Profile

I help leaders figure out why implementing a new strategy seems to be such a heavy lift, and develop an actionable roadmap to success. I partner with business owners to design innovative strategies to build capacity in a particular process or area. And I work with organizations to craft and build-out executive level programs which exceed expectations.

Experience

PRINCIPAL, SYNCOPATION ADVISORY GROUP, SAN FRANCISCO, CA 2008-PRESENT

In a fast paced culture with a steady stream of new platforms and tools, the bottom line impact for an organization maintaining a laser like focus on the needs of its customer should not be underestimated. Successful businesses find ways to stay in ongoing dialogue with customers, while building the internal capacity for flawless execution. Reaching these goals is part art, and part science.

As Principal of Syncopation Advisory Group, I help leaders address challenges to growth by creating a clear integrated picture of the current environment and opportunities, and identify the space and requirements to innovate and transform relationships, services and products.

Practice areas include: Strategy optimization; change management; process design and improvement; post-merger integration; and executive program management.

SELECT CLIENT SUCCESSES:

- Fast growth - Tech - Partnered with VC backed Silicon Valley Start-up Client to re-engineer a mission critical process impacting scalability. Identified opportunities to improve quality and customer alignment from sales through product delivery. Developed a framework and innovative strategies that addressed branding, on-boarding, roles and responsibilities, systems, and workflow - all implemented with immediate positive results.
- High performance - Tech - Engaged by Fortune 50 Client to turnaround development efforts for a leadership program impacting 135 SVP's. Established a Program Management Office, integrating activities of a multidisciplinary team including Instructional Design, Engineering, and Talent Management. Tailored communications for senior leaders to ensure successful messaging. Delivered a top rated program leading to improved new business identification and better customer and talent alignment.
- Transformation - Edu/Not for Profit - Asked by a leading Graduate School of Business to help improve the capacity of a workgroup responsible for student facing products and services. Assessed stakeholders and developed recommendations impacting the entire organization at all levels. Led implementation and change management activities, resulting in: organization alignment of talent, roles and responsibilities; seamless on-boarding; enhanced program management; and improved team morale. Supported innovation by facilitating design sessions and Agile Salesforce CRM implementation.
- Innovation - Post-merger acquisition integration - Fortune 50 Tech Client- led global, cross functional team to design and implement strategies to transition customers in deals representing over $4 billion in bookings. Documented new AI workflows for cross deal adoption. Business lead for Corporate Development Salesforce implementation.

Friends of Franklin Square

January 30, 2018

As a leader for The Friends of Franklin Square, Jolene Yee has worked tirelessly for over four years to activate and improve one of our neighborhood's public park gems. Her dedication to serving the residents who utilize Franklin Square has been apparent through each project she has committed herself to.

In countless public forums, she has provided an opportunity for our neighborhood residents to voice their concerns and hopes regarding Franklin Square. She has used that information to directly inform the efforts she spearheads.

One of the most notable projects she has undertaken is increasing lights to improve security on the west side of the park and adding an adult workout area on the south west corner of the park. Jolene has been front and center for each step of this project, including securing of funds, engaging the community, and teaming with San Francisco Recreation and Parks for implementation. The process for such a large project has been long and arduous and despite a number of setbacks, Jolene continues to be a force in demanding action on promises made.

Jolene has thrown herself behind efforts including, grant writing, event planning, business relationship building, and community engagement, because she believes that public spaces are the heart of a neighborhood. As a co-leader of The Friends of Franklin Square, I can attest that Jolene is an invaluable team member. Her unlimited energy and thoughtful activism are just two qualities that make Jolene an unbelievable asset to any organization.

-Robyn Mangini

Mission Resident , Co-Leader of The Friends of Franklin Square

To Whom It May Concern:

I am happy to, wholeheartedly and without reservation, recommend my friend and former colleague, Jolene Yee, to the Eastern Neighborhoods Citizens Advisory Committee.

First and foremost, I believe that Jolene has the best interests of her fellow neighbors at heart, and will do everything within her power to represent and fight for the needs of her fellow neighbors. In all the time I've known her, she's proven herself to be compassionate to the needs of others, generous with her time and energy, and a fighter for fairness and equality.

She's given so much to the community through her work with the San Francisco Recreation and Park Department. Not only has she spent enormous amounts of time and energy gathering and organizing community involvement and support for the Franklin Square Park, but she's also successfully procured substantial financial support through fundraising and writing grant applications.

As a mother of two young children, she knows firsthand what it's like to raise a family in the Eastern neighborhoods, and what it means to advocate for families. She is an active volunteer and participant in her children's preschools, including planning and organizing crucial fundraising events.

Secondly, Jolene is able to marry her energy and compassion with her unique educational and career background that is well suited to public service. Her resume will show that her education, her many years looking at government finances as a municipal analyst, and her service as a Board Member at California Society of Municipal Analysts means she knows what fair and efficient use of taxpayer money looks like.

And her passion as a policy wonk and her commitment to citizen participation is unparalleled among my friends – despite having many municipal analysts, lawyers, and government workers as my friends, I cherish Jolene as the only one who gets excited about voting so much that she hosts social dinners to cultivate healthy debate about the city and state's propositions.

Again, I want to reiterate how much of an asset Jolene Yee would be to your committee. She cares so much about the community and has so much to share. I'm amazed that she has been able to do so much, simply as a citizen volunteering her time and energy, and I know she can do so much more as a member of the ENCAC. As a resident of the Eastern neighborhood, I'd be happy to have Jolene represent my interests.

Sincerely,
Cecilia Lam

I am writing in support of Jolene Yee's application to the Eastern Neighborhoods Citizens Advisory Committee. I have known Jolene for several years and admire the good work she has done for the community. She has led the efforts to improve Franklin Square, organizing park cleanup days, as well as community events such as the annual egg hunt, which is a hit with the neighborhood's children, one of whom translated the proceedings into Spanish. In addition, she has done a large amount fundraising work for the public school where we both send our children. Her contributions often involve community-building as well as fundraising. She is a great communicator, an effective organizer, and a thoughtful person. I believe that she would be a great addition to the committee.

Sincerely,

I believe Jolene Yee would make an invaluable addition to the ENCAC. As a long-time resident of the Mission and the mother of two young boys, she has a clear vested interest in local projects. Her commitment to improving our area of the city is evident in her tireless work to raise funds and promote the overhaul and of Franklin Square Park, a huge continuing success story for parents of all backgrounds on the border of the Mission and Potrero. She has also been closely involved for several years with the Friends of Potrero Hill Preschool in the Dogpatch. As a fellow parent there, I have seen Jolene's investment in fundraising and organizing close-up: she has been an involved presence on nearly every project the school has undertaken, and instrumental year after year in making their annual fundraiser an incredible success. With her experience on park projects and with seeing projects through to completion, there is no question that Jolene would be an invaluable voice on the ENCAC representing the needs and interests of parents of young children, helping navigate competing priorities, and providing an experienced perspective.
