordinate Obligations; (ii) for deposit into a reserve fund securing any Subordinate Obligations; (iii) for Swap Agreement Payments pursuant to Swap Agreements entered into by the SFPUC with respect to any Subordinate Obligations; and (iv) for payment to any financial institution or insurance company providing any letter of credit, line of credit, or other credit or liquidity facility, including municipal bond insurance and guarantees, that secures the payment of principal of or interest on any Subordinate Obligations; in each case in any order of priority within this paragraph which may be hereafter established by the SFPUC by resolution;

Seventh, for any Additional R&R Fund Deposits into the Reconstruction and Replacement Fund;

Eighth, for any necessary or desirable capital additions or improvements to the Power Enterprise;

Ninth, for any payment under a Take-or-Pay Power Purchase Agreement that does not constitute an Operation and Maintenance Expense;

Tenth, for any payment under a Swap Agreement that does not constitute a Swap Agreement Payment; and

Eleventh, for any other lawful purpose of the SFPUC.

In the Indenture, the SFPUC covenants and agrees to transfer to the Trustee for deposit in the Interest Account of each applicable Bond Fund all Refundable Credits received by the SFPUC.

Rate Covenant; Rates and Charges

In the Indenture, the SFPUC has covenanted to fix, establish, maintain and collect rates and charges for electric power and energy and other services, facilities and commodities sold, furnished or supplied through the Power Enterprise, which shall be fair and nondiscriminatory and adequate, together with other revenues of the Power Enterprise, to provide the SFPUC with Revenues sufficient to satisfy the covenants described in the next paragraph. The SFPUC will not be required to impose rates and charges in violation of (i) applicable provisions of the Raker Act or any successor statute; (ii) any other applicable federal or state statutes or regulations; or (iii) any current or future contract or agreement between any City enterprise department, agency or commission, and its customers, tenants or other parties thereto. See “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Limitations on Rate-Setting” and “– Raker Act Requirements.”

In the Indenture, the SFPUC has covenanted that the Revenues in each Fiscal Year will be sufficient:

(i) To pay, to the extent not paid from other available moneys, (A) the Operation and Maintenance Expenses during such Fiscal Year, (B) Annual Debt Service on the Bonds due and payable in such Fiscal Year, (C) the amounts, if any, required to be deposited into the Reserve Fund during such Fiscal Year and (D) any and all other amounts the SFPUC is obligated to pay or set aside from the Revenues by law or contract in such Fiscal Year;

- (ii) To maintain a Bond Coverage Ratio of at least 1.00 to 1.00; and
- (iii) Together with Available Funds, to maintain a Bond Coverage Ratio of at least 1.25 to 1.00.

The failure of the SFPUC to maintain the Bond Coverage Ratio in any Fiscal Year will not constitute a default in the observance of the covenants described above if, (i) within 60 days after the SFPUC first determines that the Bond Coverage Ratio was not met or 60 days after the SFPUC's receipt of audited financial statements showing that the Bond Coverage Ratio was not met (whichever is earlier), the SFPUC engages a Consulting Engineer to deliver a report to the SFPUC within 60 days after such engagement which includes recommendations as to how the SFPUC can increase Revenues and/or reduce Operation and Maintenance Expenses so as to satisfy the Bond Coverage Ratios; and if (ii) (A) within 120 days after receipt of the Consulting Engineer's report the SFPUC implements the recommendations set forth in such report, or (B) the report states that the Power Enterprise cannot generate Revenues and/or reduce Operation and Maintenance Expenses sufficiently to enable the SFPUC to maintain the Bond Coverage Ratios while satisfying the other covenants set forth in the Indenture and the SFPUC increases its Revenues and/or reduces its Operation and Maintenance Expenses to the extent otherwise recommended in such report, or (C) the SFPUC is prevented from taking any such action by order of any court of competent jurisdiction. Notwithstanding the foregoing, failure for two consecutive Fiscal Years to maintain the Bond Coverage Ratios shall in all events constitute an Event of Default.

For purposes of the Indenture, "Bond Coverage Ratio" for any Fiscal Year means the ratio of (a) (i) Net Revenues in such Fiscal Year, plus (ii) Available Funds in such Fiscal Year, to (b) Annual Debt Service on the Outstanding Bonds in such Fiscal Year; "Annual Debt Service" means, as of any date of calculation, for any Fiscal Year (or other designated twelve-month period) the amount of Principal and interest becoming due and payable on all Outstanding Bonds in such Fiscal Year (or other designated twelve-month period) computed as provided in the Indenture less the amount of any Refundable Credits due to the SFPUC with respect to interest coming due in such Fiscal Year; and "Available Funds" means any unencumbered amounts, including non-appropriated fund balances and reserves, and cash and the book value of investments held by the Treasurer of the City (the "Treasurer") for the Power Enterprise, that the SFPUC reasonably expects would be available, as of any date of calculation, to pay Principal of and interest on Bonds when due. See "APPENDIX A – SUMMARY OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF THE INDENTURE."

No Reserve Account for 2023A Bonds

No Reserve Account is being established that would secure the 2023A Bonds. The 2023A Bonds are not a Common Reserve Series secured by the Common Reserve Account.

Reconstruction and Replacement Fund

The Indenture creates a special fund of the SFPUC known as the "Power Enterprise Reconstruction and Replacement Fund," to be held by the Treasurer and administered by the SFPUC. The SFPUC covenants and agrees to deposit and maintain in the Reconstruction and Replacement Fund an amount at least equal to the amount, if any, required to be on deposit therein pursuant to the Charter. Amounts in the Reconstruction and Replacement Fund shall be applied to pay costs of reconstruction and replacement of the properties constituting a part of the Power Enterprise due to physical and functional depreciation.

No Senior Obligations; Other Parity Obligations

The Indenture prohibits the SFPUC from issuing or incurring any obligations (other than obligations constituting Operations and Maintenance Expenses) or issuing or creating additional indebtedness payable from Revenues senior to payment of the 2023A Bonds and from issuing or incurring any obligations or issuing or creating additional indebtedness payable from Revenues on a parity with the 2023A Bonds other than Bonds and Swap Agreements. The Indenture defines "Swap Agreement" as any financial instrument that (a) is entered into by the SFPUC with a party that is a Qualified Counterparty at the time the instrument is entered into; (b) is entered into with respect to all or a portion of a Series of Bonds; (c) is for a term not extending beyond the final maturity of the Series of Bonds or portion thereof to which it relates; (d) provides that the SFPUC shall pay to such Qualified Counterparty an amount accruing at either a fixed rate or a variable rate, as the case may be, on a notional amount equal to or less than the principal amount of the Series of Bonds or portion thereof to which it relates, and that such Qualified Counterparty shall pay to the SFPUC an amount accruing at either a variable rate or fixed rate, as appropriate, on such notional amount; (e) provides that one party shall pay to the other party any net amounts due under such instrument; and (f) which has been designated to the Trustee in the Supplemental Trust Indenture authorizing the issuance of the related Series of Bonds or portion thereof or in a Certificate of the SFPUC as a Swap Agreement with respect to such Bonds. The SFPUC has not entered into any Swap Agreements.

Additional Series of Bonds

The Charter and the Indenture authorize the issuance of additional Series of Bonds payable from Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits, on parity with the Outstanding Bonds and the 2023A Bonds upon satisfaction of the conditions set forth therein.

The SFPUC expects to issue additional Series of Bonds to finance the costs of additional improvements to the facilities of the Power Enterprise (the “Power Facilities”). See “POWER ENTERPRISE CAPITAL PROGRAM.”

Charter Requirements. Under the Charter, the SFPUC may issue revenue bonds (including additional Series of Bonds) relating to the Power Enterprise upon satisfaction of the requirements described under “OBLIGATIONS PAYABLE FROM REVENUES – Authority for Issuance of Revenue Bonds and Other Obligations Payable from Revenues.”

Indenture Requirements. The Indenture provides that additional Series of Bonds secured on a parity with the Bonds may be issued for any lawful purpose if prior to the issuance of such additional Series of Bonds, the SFPUC has filed with the Trustee, among other documents, the following:

(a) A written opinion of Bond Counsel to the effect that (i) such Series of Bonds are valid and binding limited obligations of the SFPUC enforceable against the SFPUC in accordance with their terms and (ii) the Indenture, including the Supplemental Trust Indenture authorizing the issuance of such Series of Bonds, is a valid and binding obligation of the SFPUC enforceable in accordance with its terms; provided, that such opinions may be qualified to the extent that the enforceability of the Bonds and the Indenture, including the Supplemental Trust Indenture authorizing the issuance of such Series of Bonds, may be limited by bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization or similar laws affecting the enforcement of creditors’ rights generally and by general equitable principles;

(b) A Certificate of the SFPUC stating that (i) no Event of Default, nor any event or condition which with notice and/or the passage of time would constitute an Event of Default, has occurred and is continuing under the Indenture as of the date of issuance of such Series of Bonds and (ii) the issuance of such Series of Bonds, in and of itself, will not cause an Event of Default under the Indenture;

(c) A Certificate of the SFPUC to the effect that provision has been made for the immediate deposit into the Reserve Account for such Series of Bonds of money, Authorized Investments, Reserve Account Credit Facility or Facilities or any combination of the foregoing in an aggregate amount equal to the Reserve Requirement, if any, for such Series of Bonds; and

(d) Either,

(i) A Certificate of the SFPUC stating that, in each of the first three full Fiscal Years after the sale of such Series of Bonds, projected Net Revenues:

(A) Plus Available Funds, are at least 1.25 times Annual Debt Service on the Outstanding Bonds, after giving effect to the issuance of such Series of Bonds, and

(B) Are at least 1.0 times Annual Debt Service on the Outstanding Bonds, plus required deposits into the Reserve Fund, after giving effect to the issuance of such Series of Bonds; or

(ii) A Certificate of the SFPUC stating that Net Revenues from any twelve consecutive months of the prior twenty-four months:

(A) Plus Available Funds, are at least 1.25 times the Annual Debt Service on the Bonds Outstanding, after giving effect to the issuance of such Series of Bonds, and

(B) Are at least 1.0 times Annual Debt Service on the Bonds Outstanding, plus required deposits into the Reserve Fund, after giving effect to the issuance of such Series of Bonds.

For purposes of paragraph (ii) the following adjustments may be made to Net Revenues for such period, if so stated in the Certificate of the SFPUC:

(I) An allowance for additional Revenues anticipated from any additions, extensions and improvements to the Power Enterprise to be acquired or constructed from proceeds of such or a prior Series of Bonds and for any changes in Operation and Maintenance Expenses resulting therefrom, that are not reflected in Net Revenues for such Fiscal Year, but only if such additional Revenues and changes in Operation and Maintenance Expenses represent a full twelve months' change in Net Revenues attributable to such additions, extensions and improvements; and

(II) An allowance for additional Revenues attributable to any increase in the rates and charges imposed by the SFPUC that (A) was in effect prior to the issuance of such Series of Bonds but which, during all or part of such Fiscal Year, was not in effect, or (B) was adopted by the SFPUC prior to the issuance of such Series of Bonds and will be in effect within 90 days after such issuance, but in either case only if such additional Revenues represent a full twelve (12) months' change in Net Revenues attributable to such increase in rates and charges.

Refunding Bonds may be issued by the SFPUC to provide funds sufficient for the payment of any or all of the following:

(1) The Principal, Purchase Price or Redemption Price of the Bonds or Original Bonds (as defined in the Indenture) to be refunded;

(2) All expenses incident to the purchase, call, redemption, retirement or payment of the Bonds or Original Bonds to be refunded;

(3) The costs of issuance of such Series of Refunding Bonds;

(4) Interest on the Bonds or Original Bonds to be refunded to the date such Bonds or Original Bonds will be purchased, redeemed, retired or paid;

(5) Interest on such Series of Refunding Bonds from the date thereof to the date of purchase, redemption, retirement or payment of the Bonds or Original Bonds to be refunded; and

(6) Any other lawful payment obligations, costs or expenses in connection with the issuance of the Refunding Bonds and the purchase, redemption, retirement or payment of the Bonds or Original Bonds to be refunded.

Refunding Bonds may be issued by the SFPUC only upon receipt by the Trustee of, among other things, the following:

(i) The documents specified in paragraphs (a) and (c) above under this subcaption “– Indenture Requirements”; and

(ii) Either (A) the document specified in paragraph (d) above under this subcaption “– Indenture Requirements”, or (B) a Certificate of the SFPUC stating that the issuance of such Series of Refunding Bonds will not result in any aggregate increase in Annual Debt Service for the Bonds greater than $100,000 in any Fiscal Year that such Series of Refunding Bonds is scheduled to be Outstanding; and

(iii) An opinion of Bond Counsel that (A) all liability of the SFPUC in respect of the Bonds to be refunded has ceased, terminated and been discharged, pursuant to the terms of the Master Indenture and the Supplemental Trust Indenture pursuant to which such Bonds were issued, and the Owners of such Bonds are entitled to payment of the Principal, Purchase Price or Redemption Price of and interest on such Bonds only out of the money or securities deposited with the Trustee for the payment of such Bonds or (B) all liability of the SFPUC in respect of the Original Bonds to be refunded has ceased, terminated and been discharged, pursuant to the terms of the resolution or resolutions pursuant to which such Original Bonds were issued, and the owners of such Original Bonds are entitled to payment of the principal, purchase price or redemption price of and interest on such Original Bonds only out of the money or securities deposited with the trustee for the owners of such Original Bonds for the payment of such Original Bonds.

Certain Obligations Payable as Operations and Maintenance Expenses

The Indenture prohibits the SFPUC from entering into any Take-or-Pay Power Purchase Agreement payable from Revenues as an Operation and Maintenance Expense unless the SFPUC shall first deliver to the Trustee a Certificate of the SFPUC demonstrating compliance with the requirements set forth in paragraph (d) under “– Additional Series of Bonds – Indenture Requirements” for the first three full Fiscal Years following the Fiscal Year in which such Take-or-Pay Power Purchase Agreement will become effective.

The Indenture defines a “Take-or-Pay Power Purchase Agreement” as a contract (a) with a term of more than five years, (b) pursuant to which the SFPUC is obligated (i) to purchase capacity or energy from a generating facility, and (ii) to pay for such capacity or energy as an Operation and Maintenance Expense regardless of whether or not such capacity or energy is taken by or made available or delivered to the SFPUC, and (c) the payments pursuant to which are directly pledged and applied to pay and secure debt obligations issued to finance such generating facility.

Subordinate Obligations; Obligations Not Payable from Revenues

The Indenture permits the SFPUC to authorize and issue or incur, without limitation, bonds, notes, warrants, certificates or other obligations or evidences of indebtedness, the principal of or interest on which would be payable either (i) from Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits and after and subordinate to the payment from Revenues of the principal of and interest on the Bonds, or (ii) from moneys which are not Revenues. See “OBLIGATIONS PAYABLE FROM REVENUES – Subordinate Obligations.”

Authorized Investments

The Indenture provides that moneys in all funds and accounts held by the Trustee under the Indenture shall be invested upon receipt in Authorized Investments as directed by the SFPUC. “Authorized Investments” means any obligations on investments in which the Treasurer may legally invest the SFPUC’s funds. For information regarding the investment of moneys held in the various funds and accounts of the SFPUC, see “FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Investment of SFPUC Funds.”

OBLIGATIONS PAYABLE FROM REVENUES

Authority for Issuance of Revenue Bonds and Other Obligations Payable from Revenues

City Charter. The Charter authorizes the SFPUC to issue revenue bonds and commercial paper notes and other obligations payable from and secured by a pledge of Revenues. The Charter requires voter approval of revenue bonds issued by the SFPUC unless a specific exception to the voter approval requirement applies. See “– Proposition A,” “– Reconstruction or Replacement of Existing Facilities,” “– Renewable Energy and Energy Conservation” and “– Refunding Bonds” below. The 2023A Bonds are being issued pursuant to the authority granted by the specific exceptions to the voter approval requirement contained in such provisions of the Charter.

Proposition A. On June 5, 2018, voters of San Francisco approved Proposition A, amending Section 8B.124 of the Charter (enacted by Proposition E, approved by voters of San Francisco on November 5, 2002 (“Proposition E”)) to authorize the issuance of revenue bonds, including notes, commercial paper or other forms of indebtedness, when authorized by ordinance approved by a two-thirds vote of the Board of Supervisors, for the purpose of reconstructing, replacing, expanding, repairing or improving water facilities, clean water facilities, power facilities or combinations of water, clean water and power facilities under the SFPUC’s jurisdiction.

Reconstruction or Replacement of Existing Facilities. Section 9.107(6) of the Charter provides that no voter approval is required for bonds issued for the purpose of the reconstruction or replacement of existing water facilities or electric power facilities or combinations of water and electric power facilities under the jurisdiction of the SFPUC when authorized by resolution adopted by a three-fourths affirmative vote of all members of the Board of Supervisors.

Renewable Energy and Energy Conservation. Section 9.107(8) of the Charter provides that no voter approval is required for bonds issued to finance or refinance the acquisition, construction, installation, equipping, improvement or rehabilitation of equipment or facilities for renewable energy and energy conservation.

Refunding Bonds. Section 9.109 of the Charter authorizes the Board of Supervisors to provide for the issuance of bonds for the purpose of refunding revenue bonds without voter approval if the issuance and sale of such refunding bonds are expected to result in net debt service savings on a present value basis, calculated as provided by ordinance.

Ordinance No. 40-15. Ordinance No. 40-15 enacted the Public Utilities Commission Power Enterprise Revenue Bond Law. Ordinance 40-15 establishes procedures for the issuance of Power Enterprise revenue bonds and provides that “the City, including without limitation the [SFPUC], shall fix, establish, maintain, approve and collect rates and charges for electric power and energy and other services, facilities and commodities sold, furnished or supplied through the Power Enterprise, including on, for and from the City and its departments, agencies and commissions, to provide [Power Enterprise revenues] sufficient (a) to pay all costs and expenses of the Power Enterprise, including without limitation debt service on [Power Enterprise revenue bonds], (b) to provide appropriate reserves therefor, and (c) to satisfy the debt service coverage and other requirements under each [indenture providing for the issuance of Power Enterprise revenue bonds]” (bracketed language added).

Senior Obligations; Parity Obligations

The SFPUC has not issued or incurred any obligations (other than obligations constituting Operation and Maintenance Expenses) or issued or created additional indebtedness payable from Revenues senior to payment of the Bonds, including the 2023A Bonds.

The 2023A Bonds are the third Series of Bonds to be issued under the Master Indenture. The SFPUC has previously issued the 2015AB Bonds and the 2021AB Bonds. As of September 1, 2023, the Outstanding Bonds are outstanding in the aggregate principal amount of $158,910,000. There are currently no other obligations of the SFPUC payable from Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits, on a parity with the Outstanding Bonds and the 2023A Bonds.

Subordinate Obligations

The Power Enterprise has previously issued and incurred, and in the future may issue, bonds or notes or incur other obligations of the Power Enterprises secured by a pledge of and lien and charge on Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits, junior and inferior to the pledge, lien and charge securing repayment of the Bonds (the “Subordinate Obligations”).

In October 2011, the SFPUC issued $8,291,000 aggregate principal amount of taxable qualified energy conservation bonds (“QECBs”) to fund certain qualified components for the SFPUC’s 525 Golden Gate Headquarters project. The QECBs mature in Fiscal Year 2027-28 and the annual debt service relating to the QECBs, net of anticipated federal subsidy payments to the SFPUC, is $591,198.

In October 2015, the SFPUC issued $4,100,000 aggregate principal amount of new clean renewable energy bonds (“NCREBs”) to fund certain qualified clean, renewable energy solar generation facilities at the Marina Middle School and the San Francisco Police Academy. The NCREBs mature in Fiscal Year 2032-33 and the annual debt service relating to the NCREBs, net of anticipated federal subsidy payments to the SFPUC, on average, is $169,559.

The SFPUC has a commercial paper program to fund construction costs relating to Power Enterprise capital projects. The commercial paper program is authorized in the amount of $250 million for the SFPUC to issue commercial paper notes (the “Commercial Paper Notes”). The Commercial Paper Notes are secured by two separate letters of credit, each with Bank of America, N.A., each in the amount of $125 million and each with a stated expiration date of March 6, 2026. See “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Commercial Paper Note Credit Facilities.” As of September 20, 2023, the SFPUC had approximately $117.7 million principal amount of and interest on Commercial Paper Notes outstanding. Approximately $117.7 million principal amount of and interest on Commercial Paper Notes will be refunded with proceeds of the 2023A Bonds on or around October 12, 2023.

The QECBs, NCREBs and the Commercial Paper Notes constitute Subordinate Obligations under the Indenture.

Contingent Payment Obligations

The Power Enterprise has no interest rate swaps, caps or hedges or other contingent payment obligations payable from Revenues. The Power Enterprise may in the future, however, incur contingent payment obligations payable from Revenues. Such contingent payment obligations may be payable on a parity with the Bonds if the conditions for the issuance of parity debt under the Indenture are satisfied. See “SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – No Senior Obligations; Other Parity Obligations.”

Power Purchase Agreements

In June 2009, the Power Enterprise entered into a 25-year power purchase agreement with SFCity1, LP, to purchase electricity generated from a solar photovoltaic project located at Sunset Reservoir. The facility achieved commercial operation in November 2010. Duke Energy (“Duke Energy”) has assumed ownership of the project and the obligations under power purchase agreement. In accordance with the terms and conditions thereof, Duke Energy will sell and deliver, and the Power Enterprise will purchase and accept, all of the output of the project (the “Sunset Solar Generating Project”).

Payments made by the Power Enterprise under its agreement with Duke Energy constitute Operation and Maintenance Expenses under the Indenture. See “SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – Pledge of Revenues – Net Revenues.” In Fiscal Years 2020-21 and 2021-22, the Power Enterprise purchased approximately 6,598 megawatt-hours (“MWh”) of electricity for a total payment of $2.13 million and approximately 6,460 MWh of electricity for a total payment of $2.23 million, respectively. The SFPUC estimates purchasing approximately 6,607 MWh of electricity for a total payment of approximately $2.25 million in Fiscal Year 2022-23.

Other Obligations Payable from Revenues

The SFPUC completed the construction of a 13-story office building at 525 Golden Gate Avenue in San Francisco to house the administrative offices of the SFPUC's three utility enterprises, and moved into the building in July 2012. Total project costs were approximately $202 million and were financed with land and property sale proceeds, fund balances, grants and the proceeds of certificates of participation (the "2009 Golden Gate COPs"), representing interests in a City General Fund lease, executed and delivered in two series (one of which constitutes Build America Bonds) on October 7, 2009, in the aggregate principal amount of $167,670,000. The final maturity date of the 2009 Golden Gate COPs is November 1, 2041. As of September 1, 2023, the principal amount outstanding of the 2009 Golden Gate COPs was $129,550,000. Pursuant to a memorandum of understanding between the City and the SFPUC, the SFPUC reimburses the City General Fund for all debt service in connection with this City financing (net of Refundable Credits received). The SFPUC allocates such payment obligations internally among its three utility enterprises based on percentage usage. The Power Enterprise is responsible for 9.72% of such obligations, payable from Revenues on a basis subordinate to the payment of principal of and interest on the Bonds.

Revenue Bond Oversight Committee

On November 5, 2002, the voters of San Francisco adopted Proposition P, an ordinance that established the Public Utilities Revenue Bond Oversight Committee ("RBOC") to report publicly to the Mayor, the SFPUC and the Board of Supervisors regarding the expenditure of revenue bond proceeds on the repair, replacement, upgrading and expansion of the Wastewater Enterprise, the Water Enterprise and the Power Enterprise.

The RBOC has seven members appointed as follows: two by the Mayor, two by the Board of Supervisors, one by the City Controller, one by the Bay Area Water Users Association under the auspices of the Bay Area Water Supply and Conservation Agency. The seventh member is the City's Budget Analyst or their representative. Pursuant to Proposition P, the RBOC receives 1/20th of 1% of the gross new money revenue bond proceeds to fund the cost of retaining the services of outside auditors, inspectors, and necessary experts to perform independent reviews.

The provisions of the ordinance establishing the RBOC are set to expire on January 1, 2025.

The RBOC may, by majority vote of all its members, prohibit the issuance or sale of authorized SFPUC revenue bonds which have yet to be issued or sold if, after reviewing materials provided by the SFPUC and conducting its own independent audit, and after consultation with the City Attorney, the RBOC determines that revenue bond proceeds have been or are being spent on purposes not authorized by the authorizing bond resolution or otherwise in a manner amounting to an illegal expenditure or illegal waste of such revenue bond proceeds. The SFPUC may appeal such a decision to the Board of Supervisors within 30 days. The Board of Supervisors may overturn such a decision by the RBOC by a two-thirds vote of all members of the Board of Supervisors with evidence from the SFPUC of corrective measures satisfactory to the Board of Supervisors or may remand the decision to the RBOC for further consideration. To date, the RBOC has not prohibited the issuance or sale of any authorized SFPUC revenue bonds of the Wastewater Enterprise, the Water Enterprise or the Power Enterprise.

General. San Francisco is the economic and cultural center of the San Francisco Bay Area and northern California. The limits of San Francisco encompass over 93 square miles, of which 49 square miles are land, with the balance consisting of tidelands and a portion of the San Francisco Bay (the “Bay”). San Francisco is located at the northern tip of the San Francisco Peninsula, bounded by the Pacific Ocean to the west, the Bay and the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge to the east, the entrance to the Bay and the Golden Gate Bridge to the north, and San Mateo County to the south. Silicon Valley is about a 40-minute drive to the south, and the Napa-Sonoma wine country is about an hour’s drive to the north. The City estimates San Francisco’s population in fiscal year 2021-22 was 804,534.

The San Francisco Bay Area consists of the nine counties contiguous to the Bay: Alameda, Contra Costa, Marin, Napa, San Francisco, San Mateo, Santa Clara, Solano and Sonoma Counties (collectively, the “Bay Area”). The economy of the Bay Area includes a wide range of industries, supplying local needs as well as the needs of national and international markets. Major business sectors in the Bay Area include technology, retail, entertainment and the arts, conventions and tourism, service businesses, banking, professional and financial services, corporate headquarters, international and wholesale trade, multimedia and advertising, healthcare and higher education. The California State Supreme Court is also based in San Francisco.

The COVID-19 pandemic materially adversely affected the City’s population, finances and operations. Many aspects of the City’s future finances and operations and the local economy have been and may continue to be materially adversely impacted by the COVID-19 pandemic. To date, City economic and tax revenue losses associated with the COVID-19 pandemic have been significant. While COVID-19 case rates have significantly declined, vaccination rates have increased, certain emergency orders have been lifted, and the national and local economy has been improving, the situation is still developing and the resulting impact on the City’s local economy, population, finances and operations remains unknown.

San Francisco has historically been a major convention and tourist destination. However, the COVID-19 pandemic has significantly adversely impacted, and may continue to adversely impact tourism and convention activities in San Francisco. According to the San Francisco Travel Association, a nonprofit membership organization (“SFTA”), approximately 21.9 million tourists visited San Francisco in calendar year 2022, approximately 17.1 million tourists visited San Francisco in calendar year 2021, approximately 11.8 million tourists visited San Francisco in calendar year 2020 and approximately 26.3 million tourists visited San Francisco in calendar year 2019. SFTA also estimates that total spending, including spending from conventions, trade shows and group meetings, was $7.7 billion in calendar year 2022, $3.69 billion in calendar year 2021, $2.85 billion in calendar year 2020 and $10.29 billion in calendar year 2019.

San Francisco is also a leading center for financial activity in California. The headquarters of the Twelfth Federal Reserve District and the Eleventh District Federal Home Loan Bank are located in San Francisco.

San Francisco benefits from a highly skilled, educated and professional labor force. The City estimates the per-capita personal income of San Francisco for fiscal year 2021-22 was $170,483. The San Francisco Unified School District (“SFUSD”), which is a separate legal entity from the City, operates 66 elementary schools, six alternative configured schools, 13 middle schools, 14 high schools, 13 early education schools, three continuation/alternative schools and six county schools. Higher education institutions located in San Francisco include the University of San Francisco, California State University – San Francisco, University of California – San Francisco (a medical school and health science campus) (“UCSF”), UC College of the Law, San Francisco (formerly University of California Hastings College of the Law), the University of the Pacific’s School of Dentistry, Golden Gate University, City College of San Francisco (a public community college), the San Francisco Conservatory of Music, and the Academy of Art University.

San Francisco International Airport (“SFO”), located 14 miles south of downtown San Francisco in an unincorporated area of San Mateo County, is owned by the City and is operated by the San Francisco Airport Commission (the “Airport Commission”), and is the principal commercial service airport for the Bay Area and one of the nation’s principal gateways for Pacific Rim traffic. As discussed above, the COVID-19 pandemic has significantly adversely impacted tourism and travel in the San Francisco Bay Area. In fiscal year 2021-22, SFO served approximately 34.8 million passengers (compared to approximately 13.7 million passengers in fiscal year 2020-21, 40.5 million passengers in fiscal year 2019-20 and 57.4 million passengers in fiscal year 2018-19) and handled 545,335 metric tons of cargo (compared to 471,793 metric tons in fiscal year 2020-21, 490,073 metric tons in fiscal year 2019-20 and 564,485 metric tons in fiscal year 2018-19). San Francisco is also served by the Bay Area Rapid Transit District (“BART”), an electric rail commuter service linking San Francisco with the East Bay and the San Francisco Peninsula, including SFO), Caltrain (a conventional commuter rail line linking the City with the San Francisco Peninsula), and bus and ferry services between San Francisco and residential areas to the north, east and south of San Francisco. San Francisco Municipal Railway (“Muni”), operated by the San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency (“SFMTA”), provides bus and streetcar service within San Francisco (although since fiscal year 2019-20, telecommuting resulting from emergency stay-at-home orders caused ridership into and within San Francisco to decline significantly compared to pre-pandemic levels). The Port of San Francisco (the “Port”), which administers 7.5 miles of Bay waterfront held in “public trust” by the Port on behalf of the people of California, promotes a balance of maritime-related commerce, fishing, recreational, industrial and commercial activities, and natural resource protection.

Government. San Francisco is a city and county chartered pursuant to Article XI, Sections 3, 4, 5 and 6 of the Constitution of the State of California and is the only consolidated city and county in California. Voters approved the City’s current Charter at the November 1995 election. The City is governed by a Board of Supervisors elected from 11 districts to serve four-year terms, and a Mayor who serves as chief executive officer, elected citywide to a four-year term. The City’s original budget for fiscal years 2022-23 and 2023-24 totals $14.0 billion and $13.9 billion, respectively. The General Fund portion of the original proposed budget is $6.8 billion in fiscal year 2022-23 and $6.9 billion in fiscal year 2023-24, with the balance allocated to all other funds, including enterprise fund departments, such as the Airport Commission, SFMTA, the Port Commission and the SFPUC. According to the City’s Controller (the “Controller”), at the start of fiscal year 2022-23, total net assessed valuation of taxable property in San Francisco was approximately $328.6 billion.

City Financial Challenges. The COVID-19 pandemic resulted in general negative effects on the City’s economy. In addition, the local, State and national economies have faced significant headwinds, including multiple interest rate increases by the Federal Reserve, continuing price inflation, volatile investment markets, and economic disruption resulting from the war in Ukraine and other factors. Furthermore, on August 1, 2023, the Controller issued its most recent report on the status of the San Francisco economy (the “Controller’s Report”). The Controller’s Report noted that the local labor market remains strong, with the San Francisco unemployment rate at 3.2%. However, the Controller’s Report also notes that office vacancy increased in the second quarter of 2023, while rents, office attendance and downtown transit ridership remaining largely flat. Previous reports from the Controller in calendar year 2023 have also noted that housing prices are continuing to fall faster in San Francisco than Statewide.

THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION

General

The SFPUC is a department of the City responsible for the maintenance, operation and development of three utility enterprises: (i) the Water Enterprise, (ii) the Wastewater Enterprise and (iii) Hetch Hetchy Water and Power and CleanPowerSF. For financial purposes, the Hetch Hetchy Water and Power and CleanPowerSF enterprise is comprised of three funds: (i) Hetch Hetchy Water, (ii) the Power Enterprise and (iii) CleanPowerSF. See “INTRODUCTION – The San Francisco Public Utilities Commission and the Power Enterprise” for a chart showing the organizational structure of the SFPUC’s enterprise funds.

The revenues of the Water Enterprise, the Wastewater Enterprise and CleanPowerSF, and the revenues allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water, as described under “– Organization, Purposes and Powers” below, are not available for payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the Bonds, including the 2023A Bonds. See “SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – Pledge of Revenues.”

Organization, Purposes and Powers

The SFPUC has been established under and is governed by the provisions of the Charter, including the provisions respecting the priority of appropriations from enterprise revenues in Section 16.103 of the Charter.

Hetch Hetchy Water and Power. Hetch Hetchy Water and Power is comprised of two key components: Hetch Hetchy Water, which operates and maintains the Hetch Hetchy Project, and Hetch Hetchy Power (known and referred to in this Official Statement as the “Power Enterprise”), which is responsible for all SFPUC power utility commercial transactions and in-city power operations. The Hetch Hetchy Project provides water for distribution through the Water Enterprise and hydroelectric power for delivery through the Power Enterprise. A number of the facilities of the Hetch Hetchy Project are joint assets and are used for both water transmission and power generation and transmission, benefitting both Hetch Hetchy Water and the Power Enterprise. All publicly-owned utility power sales revenues are allocated to the Power Enterprise. Operating and capital costs benefitting the Power Enterprise and 55% of operating and capital costs that jointly benefit both Hetch Hetchy Water and the Power Enterprise are allocated to the Power Enterprise. See “THE POWER ENTERPRISE.” Operating and capital costs benefitting Hetch Hetchy Water and 45% of operating and capital costs jointly benefitting both Hetch Hetchy Water and the Power Enterprise are allocated to the Water Enterprise.

The Power Enterprise was created in February 2005 as a separate system and accounting unit within Hetch Hetchy Water and Power. The Power Enterprise provides retail electric service to meet the municipal requirements of the City, including power to operate the SFMTA’s streetcars and electric buses, Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital and Trauma Center, City Hall, police stations, fire stations and schools, certain Port facilities, street and traffic lights, municipal buildings and other City facilities, such as SFO, and to certain public agencies and retail customers and provides pedestrian and streetlight operation and maintenance services, energy efficiency, and distributed generation services to San Francisco residents and businesses and other customers. The Power Enterprise also operates and maintains the natural gas and electric utilities systems on Treasure Island/Yerba Buena Island pursuant to an agreement with TIDA. Additionally, the Power Enterprise is obligated to provide power to the Districts and to other customers consistent with prescribed contractual obligations and federal law. See “THE POWER ENTERPRISE.”

CleanPowerSF. In May 2016, the SFPUC began serving customers through CleanPowerSF, a Community Choice Aggregation program. CleanPowerSF is a “Separate System” under the Indenture. Under CleanPowerSF, the SFPUC pools the electricity demands of many San Francisco residents and businesses that are retail electric distribution customers of PG&E, for the purpose of buying electricity on behalf of such customers. CleanPowerSF, which currently serves over 380,000 accounts, gives residential and commercial electricity consumers in San Francisco a choice of having their electricity supplied from clean renewable sources, such as solar, wind, and geothermal, at competitive rates. CleanPowerSF offers three products: the default “Green” product comprised of at least 50% California renewable portfolio standards (“RPS”)-eligible renewable energy; the “SuperGreen” product comprised of 100% RPS-eligible renewable energy; and the “SuperGreen Saver” product comprised of 100% RPS-eligible renewable energy in which eligible low-income customers receive a 20% bill discount. CleanPowerSF is an opt-out program and customers can choose to use CleanPowerSF or stay with PG&E's existing generation service. Since the SFPUC began serving customers through CleanPowerSF, the program has maintained an approximately 96% participation rate, or an approximately 4% opt-out rate.

The revenues of CleanPowerSF are not "Revenues" under the Indenture, and are not available to pay and do not secure the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the Bonds, including the 2023A Bonds. See "SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – Pledge of Revenues."

Water Enterprise. Approximately 2.7 million people rely on water supplied by the SFPUC to meet their daily water needs through its Water Enterprise. The SFPUC serves as the retail water supplier for San Francisco and is responsible for water deliveries to residents and institutions within the San Francisco city limits, as well as to a number of retail accounts outside of the San Francisco city limits. In addition, the SFPUC sells water to 26 wholesale customer entities in San Mateo, Alameda and Santa Clara counties pursuant to the Water Supply Agreement, which became effective in 2009 and was most recently amended and restated in 2021 (the "Water Supply Agreement") and individual contractual agreements, and one additional wholesale customer pursuant to an individual contractual agreement.

The revenues of the Water Enterprise are not "Revenues" under the Indenture, and are not available to pay and do not secure the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the Bonds, including the 2023A Bonds. See "SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – Pledge of Revenues."

Wastewater Enterprise. The Wastewater Enterprise's collection and treatment system consists of a combined sewer collection system conveying sewage and stormwater flows within San Francisco to three water pollution control plants, also located within San Francisco. Treated effluent flows are then discharged through deep-water outfalls into the San Francisco Bay and Pacific Ocean. The Wastewater Enterprise also currently provides sewage treatment service on Treasure Island pursuant to contract and operates an onsite sewage and stormwater reclamation and treatment facility at the SFPUC headquarters at 525 Golden Gate Avenue.

The revenues of the Wastewater Enterprise are not "Revenues" under the Indenture, and are not available to pay and do not secure the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the Bonds, including the 2023A Bonds. See "SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – Pledge of Revenues."

Commission Members

Under the Charter, the SFPUC is given exclusive charge of the operation and management of all water, wastewater and energy supplies and utilities owned or maintained by the City, as well as the real, personal and financial assets under the SFPUC's jurisdiction. The SFPUC is governed by the Commission.

The Commission consists of five members appointed by the Mayor, subject to confirmation by a majority of the Board of Supervisors. Seat 1 is designated for a member with experience in environmental policy and an understanding of environmental justice issues. Seat 2 is designated for a member with experience in ratepayer or consumer advocacy. Seat 3 is designated for a member with experience in project finance. Seat 4 is designated for a member with expertise in water systems, power systems, or public utility management. Seat 5 is designated for an at-large member. Members are appointed for four-year terms and are eligible for reappointment. Members may be suspended by the Mayor and may be removed by a three-fourths vote of the Board of Supervisors for official misconduct.

Ongoing Investigations

In January 2020, the City's former Director of Public Works, Mohammad Nuru, was criminally charged with public corruption, including honest services wire fraud and lying to Federal Bureau of Investigation ("FBI") agents. In February 2020, then-City Attorney Dennis Herrera and Controller Ben Rosenfield announced the initiation of a joint investigation stemming from the federal criminal charges against Mr. Nuru. The City Attorney's Office focused on holding public officials and City vendors accountable. The Controller undertook a public integrity review of contracts, purchase orders, and grants to the City.

Mr. Nuru resigned from employment with the City in February 2020. In January 2022, Mr. Nuru pled guilty to taking bribes from contractors, developers, and entities he regulated, including bribes from Walter Wong, a San Francisco construction company executive and permit expediting consultant, who ran or controlled multiple entities doing business with the City. In August 2022, the district court judge sentenced Mr. Nuru to 84 months in prison.

Mr. Wong was criminally charged in June 2020 with conspiring with City officials and laundering money. As part of the criminal investigation into Mr. Nuru and Mr. Wong, the SFPUC received a federal, criminal, grand jury subpoena in June 2020 to produce documents, communications, contracts and records, including the complete personnel file of the SFPUC's former General Manager, Harlan L. Kelly, Jr.

In November 2020, Mr. Kelly was charged in a criminal complaint with one count of honest services wire fraud. The complaint alleged that Mr. Kelly also engaged in a long-running bribery scheme and corrupt partnership with Mr. Wong. The complaint further alleged that as part of the scheme, Mr. Wong provided items of value to Mr. Kelly in exchange for official acts by Mr. Kelly that benefited or attempted to benefit Mr. Wong's business ventures. According to the criminal complaint against Mr. Kelly, Mr. Wong bribed Mr. Kelly with thousands of dollars in airfare, meals, jewelry, and travel expenses, as well as by making improvements to Mr. Kelly's home.

Mr. Wong pled guilty in July 2020 and continues to cooperate with the ongoing federal criminal investigation. Mr. Wong has not been sentenced.

Mr. Wong settled civilly with the City in May 2021. As part of his civil settlement, he and his companies agreed to pay the City more than $300,000 in ethics fines and more than $1 million in restitution. The total restitution amount to the City includes $73,000 that he received through the SFPUC when Mr. Kelly was General Manager.

Mr. Kelly resigned from employment with the City, effective November 30, 2020. Michael Carlin, former-Deputy General Manager of the SFPUC, then served as the Acting General Manager of the SFPUC through October 31, 2021. Mr. Herrera began serving as General Manager of the SFPUC on November 1, 2021.

Since Mr. Nuru's arrest in January 2020, the Controller's Office, in consultation with the City Attorney, has issued 11 public integrity reviews. Ten of the 11 reports focus primarily on City departments other than the SFPUC. The Controller's Office's December 9, 2021 Public Integrity Audit looked specifically at SFPUC's Social Impact Partnership Program and made seven recommendations to strengthen internal controls and oversight. The SFPUC concurred with all seven of those recommendations, and as of September 2023, five of the seven recommendations had been implemented and two were in progress.

In October 2021, a criminal grand jury returned an indictment against Mr. Kelly and Victor Makras, a San Francisco real estate broker and property developer. Mr. Makras formerly served on several City boards and commissions, including the Port Commission, Police Commission, Public Utilities Commission, and Retirement Board. In addition to the original charges against Mr. Kelly of conspiracy with Mr. Wong, the indictment added charges of bank fraud and bank fraud conspiracy related to a $1.3 million loan Mr. Kelly obtained from Quicken Loans.

Mr. Makras' case was severed from Mr. Kelly's, and in August 2022, a jury convicted Mr. Makras of bank fraud for his role in making false statements to the bank in support of the loan to Mr. Kelly. In December 2022, Mr. Makras was sentenced to three years of probation and fined $15,200.

On July 14, 2023, Mr. Kelly was convicted of one count of conspiracy to commit honest services wire fraud, one count of honest services wire fraud, and four counts related to charges stemming from a bank fraud scheme. The jury found Mr. Kelly not guilty of two honest services wire fraud counts. No sentence has been pronounced for Mr. Kelly.

On August 29, 2023, the San Francisco District Attorney charged Lanita Henriquez, who served as the director of the San Francisco Community Challenge Grant Program under the Office of the San Francisco City Administrator, and Rudolph Dwayne Jones, a former City official who occasionally served as a prime contractor and a subcontractor to the SFPUC, with counts of misappropriation of public monies, bribery, and financial conflict of interest in a government contract. It is alleged that Ms. Henriquez and Mr. Jones misappropriated public money between 2016 and 2020, that Mr. Jones wrote Ms. Henriquez multiple checks in 2017 and 2018 totaling $25,000, while Ms. Henriquez directed government grant contracts exceeding $1.4 million to entities controlled by Mr. Jones, in which entities Ms. Henriquez also had a financial stake, between 2016 and 2020.

The San Francisco District Attorney has not alleged any impropriety in connection with the sole grant program Ms. Henriquez administered for the SFPUC and the SFPUC has confirmed that there are no active direct contracts between the SFPUC and Mr. Jones or his affiliated entities. The SFPUC has, however, identified four subcontracts between Mr. Jones or his affiliated entities and other SFPUC prime contractors that were effective on the date that Mr. Jones was charged. On September 8, 2023, the SFPUC directed each of the four prime contractors retaining Mr. Jones and/or RDJ Enterprises, LLC, an entity affiliated with Mr. Jones (collectively, “RDJ”), to terminate or cancel any subcontract, service order, or other contractual arrangement with RDJ.

The FBI investigation is ongoing, and the City can give no assurance when the FBI will complete its investigation. The San Francisco District Attorney’s Office Public Integrity Task Force has also independently investigated certain of the matters described here, and the City can give no assurance when this task force will complete its investigation.

Proposed Transaction with Pacific Gas & Electric Company

In September 2019, in connection with the bankruptcy of PG&E and PG&E Corporation, the City submitted a non-binding indication of interest to PG&E and PG&E Corporation to purchase substantially all of PG&E’s electric distribution and transmission assets needed to provide retail electric service to all electricity customers within the geographic boundaries of San Francisco (collectively, the “Targeted Assets”) for a purchase price of $2.5 billion. PG&E emerged from bankruptcy on July 1, 2020. The City subsequently submitted additional non-binding indications of interest to PG&E in September 2020 and May 2023. PG&E has not indicated a willingness to sell any such assets. The City remains interested in acquiring these assets from PG&E and, in July 2021, submitted a petition to the CPUC for a formal determination of the fair market value of PG&E’s assets the City is interested in acquiring. In April 2023, the City filed direct testimony of four expert witnesses with the CPUC regarding the specific assets under consideration for acquisition and the value of such assets. In June 2023, the City initiated preparation of an environmental impact report in compliance with the California Environmental Quality Act (“CEQA”). A transaction has not been consummated with PG&E, and neither the SFPUC nor the City are able to predict whether a transaction will be consummated or what the terms of any such transaction would be, if consummated.

In the event the City purchases or otherwise acquires all or a substantial portion of the electric distribution and transmission assets of PG&E needed to provide retail electric service to all electricity customers within the geographic boundaries of the City, the Indenture requires that the SFPUC either operate such service as a Separate System or provide for all then Outstanding Bonds to be defeased or retired pursuant to applicable provisions of the Indenture in connection with such purchase or acquisition. In the Third Supplemental Indenture, the SFPUC covenants that it will not elect to operate such service as a Separate System unless the SFPUC has determined that such operation will not have a material adverse effect on the holders of, or the security pledged for the payment of, the Bonds.

Employee Relations

San Francisco. The City’s budget for fiscal years 2022-23 and 2023-24 included approximately 39,813 and 40,028 full-time and part-time budgeted and funded City positions, respectively. City workers are represented by 36 different labor unions. The largest unions in the City include the Service Employees International Union, Local 1021 (“SEIU”) and the International Federation of Professional and Technical Engineers, Local 21 (“IFPTE”), which represent Power Enterprise employees.

Wages, hours and working conditions of City employees, including employees of the SFPUC, are determined by collective bargaining pursuant to State law (the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act, California Government Code Sections 3500-3511) and the City Charter. San Francisco is unusual among California’s cities and counties in that nearly all of its employees, including managerial and executive-level employees, are represented by labor organizations.

Further, the City Charter requires binding arbitration to resolve negotiations in the event of impasse. If impasse occurs, the parties are required to convene a tripartite arbitration panel, chaired by an impartial third-party arbitrator, which sets the disputed terms of the new agreement. The award of the arbitration panel is final and binding. This process applies to almost all City employees. Since 1976, no City employees have participated in a union-authorized strike, which is prohibited by the City Charter. On July 24, 2023, the California Public Employment Relations Board (“PERB”) ruled in favor of the SEIU and IFPTE, concluding that City Charter sections A8.346 and A8.409 prohibiting strikes by City employees are invalid, affirming an earlier ruling of an administrative law judge that such City Charter provisions violate the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act. The City has filed a notice of appeal to the California Court of Appeal with respect to the PERB decision. The City can give no assurance whether the appeal will be successful. See “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Risks Related to Power Enterprise Operations and Facilities – Labor Actions.”

The City’s employee selection procedures are established and maintained through a civil service system. In general, selection procedures and other merit system issues, with the exception of discipline, are not subject to arbitration. Disciplinary actions are generally subject to grievance arbitration, with the exception of sworn police officers and fire fighters.

In May 2019, the City negotiated three-year agreements (for fiscal years 2019-20 through 2021-22) with 27 labor unions, including IFPTE, which represents Power Enterprise employees. For fiscal year 2019-20, the parties agreed to wage increases of 3% on July 1, 2019 and 1% on December 28, 2019. For fiscal year 2020-21, the parties agreed to a wage increase schedule of 3% on July 1, 2020 and 0.5% on December 26, 2020, with a provision to delay the fiscal year 2020-21 adjustment by six months if the City’s deficit for fiscal year 2020-21, as projected in the March 2020 update to the five-year financial plan, exceeded $200 million. Because the March 2020 update to the five-year financial plan projected a deficit for fiscal year 2020-21 in excess of $200 million, the scheduled wage increases as described above were delayed by approximately six months. For fiscal year 2021-22, the parties agreed to a wage increase schedule of 3% on July 1, 2021 and 0.5% on January 8, 2022, with a provision to delay the fiscal year 2021-22 increase by six months if the City’s deficit for fiscal year 2021-22, as projected in the March 2021 update to the five-year financial plan, exceeded $200 million. The scheduled July 1, 2021 wage increase was implemented as the March 2021 update to the five-year financial plan did not project a $200 million deficit.

In May 2022, the City negotiated two-year agreements (for fiscal years 2022-23 and 2023-24) with 27 labor unions, including IFPTE, which represents Power Enterprise employees. For fiscal year 2022-23, the parties agreed to a wage increase of 5.25% on July 1, 2022. For fiscal year 2023-24, the parties agreed to wage increases of 2.5% on July 1, 2023, and 2.25% on January 6, 2024, with a provision to delay the fiscal year 2023-24 adjustment by six months if the City’s deficit for fiscal year 2023-24, as projected in the March 2023 update to the five-year financial plan, exceeded $300 million. The scheduled July 1, 2023 wage increase was implemented as the March 2023 update to the five-year financial plan did not project a $300 million deficit.

SFPUC. The SFPUC currently employs approximately 2,300 of the City’s workers, of which approximately 6.8% work for the Power Enterprise. The Charter governs the SFPUC’s employment policies and authorizes the San Francisco Civil Service Commission to establish rules and procedures to implement those policies. Of the 36 labor unions representing City workers more broadly, 14 presently represent SFPUC employees.

Over the next five years, approximately 41.6% of the SFPUC workforce agency-wide will be eligible for retirement. A new generation of jobs will require workers with specialized training, skills and experience, while local hiring requirements will need to be observed. The SFPUC’s 2020 Strategic Sustainability Plan includes an “effective workforce” goal, which focuses on a number of workforce development and sustainability initiatives. In addition, one of the strategies set forth in the City’s Climate Action Plan (as defined and further described herein) with respect to energy supply sector goals is to develop workforce capacity to deliver clean energy resources (see “POWER ENTERPRISE CAPITAL PROGRAM – Climate Action Plan”). The SFPUC also provides ethics training, diversity training, management training, environmental management system training, as well as fraud prevention and awareness training. See also “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Risks Related to Power Enterprise Operations and Facilities – Skilled Labor.”

Employee Benefit Plans

Retirement System Plan Description. The San Francisco City and County Employees’ Retirement System (the “Retirement System” or “SFERS”) is charged with administering a defined-benefit pension plan (the “Plan”) that covers substantially all City employees, including SFPUC employees, and certain other employees. The Retirement System was initially established by approval of City voters on November 2, 1920, and the State Legislature on January 12, 1921, and is currently codified in the Charter. The Charter provisions governing the Retirement System may be revised only by a Charter amendment, which requires an affirmative public vote at a duly called election. The Retirement System is administered by the Retirement Board (the “Retirement Board”). The Plan provides basic service retirement, disability and death benefits based on specified percentages of final average salary and provides cost-of-living adjustments after retirement. The Plan also provides pension continuation benefits to qualified survivors.

Funding Practices. Employer and employee (member) contributions are mandated by the Charter. Sponsoring employers, including the SFPUC, are required to contribute 100% of the actuarially determined contribution approved by the Retirement Board. The Charter specifies that employer contributions consist of the normal cost (the present value of the benefits that SFERS expects to become payable in the future attributable to a current year’s employment) plus an amortization of the unfunded liability over a period not to exceed 20 years. The Retirement Board sets the funding policy subject to the Charter requirements.

The Retirement Board adopts the economic and demographic assumptions used in the annual valuations. Demographic assumptions such as retirement, termination and disability rates are based upon periodic demographic studies performed by a consulting actuarial firm approximately every five years. Economic assumptions are reviewed each year by the Retirement Board after receiving an economic experience analysis from the consulting actuarial firm.

At the December 9, 2020, Retirement Board meeting, the Retirement Board adopted all recommended demographic assumptions from the experience study dated August 12, 2020, including, among others, updates to public plan mortality tables, lower price and wage inflation rates, from 2.75% to 2.50% and from 3.50% to 3.25%, respectively, effective for the July 1, 2020 actuarial valuation. At the November 10, 2021, Retirement Board meeting, the Retirement Board lowered the assumed long-term investment earnings assumption from 7.40% to 7.20%, effective for the July 1, 2021, actuarial valuation. At the November 17, 2022, Retirement Board meeting, the Retirement Board voted to maintain the actuarial assumptions at their current levels. The Retirement Board is expected to review economic and demographic assumptions next in November 2023.

While employee contribution rates are mandated by the Charter, sources of payment of employee contributions may be the subject of collective bargaining agreements with each union or bargaining unit. Since July 1, 2011, substantially all employee groups have agreed through collective bargaining for employees to contribute all employee contributions through pre-tax payroll deductions.

The following table shows total Retirement System liabilities, assets and percent funded for the last five actuarial valuations, as well as contributions for the fiscal years 2017-18 through 2021-22.

Note: Information above reflects entire Retirement System, which covers substantially all City employees, including SFPUC employees, and certain other employees.

The City's net pension asset was approximately $2.4 billion for Fiscal Year 2021-22. The amount allocable to the Power Enterprise, as of June 30, 2022, was approximately $17 million.

The SFPUC is required to contribute at an actuarially determined rate and allocates the applicable portions of such contribution to the separate enterprises, including the Power Enterprise. For Fiscal Years 2017-18 through 2021-22, the SFPUC's employee contribution rates varied from 7.5% to 13.0% as a percentage of gross covered salary. For Fiscal Years 2017-18 through 2021-22, the Power Enterprise has paid 100% of its required contributions. The contributions by the Power Enterprise required for Fiscal Years 2017-18 through 2021-22 are summarized in the following table:

Plan Financial Reports and Funded Status. The Retirement System issues a publicly available financial report that includes financial statements and required supplementary information for the Plan. That report may be obtained by writing to the San Francisco City and County Employees’ Retirement System, 1145 Market Street, 5th Floor, San Francisco, CA 94103, or by calling (415) 487-7000.

Health Care Benefits. The SFPUC participates in the City’s agent multiple employer defined benefit plan, which operates as a cost-sharing multiple employer defined benefit plan for the SFPUC (the “OPEB Plan”). The OPEB Plan is maintained by the City and is administered through the City’s Health Service System and provides postemployment medical, dental and vision insurance benefits to eligible employees, retired employees, and surviving spouses. Health benefit provisions are established and may be amended through negotiations between the City and the respective bargaining units. The City does not issue a separate report on its other post-employment benefit plan.

As prescribed under Governmental Accounting Standards Board (“GASB”) Statement No. 75, Accounting and Financial Reporting for Postemployment Benefits Other than Pensions, net OPEB liability, deferred outflows/inflows of resources related to OPEB, and OPEB expense are actuarially determined on a citywide basis. Net OPEB liability is measured as the portion of the present value of projected benefit payments to be provided to current active and inactive employees attributed to those employees’ past service, less the amount of the Retiree Healthcare Trust Fund investments measured at fair value.

The provisions of GASB Statement No. 75 are effective for the Power Enterprise beginning in Fiscal Year 2017-18. The following table shows the components of the City’s annual OPEB allocations for the Power Enterprise for Fiscal Years 2019-20 through 2021-22, for the amount contributed to the OPEB Plan, and changes in the City’s net OPEB obligation:

The City's OPEB net position liability was approximately $3.7 billion for Fiscal Year 2021-22. The amount allocable to the Power Enterprise, as of June 30, 2022, was approximately $17 million.

The City issues a publicly available financial report on a City-wide level that includes the complete note disclosures and required supplementary information related to the City's post-retirement health care obligations. The report may be obtained by writing to the City and County of San Francisco, Office of the Controller, 1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place, Room 316, San Francisco, CA 94102, or by calling (415) 554-7500.

Pension and Health Care Cost Reforms. Voters implemented City employee pension and health care cost reforms to help mitigate future cost increases. These include the following propositions:

Proposition B. Proposition B was a Charter amendment approved by voters in June 2008 that increased the years of service required to qualify for employer-funded retiree health benefits for City employees who retire under SFERS and were hired on or after January 10, 2009. Previously, employees became eligible to participate in the retirement health care system after five years of service and the employer paid 100% of the contribution. Beginning with employees hired on or after January 10, 2009, employees remain eligible to participate in the retirement health care system after five years of service, however, no employer contributions are required until 10 years of service. From 10 to 15 years of service, employers pay 50% of the contribution, from 15 to 20 years of service 75%, and for employees with 20 years or more of service, 100%.

Proposition B also established a health care trust fund to pay for future costs related to retiree health care. Employees hired on or after January 10, 2009, contribute up to 2% of their pre-tax pay, with employers contributing an additional 1%, to the health care trust fund. Proposition B also increased maximum pension benefits for employees retiring at and after age 60 and enhances cost of living increases for pensions.

Proposition C. Proposition C was a Charter amendment approved by voters in November 2011 that changed the way the City and current and future employees share in funding SFERS pension and health benefits.

With regard to pension benefits, the base employee contribution rate remains at 7.5% for most employees when the City contribution rate is between 11% and 12% of City payroll. Employees making at least $50,000 will pay an additional amount up to 6% of compensation when the City contribution rate is over 12% of City payroll. When the City contribution rate falls below 11%, employee contributions will be decreased proportionately.

Proposition C creates new retirement plans for employees hired on or after January 7, 2012 that: (1) for miscellaneous employees, increased the minimum retirement age to 53 with 20 years of service or 60 with 10 years; (2) for safety employees, kept the minimum retirement age at 50 with five years of service, but increased the age for maximum benefits to 58; (3) for all employees, limited covered compensation, calculated final compensation from a three year average, and changed the multipliers used to calculate pension benefits; and (4) for miscellaneous employees, raised the age of eligibility to receive vesting allowance to 53 and reduced by half the City's contribution to vesting allowances.

With regard to health benefits, elected officials and employees hired on or before January 9, 2009, contribute up to 1% of compensation toward their retiree health care, with matching contribution by the City. For employees or elected officials who left the City workforce before June 30, 2001, and retire after January 6, 2012, Proposition C requires that the City contributions toward retiree health benefits remain at the same levels they were when the employee left the City workforce.

Proposition C also limits cost of living adjustments ("COLA") for SFERS retirees; however, in 2015, the Court of Appeals held in a suit against the City brought by a retiree organization, Protect Our Benefits v. City and County of San Francisco, 235 Cal. App. 4th 619 (2015) that certain changes to payment of supplemental cost of living allowances imposed by Proposition C could not be applied to current City employees and those who retired after November 1996 when the supplemental cost of living allowance provisions were originally adopted, but could be applied to SFERS members who retired before November 1996. This decision is now final and its implementation increased the July 1, 2016 unfunded actuarial liability by $429.3 million for Supplemental COLAs granted retroactive to July 1, 2013 and July 1, 2014.

On July 13, 2016, the Retirement Board adopted a resolution to exempt members who retired before November 6, 1996, from the “fully funded” provision related to payment of Supplemental COLAs under Proposition C. The resolution directed that retroactive payments for Supplemental COLAs be made to these retirees. After the Retirement Board adopted said resolution, the Retirement System published an actuarial study on the cost to the fund of payments to the pre-1996 retirees. The study reports that the two retroactive supplemental payments will trigger immediate payments of $34 million, create additional liability for continuing payments of $114 million, and cause a new unfunded liability of $148 million. This liability does not include the Supplemental COLA payments that may be triggered in the future. Under the cost sharing formulas in Proposition C, the City and its employees will pay for these costs in the form of higher yearly contribution rates. The City Controller has projected the future cost to the City and its employees to be $260 million, with over $200 million to be paid in the next five fiscal years. The City obtained a permanent injunction to prevent SFERS from making Supplemental COLA payments to these members who retired before November 6, 1996. The Superior Court’s injunction was affirmed by the Court of Appeal.

THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT

General

The Hetch Hetchy Project impounds and delivers to the Water Enterprise water for approximately 2.7 million Bay Area residents and is forecasted to generate an average of 1,250,000 MWh of clean, renewable electricity annually for the next 10 years, which the Power Enterprise uses to serve its customers and for wholesale sales when generation exceeds customer demand. The Hetch Hetchy Project is comprised of approximately 384.3 megawatts (“MW”) of nameplate capacity hydroelectric generating facilities in the Sierra Nevada and foothills of Tuolumne County, California. The Hetch Hetchy Project includes multiple water storage and water conveyance facilities (tunnels, pipelines, penstocks), generation facilities and transmission and associated transmission facilities from Hetch Hetchy Valley to Newark. See Figure 1-1 “San Francisco Public Utilities Commission Power Facilities.”

History

As early as the 1880s, the City began looking to the Sierra Nevada and the Tuolumne River in what is now Yosemite National Park as a possible source of water for San Francisco and the Bay Area. Hetch Hetchy Valley, which is located on the Tuolumne River in Yosemite National Park, was first recommended as a reservoir site at the turn of the 20th Century in a United States Geological Survey Study. Then-City Mayor James D. Phelan made the first filings for water rights and reservoir rights-of-way in the Tuolumne River watershed as a private citizen, transferring those filings to the City in 1903.

Following the 1906 earthquake, the City again sought water rights and reservoir rights-of-way in the Tuolumne River watershed and began to develop a preliminary design for what would become the Hetch Hetchy Project. It also entered into negotiations with the Districts to protect the Districts’ existing water rights and to provide them a share of the hydroelectricity to be produced by the Hetch Hetchy Project, at cost-based rates.

The Raker Act, enacted in 1913 (38 Stat. 242), granted rights of way to the City over federal lands in Yosemite National Park, Stanislaus National Forest, and unclassified public lands for purposes of constructing and operating the Hetch Hetchy Project, conceived by the City to provide water to the Bay Area and generate hydroelectricity as part of water delivery operations. Major facilities in place under authorized Raker Act rights of way issued by the United States Department of the Interior include O’Shaughnessy Dam and Hetch Hetchy Reservoir on the Tuolumne River in Yosemite National Park; Eleanor Dam and Reservoir in Yosemite National Park; Cherry Dam and Lake Lloyd in Stanislaus National Forest; Kirkwood, Holm, and Moccasin Powerhouses; and appurtenant facilities such as tunnels, penstocks and regulating reservoirs and electric transmission facilities. See “– Hydroelectric Generation” below.

The Raker Act grants the City the right to develop generation as part of the Hetch Hetchy Project and to sell electricity for beneficial use, first to meet San Francisco municipal needs, then the Districts’ municipal and agricultural pumping needs, and finally for commercial purposes, provided that in each case such electricity may not be sold to a private corporation or individual for resale.

Wholesale electricity deliveries to the Districts are on an “as available” basis and are required by the Raker Act only after satisfying the City’s own municipal needs. Any additional excess electricity supplies are sold to certain end-user retail customers and then on the wholesale market to public entities consistent with the requirements of the Raker Act. The Raker Act does not restrict the City’s purchase, use and sale of non-Hetch Hetchy Project electricity. See “THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Wholesale Electricity Sales.”

Hydroelectric Generation

The Hetch Hetchy Project is comprised of approximately 384.3 MW of large-scale hydroelectric facilities. The following table shows a timeline of Hetch Hetchy Project powerhouse improvements and impacts on installed capacity at the Hetch Hetchy Project.

The Hetch Hetchy Project includes three large reservoirs and three large hydroelectric powerhouses. The reservoirs, Cherry Lake, Lake Eleanor and the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir, have an aggregate water storage capacity of approximately 660,000 acre-feet. The powerhouses, Holm Powerhouse, Kirkwood Powerhouse and Moccasin Powerhouse, have an aggregate nameplate capacity of approximately 380.5 MW. Holm Powerhouse has two generating units, totaling approximately 165 MW in nameplate capacity, and relies on gravity-driven water flowing downhill from Cherry Lake. Kirkwood Powerhouse has three generating units, with an aggregate nameplate capacity of approximately 115 MW. Moccasin Powerhouse has two generating units, with an aggregate nameplate capacity of approximately 100 MW. Both Kirkwood and Moccasin rely on gravity-driven water flowing downhill from the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir. There is also a smaller, gravity driven in-line 3.8 MW hydroelectric unit near Moccasin Powerhouse, Moccasin Low-head. The Moccasin Low-head Powerhouse was damaged during a storm in March 2018 and is not currently operational; however, it is scheduled to be operational by December 2023.

The combined generating capacity of these facilities is approximately 384.3 MW, about 97% of the Power Enterprise’s aggregate 416.6 MW of controlled generation capacity. Annual Hetch Hetchy Project generation is forecasted to generate an average of 1.25 million MWh of clean, renewable electricity annually for the next 10 years, which represents on average approximately 105% of the Power Enterprise’s firm retail load. These multiple, sizable hydroelectric generating units, and ready access to California energy markets through available transmission resources, provide the Power Enterprise with redundancy to address both planned and unexpected outages, helping to ensure reliable, firm service for its customers.

Transmission and Distribution

Electricity generated by the Hetch Hetchy Project is transmitted through SFPUC-owned and operated transmission lines, consisting of approximately 110 miles of 115 kilovolt (“kV”) and 50 miles of 230 kV transmission tower miles, plus four substations/switchyards. The SFPUC transmission segments are described in the following table.

The transmission facilities also interconnect with PG&E’s transmission and distribution systems to deliver SFPUC generated or purchased power to customers of the Power Enterprise in and around San Francisco. The Hetch Hetchy Project has a small amount of load connected directly to its system, averaging approximately 4.5 MW, with a 10 MW peak during water pumping operations to support both Hetch Hetchy Water and Power operations, and the Water Enterprise’s municipal water operations.

Approximately 75% of the Hetch Hetchy Project’s generating capacity is connected to its 230 kV system via Intake Switchyard and Warnerville Substation. Intake Switchyard is a 230 kV switchyard configured using main and auxiliary buses. The switchyard was initially put into service in about 1961. Intake Switchyard provides the main accumulation, switching, and transmission point for the Holm and Kirkwood powerhouses (Lines 1 and 2 from Holm Powerhouse and Lines 9, 10 and 11 from Kirkwood Powerhouse). A failure of any critical component within this switchyard represents a significant loss of electric generation and transmission capability. From Intake Switchyard, electricity is transmitted to the SFPUC’s Warnerville Substation via Lines 5 and 6. The Warnerville Substation, put in operation in about 1961, is segregated into three areas: 230 kV yard, 115 kV yard, and PG&E 230 kV tap yard. The 230 kV yard has a main and transfer bus configuration and consists of two incoming lines, Lines 5 and 6, three 230/115 kV transformers, and two tap lines for PG&E. The 115 kV system has a main bus, two transformer positions and two line positions, Lines 7 and 8 towards MID’s Standiford Substation.

The remaining 25% of the Hetch Hetchy Project’s capacity is normally connected to another 115 kV sub system at the Moccasin Switchyard which interconnects with PG&E’s Newark Substation via two 115 kV lines, Lines 3 and 4. Taps off of these lines connect to Turlock Irrigation District at TID’s Oakdale Substation, and the Calaveras Substation serving Water Enterprise facilities in Sunol. The Moccasin Powerhouse can be connected to either the 115 kV or 230 kV systems.

Approximately 39 miles of electric 22.9 kV and 2.9 kV distribution lines provide electricity to the Hetch Hetchy Project's remote operations. The distribution is fed from the powerhouses, where electricity is generated at 13.8 kV then stepped up to 22.9 kV. At some remote sites, the electricity is stepped down to 2.4 kV for distribution.

Physical Condition of Facilities

In 2009, the SFPUC and its consultants began performing condition assessments for various Hetch Hetchy Project facilities and, since that time, have undertaken certain updates to the assessments. The following sections describe the physical condition of those facilities, as well as major capital projects relating to such facilities. Several of these capital projects are for Hetch Hetchy Project facilities that are joint assets and are used for both water transmission and power generation and transmission, benefiting both Hetch Hetchy Water and the Power Enterprise. 55% of the combined operating and capital costs of the Joint Facilities are allocated to the Power Enterprise and 45% of the combined operating and capital costs of the Joint Facilities are allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water. For more information regarding the Joint Facilities, see "INTRODUCTION – The San Francisco Public Utilities Commission and the Power Enterprise."

Generation Facilities

The SFPUC owns and operates multiple power generation assets, including high-head and low-head hydropower houses, which have been in operation since the 1960s. These assets are all operated and maintained within the Hetch Hetchy Project. Hetch Hetchy Water and Power is responsible for the maintenance and operation of multiple power generation assets, most of which are integral to its water delivery system. These assets include Holm Powerhouse, Kirkwood Powerhouse, Moccasin Powerhouse, and Moccasin Low Head Powerhouse. For a description of these assets, see "– Hydroelectric Generation."

Generally, civil assets, such as structures, dams, tunnels, and pipes, have a service life of up to 100 years, while mechanical and electrical equipment within powerhouses have a shorter service life of approximately 15-20 years, depending on the equipment. For planning purposes, the SFPUC assumes expected life of equipment based on industry standards and manufacturer's design life. Actual expected life of equipment may vary depending on different factors including, but not limited to, site conditions, run time, loading, and maintenance. The SFPUC has experienced equipment life expectancies beyond industry standards; however, as equipment ages and technology expires, obtaining replacement parts may become a challenge.

The cost and operational impact to the SFPUC of either a loss of a generating unit or the inability to generate from a powerhouse varies. For example, at Holm Powerhouse, there would be significant cost and operational impacts if either unit were not available for generation for a one-year period. At Kirkwood Powerhouse, the loss of one of the three units would have moderate cost and operational impacts; however, the loss of two of the three units would become significant. Similarly, at Moccasin Powerhouse, the loss of either unit would have moderate cost and operational impacts; however, the loss of both units would be significant.

During the summer and fall period, each hydroelectric generation unit is taken out of service for two weeks to perform annual maintenance. Annual maintenance consists of inspections, testing and maintenance of the units. Corrective maintenance activities that require a full system outage are also sometimes scheduled during the annual outage period; however, the SFPUC focuses on and prioritizes proactive maintenance activities.

SFPUC construction costs are generally higher than industry average, in part because of the remote location of Hetch Hetchy Project facilities. Large, active capital projects associated with the power generation assets, all of which are part of the 2024 Capital Plan (as defined herein), include, but are not limited to the following:

- Kirkwood Powerhouse Bypass Upgrades: The SFPUC water supply must be conveyed through Kirkwood Powerhouse. When powerhouse generating units are out of service (e.g., planned or unplanned outage), water flows through an energy dissipation system, or generator bypass, conveying water around the turbines at Kirkwood Powerhouse. The existing hydraulic bypass and energy-dissipation system cannot be operated for more than about two weeks without incurring significant damage. The SFPUC is updating the bypass system to ensure reliable water deliveries. The total budget for this project in the 2024 Capital Plan, as well as the current forecast, is $16.2 million. As of June 30, 2023, $0.09 million has been spent on this project. The project is currently on hold but is expected to resume in 2027-2028. This project is expected to be completed in 2035.

- Moccasin Powerhouse Bypass Upgrade: Like Kirkwood Powerhouse, the SFPUC water supply is conveyed through the generating units at Moccasin Powerhouse, which must be bypassed during planned or unplanned outages. The existing hydraulic bypass and energy-dissipation system cannot be operated for more than about two weeks without incurring significant damage. The SFPUC is updating the bypass system to ensure reliable water deliveries. The total budget for this project in the 2024 Capital Plan is $27.4 million. The current forecasted cost is $40.7 million. As of June 30, 2023, $1.2 million has been spent on this project. This project is expected to be completed in 2027.
- Moccasin Powerhouse and Generator Step-Up Rehabilitation: This project consists of three components: (1) generator rehabilitation, which consists of replacing the entire generator and associated equipment; (2) generator step-up replacement, which consists of replacing two of the three existing generator step-up transformers, new foundations and oil containment, and relay upgrades; and (3) power plant systems upgrades, which consists of replacing the 480 voltage switchgear, 13.8 kilovolt switchgear, motor control centers, main control boards, protective relays, cooling water piping, and improving oil containment systems. The total budget for this project in the 2024 Capital Plan is $66.7 million. The current forecasted cost is $107 million. As of June 30, 2023, $30.4 million has been spent on this project. The generator step-up replacement project was completed in 2023. The generator rehabilitation project is expected to be completed in 2025, and the power plant systems upgrades is expected to be completed in 2028.

Additionally, the SFPUC has an ongoing replacement and rehabilitation program funded at approximately $500,000 to $2.5 million a year to provide inspections, condition assessments, design, environmental evaluations, and construction to sustain the reliability of its generation facilities. Funding from the replacement and rehabilitation program was used to fund the improvements at Moccasin Low-Head Powerhouse. This work is scheduled to be completed by December 2023.

Transmission and Distribution Facilities

Transmission. The Hetch Hetchy Project electricity delivery system includes transmission lines and switchyards/substations, including Lines 1 and 2, Lines 3 and 4, Lines 5 and 6, Lines 7 and 8, and Lines 9, 10 and 11, Intake Switchyard, Moccasin Switchyard, Warnerville Substation, and Calaveras Substation. These assets vary in age, condition, and estimated service life remaining. For planning purposes, the SFPUC assumes expected life of equipment based on industry standards and manufacturer's design life. Actual expected life of equipment will vary depending on a variety of factors, but the largest driver for a transmission system is site conditions.

A majority of the Hetch Hetchy Project's transmission lines were built in the 1960s and have a remaining life expectancy of about 15 years, depending on equipment. However, Lines 3 and 4 were built in 1925 and have exceeded their expected life expectancy. Although Lines 3 and 4 are at end of life, the existing lines are acceptable for limited continued use with selective refurbishment. Lines 3 and 4 are important to the delivery of electricity by the Power Enterprise, and the SFPUC anticipates that there would be moderate cost and operational impacts were they to go out of service. A complete rebuild will ultimately be required for long-term continued use of this transmission segment. The 2024 Capital Plan includes funding for a condition assessment and strategic business planning for replacement and/or upgrade of Lines 3 and 4.

Transmission system reliability is affected by new, renewable generation being added to the California grid, or requests to interconnect with the SFPUC transmission system. Funding for these transmission system improvements will be collected from the developers, however, collection schedules do not always work with SFPUC construction schedules and the SFPUC may provide upfront funding that will be eventually paid back by the developers. To help mitigate the impacts of new renewable power generation being added to the California electrical grid, as well as resolve clearance detections, the SFPUC has an active project to reconductor Lines 7 and 8. This project, which is part of the 2024 Capital Plan, is described below:

- Transmission Lines 7 and 8 Upgrades: This project includes the replacement of the existing 115 kilovolt conductors on Lines 7 and 8 from Warnerville to Standiford substations. The total budget for this project in the 2024 Capital Plan, as well as the current forecast, is $38.0 million. To date, the SFPUC has received $27.4 million in developer funding for this project, and anticipates collecting a total of $33.3 million in mitigation payments. As of June 30, 2023, $5.7 million has been spent on this project. This project is expected to be completed in 2025.

To maintain the current level of reliability of these transmission lines, substantial future maintenance and upkeep will be required; currently these improvements are addressed with the SFPUC's ongoing rehabilitation and replacement program, which is funded at about $3-6 million per year. The rehabilitation and replacement program includes, but is not limited to inspections, condition assessments, design, environmental evaluations, and construction.

Hetch Hetchy Project substations/switchyards were built in the 1960s. Like the powerhouses, the SFPUC has experienced life expectancies beyond industry standards but is experiencing challenges obtaining replacement parts as the equipment ages and technology expires. In 2014, Intake Switchyard was rebuilt, and in 2019, the 115 kV side of the Warnerville Substation was rebuilt. Within the next 10 years, the remainder of the 230 kV side of the Warnerville Substation and Moccasin Switchyard are expected to be rebuilt. These projects, which are part of the 2024 Capital Plan, are described below:

- Warnerville Substation Rehabilitation: This project will rehabilitate the substation and includes improvements to meet reliability requirements and intertie agreements. Upgrades include replacing three existing three-phase transformers with two larger rated transformers. In addition, other upgrades include new 115 kilovolt and 230 kilovolt disconnect switches and breakers, a new control room, a new perimeter fence, relays and controls, and improving the grading and grounding system. The total budget for this project in the 2024 Capital Plan is $34.3 million. The current forecasted cost is $36.1 million. As of June 30, 2023, $23.0 million has been spent on this project. This project is expected to be completed in 2026.
- Moccasin Switchyard Rehabilitation: This project will rehabilitate the switchyard, including replacing the 115 kilovolt disconnect switches, replacing the 115 kilovolt bus configuration, replacing the 230 kilovolt disconnect switches, changing the 230 kilovolt bus configuration, replacing the 115 kilovolt circuit breakers, adding surge arresters, performing a fault study and a grounding study, improving switchyard grading, and replacing fencing. The total budget for this project in the 2024 Capital Plan, as well as the current forecast, is $9.7 million. As of June 30, 2023, $0.08 million has been spent on this project. This project is expected to be completed in 2028.

Intake Switchyard, Moccasin Switchyard and Warnerville Substation are necessary to transmit Hetch Hetchy Project generation to the grid. The SFPUC anticipates that there would be significant cost and operational impact if Intake Switchyard, Moccasin Switchyard or Warnerville Substation were inoperable.

Calaveras Substation feeds the SFPUC facilities at Sunol Valley Water Treatment Plant. Though the financial impact from loss of this substation would be small, the operational impact to the water operations would be significant. The substation is in good condition. Certain improvements will be made to improve redundancy by purchasing critical spare equipment which have long lead times. This project, which is part of the 2024 Capital Plan, is described below:

- Calaveras Substation: This project will include procuring critical spare equipment. The total budget for this project in the 2024 Capital Plan, as well as the current forecast, is $0.4 million. As of June 30, 2023, no funds have been spent on this project. This project is expected to be completed in 2025.

Furthermore, a condition assessment completed over the period between 2012-2014 of the SFPUC's transmission lines identified over 200 safety detections that did not meet National Electric Safety Code and/or CPUC General Order Number 95 minimum safety clearance criteria. In response to these findings, the SFPUC has increased maintenance and selective refurbishment activities to preserve and extend the operability of these lines and to meet regulatory requirements. See "POWER ENTERPRISE CAPITAL PROGRAM" and "CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Risks Related to Power Enterprise Operations and Facilities – Operational Liability."

The Hetch Hetchy Project includes approximately 40 miles of power distribution system. Approximately 20 miles of the system were replaced after being destroyed in the 2013 Rim Fire. For more information about the 2013 Rim Fire and the impact of wildfires on the Power Enterprise, see "– Wildfire Considerations."

Additionally, the SFPUC has an ongoing replacement and rehabilitation program funded at approximately $1-2 million a year to provide inspections, condition assessments, design, environmental evaluations, and construction to sustain the reliability of the electric distribution system.

Reservoir and Dam Facilities

The Hetch Hetchy Project owns and operates six dams that are under the California Division of Safety of Dams ("DSOD") jurisdiction. Five of these dams are associated with the SFPUC's hydrogeneration facilities: O'Shaughnessy Dam, Cherry Valley Dam, Eleanor Dam, Priest Dam and Moccasin Dam. The sixth dam is the Early Intake Dam. The SFPUC has an ongoing comprehensive dam safety program to monitor, inspect and maintain the dams to ensure public safety downstream. The extensive program establishes policies, objectives, and expectations as they relate to dam safety, including surveillance and monitoring programs. Emergency action plans for all applicable dams are maintained and reviewed and/or updated annually.

In 2018, then-Governor Brown ordered the DSOD to identify spillways in California associated with large high-hazard dams that could pose significant risk to the public if a spillway incident like the Oroville Dam in 2017 were to occur. This included condition assessments of the spillways for O'Shaughnessy Dam and Cherry Valley Dam. Spillway assessments were completed and submitted to DSOD in 2019 for their review.

In 2020, the SFPUC delivered to the DSOD a conceptual plan for implementing known dam safety projects over the next 15 years, known as the 15-Year Dam Safety Plan. The DSOD has reviewed and responded favorably to the conceptual plan. The SFPUC continues to make progress on the dam safety projects that are currently authorized under the existing capital program. Information regarding these facilities (dams, outlet piping, valves and spillways), including condition assessment and upcoming projects, are summarized below. The SFPUC takes into consideration climate change when evaluating new capital projects for its dams and reservoirs.

The DSOD categorizes the condition of each of the dams within its jurisdiction as: "satisfactory," meaning no existing or potential dam safety deficiencies are recognized; "fair", meaning no existing dam safety deficiencies are recognized for normal loading conditions, and rare or extreme hydrologic and/or seismic events may result in a dam safety deficiency; "poor," meaning dam safety deficiency is recognized for loading conditions that may realistically occur, and remedial action is necessary; "unsatisfactory," meaning a dam safety deficiency is recognized that requires immediate or emergency remedial action for problem resolution; or "not rated," meaning the dam has not been inspected or is not under State jurisdiction.

Information regarding the six dams under DSOD jurisdiction, DSOD's characterization of the dam's condition, and certain large, active capital projects associated with the dams, all of which are part of the 2024 Capital Plan, are described below.

O'Shaughnessy Dam: O'Shaughnessy Dam and the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir are in Yosemite National Park. O'Shaughnessy Dam is a 312 foot-high above-streambed (430 feet above the lowest point in the foundation) gravity arch dam that impounds 360,360 acre-feet (capacity with drum gates in use) of water along the main stem of the Tuolumne River, creating the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir. The dam was originally built in 1923 and raised in 1938. The Hetch Hetchy Reservoir collects water from the surrounding 459 square miles of the Hetch Hetchy watershed. Water from this reservoir is drafted through Kirkwood and Moccasin powerhouses. The DSOD categorizes the condition of O'Shaughnessy Dam as "satisfactory." Release valves at O'Shaughnessy Dam need to be upgraded due to their age. Large, active capital projects planned for rehabilitation of outlet works facilities and the diversion tunnel, which will improve the safety and functionality of the reservoir release system, are described below.

- O'Shaughnessy Dam Outlet Works Phase I: This project will include the replacement of two existing instream flow release valves, improvements to access and drainage in the dam gallery and stairs, installation of new bulkheads for outlet intake, and planning for slide gate and drum gate improvements. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $48.0 million (55%, or $26.4 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $6.1 million has been spent on this project (55%, or $3.4 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to be completed in 2025.
- O'Shaughnessy Dam Outlet Works Phase II: This project will include replacement of a 72-inch needle valve and rehabilitation of a 72-inch butterfly valve, replacement of six 60-inch needle valves and controls, rehabilitation of three drum gates, refurbishment of twelve slide gates, installation of a new diversion pipe isolation valve, and diversion tunnel rehabilitation. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $98.0 million (55%, or $53.9 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to begin in 2026 and be completed by 2034.

Cherry Valley Dam: Cherry Valley Dam is a 330-foot-high earth and rock fill dam. Lake Lloyd, the reservoir impounded by Cherry Valley Dam, stores approximately 273,500 acre-feet. The dam was built in 1955. Water from the Cherry watershed is used for downstream flow obligations and power generation at Holm Powerhouse. The DSOD categorizes the condition of Cherry Valley Dam as "satisfactory." The SFPUC completed a needs assessment report for Cherry Dam, which defined the need for capital improvements, primarily to address spillway deficiencies and the intake tower's inability to handle seismic loads. The SFPUC is prioritizing the spillway scope of work. This project, which is part of the 2024 Capital Plan, is described below:

- Cherry Dam Spillway – Short-Term Improvements: This project includes improvements downstream of the concrete spillway structure that will accommodate higher flows. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $24.9 million (55%, or $13.7 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $1.5 million has been spent on this project (55%, or $0.82 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to be completed in 2027. An additional project to address the intake tower and long-term improvements to the spillway is also expected to be initiated within 15 years.

Eleanor Dam: Eleanor Dam is a 70-foot concrete buttressed arch dam. Lake Eleanor stores approximately 27,113 acre-feet (capacity with flashboards). The dam was built in 1918. Water from the Lake Eleanor is diverted (gravity or pumping) to Lake Lloyd and used for downstream flow obligations and power generation at Holm Powerhouse. The DSOD categorizes the condition of Eleanor Dam as "satisfactory." In 2015-2016, the SFPUC completed a needs assessment report for Eleanor Dam, which identified the need for multiple capital improvements. There were two primary issues identified: (1) condition of the bridge over the top of dam; and (2) erosion and scour due to the dam overtopping. First, the bridge over the top of the dam is showing signs of distress and needs to be repaired or replaced soon. In addition to access, the bridge serves as a critical structure to maintain the dam's structural integrity during an earthquake. Second, the capacity of the existing spillway is not adequate, resulting in the overtopping of the dam. Over the years, this has resulted in some erosion and scour on the downstream side of the dam. To address these issues, the SFPUC is planning the following project, which is part of the 2024 Capital Plan:

- Eleanor Dam Rehabilitation: This project will address the cracking and spalling of concrete, exposed rebar, leakage through the arch barrels, cracks and erosion of the spillway concrete, and spillway capacity. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $28.6 million (55%, or $15.7 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to begin late 2023 and to be completed in 2031.

Priest Dam: Priest Dam is a 160-foot-high earth and rock dam that impounds a storage volume of 1,706 acre-feet. The dam was built in 1923. Priest Reservoir is a regulating reservoir and stores Hetch Hetchy water before it reaches the Moccasin Powerhouse via the Moccasin Power Tunnel. The DSOD categorizes the condition of Priest Dam as “satisfactory.” Priest Dam has a long history of issues related to settlement and deflection. The SFPUC has an ongoing rehabilitation and replacement program that focuses on performing a geotechnical exploration of the dam, updating the stability analysis, and installing new instrumentation to monitor and document the movement of the dam under varying reservoir storage conditions to (i) update the current surveillance and monitoring plan for the dam; and (ii) serve as the technical basis for future capital improvements that may be necessary.

In addition, wildfire can impact the water quality of water that could enter Priest Reservoir. For more information about the impact of wildfires on the Power Enterprise and the SFPUC’s mitigation strategies, see “–Wildfire Considerations.”

Moccasin Dam: Moccasin Dam is a 70-foot-high earth and rock dam that impounds a storage volume of 552 acre-feet. The dam was built in 1929. This is a regulating reservoir for Moccasin Low-head Powerhouse. The DSOD categorizes the condition of Moccasin Dam as “fair.” The lower rating is the impact of a flood event in 2018, which required a reevaluation of the design flood. To increase the rating to “satisfactory”, the SFPUC will be required to increase the release capacity of the system to meet the requirements of the updated design flood, which is now approximately double the flood of record. To address this, the SFPUC is planning the following project, which is part of the 2024 Capital Plan:

- Moccasin Dam and Reservoir Long-Term Improvements: This project has been initiated to construct a new concrete spillway with adequate flow capacity along the alignment of the existing auxiliary spillway and additional flood protection to the Moccasin project facilities. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $73.2 million (55%, or $40.2 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $1.9 million has been spent on this project (55%, or $1.1 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to be completed in 2028.

Early Intake Dam: Early Intake Dam is a single-curvature concrete arch structure, constructed between 1923 and 1924 to direct deliveries from the Tuolumne River into Mountain Tunnel for San Francisco water customers. The dam is reaching the end of its design life. Engineering studies concluded that permanent repair of the alkali aggregate reaction concrete is not feasible, and the dam should be replaced. The DSOD categorizes the condition of Early Intake Dam as “fair” due to the condition of the dam. To address these issues, the SFPUC is planning the following project, which is part of the 2024 Capital Plan:

- Early Intake Dam Interim and Long-Term Improvements: The Early Intake Dam Interim Improvement project was initially developed to provide short-term improvements to the dam, but will now provide the needed engineering alternative studies to determine the scope and cost for the long-term remediation, as well as planning to address the deterioration and structural concerns of the existing dam. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for these combined projects, as well as the current forecast, is $91.5 million (55%, or $50.3 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $0.56 million has been spent on this project (55%, or $0.30 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This Early Intake Dam Interim Improvement project is expected to be completed in 2023, with work continuing under the Early Intake Dam Long-Term Improvement project. The long-term project scope of replacing the deteriorated Early Intake Dam with a new concrete dam or diversion structure is expected to be completed in 2031.

In addition, the SFPUC has an ongoing rehabilitation and replacement program funded at approximately $500,000 to $1.5 million a year to continue inspections, condition assessments, design, environmental evaluations, and as-needed construction to meet the DSOD dam assessment requirements. Projects for power asset dams (Priest Dam) and joint asset dams (O’Shaughnessy, Eleanor, Early Intake, and Cherry dams) have been included in the 2024 Capital Plan and are ongoing.

Conveyance Facilities

Penstocks: Approximately every 20 years, the SFPUC performs internal inspections on its penstocks, which also convey the SFPUC’s water supply, to proactively identify potential vulnerabilities before major problems occur. Penstocks that are for power generation only are inspected less frequently. Over the next several years, the SFPUC will be reevaluating its penstock inspection and maintenance program to ensure a systematic approach to managing these assets. The effort will review current inspection and maintenance activities, including frequency. Information regarding the penstocks and certain large, active capital projects associated with the penstocks, all of which are part of the 2024 Capital Plan, are described below.

- Kirkwood Penstock: Built in 1964, the Kirkwood Penstock conveys water from Canyon Power Tunnel to Kirkwood Powerhouse. In response to a portion of the Kirkwood Penstock foundation experiencing significant movement in 1984 and 2007, the SFPUC completed a risk assessment for the asset. Multiple short-term risk reduction measures were recommended, including installation of an automated monitoring system and pre-procurement of long-lead replacement couplings, both of which have been completed. The SFPUC monitors penstock movement. Although there has been no significant movement, small movements indicate an ongoing stability issue. The SFPUC will continue to monitor the foundation with the goal of deferring the need for a large capital project for at least 20 years.
- Moccasin Penstock: The Moccasin Penstocks convey water from Moccasin Power Tunnel, downstream of Priest Reservoir, to Moccasin Powerhouse. Moccasin Penstock was built in 1925, with new sections completed in 1969. A condition assessment in 2011 identified corrosion, impacting the structural integrity of the asset, as well as degradation of the concrete anchor/saddle system.
  - Moccasin Penstock Rehabilitation: This project includes (i) rehabilitation of anchor blocks, penstock coating, penstock saddles, air valves, large-diameter butterfly valves, bifurcation section, and flow meters; and (ii) upgrading the electrical system, power transformers, the standby generator at West Portal Valve House, and the bulkhead isolation valves in the surge tower. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $47.3 million (55%, or $26.0 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $7.2 million has been spent on this project (93%, or $6.7 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to be completed in 2028.
- Holm Penstock: Built in 1960, the Holm Penstock conveys water from Cherry Power Tunnel to Holm Powerhouse. No work is currently planned for Holm Penstock.

Tunnels: Approximately every 15 years, the SFPUC performs internal inspections on its tunnels, which also convey the SFPUC’s water supply, to proactively identify potential vulnerabilities before major problems occur. Tunnels that are for power generation only are inspected less frequently. Information regarding the tunnels and certain large, active capital projects associated with the tunnels, all of which are part of the 2024 Capital Plan, are described below.

- Canyon Power Tunnel: Built in 1965, Canyon Power Tunnel is a 10.8 mile-long tunnel that conveys water from O’Shaughnessy Dam to Kirkwood Penstock, feeding Kirkwood Powerhouse. Most of the tunnel is horseshoe-shaped and measures approximately 14 feet by 14.5 feet. Canyon Power Tunnel includes two adits, North Mountain and Hetch Hetchy Adit. In 2007 and 2008, Hetch Hetchy Water and Power staff observed increased leakage at the Hetch Hetchy Adit weir. During a five-day shutdown in January 2009, temporary repairs to the concrete plug in the Hetch Hetchy Adit of the tunnel were undertaken to reduce the 200 to 300 gallons per minute exiting from cracks and deteriorated concrete in the plug. Canyon Tunnel was last inspected in 2009 and was found to be in very good condition, however, rehabilitation work is required at the Hetch Hetchy Adit.

- Canyon Tunnel - Hetchy Adit Rehabilitation: This project will replace the Hetch Hetchy Adit with a new concrete-gated structure. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $15.0 million (55%, or $8.2 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $1.3 million has been spent on this project (55%, or $0.73 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to be completed in 2026.
- Early Intake Bypass Tunnel and Pipeline: The Early Intake Bypass Tunnel and Pipeline conveys water from Kirkwood Powerhouse directly into the Mountain Tunnel. The bypass consists of a tunnel on the northern side of the Tuolumne River, leading to a steel pipe crossing the Tuolumne River to Mountain Tunnel on the southern side. The 1,725-foot tunnel is horseshoe-shaped, varying in diameter from 10 feet to 14.6 feet. The water exits the Early Intake Bypass Tunnel, entering a 293-foot-long, 9.5 foot-diameter pipeline that crosses over the Tuolumne River. The Early Intake Bypass Tunnel and Pipeline was last inspected in 2019 and found to be in satisfactory condition.
- Mountain Tunnel: Built between 1917 and 1925, Mountain Tunnel extends 19.2 miles from Early Intake Dam to Priest Reservoir. Most of the tunnel is horseshoe-shaped, and measures approximately 14 feet by 14.5 feet. The first 7.2 miles of Mountain Tunnel west from Early Intake are unlined, except for small, lined areas at each adit and a short section approximately 400 feet east of South Fork Adit. Nine of the remaining 12 miles of tunnel are lined. This asset was inspected in 2007, 2008, 2017 and 2019.
  - Mountain Tunnel Improvement Project: This project includes rehabilitation of the tunnel under the Mountain Tunnel Improvement Project for which construction started in 2021 and will continue through December 2026. As an improvement to the system, the SFPUC is constructing a new flow control facility within the Mountain Tunnel, installed just above Priest Reservoir. The purpose of the facility will be to maintain constant pressure and thus reduce wear and tear on the tunnel during operation. In addition, the Priest Adit Tunnel is being constructed to provide access to Mountain Tunnel without having to drain Priest Reservoir, providing operational flexibility. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $118.8 million (55%, or $65.3 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $76.8 million has been spent on this project (55%, or $42.3 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to be completed in 2027.
- Moccasin Power Tunnel: Moccasin Power Tunnel is a 1-mile-long tunnel that conveys water from Priest Reservoir to the Moccasin Penstocks (leading to Moccasin Powerhouse). Most of the tunnel is horseshoe-shaped, and measures approximately 13 feet by 13 feet. Moccasin Power Tunnel was last inspected during in 2019 and found to be in satisfactory condition.
- Eleanor-Cherry Tunnel: Eleanor-Cherry Tunnel is a 1.1-mile-long tunnel that conveys water from Lake Eleanor to Lake Lloyd. The tunnel is horseshoe-shaped, and measures approximately 8.5 feet by 8.5 feet. Eleanor-Cherry Tunnel was inspected within the last 10 years. The tunnel was found to be in satisfactory condition. The Cherry Reservoir Pump Station contains ten pumps that draw water from Lake Eleanor to Lake Lloyd. Five of these pumps are inoperable and the remaining five pumps are at continued risk of failure.
  - Cherry-Eleanor Pumps: This project is to replace and upgrade the pumps, transformer, and pump motor starters in Cherry Pump Station, and to install a programmable logic controller, a supervisory control and data acquisition (“SCADA”) system, and fiber optics. The existing motor control center building will be improved. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $40.2 million. This project is expected to start in 2025 and to be completed in 2031.

- Cherry Power Tunnel: Cherry Power Tunnel is a 5.6-mile-long tunnel that conveys water from Lake Lloyd to Holm Penstock. Most of the tunnel is horseshoe-shaped, and measures approximately 12 feet by 12.5 feet. Cherry Power tunnel was last inspected in 2000 and found to be in satisfactory condition. Work was performed on the tunnel to improve efficiency (reduce tunnel friction losses).

In addition, the SFPUC has an ongoing rehabilitation and replacement program to continue inspections, condition assessments, design, environmental evaluations, and as-needed construction to sustain the reliability of water conveyance assets with capital improvements. Projects for power-funded water conveyance assets (Kirkwood Penstock, Holm Penstock, Cherry Power Tunnel and Cherry Pump Station, Priest Gate Tower, Priest Canal, Moccasin Power Tunnel and surge tower, West Portal, and Moccasin Penstock) and joint-funded water conveyance assets (Canyon Tunnel and adits, Can-yon Portal, Mountain Tunnel Headgates, Early Intake Bypass, Mountain Tunnel Diversion Access at Early Intake, Mountain Tunnel shafts and adits, South Fork Crossing and adits, and Priest Reservoir Bypass) are included in the 2024 Capital Plan and are ongoing.

Utilities

The Hetch Hetchy Project includes buildings/offices, roads and bridges to access facilities, and other utilities including water and wastewater systems, communications, and security. Information regarding various facilities, roads and bridges, and other utilities is described below.

Facilities: The SFPUC is responsible for over 80 buildings, structures, facilities, and systems, many of which were constructed in the early 1900s to facilitate the construction of the Regional Water System (as defined herein). Capital improvements are needed to provide employees and staff with safe, comfortable, and efficient facilities. Large, active capital projects associated with facilities, all of which are part of the 2024 Capital Plan, include, but are not limited to the following:

- Moccasin Old Powerhouse Hazard Mitigation: The Moccasin Old Powerhouse was constructed in 1926 and abandoned in the 1960s and is currently used for storage of large equipment and critical spares. The building has multiple structural and nonstructural issues, including cracks, spalling of structural concrete, water intrusion, broken windows, settlement, hazardous materials, and seismic deficiencies. This project will design and install mitigation measures to prevent the building from collapsing and to prevent hazardous materials from contaminating Moccasin Reservoir. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $17.4 million (55%, or $9.6 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $0.58 million has been spent on this project (55%, or $0.32 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to be completed in 2028.
- Moccasin Engineering and Records Building: Hetch Hetchy Water and Power project operation and administration is in Moccasin, California, with facilities including buildings, office trailers, warehouses, shops, laboratories, and sheds. Many of these existing facilities are deteriorating, do not meet current building codes, and are incurring increased maintenance costs. This project will design and construct a 25,000 square-foot, two-story building to create adequate office space for current and future staff. In addition, new records and archives space and new server space will be included. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $60.7 million (55%, or $33.4 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project started in early 2023 and is expected to be completed in 2031.

In addition, the SFPUC has an ongoing rehabilitation and replacement program funded at approximately $1-2 million a year to continue inspections, condition assessments, design, environmental evaluations, and as-needed construction to maintain facilities along the system.

Roads and Bridges: The SFPUC is responsible for maintaining access roads to all upcountry facilities, electric transmission towers, and San Joaquin pipelines. There are approximately 14 bridges, 40 miles of paved roads, and hundreds of miles of unpaved roadways that provide access to Hetch Hetchy Project facilities. Up-country paved roads are also used by the public. Large, active capital projects associated with roads and bridges, all of which are part of the 2024 Capital Plan, include, but are not limited to the following:

- Holm Bridge Rehabilitation: Access to Holm Powerhouse is off Cherry Oil Road via the Holm Bridge. The 136-foot bridge is a three-span, continuously supported bridge that requires replacement to address seismic and current Caltrans (as defined herein) design standard deficiencies. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $11.7 million. This project is expected to begin in 2030 and to be completed in 2036.
- Bridge Replacement: The Lake Eleanor Dam Bridge and the O’Shaughnessy Adit Access Bridge require substantial modification or re-placement. The Lake Eleanor Dam Bridge is a structural component of the dam and is integral to the structural/seismic integrity of the dam. The O’Shaughnessy Adit Access Bridge is downstream of O’Shaughnessy Dam and provides access to Canyon Tunnel. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $29.4 million (55%, or $16.2 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $2.8 million has been spent on this project (55%, or $1.6 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to be completed in 2027.

In addition, the SFPUC has an ongoing rehabilitation and replacement program funded at approximately $1-2 million a year to continue inspections, condition assessments, design, environmental evaluations, and as-needed construction to maintain the various roads and bridges along the system.

Other Utilities: The SFPUC is responsible for maintaining various utility-related assets along the Hetch Hetchy Project system. Large, active capital projects associated with other utilities, all of which are part of the 2024 Capital Plan, include, but are not limited to the following:

- Moccasin Wastewater Treatment Plant: The Moccasin Wastewater Treatment Plant provides primary treatment of wastewater from Moccasin Compound prior to discharging treated water to a nearby spray field. The current treatment plant was constructed in the 1970s and has been in continuous operation since its installation. It has reached the end of its reliable service life and is becoming increasingly maintenance intensive. This project will replace the existing plant with a package two-train sequence batch reactor plant, upgrade the electrical and flow monitoring system, flow equalizations, SCADA instrumentation and automation features, and related site improvements. Because this project is for a Joint Facility, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $12.0 million (55%, or $6.6 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). As of June 30, 2023, $1.4 million has been spent on this project (55%, or $0.78 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to be completed in 2026.
- eFleet Infrastructure Improvements: In 2017, the Board of Supervisors approved Ordinance 115-17, which required that the City’s passenger vehicles transition to zero-emission vehicles, and encourages the selection of zero-emission vehicles in other classes as technology improves. This project will perform a suitability study for electrifying Hetch Hetchy Project’s fleet. Based on findings, the SFPUC will determine vehicle specifications and evaluate charging infrastructure required to support the effort. Because this project jointly benefits Hetch Hetchy Water and Power Enterprise operations, 55% of the project costs are allocated to the Power Enterprise. The total budget for this project, as well as the current forecast, is $3.2 million (55%, or $1.8 million, of which is allocated to the Power Enterprise). This project is expected to begin in late 2023 and to be completed in 2025.

Hetch Hetchy Project Operations

General

The Hetch Hetchy Project provides two utility services with distinct ratepayers: water and power. Several facilities operated by Hetch Hetchy Project staff are joint assets used for both water storage and transmission and electric generation and transmission, benefitting both Hetch Hetchy Water and Power Enterprise operations. Operating and capital costs that jointly benefit both ratepayer groups are allocated 45% to the Water Enterprise and 55% to the Power Enterprise.

Water First Policy

The Hetch Hetchy Project is operated as a combined water storage and conveyance and electric generation and transmission system. The Water Enterprise and the Power Enterprise coordinate operation of the Hetch Hetchy Project to ensure reliable utility services are provided by the combined system. In accordance with State statute, the Charter and the terms of the Water Supply Agreement, the SFPUC operates the Hetch Hetchy Project pursuant to a “water first” policy to optimize the reliability and quality of its water deliveries and ensure that hydroelectric generation does not cause any reasonably anticipated adverse impact on water service. Power is generated when water is delivered to meet water system operational requirements.

Hetch Hetchy Project reservoir operations are guided by two principal objectives: collection of Tuolumne River water runoff for diversion to the Bay Area; and fulfillment of the SFPUC’s downstream release obligations. To ensure water supply, Hetch Hetchy Project reservoirs remain high through the early winter, until snowmelt runoff is forecasted to fill all Tuolumne reservoirs. When the forecasted snowmelt is certain to be in excess of the fill volume, the reservoirs may be drawn down, generating electricity, without risking water supply. Similarly, the Bay Area reservoirs included in the regional water system serving San Francisco and the Water Enterprise’s wholesale customers (the “Regional Water System”) are operated to conserve watershed runoff. As such, reservoirs are drawn down early in the winter period to capture storms and reduce the potential for spilling water out of the reservoirs. In the spring, the Hetch Hetchy Project water that may be drawn down (snowmelt) is often transferred to three of the Bay Area reservoirs that can receive the water, so that any unused local reservoir storage is filled prior to July 1.

Typically, this policy requires that more water be delivered by the Hetch Hetchy Project to lower-level reservoirs in spring, when electricity prices tend to be lower than they are in the summer and fall. Therefore, in an average year, the Power Enterprise has excess generation to sell in the first half of the year and generally supplements its own generation with purchases of wholesale electricity to meet demand during the second half of the year. Nevertheless, consistent annual water needs and water deliveries create consistent “base load” electricity generation to meet almost all of the Power Enterprise’s annual retail customer load requirements. In addition, reservoir levels are flexible and, to the extent possible, are strategically managed to generate power when most valuable. The Power Enterprise accounts for the costs of projected power purchases, including seasonal differential in electricity prices, in its budget and reflects such costs in the rates it charges customers. See “– Variability of Hydroelectric Generation” and “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Changes in Energy Prices.”

Licensing and Regulation

FERC Regulation

Under the Federal Power Act, the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (“FERC”) is responsible for the licensing of hydroelectric plants within the United States. The Raker Act, which authorized rights-of-way on federal lands necessary for the Hetch Hetchy Project, predates the Federal Power Act. Hetch Hetchy Project hydroelectric facilities are on rights-of-way granted under the Raker Act. In addition, the Federal Power Act specifically exempts from FERC regulation those Hetch Hetchy Project facilities subject to the Raker Act. See “DEVELOPMENTS IN

THE ELECTRICITY MARKETS AND REGULATION – Federal Law and Regulation – Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.”

Downstream from the Hetch Hetchy Project, the Districts own and operate a hydroelectric generating plant located at the Don Pedro Reservoir on the Tuolumne River (the “New Don Pedro Project”). The New Don Pedro Project is subject to FERC regulation and is currently undergoing re-licensing. The SFPUC has a water banking arrangement with the Districts that allows the SFPUC to “advance” water owed to the Districts to satisfy their entitlements through storage in the Don Pedro Reservoir for the Districts’ later use, thus improving the water flows (and the timing of related electric generation) from Hetch Hetchy Project facilities upstream on the Tuolumne River. See “– FERC Proceeding Regarding Relicensing of the New Don Pedro Project.”

California Public Utilities Commission Regulation

The CPUC establishes standards that apply to transmission and distribution facilities to ensure the safety of employees and the general public. The CPUC applies these standards to publicly-owned utilities (“POUs”) as well as privately owned utilities, even though POUs are generally not subject to CPUC jurisdiction. The standards concern all aspects of maintaining and operating transmission and distribution facilities, including vegetation management, clearances, line-loading, inspections, and reporting.

Dam Operation; Dam Safety

In 1929, the California Legislature enacted legislation providing for supervision over non-federal dams in California. The statutes place the supervision of the safety of non-federal dams and reservoirs under DSOD jurisdiction. Dams under DSOD jurisdiction are artificial barriers, together with appurtenant work, including outlet towers that are 25 feet or more in height or have an impounding capacity of 50 acre-feet or more. Any artificial barrier not more than six feet in height, regardless of storage, or that has a capacity not more than 15 acre-feet, regardless of height, is not considered jurisdictional.

The DSOD reviews plans and specifications for the construction of new dams or for the enlargement, alteration, repair or removal of existing dams, under applications, and must grant written approval before the owner can proceed with construction. The DSOD routinely inspects operating dams to assure that they are adequately maintained. The DSOD also conducts investigations of selected dams and directs the owners to conduct additional investigations and detailed safety evaluations when necessary. DSOD dam inspection orders have included dams operated by Hetch Hetchy Water. See “– Physical Condition of Facilities – Reservoir and Dam Facilities.”

The SFPUC has an ongoing comprehensive dam safety program to monitor, inspect and maintain dams to ensure public safety downstream. The program establishes policies, objectives and expectations relating to dam safety, including a surveillance and monitoring program. The SFPUC has adopted long-term commitments relating to the operation of its dams. Such commitments include, but are not limited to: operating dams and appurtenant structures in a manner that keeps them operationally and structurally safe; maintaining dams in a safe and non-defective condition to prevent degradation and maintain serviceability; conducting regular preventive and corrective maintenance activities; addressing nonroutine, specialized, and large-scale dam maintenance work and studies through the SFPUC’s capital program; performing routine surveillance, monitoring, and reporting of dam conditions; inspecting dams once a year, as deemed necessary or prescribed by protocols; operating adit valves and emergency release valves for each dam once per year; and preparing emergency action plans for each applicable dam.

FERC Proceeding Regarding Relicensing of the New Don Pedro Project

FERC licenses the New Don Pedro Project, owned and operated by the Districts. The City helped fund the original construction of the New Don Pedro Project in exchange for a 570,000-acre-foot “water bank” account allowing the SFPUC to receive water credits for advanced releases from the Hetch Hetchy Project to the New Don Pedro Reservoir.

The current FERC license for the New Don Pedro Project expired in 2016, and the Districts are now operating under an annual license that incorporates the conditions of their prior license. The Districts initiated the process to relicense the New Don Pedro Project using FERC's Integrated Licensing Process in 2010. Relicensing is a lengthy process, stretching over several years and open to public participation. It is estimated the process may cost up to $50 million to complete, which costs are split for certain studies between the Districts and the SFPUC pursuant to an existing agreement. The Districts submitted an Amended Final License Application ("AFLA") for the New Don Pedro Project on October 11, 2017.

The Districts are also working through an initial licensing proceeding for the La Grange Diversion Dam (the "La Grange Project"), which is located on the Tuolumne River, two miles downstream of the New Don Pedro Project. The Districts also submitted their Final License Application ("FLA") for the La Grange Project on October 11, 2017. The City has no legal or contractual responsibilities regarding the ownership or operation of the La Grange Project and is not subject to the licensing conditions for the La Grange Project.

National Environmental Policy Act ("NEPA") and CEQA environmental review must be completed before licenses can be issued. On July 7, 2020, FERC released the Final Environmental Impact Statement ("FEIS") for both the AFLA for the New Don Pedro Project and the FLA for the La Grange Project. The FEIS presents a "staff recommendation" that is mostly aligned with the Districts' AFLA.

Under section 401 of the federal Clean Water Act, FERC cannot issue a new license for a hydroelectric project until a state's water quality agency issues a certification stating that the new license will comply with the applicable water quality requirements (the "401 Certification") or, alternatively, FERC determines that the state has waived its authority to issue a 401 Certification. The ongoing water quality control plan voluntary agreement process is designed, in part, to draft the terms of the 401 Certification that would be included as part of the FERC license in lieu of a requirement set forth in the "Phase 1" Amendment to the Water Quality Control Plan (the "2018 Plan Amendment") adopted by the California State Water Resources Control Board (the "SWRCB") in 2018 to release of 40% of the "unimpaired flow" on the three San Joaquin River tributaries from February through June in every water year type, whether wet, normal, dry, or critically dry. However, in January 2021, the SWRCB issued a final 401 Certification that sets a flow schedule more onerous than the 2018 Plan Amendment. The SFPUC and the Districts jointly filed a petition for reconsideration at the SWRCB in February 2021. The SWRCB did not respond to these petitions and the City and the Districts consequently filed related lawsuits challenging the 401 Certification. In addition, the Districts have challenged FERC to find that the SWRCB has waived its authority to issue a 401 Certification. Both the administrative and judicial proceedings are ongoing. The challenges to the SWRCB's issuance of the 401 Certification remain pending. The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit decided the Districts' waiver lawsuit unfavorably to the Districts, and, in April 2023, the United States Supreme Court denied the Districts' petition for certiorari, fully resolving this case.

A 1995 Don Pedro Project Settlement Agreement ("Settlement Agreement") and a 1996 Order by FERC ("1996 Order") established increased water flows on the Tuolumne River to protect fisheries and riparian resources. A restoration plan ("Restoration Plan") adopted in 2000 guides planning, funding and implementation efforts. The Restoration Plan calls for a series of projects with a combined estimated cost of $25 million to improve river channel, riparian, and fisheries conditions within a 27-mile stretch of the Tuolumne River corridor below the La Grange Diversion Dam. Four of the ten priority projects were completed with available State and federal funding. More recently, the City and the Districts as well as other non-governmental organizations have been working on implementing additional habitat restoration projects related to the Restoration Plan.

Pursuant to a then-existing agreement between the City and the Districts, the City might have been liable to provide a portion of the increased flows mandated under the 1995 Settlement Agreement. Instead, the City and the Districts entered into a new agreement (the "Side Agreement") whereby the Districts agreed to provide all flows ordered by FERC to implement the Settlement Agreement until FERC issues a new license for the New Don Pedro Project in exchange for which the City pays the Districts $3.5 million per year, subject to an escalation clause applied to keep pace with inflation. Pursuant to the terms of its agreement with the Districts, the City may withdraw from the agreement upon one year's notice.

The term of the Side Agreement runs until FERC issues a new license for the New Don Pedro Project. License conditions, such as water-release requirements, could change under a new license. Changed release requirements could adversely affect the availability of Tuolumne River water to the SFPUC and incidental hydroelectric generation. To prevent these potentially adverse effects to its operations on the Tuolumne River, the SFPUC is seeking to extend the existing Side Agreement so that it would remain in effect after the New Don Pedro Project FERC license is renewed.

FERC has not yet provided a schedule for relicensing.

WECC/NERC Requirements

FERC has adopted mandatory electric reliability standards developed by the North American Electric Reliability Corporation (“NERC”) and enforced in the western region of the United States by the Western Electric Coordinating Council (“WECC”). These standards require all entities that are a part of the bulk power system to demonstrate their ability to ensure reliability for all operations. The SFPUC is required to register and demonstrate compliance (or plans to mitigate non-compliance) in several operational areas. The SFPUC has established a compliance program that includes regular training of staff, systematic inspection and monitoring of operations and facilities, regular audits of compliance and mitigation plans, and regular reporting to senior management. NERC regulations are specified by operational function and require entities to register for each applicable function. The SFPUC is registered for several functions, including those applicable to transmission owners and operators and generation owners and operators. The SFPUC is audited by WECC every three years on the program. See “DEVELOPMENTS IN THE ELECTRICITY MARKETS AND REGULATION – Federal Law and Regulation – Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.”

Variability of Hydroelectric Generation

As is the case for nearly all hydroelectric generating assets, generation at the Hetch Hetchy Project is subject to annual and seasonal variations in precipitation. Typically, in the spring, hydroelectric generation at the Hetch Hetchy Project is higher than in other parts of the year as collected water and snowmelt flows through the Hetch Hetchy Project and the Regional Water System to satisfy customer draws and fill reservoirs at lower elevations, while electrical demand within the western region of the United States is generally lower than it is during most other parts of the year. Conversely, in the late summer and fall, with substantially less snowmelt and, on average, decreased precipitation, hydroelectric generation at the Hetch Hetchy Project declines due to concomitant decreases in water flow through the Hetch Hetchy Project. At the same time, electrical demand from western regional users increases. In an average year, the Power Enterprise has excess generation to sell in the first half of the year, and generally purchases wholesale electricity during the second half of the year to meet its load obligations. See “– Hetch Hetchy Project Operations – Water First Policy” and “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Changes in Energy Prices.”

Due to the critically dry period from October 2019 to September 2021, the SWRCB issued a curtailment order in August 2021 restricting the SFPUC’s ability to capture inflow to its reservoirs which feed the Kirkwood, Moccasin and Holm powerhouses. The curtailment order forced a shift in generation from fall to winter months, at release rates which likely exceeded generator capacities and reduced the SFPUC’s total annual generation from these powerhouses. The curtailment order impacted generation operations from August 2021 through mid-November 2022. The curtailment order was rescinded in April 2023.

Water Year 2023 has been well above normal for both precipitation and snowpack. As of September 5, 2023, Water Year 2023 precipitation for the upcountry area totals approximately 61.9 inches, which is 168.8% of normal annual total, and Water Year 2023 precipitation for the local area totals approximately 44.3 inches, which is 194.4% of normal annual total. Storage at the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir as of September 5, 2023 was approximately 99.5% of the maximum storage capacity of 360,360 acre-feet.

The SFPUC anticipates that purchased power costs in Fiscal Year 2023-24 will be higher than in prior years due to various market forces. See “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Risks Related to Power Enterprise Facilities and Operations – Water System Operation Requirements,” “– Increased Operation and Maintenance Expenses,” “– Changes in Energy Prices,” and “– Uncertainties of Projections, Forecasts and Assumptions.”

Source: SFPUC.

Over the past 10 years, the Hetch Hetchy Project generated an average of 1,253,000 MWh per year, with an average of 744,000 MWh generated in the first six months (January-June) to satisfy average customer load of 471,000 MWh during the same period, and an average of 508,000 MWh generated in the second six months (July-December) to satisfy average customer load of 481,000 MWh during the same period.

Precipitation conditions also vary on an annual basis. The Hetch Hetchy Project is geographically located in an environment subject to periodic drought conditions. Since 1921, seven multi-year droughts have been recorded in the Hetch Hetchy Project area. The Tuolumne Basin was recently in a drought from water years 2020 to 2022, the second driest three-year period on record. During dry years in the Hetch Hetchy Project area, the share of purchased power as a percentage of Power Enterprise customers’ load increases. Because of the prevalence of hydroelectric generating resources in the western and particularly northwestern portions of the United States, regional drought conditions of the type experienced in such regions in water years 2013 and 2014 can also impact the overall cost of purchased power. The SFPUC cannot predict when drought conditions will begin or end, or the frequency or severity of any future drought conditions.

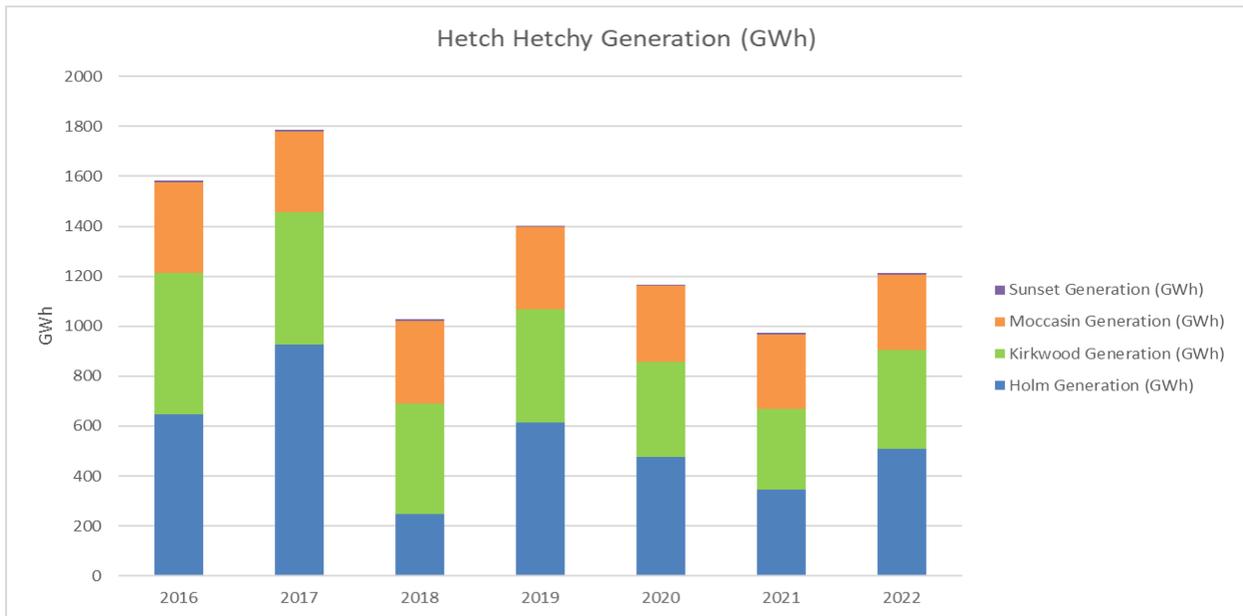

Had current system generation been in place throughout the past 93 years, models indicate the Hetch Hetchy Project would have produced an annual maximum generation of approximately 2,500,000 MWh (in a wet year similar to a year like 1983) and a minimum of approximately 900,000 MWh (in a critically dry year similar to a year like 1977), while currently serving an average retail customer load of 1,000,000 MWh. With climate change, Hetch Hetchy Project generation has decreased since 2000, and is estimated at about 1,250,000 MWh of electricity annually. Even during drought conditions, the Hetch Hetchy Project has frequently generated enough electricity to meet its retail load obligations, but had less excess generation available for wholesale sales, effectively reducing revenues from wholesale market transactions. See “THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Load and Electricity Supply Resource Management; Wholesale Electricity Trading.” The following graph shows simulated and actual annual generation of the Hetch Hetchy Project applying current system generation capability to historical hydrology since 1921. This interannual variability is expected for this area and is an expected consequence of climate change. The Power Enterprise continues to meet its load obligations through supplemental wholesale power purchase.

Safety and Security

The safety and security of Hetch Hetchy Project facilities is maintained via a combination of regular inspections by SFPUC employees, electronic monitoring and analysis of unusual incident reports. Most above-ground facilities operated and maintained by the SFPUC are controlled-access facilities with fencing, signage and gates. Additionally, closed circuit television surveillance systems and security officers may be deployed at certain times, as dictated by the security situation, the City, and federal requirements. Smaller, above ground and subterranean pumping stations operated and maintained by the SFPUC are locked with padlock or internal locking mechanisms, and most are monitored via access/intrusion alarms and are also regularly inspected by SFPUC employees. Security requirements are frequently inspected, evaluated and audited in accordance with current policies and procedures. Improvements to the current security system are continually evaluated as changes in technology or threats occur. The electronic operations and controls have been evaluated and designed to reduce exposure using a series of technology systems enhancements and integration in accordance with the SFPUC's security design procedures.

Wildfire Considerations

Wildfire Mitigation Plan

The CPUC created the Fire-Threat Map for California (the “Fire-Threat Map”). The Fire-Threat Map shows areas where there is an increased risk for utility associated wildfires and where utility infrastructure and operations will have stricter fire-safety regulations. The Fire-Threat Map is comprised of the High Fire Threat District, which is made up of two maps: Tier 1 High Hazard Zones (“HHZs”) and Tier 2 and Tier 3 fire-threat areas. Tier 1 HHZs, based on the United States Forest Service and California Department of Forestry and Fire Protection joint map of Tree Mortality, are zones near communities, roads, and utility lines, and are a direct threat to public safety. Tier 2 fire-threat areas outline areas where there is a higher risk (including likelihood and potential impacts on people and property) from utility related wildfires. Tier 3 fire-threat areas outline areas where there is an extreme risk (including likelihood and potential impacts on people and property) from utility related wildfires.

The SFPUC owns and operates about 94 miles of overhead electrical lines that are located within the CPUC's Tier 1 HHZs. The lines are primarily located in the Sierra Nevada, surrounding foothills and on the Peninsula. The Hetch Hetchy Project and electric transmission and other facilities operated by Hetch Hetchy Project staff are primarily located in the Sierra Nevada and surrounding foothills, where wildfire is a risk, especially within the Stanislaus National Forest.

The Hetch Hetchy Project has both power transmission and distributions lines within certain high fire-threat areas. Approximately 26% (42.6 miles) of the transmission lines are in Tier 2, and 2% (3.3 miles) of the transmission lines are in Tier 3. The remaining 72% of the transmission lines are outside of the High Fire Threat District. All Hetch Hetchy Project distribution lines are in Tier 2 (approximately 39 miles).

As required by the CPUC, the SFPUC maintains a Wildfire Mitigation Plan (the “Wildfire Mitigation Plan”) which describes the numerous programs that the SFPUC has in place to construct, maintain and operate its electrical facilities in order to minimize the risk that its equipment could be the origin or contributing source for a catastrophic wildfire. The Wildfire Mitigation Plan is reviewed by an independent evaluator, approved by the SFPUC Commission, and submitted to the California Wildfire Safety Advisory Board on or before July 1, of each year. The SFPUC's Wildfire Mitigation Plan was most recently reviewed by an independent evaluator, Zaragoza Consulting, Inc., in 2023, who determined that the SFPUC's Wildfire Mitigation Plan is comprehensive and meets the statutory requirements of Section 8387 of the California Public Utilities Code for publicly owned electric utilities. The California Wildfire Safety Advisory Board is expected to publish its guidance advisory opinions for recently submitted wildfire mitigation plans in late 2023.

Impact of Wildfires on the Power Enterprise

Wildfires can adversely impact the Power Enterprise in two distinct ways. First, wildfires can damage Hetch Hetchy Project facilities and disrupt the operation of, or cause damage to, electric generation and transmission facilities. As one example, in 2013, the Rim Fire, one of the largest wildfires on record in the Sierra Nevada, burned over 257,135 acres. The Rim Fire passed through an area containing two of the Hetch Hetchy Project's electric generating stations, the Kirkwood and Moccasin Powerhouses, which combined generate approximately 57% of the electricity produced by the Hetch Hetchy Project, and reached the southern edge of the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir, which supplies 85% of San Francisco's drinking water. Other critical infrastructure, including electricity transmission and distribution lines, switch yards, and structures, was in the wildfire's direct path prior to full containment in October 2013. The Rim Fire inflicted approximately $40 million in damages to the Hetch Hetchy Project and other facilities in the Sierra Nevada region. The Hetch Hetchy Project electric generation system was also interrupted by the effects of the Rim Fire for a period of 43 days. To serve its retail load and maintain safety and reliability during this period, the SFPUC purchased power on the open market, including using existing banked electricity with PG&E. The total cost to the SFPUC of such power purchases and banked power usage was approximately $1.7 million. The SFPUC is pursuing cost recovery to recoup losses through the Federal Emergency Management Agency's and the State of California Governor's Office of Emergency Services' Public Assistance Grant programs, as well as purchased property insurance coverage for mission critical assets. To date, the SFPUC has made progress in recovering most costs related to the power purchases through insurance and is working towards collecting further reimbursements for damages caused by the Rim Fire. See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Risk Management and Insurance." Endpoint delivery of electricity to Power Enterprise retail and wholesale customers remained unaffected and the Rim Fire did not have an adverse impact on drinking water quality, despite some ash having been observed falling into the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir.

Second, wildfires attributable to Hetch Hetchy Project facilities may result in liability for damage to private property. For more information, see "CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Inverse Condemnation."

The SFPUC participates in a City-wide purchased insurance policy which provides up to $1 billion of coverage against certain losses with respect to scheduled property. Such scheduled property includes certain properties of the City and its departments, including, but not limited to, the SFPUC's enterprises which alone total approximately $2.8 billion. The Power Enterprise has included on the insurance schedule the Kirkwood and Holmes Powerhouses, the Intake and Calaveras Switchyards the Warnerville Substations, certain penstocks and a number of other facilities with a total combined value of approximately $986 million. This purchased insurance policy generally does not cover any power transmission or distribution lines and does not cover any third-party liability in connection with wildfires, all of which are instead included in the SFPUC's self-insurance program. For more information about the SFPUC's risk management program, which encompasses both self-insured and insured coverage, see "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Risk Management and Insurance."

Wildfire Mitigation Strategies

As set forth in the Wildfire Mitigation Plan, the SFPUC has evaluated prevention and response strategies and established capital projects designed to mitigate the threat of wildfire posed by overhead electrical lines. Such projects, which are part of the SFPUC's ongoing replacement and rehabilitation program related to wildfire mitigation efforts, include (i) reconductoring, increasing safe-clearance distances, undergrounding, and adding alternative power supplies in some areas designated by the CPUC as High Fire Threat District zones to reduce the Hetch Hetchy Project's overhead electrical line footprint, and (ii) developing fire breaks near and/or around other facilities, which will require clearing certain amounts of vegetation on either side of identified access rounds to ground level and is expected to include herbicide treatments to prevent re-growth as part of periodic maintenance. The ongoing replacement and rehabilitation program is funded at approximately $2.0 million a year to provide condition assessments, design, environmental evaluations, and construction.

In addition, another one of the SFPUC's wildfire mitigation strategies set forth in the Wildfire Mitigation Plan is de-energization during critical fire weather conditions. The SFPUC owns two water treatment plants, Sunol Valley Water Treatment Plant (the "SVWTP") and Harry Tracy Water Treatment Plant (the "HTWTP"). SFPUC transmission lines feed the SVWTP. In the event SFPUC must de-energize the transmission lines that feed the SVWTP, the portion of the transmission system outside of the de-energization zone can be back fed from the PG&E electrical grid. In the event of both public safety power shutoffs ("PSPS") by PG&E and SFPUC de-energization, SVWTP operates on backup generation. Unlike SVWTP, which is connected to SFPUC transmission lines, the Power Enterprise serves the HTWTP under a transmission service agreement with PG&E. Backup generation is available at the HTWTP in the event of a PG&E PSPS event.

Winter Storms in Fiscal Year 2022-23

Early winter storms at the end of 2022 and beginning of 2023 caused damage to some Hetch Hetchy Project facilities. The storms damaged multiple water and joint assets on the Hetch Hetchy Water and Power system, with most of the damage occurring to paved and unpaved access roads. The SFPUC continued to deliver high-quality drinking water to its retail and wholesale customers throughout the storm events, and power generation and transmission continued uninterrupted. Watershed roads in Tuolumne, Alameda, and San Joaquin counties experienced erosion, sinkholes and slides and are awaiting repairs for access to be reestablished. Under the terms of the Raker Act, Hetch Hetchy Water and Power is responsible for maintenance of certain right of way roads. Two of these roads, Cherry Lake Road and Hetch Hetchy Road, experienced complete and partial road failures, and an emergency contract in the amount of $11.5 million has been awarded to complete the necessary repairs prior to the next winter storm season. Hetch Hetchy Project crews were able to maintain access to critical facilities throughout the storm events. Additional reported damages include erosion adjacent to the headgate structure of the Early Intake Dam and damage to the Moccasin Creek bypass pipe.

The SFPUC anticipates that both short- and long-term capital projects will be required to rebuild roads and complete repairs to damaged facilities. Total cost of damages is expected to be at least $40 million; however, final costs will not be known until at least 2024. The SFPUC anticipates it will be able to pay such costs from reserves, revenues of the Power Enterprise and Water Enterprise, and/or proceeds of existing Power Enterprise and Water Enterprise bonds. The City has applied for federal and State disaster relief funding, and the SFPUC plans to seek reimbursement for qualified expenses.

THE POWER ENTERPRISE

General

The SFPUC has provided electricity services to retail customers and California irrigation districts since the 1920s in accordance with the terms of the Raker Act. Pursuant to the Raker Act, the City developed a system of hydroelectric facilities, transmission facilities and other electric utility infrastructure to serve its customers. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT.” The City also built and owns certain transmission and distribution facilities that are not part of the Hetch Hetchy Project. Since at least 1945, the SFPUC has purchased transmission and distribution services from PG&E through a FERC-approved wholesale agreement to transmit and deliver electricity to its City customers.

In 2005, as part of an agency-wide reorganization, the SFPUC created the Power Enterprise as a separate electric utility enterprise to complement the Water and Wastewater Enterprises. Although the Power Enterprise is functionally organized as a separate enterprise within the SFPUC’s overall structure, the Hetch Hetchy Project is operated as a combined water storage and conveyance and electric generation and transmission system. See also “INTRODUCTION – The San Francisco Public Utilities Commission and the Power Enterprise” and “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT.”

In 2016, the SFPUC began serving customers through CleanPowerSF, a Community Choice Aggregation program. Under CleanPowerSF, the SFPUC pools the electricity demands of San Francisco residents and businesses that are retail electric distribution customers of PG&E for the purpose of buying electricity on behalf of such customers. CleanPowerSF is a “Separate System” under the Indenture.

The Power Enterprise schedules, purchases, sells, transmits and distributes electricity to meet the needs of more than 6,000 retail and wholesale accounts, currently representing 19% of the total electricity consumed within San Francisco (with 58% provided by CleanPowerSF and the remaining 23% by PG&E and electricity service providers through a State-authorized direct access program). The Power Enterprise’s customers include:

- municipal departments, including the City’s fire houses, hospitals, municipal transit rail system, water and wastewater treatment facilities, SFO, recreational facilities, maritime facilities, public housing and City streetlights and traffic signals;

- the SFUSD;
- tenants in City-owned properties, including tenants of the Port and SFO;
- the Hunters Point Shipyard Phase I redevelopment project and tenants of TIDA on the former Naval Station Treasure Island and Yerba Buena Island;
- other new developments including Mission Rock and Pier 70;
- SF Housing Authority, Rental Assistance Demonstration projects; and
- commercial customers and developments including the Salesforce Transit Center in downtown San Francisco, and Digital Realty, a data center transferred from PG&E retail service to the Power Enterprise.

The Power Enterprise also owns, operates and maintains half of the streetlights in San Francisco and supplies electricity to the other half, which are owned and maintained by PG&E.

The Power Facilities include the power-related assets of the Hetch Hetchy Project, 25 solar arrays and two biogas facilities, transmission lines, and numerous distribution facilities. The Power Enterprise currently has 136 full-time positions, an operating budget of $220.4 million for Fiscal Year 2023-24, and a capital budget of approximately $41.9 million for power facilities and the power portion of combined water and power facilities. The Power Enterprise's revenues for Fiscal Years 2021-22 and 2020-21 were approximately $185.0 million and $155.7 million, respectively. Power Enterprise revenues currently support approximately 80% of the SFPUC's costs of operating the Hetch Hetchy Project, including maintenance and capital improvements relating to the Hetch Hetchy Project. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Hetch Hetchy Project Operations" and "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS."

Power Service in San Francisco

San Francisco's electricity needs are met by four primary providers. CleanPowerSF is currently the largest supplier of electricity in San Francisco, serving approximately 58% of the total load within San Francisco. In addition, approximately 19% of the total load within San Francisco is currently supplied by the Power Enterprise, and the remaining 23% is supplied by PG&E and electricity service providers through a State-authorized direct access program. The above percentages include electricity usage for all of San Francisco and SFO, which is located outside San Francisco city boundaries in unincorporated San Mateo County and served by the SFPUC. In 2008, the City established a goal to have greenhouse gas ("GHG")-free electric service by 2030, to be realized in part by generating, deploying and procuring all of the SFPUC's electricity needs from renewable and zero-GHG electric energy sources. PG&E is currently the dominant provider of distribution services in San Francisco, with SFPUC owning the distribution system serving The Shipyard development (the Hunters Point Shipyard Phase I redevelopment project), and portions of the distribution system serving the Treasure Island and Yerba Buena Island development.

The SFPUC is commissioning and testing an SFPUC-owned transmission and electrical distribution facility along the Bayside of San Francisco, known as the Bay Corridor Transmission and Distribution ("BCTD") project, in support of the Power Enterprise's long-term business plan of owning in-city distribution to provide electric service to existing and future customers in San Francisco. The BCTD project consists of (i) a 230 kV underground transmission line, (ii) a 15 kv distribution system and (iii) a 75 megavolt-amperes 230/15 kV substation. The BCTD project is interconnected with PG&E at the Potrero Substation at 230 kV. The SFPUC will own the 230 kV transmission line from the Potrero Substation to the BCTD distribution substation, the Davidson Substation, where the voltage is transformed to 12.47 kV for delivery to customers. The BCTD will serve retail customers along the southeastern waterfront of San Francisco, including the Pier 70 development, the Mission Rock development, the Southeast Treatment Plant, the UCSF clinic and garage, the Mariposa pump station, the Southeast Community Center and the Water Enterprise's new City Distribution Division facility. The BCTD is expected to be on-line by the end of 2023.

Pacific Gas & Electric Company

Incorporated in California in 1905, PG&E is a for-profit, investor-owned natural gas and electric utility company, with a service area in California that extends from Eureka in the coastal north to Bakersfield in the south, and from the Pacific Ocean in the west to the Sierra Nevada in the east, although portions of the area are served by other for-profit investor-owned utilities and municipally-owned utilities. PG&E moved its headquarters from San Francisco to Oakland, California in 2022. While PG&E is the largest provider of electric distribution services within San Francisco, the Power Enterprise and CleanPowerSF together now provide approximately 77% of the electricity consumed in San Francisco.

PG&E is regulated primarily by the CPUC and FERC. The CPUC has jurisdiction over the rates and terms and conditions of service for PG&E's retail electricity and natural gas distribution operations, electric generation, and natural gas transportation and storage. FERC has jurisdiction over the rates and terms and conditions of service governing PG&E's electric transmission operations, interstate natural gas transportation contracts and Wholesale Distribution Tariff (the "Tariff") services. The federal Nuclear Regulatory Commission oversees the licensing, construction, operation, and decommissioning of PG&E's nuclear generation facility. PG&E is also subject to the jurisdiction of other federal, State, and local governmental agencies in certain matters.

- The Power Enterprise is a wholesale customer of PG&E for transmission and distribution services within San Francisco. In Fiscal Years 2021-22 and 2022-23, the Power Enterprise paid PG&E approximately $22.3 million and $29.0 million, respectively, for its distribution services. The Power Enterprise is also a customer of PG&E streetlight services, and currently pays PG&E approximately $1.9 million per year to operate and maintain the 17,925 PG&E-owned streetlights in San Francisco. While the SFPUC pays PG&E directly for wholesale distribution services, it pays California Independent System Operator ("CAISO") tariffed "postage stamp" rates for transmission services on PG&E owned transmission lines. The Power Enterprise provides electricity for streetlights, traffic signals and certain unmetered loads in San Francisco. See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Rate-Setting Process; Rates – PG&E Retail Rates" and "CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Risks Related to Power Enterprise Operations and Facilities – Interconnection Delays and Costs."
- Power Distribution, Metering and Billing for CleanPowerSF. PG&E also provides metering, data transfer and billing services to CleanPowerSF, pursuant to State statute implemented through rules and regulations adopted and enforced by the CPUC. PG&E provides retail transmission and distribution services and consolidated billing services to CleanPowerSF customers. CleanPowerSF customers pay PG&E for all electric services charges (generation, transmission and distribution) and PG&E transfers customer payments received for CleanPowerSF electric generation service to the SFPUC.
- Regulator. The franchise agreements between the City and PG&E, approved by the Board of Supervisors on December 26, 1939, grant PG&E non-exclusive franchises to provide electric and gas service in San Francisco and authorize use of public rights-of-way in connection therewith. The City, including the SFPUC, regularly issues permits to PG&E for work on or use of City property to improve its systems. For example, PG&E is a permitted user of some of the SFPUC's watershed lands.
- Competitor to Power Enterprise. Neither the Raker Act nor PG&E's franchise agreements impose any limitations on the City's ability to serve retail electric customers. The SFPUC and PG&E compete to serve load and offer competing products. The Power Enterprise provides bundled electric services through the Power Enterprise's publicly owned utility and provides generation services through CleanPowerSF. Both business lines provide other services such as distributed energy resources, decarbonization and energy efficiency services.

PG&E filed for Chapter 11 bankruptcy on January 29, 2019, and subsequently emerged from bankruptcy on July 1, 2020. In connection with PG&E's bankruptcy, the City submitted a non-binding indication of interest to

PG&E to purchase substantially all of PG&E's electric distribution and transmission assets needed to provide retail electric service to all electricity customers within the geographic boundaries of San Francisco. The City subsequently submitted additional non-binding indications of interest to PG&E in September 2020 and May 2023. A transaction has not been consummated to date. The City remains interested in acquiring these assets from PG&E. For more information, see "THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION – Proposed Transaction with Pacific Gas & Electric Company."

Electric Service Providers (Direct Access)

Direct access service in California was established following the restructuring of California's electric industry in 1998 through Assembly Bill 1890 (1996) ("AB 1890") and allows qualified large investor-owned utility customers to purchase their electricity directly from qualified suppliers through bilateral contracts, subject to utility-specific load caps. The investor-owned utility continues to be responsible for transmission and distribution under CPUC tariffs. None of the Power Enterprise's customers are eligible to participate in the State's direct access program as the program is only available to investor-owned utility retail customers.

CleanPowerSF Service

The Power Enterprise is responsible for the operation of CleanPowerSF, a Community Choice Aggregation program. Under CleanPowerSF, the SFPUC pools the electricity demands of many San Francisco residents and businesses that are retail electric distribution customers of PG&E for the purpose of buying electricity on behalf of such customers. CleanPowerSF, which currently serves over 380,000 accounts, gives residential and commercial electricity consumers in San Francisco a choice of having their electricity supplied from clean renewable sources, such as solar, wind, and geothermal, at competitive rates. CleanPowerSF offers three products: the default "Green" product comprised of at least 50% RPS-eligible renewable energy; the "SuperGreen" product comprised of 100% RPS-eligible renewable energy; and the "SuperGreen Saver" product comprised of 100% RPS-eligible renewable energy in which eligible low-income customers receive a 20% bill discount. As required by State law, CleanPowerSF is an opt-out program and customers can choose to use CleanPowerSF or stay with PG&E's existing generation service. Since the SFPUC began serving customers through CleanPowerSF in 2016, the program has maintained an approximately 96% participation rate, or an approximately 4% opt-out rate.

CleanPowerSF is a "Separate System" under the Indenture. CleanPowerSF cannot provide service to Power Enterprise customers; under State law, CCAs cannot operate within the service areas of local publicly owned electric utilities.

Power Enterprise Service

The Power Enterprise is responsible for the marketing, sale, transmission, and delivery of all the clean energy products produced by the Hetch Hetchy Project and other power produced by the SFPUC. The Power Enterprise balances that supply with purchases or sales to meet customer demand. The Power Enterprise distributes, meters, provides outage response and call center services and prepares the electric bills for its customers, comprised of City offices, facilities and their tenants, ranging from neighborhood police stations and fire houses, the Ferry Building, and City Hall, to SFO, Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital and Trauma Center, wastewater pumping and treatment facilities, the Regional Water System facilities, and the SFMTA. The Power Enterprise is also the full-service electricity provider to new developments like The Shipyard, The Bristol, and the Salesforce Transit Center. The Power Enterprise also provides gas and electric services to former Naval Station Treasure Island, by agreement with TIDA. See "– Power Enterprise Customers." The Power Enterprise operates and maintains many miles of distribution system to provide reliable electric service to its customers.

The Power Enterprise provides the full complement of electricity services to its customers, which includes implementing energy efficiency improvements and on-site renewable power generation, and operating programs to encourage customer actions like reducing usage on high demand days to help with system reliability, and rebates for customer investment in clean technology. The Power Enterprise has developed, owns and maintains 3.525 MW of rooftop solar projects. The Power Enterprise has also developed certain in-city solar generation and methane gas-fired co-generation facilities. See "– Power Supply Resources." The Power Enterprise owns, operates, manages and maintains approximately half of all streetlights and related circuitry throughout San Francisco.

The Power Enterprise’s operations and planning are guided by several policy objectives, including:

- Ensuring compliance with the Raker Act;
- Preserving the ability to operate, maintain, repair and improve SFPUC-owned facilities and providing safe and reliable electric service;
- Maximizing the value received from Hetch Hetchy Project electricity supply; and
- Continuing to support other valuable City and community goals, such as reducing the City’s carbon footprint, increasing the reliability of the City’s electricity supply, and encouraging conservation and sustainable technologies.

Power Supply Resources

The Power Enterprise meets its customers’ electricity requirements with a combination of (1) generation from the SFPUC-owned Hetch Hetchy Project, (2) generation at renewable projects in San Francisco owned by the Power Enterprise and (3) market purchases. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT.”

The Power Enterprise portfolio is comprised of approximately 416.6 MW of renewable electricity generating capacity, as set forth in the following table, serving approximately 150 MW of retail load.

Solar, Biogas, Wind

In addition to the generation resources of the Hetch Hetchy Project, the Power Enterprise has developed, owns, and maintains 3.525 MW of rooftop solar projects on property in San Francisco. Solar generation capacity is distributed among the 28 municipal solar installations listed in the following table.

In addition, the Power Enterprise partnered with Duke Energy, a private solar developer, to build a large-scale, local solar facility on the SFPUC’s Sunset Reservoir. The facility achieved commercial operation in November 2010. The Power Enterprise has entered into a long-term power purchase agreement for the output of this 5 MW Sunset Solar Generating Project. See “OBLIGATIONS PAYABLE FROM REVENUES – Power Purchase Agreements” and “– Power Purchases.”

The Power Enterprise expects to install additional solar assets as part of its solar portfolio. Generally, the Power Enterprise aims to install two-to-three new solar assets with 150-300 kW of output every Fiscal Year, subject to its ability to identify suitable rooftop space in a dense urban environment and buildings that can structurally support a roofing system that can accommodate a new solar electric system.

The SFPUC also operates two biogas generation facilities, located at the Wastewater Enterprise’s Southeast and Oceanside Wastewater Treatment Plants, with a combined capacity of approximately 3.1 MW or approximately 1% of the Power Enterprise’s aggregate generation capacity. Such facilities generate clean, renewable energy from the gas byproducts of the wastewater decomposition process. Currently, the biogas from the digesters at the Southeast Treatment Plant is used to produce heat and power to support a portion of the plant operation. The Wastewater Enterprise is currently pursuing a P3 Biogas Utilization Project intended to develop new facilities to treat and upgrade biogas from Southeast Treatment Plant digesters to natural gas quality and sell the biogas and related energy credits. Such sales would not be undertaken by the Power Enterprise or result in additional Power Enterprise Revenues. As a result of this change in end use of the biogas, the Wastewater Enterprise will require additional power from Power Enterprise and natural gas from PG&E to replace that previously provided by the existing digester biogas, and to support a new Southeast Plant Biosolids Digester Facilities which is targeted for substantial completion in late 2027.

Power Purchases

The Power Enterprise supplements its resource portfolio with long-term and short-term power purchases to meet retail customer demand. The SFPUC has entered into several long-term power purchase agreements to help meet its electricity requirements:

- Western Area Power Administration – The SFPUC has entered into a long-term power agreement with the Western Area Power Administration (“WAPA”) wherein WAPA provides supplemental power and portfolio management services for customer needs on Treasure Island and Yerba Buena Island. Through the agreement, WAPA provides full load service and scheduling coordinator services for Treasure Island and Yerba Buena Island. The contract allocates a percentage of WAPA’s base resources and supplemental electricity to the SFPUC to meet the existing needs of Treasure Island and Yerba Buena Island. Additionally, the WAPA agreement provides for transmission access on the Central Valley Project Transmission System for such allocation. The contract expires on December 31, 2054.
- Sunset Reservoir Photovoltaic –The SFPUC has entered into an agreement with Duke Energy to finance, construct, own, operate and maintain a 5 MW solar photovoltaic generating plant on the rooftop of the SFPUC-owned North Storage Basin Reservoir and certain adjacent land on the Sunset Reservoir property and to sell all electricity generated by such project to the SFPUC through a 25-year power purchase agreement that expires in November 2035. The power purchase agreement provides that the SFPUC will purchase all electricity produced by the Sunset Solar Generating Project at specified contract prices. The contract provides an option for the SFPUC to buy the solar facility at a predetermined price after 15 full years from the actual commercial operation date (which occurred in November 2010) and upon the expiration of the agreement, all subject to the terms of the agreement.

When electricity from its owned generation resources and long-term purchased power are not sufficient to meet electricity demand, the Power Enterprise supplements its resources with medium- and short-term power purchases through month-ahead, day-ahead and spot purchases on the CAISO market. All market purchases are subject to established risk management practices and guidelines, including trading limits and counterparty credit requirements.

Wholesale Electricity Sales

The Raker Act grants the City the right to develop generation as part of the Hetch Hetchy Project and to sell electricity for beneficial use, first to meet San Francisco municipal needs, then the Districts’ municipal and agricultural pumping needs, and finally for commercial purposes. The Raker Act does not limit the type of commercial end-use customer that SFPUC may supply; electricity may be sold to any retail/commercial end-use customer. However, such electricity may not be sold to a private corporation or individual for resale. Excess Hetch Hetchy Project electricity has generally been sold to other public utilities, the CAISO, and CCAs.

In 1988, the SFPUC entered into a long-term power sales agreement with the Districts. The SFPUC subsequently amended the terms of the agreement with each of the Districts. The agreement with MID was renegotiated in 2008 to remove the Power Enterprise’s obligation to provide firm power to MID and to modify MID’s rights to excess electricity from the Hetch Hetchy Project by requiring MID to pay reasonable prices for such electricity when available. The SFPUC’s agreement with MID expired on June 30, 2015, and was subsequently extended through December 31, 2017. In 2005, the SFPUC amended the terms of the agreement with TID. The amended agreement between the SFPUC and TID terminates the Power Enterprise’s obligation to provide TID firm power at below market costs. The SFPUC’s agreement with TID also expired on June 30, 2015, and was subsequently extended through December 31, 2017. Although the agreements with MID and TID have expired, they have not been terminated. See “FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Rate-Setting Process; Rates – Contractual Rate-

Setting Actions.” The SFPUC will continue to comply with the Raker Act by making hydroelectricity generated by the Hetch Hetchy Project available at cost to MID and TID for agricultural pumping and municipal loads after the expiration of the power sales agreement, as electricity is available. See “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Raker Act Requirements.” In recent years, neither MID nor TID have purchased hydroelectricity generated by the Hetch Hetchy Project. In the event the Districts renew their interest in such purchases, the SFPUC will prepare a rate, and provide electricity as it is available, consistent with Raker Act requirements.

The SFPUC previously entered into a long-term agreement with the Riverbank Local Redevelopment Authority (the “Riverbank LRA”) to provide firm power to the Riverbank LRA to serve electric load at the former Riverbank Army Ammunition Plant (the “RAAP”). The agreement expired in 1991; however, the SFPUC continued to provide firm service under the same terms and conditions. The Riverbank LRA has since mostly converted the RAAP to civilian and commercial uses, and the site is now known as the Riverbank Industrial Complex (the “RIC”). In 2019, the Riverbank LRA and the SFPUC agreed to a short-term term sheet specifying new rates and terms of service. The SFPUC is currently providing service to the Riverbank LRA for the RIC under a revised term sheet specifying, among other things, rates and annual rate increases through June 2025. Total electric sales to the Riverbank LRA in Fiscal Years 2019-20 and 2020-21 were approximately 5,567 MWh and 6,065 MWh respectively. This was expected to more than double with the addition of a new tenant to the RIC in mid-2021. Total electric sales to the RIC for Fiscal Years 2021-22 and 2022-23 were approximately 19,011 MWh, and 21,265 MWh, respectively. See “ – Power Enterprise Customers – Wholesale Customers.”

Load and Electricity Supply Resource Management; Wholesale Electricity Trading

The Power Enterprise manages Hetch Hetchy Project generation with market power purchases as needed to meet retail load in real time and by season to account for the variability of available hydroelectric generation. As a net-long generator, variation in annual generation is covered by fund balances which are replenished in normal- and high-precipitation years. Seasonal variability in hydroelectric generation is addressed through seasonal market power sales and purchases. In the second half of the calendar year, the Power Enterprise has historically purchased wholesale electricity to meet, on average, approximately 15% of its needs. During dry years, when less Hetch Hetchy Project generation is available, the Power Enterprise’s market exposure increases, historically by an additional 5% on average of its retail needs. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Variability of Hydroelectric Generation.”

The following chart shows the last four years of historical Hetch Hetchy Project generation and Power Enterprise customer demand on an annual basis.

Source: SFPUC.

The SFPUC has adopted an Energy Trading Risk Management Policy applicable to the wholesale purchases and sales of electricity by the SFPUC to balance loads and resources in the near-term. The policy sets parameters for trades that include guidelines for load forecasting, counterparty eligibility, transaction authorizations, documentation and reporting requirements, and other transaction limitations. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Variability of Hydroelectric Generation.”

Transmission and Distribution

Since at least 1945, the SFPUC has purchased transmission and distribution services from PG&E through a FERC-approved wholesale agreement to transmit and deliver electricity to its City customers. The SFPUC currently purchases transmission service from PG&E under the CAISO tariff and distribution service under PG&E’s Tariff on file with the FERC. Although the SFPUC owns and operates transmission and distribution facilities within and outside of San Francisco, it lacks a comprehensive distribution system to serve its customers. The SFPUC uses the Tariff to serve almost all of its customers in San Francisco – largely City agencies and related public entities, City properties and tenants on those properties, and entities providing services on behalf of or in coordination with the City. In addition, the SFPUC uses the Tariff to serve other types of customers including the Salesforce Transit Center and the new development, The Shipyard. The SFPUC also serves or will serve other customers, including the developments at Pier 70 and Mission Rock, without using the Tariff.

See “DEVELOPMENTS IN THE ELECTRICITY MARKETS AND REGULATION – Federal Law and Regulation.”

Current transmission and distribution rates are pursuant to the FERC-approved tariffed rates for transmission service through the CAISO Open-Access Transmission Tariff and distribution service through PG&E’s Tariff. The Power Enterprise’s adopted two-year budget through Fiscal Year 2022-23, and all financial projections, include the anticipated cost increases. The cost estimate is $71.3 million for Fiscal Year 2023-24 and projected to increase on average 7.9% per year from Fiscal Year 2024-25 through Fiscal Year 2032-33.

SFPUC-owned Transmission Service

The SFPUC owns and maintains both 115 kV and 230 kV transmission lines extending from the generation units of the Hetch Hetchy Project. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT.” These transmission lines connect with the CAISO system and to two other balancing authorities: (i) the Balancing Authority of Northern California, which covers MID, and (ii) TID, which operates as its own balancing authority. See “DEVELOPMENTS IN THE ELECTRICITY MARKETS AND REGULATION – The Power Enterprise’s Relationship to the CAISO.”

The SFPUC also provides transmission-level service to RIC via a tap from the SFPUC’s 115 kV transmission system located just north of the main RIC site. The SFPUC service to SFO is also at transmission level via two SFPUC substations connected to PG&E-owned transmission lines. In addition, the Harry Tracy Plant and Crystal Springs Pump Station receive SFPUC transmission level service connected through switchgear to PG&E-owned transmission lines. All of these customers are located outside the geographic boundaries of San Francisco.

In-City Distribution

PG&E owns and operates most of the electric distribution infrastructure within San Francisco and, except for Trans Bay Cable, PG&E also owns all of the high-voltage transmission lines entering San Francisco. The Power Enterprise serves customers through City-owned distribution networks at large City-owned properties (for example, properties operated by the Port, SFMTA, and the SFPUC’s water treatment and wastewater facilities). The Power Enterprise has completed the installation of additional distribution facilities to serve new retail customers at The Shipyard, the early phases of the Treasure Island and Yerba Buena Island redevelopment project, and at the Salesforce Transit Center. The SFPUC distribution facilities (lines and switchgear) directly interconnect to PG&E’s distribution network, but they are not adequate to provide service to all SFPUC customers.

Through an agreement with TIDA, the Power Enterprise also maintains the existing electric distribution system at the former Naval Station Treasure Island, on behalf of TIDA. The existing system on the property was installed and owned by the United States Navy and transferred to TIDA pursuant to a memorandum of agreement between TIDA and the Navy. In an agreement with the Navy, the California Department of Transportation (“Caltrans”) and TIDA, Caltrans installed two electric submarine cables from Oakland to Treasure Island. In an agreement with TIDA, the SFPUC paid Caltrans for the installation of the cables subject to reimbursement and has the right to take title to the submarine electric cables which provide electricity to Treasure Island from the East Bay. TIDA has entered into a development agreement for the redevelopment of the property, which includes construction of new utility infrastructure and will transfer to the SFPUC the new utility infrastructure after the facilities are inspected and accepted by the City through the street dedication process with the Board of Supervisors. Until the assets are transferred to the SFPUC through such dedication process, the SFPUC may serve permanent customers using the new infrastructure and facilities through a license agreement between the developer and the SFPUC. Under a license agreement, the developer will continue to own the substructures and the SFPUC will own and maintain the electrical facilities within the substructures. The SFPUC is currently serving new customer accounts utilizing the license method.

Operational Control

The Power Enterprise plans for and operates within resource adequacy, RPS, and other retail regulatory requirements for peak demand of 160 MW and an annual electricity requirement of 1,000,000 MWh of retail load. The Power Enterprise provides scheduling services on a non-stop basis. Electricity supplies are firmed and shaped to retail loads with market purchases and sales (at hourly, daily, monthly and longer term periods). Scheduling coordinator services and certain federal reliability requirements are independent of sales volumes, strategy and retail/wholesale mix. See “DEVELOPMENTS IN THE ELECTRICITY MARKETS AND REGULATION – Federal Law and Regulation.” Power Enterprise staff handles trading, scheduling, settlements, risk management, and long-term resource planning with capacity largely independent of sales volumes, strategy, and retail/wholesale mix.

In Fiscal Year 2020-21, due primarily to the impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic, total metered load (including Treasure Island and Riverbank LRA) declined to approximately 842,874 MWh, with a peak demand of 118 MW. In Fiscal Year 2021-22, total metered load increased to approximately 925,800 MWh, with a peak demand of 137 MW. In Fiscal Year 2022-23, total metered load increased to approximately 945,946 MWh, with the peak demand remaining at 137 MW.

Power Enterprise Customers

The Power Enterprise’s retail service territory provides it with a monopoly franchise similar to those enjoyed by other public utilities, but with atypical geographic boundaries. Except for a few large customers, most of the Power Enterprise’s retail customers are directly interconnected to PG&E’s distribution network. See “– Transmission and Distribution – In-City Distribution.” Most Power Enterprise retail customers are entities affiliated with the City or are located on City property. Many City departments currently served by the Power Enterprise have been served by the City and/or the SFPUC (or its predecessor) for decades, in many cases since 1923. The ability of such customers to switch to service provided by another utility in the area is limited and generally would not result in cost savings or service improvements for such customers. Specifically, PG&E’s ability to serve customers in San Francisco is constrained by its non-exclusive franchise agreement with the City and the Power Enterprise’s competitive cost-of-service, which is currently below PG&E’s cost-of-service.

The following table shows the total number of electric service accounts maintained by the Power Enterprise from Fiscal Years 2018-19 to 2022-23 by customer category.

Significant load decreases across many customers began in April 2020 following the issuance of stay-at-home orders relating to the COVID-19 pandemic. Loads were significantly depressed in Fiscal Year 2020-21, although some loads showed signs of recovery. Impacts ranged from mild/none (e.g., Department of Public Health), to moderate (e.g., SFO), to severe (e.g., SFMTA, convention centers (convention center electricity sales included within Administrative Services Agency and Other Municipal and Retail)). Load recovery in Fiscal Years 2021-22 and 2022-23 has also been uneven, with certain customers showing a rapid rate of recovery, for example, the Port’s shoreside power for cruise ships and SFUSD, and others such as SFO still significantly lower compared to the pre-COVID-19 pandemic period. The SFPUC anticipates that most power sales will return to pre-pandemic levels in Fiscal Year 2025-26. Some reductions may be permanent as the local economy shifts to a post-pandemic “new normal” with more remote work and shifts in the demand for City services. Pursuant to the 2024 Financial Plan, the SFPUC projects that sales to existing power customers will stabilize at approximately 98% of their pre-pandemic usage.

Municipal Customers

- San Francisco Public Utilities Commission: The Power Enterprise supplies electricity to the SFPUC Water Enterprise and Wastewater Enterprise. See “THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION – Organization, Purposes and Powers.”
- San Francisco International Airport: SFO is the principal commercial service airport for the San Francisco Bay Area. According to data for calendar year 2019 from the Airports Council International, SFO ranked seventh in the United States in terms of passengers and 16th in the United States in terms of air cargo tonnage. In 2021, SFO ranked 17th in the United States in terms of both passengers and air cargo tonnage, according to the Airports Council International. According to United States Department of Transportation statistics, SFO is also a major origin and destination point (14th in the United States in fiscal year 2021-22). Passenger enplanements and deplanements at SFO grew from approximately 39.7 million in fiscal year 2010-11 to approximately 57.4 million in fiscal year 2018-19, before dropping to 40.5 million in fiscal year 2019-20 and 13.7 million in fiscal year 2020-21 and recovering to 34.8 million in fiscal year 2021-22.
- San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency: The SFMTA is an enterprise department of the City responsible for the management of all ground transportation in San Francisco. The SFMTA has oversight over Muni, as well as bicycling, paratransit, parking, traffic, walking, and taxis. Muni is one of America’s oldest public transit agencies, the largest in the Bay Area, and eighth largest system in the United States. During the five-year period from fiscal year 2018 through fiscal year 2022, annual Muni ridership varied between approximately 62 million and 225 million boardings.
- San Francisco Unified School District: The San Francisco Unified School District is the sixth largest school district in California. SFUSD operates 66 elementary schools serving transitional kindergarten through grade five, six alternative configured schools serving transitional kindergarten through grade eight, 13 middle schools serving grades six through eight, 14 high schools serving grades nine through twelve, 13 early education schools, three continuation/alternative schools and six county schools. For fiscal year 2022-23, SFUSD had enrollment of approximately 50,013 students (not including county schools).
- Other City Departments: In addition to the departments described above, the Power Enterprise serves other City departments, including but not limited to City Hall, the Port, the San Francisco Public Library, the San Francisco Police Department, the San Francisco Fire Department, and also serves the San Francisco Housing Authority and the Community College District of San Francisco.
- City Tenants: The Power Enterprise serves customers who are tenants on City property, including at SFO and the Port.

Wholesale Customers

- The Districts: TID and MID, both established in 1887, are publicly owned irrigation districts in California that also provide retail electricity directly to homes, farms and businesses. The Districts were both organized under the Wright Act and operate under the provisions of the California Water Code as special districts. TID provides electric service within its 662 square mile service area to over 102,900 residential, commercial, industrial and other customers, and supplies water for irrigation use within its boundaries. MID provides electric service within its 160 square mile service area to over 131,600 residential, commercial, industrial and other customers, supplies water for irrigation use in a portion of Stanislaus County and owns and operates a water treatment plant which supplies treated domestic water on a wholesale basis to the City of Modesto. Although the Power Enterprise has long-term power sales agreements with the Districts that expired in 2017, the agreements have not been terminated. See “– Wholesale Electricity Sales.”
- Riverbank Local Redevelopment Authority: The Riverbank LRA has converted the former RAAP to civilian and commercial uses. The former RAAP, now referred to as the RIC, is located at the southeastern edge of the City of Riverbank, five miles north of the City of Modesto and consists of approximately 673,000 square feet of buildings located on 173 acres. The SFPUC provides electric service to the Riverbank LRA for the RIC, and the Riverbank LRA and the SFPUC are developing agreements to continue SFPUC service as RIC's electric load is expanding, exceeding 50 MW in the next few years. See “– Wholesale Electricity Sales.”

- Western Systems Power Pool: The Western Systems Power Pool (the “WSPP”) is a group of energy buyers and sellers who maintain an agreement that provides standard terms and conditions for power transactions to facilitate trading opportunities and manage power delivery and price risk. The current WSPP agreement, effective June 28, 2020, is the most commonly used standardized power sales contract in the electric industry. It is regularly modified and approved by FERC and used by jurisdictional and non-jurisdictional entities. WSPP parties regularly enter agreements using some or all of the WSPP standard terms and adding additional terms as required for particular transactions. Many public entities are members of the WSPP, which allows the Power Enterprise to efficiently sell excess Hetch Hetchy Project electricity to Raker Act-eligible entities, such as the Districts and the California CCAs.

The Power Enterprise may purchase or sell energy with different market entities through the WSPP and directly with the CAISO. During periods in which the Hetch Hetchy Project generates electricity in excess of the amount necessary to satisfy the Power Enterprise's retail and wholesale obligations, the Power Enterprise may sell such excess to counterparties eligible under the provisions of the Raker Act through the WSPP. The SFPUC performs verification processes regularly to update the qualified counterparties in order to comply with the Raker Act. Any excess or shortage thereafter is sold to or purchased from the CAISO. During Fiscal Years 2020-21 and 2021-22, the Power Enterprise purchased and sold nominal amounts of power through the WSPP. In contrast, power purchases through the CAISO were $5.3 million and $7.1 million in Fiscal Years 2020-21 and 2021-22, respectively, while sales of excess electricity through the CAISO were $13.4 million and $28.6 million, respectively.

Commercial Customers

- Hunters Point Shipyard Phase 1: A redevelopment project currently under construction, the Hunters Point Shipyard Phase 1 is entitled for 1,400 residential units. SFPUC has constructed facilities to serve this development, and will own, operate and maintain the distribution system as public utility infrastructure is installed and dedicated to the City.

- Treasure Island: Under Navy control since 1941, the former Naval Station Treasure Island was decommissioned in the 1990s. The property includes both Treasure Island and Yerba Buena Island, totaling approximately 575 acres with access from Highway 80 off the Bay Bridge. In 1997, the City created a non-profit public benefit corporation, TIDA, to act as a single entity focused on reuse and conversion of former Naval Station Treasure Island. Since that time, under agreements with the Navy, TIDA has assumed maintenance and operation of the property, excluding portions that were transferred to the United States Coast Guard, the United States Department of Labor, or retained by the Navy. TIDA has established both residential and commercial tenancies in existing facilities, with a current resident population over 2,500. TIDA has entered into a memorandum of agreement with the Navy providing for transfer of the property, on a phased basis, subject to Navy remediation of hazardous materials. The SFPUC operates and maintains the existing water, wastewater, gas, and power distribution systems on Treasure Island pursuant to agreement with TIDA, subject to receiving full compensation from TIDA for those services. TIDA sets rates, fees and charges for its tenants and the federal agencies under agreement with the Navy. TIDA and the City have also entered into agreements with the Treasure Island Community Developers, a for-profit development company, to redevelop the property, with entitlements for 8,000 residential units, and commercial development. As of 2023, approximately 1,080 new residential units have been constructed and are receiving power from the Power Enterprise. Unlike the legacy TIDA facilities which the SFPUC serves under agreement with TIDA, new redevelopment customers are served by SFPUC-owned assets and charged SFPUC standard retail rates.

- Salesforce Transit Center: The Transbay Joint Powers Authority (“TJPA”) is constructing a new multi-modal regional transportation center, a downtown rail extension, bus ramps, bus storage facility, and related facilities (collectively referred to as the “Salesforce Transit Center”). Phase 1, which included the creation of a new, 1,000,000-square-foot transit center, was completed in 2018. TJPA is currently starting its design for Phase 2 of the Salesforce Transit Center program, which includes construction of the Downtown Rail Extension, including a new Fourth and Townsend Street Caltrain station; completion of the Salesforce Transit Center's train station, including a pedestrian connection to BART and Muni; and a new intercity bus facility. The TJPA and the SFPUC entered into an electric service agreement for the Power Enterprise to be the primary provider of electric service to the Salesforce Transit Center, beginning January 2014 with no defined expiration date. The SFPUC anticipates that future train service into the Salesforce Transit Center will be electrified, which may result in increased load. See “FUTURE POWER SUPPLY AND DEMAND” and “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Uncertainties of Forecasting Future Load Growth.”

Under the City’s Administrative Code, all City projects, including projects managed by the successor to the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency, the Office of Community Investment and Infrastructure, must work with SFPUC to study the feasibility of the Power Enterprise providing power to the project. For example, in 2007 the Power Enterprise, working with the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency, performed a financial analysis to assess the feasibility of the Power Enterprise being the electricity provider to the new Hunters Point Shipyard redevelopment project. The results of the analysis guided the City’s decision that the Power Enterprise would be the power provider for Phase 1 of the development. The Power Enterprise expects to be the power provider for other phases of the Hunters Point Shipyard development and is working with developers and other City agencies as later phases are developed. Similar processes resulted in the Power Enterprise providing power to the Pier 70 Development and the Mission Rock Development.

Recent Factors Impacting Power Revenues

Because most Power Enterprise customers are municipal departments, the Power Enterprise’s revenues vary in impact from recent economic trends which have reduced the residential and commercial population in San Francisco. For commercial and residential retail customers, as well as municipal functions which are exposed to such economic trends (such as the SFMTA and Moscone Convention Center), several factors have contributed to a decline in their electricity demand in recent years, including, but not limited to, certain developments in the local San Francisco economy. For example, there has been a general decline in San Francisco’s population in recent years due to, among other factors, business closures, worker migration out of San Francisco because of permissive remote work policies, a general decline in tourism, and unemployment concentrated recently in the tech-heavy information and professional and business services sectors, which can be attributable in some part to the COVID-19 pandemic. However, other customers, including the San Francisco Unified School District and the Port, have recovered to or exceeded their pre-COVID-19 usage levels as of 2022. ### Security and Reliability

The security and reliability of the nation’s electrical grid is regulated by FERC through agreement with the NERC. The SFPUC is a NERC-registered Generator Owner, Generator Operator, Transmission Owner, Transmission Operator, and Transmission Planner, and as such is subject to NERC’s mandatory and enforceable reliability standards (the “NERC Reliability Standards”). The SFPUC ensures the secure and reliable operation of its electric system, and compliance with the NERC Reliability Standards, by having systems, processes, and trained staff in place to avoid, and if necessary, mitigate operating emergencies. These systems include a SCADA system providing 24/7 monitoring and control functions to NERC-certified system operators, and data sharing functions with interconnected transmission systems to enhance situational awareness and interconnection-wide preparedness. The secure and reliable operation of the Hetch Hetchy Project system is maintained by following a well-defined set of mandatory rules established by the NERC Reliability Standards, which the SFPUC implements through its own operating procedures, in coordination with other interconnected systems. The SFPUC’s procedures provide its trained personnel with pre-planned processes for event reporting, back-up control center operations, system restoral, emergency operations, and contingency analysis and planning that can be executed in coordination with other entities. The security and reliability of the Hetch Hetchy Project, and compliance with the NERC Reliability Standards, is achieved through this application of tools, processes, and trained staff.

FUTURE POWER SUPPLY AND DEMAND

Projected Power Demand and Adequacy of Power Supply

The Power Enterprise develops five-year forecasts of growth in electricity sales to its customers based on a combination of known new construction projects, expansion of existing service and general projected load growth. Included in these forecasts are the Power Enterprise’s adopted budget for Fiscal Years 2023-24, the 2024 Financial Plan and current budget and planning assumptions for the remaining forecast period. The Power Enterprise anticipates electricity sales to current and new customers will increase over the next five years.

The Power Enterprise meets its electricity delivery obligations through a portfolio of demand management and supply-side resources consistent with City policies and best utility practices. The Power Enterprise anticipates addressing any increases in retail electricity sales through a combination of energy efficiency measures, Hetch Hetchy Project generation as available, and supplemental market purchases, each as reflected in the Power Enterprise’s current five-year forecast. See “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Uncertainties of Forecasting Future Load Growth.”

POWER ENTERPRISE CAPITAL PROGRAM

Capital and Financial Planning Process

The SFPUC’s long-term capital and financial planning is performed on an annual rolling 10-year forward-looking basis. The SFPUC prepares a 10-year capital plan for each of its enterprises, as required by the Charter. The 10-year capital plan serves as the basis for the development of the annual 10-year financial plan. Proposed long-term capital programs, projects and investments, and related costs are included in the 10-year financial plan. Consistent with the Charter, updates to the 10-year capital plan and 10-year financial plan are generally reviewed at least annually and adopted by the Commission each February. The 10-year financial plan provides estimated rate impacts of projected capital and operating spending and assures compliance with the SFPUC’s adopted financial policies, including its debt service coverage and fund balance reserve policy requirements.

The 10-year capital plan is not a budget and is not “appropriated” like a budget. The annual capital programs can be revised during the development of the budget and final projects, costs and totals for specific capital improvements to be financed can change. Consequently, even though the annual budgets passed are based on the 10-year capital plan, they may occasionally differ from it.

Financing of Capital Program

On February 14, 2023, the Commission adopted the 10-year capital plan for Fiscal Years 2023-24 through 2032-33 (the “2024 Capital Plan”), totaling approximately $8.788 billion. Pursuant to the 10-year financial plan for Fiscal Years 2023-24 through 2032-33 (the “2024 Financial Plan”), which is based on the 2024 Capital Plan and which was also adopted on February 14, 2023, approximately $1.572 billion has been allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water and Power, with approximately $441.21 million allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water and $1.13 billion allocated to the Power Enterprise over the 10-year period.

The 2024 Capital Plan further projects that revenue funding over such period will account for $196.74 million of project funding and total debt funding will account for $1.38 billion of project funding. Of such debt funding amount, $934.48 million is projected to be allocated to Power Enterprise debt and $441.21 million is projected to be allocated to Water Enterprise debt. See “FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS.”

The following table sets forth the projected sources of funds for the first five years of the Power Enterprise’s capital improvement program as set forth in the 2024 Capital Plan. The following table does not include the projected sources of funds allocable to the Water Enterprise.

2024 Capital Plan Projects

The 2024 Capital Plan consists of projects that are Power Enterprise Projects, Hetch Hetchy Water Infrastructure Projects, Hetch Hetchy Power Infrastructure Projects, and Hetch Hetchy Joint Water and Power Infrastructure Projects, which are further described below. The following descriptions include projected capital spending for these project categories pursuant to the 2024 Capital Plan; however, actual spending may differ from the amounts shown as the SFPUC retains broad authority to prioritize and substitute projects to meet its needs at any time.

Power Enterprise Projects

Streetlights. The 2024 Capital Plan includes approximately $37.2 million for streetlights located in San Francisco. Specifically, funds will be spent for various street lighting improvements, replacement and repairs, including engineering and construction costs.

Renewable Generation. The 2024 Capital Plan includes approximately $10.0 million for renewable generation projects, including the planning, development and implementation of new electricity generation resources to provide clean, local generation.

Transmission/Distribution/Alternative Transmission. The 2024 Capital Plan includes approximately $538.4 million for transmission/distribution projects, including (i) approximately $141.6 million on distribution interface-redevelopment projects, (ii) approximately $146.6 million on the SFO substation improvements, which include upgrading existing substations to meet the airport's demand growth, and (iii) approximately $105.5 million on the Intervening Facilities project, which includes electrical distribution equipment to connect SFPUC customers to PG&E's existing distribution system; (iv) $42.7 million for the in-city power asset acquisition analysis.

Energy Efficiency. The 2024 Capital Plan includes approximately $10.0 million for energy efficiency projects, that will be spent on investments to reduce facility operating costs for General Fund and other Power Enterprise customers, improve system functionality and reduce the environmental impact of energy use.

Hetch Hetchy Water Infrastructure Projects

During the 10-year period of the 2024 Capital Plan, the Water Enterprise will invest $185.6 million for improvements on the Hetch Hetchy Project. Funds will be spent on upcountry water projects such as Mountain Tunnel, which has been reclassified as a Water Enterprise-funded project, except for the Flow Control Facility, which is joint-funded (See “– Hetch Hetchy Joint Power/Water Projects” below), San Joaquin Pipeline Valve and Safe Entry project, and continued rehabilitation to the San Joaquin Pipeline to extend the life of the asset. These costs are expected to be 100% funded by the Water Enterprise.

Hetch Hetchy Power Infrastructure Projects

The 2024 Capital Plan includes approximately $223.3 million for rehabilitation and upgrades to Hetch Hetchy Project powerhouses, including Moccasin Powerhouse rehabilitation project and upgrades to the bypass systems at Kirkwood and Moccasin powerhouses. This category includes rehabilitation of transmission lines/distribution systems and switchyards/substations.

Hetch Hetchy Joint Power/Water Projects

During the 10-year period of the 2024 Capital Plan, approximately $568.1 million will be related to capital spending for upcountry joint assets, allocable 55% to the Power Enterprise and 45% to the Water Enterprise pursuant to the Water Supply Agreement. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Hetch Hetchy Project Operations – General.” The Power Enterprise's 55% allocable share of this capital spending totals $312.4 million. Projects identified include replacements to support the infrastructure required for the operation and maintenance for the Hetch Hetchy Project's water- and power-related systems, including improvements to dam infrastructure, buildings and facilities improvements and new construction, road improvements, facility security and communication projects. The largest of the joint power/water projects during the 2024 Capital Plan period is spending on dam rehabilitation and improvement projects, totaling $274.9 million.

Environmental Considerations

Projects undertaken by the SFPUC are generally subject to CEQA and certain projects involving the participation of federal agencies, including projects on federal land, are also subject to the NEPA. The San Francisco Planning Department, acting as lead agency under Chapter 31 of the City’s Administrative Code, generally coordinates environmental review of SFPUC projects.

Under CEQA, a project that may have a significant effect on the environment and is to be carried out or approved by a public agency must comply with a comprehensive environmental review process, including the preparation of an Environmental Impact Report (“EIR”). The EIR reflects not only an independent technical analysis of the project’s potential impacts, but also the comments of other agencies with some form of jurisdiction over the project and the comments of interested members of the public. Contents of the EIR include a detailed statement of the project’s significant environmental effects; any such effects that cannot be avoided if the project is implemented; mitigation measures proposed to minimize such effects; alternatives to the proposed project; the relationship between local and short-term uses and long-term productivity; any significant irreversible environmental changes that would result from the project; the project’s growth-inducing impacts; and a brief statement setting forth the agency’s reasons for determining that certain effects are not significant and hence do not require discussion in the EIR. Before approving a project, the SFPUC must make findings on whether or how it can mitigate the significant environmental effects of the project. If the project requires mitigation, the SFPUC must adopt a mitigation monitoring plan to determine whether the mitigation is carried out during project implementation. If the SFPUC determines that the project itself will not have a significant effect on the environment, it may adopt a written statement (called a negative declaration) to that effect and need not prepare an EIR. After deciding to approve or carry out a project, either following the EIR process or after adopting a negative declaration, the SFPUC must file notice of such determination.

Prior to the sale of bonds, the San Francisco Planning Department Environmental Review Officer will issue a “Planning Certificate” required under Proposition E. The Planning Certificate will identify the status of environmental review for each capital project to be funded under the proposed bond sale and the type of CEQA document either completed or to be completed for each project. CEQA compliance must be completed for each project prior to project approval or approval to award a construction contract to implement any project to be funded by the proposed bond sale.

Any action or proceeding challenging the SFPUC’s determination must be brought within 30 days following the filing of such notice. Actions have been, and in the future may be, filed against the SFPUC challenging a project’s compliance with CEQA, including the adequacy of the EIR and other environmental documents, for particular projects. If an action challenging the SFPUC’s compliance with CEQA is successful, the particular project could be delayed, revised, suspended or canceled. CEQA also contains a number of exemptions, which the SFPUC uses for its projects when appropriate.

As part of its regular planning and budgetary process, the San Francisco Planning Department gives careful attention to environmental considerations. All projects are evaluated under the SFPUC’s environmental evaluation procedures, developed in compliance with federal and State laws and regulations, and City ordinances and Administrative Code procedures.

Climate Action Plan

In September 2021, the City adopted a set of emissions reduction targets: achieve net-zero greenhouse gas emissions generated by the City by 2040 and reduce emissions associated with consumption of all goods and services in the City (regardless of where emissions originate) 80% by 2050. In December 2021, Mayor Breed released the City’s Climate Action Plan (the “Climate Action Plan”) detailing the actions needed to accomplish these targets, developed through a multi-agency and stakeholder process led by the San Francisco Department of Environment (the “Department of Environment”). The Climate Action Plan is a roadmap of goals, strategies and actions to achieve emission reductions across six sectors: energy supply, building operations, transportation and land use, housing, responsible production and consumption, and healthy ecosystems. Key strategies include, but are not limited to, provision of 100% carbon-free energy, decarbonization of buildings, and increases in the public transit, active transportation, and vehicle electrification networks. In addition to reducing emissions to zero over the next 20 years, the Climate Action Plan strives to ensure all San Franciscans have the skills, knowledge, and resources to meet interconnected challenges that lie ahead, including climate change. To do so, the proposed strategies aim to leverage community strengths, advance racial and social equity, and provide critical benefits to the entire community. The Climate Action Plan includes sections on funding and investment, monitoring and reporting. The City also maintains a public-facing reporting mechanism to keep stakeholders and residents informed on progress made against performance metrics laid out in the Climate Action Plan. The Department of Environment contracted with the University of California, Berkeley, Center for Law, Energy & the Environment (the “CLEE”) to assess options for funding the equitable implementation of the Climate Action Plan. CLEE released its report entitled “Funding San Francisco Climate Action” in November 2022.

Pursuant to the Climate Action Plan, energy supply sector goals include achieving 100% affordable and reliable renewable electricity by 2025 and 100% renewable energy by 2040, which requires eliminating fossil fuels as a source of power generation. Strategies for achieving such goals include (i) supplying 100% greenhouse gas-free electricity to residents and businesses; (ii) investing in local renewable energy and energy resilience projects; (iii) designing and developing the reliable and flexible grid of the future; (iv) developing workforce capacity to deliver clean energy resources; and (v) planning for the equitable decommissioning of San Francisco’s natural gas system with plans for coordinated electrification. Actions taken by the Power Enterprise to implement such strategies include the continuation and expansion of programs and rates that provide low-income customers with renewable electricity; ensuring community and stakeholder engagement in program development and rate-setting; developing onsite solar on City-owned buildings and reservoirs based on emerging opportunities and SFPUC feasibility analysis; encouraging private sector investment in local renewable energy solutions by engaging in public advocacy, educating consumers about their options, and serving as a strategic partner; and championing clean energy installers participating in City-funded incentive programs that engage in workforce development.

FINANCIAL OPERATIONS

General

The SFPUC is a department of the City and, as such, the financial operations of the SFPUC’s three enterprises are included in the Annual Comprehensive Financial Report of the City and shown as enterprise funds. The City’s Annual Comprehensive Financial Report is not incorporated by reference herein.

The following information is provided with respect to the Power Enterprise only and does not purport to reflect the financial position of the SFPUC or the City as a whole.

Basis of Accounting. The accounts of Hetch Hetchy Water and Power are organized based on proprietary fund types and are included as enterprise funds of the City. The activities of the Power Enterprise are accounted for with a separate set of self-balancing accounts that comprise assets, deferred outflows, liabilities, deferred inflows, net position, revenues and expenses. The Power Enterprise fund accounts for activities (i) that are financed with debt that is secured solely by a pledge of the net revenues from fees and charges of the activity; or (ii) that are required by laws or regulations that the activity’s costs of providing services, including capital costs (such as depreciation or debt service), be recovered with fees and charges, rather than with taxes or similar revenues; or (iii) that the pricing policies of the activity establish fees and charges designed to recover its costs, including capital costs (such as depreciation or debt service).

The financial activities of the Power Enterprise are accounted for on a flow of economic resources measurement focus, using the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles in the United States. Under this method, all assets and liabilities associated with operations are included on the statements of net position, revenues are recognized when earned, and expenses are recognized when liabilities are incurred. Operating revenues are defined as charges to customers and rental income.

The Power Enterprise applies all GASB pronouncements, as well as statements and interpretations of the Financial Accounting Standards Board, Accounting Principles Board Opinions, and Accounting Research Bulletins of the Committee on Accounting Procedures issued on or before November 30, 1989, unless those pronouncements conflict with or contradict GASB pronouncements.

City Budget Process. The SFPUC's operating and capital budget preparation and approval is a part of a City-wide process. The SFPUC is one of several departments that prepare biannual budgets. The Commission reviews and approves the SFPUC's two-year budget, which is then submitted to the Mayor's Office for review. The Mayor then incorporates the proposed budget, with amendments, into the City-wide budget that is submitted to the Board of Supervisors for approval. Under the Charter, the Board of Supervisors may increase or decrease any proposed expenditure in the Mayor's budget so long as the aggregate changes do not cause the expenditures to exceed the total amount of expenditures proposed by the Mayor. The Charter further provides that the Mayor may reduce or reject any expenditure authorized by the Board of Supervisors except appropriations for bond interest, redemption or other fixed charges, subject to reinstatement of any such expenditure by a two thirds vote of the Board of Supervisors.

City Services Auditor. On November 4, 2003, voters of San Francisco adopted Proposition C, an ordinance that established the City Services Auditor ("CSA"), an audit function within the Office of the City Controller. Pursuant to the provisions of this ordinance, which have been incorporated into the Charter, the CSA has broad oversight authority and responsibilities including, but not limited to, (i) reporting upon level of effectiveness for City public services, (ii) auditing financial and management performance of City departments and functions, (iii) ensuring the financial integrity and improving the overall performance and efficiency of City government, and (iv) maintaining a whistleblower hotline to investigate upon reports of fraud, waste and abuse.

CSA has engaged HKA Global, Inc. and Yano Accountancy Corporation to conduct a three-phase performance audit of select revenue bonds issued by the SFPUC to determine whether revenue bond funds were spent in accordance with the stated purposes and permissible use of such bonds. The first phase included the audit of six series of revenue bonds issued by the SFPUC's Water and Wastewater Enterprises. In February 2022, CSA issued the audit report for the first phase, which concluded that the revenue bond expenditures for such bonds were spent appropriately, and made two recommendations that (i) the SFPUC coordinate with RBOC to determine the most effective method to comprehensively report project expenditures by funding source and uses of revenue bond proceeds, and (ii) the SFPUC comply with its policies regarding quality assurance audits. The SFPUC has since implemented both recommendations from the first phase audit report. The second phase included the audit of six series of revenue bonds issued by the SFPUC's Water, Wastewater and Power Enterprises. In August 2023, CSA issued the audit report for the second phase, which concluded that nearly all revenue bond expenditures were spent appropriately. The audit identified two contracts with expenditures totaling $15.36 million (representing less than 1.5% of the audited expenditures) in which CSA determined that the SFPUC did not comply with preferred procurement practices. CSA made two recommendations: (i) that the SFPUC improve documentation controls over its procurement solicitation requirements, with which the SFPUC partially concurred, and (ii) that the SFPUC coordinate with RBOC to strengthen its monitoring activities on overhead rates on capital projects funded with revenue bond proceeds, with which the SFPUC did not concur. The third phase is currently ongoing and includes the audit of six series of revenue bonds issued by the SFPUC's Water, Wastewater and Power Enterprises. The SFPUC anticipates that the audit report for the third phase will be issued by July 2024.

Financial Management Policies. To support sound financial management practices during periods of instability and to ensure organizational accountability and disciplined decision making, and to maintain the highest practical credit ratings, the SFPUC conducted an extensive peer review study to compare the financial policies of other United States municipal utilities, analyze rating agency evaluations of financial policies and recommend changes to the SFPUC's existing financial policies. Based on this study, the Commission adopted in February and March 2017 a Debt Service Coverage Policy, a Capital Financing Policy and a Fund Balance Reserve Policy. The SFPUC subsequently revised its Debt Management Policies and Procedures, which the Commission adopted in November 2019. See "– Financial Management Policies." In addition, the Commission adopted a Ratepayer Assurance Policy to address the prudent use of ratepayer funds and the establishment of rates and charges and to ensure process transparency.

Rate-Setting Process; Rates

General

The California Constitution permits the City, like other municipalities within California, to serve electric customers both within and outside of its geographic borders, except within the service territory of another municipality that objects to such service. Section 8B.121 of the Charter gives the SFPUC exclusive control of energy supplies and utilities for the City. The Commission sets the rates, fees and other charges imposed in connection with the provision of utility services within its geographic borders pursuant to Section 8B.125 of the Charter. Commission action on all retail rates, fees and charges for utility services is subject to rejection – within 30 days of submission – by resolution of the Board of Supervisors. If the Board of Supervisors fails to act within 30 days, the rates shall become effective without further action by the Board of Supervisors. Prior to the Commission taking action on any rate-setting, the proposed rates, fees and charges are reviewed by the Citizens' Advisory Committee and the Rate Fairness Board (as further described under “– SFPUC Citizens Advisory Committee and Rate Fairness Board”).

In addition, under Charter Section 8B.125, in setting retail rates, fees and charges, the Commission must:

- (a) Provide sufficient revenues to improve or maintain the financial condition and bond ratings of the Power Enterprise at or above levels equivalent to highly-rated utilities, meet requirements and covenants under all bond resolutions and the Indenture, and provide sufficient resources for the continued financial health (including appropriate reserves), operation, maintenance and repair of the Power Enterprise, consistent with good utility practice;
- (b) Retain an independent rate consultant to conduct a cost-of-service study for the Power Enterprise at least every five years;
- (c) Set retail rates, fees and charges based on the cost-of-service;
- (d) Study and develop, in accordance with applicable state and federal laws, rate-based conservation incentives or lifeline rates and similar rate structures to provide assistance to low-income customers;
- (e) Adopt annually a rolling five-year forecast of rates, fees and other charges; and
- (f) Establish an independent Rate Fairness Board.

None of the rates set by the Commission are subject to administrative or regulatory review by any State or federal regulatory body, including the CPUC and FERC. However, such rates are subject to review by the Board of Supervisors and must comply with certain ratemaking and other requirements of federal and State law, together with the Charter and municipal code of the City. It is possible that future legislative or regulatory changes could subject the rates or service area of the SFPUC to the jurisdiction of a regulatory body such as the CPUC, or to other limitations or requirements of law.

SFPUC Citizens Advisory Committee and Rate Fairness Board

The Citizens' Advisory Committee (“CAC”), established by a Charter amendment in 2002, provides recommendations to the SFPUC's General Manager and the Board of Supervisors regarding the SFPUC's long-term strategic, financial and capital improvement plans for all of its enterprises. The CAC is comprised of 17 appointees. Each member of the Board of Supervisors may appoint one member who must be a resident of their supervisory district. Candidates must demonstrate one or more of the following qualifications: represent a community, business, environmental or environmental justice organization, or have demonstrated knowledge, skill or experience in a field related to public utilities, environmental justice or environmental science. Two additional members of the CAC are appointed by the President of the Board of Supervisors, one of whom represents a small business and the other of whom represents an environmental justice organization. The final four members are appointed by the Mayor and must include one member who represents regional water customers of the SFPUC, one who represents a large

San Francisco water user, one San Francisco resident who has knowledge of engineering or financial management and one who represents a regional or statewide environmental organization.

Proposition E directed the establishment of a Rate Fairness Board to advise the SFPUC on water, sewer, and power rate matters. The Rate Fairness Board consists of seven members: the City Administrator or their designee; the Controller or their designee; the Director of the Mayor’s Office of Public Finance or their designee; two residential San Francisco retail customers, consisting of one appointed by the Mayor and one by the Board of Supervisors; and two San Francisco retail business customers, consisting of a large business customer appointed by the Mayor and a small business customer appointed by the Board of Supervisors. Specific powers for the Rate Fairness Board include the authority to: (1) review the five-year rate forecasts produced by the SFPUC enterprises, including the Power Enterprise; (2) hold one or more public hearings on annual rate recommendations before the SFPUC adopts rates; (3) provide a report and recommendations to the SFPUC on any rate proposal; and (4) in connection with periodic rate studies, submit to the SFPUC rate policy recommendations for the Commission’s consideration, including recommendations to reallocate costs among various retail utility customer classifications, subject to any outstanding bond requirements. The Rate Fairness Board is not authorized, however, to reject proposed rates approved by the Commission.

Cost of Service Studies

Proposition E also added a requirement in the Charter that the SFPUC conduct an independent utility cost-of-service study at least every five years. The most recent study was completed in May 2022 (the “2022 Power Rates Study”) to evaluate the cost of service of the Power Enterprise and to recommend appropriate rate structures. For more information regarding the 2022 Power Rates Study, see “– Rate-Setting Actions” below.

Rate-Setting Actions

From July 2012 through June 2022, the Power Enterprise provided service to three “rate classes:” (i) General Use Municipal, (ii) Enterprise Municipal (including, but not limited to SFO, the SFPUC’s Water and Wastewater Enterprises, and the Port of San Francisco), and (iii) Retail (Non-Municipal). For the General Use Municipal rate class, there was one flat $ per kWh charge that did not vary based on the season or customer class, or have demand or fixed service charges. General Use Municipal rates were lower than the Enterprise Municipal rates and the cost of service identified in the 2022 Power Rates Study. For the Enterprise Municipal rate class, electric rates and charges were established to cover Power Enterprise expenses for operations, maintenance, and capital investment. For certain private entities and some municipal and public agencies, electric rates were based on rate schedules adopted by PG&E, as authorized in a rate-setting process regulated by the CPUC. Finally, for the Retail rate class, due to limited cost data for these new customers, as well as a policy goal to remain competitive with PG&E, the Power Enterprise’s retail power rates were set to 10% below the equivalent PG&E tariff schedules, with automatic annual adjustments.

The 2022 Power Rates Study transitioned away from the legacy groupings described above, and instead charge all customer rates based on their customer class (i.e., residential, small commercial, medium commercial, large commercial, industrial, etc.), and to move all rates to their cost of service. The transition was designed to support the fiscal health of the Power Enterprise, improve the fairness of the Power Enterprise’s rates, vastly simplify billing administration, and set up the program to implement modern rate structures to support its policy goals.

Key rate design changes proposed as part of the 2022 Power Rates Study included the following:

- Assigning all General Use customers to the appropriate customer class.
  - Creating a “Municipal General” rate for each class with the same structure as the retail rate within that class (i.e., the same seasonal periods, energy and demand line items, customer charge, etc.).

- Calculating the Municipal General rate as a discount from the equivalent retail rate schedule in the year, solving for an all-in average $ per kWh effective rate that increases by $0.03/kWh annually from the prior General Use rate of $0.0988/kWh.
- If the Municipal General rate for a fiscal year met or exceeded the cost of service for the customer class, eliminating the rate schedule, and charging these customers the normal retail rate for that customer class.
- For Enterprise and Retail customers, maintaining the current rate structures and options available, but transitioning to cost of service, with some adjustments.
  - Phasing-in rate changes – increasing or decreasing – to the cost-of-service rate over two fiscal years.
  - If phasing-in would require an increase of more than 10% annually in the all-in average $ per kWh paid by customers on a particular rate schedule, limiting the increase to no more than approximately 10% as a customer class.
- Distributing the under-collection amount to all retail and Enterprise non-residential rate classes.

In addition to the steps described above, the proposed rates were generally designed to minimize significant changes to rate structures, because the proposed changes to rate levels as part of the transition to cost of service rates are significant.

On May 24, 2022, the Commission adopted Resolution 22-0095, establishing rates for Fiscal Years 2022-23 and 2023-24 based on staff recommendations from the 2022 Power Rates Study.

The following tables set forth adopted electric service rates for Fiscal Year 2023-24 for major customer classes. For Fiscal Year 2023-24, the “Residential” customer class is projected to make up approximately 3.7% of revenues; the “small commercial” customer class is projected to make up approximately 8.4% of revenues; the “medium commercial” customer class is projected to make up approximately 14.3% of revenues; the “large commercial” customer class is projected to make up approximately 10.6% of revenues; and the “industrial” customer class is projected to make up approximately 63% of revenues.

The SFPUC anticipates that rates for Fiscal Years 2024-25 and 2025-26 will be adopted in Fiscal Year 2023-24, informed by the 2022 Power Rates Study and then-current market conditions.

Contractual Rate-Setting Actions

While the SFPUC is obligated to provide power at cost to MID and TID, the Districts have not elected to take such power since Fiscal Year 2017-18. The contracts governing these rates are currently expired, and discussions regarding a renegotiation are ongoing. See “THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Wholesale Electricity Sales.”

PG&E Retail Rates

The rates PG&E may charge its retail customers for various categories of electricity delivery within San Francisco (“PG&E Rates”) are established by the CPUC. PG&E Rates are adjusted by the CPUC from time to time. While previously the electric rates charged by the Power Enterprise to its customers were sometimes limited by or established with reference to PG&E rates, this is no longer true beginning in Fiscal Year 2022-23. See “– Rate-Setting Actions.” As a result, the establishment of higher or lower PG&E Rates by the CPUC no longer has an impact on the electric rates charged by the SFPUC to affected customers or Revenues. See also “THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Power Service in San Francisco – Pacific Gas & Electric Company.”

Billing and Collection Procedures

The SFPUC directly bills Power Enterprise customers for electric service on a monthly basis. Billing is generally based on actual meter reads, although in certain cases estimates are used (with a later adjustment). The SFPUC may impose a late charge or, for customers other than municipal customers, disconnect service for nonpayment.

Discount Programs

In 2020, the SFPUC established a temporary emergency customer assistance program for customers whose income had been impacted by COVID-19 or the City’s stay-at-home orders. The temporary program provided residential Power Enterprise customers a 30% electricity bill discount. The temporary program ended March 31, 2022 and was replaced by an income-limited permanent discount program for eligible Power Enterprise customers.

Power Sales Revenues; Other Revenues

As shown in the following table, on average, approximately 88.4% of all Power Enterprise revenues were from charges for services and approximately 11.6% of all Power Enterprise revenues were from other revenues, including rents, interest income and other revenues from Fiscal Years 2017-18 through 2021-22. During such period, approximately 76.7% of charges for services revenues were from municipal sales, approximately 12.3% of charges for services revenues were from other retail sales, and approximately 11.0% of charges for services revenues were from wholesale sales. Municipal sales declined starting in Fiscal Year 2019-20 due in large part to the COVID-19 pandemic. Retail sales have increased since Fiscal Year 2018-19 due to customer growth in redevelopment areas and customers transferring to Power Enterprise service from other providers. Wholesale sales are possible when there is excess Hetch Hetchy Project generation available for sale, and are driven by supply variability. See “THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Power Enterprise Customers.”

Operation and Maintenance Expenses

“Operation and Maintenance Expenses” covers the general operational expenses of the Power Enterprise. These expenses include labor and employment benefits, contractual services, materials and supplies, depreciation, general and administrative, services from other departments and other miscellaneous costs. Services from other departments include payment for services from other City departments, such as City Attorney’s Office and the General Services Agency. Purchased power costs also constitute Operation and Maintenance Expenses. See “HISTORICAL OPERATING RESULTS” and “THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION – Employee Relations.”

Allocation of Costs

Various common costs incurred by the SFPUC are allocated among the Power Enterprise, the Water Enterprise and the Wastewater Enterprise. Allocations are based on the SFPUC management’s best estimate and may change from year to year depending on activities undertaken by each enterprise and information available.

For Fiscal Years 2020-21 and 2021-22, the SFPUC allocated $13 million and $9 million, respectively, in administrative costs to Hetch Hetchy Water and Power. For Fiscal Years 2022-23 and 2023-24, the SFPUC budgeted $10.6 million and $11.0 million, respectively, in administrative costs to the Power Enterprise. Administrative costs are included in the financial statements under various expense categories. These costs are then allocated to Hetch Hetchy Water and the Power Enterprise in the Hetch Hetchy Water and Power financial statements, using the periodically reviewed department overhead allocation model.

Payments to/from the City

A variety of City departments provide direct services such as engineering, purchasing, legal, data processing, telecommunications and human resources to the Power Enterprise and charge amounts designed to recover those costs. For Fiscal Years 2020-21 and 2021-22, these charges totaled approximately $6 million and $6 million, respectively. For Fiscal Years 2022-23 and 2023-24, the Power Enterprise budgeted $6.9 million and $6 million, respectively, for such charges.

The SFPUC has a 75-year lease agreement with the San Francisco Recreation and Parks Department for parking spaces at the Civic Center garage for use by the SFPUC's fleet of vehicles. The lease commenced on February 1, 2011. Payments to be made under this agreement total $6.274 million, all of which has been paid. The expenses and prepayments are allocated among the Power Enterprise, the Water Enterprise and the Wastewater Enterprise based on employee occupancy at 525 Golden Gate. For Fiscal Years 2020-21, 2021-22, and 2022-23, the Power Enterprise's allocable shares of expenses and prepayments were $17,000 and $922,000, $18,000 and $904,000, and $17,000 and $887,000, respectively.

The SFPUC makes payments to the City relating to the financing of the SFPUC's headquarters at 525 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California. See "OBLIGATIONS PAYABLE FROM REVENUES – Other Obligations Payable from Revenues."

The SFPUC receives payments from other agencies of the City for their share of the proportionate cost of the service provided to them. For Fiscal Years 2020-21 and 2021-22, these service deliveries, the majority of which constitute municipal sales, generated approximately $82 million and $116 million in revenues for the Power Enterprise, respectively. Revenues from service deliveries averaged approximately 68% of Power Enterprise revenues for Fiscal Years 2017-18 through 2021-22. See "– Power Sales Revenues; Other Revenues." For Fiscal Years 2022-23 and 2023-24, the Power Enterprise budgeted $150.0 million and $161.9 million in revenues, respectively, from service deliveries to other City agencies.

Financial Management Policies

The SFPUC makes no representation that the following policies will not be revised or amended and, except to the extent required for compliance with the terms of the Indenture, makes no representation that these policies will be followed by the SFPUC.

Debt Management Policies and Procedures. The SFPUC has established "Debt Management Policies and Procedures" (the "Debt Policies") for debt financing under its jurisdiction. The SFPUC has also established separate "SFPUC Municipal Securities Disclosure Policies and Procedures" (the "Disclosure Policies") which are appended to the Debt Policies. The Debt Policies, including the appended Disclosure Policies, apply to all SFPUC enterprises, including the Power Enterprise, and are intended to enable the SFPUC to effectively manage its debt issuance and administration practices and comply with all debt issuance and administration rules and regulations. The Debt Policies are reviewed bi-annually and revised, as necessary, with Commission approval.

The Commission adopted revisions to the Debt Policies in 2019. Such revisions included adding two amendments that were made to Rule 15c2-12, effective February 27, 2019 (the "Rule 15c2-12 Amendments") to the Disclosure Policies. See the Listed Events 15 and 16 in "APPENDIX E – FORM OF CONTINUING DISCLOSURE CERTIFICATE." In addition, pursuant to the Disclosure Policies, the SFPUC developed a Disclosure Practices Working Group (the "DPWG"). The DPWG meets at least semiannually to better and more effectively administer the SFPUC's continuing disclosure requirements, particularly to monitor the SFPUC's financial obligations and financial difficulties, if any, in light of the Rule 15c2-12 Amendments. The DPWG is comprised of the Chief Financial Officer and Assistant General Manager, Business Services, two Deputy Chief Financial Officers and the Debt Manager of the SFPUC, with legal consultation from the City Attorney's Office and the SFPUC's outside disclosure counsel.

Debt Service Coverage Policy. The Commission adopted a debt service coverage policy (the "Debt Service Coverage Policy") on March 28, 2017, which applies to all SFPUC enterprises, including the Power Enterprise. Pursuant to the Debt Service Coverage Policy, to ensure that the SFPUC maintains access to low-cost capital and retains financial flexibility for contingencies, the SFPUC will aim to adopt budgets, rates and financial plans that generate revenues such that debt service coverage on an Indenture basis (including certain available fund balances) will be at least 1.35 times and debt service coverage on a current basis will be at least 1.10 times.

The Indenture includes a rate covenant of 1.25 times coverage (including certain available fund balances). See “SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – Rate Covenant; Rates and Charges.”

Capital Financing Policy. The Commission adopted a capital financing policy (the “Capital Financing Policy”) on March 28, 2017, which applies to all SFPUC enterprises, including the Power Enterprise. The SFPUC relies mainly on current revenue and debt financing to pay for capital assets or improvements. According to the Capital Financing Policy, the appropriate mix of current revenues versus debt financing depends, in part, on the capital investment lifecycle of the Power Enterprise. Accordingly, the SFPUC has determined that over the 10-year financial planning horizon, the SFPUC will aim to pay for a minimum ranging between 15% and 30% of the Power Enterprise’s capital budget from current revenues.

Fund Balance Reserve Policy. The Commission adopted a fund balance reserve policy (the “Fund Balance Reserve Policy”) on February 28, 2017, which applies to all SFPUC enterprises, including the Power Enterprise. Pursuant to the Fund Balance Reserve Policy, for the time period covered in the 10-year financial plan, the SFPUC will aim to propose operating and capital budgets and rates for adoption such that the Fund Balance Reserve totals a minimum of 90 days or 25% of operations and maintenance expenses (including programmatic projects and excluding debt service and revenue-funded capital) throughout the forecast period. Amounts in excess of such minimum will be considered for contingencies and rate stabilization.

Investment of SFPUC Funds

The SFPUC’s pooled deposits and investments are invested pursuant to State law and the investment policy established from time to time by the City Treasurer and overseen by the Treasury Oversight Committee. The current policy seeks the preservation of capital, liquidity and yield, in that order of priority. Under the City Treasurer’s current investment procedures, the SFPUC’s pooled deposits and investments are invested in the City’s larger pooled investment fund (the “City Pool”). Among other purposes, the City Pool serves in effect as a disbursement account for expenditures from the City’s various segregated and pooled funds. Investments are generally made so that securities can be held to maturity. The City Treasurer calculated the weighted average maturity of these investments as of June 30, 2023, to be 442 days (most recent data available).

The following table sets forth the approximate book values of the investments held in the City Pool reported by the City Treasurer as of June 30, 2023. The Power Enterprise’s pooled deposits and investments accounted for approximately $247.4 million, or approximately 1.5%, of such amounts. The Water Enterprise and the Wastewater Enterprise each have their own pooled deposits and investments that are separate from the Power Enterprise.

The SFPUC’s non-pooled deposits and investments consist primarily of funds related to the SFPUC’s outstanding bonds, which are invested pursuant to policy established by the SFPUC, subject to the restrictions contained in the applicable bond documentation.

Risk Management and Insurance

The SFPUC’s risk management program encompasses both self-insured and insured coverage. Risk assessments and coverage are coordinated by the SFPUC Enterprise Risk Manager through the City Office of Risk Management. With certain exceptions, the City and SFPUC’s general approach is to first evaluate self-insurance for the risk of loss to which it is exposed. Based on this analysis, the SFPUC has determined that mitigating risk through a “self-retention” mechanism is more economical as it manages risks internally and administers, adjusts, settles, defends and pays claims from budgeted resources (i.e., pay-as-you-go). When economically more viable or when required by debt financing covenants, the SFPUC obtains commercial insurance.

At least annually, the City reviews and actuarially determines general liability and workers’ compensation liabilities, which are recorded as “Damages and Claims” and “Accrued Worker’s Compensation” in the financial statements.

The SFPUC does not maintain commercial earthquake coverage, with certain minor exceptions, such as a sub-limit for fire-sprinkler leakage due to earthquake under the Property Insurance program.

The following is a summary of the SFPUC’s coverage approach to risk:

| Primary Risks           | Typical Coverage Approach                                               |

The SFPUC's property risk management approach varies depending on whether the facility is currently under construction, or if the property is part of revenue-generating operations. The majority of purchased insurance is for revenue-generating facilities, debt-financed facilities and mandated coverage to meet statutory or contractual requirements. The SFPUC's insured coverage is through a City-wide purchased insurance policy which provides up to $1 billion of coverage against certain losses with respect to scheduled property. Such scheduled property includes certain properties of the City and its departments, including, but not limited to, the SFPUC's enterprises which alone total approximately $2.8 billion. The Power Enterprise has included on the insurance schedule the Kirkwood and Holmes Powerhouses, the Intake and Calaveras Switchyards, the Warnerville Substations, certain penstocks and a number of other facilities with a total combined value of approximately $986 million.

Additionally, the SFPUC acknowledges the importance of aligning strategic planning to the risk management process and has implemented an Enterprise Risk Management ("ERM") program to meet this need. The framework provides a strategic approach to managing operational risks. The ERM program has been implemented thus far for Information Technology Services, the Power Enterprise and CleanPowerSF and plans are in place to continue implementation across the remainder of the SFPUC as needed.

Capital Project Risk Management. For capital construction projects, the SFPUC has utilized traditional contractual risk transfer, contractor-controlled insurance programs or other alternative insurance programs. Under the latter two approaches, the insurance program usually provides coverage for the entire construction project, along with multiple risk coverages, such as general liability and workers compensation. When a contractual risk transfer is used for capital construction risks, the SFPUC requires each contractor to provide its own insurance, while ensuring that the full scope of work be covered with satisfactory levels to limit the SFPUC's risk exposure balanced by that which is commercially available.

Performance bonds are required, and Builder's Risk insurance must be purchased, in most phases of the construction contracting process for such phases as bid, performance, and payment or maintenance. Additionally, bonds may be required in other contracts where goods or services are provided to ensure compliance with applicable terms and conditions such as warranty.

Professional liability policies are either directly purchased insurance on behalf of the SFPUC, transferred through contract to the contracted professional, or retained through self-insurance on a case-by-case basis depending on the size, complexity or scope of construction or professional service contracts. Professional liability policies are typically purchased for services provided by engineers, architects, design professionals and other licensed or certified professional service providers.

Builder's Risk policies of insurance are required to be provided either through an owner-controlled insurance program or the contractor on all construction projects for the full value of the construction.

Revenues and expenses associated with Treasure Island Development, Transbay Cable Proceeds, cap and trade allowances, power system impact mitigation, federal subsidies, and other revenues deemed unavailable to pay debt service have been excluded. LCFS revenue is excluded in Current Basis coverage but included for Indenture Basis coverage calculation.

Fiscal Year 2022-23 Fourth Quarter Budgetary Report

The SFPUC's Fiscal Year 2022-23 Fourth Quarter Budgetary Report through June 2023 (the "Q4 Budgetary Report") was presented to the Commission on September 20, 2023. Budgetary reports are prepared on a budgetary basis and the projections in the Q4 Budgetary Report reflect variations from the SFPUC's original budget for Fiscal Year 2022-23, which was adopted in February 2022 (the "Original Fiscal Year 2022-23 Budget"). Such projections do not necessarily correspond to similar line items presented in Table 15 (Historical Revenues for Fiscal Years 2017-18 to 2021-22) or Table 17 (Power Enterprise Historical Revenues and Operation and Maintenance Expenses for Fiscal Years Ended June 30), each of which are based upon the SFPUC's GAAP financial statements for the Power Enterprise.

The Q4 Budgetary Report projects positive operating results for the Power Enterprise for Fiscal Year 2022-23, with overall year end results better than the Original Fiscal Year 2022-23 Budget and Fiscal Year 2021-22 actual results, and a higher fiscal year end fund balance on a budgetary basis. Due to the timing of the adoption of the final 2022 Power Rates Study, which did not allow the assumptions in such study to be reflected in the Original Fiscal Year 2022-23 Budget, retail sales, which include charges for services for municipal sales and other retail sales, are projected to be approximately $10.2 million below the Original Fiscal Year 2022-23 Budget of $171.4 million (although approximately $8.0 million higher than Fiscal Year 2021-22 actual results on a budgetary basis). See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Rate-Setting Process; Rates – Cost of Service Studies" and "– Rate-Setting Actions." Wholesale sales, however, are projected to be approximately $36.0 million above the Original Fiscal Year 2022-23 Budget of $18.3 million (approximately $24.1 million higher than Fiscal Year 2021-22 actual results on a budgetary basis), due primarily to higher power prices combined with higher generation due to the winter storms at the end of 2022 and beginning of 2023. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Winter Storms in Fiscal Year 2022-23." Interest income and purchased power costs, including transmission and distribution costs, are also projected to be higher than the amounts in the Original Fiscal Year 2022-23 Budget and Fiscal Year 2021-22 actual results on a budgetary basis. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Variability of Hydroelectric Generation" and "CERTAIN RISK FACTORS – Changes in Transmission and Distribution Service Costs." Finally, the SFPUC projects to meet or exceed all of its financial policy minimums and coverage ratios at year end for the Power Enterprise. See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Financial Management Policies."

The Q4 Budgetary Report includes projections. See “FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS.” Final Fiscal Year 2022-23 results will be published in the SFPUC’s audited financial statements for Fiscal Year 2022-23, which are expected to be released in December 2023.

CERTAIN RISK FACTORS

The following section discusses certain risk factors that should be considered by potential investors, along with all other information presented in this Official Statement, in evaluating the risks inherent in the purchase of the 2023A Bonds. The following discussion is not meant to be a comprehensive or definitive list of the risks associated with an investment in the 2023A Bonds. Any one or more of the risk factors discussed below, among others, could adversely affect the ability of the SFPUC to pay principal of or interest on the 2023A Bonds or lead to a decrease in the market value and/or in the liquidity of the 2023A Bonds. The order in which this information is presented does not necessarily reflect the relative importance of the various issues. There can be no assurance that other risk factors not discussed herein will not become material in the future, and the SFPUC has not undertaken to update investors about the emergence of other risk factors in the future.

General

The ability of the SFPUC to comply with its covenants under the Indenture and to generate Revenues sufficient to pay the Operation and Maintenance Expenses of the Power Enterprise and principal of and interest on the Bonds may be adversely affected by actions and events outside of the control of the SFPUC and may be adversely affected by actions taken (or not taken) by regulatory agencies, voters, Power Enterprise customers or PG&E. Among other matters, general and local economic conditions, weather or climatic conditions or natural or other disasters or the availability of insurance relating to any such events, and changes in law and government regulations could adversely affect the amount of Revenues realized by the SFPUC or significantly raise the cost of operating the Power Facilities. See “THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Recent Factors Impacting Power Revenues.”

In addition, the realization of future Revenues is subject to, among other things, the capabilities of management of the SFPUC, the ability of the SFPUC to provide service to its customers, the ability of the SFPUC to establish, maintain and collect charges from its customers and the ability of the SFPUC to establish, maintain and collect rates and charges sufficient to pay for Operation and Maintenance Expenses of the Power Enterprise, the Bonds and other obligations payable from Revenues. See “FINANCIAL OPERATIONS” and “OBLIGATIONS PAYABLE FROM REVENUES.”

Limited Obligations

If the SFPUC defaults on its obligations to make debt service payments on the Bonds, the Trustee has the right under the Indenture to accelerate the total unpaid principal amount of the Bonds. However, in the event of a default and such acceleration, there can be no assurance that the SFPUC, and correspondingly the Trustee, will have sufficient moneys available for payment of the Bonds.

The SFPUC is not obligated to pay the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the 2023A Bonds from any source of funds other than the Revenues of the Power Enterprise, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits. The General Fund of the City is not liable for the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the 2023A Bonds, and neither the credit nor the taxing power of the City is pledged to the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, or interest on the 2023A Bonds. The SFPUC has no taxing power. The 2023A Bonds are not secured by a legal or equitable pledge of, or charge, lien or encumbrance upon, any of the property of the City or of the SFPUC or any of its income or receipts, except Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits.

Risks Related to Power Enterprise Operations and Facilities

The operation of the Power Facilities, including the Hetch Hetchy Project, is subject to a number of risks which could adversely affect the ability of the Power Enterprise to generate electricity or deliver electricity to its customers. Such interruptions in generation or transmission could adversely impact Revenues or require the SFPUC to increase expenditures for repairs and replacement power. Such Revenue losses or increased operating expenses, if significant, could adversely impact the SFPUC's ability to pay debt service on the Bonds.

Lack of Supply Diversity. Although the SFPUC has been developing alternative sources of generation, the Power Enterprise's electric supply resources remain highly concentrated. Developments with respect to hydroelectric generation in general, or the Hetch Hetchy Project in particular, could have an amplified effect on the availability and cost of electricity required to meet the needs of the Power Enterprise's customers. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT."

Aging Facilities; Failure of Key Facilities. The Power Facilities vary in age, condition and estimated service life remaining. The average useful life of generating assets is about 30 years while the average useful life of transmission assets is approximately 80 years. Certain portions of the Power Facilities are near the end of their useful life. Long-lived assets result in decreased reliability due to unplanned outages and place a greater maintenance burden on Power Enterprise operations. Aging generating and transmission assets, if left unaddressed, could result in increased system failures, including losses of Hetch Hetchy Project electric generation delivered to San Francisco, increasing the Power Enterprise's reliance on purchased power. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Physical Condition of Facilities."

Limited Redundancy. Certain Power Facilities have limited redundancy, which reduces the SFPUC's ability to take components of the system out of service for maintenance and repairs, and to provide backup facilities in cases of failure. Any failure of the Power Facilities could result in an increase in the Power Enterprise's purchased power or transmission costs.

Rainfall Variability and Drought. Hydroelectric generation by the Hetch Hetchy Project is subject to seasonal and annual variations in rainfall. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Variability of Hydroelectric Generation."

Water System Operation Requirements. The SFPUC's "water first" policy requires the Power Enterprise to coordinate electricity generation with water releases from Hetch Hetchy Reservoir required to serve the needs of Water Enterprise customers, which has an impact on the Power Enterprise's ability to schedule generation in a manner that would maximize Revenues and minimize Operation and Maintenance Expenses. The price of electricity is subject to market conditions and seasonal market variations which frequently result in lower costs per MWh during the early part of the calendar year when more water is released to serve the requirements of the Water Enterprise and higher costs per MWh in the latter part of the calendar year when less water is released to serve the requirements of the Water Enterprise. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Hetch Hetchy Project Operations – Water First Policy" and "– Variability of Hydroelectric Generation."

Unavailability of Transmission. The SFPUC's transmission assets are interconnected to the CAISO's system. The unavailability of transmission assets due to failure or maintenance outage could require the Power Enterprise to obtain alternative transmission services from other utilities through established interties to deliver energy to the CAISO's transmission network, which could result in increased transmission costs to the Power Enterprise. See "THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Transmission and Distribution."

Interconnection Delays and Costs. In 2016, the SFPUC began taking distribution service from PG&E under its FERC-approved open access tariff (see "THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Transmission and Distribution"). Since that time, PG&E has updated and modified its distribution terms, which has had the effect of delaying grid access for certain SFPUC customers or increasing costs of service for the SFPUC. The SFPUC has challenged PG&E's distribution term modifications and sought grandfathered service under the tariff all before the FERC, and the SFPUC has further litigated FERC decisions in the federal courts. Starting in July 2018, the City required the SFPUC to provide the Board of Supervisors with quarterly reports identifying projects with applications to PG&E for electric service. Such reports identify any concerns with securing temporary and permanent power or other obstacles that could increase costs or delay service to City customers, and provide updates on the status of disputes with PG&E before the FERC or in other forums. Since November 2018, the SFPUC has provided reports on 142 projects that have experienced such delays or other obstacles. At present, the SFPUC has 42 projects with active applications for distribution service that have experienced interconnection delays or increased project costs. Thirty-four City projects have been released to obtain electric service from PG&E.

To mitigate the impacts of such connection delays and increased costs, the City is investing in its own distribution systems (see “POWER ENTERPRISE CAPITAL PROGRAM – 2024 Capital Plan Projects – Power Enterprise Projects – Transmission/Distribution/Alternative Transmission”). The City has also indicated an interest in acquiring the PG&E transmission and distribution systems serving San Francisco (see “THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION – Proposed Transaction with Pacific Gas & Electric Company”).

Casualty Losses. Damage to the Power Facilities from a variety of sources could impair or degrade the Power Enterprise’s ability to deliver electricity to its customers, perhaps for an extended period of time. The SFPUC maintains a risk management program which includes both insured and self-insured coverages; however, the program does not provide, and the SFPUC is not required to obtain, coverage for every type of loss. For example, damage attributable to seismic events and environmental pollution are excluded from such coverages. In situations where the SFPUC has not purchased commercial coverage, the Power Enterprise has a ‘self-retention’ program that it administers and retains budgeted resources internally to provide coverage for loss liabilities. See “FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Risk Management and Insurance.” There can be no assurance in the event of a casualty loss that insurance proceeds or the SFPUC’s budgeted resources will be available in amounts sufficient to make necessary capital repairs and mitigate other consequential losses.

Seismic Hazards. Certain facilities and customers of the Power Enterprise are located in seismically active regions of California. See “– Seismic Considerations.”

Other Natural and Man-Made Disasters. Other disasters, including without limitation wildfires, flooding and landslides, or man-made disasters, could interrupt operation of the Hetch Hetchy Project and other Power Facilities. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Wildfire Considerations.”

Operational Liability. The SFPUC operates high voltage transmission lines through right of way corridors that extend approximately 134 miles across forested and populated areas between the Sierra Nevada Mountains and the Newark Substation. These high voltage transmission lines can cause fires, electrocution or other casualties if safe clearance zones are not maintained or are accidentally breached, potentially resulting in significant liability losses. The SFPUC performed a condition assessment of its transmission line right of way and has identified potential hazards (clearance detections), including those due to insufficient ground clearance and those caused by encroachments or structures improperly located by other local jurisdictions, utilities or individuals in proximity to the transmission lines. Immediate measures were taken to enhance warning notification and exclude access at detection points. The SFPUC has prioritized these detection points based on risk and developed a capital program to mitigate these clearance issues. The SFPUC anticipates that identified potential hazards are likely to be fully mitigated by 2030. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Wildfire Considerations.”

Safety and Security. Military conflicts and terrorist activities could also adversely impact the operations of the Power Enterprise or the finances of the SFPUC. The SFPUC plans and prepares for emergency situations and related responses to maintain critical services. However, there can be no assurance that any such safety and security measures will prove adequate in the event of terrorist activities directed against the Power Facilities or that costs of security measures will not be greater than presently anticipated.

Statutory and Regulatory Compliance. The operation of the Power Facilities and a retail electric service program is subject to a variety of federal and State statutory and regulatory requirements concerning matters such as reliability, reporting and the scheduling of electrical generation and transmission. Non-compliance with applicable laws or regulations could result in fines and penalties being assessed against the SFPUC or claims being made by private parties. Changes in the scope and standards for electricity generation, transmission and distribution systems such as the Power Facilities may also lead to administrative orders issued by federal or State regulators. Future compliance with increased regulatory requirements or enforcement orders could impose substantial additional operating expenses on the SFPUC.

Endangered Species. Various aquatic species (including native fishes) present in the Tuolumne River and Bay Area streams (e.g., Alameda, San Mateo and Pilarcitos Creeks) are either listed or candidates for listing under the State or federal endangered species acts. New listings and future enforcement actions under the acts, or conditions placed in permits to undertake construction for certain projects, could potentially directly affect water flow and electrical generation at the Hetch Hetchy Project. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – FERC Proceedings Regarding Relicensing of the New Don Pedro Project.”

Labor Actions. The Charter prohibits SFPUC and other City employees from striking. Nonetheless, any work stoppage or other labor action could limit the SFPUC’s ability to operate the Power Facilities or provide service and adversely impact Revenues. On July 24, 2023, the PERB ruled in favor of the SEIU and IFPTE, concluding that certain City Charter provisions prohibiting strikes by City employees are invalid, affirming an earlier ruling of an administrative law judge that such City Charter provisions violate the Meyers-Milias-Brown Act. The City has filed a notice of appeal to the California Court of Appeal with respect to the PERB decision. The City can give no assurance whether the appeal will be successful. See also “THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION – Employee Relations.”

Skilled Labor. Operation of a utility requires a skilled workforce. Tight labor markets and work places in high-cost regions, such as the San Francisco Bay Area, or remote mountainous regions, such as where Hetch Hetchy Project operations are located, may increase the difficulty in recruiting and retaining a skilled workforce. The SFPUC is currently experiencing challenges in hiring and retaining certified professional mechanical and electrical engineers with power systems experience as well as experienced trades such as power system operators, technicians and lineworkers. Although the Power Enterprise has been able to deliver uninterrupted power to its retail and wholesale customers, challenges in hiring and retaining a skilled workforce could potentially impact the SFPUC’s ability to operate the Power Facilities in the future.

Proposals to Restore Hetch Hetchy Valley. Some environmental organizations advocate for the removal of the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir and the restoration of Hetch Hetchy Valley. For example, an initiative ordinance qualified for the November 2012 City ballot with support from an organization called “Restore Hetch Hetchy” and would have required the City to identify alternative sources of water and, subject to certain additional conditions, end its use of the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir. That reservoir supplies the Kirkwood and Moccasin Powerhouses, which combined generate approximately 57% of the electricity produced by the Hetch Hetchy Project. This initiative was rejected by voters of San Francisco.

Previous studies have examined proposals to remove Hetch Hetchy Reservoir. For example, a 2006 report by the California Department of Water Resources and the California Department of Parks and Recreation concluded that it is technically feasible to restore Hetch Hetchy Valley but cautioned financial feasibility. The study estimated that the total cost of such a project would range from $3 billion to $10 billion in 2006 (approximately $4 billion to $13 billion in 2020, adjusted for inflation). The State agencies also concluded that the initial planning effort would take up to 10 years to complete and cost an additional $65 million. A project to restore the Hetch Hetchy Valley likely would substantially increase the Power Enterprise’s annual cost of power.

In 2015, Restore Hetch Hetchy filed a complaint against the City alleging that the SFPUC’s operation of Hetch Hetchy Reservoir is an unreasonable method of diversion of water in violation of the California Constitution because of the O’Shaughnessy Dam’s location within a national park. The case has been fully and finally resolved in the City’s favor. In addition, in 2019, Restore Hetch Hetchy commissioned a report that concluded that restoring Hetch Hetchy Valley and opening it to greater public use had an economic use value between $2 billion to $5 billion and an intrinsic passive-use value of over $100 billion over a 50-year period. No formal federal, State or local policy proposals have been made in response to the report.

The SFPUC is unable to predict whether any similar initiatives, or similar federal or State legislation, might be approved by the voters or adopted by legislative bodies in the future, or the potential impact of such efforts on the SFPUC or the Power Enterprise. Any such legislation or litigation, if successful, could impose substantial additional operating and capital expenses on the Power Enterprise.

Inverse Condemnation

Under the doctrine of inverse condemnation (a legal concept that entitles property owners to just compensation if their private property is damaged by a public use), California courts have imposed liability on public agencies in legal actions brought by private property holders for damages caused by such public agencies' infrastructure. In City of Oroville v. Superior Court of Butte County, 7 Cal. 5th 1091 (2019), however, the California Supreme Court held that damage to private property must be substantially caused by an inherent risk presented by the deliberate design, construction or maintenance of the public improvement. Thus, if the inherent risks associated with the SFPUC's facilities, including water storage or transportation facilities or electrical distribution and transmission lines, as deliberately designed, constructed or maintained, are determined to be the substantial cause of damage to private property from flooding, fire or otherwise, and the doctrine of inverse condemnation applies, the SFPUC could be liable for direct and indirect property damage to private parties and such liability, in the aggregate, could be substantial. In addition to such claims for property damage, the SFPUC could also be liable for punitive damages and other damages under other theories of liability, including if the SFPUC were found to have been negligent, which liability, in the aggregate, could be substantial. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Wildfire Considerations."

Seismic Considerations

Certain distribution and transmission facilities of the Power Enterprise and the Power Enterprise's principal customers are located in seismically active regions of California. The San Andreas Fault lies immediately west of San Francisco, and the Hayward fault is approximately fifteen miles to the east of San Francisco. A third major fault, the Calaveras Fault, is a branch of the Hayward Fault and lies east of the Hayward Fault.

During the past 150 years, the San Francisco Bay Area has experienced several major and numerous minor earthquakes. The largest was the 1906 San Francisco earthquake along the San Andreas Fault with an estimated magnitude of 8.2 on the Richter scale. The 1868 Hayward earthquake along the Hayward Fault had an estimated magnitude of between 6.8 and 7.0 on the Richter scale. The 1989 Loma Prieta earthquake along the San Andreas Fault had an estimated magnitude of 6.9 on the Richter scale. The most recent significant earthquake was the 2014 South Napa earthquake on the West Napa Fault, the northern extension of the Calaveras Fault, which had a magnitude of 6.0 on the Richter scale and an epicenter near the city of Napa, approximately 50 miles north of San Francisco. According to United States Geological Survey findings, a significant earthquake along these or other faults is probable during the period the 2023A Bonds will be outstanding. A significant earthquake in San Francisco could adversely affect power deliveries, short-term or long-term demand, or the ability of Power Enterprise customers to pay for electric service.

The Hetch Hetchy Project is located largely in Yosemite National Park, one of the most stable seismic zones in California, and there are no known major faults in the area in which its large generation facilities are located. The SFPUC therefore considers the risk of either a major earthquake in that region or an earthquake in the San Francisco Bay Area of a magnitude sufficient to have a significant impact on the Hetch Hetchy Project to be low. Many of the Hetch Hetchy Project's generation and transmission facilities were constructed prior to 1980, however, and have not been retrofitted to meet current seismic standards. As the SFPUC continues to upgrade and replace facilities, design improvements to meet, or exceed, current seismic standards are included.

The SFPUC's in-city assets, including for example certain distribution systems, renewable energy generating facilities and streetlights, along with facilities in other locations in the larger Bay Area, such as substations located near SFO, are expected to be subject to greater and more frequent seismic activity than the facilities of the Hetch Hetchy Project as sections of the Hayward Fault, San Andreas Fault and Calaveras Fault are near San Francisco.

With certain minor exceptions, the SFPUC does not maintain commercial earthquake insurance coverage for the Hetch Hetchy Project or other Hetch Hetchy Water and Power facilities. See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Risk Management and Insurance."

A major seismic event affecting critical operational facilities of the Power Enterprise could result in electrical generation service interruptions necessitating that the Power Enterprise purchase wholesale electricity, based on availability and market price, to replace any generation capacity taken offline by the seismic event. Particularly severe seismic events could also significantly impact the wholesale electricity market, available transmission resources and customer demand.

Climate Change

Impact on City of San Francisco. Numerous scientific studies on global climate change show that, among other effects on the global ecosystem, sea levels will rise, extreme temperatures, and extreme weather events will become more frequent as a result of increasing global temperatures attributable to atmospheric pollution.

The Fourth National Climate Assessment, published by the United States Global Change Research Program in November 2018 (“NCA4”), finds that more frequent and intense extreme weather and climate-related events, as well as changes in average climate conditions, are expected to continue to damage infrastructure, ecosystems and social systems over the next 25 to 100 years. NCA4 states that rising temperatures, sea level rise, and changes in extreme events are expected to increasingly disrupt and damage critical infrastructure and property and regional economies and industries that depend on natural resources and favorable climate conditions. Disruptions could include more frequent and longer-lasting power outages, fuel shortages and service disruptions. NCA4 states that the continued increase in the frequency and extent of high-tide flooding due to sea level rise threatens coastal public infrastructure. NCA4 also states that expected increases in the severity and frequency of heavy precipitation events will affect inland infrastructure, including access to roads, the viability of bridges and the safety of pipelines.

Sea levels will continue to rise in the future due to the increasing temperature of the oceans causing thermal expansion and growing ocean volume from glaciers and ice caps melting into the ocean. Between 1854 and 2016, sea level rose about nine inches according to the tidal gauge at Fort Point, a location underneath the Golden Gate Bridge. Weather and tidal patterns, including 100-year or more storms and king tides, may exacerbate the effects of climate related sea level rise. Coastal areas like San Francisco and the Bay Area are at risk of substantial flood damage over time, affecting private development and public infrastructure, including roads, utilities, emergency services, schools, and parks. As a result, the City could lose considerable tax revenues and many residents, businesses, and governmental operations along the waterfront could be displaced, and the City could be required to mitigate these effects at a potentially material cost.

Adapting to sea level rise is a key component of the City’s policies. The City and its enterprise departments have been preparing for future sea level rise for many years and have issued a number of public reports. For example, in March 2016, the City released a report entitled “Sea Level Rise Action Plan” (the “Sea Level Rise Action Plan”), identifying geographic zones at risk of sea level rise, providing a framework for adaptation strategies to confront these risks, and identifying data gaps and next steps. That study shows an upper range of end-of-century projections for permanent sea level rise, including the effects of temporary flooding due to a 100-year storm, of up to 108 inches above the 2015 average high tide. To implement the Sea Level Rise Action Plan, the Mayor’s Sea Level Rise Coordinating Committee, co-chaired by the Planning Department and the Port of San Francisco, worked together to develop the City’s Guidance for Incorporating Sea Level Rise into Capital Planning, Adopted September 2014, Revised December 2015, and Updated January 2020 and finalized the City’s Sea Level Rise Vulnerability and Risk Assessment, February 2020. The City is now working to fill some of the identified data gaps from the Sea Level Rise Action Plan, including working with Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory to understand the effect of climate change on future storms for the Bay Area. Among the findings is that storm-total precipitation for the largest types of storms is expected to produce up to 17% more rainfall by 2050 and up to 37% more rainfall by 2100. For the smaller storms, the change is expected to be even larger with increases of up to 57% more rain by 2050 and 67% more rainfall by 2100. The written reports have been finalized and the City is considering how to use the information as part of a larger data set of climate variables needed for planning purposes. The City is transitioning toward efforts that would consolidate and coordinate sea level rise adaptation and overall resilience planning so that City departments can maximize efficiency and the co-benefits of investment dollars. The City has developed and continues to refine the governance structure of the Climate Resilience Program (also known as ClimateSF) to improve how the City manages, finances and implements climate resilience projects and/or programs. Such efforts include the publication of a comprehensive Climate Action Plan in 2021. See “POWER ENTERPRISE CAPITAL PROGRAM – Climate Action Plan.” For the City, climate resilience refers to a range of coordinated actions that eliminate greenhouse gas emissions and adapt the built and natural environment, while achieving a more equitable and sustainable city.

In April 2017, the Working Group of the California Ocean Protection Council Science Advisory Team (in collaboration with several state agencies, including the California Natural Resource Agency, the Governor’s Office of Planning and Research, and the California Energy Commission) published a report, that was formally adopted in March 2018, entitled “Rising Seas in California: An Update on Sea Level Rise Science” (the “Sea Level Rise Report”) to provide a new synthesis of the state of science regarding sea level rise. The Sea Level Rise Report provides the basis for State guidance to State and local agencies for incorporating sea level rise into design, planning, permitting, construction, investment and other decisions. Among many findings, the Sea Level Rise Report indicates that the effects of sea level rise are already being felt in coastal California with more extensive coastal flooding during storms, exacerbated tidal flooding, and increased coastal erosion. In addition, the report notes that the rate of ice sheet loss from Greenland and Antarctic ice sheets, while highly uncertain as to timing, could pose a particular risk of sea level rise for the California coastline.

The City has already incorporated site-specific adaption plans in the conditions of approval for certain large waterfront development projects, such as the Candlestick/Hunters Point Shipyard, Treasure Island, Pier 70 and Mission Rock projects. In November 2018, San Francisco voters approved a bond measure providing $425 million toward study and repair of the City’s sea wall against seismic threats and sea level rise. This Phase 1 funding provides early investment in long-term upgrades expected to cost more than $5 billion. The Port is also working with City partner agencies and the United States Army Corps of Engineers (“USACE”) to defend the City and its waterfront from flooding through the San Francisco Waterfront Coastal Flood Study (the “Flood Study”). Through the Flood Study, the Port, the City, and USACE are developing a Draft Waterfront Adaptation Plan to defend the 7.5 miles of waterfront from flood risks from Heron’s Head Park to Aquatic Park. The Flood Study is one of the several coordinated waterfront resilience activities being undertaken in partnership with federal, State, and local agencies to plan for anticipated seismic activity, flooding, and sea level rise.

Portions of the San Francisco Bay Area, including San Francisco, are built on fill that was placed over saturated silty clay known as “Bay Mud.” This Bay Mud is soft and compressible, and the consolidation of the Bay Mud under the weight of the existing fill is ongoing. A report issued in March 2018 by researchers at the University of California, Berkeley, and the University of Arizona suggests that flooding risk from climate change could be exacerbated in the San Francisco Bay Area due to the sinking or settling of the ground surface, known as subsidence. The study claims that the risk of subsidence is more significant for certain parts of San Francisco built on fill.

Projections of the effects of global climate change on San Francisco are complex and depend on many factors that are outside the City’s control. The various scientific studies that forecast climate change and its adverse effects, including sea level rise and flooding risk, are based on assumptions contained in such studies, but actual events may vary materially. Also, the scientific understanding of climate change and its effects continues to evolve. Accordingly, the City is unable to forecast when sea level rise or other adverse effects of climate change (e.g., the occurrence and frequency of 100-year storm events and king tides) will occur. In particular, the City cannot predict the timing or precise magnitude of adverse economic effects, including, without limitation, material adverse effects on the business operations or financial condition of the City and the local economy during the term of the 2023A Bonds. While the effects of climate change may be mitigated by the City’s past and future investment in adaptation strategies, the City can give no assurance about the net effects of those strategies and whether the City will be required to take additional adaptive mitigation measures. If necessary, such additional measures could require significant capital resources.

In September 2017, the City filed a lawsuit against the five largest investor-owned oil companies seeking to have the companies pay into an abatement fund to help fund infrastructure for climate change adaptation. In July 2018, the United States District Court for the Northern District of California denied the plaintiff’s motion for remand to State court and then dismissed the lawsuit, which the City had joined as a plaintiff. The plaintiffs appealed these decisions to the United States Court of Appeals for the Ninth Circuit, which in May 2020 vacated the District Court’s order that found the case arose under federal law, remanding the case back to the District Court to determine if there were any other grounds for federal jurisdiction. In June 2021, the United States Supreme Court declined to review the Ninth Circuit’s decision. In October 2022, the District Court ordered the case remanded to State court and stayed the remand pending any appeals. The defendants have appealed the District Court’s decision to the Ninth Circuit. While the City believes that the claims in this lawsuit are meritorious, it can give no assurance regarding whether the lawsuit will be successful and obtain the requested relief from the courts, or contributions to the abatement fund from the defendant oil companies.

Impact on SFPUC Power Enterprise. The issue of climate change has become an important factor in hydroelectric generation in California. There is evidence that increasing concentrations of greenhouse gases have caused and will continue to cause a rise in temperatures around the world, which will result in a wide range of changes in climate patterns. Moreover, there is evidence that a warming trend occurred during the latter part of the 20th century and will likely continue through the 21st century. These changes will have a direct effect on hydroelectric generation in California, and numerous studies on climate and water in California have been conducted to determine the potential impacts. Based on these studies, climate change could result in the following types of water resources impacts in California, including impacts on the Regional Water System and associated watersheds which may, in turn, impact hydroelectric generation:

- Reductions in the average annual snowpack versus historical levels due to a rise in the snowline and a shallower snowpack in the low- and medium-elevation zones, such as in the Tuolumne River basin, and a shift in snowmelt runoff to earlier in the year;
- Changes in the timing, intensity and annual variability of precipitation, and an increased amount of precipitation falling as rain instead of as snow;
- Long-term changes in watershed vegetation and increased incidence of wildfires that could degrade water quality;
- Sea level rise, which could cause inundation of Regional Water System assets and/or an increase in saltwater intrusion into groundwater basins;
- Increased water temperatures with accompanying adverse effects on some fisheries and water quality; and
- Changes in urban water demand.

However, other than the general trends listed above, there is no clear scientific consensus on exactly how climate change will quantitatively affect SFPUC or State water supplies and, therefore, hydroelectric generation.

Regarding sea level rise, the City has developed policies for considering the potential impact of sea level rise on City assets, “Guidance for Incorporating Sea Level Rise into Capital Planning” that requires all assets in the City’s 10-year capital plan be evaluated for inundation under a variety of sea level rise scenarios plus a 1% storm. The City, through its Sea Level Rise Action Plan, will be evaluating the best approaches and potential adaptive management plans for protecting public and private assets potentially subject to inundation caused by sea level rise and large storms.

Cybersecurity

City Measures. The City, like many other large public and private entities, relies on a large and complex technology environment to conduct its operations, and faces multiple cybersecurity threats including, but not limited to, hacking, viruses, malware and other attacks on its computing and other digital networks and systems (collectively, “Systems Technology”). As a recipient and provider of personal, private, or sensitive information, the City has been the subject of cybersecurity incidents that have resulted in or could have resulted in adverse consequences to the City’s Systems Technology and that required a response action to mitigate the consequences.

Cybersecurity incidents could result from unintentional events, or from deliberate attacks by unauthorized entities or individuals attempting to gain access to the City’s Systems Technology for the purposes of misappropriating assets or information or causing operational disruption and damage. To mitigate the risk of business operations impact and/or damage from cybersecurity incidents or cyber-attacks, the City invests in multiple forms of cybersecurity and operational safeguards. In November 2016, the City adopted a City-wide Cyber Security Policy (the “City Cyber Policy”) to support, maintain, and secure critical infrastructure and data systems. The objectives of the City Cyber Policy include the protection of critical infrastructure and information, manage risk, improve cyber security event detection and remediation, and facilitate cyber awareness across all City departments. The City’s Department of Technology has established a cybersecurity team to work across all City departments, including the SFPUC, to implement the City Cyber Policy. The City Cyber Policy is reviewed periodically.

The City has also appointed a City Chief Information Security Officer (the “CCISO”), who is directly responsible for understanding the business and related cybersecurity needs of the City’s 54 departments, including the SFPUC. The CCISO is responsible for identifying, evaluating, responding, and reporting on information security risks in a manner that meets compliance and regulatory requirements, and aligns with and supports the risk posture of the City. Mayor Breed addressed this issue on June 4, 2021 in Executive Directive 21-02, Ensuring Strong and Organized City Defense Against Cybersecurity Attacks (“Executive Directive 21-02”), which sets forth requirements for City departments to strengthen and improve the City’s cyber functions and programs.

SFPUC Measures. The SFPUC also relies on a large and complex technology environment to conduct its operations. Although the SFPUC maintains its own business and control networks that are separate from the City’s network, the SFPUC faces similar cybersecurity threats as the City, including hacking, viruses, malware and other attacks on its computing and other digital networks and systems. To mitigate the risk of and damage from cybersecurity incidences or cyberattacks, the SFPUC abides by the City Cyber Policy and also maintains its own cybersecurity program (the “SFPUC Cybersecurity Program”). The SFPUC Cybersecurity Program is based on National Institute of Standards and Technology cybersecurity guidance and employs industry standard Center for Internet Security critical security controls. In addition, control networks for the Water Enterprise and the Wastewater Enterprise adhere to the American Water Works Association Cyber Security guidance and the control networks for the Power Enterprise adhere to the North American Electric Reliability Corporation critical infrastructure protection controls. The SFPUC Cybersecurity Program includes industry standard cybersecurity solutions, and the SFPUC’s technologies are continuously tested as part of an internal vulnerability program. The SFPUC’s technical controls are prescriptive for hardening servers, network devices and databases, and for addressing system administrator controls, mobile device management, incident response, security patching, antivirus, email, passwords, remote access, secure asset disposal, end user controls, and timely removal of access to systems and facilities for staff that leave employment at the SFPUC. In addition to the SFPUC’s controls and in alignment with Executive Directive 21-02, the SFPUC has deployed the city-wide-real-time threat monitoring and alerting solution. The SFPUC Cybersecurity Program is periodically reviewed for effectiveness by independent consultants, most recently in June 2022. In addition, pursuant to the SFPUC’s policies, the City Services Auditor and independent cybersecurity auditors performed extensive penetration and vulnerability testing on the SFPUC’s business and control networks.

The SFPUC has also appointed a Chief Information Security Officer (the “CISO”). In addition to working with the CCISO on cybersecurity policy development and solution sharing, the CISO is responsible for annual updates to the SFPUC’s policies, is charged with identifying and monitoring threats which are typically addressed by the SFPUC’s information technology services team, educating staff concerning vulnerabilities and constantly improving the SFPUC Cybersecurity Program.

While the SFPUC Cybersecurity Program is periodically reviewed, no assurances can be given by the SFPUC that such measures will ensure against other cybersecurity threats and attacks. Cybersecurity breaches could damage the SFPUC’s information security systems and cause material disruption to the SFPUC’s operations and the provision of SFPUC services. The costs of remedying any such damage or protecting against future attacks could be substantial. Further, cybersecurity breaches could expose the SFPUC to material litigation and other legal risks, which could cause the SFPUC to incur material costs related to such legal claims or proceedings. The SFPUC currently purchases liability insurance covering cyber-losses and requires its technology vendors to purchase technology errors and omissions insurance coverage. See “FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Risk Management and Insurance.”

Construction Related Risks

Construction projects for the Power Enterprise are subject to ordinary construction risks and delays applicable to projects of their kind, including but not limited to (i) inclement weather affecting contractor performance and timeliness of completion, which could affect the costs and availability of, or delivery schedule for, equipment, components, materials, labor or subcontractors; (ii) contractor claims or nonperformance; (iii) failure of contractors to execute within contract price; (iv) work stoppages or slowdowns; (v) failure of contractors to meet schedule terms; (vi) errors or omissions in contract documents requiring change orders; (vii) the occurrence of a major seismic event; or (viii) unanticipated project site conditions, including the discovery of hazardous materials on the site or other issues regarding compliance with applicable environmental standards, and other natural hazards or seismic events encountered during construction. Increased construction costs or delays could impact the Power Enterprise's financial condition in general and the implementation of its capital programs in particular. Construction bids may also be higher than anticipated for budgeting purposes.

Commercial Paper Note Credit Facilities

Commercial Paper Notes. The bank credit facilities supporting the Commercial Paper Notes are subject to early termination upon the occurrence of certain events, including the failure of the SFPUC to make certain payments, the occurrence of certain bankruptcy or insolvency-related events, the reduction below specified levels or the withdrawal or suspension of ratings on certain obligations of the SFPUC payable from Net Revenues or certain other specified events of default. Upon the occurrence of such termination, one or more of the following would likely occur: (a) the SFPUC would be prohibited from issuing additional notes supported by such credit facilities; (b) any outstanding reimbursement obligation of the SFPUC to the bank providing such facility for draws made for the payment of principal of or interest on Commercial Paper Notes could bear interest at rates higher than the rates borne by the Commercial Paper Notes; and (c) any such outstanding reimbursement obligation of the SFPUC could be accelerated and become immediately due and payable. The Commercial Paper Notes and any reimbursement obligations are payable from Net Revenues on a basis subordinate to the Bonds. See "OBLIGATIONS PAYABLE FROM REVENUES – Subordinate Obligations."

Limitations on Rate-Setting

The generation of Revenues sufficient to satisfy the requirements of the Indenture and to pay the principal of and interest on the 2023A Bonds will require the SFPUC to raise the rates payable by its customers. The increase or maintenance of rates is subject to various substantive and procedural requirements and limitations. See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Rate-Setting Process; Rates."

Raker Act Requirements

The Raker Act, enacted in 1913, granted the City the right to construct the Hetch Hetchy Project, including O'Shaughnessy Dam at Hetch Hetchy Valley in Yosemite National Park and related infrastructure, and to operate the dam and reservoirs to generate electricity and to supply water to San Francisco. The Raker Act further grants the City the right to sell electricity for beneficial use, first to meet San Francisco municipal needs, then the Districts' municipal and agricultural pumping needs, and finally for commercial purposes, provided that in each case such electricity may not be sold to a private corporation or individual for resale. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – History." Wholesale electricity deliveries to the Districts are on an "as available" basis and are required by the Raker Act only after satisfying the City's own municipal needs. Any additional excess electricity supplies are sold to certain end-user retail customers and then on the wholesale market to public entities consistent with the requirements of the Raker Act. The Raker Act does not restrict the City's purchase, use and sale of non-Hetch Hetchy Project electricity. See "THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Wholesale Electricity Sales."

Customer Concentration

The Power Enterprise's customer base consists of municipal customers, retail customers and long-term wholesale customers, with excess generation sold on the wholesale short-term markets primarily during the run-off spring season. Since Fiscal Year 2017-18, there have been no sales under long-term wholesale agreements with the Districts. See "THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Wholesale Electricity Sales."

On average, approximately 76.7% of charges for services revenues were from municipal sales from Fiscal Years 2017-18 through 2021-22. While those revenues have historically remained relatively constant, in recent years, the Commission has approved rate increases to municipal customers. Retail sales have grown in recent years due to customer growth in redevelopment areas and customers transferring to Hetch Hetchy power service from other providers. See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Power Sales Revenues; Other Revenues" and "– Limitations on Rate-Setting."

As the Power Enterprise's retail customers are concentrated primarily in and around San Francisco, changes in the financial condition of, or the health of the economy in, San Francisco and, to a certain extent, the greater Bay Area, may have an amplified impact on the finances of the Power Enterprise. As many customers of the Power Enterprise are municipal and other governmental entities, factors impacting the financial condition of such entities may similarly have significant impact on the finances of the Power Enterprise. See "THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Recent Factors Impacting Power Revenues."

Increased Operation and Maintenance Expenses

There can be no assurance that the Operation and Maintenance Expenses of the SFPUC, such as wages and salaries, pension and other benefits, purchased power costs, and purchased transmission and distribution service costs, will not increase, perhaps substantially, due to price inflation, volatile investment or commodities markets, economic disruption or any other factors. See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Operation and Maintenance Expenses" and "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Variability of Hydroelectric Generation."

Uncertainties of Forecasting Future Load Growth

The SFPUC's ability to serve a growing electric load may require capital investment in, and construction of, distribution facilities in advance of customers using such facilities. In addition, increased loads may require increased power purchases and may increase overall operating expenses. See "THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – Variability of Hydroelectric Generation" and "– Changes in Energy Prices." In the case of redevelopment projects, most, but not all of the costs of this investment is born by the developer. The pace of the development of such projects can be effected by overall economic conditions outside the control of the SFPUC, making financial and capital planning challenging. Similarly, the pace of customer response to State and local mandates and/or incentives, like electric vehicle adoption, conversion from gas to electric home heating and cooking, and building electrification is also difficult to predict, making financial and capital planning challenging. To address these challenges, the SFPUC applies standard industry practices in forecasting and sensitivity analysis, monitoring project progress, and maintaining ongoing communication with large project construction plans.

Changes in Energy Prices

Energy prices have at times been subject to volatile change for numerous reasons, including market forces beyond the control of the SFPUC. In particular, recent years in California and western states have seen significant increases in overall prices and seasonal variability in power markets due to supply chain disruptions, the war in Ukraine, and extreme weather events. See "DEVELOPMENTS IN THE ELECTRICITY MARKETS AND REGULATION." Depending on the timing during the year, higher wholesale energy market prices may increase operating costs of the Power Enterprise and reduce Net Revenues or increase wholesale power sales revenue and increase Net Revenues.

The State's electricity deregulation instituted pricing mechanisms that establish market clearing prices for all electricity not purchased under forward contracts. Electricity prices are set through this auction mechanism designed to account for supply, demand and congestion. When generation supply exceeds demand, electricity prices move lower. Typically, electricity prices are lower in the spring when hydroelectric generation is abundant and demand moderate. Electricity prices tend to be higher in the late summer and fall when regional and State-wide generating resources are more limited and demand is highest. In an average year, the Power Enterprise has excess generation to sell in the first half of the year and generally purchases wholesale electricity during the second half of the year to meet its load obligations. The Power Enterprise accounts for the seasonal differential in electricity price in its budget request for annual electricity purchases and reflects such costs in the rates it charges customers.

The SFPUC generally sets electric rates for enterprise customers at a level competitive with the adopted PG&E rates for each customer class; however, there is currently no explicit linkage between the SFPUC's rates and PG&E's rates. See "THE POWER ENTERPRISE – Power Service in San Francisco – Pacific Gas & Electric Company." PG&E is regulated by the CPUC for its retail services and by the FERC for its wholesale service. PG&E's rates for retail service to customers in California are established by the CPUC after public review to determine they are "just and reasonable."

See also "– Limitations on Rate-Setting" and "DEVELOPMENTS IN THE ELECTRICITY MARKETS AND REGULATION."

Changes in Transmission and Distribution Service Costs

The SFPUC pays for transmission service to the CAISO and distribution service to PG&E. The rates and terms of these services are regulated by the FERC, and are subject to change. The SFPUC monitors and participates in the proceedings conducted by FERC to review and approve changes to the rates and terms of service to protect its interests in reasonable rates and terms. These rates and terms effect the SFPUC cost of service and, in some cases, the availability of service from SFPUC to its customers. See also "– Risks Related to Power Enterprise Operations and Facilities – Interconnection Delays and Costs."

Uncertainties of the Electric Utility Industry

The operations of the Power Enterprise and its financial condition could be adversely affected by developments in the electricity markets and related regulation. See "DEVELOPMENTS IN THE ELECTRICITY MARKETS AND REGULATION."

Economic, Political, Social and Environmental Conditions

Changes in economic, political, social, or environmental conditions on a local, State, federal, and/or international level may adversely affect investment risk generally. Such conditional changes may include (but are not limited to) disruptions in business activity, consumer prices, or financial markets, unemployment rates, availability of skilled labor, technological advancements, shortages or surpluses in natural resources or energy supplies, changes in law, social unrest, fluctuations in the crime rate, political conflict, acts of war or terrorism, environmental damage, and natural disasters.

Pandemics; COVID-19 Pandemic

A pandemic, epidemic or outbreak of an infectious disease can have significant adverse health and financial impacts on global and local economies. For example, the COVID-19 pandemic significantly impacted the City and resulted in prolonged stay-at-home orders that impacted each of the SFPUC's enterprises, including the Power Enterprise. In addition to certain direct impacts on the operations and finances of the Power Enterprise, COVID-19 has had significant and varied impacts on general economic activity at the local, national and global levels, including supply chain and labor market disruptions. Such disruptions have, among other effects, resulted in increases in materials, labor, transportation and other costs across a wide number of sectors, as well as delays in delivery of projects and equipment. The Power Enterprise has experienced, and may in the future experience, increases in certain costs and delays in the delivery of equipment, such as transformers, as a result of COVID-19's disruption of supply chains. Additionally, such disruptions may result in schedule delays for the Power Enterprise's capital projects or increased costs for such projects.

Constitutional, Statutory and Charter Limitations

The SFPUC is subject to limitations imposed by the Charter and by the State Constitution and statutes. Such limitations could adversely affect the financial condition of the Power Enterprise. See “CONSTITUTIONAL, STATUTORY AND CHARTER LIMITATIONS.”

Initiative, Referendum, Charter Amendments and Future Legislation and Regulations

Under the State Constitution, the voters of California have the ability to initiate legislation and require a public vote on legislation passed by the California Legislature through the powers of initiative and referendum, respectively. Under the Charter, the voters of San Francisco can restrict or revise the powers of the SFPUC through the approval of a Charter amendment. The SFPUC is unable to predict whether any such initiatives might be submitted to or approved by the voters, the nature of such initiatives, or their potential impact on the SFPUC or the Power Enterprise. See “CONSTITUTIONAL, STATUTORY AND CHARTER LIMITATIONS.” See also “– Risks Related to Power Enterprise Operations and Facilities – Proposals to Restore Hetch Hetchy Valley.”

In addition, the SFPUC and its operations are subject to various laws, rules and regulations adopted by the local, State and federal governments and their agencies. The SFPUC is unable to predict the adoption or amendment of any such laws, rules or regulations, or their effect on the operations or financial condition of the Power Enterprise.

Bankruptcy of the City

The SFPUC, being an enterprise department of the City, likely cannot itself file for bankruptcy. While an involuntary bankruptcy petition cannot be filed against the City, the City is only authorized to file for bankruptcy under certain circumstances. Should the City file for bankruptcy, there could be adverse effects on the holders of the 2023A Bonds.

To the extent that the Revenues are “special revenues” under the United States Bankruptcy Code (the “Bankruptcy Code”), then Revenues collected after the date of the bankruptcy filing should be subject to the lien of the Indenture. If any or all of the Revenues are determined not to be “special revenues,” then any such amounts collected after the commencement of the bankruptcy case will likely not be subject to the lien of the Indenture. “Special revenues” are defined to include revenues derived from the ownership or operation of projects or systems that are primarily used to provide utility services. No assurance can be given that a court would hold that any or all Revenues are special revenues. In a case arising from the insolvency proceedings of Puerto Rico, the United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit concluded that while a debtor has the right to voluntarily apply special revenues to the payment of debt service during the pendency of a bankruptcy case, the debtor is not obligated to do so, even though the special revenues are subject to the lien of the bond documents. The holders of the 2023A Bonds may not be able to assert a claim against any property of the City other than the Net Revenues, and if any or all of the Revenues are no longer subject to the lien of the Indenture, then there may be limited, if any, funds from which the holders of the 2023A Bonds are entitled to be paid.

The Bankruptcy Code provides that “special revenues” can be applied to necessary operating expenses of the project or system, before they are applied to other obligations. This rule applies regardless of the provisions of the transaction documents. It is not clear precisely which expenses would constitute necessary operating expenses, and any definition in the transaction documents may not be applicable.

If the City is in bankruptcy, the parties (including the Trustee and the holders of the 2023A Bonds) may be prohibited from taking any action to collect any amount from the City or to enforce any obligation of the City, unless the permission of the bankruptcy court is obtained. These restrictions may also prevent the Trustee from making payments to the holders of the 2023A Bonds from funds in the Trustee’s possession. The rate covenants (see “SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – Rate Covenant; Rates and Charges”) may not be enforceable in bankruptcy by the Trustee or the holders of the 2023A Bonds.

Revenues are deposited with and held by the Treasurer and may be commingled with other City funds. See “SECURITY FOR THE BONDS – Flow of Funds.” If the City goes into bankruptcy, the City may not be required to turn over to the Trustee any Revenues that are in its possession at the time of the bankruptcy filing. In addition, if the City has possession of Revenues (whether collected before or after commencement of the bankruptcy) and if the City does not voluntarily turn over such Revenues to the Trustee, it is not entirely clear what procedures the Trustee and the holders of the 2023A Bonds would have to follow to attempt to obtain possession of such Revenues, how much time it would take for such procedures to be completed, or whether such procedures would ultimately be successful. The United States Court of Appeals for the First Circuit, in another case involving the insolvency proceedings of Puerto Rico, concluded that a bankruptcy court does not have the power to order a debtor to comply with state law.

The City may be able to borrow additional money that is secured by a lien on any of its property (including the Revenues), which lien could have priority over the lien of the Indenture, or to cause some of the Revenues to be released to it, free and clear of the lien of the Indenture, in each case as long as the bankruptcy court determines that the rights of the Trustee and the holders of the 2023A Bonds will be adequately protected.

If the City is in bankruptcy it may be able, without the consent and over the objection of the Trustee and the holders of the 2023A Bonds, to alter the priority, interest rate, principal amount, payment terms, collateral, maturity dates, payment sources, covenants (including tax-related covenants), and other terms or provisions of the Indenture and the 2023A Bonds, as long as the bankruptcy court determines that the alterations are fair and equitable.

There may be delays in payments on the 2023A Bonds while the court considers any of these issues. There may be other possible effects of a bankruptcy of the City that could result in delays or reductions in payments on the 2023A Bonds, or result in losses to the holders of the 2023A Bonds. Regardless of any specific adverse determinations in a City bankruptcy proceeding, the fact of a City bankruptcy proceeding could have an adverse effect on the liquidity and value of the 2023A Bonds.

The SFPUC invests Revenues in the City’s Pooled Investment Fund. See “FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Investment of SFPUC Funds.” In the event of a bankruptcy of the City, there may be delays or reductions in payments on the 2023A Bonds.

Limitations on Remedies

The remedies available to the owners of the Bonds upon the occurrence of an event of default under the Indenture in many respects depend upon judicial actions which are themselves often subject to discretion and delay and could prove both expensive and time consuming to obtain. In addition to the limitations on remedies contained in the Indenture, the rights and obligations under the Bonds and the Indenture may be subject to bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, arrangement, fraudulent conveyance, moratorium and other laws relating to or affecting creditors’ rights, to the application of equitable principles, to the exercise of judicial discretion in appropriate cases and to limitations on legal remedies against charter cities and counties in California. The opinion to be delivered by Bond Counsel, concurrently with the issuance of the 2023A Bonds, that the 2023A Bonds constitute valid and binding limited obligations of the SFPUC and the Indenture constitutes a valid and binding obligation of the SFPUC will also be subject to such limitations and the various other legal opinions to be delivered concurrently with the issuance of the 2023A Bonds will be similarly qualified. See “APPENDIX C – PROPOSED FORM OF OPINION OF BOND COUNSEL.”

If the SFPUC fails to comply with its covenants under the Indenture or to pay principal of or interest on the 2023A Bonds, there can be no assurance that the available legal remedies will be adequate to protect the interests of the holders of the 2023A Bonds.

Loss of Tax Exemption/Risk of Tax Audit of Municipal Issuers

As discussed under “TAX MATTERS,” interest on the 2023A Bonds could fail to be excluded from the gross income of the owners thereof for purposes of federal income taxation retroactive to the date of the issuance of the 2023A Bonds as a result of future acts or omissions of the SFPUC in violation of its covenants to comply with requirements of the Code, as amended. Should such an event of taxability occur, the 2023A Bonds are not subject to redemption or any increase in interest rate and could remain outstanding until maturity.

The Internal Revenue Service (the “IRS”) has an expanded program for the auditing of tax-exempt securities issues, including both random and targeted audits. It is possible that the 2023A Bonds could be selected for audit by the IRS. It is also possible that the market value of the 2023A Bonds might be affected as a result of such an audit of the 2023A Bonds (or by an audit of similar securities).

Change in Tax Law

As discussed under “TAX MATTERS,” current and future legislative proposals, if enacted into law, clarification of the Code or court decisions may cause interest on the 2023A Bonds to be subject, directly or indirectly, in whole or in part, to federal income taxation or to be subject to State income taxation, or otherwise prevent beneficial owners from realizing the full current benefit of the tax status of such interest.

Failure to Maintain Credit Ratings

Certain rating agencies have assigned ratings to the 2023A Bonds. The ratings issued reflect only the views of such rating agencies. Any explanation of the significance of these ratings should be obtained from the respective rating agencies. See “RATINGS.” There is no assurance current ratings will continue for any given period or that such ratings will not be revised downward or withdrawn entirely by the rating agencies if, in the respective judgment of such rating agencies, circumstances so warrant. Any such downward revision or withdrawal of such ratings could be expected to have an adverse effect on the market price or the marketing of the 2023A Bonds. The SFPUC undertakes no obligation to maintain its current credit ratings on the 2023A Bonds or to oppose any such downward revision, suspension or withdrawal.

Secondary Market

There can be no guarantee that there will be a secondary market for the 2023A Bonds or, if a secondary market exists, that the 2023A Bonds can be sold for any particular price. Occasionally, because of general market conditions or because of adverse developments or economic prospects connected with a particular issue, secondary trading practices in connection with a particular issue are suspended or terminated. Additionally, prices of issues for which a market is being made will depend upon then prevailing circumstances. Such prices could be substantially different from the original purchase price.

Uncertainties of Projections, Forecasts and Assumptions

Certain information contained in this Official Statement is based upon assumptions and projections. Projections and assumptions are inherently subject to significant uncertainties. Inevitably, some assumptions will not be realized and unanticipated events and circumstances may occur and actual results are likely to differ, perhaps materially, from those projected. Accordingly, such projections are not necessarily indicative of future performance, and the SFPUC assumes no responsibility for the accuracy of such projections. See “FORWARD-LOOKING STATEMENTS.”

Other Risks

The discussion in this section, “CERTAIN RISK FACTORS,” is not meant to be a comprehensive or definitive list of the risks associated with an investment in the 2023A Bonds. There may be other risks inherent in ownership of the 2023A Bonds in addition to those described in this section. Investors are advised to read the entire Official Statement in order to obtain information necessary to make an investment in the 2023A Bonds.

DEVELOPMENTS IN THE ELECTRICITY MARKETS AND REGULATION

Structure of the Energy Market Today

California's electric system is part of the Western grid, one of three interconnected electric systems that cover the continental United States (the others being the Eastern grid and the Texas Interconnection). In addition to all of California, the Western grid consists of all or part of 13 other Western states, two Canadian provinces, and Baja California, Mexico. The ability of electricity to flow across this grid, subject to transmission availability, creates a regional market for electricity.

Within the Western grid, there are 38 balancing authorities. A balancing authority is an entity responsible for operating a portion of the grid (called a transmission control area or balancing authority area). The balancing authority matches electric generation with load and maintains the electric frequency of the grid.

The CAISO is the largest of the balancing authorities in the western interconnection, handling an estimated 35% of the electric load in the West. The CAISO manages the flow of electricity across the high-voltage, long-distance electric transmission lines that make up 80% of California's and a small part of Nevada's electric grid. The CAISO began operations in 1998 as a result of FERC orders requiring transmission owners to provide nondiscriminatory access to all transmission customers and California's restructuring of the electric industry with the adoption of AB 1890 in 1996. AB 1890 encouraged California's three largest investor-owned electric utilities to turn over operational control of their transmission systems to the CAISO. The goal of AB 1890 was to make California's electric transmission system available on an open and non-discriminatory basis to all generators and electric consumers. The CAISO is a non-profit public benefit corporation overseen by a five-member board appointed by the Governor of the State and confirmed by the State Senate. It is regulated by the FERC.

The CAISO also operates California's wholesale electricity market, using state-of-the-art technology to match demand with the lowest cost energy available at any given time. The CAISO runs an hourly day-ahead market and runs real-time markets every fifteen minutes and every five minutes, facilitating over 28,000 market transactions a day. Although most of California's electric needs are met through longer-term business relationships (such as resource ownership or long-term contracts), the CAISO day-ahead and real-time energy markets provide indicators of the current market price of electricity. The market clearing prices reflect limitations in the transmission system; if an expensive generator must operate because there is inadequate transmission capacity to bring cheaper generation into a constrained area, then all the generators in the constrained area are paid the price bid by the most expensive generator that needs to operate within the constrained area.

The CAISO began financially binding operation of the Western Energy Imbalance Market (the "WEIM") on November 1, 2014. In the beginning, resources were only optimized across the CAISO and PacifiCorp balancing authority areas. Since that time, NV Energy, Arizona Public Service, Puget Sound Energy, Portland General Electric, Idaho Power, Powerex, Balancing Authority of Northern California, Salt River Project, Seattle City Light, Public Service Company of New Mexico, Northwestern Energy, Los Angeles Department of Water and Power, and TID have become participants in the WEIM. The footprint now includes portions of Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, Utah, Washington, and Wyoming, even extending to the Canadian border. The WEIM allows load-serving entities located outside of the CAISO to access the CAISO's real-time energy market which leads to a better balance of supply and demand. The CAISO board of governors and the five-member WEIM governing board jointly govern the real-time market rules affecting the WEIM.

The CAISO also ensures the reliability of its electric system by imposing resource adequacy ("RA") standards upon all load-serving entities within the CAISO. The RA requirements obligate each load-serving entity to procure in advance a specified amount of electricity capacity that must be made available to the CAISO to schedule and dispatch as needed to meet electricity demand. The CAISO currently has three RA obligations that the SFPUC must meet:

- A system-wide obligation to provide capacity sufficient to meet the SFPUC's forecasted peak demand plus a sufficient reserve margin (currently set at 15% of peak demand) ("System RA");

- A flexible capacity obligation to ensure that a pre-determined portion of the capacity used to meet the system-wide obligation is capable of being dispatched and ramping up and down over the course of the day to meet fluctuations between supply and demand (“Flexible RA”); and
- A local capacity requirement to ensure that the CAISO has sufficient capacity in certain sub-regions to ensure reliable service in the event of local reliability issues (“Local RA”).

The CAISO also engages in long-term transmission planning, identifying upgrades or expansions that are needed to meet reliability requirements, providing economic benefits, connecting new generation to the grid and/or achieving public policy goals (such as the development of new renewable generation).

The Power Enterprise’s Relationship to the CAISO

Almost all of the Power Enterprise’s electric loads are scheduled through the CAISO transmission system. The Power Enterprise uses the CAISO’s transmission system to deliver electricity to the Power Enterprise load, as well as to buy and sell surplus electricity. The SFPUC’s high-voltage electric transmission lines are not under the operational control of the CAISO, so the SFPUC and the CAISO have an agreement that coordinates the operation of the SFPUC’s transmission lines with the CAISO system. Some of the SFPUC’s transmission lines are also connected to two other balancing authorities. These are TID, which operates as its own balancing authority area, and the Balancing Authority of Northern California, which includes MID.

As it relates to NERC, the CAISO also serves as the SFPUC’s reliability coordinator, balancing authority and planning coordinator.

Resource Adequacy Requirements

The RA compliance program is intended to ensure there is sufficient electric generating capacity available to the CAISO to meet demand at all times. The RA program requires Load Serving Entities (“LSEs”), such as the Power Enterprise to secure sufficient RA capacity resources to meet forecasted monthly peak demand plus a planning reserve margin to account for unexpected outages, higher than anticipated demand, and other contingencies.

Entities serving electric load in CAISO territory must comply with the RA compliance program requirements. However, the CPUC and other Local Regulatory Authorities (“LRAs”) have the authority to regulate their jurisdictional LSEs with their own RA requirements, as long as they meet CAISO’s minimum standards.

There are currently three RA products that the Power Enterprise must procure to meet the RA compliance program requirements, as further described under “– Structure of the Energy Market Today”: (1) System RA, ensuring sufficient capacity at the CAISO system-wide level; (2) Local RA, ensuring sufficient capacity within smaller transmission-constrained geographic areas throughout PG&E’s planning area in northern and central California; and (3) Flexible RA, ensuring sufficient ramping capacity to address short periods of high demand or quickly dropping demand. The Hetch Hetchy Project provides sufficient capacity to meet its own System RA; however, it is not within any of the CAISO’s transmission-constrained geographic areas throughout PG&E’s planning area, and therefore cannot be used to meet Local RA obligations.

Extended Day-Ahead Market

The CAISO is investigating extending the operation of its day-ahead market to the entire WEIM footprint, with the expectation that doing so would allow for a more efficient unit commitment, reductions in required reserves and more efficient utilization of the transmission system. Before it could do so, the CAISO would need to address important issues such as transmission access charge cost allocation, congestion revenue rights allocation, minimum RA requirements, participation commitment requirements, and governance issues. The SFPUC is participating in the ongoing stakeholder process to advocate for its interests and to anticipate potential impacts of proposed rules changes.

On-Going Market Changes

The CAISO market is continually evolving to reflect changes in business needs, technological changes, and federal law and regulation.

Federal Law and Regulation

Federal Energy Regulatory Commission

The Federal Power Act, as amended, gives FERC the authority to regulate the interstate transmission of electric energy and the sale, at wholesale, of electric energy. FERC is vested with “jurisdiction over all facilities for such transmission or sale” as well as the requirement to ensure that the rates and charges for these services as well as “any rule, regulation, practice, or contract affecting such rate, charge or classification,” are not “unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential.”

Under the Federal Power Act, states retain authority over “any other sale of electric energy” and facilities used for “generation of electric energy,” “local distribution” or “transmission of electric energy in intrastate commerce.” POU’s like the SFPUC are also generally exempt from FERC regulation, except for regulations pertaining to electric system reliability. POU’s are affected by FERC regulation, however, to the extent they rely on FERC-regulated transmission services or energy purchases to meet their needs. Additionally, FERC has adopted a reciprocity requirement, under FERC Order 888 (as described below), that a POU that benefits from the open-access requirements of a FERC-regulated transmission provider must offer comparable open-access. To date none of the Power Facilities or related transmission lines have been subject to a comparable open-access request. In addition, certain FERC regulatory requirements, such as the licensing of dams, are applicable to POU’s, but not to the Hetch Hetchy Project as a result of specific exemptions for such facilities in the Federal Power Act.

FERC is the primary regulatory agency overseeing the rates, rules and regulations that the CAISO has established for its operation. As noted above, the Power Enterprise relies on the CAISO’s transmission system to deliver energy to its load, and is subject to the CAISO’s resource adequacy requirements which are also FERC-regulated. FERC is also responsible for regulation of the wholesale energy market. This regulation affects the price that the Power Enterprise may pay for energy purchases from FERC-regulated entities, as well as non-Raker Act energy sales. The Power Enterprise’s wholesale sales of excess energy to other public entities (which includes all sales of electric energy subject to the Raker Act) are not subject to FERC jurisdiction, but the price for such sales is generally influenced by the broader Western energy market which is largely under FERC jurisdiction. Power Enterprise wholesale sales to other public entities may also involve the use of FERC-regulated transmission services to deliver the electricity.

When Congress initially enacted the Federal Power Act in 1935, electric utilities were mostly vertically integrated firms that constructed and operated their own generation, transmission and distribution facilities. The firms acted as separate, local monopolies, and consumers paid a single “bundled” rate for delivered electricity. Sixty years later, the electric industry had experienced fundamental changes: electric systems had become increasingly interconnected, long-distance transmission had become increasingly economical, and smaller, lower-cost electric generating plants had begun to emerge as competitors to the vertically integrated utilities.

FERC responded to these changes and market conditions by adopting reforms to the electric industry that were designed to promote competition and create a competitive wholesale market for electricity. In FERC Order 888, FERC required each transmission provider subject to FERC regulation to “functional[ly] unbundle” its wholesale generation and transmission services and file an open-access transmission tariff that would allow non-discriminatory access to each utility’s transmission system (bracketed language added). The goal of this change was to allow customers to have the benefits of competitively priced generation. To promote development of competitive markets, FERC encouraged the formation of regional transmission organizations and independent system operators such as the CAISO to coordinate the use, operation, and planning of a region's transmission system.

One of the results of FERC Order 888 is a competitive Western-wide wholesale energy market. FERC has adopted a pro-competition policy of letting prices in these markets be set by market forces, subject to FERC retaining authority to address instances of market abuse and manipulation.

FERC has also moved to make the market for transmission services more efficient and competitive. FERC Order 890 requires each FERC-regulated transmission provider to establish an open, transparent and coordinated transmission planning process. The CAISO utilizes a yearly transmission planning process to meet its requirements under FERC Order 890. FERC Order 1000 goes a step further and now requires inter-regional transmission planning, the development of methodologies to allocate the costs of inter-regional transmission facilities as well as allowing for competition among transmission developers to build new projects identified as needed as a result of the transmission planning process.

North American Electric Reliability Corporation

The Energy Policy Act of 2005 required FERC to certify an Electric Reliability Organization (“ERO”) to develop mandatory and enforceable reliability standards (“Reliability Standards”), subject to FERC review and approval. On July 20, 2006, FERC certified NERC as an ERO. The reliability standards developed by NERC and adopted by FERC apply to entities included on NERC's Compliance Registry of users, owners and operators of the Bulk Power System that are material to the reliable operation of the Bulk Power System, as more specifically set forth in each Reliability Standard. Many Reliability Standards have since been approved by FERC.

FERC has adopted mandatory electric reliability standards developed by the North American Electric Reliability Corporation (“NERC”) and enforced in the western region of the United States by the Western Electric Coordinating Council (“WECC”). These standards require all entities that are a part of the bulk power system to demonstrate their ability to ensure reliability for all operations. The SFPUC owns both transmission and generation assets that are part of the bulk electric system and therefore are required to register and demonstrate compliance (or plans to mitigate non-compliance) in several operational areas. The SFPUC is subject to over 1,000 requirements.

NERC and its Regional Entities (“Regional Entities”) may enforce the Reliability Standards, subject to FERC oversight or FERC may independently enforce the Reliability Standards. The WECC is the Regional Entity for the western region. Potential monetary sanctions include fines of up to $1.31 million per violation per day. FERC has provided NERC and the Regional Entities with the discretion necessary to assess penalties for such violations within an appropriate range, pursuant to NERC's FERC-approved Sanction Guidelines. In exercising its independent enforcement authority, FERC applies its own September 17, 2010, Revised Policy Statement on Penalty Guidelines. FERC clarified that it would not apply its Revised Policy Statement on Penalty Guidelines in its review of penalties assessed by NERC under the NERC Sanction Guidelines.

The SFPUC's compliance program is audited every three years by WECC. In June 2023, WECC completed its 2023 Compliance Audit covering the period May 2020 through February 2023. The audit concluded with “No Findings” for all requirements within audit scope, and included two positive observations on the SFPUC's compliance program.

FERC Hydroelectric Licensing

Under the Federal Power Act, FERC is also responsible for the licensing of hydroelectric plants within the United States. The Hetch Hetchy Project, however, predates FERC's authority and is exempt from FERC regulation pursuant to specific “grandfathering” provisions in the Federal Power Act. The New Don Pedro Project, owned and operated by the Districts, is subject to FERC regulation and is currently undergoing re-licensing. See “THE HETCH HETCHY PROJECT – FERC Proceeding Regarding Relicensing of the New Don Pedro Project.”

California State Law and Regulation

State Constitution

Article XI, Section 9(a) of the State Constitution allows municipal corporations, such as the City, to “establish, purchase, and operate public works to furnish its inhabitants with light, water, power, heat, transportation, or means of communication.” As a result, the SFPUC has significant discretion to establish its own rules and procedures for operating its electric utility subject to those areas where either the State has asserted jurisdiction or there is an issue of federal pre-emption.

The following is a list of California legislation that affects the Power Enterprise’s electric operations and the SFPUC’s compliance with these requirements.

Assembly Bill 32; California Air Resources Board Scoping Plan; Cap and Trade

State Assembly Bill 32 (2006) (“AB 32”), known as the Global Warming Solutions Act of 2006, required the California Air Resources Board (“CARB”) to adopt policies and regulations to reduce GHG emissions to 1990 levels by 2020. On December 11, 2008, CARB adopted a “scoping plan” identifying the market structures, prescriptive regulations, fees and voluntary measures that needed to be developed and implemented by CARB and other State agencies to achieve this goal. Among the measures identified in the scoping plan that could potentially affect the SFPUC were proposals to increase energy efficiency, promote renewable energy and distributed generation, and to increase electrification of motor vehicles.

The scoping plan included a cap-and-trade system covering approximately 85% of all GHG emissions in California that was approved by CARB on December 16, 2010 and became enforceable starting on January 1, 2013. In 2014 the program was expanded to include the province of Quebec, Canada.

For electric utilities, the cap-and-trade compliance obligation is placed on the “first deliverers” of electric energy. First deliverers include those who generate electric energy in state or those who first import energy into California from out-of-state. As the Power Enterprise’s electric generation resources do not emit CO<sub>2</sub> and the Power Enterprise does not purchase electric energy directly from out-of-state, the Power Enterprise has no compliance obligation under the program and is not a covered entity. GHG emissions from the Power Enterprise’s operation of the natural gas system at Treasure Island are also below the 25,000 ton CO<sub>2</sub> level that would trigger a compliance obligation.

Under the cap-and-trade program, electric distribution utilities (“EDUs”) such as the SFPUC receive a designated amount of allowances set by regulation. One purpose of these allowances is to compensate EDUs at least partially for the higher prices they may incur for purchasing electric energy that now has a compliance obligation. The EDU must either use the allowances to meet its own compliance obligations or put its allowances up for sale at quarterly auctions run by CARB. These allowances also serve a second purpose of covering for any potential “emissions leakage” from acquiring electricity through the WEIM. CARB directly reduces the allowance allocation to EDUs to reflect their electricity purchases through the WEIM. All remaining allowances provided to EDUs must be used to benefit the utility’s ratepayers. Because the SFPUC does not have a compliance obligation under the program, the SFPUC must sell all of its remaining allowances through the auction process and uses the proceeds to benefit ratepayers as required by the cap-and-trade program.

Senate Bill 32; Assembly Bill 398; Assembly Bill 1279; California Air Resources Board Scoping Plan; Cap and Trade

State Senate Bill 32 (2016) (“SB 32”), known as the California Global Warming Solutions Act of 2016, requires GHG emissions reductions target of at least 40% below 1990 levels by 2030. State Assembly Bill 398 (2017) (“AB 398”) codified the continuation of the cap and trade program and required some post 2020 modifications to the program. State Assembly Bill 1279 (2022), known as the California Climate Crisis Act, requires the State to achieve net zero GHG emissions by 2045. As required by AB 32, CARB continues to update its scoping plan at least every five years identifying potential future measures to reduce GHG emissions. In its most recent scoping plan update conducted in 2022, CARB proposed changes to the cap-and-trade program to align the program with the accelerated 2030 targets and the net zero GHG targets by 2045. As part of these changes, more ambitious reductions are anticipated from the electricity sector. CARB has released a notice in February 2023 confirming that changes are expected to the cap-and-trade program and has determined that the CEQA administrative record for the amendments commenced on February 13, 2023, but a formal rulemaking has not yet commenced.

Senate Bill 350; Integrated Resource Plan

State Senate Bill 350 (2015) requires all of California's large POU, including the Power Enterprise, to submit an Integrated Resources Plan ("IRP") that shows how each POU will meet California's environmental and energy policy goals. The IRP is required to be updated once every five years. The current IRP for Hetch Hetchy Power was filed in February 2019 and subsequently approved by the California Energy Commission in June 2019. The current IRP described the Power Enterprise's plans to continue to provide 100% zero-GHG renewable energy to its customers through 2030, comply with RPS program requirements, and provide reliable electric service to meet its customer needs. The SFPUC is currently working on the next IRP, which is due in 2024.

Renewable Portfolio Standard

The California Renewable Energy Resources Act (the "CRERA"), effective as of December 10, 2011, established requirements for the procurement of eligible renewable resources ("Renewable Portfolio Standards" or "RPS") for California's retail sellers of electricity, including local POU, such as the Power Enterprise. Eligible renewable resources include wind, solar, geothermal, biomass, wave/tidal energy and hydroelectric generation that meets certain criteria.

The CRERA generally requires all electric utilities, CCAs and energy service providers to procure 33% of their retail energy needs from renewable energy by 2020. State Senate Bill 350 (2015) set a new RPS target for 2030 of 50% which was further increased to 60% by the enactment of State Senate Bill 100 (2018) ("SB 100"). SB 100 also established a policy to achieve 100% of total retail sales from eligible renewable energy resources and zero-carbon resources by December 31, 2045. The CRERA recognized that imposing a 60% RPS obligation upon the Power Enterprise would have resulted in the Power Enterprise having to displace one zero-GHG energy resource (Hetch Hetchy Project hydroelectric energy) with another zero-GHG resource (eligible renewable resources) without any reduction in GHG emissions and significantly increased costs to the SFPUC. As a result, the CRERA established an alternative compliance obligation for the Power Enterprise. Provided that the Power Enterprise receives greater than 67% of its electricity demands from the Hetch Hetchy Project, the SFPUC is only required to procure eligible renewable energy resources for its electric demands unmet by the Hetch Hetchy Project. Since the enactment of CRERA in 2011, the Power Enterprise has met its RPS obligations for every year, historically meeting about 97% of its electric demands from its Hetch Hetchy Project generation, and in most years close to 100%. As a result, the Power Enterprise generally needs to procure only small amounts of eligible renewable energy annually to meet its RPS obligations under the CRERA. Almost all of this need can be met by RPS-eligible generation from the Power Enterprise's Kirkwood Powerhouse generating units. The Power Enterprise has additionally accumulated a significant surplus of renewable energy credits from this generation that can be banked and used for future compliance if needed. This banked renewable energy credits makes it unlikely that the Power Enterprise would need to procure additional RPS-eligible energy from third-parties and if this were needed, the amounts to be acquired would be relatively small and consistent with the Power Enterprise's budget for purchased power.

For POU, the initial responsibility for enforcing the CRERA's requirements is placed upon the POU. To ensure that the Power Enterprise can meet applicable RPS requirements, the SFPUC adopted an enforcement program on December 13, 2011 (Resolution 11-0202), which directed staff to develop a procurement plan that was also adopted by the Commission (Resolution 12-0217). The procurement plan identifies the Power Enterprise's requirements under the RPS, identifies the exceptions allowed under the RPS that would allow the Power Enterprise to defer or delay meeting the RPS requirements, establishes the process for forecasting and procuring any additional RPS-eligible supplies needed to meet the RPS requirements (including unexpected contingencies).

Resource Adequacy Requirements

Section 9620 of the California Public Utilities Code requires each POU to develop its own resource adequacy requirement and to “prudently plan for and procure resources that are adequate to meet its planning reserve margin and peak demand and operating reserves, sufficient to provide reliable electric service to its customers.” This requirement is similar to the RA requirements established by the CAISO. See “ – The Power Enterprise’s Relationship to the CAISO – Resource Adequacy Requirements.” FERC has authorized the CAISO to apply its own RA rules to any utility that has not adopted an RA program. To comply with Section 9620 of the California Public Utilities Code, on May 23, 2006, the SFPUC adopted, in its Resolution 06-0087, an Interim Utility Resource Adequacy Plan. The Interim Utility Resource Adequacy Plan established a 15% reserve margin and established forecasting and reporting requirements to meet the California Public Utilities Code’s requirements. The Power Enterprise must demonstrate compliance with resource requirements set by the CAISO.

As discussed above, the Hetch Hetchy project complies with the CAISO’s RA program. The Hetch Hetchy Project, as discussed above, generates enough System RA attributes to meet its obligations, but not enough to meet its Flexible or Local RA obligations.

Energy Loading Order

State Senate Bill 1037 (2005), effective January 1, 2006, requires POUs to first acquire all available energy efficiency, demand reduction and renewable resources that are cost effective, reliable and feasible prior to procuring new energy generation resources. This requirement is similar to the Energy Action Plan adopted jointly by the CPUC, the California Energy Commission and the California Power Authority to establish an “energy loading order” for California’s electric utilities that focuses first on decreasing electricity demand by increasing energy efficiency and demand response, then meeting new generation needs first with renewable and distributed generation resources, and lastly with clean fossil-fueled generation.

In 2008, the Board of Supervisors, in its Resolution 227-08, adopted the policy goals outlined in the Energy Action Plan and energy loading order to guide SFPUC energy procurement. San Francisco’s 2011 Updated Electricity Resource Plan, approved by the SFPUC in its Resolution 11-0035 and by the Board of Supervisors in its Resolution 349-11, reaffirmed the use of the energy loading order to meet future energy needs.

State Assembly Bill 2021 (2006), signed by then-Governor Schwarzenegger on September 29, 2006, requires that POUs establish, report and explain the basis of their annual energy efficiency and demand reduction targets over a 10-year planning horizon. The SFPUC submits annual reports to the California Energy Commission through the California Municipal Utilities Association, which submitted its 16th Edition report in 2022.

Community Choice Aggregation Service

State law allows a local government entity to sell electricity directly to customers within the entity’s jurisdiction through a CCA program when the customers in that jurisdiction are served by a for profit, investor-owned utility. Under a CCA program, a public entity could develop a portfolio of energy supplies that it purchased or produced to meet specific local targets for renewable energy or to meet other policy and service objectives. Transmission and distribution services would continue to be provided by the investor-owned utility subject to CPUC tariffs. Under State law, customers within a CCA’s jurisdiction may choose to opt-out of the program.

The SFPUC began serving customers through CleanPowerSF, a CCA program, in May 2016. CleanPowerSF is subject to CPUC rules and oversight for implementing State laws including those related to RA, IRP, and RPS, and is “Separate System” under the Indenture. See “INTRODUCTION – The San Francisco Public Utilities Commission and the Power Enterprise” and “THE PUBLIC UTILITIES COMMISSION – Organization, Purposes and Powers – CleanPowerSF.” The development of the CCA market in California, with 25 operational CCA programs serving more than 14 million customers in over 200 cities and counties throughout California, has resulted in more Raker Act-eligible wholesale counterparties for the Power Enterprise.

Energy Storage

State Assembly Bill 2514 (2010) (“AB 2514”) requires POU’s to determine appropriate targets, if any, to procure viable and cost-effective energy storage systems to be achieved by December 31, 2016, and December 31, 2020. In response to AB 2514, the SFPUC determined in its Resolution 14-0147 that it had no near-term need for energy storage services apart from the potential use of energy storage to fulfill Local Resource Adequacy Capacity requirements, which was not cost-effective at that time. The SFPUC also decided to continue to evaluate energy storage as a procurement option going forward and to identify a pilot energy storage project. The Power Enterprise installed a solar and battery storage system in San Francisco, which became operational in 2021.

State Law Requirements Affecting Investor-Owned Utilities

The California State Constitution (Article XII) gives the CPUC the authority to regulate “[p]rivate corporations and persons that own, operate, control, or manage the production, generation, transmission, or furnishing of heat, light, water [or] power directly or indirectly to or for the public” (bracketed language added). The CPUC does not have authority over the rates and services offered by POU’s such as the Power Enterprise, but the CPUC’s regulation of investor-owned utilities, particularly PG&E, can affect the SFPUC’s operations and programs, especially as to safety standards.

Much of the SFPUC’s electric load is served off of PG&E’s distribution system, and the SFPUC relies on PG&E’s transmission system (albeit under operational control of the CAISO) to deliver energy supplies to its load. These wholesale transactions are regulated by FERC. See “– Federal Law and Regulation.” Where SFPUC provides electric service to retail customers in the City, it does so in competition with PG&E. PG&E and Trans Bay Cable are subject to regulation by FERC with respect to applicable wholesale transactions and electricity transmission.

Future Regulation and Other Factors

The electric industry has been highly regulated throughout its history and is subject to continuing legislative and administrative regulation and reform. State and federal entities routinely consider changes to the regulations governing the electric industry. Recent proposals have included both those aimed at further deregulating the industry and those proposing additional regulations. The SFPUC is unable to predict at this time the impact any such proposals will have on the operations and finances of the SFPUC or the electric utility industry generally.

The electric utility industry in general has been, and in the future may be, affected by a number of other factors which could impact the financial condition and competitiveness of many electric utilities and the level of utilization of generating and transmission facilities. In addition to the factors discussed above, such factors include, among others, (a) the effects of compliance with rapidly changing environmental, safety, licensing, regulatory and legislative requirements other than those described above; (b) changes resulting from conservation and demand side management programs on the timing and use of electric energy; (c) changes resulting from a national energy policy; (d) the effects of competition from other electric utilities (including increased competition resulting from mergers, acquisitions, and “strategic alliances” of competing electric and natural gas utilities and from competitors transmitting less expensive electricity from much greater distances over an interconnected system); (e) the development and deployment of new methods of, and new facilities for, producing electricity at competitive prices; (f) the repeal of certain federal statutes that would have the effect of increasing the competitiveness of many investor owned utilities; (g) increased competition from independent power producers and marketers, brokers and federal power marketing agencies; (h) “self-generation” or “distributed generation” (for example, solar power, microturbines and fuel cells) by customers and others; (i) current and future requirements relating to the SFPUC’s ability to issue tax-exempt obligations, including restrictions on sales to non-qualified entities of the electricity from generation projects and transmission service from transmission line projects financed with tax-exempt obligations; (j) the effects of inflation on the operating and maintenance costs of electric utilities and their facilities; (k) actual results that differ from projected future load requirements; (l) increases in costs and uncertain availability of capital; (m) shifts in the availability and relative costs of different fuels (including the cost of natural gas); (n) sudden and dramatic increases in the price of energy purchased on the open market that may occur in times of high peak demand in an area of the country experiencing such high peak demand, as occurred, for example, in California’s energy crisis in 2000 and 2001; (o) issues relating to risk management procedures and practices with respect to, among other things, the purchase and sale of natural gas, energy and transmission capacity; (p) other legislative changes, voter initiatives, referenda and statewide propositions; (q) the effects of changes in the local, State, national or global economy; (r) supply chain disruptions; (s) the effects of possible manipulation of the electric markets; (t) natural disasters or other physical calamities, including, but not limited to, earthquakes and flood; (u) climate change and related regulations; and (v) issues relating to cybersecurity. Any of these factors (as well as other factors) could have an adverse effect on the financial condition of an electric utility, including the Power Enterprise.

This Official Statement includes a brief discussion of certain of the factors identified in the previous paragraph. It does not purport to be comprehensive or definitive, and these matters are subject to change subsequent to the date hereof. Extensive information on the electric utility industry is available from legislative and regulatory bodies and other sources in the public domain, and potential purchasers of the 2023A Bonds should obtain and review such information. The SFPUC is unable to predict what impact such factors will have on the SFPUC's electric system or the business operations and financial condition of the Power Enterprise, but such impacts could be significant. To the extent described herein, the SFPUC has taken steps to mitigate the potential impacts of a number of these factors.

State Law Limitations

Proposition 218. Proposition 218, a State ballot initiative known as the “Right to Vote on Taxes Act,” was approved by California voters in 1996. The initiative added Articles XIIC and XIID to the California Constitution. Article XIID creates additional requirements for the imposition by most local governments (including the SFPUC) of general taxes, special taxes, assessments and “property-related” fees and charges. Article XIID explicitly exempts fees and charges for the provision of electric service from its provisions.

Article XIIC extends the people's initiative powers to the reduction or repeal of local taxes, assessments and fees and charges imposed prior to its effective date (November 1996). The California Supreme Court in Bighorn-Desert View Water Agency v. Verjil, 46 Cal.Rptr.3d 73 (2006) concluded that, under Article XIIC, local voters by initiative may reduce a public agency's water rates and delivery charges, as those are “property related” fees or charges within the meaning of Article XIID. As the terms “fees” and “charges” are not defined in Article XIIC, however, its extension of the initiative powers may apply not only to “property-related” fees and charges, as defined in Article XIID, but also, for example, to fees and charges for the provision of electric services which are exempted from Article XIID. The California appellate court suggested as much in Bock v. City Council of Lompoc, 109 Cal.App.3d 43 (1980). The SFPUC is unable to determine whether the California courts will hold that rates for electric service are subject to the initiative process or, if they are, what limitations will apply to that process.

Proposition 26. The California electorate adopted Proposition 26 at the November 2, 2010 election, amending Article XIIC of the California Constitution. Proposition 26 imposes a majority voter approval requirement on local governments such as the City with respect to certain fees and charges for general purposes, and a two-thirds voter approval requirement with respect to certain fees and charges for special purposes. The initiative was designed to supplement tax limitations California voters adopted when they approved Proposition 13 in 1978, and other measures. Proposition 26 applies by its terms to any levy, charge or exaction imposed, increased or extended by a local government on or after November 3, 2010. Proposition 26 deems any such levy, charge or fee to be a “tax”, requiring voter approval unless it comes within one of the listed exceptions. Proposition 26 expressly excludes from its definition of a “tax”, among other things, a charge imposed for a specific government service or product provided directly to the payor that is not provided to those not charged, and which does not exceed the reasonable costs to the local government of providing the service or product.

Proposition 26 is subject to interpretation by California courts, including the extent to which it is applicable to pre-existing electric rates and general fund transfers. A number of lawsuits have been filed against public agencies in California relating to electric utility fund transfers. In Citizens for Fair REU Rates v. City of Redding (filed on January 20, 2015 and modified on February 19, 2015), for example, the California Court of Appeal considered a ratepayer challenge to a “payment in lieu of taxes” (or “PILOT”) required by the City of Redding to be made by its electric utility as an annual budgetary transfer amount without voter approval. The city's PILOT was designed to compensate the general fund for the costs of services that other city departments provide to the electric utility. The amount of the PILOT was equivalent to the ad valorem taxes the electric utility would have had to pay if the electric utility were privately owned. The suits alleged that the PILOT was passed through to the city's electric utility customers as part of the rates and charges for electric service in excess of the reasonable costs to the city of providing electric service. The Court of Appeal determined that Proposition 26 has no retroactive effect as to local taxes that existed prior to November 3, 2010, but found that since the PILOT was subject to the city council's recurring discretion, the PILOT did not escape the purview of Proposition 26. The Court of Appeal concluded that the PILOT constituted a "tax" under Proposition 26 for which the city must secure voter approval unless the city proved that the amount collected was necessary to cover the reasonable costs to the city of providing electric service. On April 29, 2015, the California Supreme Court granted review of the decision of the Court of Appeal. The California Supreme Court rendered its decision on August 27, 2018, reversing the judgment of the Court of Appeal. The California Supreme Court determined that the budgetary transfer from the Redding electric utility to the city's general fund, calculated by using the PILOT, itself is not the type of exaction that is subject to Article XIII C of the California Constitution. The court reasoned that it is only the Redding electric utility rate, not the PILOT, that is imposed on customers for electric service. The California Supreme Court concluded that the challenged rate did not exceed the reasonable costs of providing electric service, and therefore did not constitute a tax.

The City does not collect a "payment in lieu of taxes" payable from the Power Enterprise, but the SFPUC does make transfers to the City's General Fund from the Power Enterprise for direct services provided to the Power Enterprise and for general City overhead costs allocable to the Power Enterprise. See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Payments to/from the City." In addition, the City's General Fund as well as various City departments and agencies which are supported by the City's General Fund pay rates for power delivered by the Power Enterprise that are lower than those paid by other Power Enterprise customers of a comparable class. See "FINANCIAL OPERATIONS – Rate-Setting Process; Rates." The SFPUC is unable to predict the ultimate impact of Proposition 26 on the SFPUC and its charges for electricity.

Initiative 1935. A voter initiative entitled "The Taxpayer Protection and Government Accountability Act" ("Initiative 1935") has been determined to be eligible for the November 2024 Statewide general election and, unless withdrawn by its proponent prior to June 27, 2024, will be certified as qualified for the ballot in such election. Were it to be adopted by a majority of voters in the Statewide general election, Initiative 1935 would amend the California Constitution to, among other things, provide that charges for services or product provided directly to the payor (such as charges for power) are "taxes" subject to voter approval unless the local government can prove by clear and convincing evidence that the charge is reasonable and does not exceed the "actual cost" of providing the service or product, defined as "(i) the minimum amount necessary to reimburse the government for the cost of providing the service or the product to the payor and (ii) where the amount charged is not used by the government for any purpose other than reimbursing that cost." If adopted, Initiative 1935 would be subject to judicial interpretation. The SFPUC is unable to predict whether and how Initiative 1935, if adopted, would be interpreted by the courts, and there can be no assurance that any such interpretation or application would not have an adverse impact on the SFPUC, the Power Enterprise or Power Revenues.

Charter Limitations

The Charter generally requires that bonds (such as the Bonds) secured by revenues, other than refunding bonds, may be issued only with the assent of a majority of voters. The Charter, however, provides for specified exceptions to the voter approval requirement. See "OBLIGATIONS PAYABLE FROM REVENUES – Authority for Issuance of Revenue Bonds and Other Obligations Payable from Revenues."

Initiative Measures and Charter Amendments

Articles XIII C and XIII D of the California Constitution and Proposition 26 were adopted pursuant to the State's initiative process. From time to time other initiative measures could be adopted by State voters, or by voters of San Francisco, placing additional limitations on the ability of the SFPUC to increase revenues.

The voters could adopt additional Charter amendments in the future that could limit the ability of the SFPUC to issue debt, affect the operation of the Power Enterprise, limit the ability of the SFPUC to enact rate increases, or implement other changes affecting the SFPUC and the Power Enterprise.

LITIGATION

The SFPUC is not aware of any litigation pending or threatened questioning the political existence of the City or the SFPUC or contesting the SFPUC's power to fix electric rates and charges, or in any way questioning or affecting:

- (i) the proceedings under which the 2023A Bonds are to be issued;
- (ii) the validity of any provision of the 2023A Bonds or the Indenture;
- (iii) the pledge of Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and any Priority R&R Fund Deposits, by the SFPUC under the Indenture; or
- (iv) the titles to office of the present members of the Board of Supervisors and the Commission.

There are a number of suits and claims pending against the City and the SFPUC, which may include personal injury, wrongful death and other suits and claims against which the City may self-insure. The aggregate amount of the self-insured liabilities of the City and the SFPUC which may result from such suits and claims if determined adversely to the City or the SFPUC will not, in the opinion of the City Attorney, materially impair the ability of the SFPUC to pay principal of or interest on the 2023A Bonds as they become due. There is no litigation pending, with service of process having been accomplished, against the City or the SFPUC which if determined adversely to the City or the SFPUC would, in the opinion of the City Attorney, materially impair the ability of the SFPUC to pay principal of and interest on the 2023A Bonds as they become due.

TAX MATTERS

In the opinion of Stradling Yocca Carlson & Rauth, a Professional Corporation, Bond Counsel, under existing statutes, regulations, rulings and judicial decisions, and assuming the accuracy of certain representations and compliance with certain covenants and requirements described herein, interest on the 2023A Bonds is excluded from gross income for federal income tax purposes and is not an item of tax preference for purposes of calculating the federal alternative minimum tax imposed on individuals. However, it should be noted that for tax years beginning after December 31, 2022, with respect to applicable corporations as defined in Section 59(k) of the Code, generally certain corporations with more than $1,000,000,000 of average annual adjusted financial statement income, interest with respect to the 2023A Bonds might be taken into account in determining adjusted financial statement income for purposes of computing the alternative minimum tax imposed by Section 55 of the Code on such corporations. In the further opinion of Bond Counsel, interest on the 2023A Bonds is exempt from State of California personal income tax.

Bond Counsel's opinion as to the exclusion from gross income for federal income tax purposes of interest on the 2023A Bonds is based upon certain representations of fact and certifications made by the SFPUC and others and is subject to the condition that the SFPUC comply with all requirements of the Code that must be satisfied subsequent to the issuance of the 2023A Bonds to assure that interest on the 2023A Bonds will not become includable in gross income for federal income tax purposes. Failure to comply with such requirements of the Code might cause interest on the 2023A Bonds to be included in gross income for federal income tax purposes retroactive to the date of issuance of the 2023A Bonds. The SFPUC has covenanted to comply with all such requirements.

The amount by which a 2023A Bond owner's original basis for determining loss on sale or exchange in the applicable 2023A Bond (generally, the purchase price) exceeds the amount payable on maturity (or on an earlier call date) constitutes amortizable bond premium, which must be amortized under Section 171 of the Code; such amortizable bond premium reduces the owner's basis in the applicable bond (and the amount of tax-exempt interest received), and is not deductible for federal income tax purposes. The basis reduction as a result of the amortization of bond premium may result in an owner realizing a taxable gain when a 2023A Bond is sold by the owner for an amount equal to or less (under certain circumstances) than the original cost of the 2023A Bond to the owner. Purchasers of the 2023A Bonds should consult their own tax advisors as to the treatment, computation and collateral consequences of amortizable bond premium.

The IRS has initiated an expanded program for the auditing of tax exempt bond issues, including both random and targeted audits. It is possible that the 2023A Bonds will be selected for audit by the IRS. It is also possible that the market value of the 2023A Bonds might be affected as a result of such an audit of the 2023A Bonds (or by an audit of similar municipal obligations). No assurance can be given that in the course of an audit, as a result of an audit, or otherwise, Congress or the IRS might not change the Code (or interpretation thereof) subsequent to the issuance of the 2023A Bonds to the extent that it materially adversely affects the exclusion from gross income of interest on the 2023A Bonds or their market value.

Subsequent to the issuance of the 2023A Bonds there might be federal, state, or local statutory changes (or judicial or regulatory changes to or interpretations of federal, state, or local law) that affect the federal, state, or local tax treatment of the 2023A Bonds including the imposition of additional federal income or state taxes on owners of tax-exempt state or local obligations, such as the 2023A Bonds. The introduction or enactment of any of such changes could adversely affect the market value or liquidity of the 2023A Bonds. No assurance can be given that subsequent to the issuance of the 2023A Bonds statutory changes will not be introduced or enacted or judicial or regulatory interpretations will not occur having the effects described above. Before purchasing any of the 2023A Bonds, all potential purchasers should consult their tax advisors regarding possible statutory changes or judicial or regulatory changes or interpretations, and their collateral tax consequences relating to the 2023A Bonds.

Bond Counsel's opinion with respect to the 2023A Bonds may be affected by actions taken (or not taken) or events occurring (or not occurring) after the date of issuance of the 2023A Bonds. Bond Counsel has not undertaken to determine, or to inform any person, whether any such actions or events are taken or do occur. The Indenture and the Tax Certificate relating to the 2023A Bonds permit certain actions to be taken or to be omitted if a favorable opinion of Bond Counsel is provided with respect thereto. Bond Counsel expresses no opinion as to the effect on the exclusion from gross income of interest on the 2023A Bonds for federal income tax purposes with respect to any 2023A Bond if any such action is taken or omitted based upon the advice of counsel other than Stradling Yocca Carlson & Rauth, a Professional Corporation.

Although Bond Counsel has rendered its opinion that interest on the 2023A Bonds is excluded from gross income for federal income tax purposes provided that the SFPUC continues to comply with certain requirements of the Code, the ownership of the 2023A Bonds and the accrual or receipt of interest on the 2023A Bonds may otherwise affect the tax liability of certain persons. Bond Counsel expresses no opinion regarding any such tax consequences. Accordingly, before purchasing any of the 2023A Bonds, all potential purchasers should consult their tax advisors with respect to collateral tax consequences relating to the 2023A Bonds.

A copy of the proposed form of opinion of Bond Counsel relating to the 2023A Bonds is included in Appendix C hereto.

RATINGS

The 2023A Bonds have been rated “AA” by S&P Global Ratings, a division of Standard & Poor’s Financial Services LLC (“S&P”) and “AA-” by Fitch Ratings, Inc. (“Fitch”). The ratings assigned by S&P and Fitch express only the views of the respective rating agencies. The explanation of the significance of these ratings, and any outlook associated with these ratings, may be obtained from S&P and Fitch, respectively. Each rating agency generally bases its rating on its own investigations, studies, and assumptions. The SFPUC has provided certain additional information and materials to the rating agencies (some of which does not appear in this Official Statement).

A securities rating is not a recommendation to buy, sell or hold securities and may be subject to revision or withdrawal at any time. There is no assurance such ratings will continue for any given period of time or that such ratings will not be revised downward or withdrawn entirely by the rating agencies, if in the judgment of such rating agencies, circumstances so warrant. Any such downward revision or withdrawal of such ratings may have an adverse effect on the market price of the 2023A Bonds. The SFPUC undertakes no responsibility to maintain its current ratings on the 2023A Bonds or to oppose any such downward revision, suspension or withdrawal.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, nothing in the Indenture shall prevent additional security being provided for a particular Series of Bonds under any Supplemental Trust Indenture.

Other Funds and Accounts

Bond Funds.

(a) There is created under the Indenture for each Series of Bonds a special fund of the SFPUC to be known as the “Power Enterprise Revenue Bonds, Series ____ Bond Fund” (each, a “Bond Fund”). Each Bond Fund and the accounts therein will be held and administered by the Trustee appointed as provided for in the Indenture, and will be used solely for the purpose of paying the Bonds and the Swap Agreement Payments of the related Series in the manner provided in the Indenture. The SFPUC obligates and binds itself irrevocably to set aside and to pay to the Trustee (to the extent not otherwise provided) out of the Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses, in trust for the account of the Bond Fund, certain fixed amounts, without regard to any fixed proportion of the Revenues, after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses, sufficient to pay the Bonds and the Swap Agreement Payments of the related Series issued pursuant to the Indenture and the Supplemental Trust Indenture authorizing the issuance thereof and from time to time Outstanding as the same respectively become due and payable. Such fixed amounts to be paid to the Trustee and deposited into the related Bond Fund will be a charge and lien upon the Revenue Fund and payable therefrom as set forth in the Indenture.

(b) There is created under the Indenture an Interest Account in each Bond Fund. Promptly upon receipt thereof the Trustee will deposit in the Interest Account money received by the SFPUC as accrued interest on the Bonds of the related Series, and any Swap Agreement Receipts and Refundable Credits related to such Series of Bonds. The SFPUC will pay or cause to be paid to the Trustee for deposit into such Interest Account such amounts, taking into account amounts then on deposit in such Interest Account, as will be necessary to pay the interest on and any Swap Agreement Payments with respect to such Series of Bonds as the same will become due. The money in such Interest Account will be applied by the Trustee on the date upon which any such interest or payment is due and in amounts sufficient to pay such interest or payment.

(c) There is created under the Indenture a Capitalized Interest Account in each Bond Fund for each Series of Bonds for which a portion of the proceeds of sale of such Series of Bonds or other available moneys of the SFPUC, if any, are to be used for the purpose of paying interest on such Series of Bonds. Upon the issuance, sale and delivery of such Series of Bonds, the SFPUC will pay or cause to be paid to the Trustee for deposit into the Capitalized Interest Account for such Series of Bonds such portion of the proceeds of sale or such other available moneys, if any. Money in the Capitalized Interest Account for such Series of Bonds will be applied by the Trustee to the extent available for the purpose of paying interest on such Series of Bonds during the period specified in the Supplemental Trust Indenture authorizing the issuance thereof. On or before the date on which interest on such Series of Bonds becomes due and payable, the Trustee will transfer from the Capitalized Interest Account for such Series of Bonds to the Interest Account for such Series of Bonds an amount which, together with any money theretofore received or held by the Trustee for such purpose, will be sufficient to pay the interest on such Series or Bonds coming due on such date.

(d) There is created under the Indenture a Bond Retirement Account in each Bond Fund. The SFPUC will pay or cause to be paid to the Trustee for deposit into such Bond Retirement Account such amounts, taking into account amounts then on deposit in the Bond Retirement Account, as will be necessary to pay the Mandatory Sinking Fund Payments and Principal of such Series of Bonds as the same will become due. The money in such Bond Retirement Account will be applied by the Trustee on the date upon which any such Mandatory Sinking Fund Payments or Principal is due and in amounts sufficient to pay such Mandatory Sinking Fund Payments or Principal.

(e) Each Bond Fund will be drawn upon for the sole purpose of paying the Principal, Mandatory Sinking Fund Payments and Redemption Price of and interest on the Bonds of and the Swap Agreement Payments for the related Series. Money set aside from time to time with the Trustee for the payment of such Principal, Mandatory Sinking Fund Payments, Redemption Price, interest and Swap Agreement Payments will be held in trust equally and ratably for the Owners or Qualified Counterparties in respect of which the same will have been so set aside. Each Series of Bonds and the interest thereon will be a valid claim of the Owners thereof only against the Bond Fund for such Series of Bonds (and the Reserve Account for such Series of Bonds, if such Series of Bonds are secured by a Reserve Account) and the amount of the Revenues pledged to such Bond Fund (and, if applicable, such Reserve Account), and together with the related Swap Agreement Payments will constitute a prior charge over all other charges or claims whatsoever against the Bond Fund (and, if applicable, such Reserve Account) for such Series of Bonds.

(f) If at any time there will be insufficient money in the Revenue Fund to make the payments required to be made into the respective Bond Funds, the SFPUC will make payments to the Trustee for deposit into such Bond Funds in the same ratio as the Principal amount of each Series of Bonds then Outstanding bears to the aggregate Principal amount of all Series of Bonds then Outstanding. If in any month there is a failure for any reason to pay into any Bond Fund for credit to the Interest Account or the Bond Retirement Account the amounts prescribed above, the amount of any such deficiency will be added to the amount otherwise required to be paid into the Bond Fund for credit to the Interest Account or the Bond Retirement Account during the succeeding month or months.

(g) Whenever the assets of the Bond Fund for a Series of Bonds (together, if such Series of Bonds are secured by a Reserve Account, with the assets of such Reserve Account allocable to such Series of Bonds) will be sufficient to provide money to pay all Bonds of such Series then Outstanding, including such interest thereon as thereafter may become due and payable and any premiums upon redemption thereof, and all related Swap Agreement Payments, no further payments need be made into the Bond Fund or such Reserve Account for such Series of Bonds.

Reserve Fund.

(a) There is created under the Indenture a special fund of the SFPUC to be known as the “Power Enterprise Revenue Bonds Reserve Fund” (the “Reserve Fund”). The Reserve Fund and the Reserve Accounts therein shall be held and administered by the Trustee, and shall be used solely for the purpose of paying the Bonds and the Swap Agreement Payments secured by the Reserve Accounts in the manner provided in the Indenture.

(b) There is established in the Reserve Fund the Common Reserve Account, and there may be established one or more additional accounts in the Reserve Fund (each, a “Reserve Account”), each of which may secure one or more Series of Bonds pursuant to the Indenture and to the Supplemental Indenture authorizing the issuance thereof. The Trustee shall deposit in each Reserve Account proceeds of sale of each Series of Bonds to be secured thereby or other available money, Authorized Investments or a Reserve Account Credit Facility or Facilities, or any combination of the foregoing, in such amount as may be necessary to bring the amount on deposit therein to the Reserve Requirement for such Series of Bonds.

(c) Each Reserve Account shall thereafter be maintained at all times at the respective Reserve Requirement of the Bonds secured by such Reserve Account by additional deposits into such Reserve Account from the Revenue Fund after payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses and required deposits into the Bond Funds, until such time as the Principal or Redemption Price of the Bonds secured by such Reserve Account, together with interest thereon to the date of retirement or redemption, can be paid from amounts in the Bond Fund or Funds established for such Bonds, together with amounts in such Reserve Account. Each Reserve Account shall be replenished in the following priority: first, to make all payments required under all reimbursement agreements with the providers of Reserve Account Credit Facilities credited to such Reserve Account (and if there is not sufficient money on deposit in such Reserve Account to make all such payments, then on a pro rata basis to each provider); and second, after all such payments are made in full, the amount necessary to make the money, Authorized Investments, and Reserve Account Credit Facility or Facilities or any combination of the foregoing deposited in or credited to such Reserve Account equal to the aggregate Reserve Requirements of the Bonds secured by such Reserve Account. If at any time there is not sufficient money to make all of the foregoing payments, such payments shall be made to the extent of available money into each Reserve Account in the same ratio as the Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds secured thereby bears to the aggregate Principal amount of all Outstanding Bonds secured by the Reserve Fund.

(d) In the event of a deficiency in the Bond Fund for Bonds secured by a Reserve Account, the Trustee shall make up such deficiency from such Reserve Account in the following priority: first, by the withdrawal of cash held therein; second, by the sale or redemption of Authorized Investments held therein; and third, from draws upon the Reserve Account Credit Facility or Facilities credited thereto, if any, on a pro rata basis, in sufficient amounts to make up such deficiency. Such draws shall be made at such times and under such conditions as provided in such Reserve Account Credit Facility or Facilities.

(e) At the option of the SFPUC, amounts on deposit in a Reserve Account may be substituted at any time, in whole or in part, by the deposit with the Trustee of a Reserve Account Credit Facility or Facilities in a stated amount equal to the amounts so substituted. Any amounts released from a Reserve Account as a result of such substitution shall be applied for any lawful purpose of the Power Enterprise as provided in an Order of the SFPUC.

(f) Each Reserve Account may be drawn upon for the sole purpose of paying the Principal, Mandatory Sinking Fund Payments and Redemption Price of and interest on the Bonds and the Swap Agreement Payments relating to the Bonds secured by such Reserve Account, provided, that excess amounts in any Reserve Account may be withdrawn therefrom upon a written request to the Trustee by the SFPUC and applied to any lawful purposes of the Power Enterprise. Money set aside from time to time with the Trustee for the payment of such Principal, Mandatory Sinking Fund Payments, Redemption Price, interest and Swap Agreement Payments shall be held in trust equally and ratably for the Owners or Qualified Counterparties in respect of which the same shall have been so set aside.

Upon the issuance of each Series of Bonds the SFPUC must either designate such Series as a Common Reserve Series to be secured by the Common Reserve Account or establish the Reserve Requirement for such Series, if any. As provided in the Third Supplemental Trust Indenture, the 2023A Bonds shall not be a Common Reserve Series, shall not be secured by a Reserve Account and the Reserve Requirement for the 2023A Bonds shall be $0.

Project Funds. There is created under the Indenture for each Series of Bonds a special fund of the SFPUC to be known as the “Power Revenue Bonds, Series ____ Project Fund” (each, a “Project Fund”). Each Project Fund will be held by the Treasurer and administered by the SFPUC. Immediately upon the issuance, sale and delivery of a Series of the Bonds, the SFPUC will pay or cause to be paid into the Project Fund for such Series such amount of the proceeds derived from the sale of such Series of Bonds as will be designated pursuant to the Supplemental Trust Indenture authorizing the issuance thereof. Money so deposited in the Project Fund will be applied to the costs of issuance of such Series of Bonds and to the costs of acquiring, and constructing the additions, betterments and improvements to, and repairs, renewals and replacements of the Power Enterprise or other lawful purposes of the Power Enterprise to be funded out of the proceeds of such Series of Bonds.

Each payment by the SFPUC from the Project Fund will constitute the representation of the SFPUC that (a) an obligation in such amount has been incurred by the SFPUC, (b) such obligation is a proper and reasonable charge against such Project Fund, (c) such amount has not been theretofore paid, (d) insofar as any such obligation was incurred for work, materials, equipment or supplies, such work was actually performed, or such materials, equipment or supplies were actually installed or delivered, or such amount is a progress payment due thereon and (e) there has not been filed with or served upon the SFPUC any notice of any lien, right to lien, or attachment upon or claim affecting the right to receive payment of such amount that has not been released or will not be released simultaneously with the payment of such amount.

Reconstruction and Replacement Fund. There is created under the Indenture a special fund of the SFPUC to be known as the “Power Enterprise Reconstruction and Replacement Fund,” to be held by the Treasurer and administered by the SFPUC. The SFPUC covenants and agrees to deposit and maintain in the Reconstruction and Replacement Fund such amount so that the balance therein shall be at least equal to the amount, if any, required to be on deposit therein pursuant to the Charter. Amounts in the Reconstruction and Replacement Fund shall be applied to pay costs for reconstruction and replacements of the properties constituting a part of the Power Enterprise due to physical and functional depreciation.

Rebate Funds. Unless otherwise provided pursuant to a Supplemental Trust Indenture, there is established under the Indenture a Rebate Fund for each Series of Tax-Exempt Bonds to be held by the Treasurer and administered by the SFPUC as set forth in the Indenture. The SFPUC will maintain each Rebate Fund until the expiration of 60 days after the retirement of such Series of Tax-Exempt Bonds. Within 30 days after the end of each Computation Period, the SFPUC will determine or cause to be determined the Rebate Amount attributable to each Rebate Fund for such Computation Period. Subject to the provisions of the Indenture, the SFPUC will transfer from the Revenue Fund into the Rebate Fund money to the extent required to provide for any Rebate Amount the SFPUC has determined to exist.

Investment or Deposit of Funds

Deposits and Security. All money received by the Trustee under the Indenture for deposit in the Funds will be considered trust funds pending their application as provided in the Indenture and will be subject to a prior and paramount pledge, lien and charge in favor of the Owners of the Series of Bonds and Qualified Counterparties payable from or secured by each such Fund, and for the further security of such Series of Bonds until paid out or transferred as provided in the Indenture. All money on deposit with the Trustee will be secured in the manner required by State or other applicable law. All security for deposits will be perfected in such manner as may be required or permitted under applicable law in order to provide to the Trustee a perfected lien on and security interest in such security.

Investment or Deposit of Funds.

(a) All money on deposit in the Funds will be invested and reinvested by the Trustee or the Treasurer, as the case may be, in Authorized Investments that mature, or are subject to repurchase, withdrawal without penalty or redemption at the option of the holder on or before the dates on which the amounts invested are reasonably expected to be needed for the purposes of the Indenture.

(b) All purchases or sales of Authorized Investments made by the Trustee will be made at the direction of the SFPUC (given in writing or orally, confirmed in writing). In the absence of such direction, the Trustee will invest all money on deposit in the Funds held by the Trustee in money market funds comprised or full secured by Government Securities.

(c) Any Authorized Investments held by the Trustee may be transferred by the Trustee, if required in writing by the SFPUC, from any of the Funds to any other Fund at the then current market value thereof without having to be sold and purchased or repurchased; provided, that after any such transfer or transfers, the Authorized Investments in each such Fund will be in accordance with the provisions of the Indenture, and whenever any other transfer or payment is required to be made from any particular Fund, such transfer or payment will be made from such combination of maturing principal, redemption premiums, liquidation proceeds and withdrawals of principal as the Trustee deems appropriate for such purpose.

(d) The Trustee will not be accountable for any depreciation in the value of Authorized Investments or for any losses incurred upon any authorized disposition thereof.

(e) Subject to the foregoing, the Trustee is expressly authorized to invest money in two or more Funds in a single investment; provided, that the portion of the investment allocable to each such Fund, and all payments received with respect to such allocable portion, will be applied in accordance with the applicable provisions governing such Fund under the Indenture.

Valuation of Funds. The Trustee will determine the market value of the Authorized Investments in each of the Funds held by the Trustee as of (a) June 30 of each year (or if such day is not a Business Day, the preceding Business Day) and (b) the date of issuance of each Series of Bonds. As soon as practicable after each such valuation date, the Trustee will furnish to the SFPUC a report of the status of each Fund held by the Trustee as of such date. In computing the value of Authorized Investments in any Fund, Authorized Investments will be valued at the fair market value thereof; provided, that investments in any Reserve Account will be valued at cost plus accreted value.

Covenants of the Commission

Among other covenants, the SFPUC covenants and agrees with the Owners from time to time of the Bonds issued pursuant to the Indenture as follows:

Operation and Maintenance of the Power Enterprise. Subject to the other provisions of the Indenture, the SFPUC will at all times operate the Power Enterprise and the business in connection therewith in an efficient manner and at reasonable cost, and shall maintain, preserve and keep, or cause to be maintained, preserved and kept, the properties and facilities constituting any part of the Power Enterprise, and all additions and betterments thereto and extensions thereof, and every part and parcel thereof, in good repair, working order and condition, and shall from time to time make, or cause to be made, all necessary and proper repairs, renewals, replacements, additions, extensions and betterments thereto, so that at all times the business carried on in connection therewith shall be properly and advantageously conducted.

Sufficiency of Revenues.

- (a) The Revenues in each Fiscal Year shall be sufficient:
  - (i) To pay, to the extent not paid from other available moneys, (A) the Operation and Maintenance Expenses during such Fiscal Year, (B) Annual Debt Service on the Bonds due and payable in such Fiscal Year, (C) the amounts, if any, required to be deposited into the Reserve Fund during such Fiscal Year and (D) any and all other amounts the SFPUC is obligated to pay or set aside from the Revenues by law or contract in such Fiscal Year;
  - (ii) To maintain a Bond Coverage Ratio of at least 1.0 to 1.0; and
  - (iii) Together with Available Funds, to maintain a Bond Coverage Ratio of at least 1.25 to 1.00.
- (b) The failure of the SFPUC to maintain the Bond Coverage Ratios in any Fiscal Year shall not constitute a default in the observance of the covenants if:
  - (i) within 60 days after the SFPUC first determines that the Bond Coverage Ratio was not met or 60 days after the SFPUC's receipt of audited financial statements showing that the Bond Coverage Ratio was not met (whichever is earlier), the SFPUC engages a Consulting Engineer to deliver a report to the SFPUC within 60 days after such engagement which includes recommendations as to how the SFPUC can increase Revenues and/or reduce Operation and Maintenance Expenses so as to satisfy the Bond Coverage Ratios; and
  - (ii) (A) within 120 days after receipt of the Consulting Engineer's report the SFPUC implements the recommendations set forth in such report; or (B) the report states that the Power Enterprise cannot generate Revenues and/or reduce Operation and Maintenance Expenses sufficient to enable the SFPUC to maintain the Bond Coverage Ratios while satisfying the other covenants set forth in the Indenture, and the SFPUC increases its Revenues and/or reduces its Operation and Maintenance Expenses to the extent otherwise recommended in such report; or (C) the SFPUC is prevented from taking any such action by order of any court of competent jurisdiction. Notwithstanding the foregoing, failure for two (2) consecutive Fiscal Years to maintain the Bond Coverage Ratios shall in all events constitute an Event of Default.

Rates and Charges. The SFPUC will fix, establish, maintain and collect rates and charges for electric power and energy and other services, facilities and commodities sold, furnished or supplied through the facilities of the Power Enterprise, which shall be fair and nondiscriminatory and adequate to provide the SFPUC with Revenues sufficient to satisfy the covenants set forth in paragraph (a) under the caption “Sufficiency of Revenues” above (without giving effect to the provisions of paragraph (b) under such caption); provided, that anything in the Indenture to the contrary notwithstanding, the SFPUC shall not be required to impose rates and charges in violation of (i) applicable provisions of the Raker Act of 1913 or any successor statute; (ii) any other applicable federal or state statutes or regulations; or (iii) any current or future contract or agreement between (A) any City enterprise department, agency or commission, and (B) its customers, tenants or users.

Protection of Security. The Revenues pledged under the Indenture are and shall be free and clear of any pledge, lien, charge or encumbrance thereon or with respect thereto prior to, or of equal rank with, the pledge created by the Indenture, except as otherwise expressly provided therein. The Bonds and the Indenture are and will be valid and binding obligations of the SFPUC enforceable in accordance with their terms and the terms of the Indenture; provided, that the rights of the Owners under the Indenture and under the Bonds may be subject to the exercise of judicial discretion, to bankruptcy, insolvency, reorganization, moratorium and other laws for the relief of debtors, and to limitations on remedies against cities and their departments and commissions under the laws of the State. The SFPUC will at all times, to the extent permitted by law, defend, preserve and protect the pledge of the Revenues and the rights of the Owners under the Indenture against all claims and demands of all persons whatsoever.

Take-or-Pay Power Sales Contracts. So long as any Take-or-Pay Power Sales Contract is in effect, the SFPUC will enforce the provisions of such Take-or-Pay Power Sales Contract and will not waive any right or fail to declare any default under or in connection with such Take-or-Pay Power Sales Contract that would reduce the payments provided therein or would materially adversely affect the security of the Owners; provided, that the SFPUC may, in the event the purchaser under such Take-or-Pay Power Sales Contract fails or refuses to take power and energy pursuant to such Take-or-Pay Power Sales Contract or to make payment therefor, sell such power and energy to others.

Take-or-Pay Power Purchase Agreements. The SFPUC will not hereafter enter into any Take-or-Pay Power Purchase Agreement payable from Revenues as an Operation and Maintenance Expense unless the SFPUC will first deliver to the Trustee a Certificate of the SFPUC demonstrating compliance with the requirements set forth in the Indenture for the first three (3) full Fiscal Years following the Fiscal Year in which such Take-or-Pay Power Purchase Agreement will become effective.

Not to Dispose of Power Enterprise Properties. The SFPUC will not sell, lease or otherwise dispose of, or cause the sale, lease or other disposition of or permit to be sold, leased or otherwise disposed of any real or personal properties constituting part of the Power Enterprise unless:

(a) Such sale, lease or disposal is of properties that in the judgment of the SFPUC have become unserviceable, inadequate, obsolete, unfit or no longer needed for the efficient and economical operation of the Power Enterprise; or

(b) Such sale, lease or disposal will not materially impair the ability of the SFPUC to comply with the provisions of the Indenture for a period of three Fiscal Years after such sale, lease or disposal, as set forth in a certificate of the SFPUC; or

(c) The SFPUC applies the proceeds of such sale, lease or disposal to redeem or defease the Outstanding Bonds on a pro rata basis across all maturities thereof.

The foregoing will not preclude the SFPUC from providing a security or leasehold interest in property to secure obligations for borrowed money entered into to finance the acquisition or construction of such properties.

Insurance.

(a) The SFPUC will maintain property, liability and other insurance with respect to the business, operations, works, plants and facilities of the Power Enterprise, to the extent available at a reasonable cost from responsible insurers, with policies payable to the SFPUC for the benefit of the Power Enterprise, in such amounts and against such risks as are typically carried by similar municipally-owned electric utilities; provided, that the SFPUC will not be required to carry insurance for losses to the Power Enterprise caused by earthquake.

(b) In the event of any loss or damage to the properties or facilities of the Power Enterprise covered by insurance exceeding in any Fiscal Year 5% of the net book value of the capital assets of the Power Enterprise, the SFPUC will apply the proceeds received by the SFPUC of any insurance policy or policies covering such damage or loss for the purposes of (i) repairing or replacing such properties or facilities; (ii) acquiring or constructing other properties or facilities; and/or (iii) to pay, redeem or defease Outstanding Bonds of such maturity or maturities as the SFPUC will determine in its discretion.

(c) The SFPUC may provide any insurance coverage otherwise required by (a) through a self-insurance program.

Eminent Domain. In the event of transfer of the properties of the Power Enterprise by operation of law or under threat of condemnation, the SFPUC will apply the proceeds received by the SFPUC of any such condemnation award or any such sale under threat of condemnation for the purpose of replacing or restoring such properties of the Power Enterprise, or to defease the Outstanding Bonds on a pro rata basis across all maturities thereof.

Economically Sound Improvements. The SFPUC will undertake any additions, betterments or improvements to the Power Enterprise in a sound and economical manner and in accordance with applicable law.

Payment of Bonds. The SFPUC will duly and punctually pay or cause to be paid, but only from the Revenues and other available moneys, the Bonds on the dates and in the manner provided in the Indenture and in the Bonds, and will faithfully do and perform and fully observe and keep any and all covenants, undertakings, stipulations and provisions contained in the Bonds and in the Indenture and the Supplemental Trust Indentures.

Payment of Taxes and Claims. The SFPUC will from time to time duly pay and discharge, or cause to be paid and discharged, all taxes, assessments and other governmental charges, or required payments in lieu thereof, lawfully imposed upon the properties constituting part of the Power Enterprise or on the Revenues when the same will become due, and all lawful claims for labor and material and supplies which, if not paid, might become a lien or charge upon such properties, or any part thereof, or upon the Revenues, or which might in any material way impair the security for the Bonds; provided, that the SFPUC will not be required to pay any such taxes, assessments, charges or claims which the SFPUC will in good faith contest by proper legal proceedings.

Tax Covenants. Except as provided in a Supplemental Trust Indenture with respect to a Series of Bonds the interest on which is not intended to be exempt from Federal income tax:

(a) The SFPUC will not take any action, or fail to take any action, if any such action or failure to take action would adversely affect the exclusion from gross income of interest on the Bonds under Section 103 of the Code. The SFPUC will not, directly or indirectly, use or permit the use of proceeds of the Bonds or any of the property financed or refinanced with proceeds of the Bonds, or any portion thereof, by any person other than a governmental unit (as such term is used in Section 141 of the Code), in such manner or to such extent as would result in the loss of exclusion from gross income for federal income tax purposes of interest on the Bonds.

(b) The SFPUC will not take any action, or fail to take any action, if any such action or failure to take action would cause the Bonds to be “private activity bonds” within the meaning of Section 141 of the Code, and in furtherance thereof, will not make any use of the proceeds of the Bonds or any of the property financed or refinanced with proceeds of the Bonds, or any portion thereof, or any other funds of the SFPUC, that would cause the Bonds to be “private activity bonds” within the meaning of Section 141 of the Code. To that end, so long as any Bonds are Outstanding, the SFPUC, with respect to such proceeds and property and such other funds, will comply with applicable requirements of the Code and all regulations of the United States Department of the Treasury issued thereunder, to the extent such requirements are, at the time, applicable and in effect. The SFPUC will establish reasonable procedures necessary to ensure continued compliance with Section 141 of the Code and the continued qualification of the Bonds as “governmental bonds.”

(c) The SFPUC will not, directly or indirectly, use or permit the use of any proceeds of any Bonds, or of any property financed or refinanced thereby, or take or omit to take any action, that would cause the Bonds to be “arbitrage bonds” within the meaning of Section 148 of the Code.

(d) The SFPUC will not make any use of the proceeds of the Bonds, or take or omit to take any other action, that would cause the Bonds to be “federally guaranteed” within the meaning of Section 149(b) of the Code.

Further Assurances. The SFPUC will at any and all times, insofar as it may be authorized to do so by law, pass, make, do, execute, acknowledge and deliver all and every such further resolutions, acts, assignments, instruments and assurances as may be necessary or desirable for the better assuring, granting, pledging, assigning and confirming any and all of the rights, revenues, funds and other property hereby granted, pledged or assigned to pay or secure the payment of the Bonds, in the manner and to the extent provided in the Indenture.

Covenant to Defeasement or Retire Bonds Upon Acquisition of PG&E Assets. In the event that the City shall hereafter purchase or otherwise acquire all or a substantial portion of the electric distribution and transmission assets of Pacific Gas & Electric Company needed to provide retail electric service to all electricity customers within the geographic boundaries of the City, the SFPUC will either operate such service as a Separate System or provide for all then Outstanding Bonds to be defeased or retired pursuant to applicable provisions of the Indenture. In connection with any such purchase or other acquisition, the SFPUC shall not elect to operate such service as a Separate System unless the SFPUC has determined that such operation will not have a material adverse effect on the holders of, or the security pledged for the payment of, the Bonds.

Defaults and Remedies

Events of Default. Each of the following is an “Event of Default” under the Indenture:

(a) The SFPUC will default in the payment of any Principal, Purchase Price or Redemption Price of or interest on any Bond when the same becomes due and payable; or

(b) Subject to the provisions of the Indenture, default in the performance, or breach, of any covenant, warranty or representation of the SFPUC contained in the Indenture (other than a default under (a) above); or

(c) (i) The filing of a petition in bankruptcy (or other commencement of a bankruptcy or similar proceedings) by the SFPUC or the City as debtor, under federal or state bankruptcy law; (ii) the filing of a petition in bankruptcy (or other commencement of a bankruptcy or similar proceedings) against the SFPUC or the City as debtor, under federal or state bankruptcy law, which petition is not dismissed within 60 days after filing; (iii) the appointment of a receiver, liquidator, assignee, custodian, trustee, sequestrator or other similar official of the SFPUC or the City or of any substantial portion of its property; or (iv) the ordering of the winding up or liquidation of the affairs of the SFPUC or the City.

Remedies Upon Default.

(a) If an Event of Default under the caption “Events of Default” occurs and is continuing, the Trustee may, and upon the written request to the Trustee by the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds the Trustee will, subject to the requirements under the caption “Certain Rights of the Trustee,” by written notice to the SFPUC, declare the Principal of the Bonds and all interest accrued thereon to the date of acceleration to be immediately due and payable.

(b) At any time after such a declaration of acceleration has been made and before the entry of a judgment or decree for payment of the money due, the Trustee may, or the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds, may by written notice to the SFPUC and the Trustee, and subject to the requirements under the caption “Certain Rights of the Trustee,” direct the Trustee to, rescind and annul such declaration and its consequences if:

(i) there has been paid to or deposited with the Trustee by or for the account of the SFPUC, or provision satisfactory to the Trustee has been made for the payment of a sum sufficient to pay: (A) all overdue installments of interest on the Bonds; (B) the Principal, Purchase Price, and Redemption Price of any Bonds that have become due other than by such declaration of acceleration and interest thereon; (C) to the extent lawful, interest upon overdue interest and redemption premium, if any; and (D) all sums paid or advanced by the Trustee under the Indenture, together with the reasonable compensation, expenses, disbursements and advances of the Trustee and its agents and counsel prior to the date of notice of rescission; and

(ii) all Events of Default have been cured or waived, other than the nonpayment of Principal, Purchase Price or Redemption Price of and interest on the Bonds that occasioned such acceleration.

(c) No such rescission and annulment will affect any subsequent default or impair any consequent right.

Additional Remedies.

(a) The Trustee, upon the occurrence of an Event of Default may, and upon the written request of the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds, and subject to the requirements under the caption "Certain Rights of the Trustee," will proceed to protect and enforce its rights and the rights of the Owners of the Bonds under the Indenture by a suit or suits in equity or at law, either for the specific performance of any covenant or agreement contained in the Indenture or in aid of the execution of any power therein granted, or for the enforcement of any other appropriate legal or equitable remedy, and the Trustee in reliance upon the advice of counsel may deem most effective to protect and enforce any of the rights or interests of the Owners of the Bonds under the Bonds or the Indenture.

(b) Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the Trustee will at all times have the power to institute and maintain such proceedings as it may deem expedient: (i) to prevent any impairment of the money and other property then held under the Indenture by any acts that may be unlawful or in violation of the Indenture, and (ii) to protect its interests and the interests of the Owners in the money and other property then held under the Indenture and in the issues, profits, revenues and other income arising therefrom, including the power to maintain proceedings to restrain the enforcement of or compliance with any governmental enactment, rule or order that may be unconstitutional or otherwise invalid, if the enforcement of or compliance with, such enactment, rule or order would impair the money and other property then held under the Indenture or be prejudicial to the interests of the Owners or the Trustee.

Marshaling of Assets. Upon the occurrence of an Event of Default, all money in all Funds will be available to be utilized by the Trustee in accordance with the provisions under the caption "Events of Default." The rights of the Trustee under the caption "Compensation and Expenses of the Trustee," will be applicable. During the continuance of any such Event of Default, all provisions of the Indenture relating to the utilization of the Funds will be superseded by the provisions under the caption "Events of Default." Subsequent to the curing or waiver of any such Event of Default, the provisions of the Indenture relating to utilization of the Funds will be reinstated.

Trustee May File Proofs of Claim.

(a) In case of the pendency of any receivership, insolvency, liquidation, bankruptcy, reorganization, arrangement, adjustment, composition or other judicial proceeding under the federal bankruptcy code relating to the SFPUC, any other obligor upon the Bonds or any property of the SFPUC, the Trustee (whether or not the Principal of the Bonds are then due and payable by acceleration or otherwise, and whether or not the Trustee has made any demand upon the SFPUC for the payment of overdue Principal, Purchase Price, Redemption Price and interest) will be entitled and empowered, by intervention in such proceeding or other means: (i) to file and prove a claim for the whole amount of the Principal, Purchase Price, Redemption Price and interest owing and unpaid in respect of the Bonds then Outstanding or for breach of the Indenture and to file such other papers or documents as may be necessary or advisable in order to have the claims of the Trustee (including any claim for the reasonable compensation, expenses, disbursements and advances of the Trustee and its agents and counsel) and of the Owners allowed in such proceeding; and (ii) to collect and receive any money or other property payable or deliverable on any such claims and to distribute the same; and each Owner, by holding the Bonds, thereby authorizes any receiver, assignee, trustee, liquidator, sequestrator or similar official in any such judicial proceeding to make such payments to the Trustee, and, in the event that the Trustee will consent to the making of such payments directly to the Owners, to pay to the Trustee any amount due it for the reasonable compensation, expenses, disbursements and advances of the Trustee and its agents and counsel, and any other amounts due the Trustee under the Indenture.

(b) No provision of the Indenture empowers the Trustee to authorize or consent to or accept or adopt on behalf of any Owners any plan of reorganization, arrangement, adjustment or composition affecting any of the Bonds or the rights of any Owner, or to authorize the Trustee to vote in respect of the claim of any Owner in any proceeding described in the Indenture.

Possession of Bonds Not Required. All rights under the Indenture and the Bonds may be enforced by the Trustee without possession of any Bonds or the production of them at trial or other proceedings. Any proceedings instituted by the Trustee may be brought in its name for itself or as representative of the Owners without the necessity of joining Owners as parties, and any recovery resulting from such proceedings will, subject to the Indenture, be for the ratable benefit of the Owners.

Notice and Opportunity to Cure Certain Defaults. No default in (b) under the caption “Events of Default,” will constitute an Event of Default until written notice of such default will have been given to the SFPUC by the Trustee or by the Owners of at least 25% in aggregate Principal amount of the Bonds Outstanding, and the SFPUC will have had 60 days after receipt of such notice to correct such default or cause such default to be corrected, and will have failed to do so. In the event, however, that the default is such that it cannot be corrected within such 60-day period, it will not constitute an Event of Default if corrective action is instituted by the SFPUC within such period and diligently pursued (as determined by the Trustee) until the default is corrected.

Priority of Payment Following Event of Default.

(a) If at any time after the occurrence of an Event of Default the money held by the Trustee under the Indenture will not be sufficient to pay the Bonds as the same become due and payable, such money, together with any money then available or thereafter becoming available for such purpose, whether through the exercise of remedies in the provisions described under this section “Defaults and Remedies” or otherwise, will, subject to the provisions described under paragraphs (b) and (c) below under this caption “Priority of Payment Following Event of Default,” be applied by the Trustee as follows:

(i) First, to the payment of all amounts due the Trustee under the caption “Compensation and Expenses of the Trustee”;

(ii) Second, to the payment of Operation and Maintenance Expenses;

(iii) Third, to the payment of all interest on the Bonds and Swap Agreement Payments then due and payable in the order in which the same became due and payable, and, if the amount available will not be sufficient to make any payment in full, then to the payment, ratably, according to the amounts due with respect to such payments, without discrimination or preference;

(iv) Fourth, to the payment of the unpaid Principal amount of any of the Bonds that will have become due and payable, in the order of due dates (other than Bonds called for redemption or contracted to be purchased for the payment of which money is held pursuant to the provisions of the Indenture), with interest upon the Principal amount of the Bonds from the respective dates upon which they will have become due and payable, and, if the amount available will not be sufficient to pay in full the Principal of such Bonds due and payable on any particular due date, together with such interest, then to the payment first of such interest, ratably, according to the amount of Principal due on such date, without any discrimination or preference;

(v) Fifth, to the payment of the Redemption Price of Bonds called for optional redemption, if any;

(vi) Sixth, to the payment under all reimbursement agreements with the providers of Reserve Account Credit Facilities of all amounts due and payable thereunder (and if there is not sufficient money to make all such payments, then on a pro rata basis to each provider);

(vii) Seventh, (A) for the payment of principal and premium, if any, and interest on Subordinate Obligations; (B) for deposit into a reserve fund securing any Subordinate Obligations; (C) for Swap Agreement Payments pursuant to any Swap Agreements entered into by the SFPUC with respect to any Subordinate Obligations; and (D) for payment to any financial institution or insurance company providing any letter of credit, line of credit, or other credit or liquidity facility, including municipal bond insurance and guarantees, that secures the payment of principal of or interest on any Subordinate Obligations; in each case in any order of priority which may be hereafter established by the SFPUC;

(viii) Eighth, for any payment under a Take-or-Pay Power Purchase Agreement that does not constitute an Operation and Maintenance Expense;

(ix) Ninth, for any payment under a Swap Agreement that does not constitute a Swap Agreement Payment; and

(x) Tenth, to the payment of all other charges or obligations against the Revenues of whatever nature now or hereafter imposed thereon by law or contract, in any order of priority which may be hereafter established by the SFPUC.

(b) If the Principal of all Bonds shall have become due and payable, subject to the provisions described in clause (i) of paragraph (a) under this caption “Priority of Payment Following Event of Default” above, regarding payment to the Trustee, all such money will be applied to the payment of the Principal and interest then due and unpaid upon the Bonds, without preference or priority of Principal over interest or of interest over Principal, or of any installment of interest over any other installment of interest, or of any Bond over any other Bond, ratably, according to the amounts due respectively for Principal and interest, without any discrimination or preference.

(c) Whenever money is to be applied pursuant to the provisions described under this caption “Priority of Payment Following Event of Default,” the Trustee may, in its discretion, establish and maintain a reserve for future fees and expenses, and may apply money to be distributed at such times, and from time to time, as the Trustee will determine, having due regard for the amount of such money available for application and the likelihood of additional money becoming available for such application in the future. Whenever the Trustee will apply such funds, it will fix a date (which will be an interest payment date unless it will deem another date more suitable) upon which such application is to be made and upon such date interest on the amounts of Principal to be paid on such dates, and for which money is available, will cease to accrue. The Trustee will also select a record date for such payment date. The Trustee will give such notice as it may deem appropriate of the deposit with it of any money and of the fixing of any such record date and payment date, and will not be required to make payment to the Owner of any Bond until such Bond will be presented to the Trustee for appropriate endorsement or for cancellation if fully paid.

Owners May Direct Proceedings. The Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds will, subject to the requirements described in clause (e) under the caption “Certain Rights of the Trustee,” have the right, by an instrument or instruments in writing executed and delivered to the Trustee, to direct the method and place of conducting all remedial proceedings by the Trustee under the Indenture, provided that such direction will not be in conflict with any rule of law or the Indenture and that the Trustee will have the right to decline to follow any such direction which in the opinion of the Trustee would be unduly prejudicial to the rights of Owners not parties to such direction or would subject the Trustee to personal liability or expense. Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Trustee will have the right to select and retain counsel of its choosing to represent it in any such proceedings. The Trustee may take any other action which is not inconsistent with any direction given as described in this paragraph.

Limitations on Rights of Owners.

(a) No Owner will have any right to pursue any other remedy under the Indenture or the Bonds unless: (i) an Event of Default will have occurred and is continuing; (ii) the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds have requested the Trustee, in writing, to exercise the powers granted in the Indenture or to pursue such remedy in its or their name or names; (iii) the Trustee has been offered indemnity satisfactory to it against costs, expenses and liabilities reasonably anticipated to be incurred; (iv) the Trustee has declined to comply with such request, or has failed to do so, within 60 days after its receipt of such written request and offer of indemnity; and (v) no direction inconsistent with such request has been given to the Trustee during such 60-day period by the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds.

(b) The provisions described in paragraph (a) under this caption “Limitations on Rights of Owners” are conditions precedent to the exercise by any Owner of any remedy under the Indenture. The exercise of such rights is further subject to the provisions under the captions “Owners May Direct Proceedings,” “Unconditional Rights of Owners to Receive Payment” and “Delay or Omission Not Waiver.” No one or more Owners will have any right in any manner whatever to enforce any right under the Indenture, except in the manner therein provided.

All proceedings at law or in equity with respect to an Event of Default will be instituted and maintained in the manner provided in the Indenture for the equal and ratable benefit of the Owners of all Bonds Outstanding.

Unconditional Rights of Owners To Receive Payment. Notwithstanding any other provision of the Indenture, the Owner of each Bond will have the absolute and unconditional right to receive payment of Principal, Purchase Price and Redemption Price of and interest on such Bond on and after the due date thereof, and to institute suit for the enforcement of any such payment.

Restoration of Rights and Remedies. If the Trustee or any Owner has instituted any proceeding to enforce any right or remedy under the Indenture, and any such proceeding has been discontinued or abandoned for any reason, or has been determined adversely to the Trustee or such Owner, then the SFPUC, the Trustee and the Owners will, subject to any determination in such proceeding, be restored to their former positions under the Indenture, and all rights and remedies of the Trustee and the Owners will continue as though no such proceeding had been instituted.

Rights and Remedies Cumulative. No right or remedy conferred upon or reserved to the Trustee is intended to be exclusive of any other right or remedy, but each such right or remedy will, to the extent permitted by law, be cumulative of and in addition to every other right or remedy given under the Indenture or now or hereafter existing at law, in equity or otherwise. The assertion or employment of any right or remedy under the Indenture will not prevent the concurrent assertion or employment of any other appropriate right or remedy.

Delay or Omission Not Waiver. No delay or omission by the Trustee or any Owner to exercise any right or remedy accruing upon any Event of Default will impair any such right or remedy or constitute a waiver of such Event of Default. Every right and remedy given by the provisions under the caption "Events of Default" or by law to the Trustee or the Owners may be exercised from time to time, and as often as may as deemed expedient, by the Trustee or the Owners, as the case may be.

Waiver of Defaults.

(a) The Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds may, by written notice to the Trustee and subject to the requirements of (e) under the caption "Certain Rights of the Trustee," waive any existing default or Event of Default and its consequences, except an Event of Default under (a) under the caption "Events of Default." Upon any such waiver, the default or Event of Default will be deemed cured and will cease to exist for all purposes. No waiver of any default or Event of Default will extend to or effect any subsequent default or Event of Default or will impair any right or remedy consequent thereto.

(b) Notwithstanding any provision of the Indenture, in no event will any Person, other than all of the affected Owners, have the ability to waive any Event of Default under the Indenture if such event results or may result, in the opinion of Bond Counsel, in interest on any of the Tax-Exempt Bonds becoming includable in gross income for federal income tax purposes.

Notice of Events of Default. If an Event of Default occurs of which the Trustee has or is deemed to have notice under (h) under the caption "Certain Rights of the Trustee," the Trustee will give prompt notice thereof to the SFPUC. Within 30 days thereafter (unless such Event of Default has been cured or waived), the Trustee will give notice of such Event of Default to each Owner of Bonds then Outstanding; provided, that except in the instance of an Event of Default under (a) under the caption "Events of Default," the Trustee may withhold such notice to Owners if and so long as the Trustee in good faith determines that the withholding of such notice is in the interests of Owners; and provided further, that notice to Owners of any Event of Default under (b) under the caption "Events of Default," will be subject to the provisions under the caption "Notice and Opportunity to Cure Certain Defaults" and will not be given until the grace period has expired.

The Trustee

Appointment; Duties and Responsibilities of the Trustee. U.S. Bank National Association will serve as the initial Trustee with respect to the Bonds.

(a) Prior to the occurrence of an Event of Default of which it has or is deemed to have notice under the Indenture, and after the curing or waiver of any Event of Default that may have occurred: (i) the Trustee undertakes to perform such duties and only such duties as are specifically set forth in the Indenture, and no implied covenants or obligations will be read into the Indenture against the Trustee; and (ii) in the absence of bad faith on its part, the Trustee may conclusively rely, as to the truth of the statements and the correctness of the opinions expressed therein, upon certificates or opinions furnished to the Trustee that conform to the requirements of the Indenture; but the Trustee is under a duty to examine such certificates and opinions to determine whether they conform to the requirements of the Indenture.

(b) In case an Event of Default of which the Trustee has or is deemed to have notice under the Indenture has occurred and is continuing, the Trustee will exercise such of the rights and powers vested in it by the Indenture, and use the same degree of care and skill in their exercise, as a prudent person would exercise or use in the conduct of such person's own affairs.

(c) No provision of the Indenture will be construed to relieve the Trustee from liability for its own negligent action, its own negligent failure to act, or its own willful misconduct, except that: (i) this paragraph (c) will not be construed to limit the effect of paragraph (b) under this caption "Appointment; Duties and Responsibilities of the Trustee"; (ii) the Trustee is not liable for any error of judgment made in good faith by an authorized officer of the Trustee, unless it is proven that the Trustee was negligent in ascertaining the pertinent facts; (iii) the Trustee is not liable with respect to any action it takes or omits to be taken by it in good faith in accordance with the direction of the Owners under any provision of the Indenture relating to the time, method and place of conducting any proceeding for any remedy available to the Trustee, or exercising any trust or power conferred upon the Trustee under the Indenture; and (iv) no provision of the Indenture will require the Trustee to expend or risk its own funds or otherwise incur any liability in the performance of any of its duties under the Indenture, or in the exercise of any of its rights or powers, if it has reasonable grounds for believing that the repayment of such funds or adequate indemnity against such risk or liability is not reasonably assured to it.

(d) The Trustee will maintain records of all investments and disbursements of proceeds in the Funds through the date ending 6 years following the date on which all the Bonds have been retired.

(e) Whether or not expressly so provided, every provision of the Indenture relating to the conduct or affecting the liability of or affording protection to the Trustee is subject to the provisions described under this caption "Appointment; Duties and Responsibilities of the Trustee."

Certain Rights of the Trustee. Except as otherwise provided in the provisions under the caption "Appointment; Duties and Responsibilities of the Trustee":

(a) The Trustee may rely and is protected in acting or refraining from acting upon any resolution, certificate, statement, instrument, opinion, report, notice, request, direction, consent, order, approval, bond, debenture or other paper or document believed by it to be genuine and to have been signed or presented by the proper party or parties;

(b) Any statement or certification of the SFPUC under the Indenture will be sufficiently evidenced by a Certificate of the SFPUC (unless other evidence thereof is specifically prescribed), any request, direction, order or demand of the SFPUC under the Indenture will be sufficiently evidenced by an Order of the SFPUC (unless other evidence thereof is specifically prescribed) and any resolution of the SFPUC may be sufficiently evidenced by a copy thereof certified by the Secretary of the SFPUC;

(c) Whenever in the administration of the Indenture the Trustee deems it desirable that a matter be proved or established prior to taking, suffering or omitting any action under the Indenture, the Trustee (unless other evidence thereof is specifically prescribed) may, in the absence of bad faith on its part, rely upon a Certificate of the SFPUC;

(d) The Trustee may consult with counsel and the written advice of such counsel or an opinion of counsel or of Bond Counsel will be full and complete authorization and protection for any action taken, suffered or omitted by it in good faith and in accordance with such advice or opinion;

(e) The Trustee is under no obligation to exercise any of the rights or powers vested in it by the Indenture at the request or direction of any of the Owners unless the Owners have offered to the Trustee security or indemnity satisfactory to the Trustee as to its terms, coverage, duration, amount and otherwise with respect to the costs, expenses and liabilities which may be incurred by it in compliance with such request or direction, and the provision of such indemnity will be mandatory for any remedy taken upon direction of the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds;

(f) The Trustee is not required to make any inquiry or investigation into the facts or matters stated in any resolution, certificate, statement, instrument, opinion, report, notice, request, direction, consent, order, approval, bond, debenture or other paper or document but the Trustee, in its discretion, may make such further inquiry or investigation into such facts or matters as it may see fit and, if the Trustee determines to make such further inquiry or investigation, it is entitled to examine the books, records and premises of the SFPUC, in person or by agent or attorney;

(g) The Trustee may execute any of its trusts or powers or perform any duties under the Indenture either directly or by or through agents or attorneys, and may in all cases pay, subject to reimbursement as provided under the caption "Compensation and Expenses of the Trustee," such reasonable compensation as it deems proper to all such agents and attorneys reasonably employed or retained by it, and the Trustee will not be responsible for any misconduct or negligence of any agent or attorney appointed with due care by it;

(h) The Trustee is not required to take notice or deemed to have notice of any default or Event of Default under the Indenture, except an Event of Default under (a) under the caption "Events of Default," (a), unless an officer of the Trustee has actual knowledge thereof or has received notice in writing of such default or Event of Default from the SFPUC or the Owners of at least 25% in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds, and in the absence of any such notice, the Trustee may conclusively assume that no such default or Event of Default exists;

(i) The Trustee is not required to give any bond or surety with respect to the performance of its duties or the exercise of its powers under the Indenture;

(j) In the event the Trustee receives inconsistent or conflicting requests and indemnity from two or more groups of Owners, each representing less than a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds, pursuant to the provisions of the Indenture, the Trustee, in its sole discretion, may determine what action, if any, will be taken;

(k) The Trustee's immunities and protections from liability and its right to indemnification in connection with the performance of its duties under the Indenture will extend to the Trustee's officers, directors, agents, attorneys and employees. Such immunities and protections and right to indemnification, together with the Trustee's right to compensation, will survive the Trustee's resignation or removal, the defeasance or discharge of the Indenture and final payment of the Bonds;

(l) The permissive right of the Trustee to take the actions permitted by the Indenture will not be construed as an obligation or duty to do so;

(m) Except for information provided by the Trustee concerning the Trustee, the Trustee will have no responsibility for any information in any offering memorandum or other disclosure material distributed with respect to the Bonds, and the Trustee will have no responsibility for compliance with any state or federal securities laws in connection with the Bonds; and

(n) The Trustee will not be considered in breach of or in default in its obligations under the Indenture or progress in respect thereto in the event of delay in the performance of such obligations due to unforeseeable causes beyond its control and without its fault or negligence, including, acts of God or of the public enemy or terrorists, acts of a government, fires, floods, epidemics, quarantine restrictions, strikes, embargoes, earthquakes, explosion, mob violence, riot, inability to procure or general sabotage or rationing of labor, equipment, facilities, sources of energy, material or supplies in the open market, condemnation, and unusually severe weather or delays of suppliers or subcontractors due to such causes.

Qualifications of the Trustee. There will at all times be a trustee under the Indenture which will be a corporation or banking association organized and doing business under the laws of the United States of America or of any state, authorized under such laws to exercise corporate trust powers, which satisfies the combined capital and surplus of requirements of the Indenture, or is an affiliate of, or has a contractual relationship with, a corporation or banking association meeting such capital and surplus requirement which guarantees the obligations and liabilities of the proposed trustee, and which is subject to supervision or examination by federal or state banking authority. If such corporation or banking association publishes reports of condition at least annually, pursuant to law or the requirements of any supervising or examining authority above referred to, then for purposes of the provisions of the Indenture, the combined capital and surplus of such corporation or banking association will be deemed to be its combined capital and surplus as set forth in its most recent report of condition so published. If at any time the Trustee will cease to be eligible in accordance with the provisions of the Indenture described in this paragraph, it will resign promptly in the manner and with the effect specified in the Indenture.

Resignation or Removal of the Trustee; Appointment of Successor Trustee.

(a) No resignation or removal of the Trustee and no appointment of a successor Trustee pursuant to the Indenture will become effective until the acceptance of appointment by the successor Trustee under the caption "Acceptance of Appointment by Successor Trustee."

(b) The Trustee may resign at any time by giving written notice to the SFPUC. Upon receiving such notice of resignation, the SFPUC will promptly appoint a successor Trustee by an instrument in writing. If an instrument of acceptance has not been delivered to the resigning Trustee within 30 days after the giving of such notice of resignation, the resigning Trustee or any Owner of a Bond then Outstanding may petition a court of competent jurisdiction for the appointment of a successor Trustee.

(c) Prior to the occurrence and continuance of an Event of Default under the Indenture, or after the curing or waiver of any such Event of Default, the SFPUC or the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds may remove the Trustee and will appoint a successor Trustee. In the event there will have occurred and be continuing an Event of Default under the Indenture, the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds may remove the Trustee and will appoint a successor Trustee. In each instance such removal and appointment will be accomplished by an instrument or concurrent instruments in writing signed by the SFPUC or such Owners, as the case may be, and delivered to the Trustee, the SFPUC and Owners of the Outstanding Bonds.

(d) If at any time: (i) the Trustee shall cease to be eligible and qualified under the Indenture and shall fail or refuse to resign after written request to do so by the SFPUC or the Owner of any Bond, or (ii) the Trustee shall become Insolvent, then in either such case (A) the SFPUC may remove the Trustee and appoint a successor Trustee in accordance with the provisions described in paragraph (c) under this caption "Resignation or Removal of the Trustee; Appointment of Successor Trustee"; or (B) any Owner of a Bond then Outstanding may, on behalf of the Owners of all Outstanding Bonds, petition a court of competent jurisdiction for removal of the Trustee and appointment of a successor Trustee.

(e) The SFPUC will give written notice of each resignation or removal of the Trustee and each appointment of a successor Trustee to each Owner of Bonds then Outstanding as listed in the Bond Register. Each such notice will include the name and address of the applicable corporate trust office of the successor Trustee.

Merger, Succession or Consolidation of Trustee. Any corporation or association: (a) into which the Trustee is merged or with which it is consolidated; (b) resulting from any merger or consolidation to which the Trustee is a party; or (c) succeeding to all or substantially all of the corporate trust business of the Trustee, will be the successor Trustee without the execution or filing of any document or the taking of any further action. Any such successor must nevertheless be eligible and qualified under the provisions of the Indenture.

Notices to Owners; Waiver.

(a) Where the Indenture provides for notice to Owners of any event, such notice will be sufficiently given (unless otherwise expressly provided therein) if in writing and mailed, first-class postage prepaid, to each Owner affected by each event, at such Owner's address as it appears on the Bond Register, not later than the latest date, and not earlier than the earliest date, prescribed for the first giving of such notice. In any case where notice to Owners is given by mail, neither the failure to mail such notice, nor any default in any notice so mailed to any particular Owner will affect the sufficiency of such notice with respect to other Owners. Where the Indenture provides for notice in any manner, such notice may be waived in writing by the Person entitled to receive such notice, either before or after the event, and such waiver will be the equivalent of such notice. Waivers of notice by Owners will be filed with the Trustee, but such filing will not be a condition precedent to the validity of any action taken in reliance upon such waiver.

(b) Where the Indenture provides for notice to the Owners of any event, the form of the notice will prominently include a title block, separate from the body of the notice, which will include the following information: (i) the complete title of the Bonds; (ii) the complete name of the SFPUC; (iii) the entire nine-digit CUSIP number of each affected Bond; (iv) the record date for the notice; and (v) a summary that is no more than the maximum number of characters permitted by the Securities Depository.

(c) Any notice required or permitted by the Indenture to be given to the Securities Depository will be given to it in the manner provided by the Indenture and described under this caption "Notice to Owners; Waiver" for giving notice to Owners, and also will be given in the format requested by the Securities Depository to such address as may be specified by the Securities Depository in writing to the Trustee.

Discharge and Defeasance

Discharge. If (a) the Principal of any Bonds and the interest due or to become due thereon together with any premium required by redemption of any of such Bonds prior to maturity will be paid, or is caused to be paid, or is provided for under the Indenture, at the times and in the manner to which reference is made in such Bonds, according to the true intent and meaning thereof, or such Bonds will have been paid and discharged in accordance with the Indenture, and (b) all Swap Agreement Payments and other payments due in accordance with the provisions of the Swap Agreements and the Indenture have been made and (c) all of the covenants, agreements, obligations, terms and conditions of the SFPUC under the Indenture will have been kept, performed and observed and there will have been paid to the Trustee all sums of money due or to become due to it in accordance with the terms and provisions of the Indenture, then the right, title and interest of the Trustee in all money and other property then held under the Indenture will thereupon cease and the Trustee, on request of and at the expense of the SFPUC, will release the Indenture and will execute such documents to evidence such release as may be reasonably required by the SFPUC and will turn over to the SFPUC, or to such other Person as may be entitled to receive the same, all balances remaining in any Funds except for amounts required to pay such Bonds or held pursuant to the Indenture.

Defeasance. If the SFPUC deposits with the Trustee money or non-callable Government Securities which, together with the earnings thereon, are sufficient to pay the Principal, Purchase Price or Redemption Price of any particular Bond or Bonds, or portions thereof, becoming due, together with all interest accruing thereon to the due date or redemption date, and pays or makes provision for payment of all fees, costs and expenses of the Trustee due or to become due with respect to such Bonds, all liability of the SFPUC with respect to such Bond or Bonds (or portions thereof) will cease, such Bond or Bonds (or portions thereof) will be deemed not to be Outstanding under the Indenture and the Owner or Owners of such Bond or Bonds (or portions thereof) will be restricted exclusively to the money or Government Securities so deposited, together with any earnings thereon, for any claim of whatsoever nature with respect to such Bond or Bonds (or portions thereof), and the Trustee will hold such money, Government Securities and earnings in trust exclusively for such Owner or Owners and such money, Government Securities and earnings will not secure any other Bonds under the Indenture. In determining the sufficiency of the money and Government Securities deposited pursuant to the provisions of the Indenture described in this paragraph, the Trustee will receive, at the expense of the SFPUC, and may rely upon: (a) a verification report of a firm of nationally recognized independent certified public accountants or other qualified firm acceptable to the SFPUC; and (b) an opinion of Bond Counsel to the effect that (1) all conditions set forth in the Indenture have been satisfied and (2) that defeasance of the Bonds will not cause interest on any Tax-Exempt Bonds to be includable in gross income for federal income tax purposes. Upon such defeasance all rights of the SFPUC, including its right to provide for optional redemption of Bonds on dates other than planned pursuant to such defeasance, will cease unless specifically retained by filing a written notification thereof with the Trustee on or prior to the date the Government Securities are deposited with the Trustee. When a Bond is deemed to be paid under the Indenture, as aforesaid, it will no longer be secured by or entitled to the benefits of the Indenture, except for the purposes of any such payment from such money or Government Securities and except for the provisions of the Indenture as described in this paragraph.

Notice of Defeasance.

(a) If money or non-callable Government Securities have been deposited with the Trustee pursuant to the Indenture for payment of less than all Bonds of a Series and maturity, the Bonds of such Series and maturity to be so paid from such deposit will be selected by the Trustee by lot by such method as will provide for the selection of portions (in authorized denominations) of the Principal of Bonds of such Series and maturity of a denomination larger than the smallest authorized denomination. Such selection will be made within seven days after the money or Government Securities have been deposited with the Trustee. This selection process will be in lieu of the selection process otherwise provided with respect to redemption of Bonds in the Indenture. After such selection is made, Bonds that are to be paid from such deposit (including Bonds issued in exchange for such Bonds pursuant to the transfer or exchange provisions of the Indenture) will be identified by a separate CUSIP number or other designation satisfactory to the Trustee. The Trustee will notify Owners whose Bonds (or portions thereof) have been selected for payment from the money or Government Securities on deposit and will direct such Owners to surrender their Bonds to the Trustee in exchange for Bonds with the appropriate designation. The selection of Bonds for payment from such deposit pursuant to the provisions of the Indenture described under this paragraph will be conclusive and binding on the SFPUC. The SFPUC will give to the Trustee in form satisfactory to it irrevocable instructions to give notice of the deposit of money or Government Securities, the selection of Bonds to be redeemed including CUSIP numbers and the anticipated date of redemption. The Trustee will promptly give such notice to the Owners including the information required under the Indenture.

(b) In case any of the Bonds, for the payment of which money or Government Securities have been deposited with the Trustee pursuant to the Indenture, are to be redeemed on any date prior to their maturity, the SFPUC, in addition to any notice required as described in paragraph (a) under this caption "Notice of Defeasance," will give to the Trustee in form satisfactory to it irrevocable instructions to give notice of redemption of such Bonds on the redemption date for such Bonds as provided in the Indenture.

(c) In addition to the foregoing notice, in the event such Bonds to be redeemed are not by their terms subject to redemption within the next succeeding 65 days, the Trustee will give further notice to the Owners that the deposit required by the Indenture has been made with the Trustee and that said Bonds are deemed to have been paid in accordance with the Indenture and stating the maturity or redemption date or dates upon which money is to be available for the payment of the Principal, Purchase Price or Redemption Price of said Bonds; such further notice will be given promptly following the making of the deposit required by the Indenture; and such further notice also will be given in the manner set forth in the Indenture; but no defect in such further notice nor any failure to give all or any portion of such further notice will in any manner defeat the effectiveness of the deposit.

(d) If the SFPUC has retained any rights as described in the last sentence of the provisions under the caption "Defeasance," notice thereof will be sent to Owners of such Bonds as soon as practicable and not later than any notice required as described in paragraphs (a) or (b) under this caption "Notice of Defeasance."

Supplemental Indentures

Supplemental Trust Indentures Without Owner Consent.

(a) The SFPUC may from time to time and at any time adopt a Supplemental Trust Indenture, without the consent of or notice to any Owner, to effect any one or more of the following:

- (i) provide for the issuance of Bonds in accordance with the provisions of the Indenture;
- (ii) cure any ambiguity or defect or omission or correct or supplement any provision in the Indenture or in any Supplemental Trust Indenture;

(iii) grant to or confer upon the Trustee for the benefit of the Owners any additional rights, remedies, powers, authority or security that may lawfully be granted to or conferred upon the Owners or the Trustee that are not contrary to or inconsistent with the Indenture as then in effect or to subject to the pledge and lien of the Indenture additional revenues, properties or collateral;

(iv) add to the covenants and agreements of the SFPUC in the Indenture other covenants and agreements thereafter to be observed by the SFPUC or to surrender any right or power in the Indenture reserved to or conferred upon the SFPUC that are not contrary to or inconsistent with the Indenture as then in effect;

(v) permit the appointment of a co-trustee under the Indenture;

(vi) modify, alter, supplement or amend the Indenture in such manner as will permit the qualification of the Indenture, if required, under the Indenture Act of 1939 or, the Securities Act of 1933, as from time to time amended, or any similar federal statute hereafter in effect;

(vii) make any other change in the Indenture that will not be materially adverse to the interests of the Owners and which does not involve a change described in the Indenture requiring consents of specific Owners; provided, that whether a Credit Facility is in place to further secure a Series of Bonds will not be taken into account in determining whether an amendment is materially adverse to the interests of such Owners; or (viii) amend, modify, alter or replace the Letter of Representations as provided in the Indenture or other provisions relating to Book Entry Bonds.

Supplemental Trust Indentures Requiring Owner Consent. The SFPUC, at any time and from time to time, may adopt a Supplemental Trust Indenture for the purpose of making any modification or amendment to the Indenture, but only with the written consent, given as provided in the Indenture, of the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds at the time such consent is given, and in case less than all of the Bonds then Outstanding are affected by the modification or amendment, of the Owners of a majority in aggregate Principal amount of the Outstanding Bonds so affected at the time such consent is given; provided, that if such modification or amendment will, by its terms, not take effect so long as any Bonds so affected remain Outstanding, the consent of the Owners of such Bonds will not be required and such Bonds will not be deemed to be Outstanding for the purpose of any calculation of Outstanding Bonds under such provisions of the Indenture. Notwithstanding the foregoing, no modification or amendment contained in any such Supplemental Trust Indenture will permit any of the following, without the consent of each Owner whose rights are affected thereby: (a) a change in the terms of stated maturity or redemption of any Bond or of any interest thereon; (b) a reduction in the Principal, Purchase Price or Redemption Price of any Bond or in the rate of interest thereon or a change in the currency in which such Bond is payable; (c) the creation of a lien on or a pledge of any part of the money or assets pledged under the Indenture other than as permitted hereby; (d) the granting of a preference or priority of any Bond over any other Bond; (e) a reduction in the aggregate Principal amount of Bonds of which the consent of the Owners is required to effect any such modification or amendment; or (f) a change in the provisions under the caption "Waiver of Defaults." Notwithstanding the foregoing, the Owner of any Bond may extend the time for payment of the Principal, Purchase Price or Redemption Price of or interest on such Bond; provided, that upon the occurrence of an Event of Default, funds available under the Indenture for the payment of the Principal, Purchase Price or Redemption Price of and interest on the Bonds will not be applied to any payment so extended until all Principal, Purchase Price, Redemption Price and interest payments that have not been extended have first been paid in full. Notice of any Supplemental Trust Indenture executed pursuant to the provisions of the Indenture described in this paragraph will be given to the Owners promptly following the adoption thereof by the SFPUC.

Consent of Owners and Opinions. Each Supplemental Trust Indenture executed and delivered pursuant to the provisions of the Indenture will take effect only when and as described in this paragraph. A copy of such Supplemental Trust Indenture (or brief summary thereof or reference thereto in form approved by the Trustee), together with a request to Owners for their consent thereto in form satisfactory to the Trustee, will be sent by the Trustee to the Owners, at the expense of the SFPUC, by first class mail, postage prepaid; provided, that a failure to mail such request will not affect the validity of the Supplemental Trust Indenture when consented to as provided in the Indenture. Such Supplemental Trust Indenture will not be effective unless and until there will have been filed with the Trustee (a) the written consents of Owners of the percentage of Bonds specified in the Indenture, and (b) the written opinion of Bond Counsel described in the Indenture. Any such consent will be binding upon the Owner giving such consent and upon any subsequent Owner of such Bonds and of any Bonds issued in exchange therefor or in lieu thereof (whether or not such subsequent Owner has notice thereof), unless such consent is revoked in writing by the Owner giving such consent or a subsequent Owner of such Bonds by filing such revocation with the Trustee prior to the date the Trustee receives the material required as described in (a) and (b) of this paragraph.

Consent of Trustee and Qualified Counterparties.

(a) Notwithstanding any provision of the Indenture to the contrary, the SFPUC will not adopt any Supplemental Trust Indenture that adversely affects the rights, duties or immunities of the Trustee under the Indenture without having received the prior written consent of the Trustee.

(b) Notwithstanding any provision of the Indenture to the contrary, the SFPUC will not adopt any Supplemental Trust Indenture that materially and adversely affects the rights or duties of any Qualified Counterparty under the Indenture without having received the prior written consent of each such Qualified Counterparty.

Notation on Bonds. Bonds authenticated and delivered after the effective date of any action taken as provided in the Indenture may, and, if the SFPUC so determines, will bear a notation by endorsement or otherwise in form approved by the Trustee as to such action, and in that case upon demand of the Owner of any Outstanding Bond at such effective date and presentation of such Bond for the purpose at the office of the Trustee, or upon any transfer of any Bond Outstanding at such effective date, suitable notation will be made on such Bond or upon any Bond issued upon any such transfer by the Trustee as to any such action. If the SFPUC will so determine, new Bonds so modified as in the opinion of the Trustee and the SFPUC to conform to such action will be prepared, authenticated and delivered, and upon demand of the Owner of any Bond then Outstanding will be exchanged, without cost to such Owner for Bonds then Outstanding, upon surrender of such Bonds for Bonds of an equal aggregate Principal amount and of the same Series, maturity and interest rate, in any authorized denomination.

Delivery of Opinion. Subject to the provisions of the Indenture, the Trustee in executing or accepting the additional trusts permitted by the Indenture or the modifications thereby of the trusts created by the Indenture may rely, and will be fully protected in relying, on an opinion of Bond Counsel stating that (a) the execution of such Supplemental Trust Indenture is authorized or permitted by the Indenture, (b) all conditions precedent to the execution and delivery of such Supplemental Trust Indenture have been complied with and (c) the execution and performance of such Supplemental Trust Indenture will not, in and of itself, adversely affect the federal income tax status of interest on the Tax-Exempt Bonds. The Trustee may accept and rely upon such opinion of Bond Counsel as conclusive evidence that any Supplemental Trust Indenture executed pursuant to the provisions of the Indenture complies with the requirements of the Indenture.

Effect of Supplemental Trust Indentures. Upon the adoption of any Supplemental Trust Indenture under the Indenture, the Indenture will be modified in accordance therewith, and such Supplemental Trust Indenture will form a part of the Indenture for all purposes; and every Owner of any Bond theretofore or thereafter authenticated and delivered under the Indenture will be bound thereby.

Credit Facility Provider Rights

Except as otherwise provided in the Supplemental Trust Indenture authorizing the issuance of a Series of Bonds, if the Credit Facility Provider with respect to such Series of Bonds is not in default in respect of any of its obligations under the Credit Facility securing such Series of Bonds and is not Insolvent, the following will apply:

(a) Such Credit Facility Provider, and not the actual Owners, will be deemed to be the Owner of such Series of Bonds at all times for the purposes of (i) giving any approval or consent to the effectiveness of any Supplemental Trust Indenture other than a Supplemental Trust Indenture providing for (A) a change in the terms of redemption, purchase or maturity of the Principal of any Outstanding Bond of such Series or any interest thereon or a reduction in the Principal amount, Purchase Price or Redemption Price thereof or in the rate of interest thereon, or (B) a reduction in the percentage of Owners required to approve or consent to the effectiveness of any Supplemental Trust Indenture, and (ii) giving any approval or consent or exercising any remedies in connection with the occurrence of an Event of Default.

(b) Any amendment to the Indenture requiring the consent of Owners of such Series of Bonds will also require the prior written consent of such Credit Facility Provider.

(c) Any amendment to the Indenture not requiring the consent of Owners of such Series of Bonds will require the prior written consent of such Credit Facility Provider if its rights will be materially and adversely affected by such amendment.

(d) The prior written consent of such Credit Facility Provider will be a condition precedent to the substitution by the SFPUC of any Reserve Account Credit Policy for cash deposited in any Reserve Account securing such Series of Bonds.

(e) In the event the maturity of the Bonds is accelerated, such Credit Facility Provider may elect, in its sole discretion, to pay the accelerated Principal of such Series of Bonds and interest thereon to the date of acceleration (to the extent unpaid by the SFPUC). Upon payment of such accelerated Principal and interest, the obligations of such Credit Facility Provider under such Credit Facility with respect to such Series of Bonds will be fully discharged.

(f) Such Credit Facility Provider will have the right to institute any suit, action or proceeding at law or in equity under the same terms as an Owner of such Series of Bonds in accordance with the Indenture.

(g) Such Credit Facility Provider will, to the extent it makes any payment of Principal or Purchase Price of or interest on such Series of Bonds, become subrogated to the rights of the recipients of such payments in accordance with the terms of such Credit Facility.

(h) The Principal or Purchase Price of or interest on such Series of Bonds paid by such Credit Facility Provider under such Credit Facility will not be deemed paid for purposes of the Indenture, and the Bonds with respect to which such payments were made will remain Outstanding and continue to be due and owing until paid by the SFPUC in accordance with the Indenture.

(i) In the event of any defeasance of such Series of Bonds, the SFPUC will provide such Credit Facility Provider with copies of all documents required by the provisions under the caption "Discharge and Defeasance" to be delivered to the Trustee.

Independent Auditors' Report

The Honorable Mayor and Board of Supervisors
City and County of San Francisco:

Report on the Audit of the Financial Statements

Opinions

We have audited the financial statements of the business-type activities and each major fund of Hetch Hetchy Water and Power and CleanPowerSF (Hetch Hetchy), as of and for the years ended June 30, 2022 and 2021, and the related notes to the financial statements, which collectively comprise Hetch Hetchy's basic financial statements for the years then ended as listed in the table of contents.

In our opinion, the accompanying financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the respective financial position of Hetch Hetchy, as of June 30, 2022 and 2021, and the respective changes in financial position and cash flows thereof for the years then ended in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

Basis for Opinions

We conducted our audits in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America (GAAS) and the standards applicable to financial audits contained in Government Auditing Standards, issued by the Comptroller General of the United States. Our responsibilities under those standards are further described in the Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements section of our report. We are required to be independent of Hetch Hetchy and to meet our other ethical responsibilities, in accordance with the relevant ethical requirements relating to our audits. We believe that the audit evidence we have obtained is sufficient and appropriate to provide a basis for our audit opinions.

Emphasis of Matter

As discussed in Note 1, the financial statements of Hetch Hetchy are intended to present the financial position, the changes in financial position, and, where applicable, cash flows of only that portion of the business-type activities and each major fund of the City and county of San Francisco, California that is attributable to the transactions of the Enterprise. They do not purport to, and do not, present fairly the financial position of the City and County of San Francisco, California, as of June 30, 2022 and 2021, the changes in its financial position, or, where applicable, its cash flows for the years then ended in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles. Our opinions are not modified with respect to this matter.

Responsibilities of Management for the Financial Statements

Management is responsible for the preparation and fair presentation of the financial statements in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles, and for the design, implementation, and maintenance of internal control relevant to the preparation and fair presentation of financial statements that are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error.

Auditors' Responsibilities for the Audit of the Financial Statements

Our objectives are to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements as a whole are free from material misstatement, whether due to fraud or error, and to issue an auditors' report that includes our opinions. Reasonable assurance is a high level of assurance but is not absolute assurance and therefore is not a guarantee that an audit conducted in accordance with GAAS and Government Auditing Standards will always detect a material misstatement when it exists. The risk of not detecting a material misstatement resulting from fraud is higher than for one resulting from error, as fraud may involve collusion, forgery, intentional omissions, misrepresentations, or the override of internal control. Misstatements are considered material if there is a substantial likelihood that, individually or in the aggregate, they would influence the judgment made by a reasonable user based on the financial statements.

In performing an audit in accordance with GAAS and Government Auditing Standards, we:

- Exercise professional judgment and maintain professional skepticism throughout the audit.
- Identify and assess the risks of material misstatement of the financial statements, whether due to fraud or error, and design and perform audit procedures responsive to those risks. Such procedures include examining, on a test basis, evidence regarding the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements.
- Obtain an understanding of internal control relevant to the audit in order to design audit procedures that are appropriate in the circumstances, but not for the purpose of expressing an opinion on the effectiveness of Hetch Hetchy's internal control. Accordingly, no such opinion is expressed.
- Evaluate the appropriateness of accounting policies used and the reasonableness of significant accounting estimates made by management, as well as evaluate the overall presentation of the financial statements.

We are required to communicate with those charged with governance regarding, among other matters, the planned scope and timing of the audit, significant audit findings, and certain internal control related matters that we identified during the audit.

Required Supplementary Information

U.S. generally accepted accounting principles require that the management's discussion and analysis be presented to supplement the basic financial statements. Such information is the responsibility of management and, although not a part of the basic financial statements, is required by the Governmental Accounting Standards Board who considers it to be an essential part of financial reporting for placing the basic financial statements in an appropriate operational, economic, or historical context. We have applied certain limited procedures to the required supplementary information in accordance with GAAS, which consisted of inquiries of management about the methods of preparing the information and comparing the information for consistency with management's responses to our inquiries, the basic financial statements, and other knowledge we obtained during our audits of the basic financial statements. We do not express an opinion or provide any assurance on the information because the limited procedures do not provide us with sufficient evidence to express an opinion or provide any assurance.

Other Reporting Required by *Government Auditing Standards

In accordance with Government Auditing Standards, we have also issued our report dated January 27, 2023 on our consideration of Hetch Hetchy's internal control over financial reporting and on our tests of its compliance with certain provisions of laws, regulations, contracts, and grant agreements and other matters. The purpose of that report is solely to describe the scope of our testing of internal control over financial reporting and compliance and the results of that testing, and not to provide an opinion on the effectiveness of Hetch Hetchy's internal control over financial reporting or on compliance. That report is an integral part of an audit performed in accordance with Government Auditing Standards in considering Hetch Hetchy's internal control over financial reporting and compliance.

HETCH HETCHY WATER AND POWER AND CLEANPOWERSF

Management's Discussion and Analysis (Unaudited)

June 30, 2022 and 2021

This section presents management's analysis of San Francisco Hetch Hetchy Water and Power and CleanPowerSF Enterprise's (Hetch Hetchy or the Enterprise) financial condition and activities as of and for fiscal years ended June 30, 2022 and 2021. Management's Discussion and Analysis (MDA) is intended to serve as an introduction to the Enterprise's financial statements. This information should be read in conjunction with the audited financial statements that follow this section. All dollar amounts, unless otherwise noted, are expressed in thousands of dollars.

In May 2016, San Francisco Public Utilities Commission (SFPUC or the Commission) launched CleanPowerSF, a Community Choice Aggregation (CCA) program into operation, pooling the electricity demands of their residents and businesses for the purpose of buying electricity on behalf of those customers. CleanPowerSF provides San Francisco with new clean energy alternatives, with its objectives to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, and to provide the City and County of San Francisco's (the City) energy consumers with renewable electricity supplies at competitive rates. The SFPUC intends CleanPowerSF to be financially independent, with ability to set rates and charges with adequate revenues, and to issue debt to support its operations and future projects. CleanPowerSF is discretely presented as a fund of the Enterprise starting fiscal year 2017.

The information in this MDA is presented under the following headings:

- Organization and Business
- Overview of the Financial Statements

Organization and Business

SFPUC is a department of the City that is responsible for the maintenance, operation, and development of three utility enterprises: Water, Wastewater, and Hetch Hetchy. The Enterprise was established as a result of the Raker Act of 1913, which granted water and power resource rights-of-way on the Tuolumne River in Yosemite National Park and the Stanislaus National Forest to the City. The Enterprise operates the Hetch Hetchy project, which provides both electricity generation and upcountry water service; and is engaged in the collection and conveyance of approximately 85% of the regional system's water supply and in the generation and transmission of electricity.

In normal rain years, 85% of San Francisco's drinking water starts out as snow falling on 459 square miles of watershed land in Yosemite National Park and the City may supplement water supply from an additional 193 square miles of watershed in Yosemite National Park and the Stanislaus National Forest during extremely dry years. As the snow melts, it collects in the SFPUC's storage reservoirs, then flows by gravity through over 150 miles of pipelines and tunnels, it turns the turbines in three hydroelectric powerhouses, generating approximately 1.2 billion kilowatt hours of electricity per year. The electricity travels over 160 miles of transmission and distribution lines from the upcountry powerhouses to the San Francisco Bay Area.

Approximately 69% of the electricity generated by Hetchy Power was used to provide electric service to the City's municipal customers (including the San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency, Recreation and Parks Department, the Port of San Francisco, San Francisco International Airport and its tenants, Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital and Trauma Center, City streetlights, Moscone Convention Center, and the Water and Wastewater Enterprises). The remaining 31% of electricity generated was sold to CleanPowerSF and the wholesale electric market.

Hetch Hetchy

Hetch Hetchy provides reliable, high-quality water and electric energy to the City and other customers, protects watershed resources in cooperation with Federal agencies, operates and maintains facilities to a high standard of safety and reliability, and maximizes revenue opportunities within approved levels of risk.

Hetch Hetchy, a stand-alone enterprise is comprised of three funds: 1) Hetch Hetchy Water (Hetchy Water) upcountry operations and water system; 2) Hetch Hetchy Power (Hetchy Power), also referred to as the Power Enterprise, which is wholly contained within the Hetch Hetchy fund; and 3) CleanPowerSF, which is an enterprise fund to aggregate the buying power of customers within San Francisco to purchase renewable energy sources or clean power, is reported as a separate fund of Hetch Hetchy. A number of the facilities are joint assets and used for both water and power generation.

Hetchy Water

For efficiency and to streamline the coordination of upcountry water and power operations, Hetchy Water operates upcountry and joint asset facilities, managing resources in an environmentally responsible manner to a high standard of safety and reliability while meeting regulatory requirements. It is responsible for operating the Hetch Hetchy Reservoir, the main source of water for the Hetch Hetchy system. Hetchy Water operates, maintains, and improves water and power facilities, smaller dams and reservoirs, water transmission systems, power generation facilities, and power transmission assets, including transmission lines to the Newark substation. Hetchy Water delivers high-quality water from upcountry downhill to the Bay Area while optimizing the resulting generation of clean hydropower as water is transported through the system. It maintains land and properties consistent with public health and neighborhood concerns.

Hetchy Power

The core business of Hetchy Power, as a municipal department, is to provide adequate and reliable supplies of electric power to meet the electricity needs of City and County of San Francisco's customers, and to offer, when available, power for the municipal loads and agricultural pumping demands consistent with prescribed contractual obligations and federal law.

Hetchy Power's portfolio consists of hydroelectric generation, onsite solar at SFPUC and other City facilities, generation using bio-methane produced at SFPUC wastewater treatment facilities, and third-party purchases. Consistent with its commitment to the development of cleaner and greener power, and to address environmental concerns and community objectives, Hetchy Power continues to evaluate and expand its existing resource base to include additional renewables, distributed generation, demand management, and energy efficiency programs. As part of its mission and core functions, Hetchy Power provides reliable energy services at reasonable cost to customers, with attention to environmental effects and community concerns.

Hetch Hetchy Joint

A portion of Hetch Hetchy's operating budget, capital program, and assets, provides benefit to both Hetchy Power and Hetchy Water. This is commonly referred to as joint costs and joint assets. Both operating and capital costs that jointly benefit both funds are allocated 55% to Hetchy Power and 45% to Hetchy Water, as has historically been done by the SFPUC.

CleanPowerSF

CleanPowerSF is a community choice aggregation (CCA) program made possible by the 2002 passage of California Assembly Bill 117, enabling communities to purchase power on behalf of their residents and businesses and creating competition in power generation since May 2016. The core business is to provide greener electricity generation to residential and commercial consumers in San Francisco. Through CleanPowerSF, SFPUC seeks to achieve several complementary goals, including affordable and competitive electricity generation rates, a diverse electricity resource portfolio that is comprised of renewable and other clean sources of supply, and high-quality customer service. The program serves more than 380,000 customer accounts and provides San Francisco with an electricity supply from its default "Green" product that is at least 50% California State Renewables Portfolio Standard (RPS)-eligible. Additionally, CleanPowerSF offers "SuperGreen", a 100% RPS-eligible electricity supply, that is available to customers for a small additional cost. On June 1, 2022, CleanPowerSF opened enrollment for its "SuperGreen Saver" product, which provides eligible low-income ratepayers residing in Disadvantaged Communities with 100% RPS electricity at a 20% bill discount.

Overview of the Financial Statements

Hetch Hetchy's financial statements include the following:

Statements of Net Position present information on Hetch Hetchy's assets, deferred outflows, liabilities, and deferred inflows as of year-end, with the difference reported as net position. Over time, increases or decreases in net position may serve as a useful indicator of whether the financial position of Hetch Hetchy is improving or worsening.

While the Statements of Net Position provide information about the nature and amount of resources and obligations as of year-end, the Statements of Revenues, Expenses, and Changes in Net Position present the results of Hetch Hetchy's operations over the course of the fiscal year and information as to how the net position changed during the year. These statements can be used as an indicator of the extent to which Hetch Hetchy has successfully recovered its costs through user fees and other charges. All changes in net position are reported during the period in which the underlying event giving rise to the change occurs, regardless of the timing of the related cash flows. Thus, revenues and expenses are reported in these statements from some items that will result in cash flows in future fiscal periods, such as delayed collection of operating revenues and the expenses of employee earned but unused vacation leave.

The Statements of Cash Flows present changes in cash and cash equivalents resulting from operational, capital financing, non-capital financing, and investing activities. These statements summarize the annual flow of cash receipts and cash payments, without consideration of the timing of the event giving rise to the obligation or receipt and exclude non-cash accounting measures of depreciation or amortization of assets.

The Notes to Financial Statements provide information that is essential to a full understanding of the financial statements that is not presented on the face of the financial statements.

COVID-19

On February 25, 2020, the City's Mayor issued a proclamation declaring a local emergency to exist in connection with the imminent spread within the City of the novel coronavirus ("COVID-19"). On March 16, 2020, the City's Health Officer issued a stay safe at home order, Health Officer Order No. C19-07 (the "Stay Safe At Home Order"), requiring most people and City employees to remain in their homes subject to certain exceptions including obtaining essential goods (such as food and necessary supplies), and requiring the closure of nonessential businesses. In addition, Section 2 of the second supplement to the emergency proclamation authorizes the SFPUC to suspend (a) the discontinuation or shutoff of power service for residents and businesses in the City for non-payment of power bills and (b) the imposition of late payment penalties or fees for delinquent power bills through July 11, 2020. The suspension was extended on December 8, 2020 through June 30, 2021, again on April 27, 2021 through March 31, 2022 and then again on February 22, 2022 to July 31, 2022 for shut off of power service for residential customers and to June 30, 2023 for late payment penalties. The suspension of the return of delinquent CleanPowerSF customers to Pacific Gas & Electric Company (PG&E) generation service for failure to pay CleanPowerSF charges was extended to June 30, 2022. This proclamation did not have a material effect on the operations of the Hetch Hetchy Enterprise.

Net Position, Fiscal Year 2022

Hetch Hetchy

Hetch Hetchy's net position of $827,678 increased by $43,480 or 5.5% from prior year resulting from a net increase of $144,706 in total assets and deferred outflows of resources, offset by an increase of $101,226 in total liabilities and deferred inflows of resources (see Table 1A). Current and other assets were $500,159, a $30,652 or 6.5% increase from prior year, mainly due to net pension assets recognized in current year based on actuarial reports. Hetch Hetchy adopted GASB Statement No. 87, Leases and recognized right-to-use assets net of accumulated amortization of $364 and $369 in lease liabilities as of June 30, 2022. See Note 9 for additional information about the leases.

Capital assets, net of accumulated depreciation and amortization, increased by $117,106 or 17.5% to $786,643 primarily from construction and capital improvement activities for the Bay Corridor Project and the Mountain Tunnel Improvement Project. Deferred outflows of resources decreased by $3,052 due to decreases of $2,402 in pensions and $650 in other post-employment benefits (OPEB) based on actuarial reports.

Total liabilities increased by $21,361 or 5.7% to $393,225. The increases included $73,111 in outstanding debt mainly from Power 2021 Series AB revenue bonds and commercial paper issuances offset by a decrease of $51,750 in other liabilities. Deferred inflows of resources increased by $79,865 due to increases of $78,741 in relation to pensions and $1,124 in OPEB based on actuarial reports.

Hetchy Water

Hetchy Water's net position of $249,180 increased by $24,519 or 10.9% resulting from a net increase of $33,497 in total assets and deferred outflows of resources, offset by a net increase of $8,978 in total liabilities and deferred inflows of resources (see Table 1B). The increase of $11,527 in current and other assets was attributed to increases of $13,912 in net pension assets based on actuarial report, $33 in charges for services receivables due to higher consumption from Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory, $19 in interest receivables due to higher interest accrual from City's Treasury, and $8 in inventory due to more purchases than issuances during the fiscal year. The increases were offset by decreases of $2,173 in cash and investment with City Treasury mainly from higher project spending, $192 in prepaid charges, advances, and other receivables mainly due to prepayment to Turlock Irrigation District for relicensing studies, $67 decrease in due from other governments related to State grant reimbursement received for Lower Cherry Aqueduct project, and $13 decrease in lease right-to-use assets net of accumulated amortization per implementation of GASB Statement No. 87, Leases.

Capital assets, net of accumulated depreciation and amortization, increased by $23,526 or 13.3% to $201,007 primarily from construction and capital improvement activities for the Mountain Tunnel Improvement Project and San Joaquin Pipeline Valve and Safe Entry Improvement Project. Deferred outflows of resources decreased by $1,556 due to decreases of $1,103 in pensions and $453 in other post-employment benefits (OPEB) based on actuarial reports.

Hetchy Water's total liabilities decreased by $25,160 or 42.3% to $34,336, as explained by decreases of $26,645 in net pension liability based on actuarial estimates, $2,733 in restricted payables to vendors and contractors mainly due to lower year-end expense accruals for capital projects, $204 in OPEB obligations based on actuarial assumptions, $16 in lease liability per implementation of GASB Statement No. 87, Leases, and $6 in grant advance due to recognition of prior year State grant for the Rim Fire project. These decreases were offset by increases of $4,192 in unrestricted payables mainly for license and permit fees to National Park Service, $148 in employee related benefits mainly due to increase in workers' compensation, $102 in general liability based on actuarial estimates, and $2 increase in rental deposits and prepaid rent.

Deferred inflows of resources increased by $34,138 due to increases of $33,489 in relation to pensions and $649 in OPEB based on actuarial reports.

Hetchy Power

Hetchy Power's net position of $494,178 increased by $21,718 or 4.6% resulting from a net increase of $102,874 in total assets and deferred outflows of resources, offset by an increase of $81,156 in total liabilities and deferred inflows of resources (see Table 1C). Increase of $11,195 in current and other assets was attributed to increases of $17,004 in net pension assets based on actuarial report, $7,882 in prepaid charges, advances, and other receivables mainly due to collateral paid to satisfy the CAISO's financial security requirements, $3,295 in cash and investments mainly due to higher collections from billings, $76 in interest receivables due to higher interest accrual from City's Treasury, and $31 increase in Federal grants receivable mainly from the Rim Fire Project.

These increases were offset by decreases of $8,835 in charges for services receivables due to completion of billing system implementation in prior year resulting in more timely billings in current year, $7,497 in restricted interest and other receivables mainly due to decrease in vendor prepayment to PG&E for the Bay Corridor Project, $602 in due from other City departments mainly from repayment for Sustainable Energy Account, $142 in inventory due to more issuances than purchases during the fiscal year, and $17 decrease in lease right-to-use assets net of accumulated amortization per implementation of GASB Statement No. 87, Leases.

Capital assets, net of accumulated depreciation and amortization, increased by $93,580 or 19.0% to $585,636 primarily from construction and capital improvement activities for the Bay Corridor Project and

These decreases were offset by increases of $3,666 in restricted payables to vendors and contractors due to higher year-end expense accruals for capital projects, $868 increase in interest payable related to 2021 Series AB revenue bond issuances, $734 in unearned revenues, refunds, and other, $200 in employee related benefits mainly due to increase in workers' compensation, and $11 in due to Department of Public Works for painting of light poles. Increase of $734 in unearned revenues, refunds, and other was mainly due to increases of $458 in deposits from custom work projects, $267 in prepayments from Distributed Antenna System (DAS) program, and $60 in overpayments received from customers, offset by decreases of $48 in grant advance due to recognition of Rim Fire State grant revenue and $3 in deposits received from retail customers.

Deferred inflows of resources increased by $41,725 due to increases of $40,931 in relation to pensions and $794 in OPEB based on actuarial reports.

Capital assets, net of accumulated depreciation and amortization, increased by $46,627 or 10.5% to $492,056 primarily due to additions of facilities, improvements, machinery, and equipment for the Bay Corridor Project and Holm Powerhouse Rehabilitation & Kirkwood Powerhouse Oil Containment Upgrades. Deferred outflows of resources increased by $1,517 due to an increase of $1,702 in OPEB based on actuarial reports offset by a decrease of $185 in pensions.

Hetchy Power's total liabilities of $279,195 increased by $64,721 or 30.2%. Total assets decreased by $537 due to a $6,447 decrease in charges for services receivables attributed to an increase of $3,675 in allowance for doubtful accounts due to higher past due balances in customer power utility accounts after the Mayor's proclamation to extend the moratorium on utility shutoffs and bill collections to help customers experiencing financial hardship as a result of COVID-19. Other decreases include $2,772 in receivables mainly due to one-time customer assistance bill credits related to COVID-19 relief, $576 in prepaid charges, advances, and other receivables mainly due to lower vendor prepayments for purchased electricity and $160 in interest receivables due to lower annualized interest rate. June 30, 2022 and 2021

Total liabilities of $32,501 increased by $3,339 or 11.4%, which was mainly explained by $9,000 in cash collateral received for power purchase agreement (see Note 14(a)), $1,203 in net pension liability based on actuarial report, $712 in OPEB obligations based on actuarial assumptions, and an increase of $200 in employee related benefits including vacation, sick leave and accrued payroll mainly due to an extra day in current year-end payroll accrual when compared to prior year, and a 3% cost of living adjustment increase in December 2020. Other increases in unearned revenues, refunds, and other, include $90 from net energy metering credits to retail and commercial customers, $86 from customer prepayments, and $4 from utility and electric energy surcharge tax payable. These increases were offset by decreases of $6,047 in payables to vendors and contractors mainly from lower power purchases, $1,809 due to other City departments ($1,800 final working capital loan repayment to Hetchy Power and $9 to City Attorney's Office for unbilled legal services), and $100 in general liability based on actuarial estimates.

Deferred inflows of resources increased by $585 due to an increase of $702 in OPEB based on actuarial reports offset by a decrease of $117 in relation to pensions.

Result of Operations, Fiscal Year 2022

Hetch Hetchy

Hetch Hetchy's total revenues were $491,229, an increase of $78,663 or 19.1% over prior year (see Table 2A). Charges for services increased by $89,274 or 22.8% from prior year's revenues mainly due to higher billings from CleanPowerSF and Hetchy Power. Total expenses increased by $65,602 or 15.9% primarily from higher energy purchases due to volatile and increased pricing in power market. (See Table 2A).

Hetchy Water

Hetchy Water's total revenues were $46,859, a decrease of $1,351 or 2.8% from prior year's revenues (see Table 2B). Decrease was due to $2,700 in investment loss and a decrease of $873 from other non-operating revenues, offset by increases of $2,221 from charges for services and $1 from rents and concessions.

Charges for services were $49,200, an increase of $2,221 or 4.7% mainly due to increased water assessment fees from the Water Enterprise to fund upcountry water-related costs and higher consumption from Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. Rents were $112, an increase of $1 or 0.9% mainly due to consumer price index adjustment. Interest and investment loss was $2,932 mainly due to unrealized losses as a result of the decline in market value of investments related to rising interest rates. Other non-operating revenues were $479, a decrease of $873 or 64.6% mainly due to $899 lower Federal and State grants revenue from the Rim Fire Projects, offset by increases of $19 in overhead charges and $7 in net gain from sale of fixed assets.

Total operating expenses, excluding interest expenses and other non-operating expenses, were $52,303, an increase of $1,784 or 3.5%. The increase was primarily due to increases of $4,275 in other operating expenses mainly due to higher capital spending, $612 in services provided by other departments mainly due to higher legal service charges from City Attorney's Office, $456 in contractual services mainly from increased engineering and management consulting services, $309 in general and administrative expenses mainly due to higher fees, licenses, and permit expenses, $277 in depreciation and amortization mainly related to additional building, structure and equipment placed in service, and $90 in material and supplies mainly from fuel and water treatment supplies. These increases were offset by a decrease of $4,235 in personnel services due to lower pension obligations based on actuarial reports.

Other non-operating expenses were $37, a decrease of $26 due to lower payments to community-based organization programs. Interest expenses were $1, a decrease of $1 due to implementation of GASB Statement No. 87, Leases. A transfer in of $30,001 was received from the Water Enterprise to fund various Mountain Tunnel projects.

As a result of the above activities, net position for the year ended June 30, 2022 increased by $24,519 or 10.9% compared to prior year.

Hetchy Power

Hetchy Power's total revenues were $185,004, an increase of $29,324 or 18.8% from prior year's revenues (see Table 2C). Increases included $36,858 from charges for services and $1 from rents and concessions, offset by decreases of $4,025 from interest and investment income and $3,510 from other non-operating revenues.

Charges for services were $173,105, an increase of $36,858 or 27.1%, due to $22,537 in billings from City departments such as San Francisco International Airport, Municipal Transportation Agency, and Port of San Francisco as a result of increased operation due to easing of COVID-19 restrictions and $14,980 in Congestion Revenue Right (CRR) credits from California Independent System Operator (CAISO), offset by a decrease of $659 in resale of capacity to CleanPowerSF. Rents increased slightly by $1 or 0.7% to $137 mainly due to consumer price index adjustment. Interest and investment loss was $4,001, a decrease of $4,025, mainly due to unrealized losses as a result of the decline in market value of investments related to rising interest rates.

Other non-operating revenues were $15,763, a decrease of $3,510 or 18.2%, mainly due to lower collections of $3,254 from the Power System Mitigation Project, $1,371 in Cap and Trade revenue due to decrease of 97,000 allowances or 80% sold, $1,194 in revenue from Alice Griffith Housing Project due to prior year recognition of commercial deposits, $797 in settlement revenue from prior year litigation settlement, and $335 in overhead charges, offset by an increase of $3,441 in State and Federal grants revenue from Rim Fire Project and California Utility Arrearages Relief Payment Program for unpaid bills.

Total operating expenses, excluding interest expenses, other non-operating expenses, and amortization of premium, discount, and issuance costs, increased by $10,707 or 7.4%, to $156,347. The increase was primarily due to increases of $15,559 in purchased electricity and transmission, distribution, and other power costs due to volatile and increased pricing in power market, $1,978 in depreciation and amortization mainly for buildings, facilities, machinery, and equipment related to higher capitalization of assets, $899 in contractual services mainly for management consulting and engineering services, $280 in materials and supplies mainly for electrical supplies and tools, and $116 in services provided by other departments mainly due to higher risk management costs. The increases were offset by decreases of $6,110 in personnel services due to lower pension obligations based on actuarial reports, $1,420 in general and administrative expenses mainly due to lower judgements and claims expenses, and $595 decrease in other operating expenses mainly due to higher capitalized project expenses.

Interest expenses increased by $3,652 or 185.2% mainly due to no bond interest capitalization recognized in current year resulting from the implementation of GASB Statement No. 89, Accounting for Interest Cost Incurred Before the End of a Construction Period. Amortization of premium and discount increased by $411 or 187.7% mainly due to costs of issuance for 2021 Series AB revenue bond.

Other non-operating expenses were $591, a decrease of $311 or 34.5% mainly due to lower payments for GoSolarSF Incentive Program. Transfer out of $532 includes $500 to General Fund for repayment of Educational Revenue Augmentation Funds and $32 to the Office of the City's Administrator for the Surety Bond Program.

As a result of the above activities, net position for the year ended June 30, 2022 increased by $21,718 or 4.6% compared to prior year.

CleanPowerSF

CleanPowerSF's total revenues were $259,366, a $50,690 or 24.3% increase over prior year (see Table 2D). Charges for services increased by $50,195 or 24.2% mainly due to increases of $44,215 in electricity sales to retail and commercial customers resulting from a 16% average rate increase, $2,831 reduction in allowance for doubtful accounts attributed to assistance received from California Utility Arrearages Relief Payment Program (CAPP) for eligible customer account arrearages, $2,817 in one-time customer assistance bill credit related to COVID-19 in prior year, and $332 from higher capacity sales to Hetchy Power. Other non-operating revenue increased by $1,832 mainly due to $2,424 Federal grants received from CAPP, offset by a decrease of $592 liquidated damage compensation received from supplier for delay of the Renewable Energy Project in prior year. Interest and investment loss was $1,286 as a result of the decline in market value of investments related to rising interest rates.

Total operating expenses, excluding interest expenses were $262,118, an increase of $49,407 or 23.2% from prior year. The increase was due to $48,749 in purchased electricity and transmission, distribution, and other power costs due to volatile and increased pricing in power market, and higher resource adequacy capacity purchases related to compliance requirements from the California Public Utilities Commission. Other operating expenses increased by $2,895 due to $2,424 grant expense recognized for CAPP when applied to customer account arrearages and $471 in operating expenses mainly for the Neighborhood Steward Program and the new Local Renewable Energy. Other increases included $1,394 in general and administrative expenses mainly due to higher judgements and claims expenses, $143 in professional and contractual services mainly from higher software licensing fee, and $7 in material and supplies mainly for data processing equipment. These increases were offset by decreases of $3,474 in personnel services due to lower pension obligations based on actuarial reports, $307 in services provided by other departments mainly due to lower labor support from Hetchy Power. Interest expenses decreased by $21 mainly due to repayment of working capital loan to Hetchy Power completed in prior year.

Result of Operations, Fiscal Year 2021

Hetchy Water

Hetchy Water's total revenues were $48,210, an increase of $7,464 or 18.3% from prior year's revenues (see Table 2B). Increase was due to $12,182 from charges for services, offset by decreases of $2,509 from other non-operating revenues, $2,164 in interest and investment income, and $45 from rents and concessions.

Charges for services were $46,979, an increase of $12,182 or 35.0% mainly due to increased water assessment fees from the Water Enterprise to fund upcountry water-related costs and higher consumption from Lawrence Livermore National Laboratory. Rents were $111, a decrease of $45 or 28.8% mainly from lower cottage rental revenue. Other non-operating revenues were $1,352, a decrease of $2,509 or 65.0% mainly due to decreases of $1,510 in Federal and State grants revenue resulting from lower collections from State grants related to 2018 Moccasin Storm, $995 from prior year Rim Fire recoveries, and $4 in net gain from sale of fixed assets. Interest and investment loss was $232 mainly due to unrealized loss attributed to decrease in market value in cash and investments with City Treasury and lower interest rates.

Total operating expenses, excluding other non-operating expenses, were $50,517, an increase of $5,644 or 12.6%. The increase was attributed to $3,567 in personnel services resulting from cost of living adjustments, higher retirement contribution rates, and increased personnel and fringe benefit costs. Other increases include $773 in contractual services mainly from increased engineering and management consulting services, $733 in depreciation and amortization related to additional building, structure and equipment placed in service, $664 in services provided by other departments mainly due to higher bureau support costs and legal service charges from City Attorney's Office, and $162 in other operating expenses mainly due to higher capital spending. These increases were offset by decreases of $190 in general and administrative expenses mainly due to lower judgements and claims expenses and $65 decrease in materials and supplies mainly for water and sewage treatment supplies.

Other non-operating expenses were $63, an increase of $52 due to payments to community-based organization programs. A transfer in of $16,000 was received from the Water Enterprise to fund upcountry projects.

Hetchy Power

Hetchy Power's total revenues were $155,680, a decrease of $15,943 or 9.3% from prior year's revenues (see Table 2C). Decreases included $5,733 from other non-operating revenues, $5,722 from interest and investment income, $4,433 from charges for services, and $55 from rents and concessions.

Charges for services were $136,247, a decrease of $4,433 or 3.2% was attributed to a decrease of $8,362 in sales to City departments, wholesale, and Treasure Island customers due to COVID-19 related impacts and $667 increase in allowance for doubtful accounts. Receivables aging over 120 days increased significantly due to the suspension of collection efforts and moratorium on utility shutoffs in response to the COVID-19 emergency proclamation issued by the Mayor. The decrease was offset by increases of $2,537 in sales to retail customers mainly due to new affordable redevelopment housing accounts and $2,059 in resale of capacity to CleanPowerSF due to excess capacity of electric system reliability compliance product. Rents were $136, a decrease of $55 or 28.8% mainly due to lower cottage rental revenue. Interest and investment income were $24, a decrease of $5,722 or 99.6% mainly due to decreases of $4,691 in interest earned from lower interest rates and cash balance, unrealized loss, and $1,031 from interest accrued for Treasure Island submarine power cable in prior year.

Other non-operating revenues were $19,273, a decrease of $5,733, or 22.9%, mainly due to decreases of $5,739 from Low Carbon Fuel Standard (LCFS) credit sales revenue, attributed to less carbon fuel credit generated by San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency, $2,574 in license fee from Transbay Cable Project due to final payment received in prior year, $1,139 in Cap and Trade revenue due to decrease of 23,000 or 16% allowance sold, and $654 decrease in fees collected from DAS program. Other decreases include $402 in State and Federal grants revenue resulting from lower collections from State grants related to 2018 Moccasin Storm and Federal grants related to Hazard Mitigation grant, $70 in Federal interest subsidy due to lower debt outstanding, $37 in damage claims revenue, and $5 in net gain from sale of fixed assets. These decreases were offset by increases of $2,921 in collection for Power System Impact Mitigation Project, $797 in settlement revenue related to litigation, $736 in commercial deposits from Alice Griffith Housing Project recognized as revenue, $259 in overhead charges, and $174 in miscellaneous revenue mainly from generation interconnection study and refunds from vendor.

Total operating expenses, excluding interest expenses, other non-operating expenses, and amortization of premium, discount, and issuance costs, decreased by $2,489 or 1.7%, to $145,638. The decrease was primarily due to $6,138 in purchased electricity and transmission, distribution, and other power costs due to lower electricity sales, $289 in services provided by other departments mainly due to lower bureau support costs, $270 in material and supplies due to lower equipment maintenance, and $96 decrease in depreciation and amortization for machinery and equipment. The decreases were offset by increases of $1,704 in general and administrative expenses mainly due to higher litigation expenses, $1,572 in other operating expenses mainly due to higher capital spending, $984 in contractual services mainly from new in-city inventory warehouse rental at Pier 23 in San Francisco, and $44 in personnel services resulting from cost of living adjustments, higher retirement contribution rates, higher pension obligations based on actuarial reports, and increased personnel and fringe benefit costs.

Interest expenses were $1,970, a decrease of $770 or 28.1% due to decrease in outstanding debt and lower interest rates for commercial paper. Amortization of premium and discount slightly decreased by $9 or 3.9% to $219.

Other non-operating expenses were $902, a decrease of $158 or 14.9% mainly due to decrease in payments for GoSolarSF Incentive Program. Transfer out of $532 includes $500 to General Fund for repayment of Educational Revenue Augmentation Funds and $32 to the Office of the City's Administrator for the Surety Bond Program.

As a result of the above activities, net position for the year ended June 30, 2021 increased by $6,857 or 1.5% compared to prior year.

CleanPowerSF

CleanPowerSF's total revenues were $208,676, a $38,556 or 15.6% decrease over prior year (see Table 2D). Charges for services decreased by $37,762 or 15.4% mainly due to a decrease of $32,077 in electricity sales to retail and commercial customers resulting from consumption decrease of 92,503 MWh or 3%, a one-time customer assistance bill credit of $2,817 related to COVID-19 utility bill relief, an increase of $2,451 in allowance for doubtful accounts, and $417 lower capacity sales to other entities. Receivables aging over 120 days increased significantly due to the suspension of collection efforts and moratorium on utility shutoffs in response to the COVID-19 emergency proclamation issued by the Mayor. Interest and investment income decreased by $1,720 or 97.1% due to unrealized loss and lower interest rates on pooled

Total operating expenses, excluding interest expenses were $212,716, an increase of $16,690 or 8.5% from prior year. The increase was due to $16,219 in purchased electricity and transmission, distribution and other power costs as a result of higher prices in the CAISO market and increase in resource adequacy capacity purchases related to new compliance requirements from the California Public Utilities Commission. Other increases include $1,200 in services provided by other departments due to increased labor support from Hetchy Power and legal service charges from City Attorney's Office, and $305 increase in other operating expenses mainly from the Neighborhood Steward Program and the new Local Renewable Energy Program. These increases were offset by decreases of $529 in professional and contractual services mainly from lower management consulting services, $279 in personnel services mainly due to lower pension obligations and OPEB based on actuarial reports, $195 in general and administrative expenses mainly due to lower judgements and claims based on actuarial estimates, and $31 in material and supplies due to reduced furnishings expenses. Interest expenses were $18, a decrease of $51 or 73.9% due to lower principal outstanding from Hetchy Power working capital loan.

As a result of the above activities, net position for the year ended June 30, 2021 decreased by $4,058 or 4.5% compared to prior year.

The increase of $73,111 was mainly due to $124,000 in 2021 Series AB revenue bond issuances, $63,058 in commercial paper issuance for Hetchy Power facilities, and $27,022 in bond premium for 2021 Series AB revenue bonds, offset by $140,043 in commercial paper, bonds, and certificates of participation principal repayments, and $926 in amortization of premium and discount.

Credit Ratings and Bond Insurance – The Power Enterprise's Power Revenue Bonds have been rated "AA-" by Fitch Inc and "AA" by Standard and Poor's (S&P) as of June 30, 2022 and 2021, respectively.

In December 2020, Moody's Investors Service, ("Moody's") assigned a first-time A2 Issuer Rating to CleanPowerSF, with a stable outlook. Hetch Hetchy Water and Power contains the Power Enterprise as a separate enterprise fund, with CleanPowerSF a component unit of the Power Enterprise. CleanPowerSF is tracked and audited as a standalone fund, with financial statements, including revenues and expenses, separate and discrete from the Power Enterprise. As such, CleanPowerSF is deemed to be a separate credit from the Power Enterprise, with its own credit rating.

Debt Service Coverage – Pursuant to the Indenture, the Power Enterprise is required to collect sufficient net revenues each fiscal year, together with any Available Funds (except Bond Reserve Funds) which include unappropriated fund balances and reserves, and cash and book value of investments held by the Treasurer for the Hetchy Power, that the SFPUC reasonably expects would be available, to pay principal and interest becoming due and payable on all outstanding bonds as provided in the Indenture, less any refundable credits, at least equal to 1.25 times annual debt service for said fiscal year. The Series 2015 AB power revenue bonds represent the first series of senior lien revenue bonds of Hetchy Power. Pursuant to Power's Master Trust Indenture, senior lien debt service coverage excludes debt service on subordinate obligations, such as Hetchy Power's existing CREBS, NCREBs, and QECBs. During fiscal year 2022, the Power Enterprise's net revenues, together with fund balances available to pay debt service and not budgeted to be expended, were sufficient to meet the rate covenant requirements under the Power Enterprise's Indenture (see Note 8).

Debt Authorization – Pursuant to Charter Section 9.107(6), the Power Enterprise can incur indebtedness upon three-fourths vote of the Board of Supervisors, for the purpose of the reconstruction or replacement of existing water facilities and electric power facilities, or combinations thereof, under the jurisdiction of the Public Utilities Commission. Pursuant to Charter Section 9.107(8), the Power Enterprise can issue revenue bonds, without voter approval, upon an affirmative vote of the Board of Supervisors, for the purpose of the acquisition, construction, installation, equipping, improvement, or rehabilitation of equipment or facilities for renewable energy and energy conservation. Pursuant to Proposition A, approved by the San Francisco voters on June 5, 2018, City Charter Section 8B.124 is amended to authorize the Power Enterprise to enter into indebtedness, including revenue bonds, notes, commercial paper or other forms of indebtedness, when authorized by ordinance approved by a two-thirds vote of the Board of Supervisors to reconstruct, replace, expand, repair, improve or construct new power facilities under the jurisdiction of SFPUC or for any other purpose of the Power Enterprise, and in compliance with City Charter Section 8B.124. Proposition A expressly prohibits the SFPUC from issuing bonds to finance the construction of power plants that generate electricity using fossil fuels or nuclear energy. As of June 30, 2022 and 2021, $163,555 and $39,555 of Hetchy Power revenue bonds were issued against existing authorization of $555,043 and $535,699, respectively.

Cost of Debt Capital – The Power Enterprise's outstanding long-term senior lien debt consists of the 2015 Series AB and 2021 Series AB Power Revenue Bonds issued in May 2015 and December 2021, respectively, which are issued under the Master Indenture and are senior in lien to all the other Enterprise's outstanding debt obligations. Coupon interest rates range from 3.0% to 5.0%. The Power Enterprise has previously issued and incurred debt service on Tax Credit Bonds and certificates of participation, which constitute subordinate obligations. Interest rates on the Tax Credit Bonds, which include QECBs and NCREBs, ranging from 1.2% to 1.5% (net of the federal tax subsidy). Certificates of participation carried interest rates ranging from 2.0% to 6.5%. The Power Enterprise's short-term debt issued under its commercial paper program has interest rates ranging from 0.1% to 1.1% and 0.1% to 0.2% during fiscal years 2022 and 2021, respectively.

Rates and Charges

Hetchy Water

Hetchy Water charges for services relates to the storage and delivery of water. Assessment fees from the Water Enterprise, which cover the water-related upcountry costs, were $45,815 and $44,149 for the years ended June 30, 2022 and 2021, respectively. In fiscal year 2023, the assessment fees will be $49,636, an increase of $3,821 or 8.3% as reflected in the fiscal year 2023 adopted budget.

Hetchy Power

Municipal Rates

Hetchy Power charges for services relates to power generation and electricity delivery to contractual and municipal customers. For municipal power services, customers are typically charged a General Use rate or Enterprise rate. Enterprise rates are charged based on projected PG&E equivalent rates by customer class. General fund department customers are mostly charged a General Use rate, a rate that is currently below cost of service. These General Use rates, however, are moving closer towards cost of service and increasing by $0.01 per kWh on an annual basis beginning July 1, 2020. The General Use rates have been adopted every two years.

On May 10, 2020, the Commission adopted two years of General Use rates effective July 1, 2020 through June 30, 2022. The adopted General Use rate for fiscal years 2022 and 2021 are $0.09877/kWh and $0.08877/kWh, respectively. The Power Enterprise has developed rates under the cost of service analysis model and completed the 2022 Power Rates Study in spring of 2022, in which General Use rates have been modernized to standard customer classes and incrementally increased to cost of service over the next few years. New rates effective fiscal year 2023 have been adopted in May 2022. The SFPUC Rates Schedules and Fees is available at <https://sfpub.org/accounts-services/water-power-and-sewer-rates>.

Retail Rates

The Commission approved a new schedule of retail electric rates, fees, and charges for residential, commercial, and industrial customers where Hetch Hetchy has been designated as the power provider for retail customers to be applied to meter readings on or after July 1, 2016. Total bundled service charges for residential service rates and low-income residential service rates are calculated using the total rates, monthly, based on monthly meter reading, plus any applicable taxes.

To date, Hetchy Power has prepared service standards, developed system plans and specifications, acquired materials and equipment, and initiated construction of primary distribution facilities.

Pursuant to City and County of San Francisco Charter Section 8B.125, an independent rate study is performed at least once every five years. The rate study is undertaken to examine future revenue requirements and cost-of-service of the Power Enterprise. In fall of 2020, SFPUC engaged a consultant to perform a cost-of-service study. The informed rate setting from this study resulted in recommendation and approval by the Commission in the spring of 2022 for rates to be effective July 1, 2023. The SFPUC Rates Schedules and Fees is available at <https://sfpuc.org/accounts-services/water-power-and-sewer-rates>.

CleanPowerSF

CleanPowerSF began offering services in May 2016, giving residential and commercial electricity consumers in San Francisco a choice of having their electricity supplied from clean renewable sources, such as solar and wind, at competitive rates. CleanPowerSF offers two products: a "Green" product comprised of at least 50% renewable energy and a "SuperGreen" product comprised of 100% renewable energy. Most customers take service under the "Green" product rates and remaining customers have opted to upgrade to "SuperGreen" product rates. On May 25, 2021, the Commission approved a CleanPowerSF rate adjustment formula. Through Resolution 21-0085, CleanPowerSF rates formulaically adjusted, when PG&E rates changed to the lesser of no more than 5% higher than PG&E generation rates or rates that recover program costs. On September 28, 2021, the Commission approved a subsequent CleanPowerSF rate adjustment formula. Through Resolution 21-0152, CleanPowerSF rates formulaically adjusted when PG&E rates changed to the lesser of no more than 15% higher than PG&E generation rates or rates that recover program costs from November 1, 2021 to June 30, 2022.

CleanPowerSF revenues are adequate to support its own operations. CleanPowerSF is subject to Section 8B.125 of the City Charter, which requires an independent rate study to be performed at least once every five years, and the Commission sets rates and charges for the program. CleanPowerSF rates have been included in the 2022 Power Rates Study, which is completed in the spring of 2022 for rates to be effective July 1, 2023. The CleanPowerSF Rates Schedules are available at <http://cleanpowersf.org/residential> for residential customers and <http://cleanpowersf.org/commercial> for commercial customers.

HETCH HETCHY WATER AND POWER AND CLEANPOWERSF

Notes to Financial Statements

(1) Description of Reporting Entity

San Francisco Hetch Hetchy Water and Power (Hetch Hetchy or the Enterprise) was established as a result of the Raker Act of 1913, which granted water and power resources rights-of-way on the Tuolumne River in Yosemite National Park and Stanislaus National Forest to the City and County of San Francisco (the City). CleanPowerSF, launched in May 2016, provides green electricity from renewable sources to residential and commercial customers in San Francisco and was reported as part of Hetch Hetchy starting fiscal year 2016. Hetch Hetchy is a stand-alone enterprise comprised of three funds, Hetchy Power (the Power Enterprise), CleanPowerSF and Hetchy Water, the portion of the Water Enterprise's operations, specifically the upcountry water supply and transmission service. Hetch Hetchy accounts for the activities of Hetch Hetchy Water and Power and is engaged in the collection and conveyance of approximately 85% of the regional system's water supply and in the generation and transmission of electricity from that resource, as well as the City Power services including energy efficiency and renewable.

Approximately 69% of the electricity generated by Hetchy Power is used to provide electric service to the City's municipal customers (including the San Francisco Municipal Transportation Agency, Recreation and Parks Department, the Port of San Francisco, the San Francisco International Airport and its tenants, Zuckerberg San Francisco General Hospital and Trauma Center, streetlights, Moscone Convention Center, and the Water and Wastewater Enterprises). The majority of the remaining 31% balance of electricity is sold to CleanPowerSF and the wholesale electric market. As a result of the 1913 Raker Act, energy produced above the City's municipal load is sold first to the Districts to cover their agricultural pumping and municipal load needs and any remaining energy is either sold to other municipalities and/or government agencies (not for resale) or sold into the CAISO. Hetch Hetchy operation is an integrated system of reservoirs, hydroelectric power plants, aqueducts, pipelines, and transmission lines.

Hetch Hetchy also purchases wholesale electric power from various energy providers that are used in conjunction with owned hydro resources to meet the power requirements of its customers. Operations and business decisions can be greatly influenced by market conditions, state and federal power matters before the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC), the CAISO, and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC). Therefore, Hetch Hetchy serves as the City's representative at CPUC, CAISO, and FERC forums and continues to monitor regulatory proceedings.

Until August 1, 2008, the San Francisco Public Utilities Commission (SFPUC) consisted of five members, all appointed by the Mayor. Proposition E, a City and County of San Francisco Charter Section 4.112 amendment approved by the voters in the June 3, 2008 election, terminated the terms of all five existing members of the SFPUC, changed the process for appointing new members, and set qualifications for all members. Under the amended Charter, the Mayor continues to nominate candidates to the SFPUC, but nominees do not take office until the Board of Supervisors votes to approve their appointments by a majority (at least six members). The amended Charter provides for staggered four-year terms for SFPUC members and requires them to meet the following qualifications:

- Seat 1 must have experience in environmental policy and an understanding of environmental justice issues.
- Seat 2 must have experience in ratepayer or consumer advocacy.
- Seat 3 must have experience in project finance.
- Seat 4 must have expertise in water systems, power systems, or public utility management.
- Seat 5 is an at-large member.

Notes to Financial Statements

June 30, 2022 and 2021

(Dollars in thousands, unless otherwise stated)

The SFPUC is a department of the City, and as such, the financial operations of Hetch Hetchy, Wastewater, and the Water Enterprises are included in the Annual Comprehensive Financial Report of the City as enterprise funds. These financial statements are intended to present only the financial position, and the changes in financial position and cash flows of only that portion of the City that is attributable to the transactions of Hetch Hetchy. They do not purport to, and do not, present fairly the financial position of the City as of June 30, 2022 and 2021, and the changes in its financial position, or, where applicable, the cash flows for the years then ended, in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles (GAAP).

(2) Significant Accounting Policies

(a) Basis of Accounting and Measurement Focus

The accounts of Hetch Hetchy are organized on the basis of proprietary fund types and are included as enterprise funds of the City. The activities of Hetch Hetchy and each fund are accounted for with a separate set of self-balancing accounts that comprise Hetch Hetchy's and each fund's assets, deferred outflows, liabilities, deferred inflows, net position, revenues, and expenses. Enterprise funds account for activities (i) that are financed with debt that is secured solely by a pledge of the net revenues from fees and charges of the activity; or (ii) that are required by laws or regulations that the activity's costs of providing services, including capital costs (such as depreciation or debt service), be recovered with fees and charges, rather than with taxes or similar revenues; or (iii) that the pricing policies of the activity establish fees and charges designed to recover its costs, including capital costs (such as depreciation or debt service).

The financial activities of Hetch Hetchy are accounted for on a flow of economic resources measurement focus, using the accrual basis of accounting in accordance with U.S. GAAP. Under this method, all assets and liabilities associated with operations are included on the Statements of Net Position, revenues are recognized when earned, and expenses are recognized when liabilities are incurred. Operating revenues are defined as charges to customers and rental income.

Hetch Hetchy applies all applicable Governmental Accounting Standards Board (GASB) pronouncements.

(b) Cash and Cash Equivalents

Hetch Hetchy considers its pooled deposits and investments held with the City Treasury to be demand deposits and, therefore, cash and cash equivalents for financial reporting. The City Treasury also holds non-pooled cash and investments for the Enterprise. Non-pooled restricted deposits and restricted deposits and investments held outside the City Treasury with original maturities of three months or less are considered to be cash equivalents.

(c) Investments

Money market funds are carried at cost, which approximates fair value. All other investments are stated at fair value based upon quoted market prices. Changes in fair value are recognized as investment gains or losses and are recorded as a component of non-operating revenues.

(d) Inventory

Inventory consists primarily of construction materials and maintenance supplies and is valued at average cost. Inventory is expensed as it is consumed.

(Dollars in thousands, unless otherwise stated)

(e) Capital Assets

Capital assets are defined as assets with an initial individual cost of more than $5 and an estimated useful life in excess of one year. Capital assets with an original acquisition date prior to July 1, 1977 are recorded in the financial statements at estimated cost, as determined by an independent professional appraisal, or at cost, if known. All subsequent acquisitions have been recorded at cost. All donated capital assets are valued at estimated fair value at the time of donation. Depreciation and amortization are computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the related assets, which range from 1 to 100 years for equipment and 1 to 200 years for buildings, structures, and improvements. No depreciation or amortization is recorded in the year of acquisition, and depreciation or amortization is recorded in the year of disposal.

(f) Intangible Assets

Under GASB Statement No. 51, Accounting and Financial Reporting for Intangible Assets, intangible assets are defined as identifiable, non-financial assets capable of being separated, sold, transferred, or licensed, and include contractual or legal rights. Examples of intangible assets include rights-of-way easements, land use rights, water rights, licenses, and permits. The accounting pronouncement also provides guidance on the capitalization of internally generated intangible assets, such as the development and installation of computer software by or on behalf of the reporting entity.

According to the standard, Hetch Hetchy is required to capitalize intangible assets with a useful life extending beyond one reporting period. Hetch Hetchy has established a capitalization threshold of $100. GASB Statement No. 51 also requires amortization of intangible assets over the benefit period, except for certain assets having an indefinite useful life. Assets with an indefinite useful life generally provide a benefit that is not constrained by legal or contractual limitations or any other external factor and, therefore, are not amortized (see Note 4).

(g) Construction Work in Progress

The cost of acquisition and construction of major plant and equipment is recorded as construction work in progress. Costs of construction projects that are discontinued are recorded as expenses in the year in which the decision is made to discontinue such projects.

(h) Capitalization of Interest

A portion of the interest cost incurred on capital projects is capitalized on assets that require a period of time for construction or to otherwise prepare them for their intended use. Such amounts are amortized over the useful lives of the assets (see Note 4). Per the implementation of GASB Statement No. 89, Accounting for Interest Cost Incurred Before the End of a Construction Period, no interest was capitalized to capital assets in fiscal year 2022.

(i) Bond Discount, Premium, and Issuance Costs

Bond issuance costs related to prepaid insurance costs are capitalized and amortized using the effective interest method. Other bond issuance costs are expensed when incurred. Original issue bond discount or premium are offset against the related debt and are also amortized using the effective interest method.

(Dollars in thousands, unless otherwise stated)

(j) *Accrued Vacation and Sick Leave

Accrued vacation pay, which may be accumulated up to 10 weeks per employee, is charged to expense as earned. Sick leave earned subsequent to December 6, 1978 is non-vesting and may be accumulated up to six months per employee.

(k) *Workers' Compensation

The Enterprise is self-insured for workers' compensation claims and accrues the estimated cost of those claims, including the estimated cost of incurred but not reported claims (see Note 13(b)).

(l) *General Liability

The Enterprise is self-insured for general liability and uninsurable property damage claims. Commercially uninsurable property includes assets that are underground or provide transmission and distribution. Maintained commercial coverage does not cover claims attributed to loss from earthquake, contamination, pollution remediation efforts, and other specific naturally occurring contaminants such as mold. The liability represents an estimate of the cost of all outstanding claims, including adverse loss development and estimated incurred but not reported claims (see Note 13(a)).

(m) *Arbitrage Rebate Payable

Certain bonds are subject to arbitrage rebate requirements in accordance with regulations issued by the U.S. Treasury Department. The requirements of the Clean Renewable Energy Bonds (CREBs), the Qualified Energy Conservation Bonds (QECBs), and the New Clean Renewable Energy Bonds (NCREBs) stipulate that the first payment of excess investment earnings, if any, is required to be rebated to the federal government, no later than 60 days after the end of the fifth bond year of the agreement. Hetch Hetchy did not have any arbitrage liability as of June 30, 2022 and 2021.

(n) *Income Taxes

As a department of a government agency, the Enterprise is exempt from both federal income taxes and California State franchise taxes.

(o) *Revenue Recognition

Water and power revenues are based on water and power consumption and billing rates. Generally, customers are billed monthly. Revenues earned but unbilled are accrued as charges for services receivables on the Statements of Net Position. The unbilled amounts for the fiscal years ending June 30, 2022 and 2021 are as follows:

|      |    | HetchyWater | HetchyPower | CleanPowerSF | Total |
|------|----|-------------------------|-------------------------|---------------------|--------------|
| 2022 | $ | —                       | 3,806                   | 21,878              | 25,684       |
| 2021 |    | —                       | 13,823                  | 12,600              | 26,423       |

(p) *Use of Estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and the disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

(q) *Eliminations

Eliminations for internal activities between the Hetchy Power and CleanPowerSF are made in the Statements of Net Position. There were no activities requiring eliminations for fiscal years ended June 30, 2022 and 2021.

(r) *Accounting and Financial Reporting for Pollution Remediation Obligations

According to GASB Statement No. 49, Accounting and Financial Reporting for Pollution Remediation Obligations, a government would have to estimate its expected outlays for pollution remediation if it knows a site is polluted and any of the following recognition triggers occur:

- Pollution poses an imminent danger to the public or environment and a government has little or no discretion to avoid fixing the problem;
- A government has violated a pollution prevention-related permit or license;
- A regulator has identified (or evidence indicates it will identify) a government as responsible (or potentially responsible) for cleaning up pollution, or for paying all or some of the cost of the cleanup;
- A government is named (or evidence indicates that it will be named) in a lawsuit to compel it to address the pollution; or
- A government begins or legally obligates itself to begin cleanup or post-cleanup activities (limited to amounts the government is legally required to complete).

As a part of ongoing operations, situations may occur requiring the removal of pollution or other hazardous material. These situations typically arise in the process of acquiring an asset, preparing an asset for its intended use, or during the Design Phase of projects under review by the project managers. Other times, pollution may arise during the implementation and construction of a major or minor capital project. Examples of pollution may include, but are not limited to, asbestos or lead paint removal; leaking of sewage in underground pipes or neighboring areas; chemical spills; removal and disposal of known toxic waste; harmful biological and chemical pollution of water; or contamination of surrounding soils by underground storage tanks (see Note 14(d)).

Leases are defined as a contract that conveys control of the right to use another entity's underlying asset for a specified period. Hetch Hetchy is a lessee for various noncancellable leases of building and radio tower.

Short-term Leases – For leases with a maximum possible term of 12 months or less at commencement, the Enterprise recognizes lease revenue if the Enterprise is the lessor of the lease or lease expense if the Enterprise is the lessee of the lease, based on the provisions of the lease contract. Liabilities are only recognized if payments are received in advance, and receivables are only recognized if payments are received subsequent to the reporting period.

Leases other than Short-term – For all other leases (i.e. those that are not short-term), Hetch Hetchy recognizes a lease liability and intangible right-to-use lease asset as lessee leases, or lease receivable and deferred inflow of resources as lessor leases.

HETCH HETCHY WATER AND POWER AND CLEANPOWERSF

Notes to Financial Statements

June 30, 2022 and 2021

Measurement of Lease Amounts (Lessee) – Hetch Hetchy’s lease liability is recorded at the present value of future minimum lease payments as of the date of inception. Subsequently, the lease liability is reduced by the principal portion of lease payments made. The lease asset is initially measured as the initial amount of the lease liability, less lease payments made at or before the lease commencement date, plus any initial direct costs ancillary to placing the underlying asset into service, less any lease incentives received at or before the lease commencement date. Subsequently, the lease asset is amortized into depreciation and amortization expense on a straight-line basis over the shorter of the lease term or the useful life of the underlying asset. If Hetch Hetchy is reasonably certain of exercising a purchase option contained in a lease, the lease asset will be amortized over the useful life of the underlying asset.

Measurement of Lease Amounts (Lessor) – Hetch Hetchy’s lease receivable is measured at the present value of payments expected to be received during the lease term, reduced by any provision of estimated uncollectible amounts. Subsequently, the lease receivable is reduced by the principal portion of lease payments collected. The deferred inflow of resources is initially measured as the initial amount of the lease receivable, less any lease incentives paid to, or on behalf of, the lessee at or before the commencement of the lease term, plus lease payments received from the lease at or before the commencement of the lease term that related to future periods. Subsequently, the deferred inflow of resources as lease revenue on a straight-line basis over the lease term.

Key Estimates and Judgements – Key estimates and judgements include how Hetch Hetchy determines (a) the discount rate it uses to calculate the present value of the expected lease payments, (b) lease terms, (c) lease payments, and (d) materiality threshold for equipment.

- Hetch Hetchy generally uses its estimated incremental borrowing rate as the discount rate for leases unless the rate implicit in the lease. The City’s incremental borrowing rate (IBR) is established using the average of Municipal Market Data (MMD) AAA benchmark interest rate index by maturity date (year 1 to 30+), plus the average credit spread based on City’s Aa/AA, COP, Tax-exempt to generate the yield curve and discount rate table. The City’s incremental borrowing rate for leases is based on the rate of interest it would need to pay if it issued general obligation bonds to borrow an amount equal to the lease payments under similar terms at the commencement or remeasurement date.
- The lease term includes the noncancellable period of the lease, plus any additional periods covered by either lessee or lessor unilateral option to (1) extend for which it is reasonably certain to be exercised, or (2) terminate for which it is reasonably certain not to be exercised. Periods in which both the lessee and lessor have an option to terminate (or if both parties have to agree to extend) are excluded from the lease term.
- Payments are evaluated by Hetch Hetchy to determine if they should be included in the measurement of the lease receivables or lease liabilities, including those payments that require a determination of whether they are reasonably certain of being made, such as residual value guarantees, purchase options, payments for termination penalties, and other payments.
- Equipment and other leases have a capitalization threshold of $100. 70% below market rent and/or ground leases are determined to be below market rent (BMR), excluded from lease capitalization.

Remeasurement of Lease – Hetch Hetchy monitors changes in circumstances that may require remeasurement of a lease. When certain changes occur that are expected to significantly affect the amount of the lease receivable or lease liability, the receivable or liability is remeasured and a corresponding adjustment is made to the deferred inflow of resources or lease asset, respectively.

Presentation in Statements of Net Position – Lease assets are reported with non-current assets, lease liabilities are reported with current and long-term liabilities in the Statements of Net Position.

(t) Other Post-employment Benefits (OPEB)

As prescribed under GASB Statement No. 75, Accounting and Financial Reporting for Post-employment Benefits Other than Pensions, net OPEB liability, deferred outflows/inflows of resources related to OPEB, and OPEB expense are actuarially determined on a citywide basis. Net OPEB liability is measured as the portion of the present value of projected benefit payments to be provided to current active and inactive employees attributed to those employees' past service, less the amount of the Retiree Healthcare Trust Fund investments measured at fair value (see Note 11(b)).

portfolio, which may be invested in certain instruments with longer terms to maturity. The City Treasurer allocates income from the investment of pooled cash at month-end in proportion to Hetch Hetchy's average daily cash balances. The primary objectives of Hetch Hetchy's investment policy are consistent with the City's policy.

Restricted assets are held by an independent trustee outside the City's investment pool. The assets are held for the purpose of paying future interest and principal on the bonds and for eligible capital project expenditures. The balances as of June 30, 2022 and 2021 were $14,052 and $3,843, respectively. The Enterprise held all investments in guaranteed investment contracts, treasury and government obligations, commercial paper, corporate bonds, and notes, as well as money market mutual funds consisting of treasury and government obligations. The balance as of June 30, 2022 included 2021 Series AB bond proceeds of $10,346, 2015 Series A bond proceeds of $2,194, certificates of participation proceeds of $981, 2015 Series B bond proceeds of $516, $17 held at a commercial bank in a non-interest-bearing checking account that is covered by depository insurance, and commercial paper of $15. Hetch Hetchy did not have any unrealized gain and loss in the restricted cash and investments outside City Treasury as of June 30, 2022 and 2021.

Hetch Hetchy categorizes its fair value measurements within the fair value hierarchy established by GAAP. The hierarchy is based on the valuation inputs used to measure fair value of the assets. Level 1 inputs are quoted prices in active markets for identical assets; Level 2 inputs are significant other observable inputs; and Level 3 inputs are significant unobservable inputs. The inputs and techniques used for valuing securities are not necessarily an indication of risk associated with investing in those securities.

Commercial paper is valued using a variety of techniques such as matrix pricing; market corroborated pricing inputs such as yield curve, indices, and other market related data. Commercial paper, money market investments, and cash and cash equivalents are exempt from fair value treatment under GASB Statement No. 72.

The following is a summary of the Hetch Hetchy restricted and unrestricted cash and investments outside City Treasury and the fair value hierarchy as of June 30, 2022 and 2021.

2. Any priority reconstruction and replacement fund deposits;
3. Deposit in the interest account of each Bond Fund;
4. Deposit in the bond retirement account of each Bond Fund;
5. Deposit in the reserve fund;
6. (i) Payment of principal and premium, if any, and interest on any Subordinate Obligations; (ii) deposit into a reserve fund securing any Subordinate Obligations; (iii) Swap Agreement payments pursuant to Swap Agreements entered into by the SFPUC with respect to any Subordinate Obligations; and (iv) payment to any financial institution or insurance company providing any letter of credit, line of credit, or other credit or liquidity facility, including municipal bond insurance and guarantees, that secures the payment of principal or interest on any Subordinate Obligations; in each case in any order of priority within this paragraph which may be hereafter established by the SFPUC resolution;
7. Any additional reconstruction and replacement fund deposits into the reconstruction and replacement fund;
8. Any necessary or desirable capital additions or improvements to the Hetchy Power;
9. Any payment under a Take-or-Pay Power Purchase Agreement that does not constitute an operation and maintenance expense;
10. Any payment under a Swap Agreement that does not constitute a Swap Agreement payment; and
11. Any other lawful purpose of the SFPUC.

(g) Certificates of Participation Issued for the 525 Golden Gate Headquarters Building

In October 2009, the City issued $167,670 in certificates of participation to fund construction of the headquarters of the SFPUC at 525 Golden Gate Avenue. The 2009 Series C certificates were issued for $38,120 and 2009 Series D for $129,550 as “Build America Bonds” (BABs) on a taxable basis under the 2009 American Recovery and Reinvestment Act. The 2009 Series C certificates carry interest rates ranging from 2.0% to 5.0% and mature on November 1, 2022. The 2009 Series D certificates carry interest rates ranging from 6.4% to 6.5% and mature on November 1, 2041. After adjusting Series D for the federal interest subsidy, the true interest cost averages 3.4% and 4.3% for Series C and Series D certificates, respectively.

Under the terms of a Memorandum of Understanding between the City and the SFPUC dated October 1, 2009, the City conveyed the real property to the Trustee, the Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, N.A., which was replaced by U.S. Bank in March 2014 under a property lease in exchange for the proceeds of the sale of the certificates. The Trustee has leased the property back to the City for the City’s use under a project lease. The City is obligated under the project lease to pay base rental payments and other payments to the Trustee each year during the 32-year term of the project lease. The Commission makes annual base rental payments to the City for the building equal to annual debt service on the certificates. It is anticipated these lease costs will be offset with reductions in costs associated with current office rental expense. Hetchy Power’s share is reflected on the Hetchy Power fund statements. There are no events of default stated in this memorandum of understanding.

The Power, Water, and Wastewater Enterprises have ownership interest in the building equal to their projected usage of space as follows: Water (73%), Wastewater (15%), and Power (12%). Similarly, each Enterprise is responsible for a portion of the annual base rental payment based on their ownership percentages less contributed equity. The percentage share of base rental payments for the Enterprises is as follows: Water (71.4%), Wastewater (18.9%), and Power (9.7%). The future annual debt service relating to the certificates of participation 2009 Series C and D outstanding as of June 30, 2022 are as follow:

Variable Lease Payments – Variable lease payments, other than those payments that depend on an index or rate or are fixed in substance, are excluded from the measurement of the lease liability. Such amounts are recognized as lease expenses in the period in which the obligation for those payments is incurred.

Certain equipment or facility rental leases require Hetch Hetchy to make variable lease payments that based on usage, related to the property taxes levied on the lessor, and insurance payments made by the lessor; these amounts are generally determined annually. As of June 30, 2022, the amounts recognized as expense for variable lease payments not included in the measurement of the lease liability were $45 for Hetch Hetchy, of which $1 for Hetchy Water, $1 for Hetchy Power and $43 for CleanPowerSF. As of June 30, 2021, the amounts recognized as expense for variable lease payments not included in the measurement of the lease liability were $24 for CleanPowerSF and $0 for Hetchy Water and Hetchy Power.

(10) Other Non-Operating Revenues – Transbay Cable Construction and Licensing Fees

In 2007, the Board of Supervisors adopted the resolution to enter into two non-exclusive licenses with the Transbay Cable LLC (the Licensee) for the Transbay Cable Project. The Licensee proposed to install, operate, and maintain approximately 53 miles of high-voltage direct current transmission cable running from the City of Pittsburg to the City. The first license was a Construction License to install a 400 MW high-voltage transmission line, with a four-year term. The Licensee paid Hetchy Power $3,500 in Renewable Energy, Transmission and Grid Reliability. The Construction licensing fees were fully spent as of 2020.

The second license is an operational license for operation of the transmission line with 25-year term and an option to renew for 10 years. The Licensee agrees to pay Hetchy Power in excess of $20,000 in 10 separate installments of $2,000 annually with adjustments for inflation, as the “San Francisco Electric Reliability Payment” to implement, advance, promote, or enhance policies and projects consistent with City Energy Policies. The project came on line November 29, 2010 and cumulative revenues of $22,708 were recorded, with final payment of $2,574 received in fiscal year 2020. Per agreement, the SFPUC shall consult with Departments of Environment and Public Health, as well as community members, including the Power Plant Task Force, in developing its proposals to the Board of Supervisors on how to spend the San Francisco Electricity Reliability Payment, and shall consider specifically renewable energy, conservation, and environmental health programs, which benefit low-income, at-risk, and environmentally disadvantaged communities. The San Francisco Electricity Reliability Payment shall also be partly used for green jobs training and placement programs, which benefit low-income, at-risk, and environmentally disadvantaged communities. As of June 30, 2022, cumulative expenses of $11,136 have been incurred, with $1,525 and $1,254 in fiscal years 2022 and 2021, respectively.

(11) Employee Benefits

(a) Pension Plan

Retirement Plan – Hetch Hetchy participates in a cost-sharing multiple-employer defined benefit pension Plan (SFERS Plan). The SFERS Plan is administered by the San Francisco City and County Employees’ Retirement System (SFERS). For purposes of measuring the net pension liability, deferred outflows/inflows of resources related to pensions, pension expense, information about the fiduciary net position of the SFERS Plan, and additions to/deductions from the SFERS Plan’s fiduciary net position have been determined on the same basis as they are reported by the SFERS Plan. Contributions are recognized in the period in which they are due pursuant to legal requirements. Benefit payments (including refunds of employee contributions) are recognized when currently due and payable in accordance with the benefit terms. Investments are reported at fair value.

GASB Statement No. 68 requires that the SFERS Plan reported results must pertain to liability and asset information within certain defined timeframes. For this report, the following timeframes are used:

|                         | Fiscal Year 2022                | Fiscal Year 2021                |

SFERS Plan – The City is an employer of the plan with a proportionate share of 94.64% as of June 30, 2021 (measurement date), 0.25% increased from prior year, and 94.39% as of June 30, 2020 (measurement date). Hetch Hetchy’s allocation percentage was determined based on its employer contributions divided by the City’s total employer contributions for fiscal years 2021 and 2020. Hetch Hetchy’s net pension liability, deferred outflows/inflows of resources related to pensions, amortization of deferred outflows/inflows, and pension expense is based on its allocated percentage. Hetch Hetchy’s allocation of the City’s proportionate share was 1.33%, of which 0.57% for Hetchy Water, 0.69% for Hetchy Power, and 0.07% for CleanPowerSF as of June 30, 2021 (measurement date). Hetch Hetchy’s allocation of the City’s proportionate share was 1.22%, of which 0.52% for Hetchy Water, 0.64% for Hetchy Power, and 0.06% for CleanPowerSF as of June 30, 2020 (measurement date).

SFERS Plan Description – The Plan provides basic service retirement, disability, and death benefits based on specified percentages of defined final average monthly salary and provides annual cost-of-living adjustments (COLA) after retirement. The Plan also provides pension continuation benefits to qualified survivors. The City Charter and the Administrative Code are the authorities which establish and amend the benefit provisions and employer obligations of the Plan. The Retirement System issues a publicly available financial report that includes financial statements and required supplementary information for the Plan. That report may be obtained on the Retirement System's website or by writing to the San Francisco Employees' Retirement System, 1145 Market Street, 5th Floor, San Francisco, CA 94103 or by calling (415) 487-7000.

SFERS Benefits – The Retirement System provides service retirement, disability and death benefits based on specified percentages of defined final average monthly salary and annual COLA after retirement. Benefits and refunds are recognized when due and payable in accordance with the terms of the Plan. The Retirement System pays benefits according to the category of employment and the type of benefit coverage provided by the City. The four main categories of Plan members are:

- a) Miscellaneous Non-Safety Members – staff, operational, supervisory, and all other eligible employees who are not in special membership categories.
- b) Sheriff's Department and Miscellaneous Safety members – sheriffs assuming office on and after January 7, 2012, and undersheriffs, deputized personnel of the Sheriff's department, and miscellaneous safety employees hired on and after January 7, 2012.
- c) Firefighter Members – firefighters and other employees whose principal duties are in fire prevention and suppression work or who occupy positions designated by law as firefighter member positions.
- d) Police Members – police officers and other employees whose principal duties are in active law enforcement or who occupy positions designated by law as police member positions.

The membership groups and the related service retirement benefits are included in the Notes to the Basic Financial Statements of San Francisco Employees' Retirement System.

All members are eligible to apply for a disability retirement benefit, regardless of age, when they have 10 or more years of credited service and they sustain an injury or illness that prevents them from performing their duties. Safety members are eligible to apply for an industrial disability retirement benefit from their first day on the job if their disability is caused by an illness or injury that they receive while performing their duties.

All retired members receive a benefit adjustment each July 1, which is the Basic COLA. The majority of adjustments are determined by changes in Consumer Price Index with increases capped at 2%. The Plan provides for a Supplemental COLA in years when there are sufficient "excess" investment earnings in the Plan. The maximum benefit adjustment each July 1 is 3.5% including the Basic COLA. Effective July 1, 2012, voters approved changes in the criteria for payment of the Supplemental COLA benefit, so that Supplemental COLAs would only be paid when the Plan is also fully funded on a market value of assets basis. Certain provisions of this voter-approved proposition were challenged in the Courts. A decision by the California Courts modified the interpretation of the proposition. Effective July 1, 2012, members who retired before November 6, 1996 will receive a Supplemental COLA only when the Plan is also fully funded on a market value of assets basis. However, the "full funding" requirement does not apply to members who retired on or after November 6, 1996 and were hired before January 7, 2012. For all members hired before January 7, 2012, all Supplemental COLAs paid to them in retirement benefits will continue into the future even where an additional Supplemental COLA is not payable in any given year. For members hired on and after January 7, 2012, a Supplemental COLA will only be paid to retirees when the Plan is fully funded on a market value of asset basis and in addition for these members, Supplemental COLAs will not be permanent adjustments to retirement benefits. That is, in years when a Supplemental COLA is not paid, all previously paid Supplemental COLAs will expire.

Funding and Contribution Policy

SFERS Plan – Contributions are made by both the City and the participating employees. Employee contributions are mandatory as required by the Charter. Employee contribution rates varied from 7.5% to 13.0% as a percentage of gross covered salary in fiscal years 2021 and 2020. Most employee groups agreed through collective bargaining for employees to contribute the full amount of the employee contributions on a pretax basis. The City is required to contribute at an actuarially determined rate. Based on the July 1, 2020 actuarial report, the required employer contribution rate for fiscal year 2022 range from 19.91% to 24.41%. Based on the July 1, 2019 actuarial report, the required employer contribution rate for fiscal year 2021 range from 22.40% to 26.90%.

Employer contributions and employee contributions made by the employer to the Plan are recognized when due and the employer has made a formal commitment to provide the contributions. The City's proportionate share of employer contributions recognized by the Retirement System in fiscal years ended June 30, 2021 and 2020 (measurement years) were $791,736 and $701,307, respectively. Hetch Hetchy's allocation of employer contributions were $9,644, of which $4,130 for Hetchy Water, $5,048 for Hetchy Power, and $466 for CleanPowerSF for fiscal year 2021 (measurement period). Hetch Hetchy's allocation of employer contributions were $8,243, of which $3,574 for Hetchy Water, $4,369 for Hetchy Power, and $300 for CleanPowerSF for fiscal year 2020 (measurement period).

For the year ended June 30, 2022, the City's actuarial determined contribution was $729,578. Hetch Hetchy's share was $9,766, of which $4,149 for Hetchy Water, $5,071 for Hetchy Power, and $546 for CleanPowerSF for fiscal year 2022 and will be recognized as a reduction of the net pension liability in the subsequent fiscal period.

Pension (Assets)/Liabilities, Pension Expenses, and Deferred Outflows and Inflows of Resources Related to Pensions

Fiscal Year 2022

As of June 30, 2022, the City reported net pension assets (NPA) for its proportionate share of the net pension asset of the SFERS Plan of $2,446,564. The City's net pension asset for the Plan is measured as the proportionate share of the net pension asset. The net pension asset of the SFERS Plan is measured as of June 30, 2021 (measurement date), and the total pension (asset)/liability for the SFERS Plan used to calculate the net pension (asset)/liability was determined by an actuarial valuation as of June 30, 2020 rolled forward to June 30, 2021 using standard update procedures. The City's proportion of the net pension (asset)/liability for the SFERS Plan was based on a projection of the City's long-term share of contributions to the pension plan relative to the projected contributions of all participating employers, actuarially determined. Hetch Hetchy's allocation of the City's proportionate share of the net pension (asset)/liability for the SFERS Plan as of June 30, 2022 was ($32,749), of which ($13,912) for Hetchy Water, ($17,004) for Hetchy Power, and ($1,833) for CleanPowerSF.

For the year ended June 30, 2022, the City's recognized pension (benefit) was ($922,979), which includes Retirement Benefit Plan pension expense of $28,735. Hetch Hetchy's allocation of pension (benefit) including amortization of deferred outflows/inflows related pension items were ($4,058), of which ($1,816) for Hetchy Water, ($2,220) for Hetchy Power, and ($22) for CleanPowerSF. Pension (benefit) increased from the prior year, largely due to the amortization of deferrals.

Fiscal Year 2021

As of June 30, 2021, the City reported net pension liabilities (NPL) for its proportionate share of the net pension liability of the SFERS Plan of $5,107,270. The City's net pension liability for the Plan is measured as the proportionate share of the net pension liability. The City's proportion of the net pension liability for the SFERS Plan was based on a projection of the City's long-term share of contributions to the pension plan relative to the projected contributions of all participating employers, actuarially determined.
