

File No. 171317

Committee Item No. 1

Board Item No. _____

COMMITTEE/BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

AGENDA PACKET CONTENTS LIST

Comm: Public Safety & Neighborhood Services

Date: March 14, 2018

Board of Supervisors Meeting:

Date: April 3, 2018

Cmte Board

- | | | |
|-------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|----------------------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Motion |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Resolution |
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | Ordinance - VERSION 3 |
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Legislative Digest - VERSION 3 |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Budget and Legislative Analyst Report |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Youth Commission Report |
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | Introduction Form |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Department/Agency Cover Letter and/or Report |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | MOU |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Grant Information Form |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Grant Budget |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Subcontract Budget |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Contract/Agreement |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Form 126 – Ethics Commission |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Award Letter |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | Application |
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | Public Correspondence |

OTHER

- | | | |
|-------------------------------------|-------------------------------------|------------------------------------------------------|
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | Chief Economist Presentation - March 14, 2018 |
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | Referral FYI - December 20, 2017 |
| <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | <input checked="" type="checkbox"/> | SBC Referral - December 20, 2017 |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | _____ |
| <input type="checkbox"/> | <input type="checkbox"/> | _____ |

Prepared by: John Carroll

Date: March 9, 2018

Prepared by: John Carroll

Date: March 15, 2018

Prepared by: John Carroll

Date: March 29, 2018

1 [Health Code - Banning Sale and Manufacture of Animal Fur Products]

2
3 Ordinance amending the Health Code to ban the sale and manufacture in San
4 Francisco of animal fur products.

5 NOTE: Unchanged Code text and uncodified text are in plain Arial font.
6 Additions to Codes are in single-underline italics Times New Roman font.
7 Deletions to Codes are in strikethrough italics Times New Roman font.
8 Board amendment additions are in double-underlined Arial font.
9 Board amendment deletions are in ~~strikethrough Arial font~~.
10 Asterisks (* * * *) indicate the omission of unchanged Code
11 subsections or parts of tables.

12 Be it ordained by the People of the City and County of San Francisco:

13 Section 1. The Health Code is hereby amended by adding Article 1D, entitled "Animal 14 Fur Products," consisting of Sections 1D.1 through 1D.8, to read as follows:

15 ARTICLE 1D: ANIMAL FUR PRODUCTS

16 SEC. 1D.1. TITLE.

17 This Article 1D may be known as the "Animal Fur Products Ordinance."

18 SEC. 1D.2. FINDINGS AND PURPOSE.

19 (a) Historically, animals were hunted or trapped for food, and their pelts were used to 20 provide protective clothing. Over time, civilizations and technology have developed such that 21 fur is less of a necessity and more of a luxury. Fur garments are now typically designed for 22 fashion rather than warmth. Further, more animals are now killed to make decorative fur trim
23 than to manufacture full fur garments.

24 (b) More than 50 million animals are violently killed for their fur every year. Major
25 producers of fur include the United States, Canada, and Scandinavian countries.

1 (c) More than 85% of pelts in the world's fur trade come from fur farms. The remaining
2 15% are from animals caught in the wild. Animals that are bred on fur farms commonly
3 include mink, fox, marten, and chinchilla.

4 (d) The majority of pelts produced annually are mink. In 2013, approximately 275 mink
5 farms in 23 states across the United States produced about 3 million pelts, with an aggregate
6 value of over $300 million. As of 2015, mink pelt production in the United States totaled 3.76
7 million pelts. Mink pelt production in the United States saw a sharp increase between 2011
8 and 2014, but has since remained stable.

9 ~~A vast majority—about 85%—of fur fashion products are made with pelts sourced from~~ 10 ~~animal fur factory farms.~~

11 ~~(b) Animals raised on such fur farms typically spend their lives in cramped cages, and~~
12 ~~are subject to cruel and filthy living conditions. Methods frequently used on fur farms to kill~~
13 ~~livestock for their pelts include gassing, electrocution, poison, and neck breaking.~~

14 (e) Fur farming can be damaging to the environment and contributes to water and air
15 pollution. Fur processing often involves use of harmful chemicals including chromium and 16 formaldehyde.

17 ~~(d)(f) Fur farming also consumes significant quantities of energy. The amount of energy~~
18 ~~required to produce a coat made of real fur from ranch-raised animal skins is over 15 times that~~
19 ~~needed to produce a fake fur garment. For each kilogram of factory-farmed mink fur, 110 kilograms of~~ 20 ~~carbon dioxide is produced.~~

21 (g) Existing laws require relatively little oversight of the fur farming and fur trade
22 industries. Compliance with guidelines issued by the American Veterinary Medical 23 Association is not mandatory, and fur farms are not monitored by any government agency.

1 (h) Federal law does forbid deceptive labeling of fur products, and requires that
2 products made with real fur be labeled as such. This allows consumers to choose whether to 3 purchase real or faux fur garments.

4 (e)(i) The sale of fur products in San Francisco is inconsistent with the City's ethos of treating
5 all living beings, humans and animals alike, with kindness. In light of the wide array of faux fur and
6 other alternatives for fashion and apparel, the demand for fur products does not justify the unnecessary
7 killing and cruel treatment of animals. Eliminating the sale of fur products in San Francisco will 8 promote community awareness of animal welfare, bolster the City's stance against animal cruelty, and,
9 in turn, foster a more humane environment in San Francisco.

10 SEC. 1D.3. DEFINITIONS.

11 "Director" means the Director of the Department of Public Health or his or her designee.

12 "Fur" means any animal skin or part thereof with hair, fleece, or fur fibers attached thereto,
13 either in its raw or processed state. "Fur" does not include such skins or parts thereof as are to be 14 converted into leather, which in processing will have the hair, fleece, or fur fiber completely removed;
15 cowhide with hair attached thereto; or lambskin or sheepskin with fleece attached thereto.

16 "Fur Product" means any article of clothing or covering for any part of the body, or any 17 fashion accessory, including but not limited to handbags, shoes, slippers, hats, earmuffs, scarves,
18 shawls, gloves, jewelry, and keychains, that is made in whole or in part of Fur. "Fur Product" does 19 not include dog or cat fur products.

20 "Non-profit Organization" means any entity organized under 26 U.S.C. Section 501(c)(3) for 21 charitable, religious, philanthropic, educational, or similar purposes.

22 "Used Fur Product" means a Fur Product that a person has acquired for his or her own use 23 and worn.

24 SEC. 1D.4. PROHIBITING THE SALE OF FUR PRODUCTS.

1 (a) Beginning July 1, 2018 January 1, 2019, it shall be unlawful to sell, offer for sale, display
2 for sale, trade, give, donate, or otherwise distribute a Fur Product by any means in San Francisco.

3 (b) Beginning January 1, 2019, it shall be unlawful to manufacture a Fur Product in
4 San Francisco.

5 (c) The prohibition in subsection (a) shall not apply to the sale, offer for sale, display for sale,
6 trade, gift, donation, or other distribution of:

7 (1) Fur Products by a Non-profit Organization; or

8 (2) Used Fur Products by a person not normally in the business of selling fur products,
9 Non-profit Organization, or second-hand store, including a pawn shop; or

10 (3)(2) Fur Products made from furbearing mammals and nongame mammals lawfully
11 taken under the authority of a trapping license, pursuant to California Fish and Game Code Section 12 3039(b).

13 (d) The prohibition in subsection (b) shall not apply to the manufacture of any Fur
14 Product using Fur sourced exclusively from Used Fur Products.

15 (e) The enforcement provisions in Section 1D.5(b) shall not apply to persons or entities
16 engaged in the sale, offer for sale, display for sale, trade, gift, donation, or other distribution of 17 a Fur Product between January 1, 2019 and December 31, 2019, if the person or entity
18 selling, offering for sale, displaying for sale, trading, giving, donating, or otherwise distributing
19 the Fur Product purchased or obtained the Fur Product on or before March 20, 2018, so long
20 as the person or entity produces upon the Director's request an invoice showing that the 21 person or entity purchased or obtained the Fur Product on or before March 20, 2018.

22 SEC. 1D.5. IMPLEMENTATION AND ENFORCEMENT.

23 (a) The Director may issue rules, regulations, and guidelines necessary or appropriate for the 24 implementation and enforcement of this Article 1D.

1 (b) Violations of this Article 1D or of any rule or regulation issued under this Article shall be
2 punishable by administrative fines imposed pursuant to administrative citations. Administrative Code
3 Chapter 100 "Procedures Governing the Imposition of Administrative Fines," as amended from time to
4 time, is hereby incorporated and shall govern the issuance and enforcement of administrative citations,
5 and collection and review of administrative fines, to enforce this Article and any rule or regulation
6 adopted pursuant to this Article, with the following qualifications and exceptions for purposes of this 7 Article:

8 (1) The duties assigned to the Controller by Sections 100.1 - 100.15 of 9 Administrative Code Chapter 100 shall be assumed and performed by the Director;

10 (2) Each Fur Product that does not comply with Section 1D.4, on each day a
11 violation is committed or permitted to continue, shall constitute a separate violation of this Article 1D;

12 (3) A person who receives an administrative citation from the Director shall have 24
13 hours, or such greater time as deemed reasonable under the circumstances by the Director or an 14 employee designated by the Director, to correct or otherwise remedy the violation prior to the 15 imposition of administrative fines;

16 (4) The fine for any violation issued pursuant to this Article shall be paid to the 17 Treasurer of the City and County of San Francisco and credited to the Public Health Environmental 18 Health Code Compliance Fund, authorized by Administrative Code Section 10.100-193;

19 (5) The amount of the fine for violation of this Article 1D or of any rule or regulation
20 issued under this Article shall be up to $500 for a first violation; up to $750 for a second violation
21 within one year of the date of the first violation; and up to $1,000 for each additional violation within 22 one year of the date of a second or subsequent violation;

23 (6) The Director may recover any costs and fees, including but not limited to 24 attorneys' fees, for enforcement initiated through this Article 1D.

25 SEC. 1D.6. UNDERTAKING FOR THE GENERAL WELFARE.

1 In enacting and implementing this Article 1D, the City is assuming an undertaking only to
2 promote the general welfare. It is not assuming, nor is it imposing on its officers and employees, an
3 obligation for breach of which it is liable in money damages to any person who claims that such breach 4 proximately caused injury.

5 SEC. 1D.7. NO CONFLICT WITH FEDERAL OR STATE LAW.

6 This Article 1D is intended to be a lawful exercise of the City's police power, and shall be
7 construed so as not to conflict with State or federal law. Nothing in this Article shall authorize any
8 City agency or department to impose any duties or obligations in conflict with limitations on the City's 9 authority established by State or federal law at the time such agency or departmental action is taken.
10 The City shall suspend enforcement of this Article if and only to the extent that enforcement would 11 conflict with a preemptive State or federal law.

12 SEC. 1D.8. SEVERABILITY.

13 If any section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase, or word of this Article 1D, or any 14 application thereof to any person or circumstance, is held to be invalid or unconstitutional by a
15 decision of a court of competent jurisdiction, such decision shall not affect the validity of the remaining
16 portions or applications of the Article. The Board of Supervisors hereby declares that it would have 17 passed this ordinance and each and every section, subsection, sentence, clause, phrase, and word not 18 declared invalid or unconstitutional without regard to whether any other portion of this Article or 19 application thereof would be subsequently declared invalid or unconstitutional.

20
21 Section 2. Effective and Operative Dates. This ordinance shall become effective 30
22 days after enactment. Enactment occurs when the Mayor signs the ordinance, the Mayor
23 returns the ordinance unsigned or does not sign the ordinance within ten days of receiving it,
24 or the Board of Supervisors overrides the Mayor's veto of the ordinance. However, as stated
25

1 in Health Code Section 1D.4, the prohibitions in Section 1D.4(a) and (b) shall not become
2 operative until ~~July 1, 2018~~ January 1, 2019.

3

4 APPROVED AS TO FORM:
5 DENNIS J. HERRERA, City Attorney

6 By:
7 NEHA GUPTA
8 Deputy City Attorney

9
10
11
12
13
14
15
16
17
18
19
20
21
22
23
24
25
n:\egana\as2017\1800234\01261781.docx

REVISED LEGISLATIVE DIGEST
(3/20/2018, Amended in Board)

[Health Code - Banning Sale and Manufacture of Animal Fur Products]

Ordinance amending the Health Code to ban the sale and manufacture in San Francisco of animal fur products.

Existing Law

San Francisco law does not presently address the sale or manufacture of products made with animal fur. California Penal Code Section 598a makes it a misdemeanor to possess, import into the State, sell, buy, give away or accept any pelt of a dog or cat with the sole intent of selling or giving away the pelt. California Fish and Game Code Section 3039 provides that goods made from furbearing mammals and nongame mammals trapped lawfully under the authority of a trapping license may be bought or sold at any time.

19 U.S. Code Section 1308 makes it unlawful to import or export any dog or cat fur product, or to engage in interstate commerce, sell, offer to sell, trade, advertise, transport, or distribute in interstate commerce, any dog or cat fur product, punishable via civil penalty of up to $10,000 per violation.

Amendments to Current Law

This proposal would ban the sale, display for sale, and manufacture of “fur products” in San Francisco. For the purposes of this ordinance, “fur” would include any animal skin or part thereof with hair, fleece or fur fibers attached thereto, either in its raw or processed state, and exclude such skins as are to be converted into leather, which in processing shall have the hair, fleece or fur fiber completely removed, cowhide with hair attached thereto, or lambskin or sheepskin with fleece attached thereto. “Fur products” would include articles of clothing or covering for the body, or any fashion accessory, including handbags, shoes, slippers, hats, earmuffs, scarves, shawls, gloves, jewelry, keychains, and like items, that is made in whole or in part of fur, excluding dog and cat fur products. “Used fur products” would include any fur product a person has acquired for his or her own use and has worn.

The sales ban would not apply to certain sales of used fur products, or the sale of fur products made from furbearing mammals and nongame mammals lawfully taken under the authority of a trapping license, pursuant to California Fish and Game Code Section 3039, subdivision (b). The manufacturing ban would not apply to the manufacture of fur products from fur sourced exclusively from used fur products.

The ordinance would charge the Director of the Department of Public Health and/or his or her designee(s) with oversight and enforcement. It would become operative on January 1, 2019.

The proposal's enforcement and penalty provisions would not apply to persons selling fur products between January 1, 2019 and December 31, 2019, if the person purchased or obtained the fur products on or before March 20, 2018, so long as the person produces upon the Director's request an invoice showing that the person purchased or obtained the fur product items on or before March 20, 2018.

Background

This legislative digest reflects amendments introduced at the Public Safety and Neighborhood Services Committee on January 24, 2018, and at the Board of Supervisors on March 20, 2018. The ordinance was originally introduced before the Board of Supervisors on December 12, 2017.

n:\legana\as2017\1800234\01261802.docx

Potential Impacts of a Fur Ban

March 14, 2018

CITY & COUNTY OF SAN FRANCISCO

Office of the Controller

Office of Economic Analysis

Introduction

2

Details of the Proposed Legislation

- As of January 1, 2019, the proposed legislation would ban the sale, offer for sale, display for sale, manufacturing, donation, giving, or other distribution of fur products in San Francisco.
- The possession of fur products is not banned; nor are out-of-town or online sales explicitly prohibited.
- Fur is defined as animal skin with hair, fleece, or fur fibers attached, unless the animal was taken under a State trapping license. Other animal skin products including leather, lambskin, wool, etc. are not affected.
- Fur products are clothing or fashion accessories; the sale and manufacture of fur products for dogs and cats would not be prohibited.
- The sale of used fur products would be allowed, provided it was by a second-hand store, pawn-shop, non-profit organization, or any other business not normally in the business of selling fur products.

How Much Fur Is Sold in San Francisco?

- The only official source for economic statistics on product sales is the Economic Census, which is conducted every 5 years. The most recent published edition dates from 2012.
- This data relies on the NAPCS (North American Product Classification System), which contains only one relevant category, “Furs and Fur Garments”.
- According to the Census, retail sales of that product category in California totaled $355 million in 2012.
- While the product-level data is not available for cities and counties, if fur product sales in San Francisco reflect the city’s share of all retail sales in California, that would lead to $10.8 million in sales in San Francisco in 2012.

The San Francisco Chamber's Sales Estimate

- On March 9th, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce shared with the Controller's Office the results of a survey it conducted on retailers that sell fur products in the city.
- 9 retailers responded indicating they sold fur products affected by the proposed ban.
- Two large stores reported annual sales "in excess of $4 million". Two medium-sized retailers reported sales between $75,000 and $500,000, while six small retailers reported sales of between $75,000 and $900,000 million.
- The Chamber notes that, in some stores, "[fur product] sales comprise 75% of gross annual sales."
- The Chamber believes that 50 retailers in San Francisco sell fur products that would be prohibited under the proposed legislation, and total sales are approximately $40 million per year.

What Could Explain the Difference?

- The Chamber's estimate is roughly four times the number we obtained from the Census data.
- As a regional retail center and a tourism center, Union Square likely accounts for a disproportionate share of luxury retail sales, including fur products, and that may account for some of the difference.
- Sales have likely grown since 2012. Overall, San Francisco taxable retail sales have increased by 52% from 2012 to 2017.
- There may be a slight difference in the range of products covered by the ban, from those covered in the Census definition of fur products.
- There may be difficulties in extrapolating from the Chamber's survey results to the full universe of fur product retailers in San Francisco.

Conclusions

6

Implications

- Even if fur product sales were significantly higher than our Census-based estimate, the proposed legislation is unlikely to significantly harm the overall local economy, using our standard guidelines for determining economic impact.
- Nevertheless, a set of local retailers would be harmed by the legislation. Small retailers specialized in fur sales would find adjustment to the ban more challenging than department stores.
- Additionally, the legislation could weaken the overall economy by contributing to a further leakage of retail sales, and sales tax, as online and out-of-town purchases are not explicitly subject to the legislation.
- A phasing-in of the legislation – such as prohibiting the wholesale delivery of fur products before prohibiting retail sales—may allow retailers to clear their inventory.
- In addition, a broadening of the allowance on selling used fur products could allow small specialty retailers to better adjust to the ban.

Staff Contacts

7

Ted Egan, Ph.D., Chief Economist

ted.egan@sfgov.org

Carroll, John (BOS)

From: Board of Supervisors, (BOS)
Sent: Wednesday, March 21, 2018 10:01 AM
To: BOS-Supervisors; Carroll, John (BOS)
Subject: FW: Banning of fur products

Categories: 171317

From: Margaret Schulte [mailto:mfschulte530@gmail.com]
Sent: Wednesday, March 21, 2018 9:51 AM
To: Board of Supervisors, (BOS) <board.of.supervisors@sfgov.org>
Subject: Banning of fur products

Dear Members of the Board of Supervisors,

I am absolutely thrilled to learn of your decision to ban the sale of fur products in San Francisco! Congratulations!

This was a very significant humane-inspired decision. So many animals have suffered and died because of the desire (not need) of so many people to drape themselves in fur. The "luxury" to them means needless pain and death to animals.

Thank you for your very impressive and compassionate decision. I hope more cities will be inspired to do the same!

Margaret Schulte
133 Northland Dr
Ottawa, OH 45875
cell: 773-580-7308

Carroll, John (BOS)

From: Board of Supervisors, (BOS)
Sent: Wednesday, March 21, 2018 8:52 AM
To: BOS-Supervisors; Carroll, John (BOS)
Subject: FW: THANK YOU to SF Board of Supervisors

Categories: 171317

From: Karen [mailto:karen.corrick@gmail.com]
Sent: Wednesday, March 21, 2018 8:43 AM
To: Board of Supervisors, (BOS) <board.of.supervisors@sfgov.org>
Subject: THANK YOU to SF Board of Supervisors

What a great and humane team! Thank you for banning the sale of furs. You've made my day, my week, month and year!

Best wishes and joy to each of you and your families,

Karen Corrick

Tucson, Arizona

Carroll, John (BOS)

From: Board of Supervisors, (BOS)
Sent: Tuesday, March 20, 2018 8:54 AM
To: BOS-Supervisors; Carroll, John (BOS)
Subject: FW: Furs????

Categories: 171317

From: Joanne Vidinsky [mailto:joannevidinsky@gmail.com]
Sent: Tuesday, March 20, 2018 5:54 AM
To: Board of Supervisors, (BOS) <board.of.supervisors@sfgov.org>
Subject: Furs????

Dear Board of Supervisors,

Banning furs?

We have people strewn across our sidewalks, tented cities, trash everywhere, car burglaries galore, backed up storm drains and you, our Board of Supervisors, spend time banning furs????? And BTW how many of you are philosophically vegans? Don't you wear shoes? Bet you have a leather jacket!

UGH! Our city government is making us CRAZY you are so out of touch with what citizens want you to be doing.

Somewhat respectfully,
Joanne Vidinsky

SF Resident and voter

Carroll, John (BOS)

From: Board of Supervisors, (BOS)
Sent: Thursday, March 15, 2018 2:13 PM
To: Carroll, John (BOS)
Subject: FW: SUPPORT the FUR BAN

Categories: 171317

From: Kathy Howard [mailto:kathyhoward@earthlink.net]
Sent: Thursday, March 15, 2018 8:17 AM
To: Board of Supervisors, (BOS) <board.of.supervisors@sfgov.org>; Stefani, Catherine (BOS) <catherine.stefani@sfgov.org>; Peskin, Aaron (BOS) <aaron.peskin@sfgov.org>; Safai, Ahsha (BOS) <ahsha.safai@sfgov.org>; Ronen, Hillary <hillary.ronen@sfgov.org>; Kim, Jane (BOS) <jane.kim@sfgov.org>; Sheehy, Jeff (BOS) <jeff.sheehy@sfgov.org>; Tang, Katy (BOS) <katy.tang@sfgov.org>; Breed, London (BOS) <london.breed@sfgov.org>; Cohen, Malia (BOS) <malia.cohen@sfgov.org>; Yee, Norman (BOS) <norman.yee@sfgov.org>; Fewer, Sandra (BOS) <sandra.fewer@sfgov.org>
Subject: SUPPORT the FUR BAN

Dear Supervisors,

I strongly support the ban on fur sales in San Francisco. The profit-motive should never be a factor in opposing cruelty to animals.

In the SF Examiner, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce is quoted as "warning of job loss and less tax revenue as shoppers go outside of The City. 'Fur and fashion retail is a huge part of San Francisco's retail economy. It drives worldwide customers to San Francisco,' Lazarus said. " Firstly, I question equating the impact of the fur industry and all fashion retail spending. Secondly, certain species of animal are being driven to extinction due to the trade in tusks and other body parts. By the Chamber's reasoning that would be fine, as long as businesses were able to make a profit.

There are many fake furs available in fabrics. Retailers should look to a new "cool" standard in their clothing and not depend on the suffering of helpless creatures for their profits.

Sincerely,
Katherine Howard
San Francisco

Carroll, John (BOS)

From: Board of Supervisors, (BOS)
Sent: Tuesday, March 20, 2018 8:22 AM
To: BOS-Supervisors; Carroll, John (BOS); Somera, Alisa (BOS)
Subject: FW: Fur Ban Amendments
Attachments: Fur Ban Amendments.docx

Categories: 171317

From: Karin Flood [<mailto:Karin@unionsquarebid.com>]
Sent: Monday, March 19, 2018 5:23 PM
To: Calvillo, Angela (BOS) <angela.calvillo@sfgov.org>
Cc: Carroll, John (BOS) <john.carroll@sfgov.org>; Somera, Alisa (BOS) <alisa.somera@sfgov.org>; Pagan, Lisa (ECN) <lisa.pagan@sfgov.org>; 'Jim Lazarus (jlazarus@sfchamber.com)' <jlazarus@sfchamber.com>
Subject: FW: Fur Ban Amendments

Dear Angela:

I am writing to you to ask you to please include the attached document to be distributed to all members of the Board Supervisors before tomorrow's March 20 full Board meeting.

This information pertains to item 13 on the agenda – legislation # 171317 – proposing a ban on fur sales.

Thank you for your consideration.

Sincerely,

Karin

Karin Flood
Executive Director
Union Square Business Improvement District
323 Geary Street, #203
San Francisco, CA 94102
(415) 781-7880

SAN FRANCISCO CHAMBER OF COMMERCE
UNION SQUARE BUSINESS IMPROVEMENT DISTRICT

March 19, 20018

TO: Members, Board of Supervisors

FROM: Jim Lazarus and Karin Flood

Re: Amendments to File # 171317, Banning Sale of Fur Products

While the Chamber of Commerce, the Union Square BID and our members do not favor banning the sale of fur products in San Francisco, we recognize that the legislation proposed by Sup. Tang is likely to pass. A ban will pose a significant hardship on dozens of local retailers, large and small. In order to sell off inventory already ordered for 2019, to maintain their stores as fashion destinations and to try and replace product lines with items of similar profitability, our retailers need more time than the few months allowed in the pending ordinance.

We urge the Board to adopt the following amendments;

SEC. 1D.4. PROHIBITING THE SALE OF FUR PRODUCTS.

(a) Beginning July 1, 2020, it shall be unlawful to sell, offer for sale, display for sale, trade, give, donate or otherwise distribute coats, stoles or similar garments in which Fur is a principal component in San Francisco.

(b) Beginning July 1, 2021, it shall be unlawful to manufacture a Fur Product in San Francisco.

(c) Beginning July 1, 2023, it shall be unlawful to sell, offer for sale, display for sale, trade, give, donate or otherwise distribute a Fur Product in San Francisco

(c) changed to (d)

(d) changed to (e)

(f) A retail store may request in writing from the Director, on a form provided by the Department of Public Health, a six-month waiver from the provisions of subsections (a) or (c) upon a showing satisfactory to the Director that Fur coats, stoles or similar garments and other Fur Products have been in the store's inventory on or before January 1 of the applicable year of the prohibition to sell.

These amendments would ban the sale of fur coats beginning July 2020, ban manufacturing beginning July 2021 and ban all fur product sales beginning July 2023. Retailers buy clothing items with manufacturers lead times of up to 18 months, so this will allow merchandise already ordered from wholesalers to be sold.

It would also allow the Health Dept. to grant a waiver for a retailer to continue to sell Fur coats and Fur Products in the store's possession six months before the applicable ban on further sales. This would allow a retailer to sell any goods remaining after the date sales would otherwise be prohibited.

It also deletes reference to sales by "any means" which, while attempting to block on-line or other sales where the product is shipped into San Francisco, will make unknowing criminals out of retailers outside of State jurisdiction with little chance that the long-arm of the City's law will reach them.

Thank you for considering these very targeted amendments.

cc. Lisa Pagan, OEWD

I am Skip Pas from West Coast Leather. I am speaking out against the full fur ban. We have been a retailer in San Francisco since 1969. Though most of our merchandise consists of leather, we also carry merchandise that has fur trim. To lose the ability to carry a full and varied inventory will affect our overall sales, as well as affect our staff and their commissions.

The long-standing retail stores in the City of San Francisco deserve a more thorough, unbiased investigation. The City Attorney should re-review the data after such investigation and block this measure because of the severe economic impact to many retail stores, which is estimated to be 40 to 70 million dollars. Not 1 million. Retail is struggling with the Amazon economy as it is. The great city of San Francisco is in the top 10 shopping destinations in the world and needs to maintain this status. This legislation will end up costing the city millions of dollars in lost revenue and will certainly increase the number of stores that will have to close. Keep small business strong. Keep our shopping rights options open.

The Board of Supervisors has lacked the oversight to let this go to committee in the first place with no data supplied either to the public or myself after 3 requests in person, by phone and email to Katy Tang and her office. The Supervisors have a due diligence responsibility to our citizens, which has not been carried out with impunity. Negotiations need to be held with the retailers of the city on such a delicate issue. Not pushed through by the Board of Supervisors without a public vote. At a minimum this issue should be put on a ballot so the citizens of San Francisco can decide.

March 13, 2018

Supervisors Jeff Sheehy, Hillary Ronen, Arron Peskin

CC: Supervisor Katy Tang, John Carroll, Ron Barajas, Shannon Blunden, Tyler Mithchell,

Richard Canciamilla, Karin Flood, Jim Lazarus

1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place

City Hall, Room 244

San Francisco, CA

94102-4689

Transmitted via email: Jeff.Sheehy@sfgov.org Hillary.Ronen@sfgov.org,
Aaron.Peskin@sfgov.org Katy.Tang@sfgov.org John.Carroll@sfgov.org ron_barajas@s5a.com shannon_blunden@neimanmarcus.com tylerm@wilkesbashford.com
rcanciamilla@barneys.com karin@unionsquarebid.com Jlazarus@sfchamber.com

Re: Global certification proposal catalyzed by San Francisco proposed fur ban

Dear Supervisors of the Public Safety and Neighborhood Services Committee,

I am writing on behalf of the international fur industry and thank you in advance for taking the time to listen and consider the issues that we raise in this letter before you vote on the proposed fur ban ordinance. We appreciate the direct and forceful challenge that has been issued to the industry to examine practices and procedures, and to identify positive, meaningful steps we could take to find areas of common ground and possible compromise with San Franciscans concerned about the continued ethical treatment of animals.

Over the last few years, our industry has explored proposals for a certification program that would manifest consumer transparency, ecological sustainability and the continued humane treatment of animals as its abiding principles. As the industry leaders largely driving this effort, our guiding aspiration has been to develop a process by which fur products eligible for certification would remain identifiable and traceable throughout the supply chain. For consumers considering the purchase of a fur product, the certification standard would offer recognizable and verifiable assurance that the product has met the highest standards in environmental responsibility and the continued humane treatment of animals.

The fur industry's practices are far superior and more responsible than what our critics contend. Yet at the same time, we also believe our industry is perhaps uniquely situated among the multitude of other enterprises engaged in animal products to develop and implement new, continually evolving, independently verifiable standards of excellence and ethical treatment that would be unprecedented in global commerce. That ambition has been the driving force in our efforts to adopt a stringent new certification standard of our industry.

The fur industry is international, operating under a variety of certification programs and licensure policies that are national, statewide and provincial, and that are, in many cases, also subject to the tribal sovereignty of indigenous and First Nation communities. Although these diverse sources of legal and regulatory guidance have helped to inform our approach to industrywide standards, they have also lent complexity to it. Moreover, our efforts to lead these groundbreaking changes have been slowed by the challenges one would expect to see in any global industry. Despite broad scale support among the leading industry organizations to adopt a more robust and transparent system, implementation has proven to be challenging.

San Francisco's proposed fur ban legislation has created the urgency that has allowed us to fast-track our efforts and we are excited to make history with San Francisco as the first city in the world to introduce a certification program that provides comprehensive consumer education and transparency.

As you are probably aware, San Francisco is itself a globally acknowledged brand name in luxury retail, and its reputation as a trend-setter extends to fashion no less than culture or politics. Travelers familiar with the handful of cities commonly selected by top fashion designers for retail locations will instantly recognize the city's inclusion on an exclusive list of similarly regarded locales like Paris, Milan, London, New York, Tokyo and very few others. Even before the Union Square Business Improvement District and the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce reached out to us on behalf of the businesses and commercial real estate brokers it represents, we heard from several leading figures from the realms of fashion design and retail who were similarly motivated by news about Supervisor Katy Tang's proposed ban on the sale of certain fur products in San Francisco. The challenge you issued to us was expressed no less forcefully by many others we regard as similarly persuasive, and our industry has heard you -- loud and clear.

The proposal outlined below is one that we believe finds the common ground you and others asked us to identify. It is a groundbreaking step in consumer transparency and third-party accountability exceeding any other consumer product category we're aware of. We believe its seriousness and global scope offer a basis for meaningful progress on underlying values we strongly share in truth with most supporters of the proposed legislation. If successful in forging a workable compromise with San Francisco, we believe this program will elevate public understanding for state-of-the-art practices that are humane and environmentally responsible, while maximizing industry adherence worldwide for the highest standards our new industry certification standard would represent. As a first-of-its-kind program, we are also cognizant that its success may also serve as a model for other industries involved in the manufacture or sale of animal products for consumers, including food, leather and many others.

Proposal: FurMark Certification Standard

The certification standard we propose as a result of San Francisco's leadership in moving issues of animal welfare to the forefront and forging industry consensus would be far more than a marketing gimmick or subjective but otherwise uninformative "seal of approval."

Under the FurMark Certification Standard...

- Labels would appear on standards-compliant garments that include fur that certification standards were rigorously observed at every step in the product development and supply chain phases.
- Links would be available to provide consumers and the general public with full details about the criteria employed for adjudging practices as standards-compliant at all stages of production and design in fur garments.
- All fur farming standards are being developed and will be regularly updated by third-party peer reviewers, drawing on independent expertise in state furbearer resource research, animal ethics, animal husbandry and experts from universities, animal welfare non-profit groups, government oversight agencies.
- As a policy alternative to a ban, San Francisco could be the first city in the world to either require by ordinance or endorse by resolution that certification and traceability labels be provided on all fur garments sold in the City as soon as practicable following implementation of the program.
- The FurMark Certification would be globally implemented, in multiple languages. Unique to San Francisco could be an additional requirement for educational and instructional programs on animal welfare for retailers and sales professionals, as well as for consumers.
- Traceability and certification components would mandate the creation of industry funded continuity of independent oversight bodies to ensure all furs eligible for certification are ethically sourced and fully adherent to the strictest and most current animal welfare standards.
- Standards themselves would be subject to continual review and improvement with the input and oversight of third party experts. This would encourage ongoing innovations in equipment and best practices, and for the continued humane treatment and sound environmental stewardship as an industry imperative.
- For fur farming, the program would require and make verifiable to consumers certification that...

- Fur farming standards have independent third-party oversight, are peer-reviewed and posted online with full details for scrutiny by consumers and policymakers.
 - Fur farms would be independently inspected, audited and re-approved for certification every 15 to 18 months, depending on the jurisdiction.
 - After the inspections, there will be random audits of the inspections to further enhance standards and adherence, ensuring the integrity of the program.
 - Aggregated and anonymized results of fur farm certifications would be publicly accessible online and also provided to city policymakers and designated city animal care officials.
- For wild-caught furs, FurMark Certification would require and strengthen global industry compliance:
 - Improving education about and enforcement of the two standards developed by the International Organization for Standardization, or ISO.
 -
 - FurMark Certification would require rigorous enforcement and transparency for animal welfare standards memorialized by the first International Understanding between the United States of America and the European Union. Canada and Russia have a similar agreement. These standards are used by professional furbearer biologist in management of numerous species in those respective countries. The FurMark certification would further extend approved management programs to ensure that wildfur exports and imports among member countries are responsibly sourced and sustainably managed.
 - FurMark Certification would ensure that current education and enforcement programs aimed at meeting the ISO standard would be continued.
 - Educational programs could be an additional component of the San Francisco portion of the FurMark Certification standard, and we would invite input from local policymakers on possibilities to benefit the imperatives of environmental responsibility and animal welfare locally, while strengthening adherence to ethical best practices worldwide.
 - Priorities for industry instructional programs would address: sustainable use of wildlife populations; humane treatment of animals; and the importance of ethical, responsible and sustainable use of animals to minimize and eliminate needless waste.
 - Regular and ongoing development of improved methods for wild fur trapping and capture devices will continually strengthen animal welfare standards, offering benefits for the welfare of all fur bearing species including those subject to non-commercial trapping by governmental wildlife management agencies and educational institutions.

- In fact, the commercial fur industry's commitment to such improvements would offer enormous ancillary benefits for trapping for non-commercial and governmental purposes (of which the commercial fur trade represents a relatively small portion). Trapping and capture programs employed by wildlife agencies internationally are critical for protecting endangered and threatened species from over-abundant predator populations. In many areas of the world, for example, unmanaged populations of foxes and coyotes pose enormous risks to endangered species, including whooping cranes and other at-risk bird species that nest on the ground. Trapping plays an essential role for such agencies to protect endangered species threatened by over-abundant predation.

The industry would additionally consider guidance from San Francisco policymakers, retailers and consumers to potentially develop and implement a levy program on all fur products sold locally to benefit local animal shelters, local welfare related charities or to endow local scholarships in animal care education. Across the U.S., many independent retailers and producers currently have similar programs in place successfully raising much-needed support to prolong and improve the lives of animals.

As mentioned previously, the proposal outlined above represents a groundbreaking innovation in product transparency, third-party accountability and consumer information that far exceeds that of most other consumer products, including those that also depend on the use of animals for food, garments and other kinds of products. Although much of the detail involved in the FurMark Certification Standard is necessarily specific to the fur industry, it's abiding principles and framework are readily adaptable as a model for other businesses engaged in commercial uses of animal products. A successful and workable compromise with San Francisco would strengthen adherence to animal welfare and environmental priorities worldwide and offer an example to other industries whose consumers would also benefit from similar approaches to stronger enforcement, accountability and transparency of information about the products they may consider for purchase.

Beyond innovations to strengthen and improve global adherence to best possible industry practices, the industry is also committed to improved public education now on current industry practices designed to ensure the humane treatment of animals. Whether for consideration by the San Francisco Board of Supervisors or made available more to communities they recommend to us, we would gladly provide additional information and educational programs on the following:

- How traps and capture devices are tested and continually improved for commercial and non-commercial use;
- International treaties by which the United States abides for all domestic trapping;
- Fur farming certification standards, enforcement practices and research, including non-commercial laboratory research; and

- The fur industry’s strong emphasis on the sustainable and full use of animal by-products for the multitude of benefits they offer, which range from commercial fishing to biodiesel, fertilizer, and the perfume industry and cosmetics industries.

There is no higher priority for us as industry leaders than strict adherence to the highest possible standards and practices in animal welfare and environmental responsibility. The FurMark Certification Standard we propose reflects an approach that showcases our commitment to those values in unprecedented ways. As the leading organizations in our industry, we strive continually to explore new advances and improve standards based on science, with full participation from independent researchers and animal welfare advocates. To be sure, we also recognize that we must do more in order to ensure that consumers, policymakers, designers, retailers and others are fully apprised of our existing practices as well as the bold new initiative we proposed. And we invite recommendations from San Francisco policymakers on specific steps we could take locally to improve public understanding of the scope of our commitment to animal welfare and the environment.

San Francisco, as a fashion leader and international retail destination for tourists, is a pioneer on many issues, including animal welfare. Although we obviously disagree with the proposed fur sales ban legislation as the industry it targets, we fully recognize — and indeed fully share — many of the concerns that form the proposed ban’s rationale. We believe the robust enforcement and certification program we propose— backed by a recognizable certification standard that empowers consumers like never before to make informed and ethical choices in the animal products they consider for purchase— fully reflects those concerns. We believe our proposal will do far more to accomplish the worthy aims of humane treatment of animals and sound ecological practices than the alternative proposal under consideration. San Francisco deserves credit for catalyzing our industry’s overdue progress in developing the standards and programs discussed in this letter. We offer this first-of-its-kind, model approach as a policy alternative worthy of San Francisco and its values. We believe it promises real, meaningful and verifiable progress on issues of animal welfare and environmental protection worldwide, with innovations in consumer transparency and accountability that will have lasting and widespread benefits.

Rather than merely adopting a ban that is neither based on fact nor real considerations of sustainability or environmental concerns and that would result in the loss of millions of dollars in tax revenues and jobs as well as the likely increase in retail vacancies in the city’s core, we urge you to consider this proposal. The proposed ban, which still allows for the sale of a wide range of fur types will have little impact. Those that seek the limited items that cannot be purchased in SF will access them through stores just outside SF or via e-commerce. It also sets a very dangerous precedent in opening the door for further actions against leather and wool, already the focus of active animal rights campaigns.

The consumer has spoken and the prominence of fur on the runways for the fall 2018 collections just completed in NY, London, Paris and Milan reflects the popularity of fur fashion and the strong consumer demand. In the absence of real, natural fur retailers will likely move to “faux” fur to meet this demand. Natural fur is sustainable, renewable and environmentally friendly and strict animal welfare standards are in place in the U.S and North America to ensure the humane treatment of animals. But the “faux” fur product available today is the complete antithesis of the ideals of sustainability and the concept of responsible environmental conservation that reflect the core values of San Francisco. By inadvertently promoting faux fur, a petroleum-based product that is not renewable, sustainable or biodegradable, and releases thousands of tiny plastic lint fibers into waste water when washed that are then released into oceans and rivers where they are ingested by fish, mammals and sea birds, this proposed ban directly contradicts the many positive environmental moves the SF city council has taken regarding plastics and Styrofoam.

The vast majority of consumers — in San Francisco and around the world — make consumer choices every day that involve the use of animal products. Among the multitude of such products, those produced by the fur industry are targeted perhaps because they are the most expensive and least well understood. Recognizing our responsibility to do more as an industry to improve transparency and enhance standards, we offer a groundbreaking proposal that will empower informed consumer choices, that will improve standards and practices worldwide, and that embodies values we believe we share with the large majority of San Franciscans.

On behalf of all of industry organizations listed below, we welcome the opportunity to discuss the program and related efforts with you in greater detail. We also invite opportunities to meet with or answer questions from city policymakers to elaborate.

Sincerely,

Marcie Rea
Chairman
Fur Information Council of America

Mark Oaten
CEO
International Fur Federation

ROBERT B. DAROFF, JR., M.D.
55 ROBINHOOD DRIVE
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94127

January 30, 2018

Dear Board of Supervisors:

I have lived and worked in San Francisco for nearly 28 years and although I've been very active at times in state-wide and national politics, I have never before written a letter to the Board of Supervisors. I've always had faith that my local elected officials would wrestle with the issues and eventually do the right thing for the City.

There is, however, an issue that will be before you in the coming weeks that is too important for me to sit back and take on faith that it will go the right way. San Francisco has the opportunity to be the first large metropolitan city in the United States to ban the sale and manufacturing of fur, following in the footsteps of Berkeley and West Hollywood.

With this proposal, San Francisco has the opportunity to make a clear statement to the rest of the world that the confinement, torture, and brutal killing of these beautiful animals is morally and ethically unjustifiable.

We are a city of animal lovers. We are a city known for its compassion. It's time we live up to our values with a clear and strong message that the fur industry has no place in San Francisco.

Thank you for your tireless work on behalf of our city and on behalf of the animals whose lives will be spared because of this measure.

Sincerely yours,

Robert B. Daroff, Jr., MD

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Fur Ban

bob kaufman <recycle55@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Wed, Jan 24, 2018 at 12:33 AM

I am a SF resident and have been since 1977. I am in favor of banning the sale of fur in San Francisco because the production of fur products is impossible to do humanely, consequently fur bearing animals are subject to terrible suffering in traps, and in cages on fur farms where they spend their short lives, often mutilating themselves from the maddening confinement. San Francisco has been at the forefront of other issues and should teach the nation by its example. Senseless cruelty to satisfy the vanity of tasteless people has no place in this progressive city. I therefore urge you to pass this groundbreaking legislation as a first step in eliminating this despicable industry from our country completely.

Sincerely,
Bob Arteaga
415-430-8089

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Sara Winslow <winslowsara@gmail.com>

Tue, Jan 23, 2018 at 9:00 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

San Francisco should be the most progressive city in the world. Allowing fur from this barbaric industry in our city is the opposite of progressive. Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will live up to its reputation, continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence, and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sara Winslow
538 Peralta Ave. SF 94110

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Roberto Ganzale

Address:

1215 G

Phone number:

415 315 1111

Email:

roberto.ganzale@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Terril Preston Barze

Address: Terrilbarze17@gmail.com

Phone number: 415-241-2600

Email: 6230 Third Street

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Cynthia Cardine Gomez
Address: 1390 Mission St #314
Phone number: 415-527-7430
Email: Bomezcy_1997@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: SKYLW
Address: 415-941-1123 159 Nigera avenue
Phone number: skylw@ gmail . com
Email: _____

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sara Eshkani

Address: 1252 74th Ave

Phone number: 415 960 5082

Email: Seladivi415@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Fatuma Wang
Address: 125 Mason St San Francisco CA 94102
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alejandra Goner

Address: 3090 16th St SF CA 94103

Phone number:

Email: alexandria.brita.g92@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

SABRINA CRUZ
255 BROADWAY
DRIE CRUZ 232@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Raven Hernandez
Address: 451 Sunrise way
Phone number: (415) ~~574~~ -6607
574
Email: ravenkhana@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Talitha Victoris
Address: 1283 Devere Ave
Phone number: 415-645-3421
Email: Talitha.Victoria@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Ryba Ojeda
94134
415-678-8672

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: BRUNO AZPATIC
Address: 520 TAYLOR ST SF CA 94102
Phone number: 416-597-6069
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MICHI OHIRA
Address: 1170 FLORIDA ST, SAN FRANCISCO, CA
Phone number: 347 681 5691.
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Daniel Arce
134 Leland Ave. SF, CA 94134
(415) 823-9523
danrci@att.net.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Roel Mangiliman
Address: 502 St. Ave
Phone number: 707 319 2228
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Greer Lewis
Address: 673 Oak St. SF 94117
Phone number: 415-376-8441
Email: _____

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alanna Keefe

Address: 2621 33RD AVE

Phone number:

Email: alanna.keefe@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Stefani Yasukochi

Address: 8400 Oceanview Terrace, APT 263, San Francisco CA 94132

Phone number: (619) 877-6126

Email: StefaniYasukochi97@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Leah Golden
Leah Golden
leah.golden@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

4320 California
SF. CA 94118.

#2

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ynnu Hoang
Address: 2538 26th Ave., San Francisco, CA. 94116
Phone number: (925)-698-3560
Email: yhoang.sch@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sumayya Elmi
Address: 145 Irving Street
Phone number:
Email: sumayya.elmi@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Michelle Murrell
Address: 68 Montezuma St SF 94110
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Ali Hall

Address:

68 Montezuma St SF 94110

Phone number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Chris Kensinger
Address: 325 Holy Oak Street 94134
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Marilyn J. Johanson
Address: 136 Huntington St SF CA 94114
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MOHAMED
Address: 2730 Taylor St SF
Phone number:
Email: met_m@Hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: TRANG HUYNH

Address: 400 Head St, SF, CA 94132

Phone number: 415 341 9823

Email:

tranghuynh111@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jimmie Collins
Address: 74 Voltaire Terrace
Phone number: (510) 848 0352
Email: Jimmie7@Comcast.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Rosemarie Geisei

Address:

~~2000~~ 2000 Wawona St. SF 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ashley yuen

Address: 85 Buckingham Way, San Francisco 94132

Phone Number: (562) 760-2191

Email: ayyuen@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Albin Flores

Address: 4903 MISIONS SFCA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kathryn Rivers

Address: 2020 ~~1st~~ 22nd St, SF 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Emma Pearu

Address: 4016 25th St, SF, 94114

Phone Number: 415-748-1439

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Karen Randall KAREN RANDALL
120 HANCOCK ST (S.F. 94114)

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tianxiao Huang

Address: 30 Mason St, San Francisco, CA, 94102

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Juan Alberto Gutierrez

Address: 302 Waller St Apt. A SF CA 94117

Phone Number:

Email:

A handwritten signature in black ink, consisting of a stylized, overlapping circular shape with a vertical line through the center, and a horizontal line extending to the right.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Charles Comming

Address: 111 Taylor St

Phone Number:

Email: Commingell@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:  ALEJANDRO KUTULAS

Address: 639 BUSH

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

CATALINA ABDIEL

Address:

639 BUSH ST.

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Margaret Pezeslki

Address: 136 6th St. San Francisco CA 94103

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Flora Espinoza

Address:

614 38th Ave SF, CA 94121

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CHRIS SHIELDS

Address: 3684 16th ST, SF, CA 94114

Phone Number: 415-577-1924

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Shael St. Louis

Address:

2684 16th St, San Francisco, CA 94114

Phone Number:

415-400-5983

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

[Handwritten signature]
Blanca C. Vergara
1912 15th St 94114
1-415-774-2828
blanca@vergara.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

JOSE GONZALEZ
1912 15TH ST 94114
415 238 1489

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Rayna Wilson

Address: 789 9th Ave San Francisco 94118

Phone Number:

Email: Rayna.wilson@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LUISA BETANCOURT

Address: 1281 19th AVE SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94122

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tanya Shats
Address: 1521 Sutter St, apt. 405
Phone number: 415-928-6822
Email: tanyashats@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: John Michelson
Address: 1220 Arguello Blvd
Phone number: 415-816-2200
Email: jomich36@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: KIVE CHAVEZ
Address: 138 HANLEY STREET
Phone number: (415) 912-9905
Email: kivechavez@icloud.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Anthony L.
Address: 2 Emery Ln
Phone number: 1-415-666-6462
Email: ~~Anthony L.~~ @gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: May Li
Address: 865 Clay St.
Phone number: 415 570-3225
Email: kiki3718@icloud.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Wendy Wu
Address: 1834 Mason St 94133
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Carmen Tha

carmieck@sbcglobal.net

C.P. 94109

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Ruby Cheng

Address:

1330 Bush St. APT 6 D. San Fran

Phone number:

415 866 9539

Email:

wanionjan@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Angel Gonzalez
Address: 886 Bellevue
Phone number: 510-298-2220
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

161 West St
SF, CA.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tracy Tiernan
Address: 3323 California St Apt 2 SF CA 94118
Phone number:
Email: tracytiernan@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Carmen Chen

Address: 94133

Phone number:

Email: carmench1910@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Helen Yu
Address: 11 Belden
Phone number: (415) 309-7276
Email: heleny21@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Dean Colombini
1152 Park St, Alameda 94501
(415) 265-1402
24traues@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jessica Schneider
Address: 1300 Irving St #14, SF, CA 94115
Phone number: 720-308-1000
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Andrew Heinecke
Address: 1238 Page St Apt A SPCA 94117
Phone number: N/A
Email: andrew1433@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LEO GAZZANI
Address: 350 DAY STREET SF CA 94131
Phone number: 415 - 572-8286
Email: /

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Bob Becker". The signature is written over the "Name:" label and extends slightly to the right.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Marie Hansen

Address:

Phone number:

209-918-2710

Email:

Marie.Lynn.Hansen@

JPHait.
com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Zhao Jing
Address: 66 Redston St
Phone number:
Email: Zhao Jing1244@Yahooe.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sarah Tao
Address: 14121
Phone number:
Email: sarah.tao3@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Calvin Zhen
Address: 1019 Stockton Street
Phone number: 415-606-9328
Email: calvin.zhen@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Adrian Law

Address: 1622 21st Ave

Phone number:

Email: adrianlaw12@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: PAV LUCAS
Address: 25 SERRAVALLO ST APT 01 SF, CA 94114
Phone number: (415) 860-778
Email: SEYCASECO@XATTOO.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Forrest Zha
Address: 2655 BUSH ST
Phone number: ~~888~~
Email: forrestzha@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Gamarri Kyner
Address: 211 Melissa Cir.
Phone number: 415-696-1099
Email: houndarb0@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Rachel Wu
Address: 88 Townsend
Phone number: (415) 939-7008
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

27 Castellina Ct. San Canyon CA 94030

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

3206 Lynest, of Fairfield

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Frank Dagen
Address: 1724 Alister Street
Phone number: 415 699 5203
Email:

~~frank~~ frankdagen89@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ulysses Johnson
Address: 867 Jarrettown St.
Phone number: 415-529-547-9061
Email: 480720460@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Ellis Gilbert
M. Eady

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Shirley Dindly
149 Murray ST
Castro

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Derrick Guerra

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

55 Mason St #418 SF 94102

Derrick Guerra

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alex Machado

Address: 225 Ellis St SF CA

Phone number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

1401 POLK ST, SF

PARSIA SHAHANDEH

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Michaela Farias
Address: 334 First Lane
Phone number: 415 990 4404
Email:
Michaela.farias
@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Yvette MacDonald
1008 De Haro St

yvette-macdonald@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Victor D. Dixon
510 Stockton St #106 SF CA 94108
415-433-0929

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

David Noytate
1001 Pine St, Unit 409
S.F. CA. 94109

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dimitri Singleton
Address: 735 604th St
Phone number: 619 604-8816
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Koby Wilson

Address: 64th Ave

Phone number: 310-634-2127

Email: kobywilson1987@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lucif Corral
Address: B. Dominguez, La Paz, B.C.S.
Phone number: 6121038928
Email: corralucra@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LC Marshall
Address: _____
Phone number: 510 302-8858
Email: Kornishu1510@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

JEFFERSON PER

89 NAPLES ST

SF CA 94112

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Shih Tsai (Kevin)
Address: 2626 43rd ave
Phone number: 415-769-6069
Email: sttsai9@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Amelia Nell
Address: 788 Harrison #635
Phone number: 872 588 0270
Email: mia.e.atkinson@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Anisha Dutt

Address: 5 Judith Lane, Naltham - 02452, MA

Phone number: 617-380-9866

Email: anisha.duttstucker@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: SAISHIR SHEKHAR
Address: 5 JUDITH LN, BOSTON, MA
Phone number:
Email: Shishirsh87@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Miguel Galvan

Address:

101. S. VAN NESS

Phone number:

760-5476625

Email:

mig12987@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MARY KISH

Address: 701 TAYLOR ST APT 306

Phone number:

Email: MK124504@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alexander Holmberg
Address: 2414 Williamsburg Ct. South San Francisco
Phone number: 817 404 6664
Email:

gothicfur666@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jordan Daniel Deelouette
Address: 76 Lafona St SF CA 94124
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Londynn Young
Address: 620 Sutter St. Apt 403
Phone number: 952-923-3691
Email: londynn7@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MARCO CALMASINI
Address: 340 FREMONT ST. SAN FRANCISCO
Phone number: 650 739 6264
Email: MARCO.CALMASINI@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Oscar Wong
301 Mark Street, 28F, San Francisco, CA 94102
~~oscar~~ OscarWong@extendhealth.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Barack Leib
94112
415-23-8264

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Antonio Torres
ANTONIO TORRES
140 Jones St., #208
antonio.torres1978@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jenny S.
Address: Ellis P. Farrell
Phone number: (415) 237-3324
Email: jshaobe@mail.ucsf.edu

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Jana Wright
74 6th St
SF. CA. 94103
Pachanonis77@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Zack Shivers
Address: 901 Treat St, SF
Phone number: 242 496 7899
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

1360 STAY #3, SF 94109

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Wendy Wu
Address: 160 Crocker-Hughes St. ~~94115~~ 94134
Phone number: 415 678 8614
Email: wuchenyulacey@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JANINE Guerrero
Address: 539 27th street
Phone number: 347-857-8501
Email: wahine129@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Morgan Dupart
Address: 4100 Clementina st. SF
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ZARA OTTO
Address: 400 CLEMENTINE ST. 94103
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sophie Schirmer
Address: 673 Oak St. San Francisco 94117
Phone number: 914 263 2561
Email: Sybil@schirmer.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Diane Espinosa

Address: 8395 Golden Avenue, Chula Vista, CA 91945

Phone number: (619) 876-2354

Email: thediane3098@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jennifer Hernandez
Address: 3351 Minton Ave. LA CA 90031
Phone number: (310) 967-9396
Email: jennifer85@g9n00.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: BILL MAURER

Address: 1061 E 2ND LONG BEACH CA 90802

Phone number:

Email: wmmaurer@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Fenny Lin

Address:

Phone number:

510-704-3263

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Koshni Rayamajh
Address: 1007 Bayview Farm Rd, Pinole
Phone number: 6284449152
Email: rozmeep@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Xavier P. AEBEL
Address: 874 Powell
Phone number: /
Email: chevle.sauc@equal.us

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: BARBARA TOPCHOV
Address: 701 TAYLOR ST., # 303, SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94108
Phone number: (415) 928-7463
Email: BTOPCHOV@ATT.NET

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Erin Neal
209 221 1508
erineal@earthlink.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Stella Dawn
Address: 165 Grottingen street
Phone number: 650 534 8297
Email: gwan.s.2014@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Chandru Ramana

Address: 94118

Phone number: 507-261-2217

Email: Chandru.Ramana@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: PONDHARSHINI SADASIYAM
Address: 2949 CLEMENT AVE, 94121
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ANJANA S
Address: PARKMERCED, 94132
Phone number: 669-233-5325
Email: anjanasrinivasprasad@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Scott Jardine
Address: 2066 19th Ave. 94116
Phone number: (415) 967-8494
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: OSCAR PEREZ
Address: 275 16TH ST
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Aref Nagvi
Address: ~~619~~ JACOBS Engineering COI P
Phone number: 619-884-2002
Email: aref.nagvi@jacobs.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Ranjit Cole

Address:

450 Jones St.

Phone number:

94102

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Margaret Johnson
1040 Bush ST #355 San Francisco CA 94109

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: STEVE BECRIST
Address: 3029A 19th ST, SF, CA
Phone number: 415-824-9151
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

144 Eddy St # 515

San Francisco, CA

94102

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: G. Kidgell
Address: Taylor St.
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Elizabeth Skunote
Address: San Francisco, 94109
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alexander Wink
Address: 2680 Vicente St., San Francisco CA 94116
Phone number: 415-724-3479
Email: alexanderwink810@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Mark Anthony
1000 MARKET ST. #409
S.F. CA

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,
Name: TED LYLES
Address: 596 PAGE ST #11
Phone number:
Email: N/A

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Edwin Violette
Address: 965 SHOTWELL ST
Phone number: 415-470-4138
Email: win.violette@att.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kirsten Schuel
Address: 269 Gateway drive Apt 125 Pacifica, CA 94044
Phone number: 516-24-4325
Email: Kirsten917@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Belinda Yu

Address: 356 Rachel Carson Rd #989, Santa Cruz, CA 95064

Phone number: 650-556-3980

Email: belindayu@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Mameel Delgado
56 Arlington Dr. S. San Francisco

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jonathan Spencer
Address: 3937 Wesley Way
Phone number: (678) 891-9684
Email: chefjonathan7@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Mara Ramos
Address: 201 Oak Ct.
Phone number: (415) 927-4797
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CRAIG BIRD
Address: 3857 24th ST #2 SF CA 94114
Phone number:
Email: CRAIGBIRD2000@YAHOO.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jesse Powell
Address: 548 Market St. #32656, SF, 94104
Phone number: 415-267-4413
Email: jpowell@gmail.com

(Don't contact)

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: SAMUEL LUCIANO
Address: 540 5TH ST San Francisco, CA
Phone number: 540-777-4694
Email: LUCIANO30813@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CHRISTINA YEE
Address: 548 MARKET ST. 39656, SF, 94104
Phone number: 415-940-1418
Email: christina222012@gmail.com
(non-contact)

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Orance James
Address:
Phone number: 94131
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tyler Cashman
Address: 94131
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jenny Zabinisky

Address: 1505 4th St SF 94115

Phone number:

Email: jazzyjents@4thst.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

[Handwritten signature]
Rachel Goldberg
550 Geneva Pk. East Hill, SF 94150
(415) 770-4343
rachelgoldberg@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Maria Rojas
56 Arlington Dr SSF CA 94080
mdk9built@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits, and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address: 250 Kearny St # 522 SF CA 94108
Phone number: 415 591-2901
Email: wanesapp4u@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CARLOS LOURENCO
Address: 80 ELGIN PK, #9, SF, CA
Phone number: (415) 712-9095
Email: ELLOURENCO@LIVE.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Grant Bullis

80 Elgin Park #9 SF, CA

650 - 787 - 9620

Grant

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Cathy Hernandez
Address: 500 Hyde St Apt 304, San Fran, CA 94109
Phone number: 415-325-4465
Email: csthern5@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

R. Fuchs-Capstone
64 Turk St #302
SF CA 94102

fuchsrdnsr@comcast.com . 415 361.9315

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Angelica Leyva

Address: SAN MARCOS, CA

Phone number: 760-494-1741

Email: angelica.leyva@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Leanne Jones
Address: 1652 Eddy St Apt San Francisco CA 94115
Phone number: (415) 510-0519
Email: leannecowson@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Mary Brooks
765 O'FARRELL ST #25
1-415-654-1834
brooks9a14472@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Byron Wilson
Address: 141 EDDY ST #524
Phone number:
Email: 415) 426-0553

Byron Wilson 198@aol.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kimberly Cusson
Address: 2535 41ST AVE
Phone number: 415-933-3528
Email:

KimberlyCusson@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: BRENT JOHNSON
Address: 2555 41ST AVE, SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94116
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: REBECCA RODRIGUEZ

Address: 125 CAMBON DRIVE 4-L, SAN FRANCISCO CA 94132

Phone number: 415 949 9900

Email: RODRIGUEZ REBECCA711@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Rocky Chau
Address: 530 Larkin St. #105
Phone number: 415-571-0717
Email: rnfchau@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tara Allen
Address: 37 Commer Ct # 129 SF CA 94124
Phone number: (415) 773-2754
Email: taraallen12@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Erlich Bautista
Address: 2055 Sacramento St Apt 705, SF, CA 94109
Phone number: 209-956-3183
Email: erlich.bautista@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kristi Jackson
Address: 2056 Sacramento St Apt 705
Phone number: 440-567-3969
Email: kristi@iic.edu

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lionel James
Address: 760 Linden street
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: DAVID BARTON

Address: SF 94122

Phone number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Courtney Treiorden

Address: 8 9th St

Phone number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Mariana Peressini Garza
Address: 855 Brannan St. Unit 377 San Francisco 94103
Phone number: 774 286 9345
Email: mariana_peressini@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Cynthia Teves
Address: 271 Bay St, SF, CA, 94134
Phone number: (415) 894-7631
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Laure Ross-Perry
Address: Golden Gate Ave.
Phone number: 415 444 9281
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alec Lu

Address: 1102 Pine Street

Phone number: 415 673 4457

Email: alecto4@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

EARLA M. BOHANNON
980 HOWARD ST. #206
415-867-5912

Fur is For the animals Is!

lets respect!

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ricardo Meza
Address: 1262 Vermont st., San Francisco
Phone number: 415-~~826~~-4721
Email: 826

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Marlene Ouedo
474 Natoma St. #103, SF, CA, 94103

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Rosemary Ehat

Name: Rosemary Ehat

Address: 2511 Prince St #9 Berkeley CA 94705

Phone number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Jennifer Fran

Jennifer Fran@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Donna La Frenette
Address: 250 Ellis St #212
Phone number: 510 815-8885
Email: Koffelkitten@earthlink.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Reina GARZA
Address: 142 Holloway Ave #5
Phone number: 415 654 9158
Email: reinasdream@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Forrest Bine

Address:

3221 St Helena Rd

Phone number:

707 330 1509

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: BARBARA TORCHOV
Address: 701 TAYLOR ST. APT. 303
Phone number: (415) ~~415~~
Email: BTORCHOV@ATT.NET

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dan Bell
Address: 1706 32nd Ave #2
Phone number: 510-355-2090
Email: dvoc0071970@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Simran kaur
Address: ~~77~~
Phone number: _____
Email: skaur@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Victoria Scott
Address: 3288 21st St, #128
Phone number: 415-208-1758
Email: VSScott@artico.edu

She wants to know the updates. Please email her.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LISA THOMPSON

Address: 213 VICKSBURG ST.

Phone number: 415/756 5791

Email: ADCARATS@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MANUELA WILCOX
Address: 94014
Phone number: _____
Email: _____

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Cecilia Nieto
Address: 94014
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Indira Lama
Address: 94716
Phone number:
Email: indiragole712@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ashley E Benson
Address: 94115
Phone number:
Email: wabashley@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JENS KAUS
Address: 94109
Phone number:
Email: jens.kaus90@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Leah Mitchell
Address: 663 39th ave
Phone number: 415-319-1206
Email: leahsmitchell@gmail

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Juthaporn Chaloeichuey
650 Eddy St. #602
S.F. CA 94109

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: SCOTT NELSON

Address: 468 TURK ST, SF. CA.

Phone number:

Email: SCOTT94102@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Bryant Adams
Address: 255 11th Ave
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Madeleine Giesell

Address:

Phone number:

Email: maddybg9@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: VEDONKA ZACHARIAS
Address: 766-45TH AVE
Phone number: (415) 797-2089
Email: VLNS415@AOL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Brandon Diep
Address: 2345 Golden Gate Ave, SF 94118
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sean Tellin
Address: 1055 Pine St
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Taylor Tran
Address: 146 Wood
Phone number: 1-415-235-8106
Email: ~~Taylor Tran~~
taylortran2002@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: J. Edwards
Address: 201 9th Street #3 SF
Phone number:
Email: samarr@edwards@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: EJESE IIMDIAU
Address: 615 BUNKER ST
Phone number: 415-792-8510
Email: EJESE415@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Bhavik Joshi
Address: 451 Kansas St.
Phone number: 415 367 3785
Email: bjoshi@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JACK

Address: 558 Broadway St Apt 8 SF CA 94133

Phone number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Zhenmei LU CA 94102

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: V. Chau
Address: 94102
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Daniel K. Hales
1097 Oakland Ave, Oakland CA, 94659
(510) 829-7654

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Katherine Tschudi
Address: 115 Arcata Ave San Francisco, CA 94110
Phone number:
Email: katetichudi@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

SHANNON SHABAN
260 McAllister St # 500
415 947 9700 SF Ca 94102

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Lossak, Elizabeth
1158, Potrero ave
309 789 6307
skilledhunter66@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tina Keckler
Address: 30 Dole St - Apt. 111 SF, CA 94103
Phone number: 310-731-3835
Email: tina.keckler@aol.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone number:
Email:

Cowan Phillips
3130 WEBSTER
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94123

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Taylor Hooper
Address: 94109
Phone number:
Email: thoops_12@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Imma Washington
1632 Turk
S.F. Ca. 94115

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Josline

Address: Long Bridge St

Phone number: 650 309 9526

Email: ej@ gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: PooVina
Address: 696 Long Bridge Street
Phone number: 250 6959098
Email: poovina@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Satyagjit

Address: 32 PONDGROSA AVE

Phone number: 408-616-9051

Email: Satyagjit@people.earthlink.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Hoang Nguyen

Address:

Phone number: 510 417 0852

Email:

hoang@creativesession.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ANNA LEE
Address: 328 N DEARBORN ST
Phone number: 510 629 0833
Email: ann@comcast.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Xoshil Serrano
Address: 388 Beale
Phone number: 628-237-9526
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: HOANG DAD XUAN
Address:
Phone number: 415 231 9592
Email: HOANGDADXUAN@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Chin Chi

Name:

Address: 1345 Clement St. Apt. 301, SF CA 94118

Phone number:

415 668-2252

Email:

boo219presidio@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Josephine Bellacorno

Name: Josephine Bellacorno

Address: 1649 Treat Ave, SF, CA 94110

Phone number: 415 724-5785

Email: jo@move the message . com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jeda Waldessasse

Address: _____

Phone number: _____

Email: idawaldessasse@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kelley Larsson
Address: 2135-16th Ave Portland 97212
Phone number: 503-756-3090
Email: _____

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jennifer Lineham
Address: UK
Phone number:
Email: jlineham@sky.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MICHAEL MCGANN

Address: 900 BAY ST.

Phone number: 415-632-0157

Email: mjmcgannst@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Michelle Neal
2
2457 Grove Street ad 41107
SXBado24@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Spencer Anderson
61 Tapscott
310 698-3399
spenceranderson@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Asunmy Saus
Address: 351 Turk St. Apt. 305 #4102
Phone number: 415-678-8465
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

FARMER CUMM
1060 BUSH ST 207
415 660 5855
RACER66 @ Hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Arelly Estrella

201 Turin 94102

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Rain Malquies
Address: 655 Sutter St, San Francisco
Phone number: 415-543-0876
Email: lawlessriver@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Denali Villarveva
Address: 33916 Washington Ave Union City 95104
Phone number: 678-313-2485
Email: denalivillarveva3@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dania Meza

Address: 88 Lobos St

Phone number: (415) 532 9024

Email: daniameza@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: VIRGINIA RODRIGUEZ
Address: 235 SANCHEZ STREET, SF CA 94111
Phone Number: 415 2389459
Email: rodrvi2@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

 Richard Vicars

Address:

891 Ellis St SF, CA 94102

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

364 Wheeler St. S.F

Phone Number:

Email:

Jaijen Song

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Johnny Cruz

Address: 44 John Daly Blvd. 94127

Phone Number: (415)-632-7229

Email: jcruz915@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Gabrielle Schwartz

Address:

701 Pine St 94108

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

JOANNA POP

Address:

POPULARNA 1/56, WARSAW-POLAND-EUROPE

Phone number:

+48-511-278-367

Email:

joanna.travel.es@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lisa Bloom
Address: 94116
Phone number:
Email: Lisa@TheBloomFirm.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Kalina Hansson

Address:

2334 35th Ave San Francisco CA 94116

Phone number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ayat Albanna
Address: 94546
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Maryam Bahgat
Address: 9450
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Maureen E. Stewart

Address: 2812 Golden Gate Ave - SF, CA, 94118

Phone number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Jason Skettler
900 Folsom St #368
415-900-9586
SFbyjason@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MICHAEL FUNG
Address: 58 BELLE AVE.
Phone number: (415) 297-3070.
Email: michael556d@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Gary Bleigh
890 Hayes St
CA 94117

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alexis R
Address: 890 HAYES CA.
Phone number: 94117
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JIRO P.
Address: 94112
Phone number:
Email:

A large, stylized handwritten signature in black ink, consisting of several overlapping loops and a long horizontal stroke extending to the left.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Chris Meyerling
Address: 380 Oak Park Drive
Phone number: 415 745 4294
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Utaher Packer
1824 Polk St SF 94109
415 574 9602
DPUS2017@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kendra Weinisch
Address: 610 Clipper St.
Phone number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Holly Ulasovich
Address: 3070 24TH ST
Phone number:
Email: SF 94110

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone number:

Email:

Stan Vil
253 5534953
vil_2409@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Polly Hold

Address:

Phone number: 4694549387

Email: polly_dh@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tia Lu
Address: 1801 Agnor Avenue, Apt 101, San Francisco CA 94113
Phone number:
Email: weitatua8@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please Support the Ban on Fur

1 message

Sara Uvalle <foxuvalle@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Wed, Jan 24, 2018 at 7:49 AM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

I believe fur is bought primarily out of ignorance of the suffering it causes. I remember being a kid and begging my mom for a jacket with a rabbit fur trimmed hood because "I love rabbits". I did not make the connection that having a fur-trimmed jacket meant that the animal I loved so much had been tortured and killed. Thankfully, my mom said no. I weep thinking of all the defenseless animals who are harmed and killed for our ignorance. San Francisco has the opportunity to be a leader in spreading awareness and helping cultivate a more compassionate society by implementing a ban on fur.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Sara Uvalle

3005 24th Street

Boulder, CO 80304

(310) 924-9188

foxuvalle@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please Support the Ban on Fur

1 message

Hannah Dennison <hannah.n.dennison@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Wed, Jan 24, 2018 at 12:49 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

I strongly support the ban on fur as a vegan who sees furry animals as friends and equals, not materialistic commodities and food. I work with the Humane Society in Berkeley, I am committed to assisting animals in need in whatever way I can. I have a duty to stand up for what I believe is right in the world, and needlessly skinning animals is not right or just - it is cruel and inhumane. We, the Bay Area, are better than this.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most-vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Hannah Dennison

1942 Channing Way #206

Berkeley, CA 94704

(626) 610-6194

hannah.n.dennison@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Julie Chin <serjules@yahoo.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Thu, Jan 25, 2018 at 1:11 AM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Julie Chin

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Aleksandra Skiljevic <aleks.skiljevic@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Wed, Jan 24, 2018 at 4:50 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you today requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Aleksandra Skiljevic
610-71 Parkwoods Village Dr. Toronto, ON M3A2Y1 Canada
647-936-6225
aleks.skiljevic@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Eveline Carels <evelinecarels@yahoo.com>

Fri, Jan 26, 2018 at 4:18 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am sending this email to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of our planet, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

[State why you support the fur ban here. Personal stories about why the issue is important to you and how it affects you and those you care about, e.g. your dog or cat, can be especially powerful.]

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Eveline Carels
Loosduinsekade 186
2571BW The Hague
The Netherlands
0031622896305
evelinecarels@yahoo.com

Verstuurd vanaf mijn iPhone

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Paul Choppi <paul.choppi@gmail.com>

Fri, Jan 26, 2018 at 2:59 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products. I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death. Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry. I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Paul Choppi

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Robin McClave

Name: Robin McClave

Address: 430 Skinner St., SF, 94117

Phone Number: 415-235-0295

Email: robinmcc@speskeasy.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Carine Rompanti

Address:

767 14th ST SF CA 94114

Phone Number:

415 728 1531

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Adrienne Herr Paul

Address: 729 Jones St. Apt 114 SF, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dominic Espinosa

Address: 610 COLE ST #105, SAN FRANCISCO, 94117, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Phillip Pascoe

Address: 1421 48th avenue, San Francisco, CA, 94172

Phone Number: 714-883-5460

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CASEY STEVENS

Address: 3620 VICENTE

Phone Number: 415 217 9470

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Angela Pang

Address: San Francisco

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jason Barreto

Address: 1390 12th Ave #2, San Francisco, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Jason Barreto". The signature is written in a cursive style with a long horizontal line extending from the top of the "t".

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Henry Holst

Address:

3733 Judah St SF CA 94122

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: NICHOLAS CZAP

Address: 11 BARCELONA AV

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

[Handwritten signature]
SAN FRANCISCO

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jude K. Brennan
Address: San Francisco CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Joe Gelman

Address: 930 Lawton St. 94122

Phone Number: 919 294 7634

Email: joegelman6@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address: 623 17th AVE, SF, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: April Quintana

Address: 750 Font Blvd, San Francisco 94132

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

San Francisco resident

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

90111111 DL

Phone Number:

94127

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: James Patterson

Address: 631 Taraval St

Phone Number: 646-334-0695

Email: jpatt492@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

DEBORAH SIMOVICH

Address:

SAN FRANCISCO

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Louis Wong

Address: 72 Bruce Ave San Francisco CA 94112

Phone Number: (510) 305-0030

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Natalie Dow

Address: 980 Oak St #2 94117

Phone Number: 360-931-8800

Email: nataliekdow@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Courtney V.
Address: 802 font Blvd.
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: NAOMI BURKS

Address: San Francisco resident

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

SAN FRANCISCO

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Pat Skel

Address:

1063 Plymouth Ave., SF 94112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Nick Mendez

Address: 2606 Hyde St SF, CA 94103

Phone Number: 415-902-0131

Email: Britney.Amy1203@gmail.com

X

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: SPENCE CLEVELAND

Address: 866 GREEN ST #2

Phone Number: 415 474-8214

Email: spence11@pacbell.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Sam Smith

Address:

25 SAN CHEZ - P.A.S. 426

Phone Number:

415-260-2911

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: orchid bartelsen

Address: BE Alpine Ter, SF 94117

Phone Number: (415) 971-7946

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Erica Long

Address: 1516-A-23rd Ave

Phone Number: 415 235-8589

Email: ericalong@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Alexander Nguyen

Address:

200 Denstane Dr. San Francisco CA 94132

Phone Number:

(408) 382-1913

Email:

alexander.nguyen1776@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Hillary Horn

Address: 50 Rizal St.

Phone Number: 415.272.5119

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JOHN NEMANN NORDMARK

Address: 100 CARL ST 94117

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: BOB WILCOX

Address: 350 Gough St # 3

Phone Number: ~~415~~ 415-640-2826

Email: RAJMAN BOB RD @ YAHOO.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Jia Yi Lao

Name: Jia Yi Lao

Address: SF, 94133

Phone Number: (415) 260-4913

Email: karen.jy.lao@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Susan Tregner

Name: SUSAN TREGNER

Address: 82 GLADSTONE DR, S.F. 94112

Phone Number: 4

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jamie Goloyup

Address: 235 Buckingham Way 705

Phone Number: (707) 606-8174

Email: jamie.goloyup@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JULIETTE ESTELLE SURETTE

Address: 100 - 1912 VANNESS, SF CA 94102

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email: _____

Elliot Humphrey
Elliot Humphrey
294 South Van Ness 94910

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Lance Boyd

Name:

Lance Boyd

Address:

23 Sanchez # 307 SE 94114

Phone Number:

415 680-4641

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Fred DeProsse

Address:

1880 Pike St 508, San Francisco 94109

Phone Number:

)

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tina Li

Address: San Francisco, CA
94112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jackie Lam

Address: 2539 29th Ave. SF, CA 94116

Phone Number:

Email: jalam10@mail.sfsu.edu.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Angela Hsieh

Address: 124 Dorado Terrace, San Francisco, CA 94112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Danna Glory

Address: 1498 Sanchez St. SF 94131

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Laurel Bennett

Address: 3121 Vicente St. 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jimmy Xin

Address: 148 Chester Ave

Phone Number: (415) 585-0133

Email: Boredstiff723@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Isabel Ochoa

Address: 1608 Church St

Phone Number: (661) 805-7096

Email: iochoa136@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Marjorie Malanog

Address: 1553A Mission St SF CA 94115

Phone Number: 415 323 9512

Email: marjorie1985@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Rich Zuto

Address: 133A Beaver St. SF, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Zachary Bagg

Address: 650 Alvarado St

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Michelle Bull

Address: SF

Phone Number: 912

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jeff Levinson

Address: 3772 26th St. SF 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Mary La Mattery

Address: 552 A Belvedere St.

Phone Number: 415-418-0084

Email: mlamatter@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ANCA TSE, SAN FRANCISCO.

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kevin Luna

Address: 205 Vidoll Dr.

Phone Number: (415) 771-6072

Email: kevinlun200@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: V. Elema

Address: 3560 21st Street

Phone Number:

Email: victoriaelema@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address: 33 HAIGHT ST

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Hana Bixler

Address: 59 Paul Ave. 94124

Phone Number: (415) 994-3546

Email: hanabixler1@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Magda Mukhtar

Address:

San Francisco resident

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Makenna Martinez

Address: 1706 San Francisco resident

Phone Number:

Email: makenna.camille@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Nick Jones

Address: 466 Fredrick St, 94117

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Evelyn Aikman

Address: 357 Tehama St 94103

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MICHAEL TODD

Address: 205 DAI STREET

Phone Number: 415 602 8341

Email: MICHAEL@SIXPACKBAGS.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kimble

Address: 2460 26th Ave, San Francisco

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Diana Owens

Address: 1467 24th ave, SF

Phone Number: 408 486 0844

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Angela Chiu

Address: 2324 20th Ave SF, CA

Phone Number: 415-713-9286

Email: achiu_93@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ANNIE MA

Address: 810 GONZALEZ DR SF CA 94132

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Jenny Lee

Address:

1950 16th Ave, SF, CA 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Wesley MANSOUR

Address: 3461 21st St, SF, CA 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to be 'Wesley Mansour', with a long horizontal line extending to the right.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Phillip Zuber

Address:

498 Carl St #6 SE CA 97112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Michelle Yang

Address: 615 Cole St. Apt. 2 San Francisco, CA 94117

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Raffaele Sapushnik.

Address:

707 Cluyton Ave

Phone Number:

415-256-6344

Email:

raff.12345@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Russell Mutton

Address:

1892 Market St, APT A, San Francisco 94102

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Tom Stehl

Address:

4026 25th St, SFA 94114

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Andrew Noto

Address:

245 Page St Apt. 1A

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Doug Carson

Address:

1400 10th Ave #2, SF, CA 94122

Phone Number:

415-

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

ROBERTO MATEO

Address:

381 - TURK ST SAN FRANCISCO CAL

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Christine DuBois

Address: 877 Ashbury St.

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Seth B Ruben

Name:

Seth Ruben

Address:

SF CA 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Melissa Chamberlain

3128 IRVING ST

415 425 0967

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Stephanie Staykov

Address: 1438 Lincoln Way

Phone Number: 707 318 5985

Email: stephandstaykov@me.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Isabelle Staines

Address: 927 Lincoln Way, San Francisco, CA

Phone Number: 415 896 8803

Email: isabelle.s.staines@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Elisa Sin

Address: San Francisco, 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tina Cuyang

Address: 2837 San Francisco St, SF, CA 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Eugenia McNaughton

Address: 10 Dolores Terrace SF 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Douglas Allen

Address: 850 Stangen St, Apt 1

Phone Number: (650) 804-6104

Email: mcgrupp84@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: EUGENE J. BIRSINGER JR.

Address: 223 Stoncrob Dr. SF

Phone Number: 415 917 6866

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Hannah Brown

Address: 238 Beverly St SF CA 94132

Phone Number: 805.235.3839

Email: HannahBrown71@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

GAVIN DAS

1507 SANCHEZ, SF, CA 94131

415-622-6831

gdas1@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

3832 23rd St

7607975253

|

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Laura C. Smith

Address:

49 Green St, SF 94108

Phone Number:

415-298-1234

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

801 Kirkham St. S.F.

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Reagan Jackson

Address:

Phone Number:

Reagan

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: GARCIA RAMIREZ

Address: 50 LAMARCA DRIVE, SF, CA 95902

Phone Number: 408-267-7241

Email: gduramp@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Carlie Williams

Address: 217A Jersey St 94114

Phone Number: 209 Feb 5270

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Keary

Address: 2307 46th Ave. SF. CA.

Phone Number:

Email:

BAN THE SALE OF FUR IN SAN FRANCISCO

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
DANIELA BOER	BOERDANIELA@YAHOO.COM	1420 CARDILLERAS AVE	94070
Miguel Mancias	mamancias@usfca.edu	559A Minna St.	94103
FERRIN LAM	ferrinlam@me.com	2519 31st SF	94116
Gina Casper	g.casper@nixonpolls.com	200 Trevenna Rd. Livermore CA	94551
Anthony Tran	AnthonyVanTran@gmail.com	363 Teddy Ave SF CA	94134
Catherine Delima	cdelima@beans@gmail.com	201 Belmar Ave	94015
OSKEND	D. VALERAND	1650 Jackson	94109
Leila Noer	LeilaNoer@gmail.com	790 FM 969	78824
Thomas Soumo	TomSoumo@yahoo.com	790 Fin 969	78824
Peter W	PETER.WINCE@gmail.com	2225 23rd St. SF	94107 94107
Amy Van Nest		1060 Powell St #25	94109
Isley Gao	isleygao@gmail.com	1270 Hampshire St	94100
Dawn Marie Taylor	sparkyhay@gmail.com	890 Mal. by taxi ve Concord CA 94518

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
CLARENCE CHENK	clarence.chenk@gmail.com	738 Longbridge St.	94158
NICOLE Garcia	nijo90@comcast.net	2636 Wisteria Lane.	94509
Marku Kobinger	kobinger@gmail.com	290 Union	94134
Malena Watrous	mwatrous@stanford.edu	1061 Alabama St	94110
Liz Bagala	ebagala@atcl.com	1350 12th Ave	94122
Liana Casciani	Liana.Casciani@gmail.com	1610 Sutter St #206	94109
ETHAN SILL	ethan.sill@stanford.edu	-	94110
Louy Gammale	louy.gammale@gmail.com	4001 18th St	94117
MUM	memalave@gmail.com	1535 Francisco	94123

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
Tony Miller	millerv@gv.com	2080 Gough St.	94109
John Smith	John2dSmith44@yahoo.com	625 Mission St	94111
Courtney Rodriguez	courtney.m.rod@gmail.com	719 29th Ave	94102
Melissa Donnelly	melissadonnelly3@gmail.com	145 Van Ness Ave, 8	94102
ANDREY CUETO	alc.cueto@gmail.com	840 BATTERY ST.	94111
Allysa Bernardo	Allysab189@yahoo.com	29457 Chanc St	94545
DESIREE GUSTAFSON	desiree.cuneo@gmail.com	1422 FLORIBUNDA AVE	94010
Kathryn Hae	sfkate@gmail.com	40 S. Hill Blvd SF, CA	94112
Robert Birnbach	rbirnbach@gmail.com	40 S. Hill Blvd SF, CA	94112
JESSICA FRIEDMAN FRIEDMAN	FRIEDMAN FRIEDMAN	1835 Clay St #702	94109
CONVING TOM	convingconciense@gmail.com
Makenna Cox	kentleann@hotmail.com	1100 Gough	94109
Melissa Sigmond	M. Sigmond@gmail.com		94111

Laurie Childress

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
TIFF STRIKE	TIFFANYSUTR@YAHOO	5819 DIVIS #2 SF CA 94122
Ann Liu	ann.liu17@gmail.com	959 Jackson St #2	94133
Henry Walton	hw Walton@aol.com	336 Duncan St, #1	94131
Judy Rossi	judy.rossi@gmail.com	4460 Redwood, San Rafael	94903
ANGIE KHO-KUN	ahkalek2@yahoo.com	2517 SHERMAN AVE, SF	94116
Stefanie Andrea	stefanie.ajh@gmail.com	PALO ALTO, CA	94306
HELEN WALSH	helen.walsh@hotmail.com	SF 1160 MISSION ST	94103
Tara Rodarte	rodarte1@aol.com	116 Mission St #1006	94103
Angela Haines	ahaha@yahoo.com	125 35th Ave	94122
Jaime Giacomi	jaime.gservices@gmail.com	51 Via Hermosa, Orinda, CA	94563
Auroa Kasten	akasten@ucsf.edu	933 9th Avenue, San Mateo	94402
W. LITSTONE	woody.litstone@MAC.com	100 UN/ SF	94102
Stephany Lawrence	steph.rose.lawrence@gmail.com	2412 Lark...	94109

CG

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
Brian Stone	visalia.native@gmail.com	515 O'Farrell #121 E.F. CA 94102	94102
BRAXTON CAHILL	BRAXTON07@GMAIL.CO	515 O'FARRELL ST. #121 SF CA 94102	94102
Ann Shriver	shriver.ann@gmail.com	245 Chenery St., #2, SF, CA 94131
PARLEY BAGNE	PARLEY@GMAIL.COM	# 345 CALIFORNIA ST. Ste 2100 SF CA	94104
Brittany Ulmer	brittanyulmer@gmail.com	244 15th Avenue San Fran CA	94118
Frances Perry	Fperry@yahoo.com	185 channel st.	94518
Stephanie Tuma	stuma7@gmail.com	2040 Chestnut	94123
Nina Bari	bar.nina@gmail.com	2100 Post St.	94115
DAVID CHESNICK	dcarentsf@gmail.com	2600 VANNESS AVE. #305	94109
J. VASSILAS	jimmyvassilas@hotmail.com	21 Forsyth House London	SW1V2LE
Christy Soto	cmsotosin@gmail.com	732 Niagara Ave SF CA	94112
Jm A	jmbinsf@gmail.com	307 Parker Ave	94118
Hannah Plautner	hannah.plautner@gmail.com	4659 18th Str	94114

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
LIA BROWN	DULUOZ-CATS@YAHOO.COM	425 WARREN DR SF, CA	94131
Chris Brown	same J	425 Warren Dr. SF, CA	94131
Greg Rice	gregoryrice77@gmail.com	470 Warren Dr. #403	94131
Alex Armando	aarmando520@yahoo.com	50 California, SF, CA	94111
B. BRESNANSKY	BRESNANSKY@STYAKERSWOOD.COM		94117
Alina Calva	alina.calva@hotmail.com	1 California	94111
Kelly Roberts	kellycat90@gmail.com	791 Chestnut St.	94111
Melissa Mellor	melissamellor@comcast.net	55 CHUMASERO DRIVE WL	94132
Alicia Hwang	aliciahwang24@yahoo.com	52 Pleasant, SF	94108
Kaili Hwang	KailiHwang@gmail.com	533 8th Ave Apt 2 SF	94118
Melissa Trousdale	mtrousdale@gmail.com	45 Santa Rosa Ave	94112
Margaret Isherwood	bymelton.com maggie.isherwood@	6654 Liggett Dr. Oakland	94611
Robert Bloom	rob.bloom@gmail.com	2412 Village of Union City	94587

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
Maryam Kamali	maryamsoffice@gmail.com	2409 DeKoven Ave, Belmont	94007
Jane Freund	JFREUND3@NEW.RR.COM	1221 Marquette Ave. ^{Green Bay} WI	54304
Alice Petersen	alice.p.vd@gmail.com	5537 Castello Ct, Dublin	94568
ELIZABETH STRYKS	LITTLIZ@AOL.COM	1545 BROADWAY #308 SF	94109
Tiffany Montoya	ttm +MONTAYA@hawaii.edu	1445 Lakeside Dr. #207 OAK	94604-602
Holly Miller	HMILLER@GMAIL.COM	1740 BLDG SF	94107
Gandy Neira	gneira78@hotmail.com	1496 Sycamore Ct, Concord	94518
Carrie Campos	goddess12485@gmail.com	2040 Jefferson, SF, CA	94123
Jessie Grounds	mugkiller86@yahoo.com	_____	94115
Drug Hu	ddahoang@gmail	_____	94131
AnnMarie Lester	13lip@yahoo.com	_____	94103
Liam Petersen	linkinrubs@gmail.com	_____	94160

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
Michael R. Dumas	MRDUMAS@YAHOO.COM		94134
Brittany Cotton	brittanyecotton@yahoo.com	730 O'Farrell St SF, CA	94109
Evelyn I. Rodriguez	evlynr@sbcglobal.net	2130 Fulton St SF CA	94117
Tenoch Flores	tflores21@hotmail.com	118 Beaumont Ave, SF, CA	94118
Karen Casas	proudvegetarian@yahoo.com	1817 1/2 Bryant St.	94110
Alex Casas	casas.alexandra@yahoo.com	1655 Sacramento St	94109
Marisabel Agosto	mbagosta@gmail.com	949A Jackson St	94133
Evan McEvoy	EvanJMcEvoy@GMAIL.COM	25 Nobles Aly	94133
JULIE PERUZZO	julie.petrozzi@gmail.com		94127
Zuli Mohammad	chlalathesbell@gmail.com		94131
Katharine Painter	katharinepainter@hotmail.com		94125
EARL ARJUNO	EARLARJUNO@GMAIL.COM	87 SERRA CT. PLEASANT CA	94804
Sarah Wildfang	Sarah.wildfang@gmail.com	1801 California St. SF, CA	94109

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
Ronan Mohan	ronanmohan@yahoo.com		94109
Lacy Ryburn	lacyrya@hotmail.com		94117
Jonathan Smalley	jmsmalley@gmail.com	540 Hayes St, SF	94117
Jessica Appelbaum	Jess.Appelbaum@gmail.com		94110
Hannah Schneider	hannahschneider210@gmail.com		94109
Caroline Duwaerts	caroweight@gmail.com		94110
Nicole Duwaerts	nicole.duwaerts@gmail.com		94806
Brianne Howell	chili brianne@yahoo.com	433 34th Ave. SF	94121
Katie Goldsmith	KegsGoldsmith1@gmail.com	455 Vallejo St, SF	94133
Brandon Lee	branlee@pacbell.net	78 Eric Ave SF	94118

Devanati Dasgupta	devanatidasgupta@gmail.com		94588
Jennifer Lee	jen.jing.lee@gmail.com		94122

First and Last Name	Email	Address	Zip
RYAN ALVARADO	YIUFREAKINGA@GMAIL.COM		94122
Francesca de leon	deleonfrancesca31@gmail.com	SF, CA	94117
Jamie Urborg	j.urborg@gmail.com	SF, CA	94122
Sarah Tustin	sarah.tustin@gmail.com	SF, CA	94117
Jamie Romas	jromas@hotmail.com	Alameda CA	94501
NOAH SCHWARTZ	noahschwartz@gmail.com	Alameda CA	94501
DAKE NIDDA	DNIDDA@AOL.COM	SF CA	94109
Lance Anderson	litaanderson@yahoo.com	Alameda CA	94501
Shireen Cheng	shiroheng@deloitte.com	SF CA	94158
Christina Ma	christinama0721@gmail.com	LA, CA	91801
Annie Weber	ankweber@ucsc.edu	Santa Cruz	95060
Matt Torril	mtorril@gmail.com	North Beach	94135

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

ROBERTO MATEO

Address:

381 - TURK ST SAN FRANCISCO CAL

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Nick Jones

Address: 466 Fredrick St, 94117

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Evelyn Aikman

Address: 357 Tehama St 94103

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MICHAEL TODD

Address: 205 DAI STREET

Phone Number: 415.602.8341

Email: MICHAEL@SIXPACKBAGS.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Pat Skel

Address:

1063 Plymouth Ave., SF 94112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Nick Mendez

Address: 2606 Hyde St SF, CA 94103

Phone Number: 415-902-0131

Email: Britney.Amy1203@gmail.com

X

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: SPENCE CLEVELAND

Address: 966 GREEN ST #2

Phone Number: 415 474-8214

Email: spence11@pacbell.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Sam Smith

Address:

25 Sanchez - P.A.S. 426

Phone Number:

415-260-2911

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Orlyid Bartelsen

Address: BE Alpine Ter, SF 94117

Phone Number: (847) 971-7946

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Erica Long

Address: 1516-A-23rd Ave

Phone Number: 415 235-8589

Email: ericamlong@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Alexander Nguyen

Address:

200 DePaul Dr. San Francisco CA 94132

Phone Number:

(408) 382-1913

Email:

alexander.nguyen1776@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Hillary Horn

Address: 50 Rizal St.

Phone Number: 415 272 5119

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JOHN MEMANN NORDMARK

Address: 180 CARL ST 94117

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: BOB WILCOX

Address: 250 Gough St # 3

Phone Number: ~~415~~ 415-640-2826

Email: RAJMAN BOB @ YAHOO.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Jia Yi Lao

Name: Jia Yi Lao

Address: SF, 94133

Phone Number: (415) 260-4913

Email: karen.jy.lao@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Susan Tregner

Name: SUSAN TREGNER

Address: 82 GLADSTONE DR, S.F. 94112

Phone Number: 4

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jamie Goloyko

Address: 135 Buckingham Way 705

Phone Number: (707) 606-8174

Email: jamie.goloyko@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JULIETTE ESTELLE SURETTE

Address: 100 - 1912 VANNESS, SF CA 94102

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Elliot Humphrey
Elliot Humphrey
294 South VANNESS 94910

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Gene Boyd

Name:

Gene Boyd

Address:

23 Sanchez # 307 SE 94114

Phone Number:

415 680-4641

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Fred DeProsse

Address:

1880 Pike St 507, San Francisco 94109

Phone Number:

)

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tina Li

Address: San Francisco, CA
94112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jackie Lam

Address: 2539 29th Ave, SF, CA 94116

Phone Number:

Email: jalam10@mail.sfsu.edu

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Angela Hsieh

Address: 124 Dorado Terrace, San Francisco, CA 94112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Danna Glory

Address: 1498 Sanchez St. SF 94131

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Laurel Bennett

Address: 3121 Vicente St. 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jimmy Xin

Address: 148 Chester Ave

Phone Number: (415) 585-0133

Email: Boredstiff723@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Isabel Achoa

Address: 1608 Church St

Phone Number: (661) 805-7056

Email: ichoa126@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:  Marjorie Malanog

Address: 1553A Mission St SF CA 94015

Phone Number: 415 323 9512

Email: marjorie1975@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Rich Zuto

Address: 133A Beaver St. SF, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Zachary Saggi

Address: 630 Alvarado St

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: K. W. K. E.

Address: 2440 26th Ave, San Francisco

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Diana Owens

Address: 1467 24th ave, SF

Phone Number: 408 486 0844

Email: ~~owens~~

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Angela Chiu

Address: 2334 20th Ave SF, CA

Phone Number: 415-773-9286

Email: achiu_93@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely

Name: ANNIE MA

Address: 810 GONZALEZ DR S.F CA 94132

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Jenny Lee

Address:

1950 16th Ave, SF, CA 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Wesley M. Manson

Address: 3461 21st St SF, CA 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Phillip Zick

Address:

478 Cool St #6 SF CA 94112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Michelle Yang

Address: 615 Cole St. Apt. 2 San Francisco, CA 94117

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Raffaele Saposhnik.

Address:

707 Clayton Ave

Phone Number:

415-256-6344

Email:

ruff12345@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Russell Mutton

Name:

Russell Mutton

Address:

1892 Market st, APT A, San Francisco 94102

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors.

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Tom Stehl

Address:

4026 25th St, SFA 94114

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Andrew Noto

Address: 245 Page St Apt. 1A

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Doug Carson

Address: 1400 10th Ave #2, SF, CA 94122

Phone Number: 415-

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Christine DuBois

Address: 877 Ashbury St.

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Seth B Rubin

Name:

Seth Rubin

Address:

SF CA 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Stephanie Staykov

Address: 1438 Lincoln Way

Phone Number: 707 318 5985

Email: stephanistaykov@me.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Elia Sin

Address: San Francisco, 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tina Cuyang

Address: 2837 Santiago St, SF, CA 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Eugenia McNaughton

Address: 10 Dolores Terrace SF 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Douglas Allen

Address: 850 Stanyan St, Apt 1

Phone Number: (650) 804-6104

Email: mcgrupp84@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: EUGENE J. BIRSINGER JR.

Address: 223 Stoncroyd Dr. SF

Phone Number: 415 917 6800

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Hannah Brown

Address: 238 Beverly St SF CA 94132

Phone Number: 805.235.3839

Email: HannahBrown71@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

GAVIN DAS

1507 SANCHEZ, SF, CA 94131

415-622-6831

gdas1@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

3832 23rd St

7607975253

|

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Laura Chung
49 Grand St, SF 94108
415-298-1111

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

801 Kirkham St. S.F.

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Reagan Jackson

Address: Reagan

Phone Number: Reagan

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Carlie Williams

Address: 217A Jersey St 94114

Phone Number: 209 526 5270

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Keary

Address: 2307 46th Ave. SF. CA.

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Robin McClave

Name: Robin McClave

Address: 430 Steiner St., SF, 94117

Phone Number: 415-235-0295

Email: robinmcc@speakeasy.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Carine Rompault

Address:

767 14th St SF CA 94114

Phone Number:

415 728 1331

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Adrienne HarrPaul

Address: 729 Jones St. Apt 114 SF, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Damian Espinosa

Address: 610 COLE ST #105, SAN FRANCISCO, 94117, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Phillip Pascoe

Address: 1421 48th avenue, San Francisco, CA, 94172

Phone Number: 714-883-5460

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CASEY STEVENS

Address: 3620 VICENTE

Phone Number: 415 217 9470

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Angela Pang

Address: San Francisco

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jason Barreto

Address: 1390 12th Ave #2, San Francisco, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Jason Barreto". The signature is written in a cursive style with a long horizontal line extending from the top of the "t".

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Henry Holdt

Address:

3733 Judah St SF CA 94122

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: NICHOLAS CZAP

Address: 11 BARCELONA AV

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Jude K Brennan

Name: Jude K Brennan

Address: San Francisco, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Joe Gelman

Address: 930 Lawton St. 94122

Phone Number: 949 294 7634

Email: joegelman6@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "John Hay", written over a horizontal line.

Name:

Address: 623 17th AVE, SF, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals; including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: April Quintana

Address: 750 Font Blvd, San Francisco 94132

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

San Francisco resident

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address: 90 MUMER DR

Phone Number: 94127

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: James Patterson

Address: 631 Taraval St

Phone Number: 646-334-0695

Email: jpatt492@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

DEBORA SIMCOVICI

Address:

SAN FRANCISCO

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Louis Wong

Address: 72 Bruce Ave San Francisco CA 94112

Phone Number: (510) 305-0030

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Natalie Dow

Address: 980 Oak St #2 94117

Phone Number: 360-931-8800

Email: nataliekdow@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Courtney V.

Address: 802 font Blvd.

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Naomi Burks

Address:

San Francisco resident

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

SAN FRANCISCO

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: M. C. Umba Bull

Address: SF

Phone Number: 512

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jeff Levenson

Address: 3772 26th St. SF 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Mary La Mattery

Address: 552 A Belvedere St.

Phone Number: 415-418-0084

Email: mlamatter@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ANCA TSE, SAN FRANCISCO.

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kevin Luna

Address: 205 Videll Dr.

Phone Number: (415) 741-6072

Email: kevinlun200@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: V. Elema

Address: 3560 21st Street

Phone Number:

Email: victoriaelema@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address: 33 HAIGHT ST

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Hana Bixler

Address: 59 Paul Ave. 94124

Phone Number: (415) 994-3540

Email: hanabixler1@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Magda Makhtar

Address: San Francisco resident

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress.

In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Makenna Martinez

Address: 1706 San Francisco resident

Phone Number:

Email: makenna.camille@gmail.com

Carroll, John (BOS)

From: Board of Supervisors, (BOS)
Sent: Wednesday, February 07, 2018 4:56 PM
To: Carroll, John (BOS)
Subject: FW: Please BAN the sale of fur in San Francisco

Categories: 171317, 2018.02.14 - PSNS

From: Christine Harris [mailto:christinelynnharris@yahoo.com]
Sent: Tuesday, February 06, 2018 7:26 PM
To: Board of Supervisors, (BOS) <board.of.supervisors@sfgov.org>
Subject: Please BAN the sale of fur in San Francisco

Hello Board of Supervisors,

Thank you for all that you do.
Please ban the sale of fur in San Francisco.

Kindly,
Christine Harris

Begin forwarded message:

From: Michelle from peta2 <peta2@peta2.com>
Date: February 6, 2018 at 7:02:26 PM PST
To: christinelynnharris@yahoo.com
Subject: Christine, selling fur could be BANNED in San Fran! (Warning: Graphic)
Reply-To: Michelle from peta2 <peta2@peta2.com>

Be Part of the peta2 Movement

Right now, San Francisco is considering banning the sale of fur! This would make it the first major city in the U.S. to make this groundbreaking, compassionate choice.

Animals exploited by the fur industry are routinely bludgeoned, hanged, stabbed, gassed, electrocuted, and sometimes skinned alive.

© SAP / EAST International

Your support could be the difference between countless animals being spared horrific suffering ... or not. We need to do everything we can to make sure that this ban is passed.

Add your name to the rapidly growing list of compassionate San Franciscans who don't want cruelly obtained fur to be sold in the city.

Demand a Ban on Fur Sales in San Fran!

For all animals,

Michelle Feinberg
Senior Advocacy Strategist
MichelleF@peta2.com

TEXT pulse TO 73822 TO SIGN UP FOR MOBILE ALERTS FROM peta2*

SHARE ON FACEBOOK

SHARE ON TWITTER

This e-mail was sent to: christinelynnharris@yahoo.com

Manage Your E-Mail Subscriptions | Unsubscribe From All E-Mail

Please do not respond to this e-mail. Instead, click here to contact peta2.

This e-mail was sent by peta2, 2154 W. Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90026 USA.

*U.S. only: Message and data rates may apply. Periodic messaging. Text STOP to end or HELP for info. See our full texting terms and conditions here.

From: Summers, Ashley \(BOS\)
To: Carroll, John \(BOS\)
Subject: For Fur Ban Packet
Date: Wednesday, January 24, 2018 10:55:15 AM
Attachments: 20180124104601733.pdf

Hi John,

Chin Chi just missed public comment but wanted this statement to be included. Thanks!

Ashley Summers

Legislative Aide

Office of Supervisor Katy Tang

1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place, Room 244

San Francisco, CA 94102

(415) 554-7460

www.sfbos.org/tang

I would like to thank Supervisor Katy Tang for proposing the ordinance banning the sale of animal fur in San Francisco. My name is Chin Chi and I'm a Chinese-American grandmother who has lived in this city for over 30 years and I wholeheartedly support this ban!

Every year, fifty-million animals are slaughtered for their fur. About 85% of fur fashion products are made with pelts sourced from animal fur factory farms, and, like other animals in such farms, they live a tormented life from birth to death. The 15% wildlife caught for their fur die agonizing deaths in steel leg-hold traps.

And, like other factory farms, fur farming also pollutes our land, water and air. In recent years, the pollution has become worse because these fur pelts are no longer used just as is, but are often further processed to make them into knitted products and dark colored furs are dyed the color of cream or pink.

In the West, the popularity of wearing animal fur seems to have decreased and the increase in the quality and quantity of fake fur has made it completely unnecessary as a way to keep warm. Fake furs are much more comfortable and practical and can be made into any kind of texture or color and, very important, such production is much less harmful to the environment. But, as pointed out by an article in National Geographic about a year ago: in the eastern European countries, especially in Russia and China, animal fur garments have become very fashionable, especially for their newly rich members.

For the material benefit and vanity of a few of the rich, the fur industry flourishes by inflicting terrible pain on millions of our fellow living beings and in a way that aids the further destruction of our environment. Although it has never sold a lot of fur, San Francisco today is one of biggest tourist attractions in the world, and moral positions this city takes, the City of Saint Francis, the Patron Saint of Animals, will resonate loud and clear throughout the world. So I hope we will all come together and declare: NO ANIMAL FUR IN SAN FRANCISCO! IT IS NOT FASHIONABLE, IT IS AN ATROCITY!

Chin Chi, boo219presidio@gmail.com (415-668-2252)

Please express your support for this Fur Ban by e-mailing Supervisor Katy Tang www.sfbos.org/tang, or writing a letter: Supervisor Katy Tang, c/o Ashley Summers, Legislative Aide, 1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlet Place, Room 244, San Francisco, CA 94102

From: Wayne Hsiung
To: Carroll, John (BOS); Ronen, Hillary; Sheehy, Jeff (BOS); Fewer, Sandra (BOS)
Cc: Tang, Katy (BOS); Summers, Ashley (BOS)
Subject: 394 letters for the fur ban from SF residents
Date: Tuesday, January 23, 2018 11:14:25 PM

Dear Committee Members,

My name is Wayne Hsiung. I'm a lawyer, former law professor (Northwestern; I've also guest taught courses at UC Hastings), and long-time environmental and animal rights advocate.

On behalf of the Compassionate Bay coalition, I am sending letters we've received -- 394 in total -- from SF residents who are passionate in their support for the legislation that you'll be considering tomorrow to protect animals. The file is too large to attach, so here is a link (which includes both the 394 SF residents and letters from non-SF residents).

A Care2 petition (with 60k signatures) and a MoveOn petition (with 10k signatures) have also been started in support of the ban over the past few days.

This is just a small sampling of the public support for this measure. Animal lovers across San Francisco, and the world, are incredibly passionate about this issue and are grateful to you for considering this vital legislation.

Don't hesitate to reach out to me if you have any questions.

Best,
Wayne

--

Wayne Hsiung
Co-Founder
Compassionate Bay

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Ban fur

1 message

Dorothy Frankel <dfrankel@optonline.net>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 2:16 PM

What a wonderful step to Ban Fur. I am in favor of this progressive ban ...so many other clothing options, it's unnecessary the cruelty involved to get fur products.

Thank you for voting to end Fur!
Dorothy
Dorothy Frankel

Sent from my iPad

SUBJECT: Please support the fur ban!

Dear San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you because I am a concerned, hopeful, resident of Berkeley, asking for your support to ban on the sale of fur in San Fransisco.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

I strongly support the ban on fur products because animals including foxes, chinchillas, raccoons, and even cats and dogs suffer in ways that we cannot even imagine on fur farms and in fur-traps. There is no need for fur trim and other fur products and the violence and pain that animals suffer is unacceptable and inexcusable. We must do the right thing and take a stand against this needless animal cruelty.

Other progressive cities, including West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this important, just legislation. Sensitive animals just like our dogs and cats are need us to act, and I'm grateful for your support. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Kyana Jones
2248 Dwight Way
415-542-6018
crueltyfree@berkeley.edu

January 19, 2018

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a person very concerned about animal welfare and am requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

In an age when science is showing us the sentience of animals and we are learning about their rich and complex personal lives, it is shocking that we are still allowing them to be killed simply to rip of their skin and use it as a fashion item. Fur is no longer needed for warmth, it is blood spilled for human vanity.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Karin Nelson

5348 111 Ave

Edmonton, Alberta

T5W 0K5

Knelson3@outlook.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

PLEASE SUPPORT THE BAN ON FUR

1 message

Deborah Hawes <deborahhawes1@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Tue, Jan 23, 2018 at 3:25 PM

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are brutally confined, tortured, and killed, for cash and vanity.

Sincerely, Deborah Hawes

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Letter to support fur ban

1 message

Laura Best <laura@ldermisolutions.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Tue, Jan 23, 2018 at 8:21 PM

Hello,

Please help make the world a less cruel place by voting to ban fur sales in SF! Your participation will make the difference between evil and justice. These animals being hurt did nothing wrong to deserve this. There are so many other positive business and commerce opportunities that standing up for what is right will not hinder commerce on the contrary by banning the sale of fur it will create a bigger change for a more compassionate society. PLEASE do the right thing, don't let money and people who only have money on their mind pervert the truth that harming sentient beings is wrong and needs to be seen that way in the world of law.

Thank you,
Laura Best
Business Owner, Entrepreneur & Local Resident

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Ban Fur!!!

1 message

Tara Rabalais <grafxtara@yahoo.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Sat, Jan 20, 2018 at 4:07 AM

There is no reason to kill defenseless animals for their fire. Trapping them and breaking their legs making them nor the legs off so they can escape how horribly and humane. No one needs a real Fur coat!!! The fake fire looks just as good and doesn't kill animals.

Sent from my iPhone

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Re: Please support the ban on fur

Alana Crow <alana@ac-entlaw.com>

Mon, Jan 22, 2018 at 3:59 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org, Alana Crow <alana@ac-entlaw.com>

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of Los Angeles, a wife, mother, entertainment lawyer and animal rights activist, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

FUR IS UNNECESSARY, GRATUITOUS AND CONTRIBUTES TO A GLOBAL CRUELTY ISSUE OF THE WORST KIND. HOW CAN WE AS HUMANS HAVE PETS WE LOVE AND ADORE, AND YET CONDEMN OTHER ANIMALS TO A LIFETIME OF HORRORS AND A TORTUOUS DEATH FOR THE MEANINGLESS REASON OF WEARING FUR?

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Support for Fur Ban

1 message

savelolitap <savelolitap@yahoo.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 3:05 PM

We support your measure to ban all fur sales. We want San Francisco to have the honor of showing their compassion and innovation by becoming the first city to ban fur sales.
Diane and Syd Marcus, G.G.

Sent from my Verizon 4G LTE smartphone

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Ban fur

Paula Purviance <paulapurviance@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 9:01 PM

I'm so proud if SF bans fur
World leaders!!

Sent from my iPhone

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Fur Ban

1 message

Yahoo Mail <peggysharp2211@yahoo.com>

Sun, Jan 21, 2018 at 5:18 AM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

I support the ban on fur in San Francisco!

I live close by in the Monterey bay and hope that such a compassionate move will spread to all areas of California, and San Francisco with its compassionate and progressive mindedness is the perfect place to start.

We all know that the massive suffering of animals that takes place around the globe is unnecessary and must stop so I urge you to ban all fur sakes now!

Kindest Regards,

Peggy Sharp

3214 Playa Ct.

Marina, Ca. 93933

Sent from my iPhone

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Fur sale ban

1 message

Digital Galaxy <digitalgalaxy11@yahoo.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Sat, Jan 20, 2018 at 10:31 PM

Please go ahead with the bad on fur sales! There is absolutely no need for fur coats anymore, given the wide range of synthetic jacket liners and even faux fur. The cruel industries which support fur farming have no place in a modern world.

Thank you!!

-Nick

--

Sent from my Android device with K-9 Mail. Please excuse my brevity.

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Fur trade

1 message

Josephine O'Donovan <josephine.e.odonovan@gmail.com>

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 1:16 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Dear Sirs,

As animal activists we are very concerned that your firm is still dealing in the cruelty of the fur trade. We would strongly urge you to discontinue this practise as it causes unnecessary suffering to defenceless animals and must stop as soon as possible as there are now so many good alternatives. Thank you

Sent from my iPhone Yours Faithfully J Odonovan. Dip Ed

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Fur

Tim Bezy <imbezy@yahoo.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 6:30 PM

Have compassion for all living things

Sent from my iPhone

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Letter

1 message

Jon Hochschartner <jonhoch3@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 12:59 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,
I'm hopeful San Francisco will live up to its progressive reputation and ban the sale of fur. Such a move by a city of your size would be a historic victory, encouraging the creation of similar laws across the country.

Sincerely,

Jon Hochschartner
41 Salmon Brook Street
Granby, CT 06035
518-637-7864
JonHoch3@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please ban sales of fur

1 message

marshallteam@yahoo.com <marshallteam@yahoo.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 2:00 PM

Please ban the sales of fur. Your help is greatly needed. Animals (rabbits, foxes, minx, chinchillas and more) feel emotional and physical pain. Thank you. - a San Francisco vacationer, Lisa in Texas.

Sent from my iPhone 7

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

CLAUDIA DI MARTINO

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Kathryn Manupri

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dante Espinosa

Address:

Phone Number:

Email: mystic_joec@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Mya Smith
Mya Smith

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: NITHIN GUPTA
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Ban fur in SF

1 message

Maryam Kamali <maryamsoffice@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 1:52 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Given this brutality, other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking this action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Maryam Kamali
2409 Dekoven Ave, Belmont CA 94002
650-353-0588
maryamsoffice@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please ban the sale of fur.

1 message

cosmintas <cosmintas@dodo.com.au>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 5:26 PM

To the San Francisco Board Of Supervisors,
Please show some respect and compassion towards animals; and some leadership in business and community by banning the sale of fur in your city.

Animals used for the fur trade live in horrendous conditions and die in terror and pain. The human race no longer needs to wear fur for warmth and protection from the elements. Fur for clothing is now outdated and totally unnecessary. Numerous designers are now moving away from fur in the product lines.

By supporting this legislation the city of San Francisco will be showing it cares about cruelty and violence towards animals.

Yours sincerely,
Nigel Nichols

27 Petty street,
West Hobart, 7000
Tasmania,
Australia

Ph: 03 62347930
email: gergel@dodo.com.au

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please ban the sale of fur

1 message

Tasha Gergel <gergel@dodo.com.au>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 5:25 PM

To the San Francisco Board Of Supervisors,
Please show some respect and compassion towards animals; and some leadership in business and community by banning the sale of fur in your city.

Animals used for the fur trade live in horrendous conditions and die in terror and pain. The human race no longer needs to wear fur for warmth and protection from the elements. Fur for clothing is now outdated and totally unnecessary. Numerous designers are now moving away from fur in the product lines.

By supporting this legislation the city of San Francisco will be showing it cares about cruelty and violence towards animals.

Yours sincerely,
Tasha Gergel

27 Petty street,
West Hobart, 7000
Tasmania,
Australia

Ph: 0409 13 132
email: gergel@dodo.com.au

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please consider supporting the ban on fur

1 message

Deborah Craft <bdmcraft@comcast.net>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Sat, Jan 20, 2018 at 4:08 PM

Dear San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

[State why you support the fur ban here. Personal stories about why the issue is important to you and how it affects you and those you care about, e.g. your dog or cat, can be especially powerful.]

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Respectfully,

Deborah Craft

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Carmen Celea <carmencelea71@yahoo.com>

Sat, Jan 20, 2018 at 10:37 AM

To: "letters@compassionatebay.org" <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on furTo the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

[State why you support the fur ban here. Personal stories about why the issue is important to you and how it affects you and those you care about, e.g. your dog or cat, can be especially powerful.]

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,
Carmen Celea
Italy, Rossano
+393349049453 carmencelea71@yahoo.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Proposed ban on the sale of fur products

1 message

Doris Potter <dorispotter99@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 2:17 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to request your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I have been concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry for decades now. It is time for action!

As you may know, many animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. These animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their young and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Given this brutality, other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking this action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation.

Sincerely,

Doris Potter

990 St-François-Xavier #605
St-Laurent, QC
H4L 5E7

Alana Crow, Esq.
310.569.1651.
Alana@ac-entlaw.com

----- Forwarded message -----
From: Wayne Hsiung <dxe@directactioneverywhere.com>
Date: Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 1:23 PM
Subject: Three Ways You Can Help Ban Fur in SF!
To: Alana Crow <alana@ac-entlaw.com>

DIRECT ACTION EVERYWHERE

UNTIL EVERY ANIMAL IS FREE

Hey Alana,

San Francisco is on the cusp of becoming the first major city in the world to ban the sale of fur! On January 24th, the city of San Francisco will be considering the ban proposed by Supervisor Katy Tang, and she has asked us to deliver as many signatures as possible to support the ban.

- Sign and share the petition to ban the sale of fur in San Francisco!

You can also send a letter of support to letters@compassionatebay.org to be delivered to the SF Board of Supervisors, based on this template letter. And look out for a livestream on January 24th as we gather outside of San Francisco City Hall to hold a rally and press conference! With your help showing support, we think the initiative will be a success and San Francisco will be one step closer to being a compassionate city for all animals.

Thanks,

Wayne Hsiung

To unsubscribe from our mailing list, click here.

Law Offices of Alana Crow

T: 310.569.1651
 E: alana@ac-entlaw.com
 W: www.ac-entlaw.com
 S: alana.crow

This transmission is intended only for the use of the individual or entity to which it is addressed, and may contain information that is privileged and confidential. If the reader of this message is not the intended recipient, or the employee or agent responsible for delivering the message to the intended recipient, you are hereby notified that any dissemination, distribution or copying of this information is unauthorized and prohibited. If you have received this communication in error, please notify me immediately by telephone 310.569.1651 and return the original message to alana@ac-entlaw.com.

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

San Francisco - Fur Free City?

1 message

Petra S <petra_travels@yahoo.ca>

Sun, Jan 21, 2018 at 5:39 PM

To: "letters@compassionatebay.org" <letters@compassionatebay.org>

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I have heard that the city of San Francisco is considering a ban on the sale of fur. This would be an amazing move and fantastic PR worldwide for the city of San Fran!!!

Considering that millions of innocent animals in the fur industry are kept in inhumane, disgusting conditions (cramped cages with wire flooring, no intellectual stimulation, in isolation and often darkness), it is time to evolve for us humans. Let San Fran be the first to take this important step and ban the sale of fur.

Million of animals are killed per year by the fur industry in ways the average person is not aware of (like shooting, electrocutions or slow poisoning so as not to 'damage' the fur); this is the time to stop this barbaric trade.

Change San Francisco for the better!

With best regards,
P. Schmidt
Canada

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

SF BAN

1 message

Gay Smith <stl1wes@cableone.net>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 4:01 PM

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Gay Smith

Sent from my iPhone
Gay Smith

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Support the ban on fur

1 message

EDITH LOBROT <edith.lobrot@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Sun, Jan 21, 2018 at 1:38 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Edith Lobrot
edithlobrot@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Thank you for banning fur sales in San Francisco!!!

1 message

Elsie Elma <lclmaneh@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Sun, Jan 21, 2018 at 5:46 PM

To the wonderful folks who are trying to ban the selling of fur in SF!

I wanted to send a huge Thank You for trying to ban the sale of fur in San Francisco!

This is a progressive and forward-thinking city and it would be lovely to see it go fur free because other US cities would follow that lead.

As a member of a group of concerned citizens here in Vancouver Canada we have been protesting fur for several years. Since 2008 actually. Sadly we've seen a growing number of Canada Goose coats everywhere which are doubly horrible because of the down within the coat plus the coyote fur hoods.

If San Francisco becomes the first major US city to ban the sale of fur what an example they would set for other US cities and Canadian cities too! We are so hoping this will happen soon.

We wish you the very best success in your endeavours! It's wonderful to see so many people signing the on-line petition which shows growing awareness and public tastes are changing toward a kinder, more compassionate, fur-free world.

I also wanted to share with you a video our group made during the 2010 Olympics which took place in Vancouver. We were very happy to get lots of positive public response and we had many anti-fur and anti-seal hunt petitions that got tons of signatures.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=3BAEWJYSYXE>

Thank you again for all you are doing to ban fur!!

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Thanks for Listening

1 message

Heather Brandhorst <heather.brandhorst@yahoo.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 6:24 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

[State why you support the fur ban here. Personal stories about why the issue is important to you and how it affects you and those you care about, e.g. your dog or cat, can be especially powerful.]

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Heather Brandhorst

6550 S. Dayton St. AptB202

Centennial, CO 80111

720-202-5048

Heather.brandhorst@yahoo.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

Ellie Pumpkin <elliepumpkin888@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 10:07 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned yet hopeful resident of the Bay Area, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

I believe this treatment of animals is highly unethical. It pains me to know that so many innocent beings are subjected to this kind of cruelty on a daily basis simply as means of a fashion statement or an extra layer of warmth. No living creature deserves to be confined, abused, and murdered as these animals are. We would not stand this kind of treatment towards humans, so why should we stand it towards animals? I know I wouldn't want my beloved golden-haired pup or striped tabby cats to experience this inhumanity, nor would anyone else. We must take a stand and ban the sale of fur in San Francisco to protect the well being of our nonhuman friends.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Ellie Pumpkin

3251 Matthew Lane

(707)-845-5177

elliepumpkin888@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Tessie <chuat1242@yahoo.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 4:22 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Even furs labeled as faux furs are actually dog or cat fur especially if made in China as it is cheaper than actually producing faux fur. Dogs and cats are skinned alive.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,
Tessie Chua
chuat1242@yahoo.com

Sent from my iPhone

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Fur ban

1 message

Marianne <silver304@aol.com>

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 2:47 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Sent from my iPhone

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

cbluffsgirl@cox.net <cbluffsgirl@cox.net>
Reply-To: cbluffsgirl@cox.net
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 2:44 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

Please stand up for the innocent lives who are treated so horribly by humans. No life should ever be treated the way the fur trade industry treats millions of innocent lives. Not ONE life should suffer in this way. As humans we have a choice, we know the difference between right and wrong. It is our job to protect this earth and its inhabitants and all life forms. Please, please, please end this cruel madness.

The reason why I support the fur ban is because I've never been able to think that life is all about me, or humans. I don't see other lives as anything less and no one should. When you look into any living souls eyes there is a being there who feels and thinks. It is not up to humans to say who deserves to be treated right or wrong, or deserves to be used, whose life is less valuable. We are not Gods. We are just caretakers of this beautiful Earth. From personal experience, I'm 100% certain it matters. I know for a fact it matters. It's not acceptable in 2018 to go on causing so much pain and suffering when we know better. When we understand what pain and suffering is.

Please think outside of your life and the life of your family and realize it's not just humans who share bonds and feel unbearable suffering. I urge you to support this vital legislation, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Deborah Pospisal

20927 Greenview Rd. Council Bluffs, IA. 51503
Phone number: 712-308-2165

Email: cbluffsgirl@cox.net

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

mary shabbott <mshabbott@sbcglobal.net>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 2:44 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

I have seen what happens to animals so that someone can wear their fur. I will never be able to forget nor want to. Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support!

Mary Shabbott
10249 acorn trail Punta Gorda Florida 33950
817-733-0464
mshabbott@sbcglobal.net

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Caitlin Audet <cmarissa_8@yahoo.com>

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 2:28 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Caitlin Audet, an animal lover

Sent with AquaMail for Android
<http://www.aqua-mail.com>

SUBJECT: Please support a fur ban

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing in earnest to ask for your support of the proposed ban on fur sales in SF.

The havoc these products wreck on foxes, rabbits, minks, wild coyotes, and even dogs and cats - is beyond extreme. Around 50 million animals a year are imprisoned and brutally killed for no crime other than being born into fur coveted by human beings. There is no place for this in 2018.

I am hopeful that San Francisco will join other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, in passing the ban and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the extreme violence of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Thank you for your support.

Sincerely,

Molly Flanagan
81 Glen Ave., Apt. 201
Oakland, CA 94611
510-301-5620
flamolly@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Cassie King <cassie@directactioneverywhere.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Tue, Jan 23, 2018 at 3:41 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, Bay Area resident, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am the proud guardian of a bunny name Jonah, who brings so much love and happiness into my life. I cannot imagine him, or any other innocent animal, being abused the way the fur industry abuses its victims. And yet, millions animals, including bunnies just like Jonah, are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I implore you to please support this vital legislation for the sake of animals just like Jonah and those animals whom you hold dear to your heart. Thank you.

Sincerely,

Cassie King
2248 Dwight Way Apt C, Berkeley CA 94704
(760) 707-8084
cking@berkeley.edu

Lisa Zorn

235 Berry Street #707
San Francisco, CA 94158
415-728-5062
lmz@alumni.brown.edu

January 22, 2018

San Francisco Board of Supervisors
1 Dr Carlton B Goodlett Pl #244
San Francisco, CA 94102

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as an 11-year resident of San Francisco to request your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products. In addition to living and working in San Francisco, I am also a board member and volunteer for SaveABunny, a rabbit rescue that operates in Mill Valley and works with shelters all over the Bay Area, including San Francisco Animal Care and Control. SaveABunny volunteers provide love and medical care for these rabbits before finding them homes throughout the Bay Area, including many homes in San Francisco. I became involved in this rescue after adopting two house rabbits myself over fifteen years ago.

As you likely know, rabbits are unique as they live in a grey area between pets and "livestock." Many of us love them and live with them (free running, since they use litterboxes) in our homes, and they are every bit as much our family as dogs and cats are in other families. However, much of society still views rabbits as a commodity to be exploited for meat and for fur. This latter fact, and the suffering that these intelligent, social beings endure when they are exploited for their flesh or for skin, breaks my heart. And getting to know and love house rabbits has opened my heart to other animals we exploit for economic gain as well.

On behalf of the many rescued rabbits that I know and love, and alongside the many San Francisco families who have adopted house rabbits, I implore you to support the fur ban in San Francisco. I also ask that you include all fur pelts that are not apparel in your ban. In this day and age, we do not need to exploit and kill animals for our household or clothing needs.

Sincerely yours,

Lisa Zorn & family

San Francisco Resident, SaveABunny Board Member and Volunteer

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Fwd: Letter to Board of Supervisors re: Fur Ban - Invitation to edit

Almira Tanner <almiratanner@gmail.com>

Mon, Jan 22, 2018 at 4:08 PM

To: Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Here is the text

1/20/2018

To: The San Francisco Board of Supervisors or Whom it May Concern

From: Amy Sullivan,

resident of San Francisco since 1984 and special education teacher of SFUSD

3720 24th St.

San Francisco, CA 94114

Re: Proposed Fur ban in San Francisco

I would like to voice my strong support for Supervisor Katy Tang's proposed fur ban in San Francisco. In brief, these are the following reasons that I, whole heartedly, support the ban:

- 1) Animals are not things or property and we have no moral right to take from them what is theirs. By doing so we also cause them great distress and physical harm, end their lives pre-maturely and end their lives violently.
- 2) Based on my research I have learned that it is a widespread practice on fur farms for animals to be kept in over crowded and filthy conditions and to suffer great emotional and mental harm. Someone's desire to sell fur or wear their fur on their body has never been and never will be a justification for taking fur from animals in this violent manner. I have also seen HORRIFYING videos of animals skinned alive and bloody at these farms. These animals are typically given no anesthetic and are also often killed through anal or vaginal electrocution, gassing or having their necks broken so as not to damage the fur that is being taken from them to be sold. This constitutes torture in my mind and is completely unconscionable.
- 3) Animals in the fur trade have no Federal laws to protect them from cruelty by humans.
- 4) Many countries in Europe have already banned fur because it has become evident that businesses cannot maintain animal welfare in captivity and still make a profit. The business of selling fur is not only cruel but it's also archaic. It would be wonderful and in alignment with our identity as a progressive city, if San Francisco could be one of the fist big cities in the United States to lead the way.
- 5) Many species used by fur are threatened or endangered.
- 6) As a city, we need to move towards greater compassion and caring towards all species...not just humans. Think about it. WE are animals too.

Let's make this happen. The animals are depending on us to use good moral judgement here. Thank you for your time.

Sincerely,

Amy Sullivan

[Quoted text hidden]

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

PLEASE BAN FUR PRODUCTS

1 message

Chaojian He <che5@mail.ccsf.edu>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Tue, Jan 23, 2018 at 8:18 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors

“The greatness of a nation and its moral progress can be judged by the way its animals are treated.” (Gandhi) we are human . human are smart and kindness. we can always find other way to make more money without killing animals.
please support the vital legislation

Sincerely,

Chao jian he
2235 3rd st sf ca94107
4155138461
che5@mail.ccsf.edu

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please vote YES on fur sale ban in SF

1 message

Tora Chung <truemango@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Mon, Jan 22, 2018 at 12:06 PM

Dear SF Board of Supervisors,

As a 40+ year resident of San Francisco, I fully support Supervisor Katy Tang's proposed ban of the sale of fur.

By taking this action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Thank you,
Tora Chung
San Francisco resident (94121)

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur in San Francisco!

Brian Nagai <nagaibk@gmail.com>

Mon, Jan 22, 2018 at 2:17 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors:

I am writing to encourage you to strongly support the ban on the sale fur products in San Francisco.

I have lived in San Francisco now for more than 20 years and am proud to live in such a compassionate city.

The cruel treatment of non-human animals for the benefit of humans is one area where all cities could do better. I believe San Francisco would solidify its position as a city of compassion and serve as an example to all other large cities by enacting a ban on the sale of fur products. Not only is the fur industry horrible for its cruel and violent mistreatment of non-human animals and disregard for other sentient creatures with whom we share this planet, it is probably the most frivolous. Other cities like Berkeley and West Hollywood have banned the sale of fur, and it would make me even more proud of my city if we could be the first large city to do the same.

Please take a stand for compassion and nonviolence. Please support the ban on the sale of fur products in San Francisco.

Sincerely,

Brian K. Nagai, MD
55 Robinhood Drive
San Francisco
(415) 806-5368
nagaibk@gmail.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Michele Ursino <micurs@foldier.com>

Tue, Jan 23, 2018 at 8:40 PM

To: "letters@compassionatebay.org" <letters@compassionatebay.org>

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

Mahatma Gandhi once said, "The greatness of a nation and its moral progress can be judged by the way in which its animals are treated."

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Michele Ursino
81 Lansing Street, Unit 202 SF, CA 94105
415-279-8514
micurs@foldier.com

Sent from Mail for Windows 10

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please, please support the ban on fur

1 message

Shelley Costantini <shelleycostantini@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Sun, Jan 21, 2018 at 10:49 PM

Dear San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

I volunteer at the SF Animal Care and Control and try to find homes for the beautiful bunnies, dogs and cats. With the amount of care and love we give to these precious animals, I cannot imagine the fear and absolute horror that the fur-trade inflicts on all of the unlucky animals they use for JACKETS. We have so many other materials to wear!

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Shelley Costantini

81 Lansing Street, Unit 202 SF, CA 94105

415-336-3196

shelleycostantini@gmail.com

 Sent with Mailtrack

Shelley Costantini

Get gorgeous at Shelleyc.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Support Ban on Fur

Allison Broude Friedberg <allison.broude@gmail.com>

Sun, Jan 21, 2018 at 6:09 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

It is ridiculously inhumane to sell and/or wear fur. We have tons of alternatives. Thinking about my own animals being confined to a crate for their lives in order to use their fur is absolutely disgusting. San Franciscans, especially, do not need fur, as the weather does not drop below 50 degrees. As a native San Franciscan, I would be honored to be part of a major city to ban fur.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Allison Broude Friedberg
2621 Pacific Avenue, San Francisco, CA 94115
415-730-4121
Allison.broude@gmail.com

—
Allison Broude Friedberg

415.730.4121

www.smartstartsf.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please Support the Ban of Fur

1 message

Hadar Aviram <hadar.aviram@gmail.com>

Sun, Jan 21, 2018 at 4:23 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

We have two cats that we adore, with luxurious fur. We see no difference between them and the other animals raised for fur--which looks so much more elegant on its original wearers. I am also a shareholder in a vegan fashion company and these days there are so many excellent alternatives to fur. It is a dated status symbol that signifies nothing beyond the wearer's complicity in cruelty.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Hadar Aviram

156 San Juan Ave., San Francisco, CA 94112

415-202-4383

hadar.aviram@gmail.com

California Correctional Crisis | Cheap on Crime

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Fwd: Please support the ban on fur.

1 message

Almira Tanner <almiratanner@gmail.com>
 To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Sun, Jan 21, 2018 at 12:34 PM

----- Forwarded message -----

From: Tria Connell <triaconnell@me.com>
 Date: 21 January 2018 at 11:32
 Subject: Please support the ban on fur.
 To: almiratanner@gmail.com

Hi Almira,

my friend Amy said you would be willing to print out letters to bring to to the meeting about baning fur. Thank you so much for doing this, i'm out of town and can't make it to the meeting. but here's my letter.

is it ok if give your email to others who want to write a letter? please let me know if you need help with the cost of ink or paper. thank you,
 Tria

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

I live with rescued bunnies, and I volunteer for 2 different bunny rabbit rescues, and I have seen up close the heartbreakingly awful way in which bunnies are kept to be used for fur....I am also a Costume Designer and I have personally seen the jump in technology of FAKE FUR fabric production, we DO NOT NEED to purposefully torture animals when we have a much better alternative. I truly believe deeply that animals are not our property for us to do whatever we choose with. All animals are living breathing creatures that feel pain, loneliness, despair, and Love if given a chance.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

Please support this vital legislation. Animals just like our bunnies, dogs, and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Tria Connell
840 Hayes St. Apt #2, 94117
415 902 2193
Triaconnell@me.com

Until Every Animal Is Free

Almira Tanner, MSc, OT
Organizer, Direct Action Everywhere

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

gchiapp@yahoo.com <gchiapp@yahoo.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Fri, Jan 19, 2018 at 2:52 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

I believe that it should be obvious to anyone who has researched the treatment of animals in the fur industry, that these practices and indeed killing an animal for such an unnecessary reason is not what the citizens of San Francisco nor of California should consider progressive, humane, or ethical. If we as a city and indeed as a species continue to help aid this industry grow then San Francisco will only serve to blacken the smudge that has already been made on history by the fur industry.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Giulio Chiappolini

46 Lucas Park Drive

415-755-7573

gchiapp@yahoo.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Please support the ban on fur

1 message

Sydney Wong <sydneymwong@gmail.com>
To: letters@compassionatebay.org

Tue, Jan 23, 2018 at 2:34 PM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I grew up in San Francisco and have always been proud that San Francisco has always stood up for what's right, whether it be gay rights, civil rights, women's rights, the environment, undocumented immigrants, helping the homeless, and just being the most inclusive city in our nation. Using animals for cosmetic purposes such as fur is such a ridiculous and outdated practice.

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Sydney Wong

496 Urbano Drive San Francisco, CA 94127

510-542-1116

sydneywong@gmail.com

1649 Treat Ave
San Francisco, CA 94110
January 21, 2018

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

Dear San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry.

I have witnessed the torment and the atrocities committed against these wild animals, how they pace in their cages, then are drowned, or gassed to death, or have their necks broken and are tossed into a bucket to writhe in pain. I have witnessed undercover footage of these animals being anally electrocuted to burn the animal from the inside so as not to harm their furry skin, or being skinned alive – all for fashion.

Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death. Trapping is indiscriminate, and dogs, cats, birds and other animals are caught, injured and suffer horribly.

The time is right for San Francisco to join other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, to pass a ban on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur.

By banning fur products, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I am grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Josephine Bellacomo (signed)

Josephine Bellacomo
1649 Treat Ave
San Francisco, CA 94110
415-644-8032
jo@movethemessage.com

Compassionate Bay Letters <letters@compassionatebay.org>

Urging Support for the Proposed Ban on Fur

1 message

Christine Marr <marrwong@gmail.com>

Tue, Jan 23, 2018 at 9:11 PM

To: letters@compassionatebay.org

SUBJECT: PLEASE SUPPORT THE BAN ON FUR

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am a proud resident of the City and County of San Francisco and am writing to urge your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products. San Francisco has repeatedly taken the lead on issues that only later become issues of broader national concern.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Christine Marr
496 Urbano Drive

marrwong@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Rocky Chau
530 Larkin St. #105
San Francisco, CA 94102
415-571-0717
mfchau@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tina Maxemin
Address: 172 6th St SF CA 94103
Phone Number: 415 240 9126
Email: tmaxemin71@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Daniel Cook
Address: 2614 38th Ave. San Francisco, CA 94116
Phone Number: 209 480 6915
Email: dcook87@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Emajae Hackett
Address: 24 Maxwell Ct
Phone Number: (415) 571-3004
Email: hackettemajae@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Danielle Steuermagel
765 Cambridge ST 94134
415 428 1750
DAS

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

J
Jikaiiah Stevens
1330 Bush st #16
415-889-9645
jikaiiahphoto@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Michelle Santos
Address: 39 Sycamore St
Phone Number: 415-374-4053
Email: michellesantos@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Karla Joerls

Address:

499 Alabama St

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ZACHARY DRUMM
Address: 69 MIFFLIN ST.
Phone Number: (415) 4104-2460
Email: ZDRUMM40@YAHOO.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Stewart
1362 S Van Ness SF CA

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

James E. Chien

Address:

525 Bryant St.

Phone Number:

(415) 524-5449

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Karen Menjivar

Address: 420 Russia

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sheli Currier
Address:
Phone Number: 909 SF #625
Email: SF 9409

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Roman Mitchell
Address: 3098 16th St. #418 San Francisco Ca. 94103
Phone Number:
Email: Roman22Mitchell@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: VICTORIA ROUSE
Address: 88 Cumberland #7
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: DIANA NAPARST
Address: 3647 19th Street, SF
Phone Number:
Email:

do not add me to a mailing list
please!

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MARIA FELIX SAVEDRA
Address: 35 ST. 20 ST #6 SF CA 94110
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Pius Chalske WHIRLWIND SOLDIER
Address: 560 Julian AVE, San Francisco CA.
Phone Number: 928-254-3045
Email: ChoskeWhirlwindSoldier@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

MYRIAM GONZALEZ

Address:

2791 16 SF

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MARJ TEPPER
Address: 422 VALENCIA
Phone Number:
Email: (415) 552-1409

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jose L Romero
Address: 2023 Folsom st Apt #1
Phone Number: (415) 509-8025
Email: Jose4life10483@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Marco Antonio Chavez Paredes
Address: 397 Dolores st. Apt. 305
Phone Number: 915-684-4033
Email: chavezparedesmarco@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

526 South Van Ness Ave
Apt # 395
Donald Lee Doss,

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Chu-Chu Tao
Address: 477 Stockton St. APT 403
Phone Number: 415-269-6791
Email: kkeelloo@yahoo.com.tw.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Ciara McCallister

Name:

Ciara McCallister

Address:

333 Webster St.

Phone Number:

SF CA 94117

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: J. ANZELL
Address: MIKE NOEL
1102 POPE ST.
Phone Number: 415-706-1762
Email: mikedesign@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Heather Madison
Address: 4530 B Cabrillo, SF, CA 94121
Phone Number:
Email: 510-847-5855
madisse@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tandraya m. Jones
Address: 391 Ellis St. San Francisco, CA 94102
Phone Number: (415) 922-5820
Email: N/A

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Unna Nauer
Address: at 1734 15th Street
Phone Number: (415) 504-5110
Email: Unnanauer@my.smccl.edu

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

385 2nd St. CA.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Clint Catchlow
Address: 1918 15th St, SF, CA 94114
Phone Number:
Email: clintsee@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ms Jean Mulla
Address:
Phone Number: 78 FLSom St
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Kelly Groth

Name: Kelly Groth

Address: 740 PARNASSUS #8 SF 94122

Phone Number: 415 699-0922

Email: KVgroth@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alexandra Plutshack
Address: 390 Guerrero St
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CHRIS COX
Address: 1135 Market St 94103
Phone Number: (510) 688-4304
Email: MAKAI.COX4011@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Chadwick Hawther
Address: 3020 18th St.
Phone Number: 415-940-3042
Email: Chawther@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lindsey Lutts
Address: 1090 Plymouth Ave #4
Phone Number: 831-334-0427
Email: phylindsey@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Rayda Coriis
Address: 39 Sycamore St.
Phone Number: (415) 374-4128
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

316 LAWTON ST 94122

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: PATRICE KIRK
Address: 3048 16th # 415
Phone Number: 933-2566
Email: ⁴¹⁵pkirk@gmail.com
(415) 933-2566

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Fatima Savides
Address: 39 Sycamore St.
Phone Number: 415-374-3977
Email: fatima237030@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kelly Amundson

Address: 401 Lakeview Ave San Francisco, CA 94112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Shorty

Address:

1139 MARKET ST

Phone Number:

510-302-9345

Email:

macymac00@icloud.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Patricia Sigucinos
Address: 281 CATALINA ST SAN FRANCISCO C.A. 94124
Phone Number: (650) 271 15 01
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: PEARO CHU
Address: 164 TH 6 ST
Phone Number: 415 776 76 12
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Gary W Ditch
Address: 1950 Mission St.
Phone Number: 415-552-9321
Email: none

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: SCOTT KINCAID
Address: 1453 Valencia St
Phone Number: 650 315 0003
Email: sykincaid@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

U

Sincerely,

William Foude

Name:

430 Turk Stth

Address:

Phone Number:

510 614-7121

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Maria Edick Tamayo

545 OFAERO

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: De'Shawn Hawkins
Address: 158 Baldwin
Phone Number: 415-733-3015
Email: hawkins204@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Mary Calk
3048 16 St

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Aneesh Marshall
Address: 1313, 500 Lh van Ness
Phone Number: 415 485-1889
Email: 18189

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: BRADLEY F CRADDOCK
Address: 782 SPRUCE ST.
Phone Number: 804 366 5125
Email: Peildc@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Nicolas Dubon
Address: 33 Agnon Ave SF CA 94112
Phone Number: 415 821 9627
Email: nicolasdubon@stgluhai.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Diana Fisk

Address: 838 Alabama St. San Francisco, CA 94110

Phone Number:

Email: diana.fisk@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to be 'D. W. G. ...', written over a horizontal line.

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

91 watchman way SF, Ca 94107

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely

Name: Santos Hernandez
Address: sntsmh2@gmail.com
Phone Number: 517-896-8573
Email:

1173 S. Van Ness Ave

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Scott Carder
Address: 64 Baker St. SF CA 94117
Phone Number: 415 623 4728
Email: scodubs@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Zahira Gomez
Address: 64 Baker St SF, CA 94117
Phone Number: 510-356-8128
Email: gmozahira@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Sonia Alvarenga

Address:

651 Edinburgh St. 94112

Phone Number:

Email:

415 656-6522

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Yanira Rivas Hernandez

Name: ~~YRH~~
Address: 651 Edinburgh St. 94112
Phone Number: 415 572-2795
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Emmett M. OLIVER

Address:

947 FILLMORE

Phone Number:

415-931-9333

Email:

NA

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Elizabeth D Bliss

Address:

1950 Mission St

Phone Number:

(415) 845-9397

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Brittany M. Berda

Address:

1053 Valanera Apt. B SF, CA 94110

Phone Number:

430 234-4104

Email:

brittany.j.berda@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Maria Moreno

Name:

Address: 1108 Alabamast

Phone Number: (415) 643-8386

Email: mamoreno3@sfsd.edu

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Shenna Orone
Address: ~~211~~ 211 13th St
Phone Number: S.F CA 94103
Email: 415 937-7293

Casperownthget1@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: E'mani Davis
Address: 1455 Van Dyke Ave
Phone Number: (415) 712-5376
Email: emanidavis415@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

197 WARREN Drive

SAN FRANCISCO 94131

J.MURACO 813 5 Gmail . com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address: 642 Chenery St. Apt 3 San Francisco, CA 94131

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lisa Yolanda
Address: 1026 Fitzgerald
Phone Number: 415-685-6178
Email: lya40farrar@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: RANIA ADWAN
Address: 595 CONNECTICUT STREET
Phone Number: -
Email: RANIAADWAN@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Cirilo Maya Almanza
Address: 3345 18th Street Apt #2, San Francisco, CA 94110
Phone Number: (415) 310-1640
Email: cirilomaya@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jrina Candate
Address: 1251 Turk St Apt 1107
Phone Number: (415) 424-276
Email: candate@49mail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ANTHONY ST. GEORGE
Address: 166 DOLAN ST.
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

RICARDO Escobin

Address:

107 Ocean

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kunal Bhush
Address: 274 Divisadero St
Phone Number: 415 773 9124
Email: kunalbhush@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Yolanda Varela
Address: 2930 21st Apt A SF CA 94110
Phone Number: (415) 375-2966
Email: Charlotte_McThearzo@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: A. Faicha Eng
Address: 529 Larkin St. S.F. Ca 94118
Phone Number: 415 437-0457
Email: emissions

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: James E. Bell
Address: 111 Taylor St.
Phone Number: (206) 419-8814
Email: JamesBell04@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Roger Smith
Address: 687 Keith St. San Francisco
Phone Number: 415 470 7562
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Emerald Holdman
Address: 344 head st.
Phone Number: (415) 724-9577
Email: emeraldholdman@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sydney Brooker
Address: 2614 38th Ave San Francisco, CA 94116
Phone Number: 707 337 2291
Email: sydneybrooker@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lance Wu
Address: 325 Berry St #627
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Victoria Tennant
Address: 950 Jackson St. San Francisco, CA 94103
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ANNIE CONSTANTINO
Address: 653 ARGUELLO BLVD S.F. CA 94118
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: DIONNE MALLINS
Address: 737, VERMONT ST, SF CA 94107
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tyler Lynch
Address: 655 Sutter St San Francisco, 94102 CA
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Amanda Friedman
Address: 796 Kent Blvd TCS 205
Phone Number: (416) 842-9533
Email: afriedmana@math.sfsu.edu

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Melanie Wood
Address: 94133
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Leah Hadem
Address: 2922 Larkin St. 94109
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address: 73 MAYNARD, ST. SF 94112

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Andrew Friedman
Address: 740 Loma Playa
Phone Number: 415-732-6482
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: April Alalava
Address: 1098 Oakdale Ave
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LUISA MEGUIA
Address: 99129
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: VIJAY PRADEEP
Address: 175 BLUXOME ST, #125, SF. CA
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: James Conrad

Address: 346th St Apt. 228 SF CA 94103

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Grace Bao

94123

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: WILLIAM JONES
Address: 1975 19th Ave., SF, CA, 94116
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dylan Sullivan
Address: 94118
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LLO
Address: Geary 775
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Valentina Aragon
Address: 411 O'Farrell St.
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Samantha I. Gorgsby
Address: 2475 23rd 95116 San Francisco
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Greta Buitter
Address: 1950 Mission Street
Phone Number: 415-305-1600
Email: gretaisdancing@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Chase Bearchcroft
1427 clay ST SF
CA 94102

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sarah Blake
Address: 3848 Fulton, 94118
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jenny Hoang
Address:
Phone Number: (415) 802-7525
Email: jhoang1206@gmail

Addresses: 1322 La Playa St.
San Francisco, CA 94122

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Channing Sheets
Address: 631 Taraval St. San Francisco CA 94116
Phone Number: 415 254 2682
Email: cash90@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Lee Raff

Address:

280 O'Farrel ST.

Phone Number:

Email:

12

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

HEIDI SINTOS
500 FOUNDRY ST.
S.F. CA

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ~~Mr~~ Carlos F. Villagomez
Address: 717 Sutter St, San Francisco, CA
Phone Number:
Email: villagomezcarlos@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Isis Hood
Address: 94112
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Daisy Lee
Address: 1720 O'Farrell St #416, SF, CA
Phone Number: 504.405.7522
Email: amydee@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alison Clarke
Address: 173 Noe St. SF
Phone Number: 415-548-0271
Email: alisonclarke@mac.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Erwin Flores
Address: 535 London St. San Francisco, CA 94112
Phone Number: 415 452 9214
Email: Erwin.Flores450@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Rita Andurhal
378 Golden Gate Pk Apt # 530
(415) 619-930
REFERRA2BR@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Amy Othman

Address:

138 Hyde street

Phone Number:

Email:

415-424-1699

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Thomas Lui
Address: 120 Grifalva Drive
Phone Number: 717 572 9412
Email: mitlui@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: STEVE FABUS

Address: 324 LARKIN

Phone Number: ~~415~~

Email: sfabus@sbcefabus.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Anthony Dixon
Address: 1198 Mission St. Apt. 1209 SF CA 94103
Phone Number: (415) 410-4746
Email: anilwyn@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Stephen M. Steffanides

Address:

260 McALLister #100, SF 94102

Phone Number:

415.571.1589

Email:

steffanides@Google

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Nicole Sekeres
PO Box 191666, SF, CA 94119

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dany Petella
Address: 935 Sutter St. Apt. # 26 S.F. Cal. 94109
Phone Number: (415) 622-7519
Email: danypet@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LARKIN BETHAN
Address: 508 LARKIN ST SF CA 94102
Phone Number: 812 345 7291
Email: LBETHAN@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Raul Aldape
Address: 842 7th Ave
Phone Number: 661-281-9555
Email: medina1055@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Christian Caamal
Address: 778 Golden Gate Ave
Phone Number: (415) 724-8661
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Benjamin Paul

Address:

235 oak st Apt 21, SF, CA 94102

Phone Number:

8479770688

Email:

benspaul@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Lawrence Edward

Name:

Lawrence Edward

Address:

743 Polk St Apt 200

Phone Number:

Email:

S.F. CA 94109

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Helen Hambrook
Address: 699 Sylvan St
Phone Number: 415-782-7522
Email: hgambrook@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Megan Oser

Name: Megan Oser
Address: 600 Indiana St. 0509
Phone Number: 775-843-6822
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Carol Ventana
Address: 326 Hollywood Ave SF CA 94112
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ASA Hills
Address: 100 McALLISTER ST SF 94102
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Lauren Rischel

Name: LAUREN RISCHER
Address: 1000 SUTTER ST., #722, SF. 94109
Phone Number: 415-724-0867
Email: LAURENDONNA@HOTMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

MELTEM DZCELEBI

Address:

19 BESSIE ST SAN FRANCISCO CA 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Eric Howell

328 Golden Gate Ave.
SF, CA 94102

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jay S. Fournier
Address: 520. Van Ness Ave 396
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Alicia DiNoia

Address:

PO Box 15354

Phone Number:

415-377-0245

Email:

alicedinoia@earthlink.net

San Francisco
CA 94115

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LILIANA FELDER
Address: 33 Agnon Ave.
Phone Number: (510) 384-9496
Email: lilymfelder@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dave Glasgow

Address: 34 6th st #516

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Thomas Grant
Address: 150 9th St #221
Phone Number: 415-863-4582
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Savannah Pletcher
Dor/

Name:
Address: 100 McAllister st SF 94102
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Mercedes C. Jimenez
Address: 120 Capp St. Apt 410 San Francisco, CA 9410
Phone Number: 415-290-7145
Email: merjimenezc@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jesus Garcia
Address: 4096 17th St # 314
Phone Number: 415 - 271-7573
Email: garciajesus4096@sbcglobal.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dante I Martinez
Address: 223 Diamond St. SF, CA 94114
Phone Number:
Email: Nephazir26@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Cordero Skinner
Address: 815 Pierce St San Fran.
Phone Number: 415-913-8332
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Amber Hewitt
Address: 291 Ellis St SF 94102
Phone Number: 415 756-3303
Email: fetsgoode@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Eduardo R
Address: 177 CAPP ST
Phone Number: 415-685-1317
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Deborah Davidson
39 San Francisco Ave
415 336-2895

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tony Brown
Address: 2237 West St.
Phone Number: 415-810-5255
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Madeline Sides

Address: 3267 20th St, SF

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Benjamin Cedars
Address: 107 Shotwell Street, SF
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Yolanda Beltran
Address: 550 Vista Grande 940A
Phone Number:
Email: Viridy@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: PAIJE FULLER
Address: 575 HARRISON
Phone Number:
Email:

SF, CA

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ashley Cruz
Address: 2325 Golden Gate Avenue
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Joshua Pearson
Address: 1 Constanco Way San Francisco, CA 94132
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: AL CAPATI
Address: 2351 POWELL ST #
Phone Number: (415) 501-0440
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: J.A. Cummings, MD
Address: 1242 2ND AVE, SF, CA 94122
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Corey Weiss
Address: 985 14th St San Francisco, CA 94114
Phone Number: 415-691-4422
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Nicole Paul
Address: 2475 23rd Ave San Francisco CA 94116
Phone Number: (408) 205-2562
Email: npaul257@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

344 San Miguel
Street San Francisco.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: walter Alas
Address: 74 6th st SF CA 94103
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kendrick LeValley
Address: 1088 Howard St Apt 9
Phone Number: 415.400.7757
Email: Kendrick.LeValley@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ANDREW G. ERDMANN
Address: 669 5TH AVE
Phone Number: 908-499-5879
Email: aj@lerdinnnj@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: James Sanderson
Address: 1111 pine st
Phone Number: 530 680-1702
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: James Villafania
Address: 451-4-AVE #A
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: John Darby
Address: 2492 Post St #326 S.F. CA 94115
Phone Number:
Email: jdarby@smail.com —

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Stanley Adorno
Address: 875 Fulton St Apt 8
Phone Number: 510 729-5581
Email: 57 OR 94117

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Asya Niydeloglu
Address: 225 Market Avenue
Phone Number: 415 361-6925
Email: asyanig@narr.com.

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Alondra

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

750 Vista Grande 94014

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ronnell Hunt
Address: 2791 16th St #54
Phone Number: 415 240-1543
Email: erichunt@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Nery Rodriguez

Address:

375 14 St APT#1

Phone Number:

SAN FRANCISCO CA 94103

Email:

~~415~~ 415, 987-6484

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Paulino Barrero
Address: 540 Capp St # 213
Phone Number:
Email: 415 51770418

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ALBERT KABA

Address: 69 NEPTUNE ST.

Phone Number: 415-505-3446

Email: ALBERT_KABA@YAHOO.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Steven Lomet
Address: 218 COVERED DR S F
Phone Number: 415-230-6744
Email: slomet007@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ALVARO CERQUEIRA SOUZA
Address: 237 KERRINT ST APT # 393
Phone Number: 415-368-719
Email: alvarocer11@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Victoria Lamanova

Name: Victoria
Address: 432 Noe st San Francisco, CA
Phone Number: 347-294-6331
Email: lamanovavizi@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: DEBRA WALKER
Address: 540 Alabama St #217 SF 94110
Phone Number: 415-370-7091
Email: daddwalker@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Gerald Polts
Address: 3763 Cesar Chavez
Phone Number: (415) 369-1806
Email: gpolts73@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lena Pujol
Address: 951 Jackson Street
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

660 BUSH ST.
SF, CA 94108

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Yeliza Wen
Address: 325 Berry St #627, SF CA 94115-81
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Channing Lee
Address: 1 S. Van Ness Ave. 3FL
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Ted Lewis

Name: Tedford Lewis
Address: 2555 14th Ave
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Jessels Cavieres
JESSELS. CAVIERES

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

957 MISSION ST #221
San Francisco CA 94103

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Eriko Watanabe
Address: 94117
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Tom Lombardo
854 14th St
SF CA 94114

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Michelle Lu

Address: 94122

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jasmine Elmore

Address: 1005 Laguna St. San Francisco, CA 94115

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Clint Cario

Address: 635 Clayton #3 SF, CA 94117

Phone Number:

Email: clint.carrio@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: HILARY WHITEHEAD
Address: 1160 JORK ST, SF, CA 94110
Phone Number: 415-835-5899
Email: hilaryawe@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LESLEY BERRY
Address: S VAN NESS AVE
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Teri Love
Address: 1706 15th St San Francisco, CA 94103
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Amanda Wang

Address: 635 Clayton #3, SF, CA 94117

Phone Number: 415-691-0680

Email: amandawang0703@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Emily DeLaTorre
Address: 225 Buckingham way Apt 601, San Francisco, CA 94132
Phone Number: 415 278-9674
Email: emilydelatorre88@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Lia Wesp

Address:

600 Hampshire St

Phone Number:

Email:

lia.wesp@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Patricia Davis

Name:

12 Maxwell Ct

Address:

Phone Number:

415-684-6603

Email:

davispat50@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Rolando Lima

Sincerely,

Name: Rolando Lima

Address: 380 - Eddy #434

Phone Number: (415) 902-6229

Email: Hernandez felipe 0501@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jonathan Woodard
Address: 535 Argonaut Ave SF CA 94134
Phone Number: 415 879-2436
Email: Jonathan733435@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kassie Rhoades
Address: 463 Valerica Ave SF CA 94110
Phone Number: 415-410-4110
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

ASMITA PURI

Address:

1945 WASHINGTON ST. APT 303, SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94109

Phone Number:

347-216-5567

Email:

asmi.puri@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

JUAN ROXAS
580-CAPR SF 214
415-642-3816
DAX DAX 11-2 @MAIL.COM

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

HERBERT H. EVANS

Address:

520 S. VAN NESS # 275

Phone Number:

415 568-7694

Email:

EVANS Herb 84 @ Comail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: RONOLDI OMAE VALENCIA
Address: 3469 MISSION SF CA 94110
Phone Number: 415-756-8784
Email: ~~XXXXXXXXXX~~ treehillpi@gmx.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JEFF BUMB
Address: 169 MADRID ST. / SF 94112
Phone Number: 415 - 314 - 2905
Email: JEFFBUMB5@GMAIL

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jen Doyle
Address: 576 Guerrero
Phone Number: 715 948 8166
Email: jend@pt.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LIENE CIKANOVICA
Address: 1400 7th STREET SAN FRANCISCO
Phone Number: 415 990 5348
Email: CIKALALC@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Gustavo Torres
Address: 1406 7th st
Phone Number: 415 518 6763
Email: gustavot@ gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Charles Burd
Address: 352 S TOWN ST #357 SF 94102
Phone Number: 260 433 0491
Email: crburd@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Nick Palankos

Name:

Address: 173 Haight SF CA 94102

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: NATHALY CHAVEZ
Address: 347 DOLORES ST APT#305
Phone Number: 415 2868495
Email: coffy6017@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Yanan Tan

Address:

310 Alcapo St

Phone Number:

352-327-0161

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MARTIN KAM
Address: 241A DIVISADERO ST.
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Joe Alvarado
San Francisco

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: VADIT KAZAKOVICH
Address: 620 Foerster St San Francisco CA, 94124
Phone Number: (415) 802-5895
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Cucu Tran
Address: 1638 Kirkwood Ave, S.F.
Phone Number: 415-683-2702
Email: CucuTran7@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sylvie Dao
Address: 318 Utah, SF
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Thomas Bush
39141115 Street
213944-5259
thomasisaacbush@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Bernard Sices
Address: 1095 Gilman
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Mari Arguello

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

*Mari Arguello
308 Forest St,
415 912 6107*

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits, and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name Tim Steele

Address 1090 South Van Ness, CA 94110

Phone number 415-307-5526

Email

JimmyJohns5912@outlook.com

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name

Setu Upadhyay

Address

650 California St. #700, San Francisco, CA 94108

Phone number

949-202-6460

Email

setman85@gmail.com

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name

NATHAN DRYER

Address

1 Henry Adams St # 5530, SF, CA 94103

Phone number

513 448 5603

Email

dryer.nathan@gmail.com

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name Pablo Suarez

Address 353 King St. APT 524, SF, CA

Phone number 510 - 241 - 7613

Email pablo.97suarez@gmail.com

SUBJECT: Please support the ban on fur

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name Anirudha Pendakur

Address 355 Berry St, Apt 337, San Francisco, CA 94158

Phone number (415) 684-6894

Email anipendakur@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Gabe BUENOSTRO
185 Westgate San Francisco CA
65012008189
gbueny@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jason Storm
Address: 574 3rd st #204 S.F.
Phone Number: 415 756 6199
Email: gooniestorm@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Erin Rach

Address: 504 Walter St.

Phone Number: 415.552.7447

Email: erin@homelessyouthalliance.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Martine D'Agostino

Name: Martine D'Agostino
Address: 1290 Grove St #201 SF CA 94117
Phone Number: (415) 397-2269
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Alex Gorbetsky

ALEX GORBETSKY

701 Pennsylvania Ave

San Francisco, CA 94107

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

William Fato
Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

*239 Taralones St
SAN FRANCISCO, CA 94112*

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jenny Frane
Address: 107A HAMSHIRE
Phone Number: 510-396-3827
Email: Jennyfrane@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,
Deborah J. Brooks

Name:
Address: 453 Holly Park Circle, SF 94110
Phone Number: 415-642-8073
Email: dancinggiraffe@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Joyce Arvizo
Address: 106 6TH ST. ROOM 604 SF CA 94103
Phone Number: 415 570-9362
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Chris Colwell

Address:

1432 York

Phone Number:

554-3150

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CARMEN BARSODY

Address: 234 Hyde St. 94102

Phone Number: 415-474-0508

Email: fools@faithfulfools.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lorraine Powell
Address: 38 Farallones St. SF CA 94112
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

River Sims
1617 Polk St # 8

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Chris Carter
Address: 4190 Geary
Phone Number: 378 Condon St
Email: 415 310 2333

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Johanna Henke

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

*350 Goldengate #507
SF, CA, 94102*

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: DAVID KNAPP
Address: 1415 FRANKLIN, #501
Phone Number: (415) 567-0115
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kelley Cutler
Address: 520 Taylor St. 5702 SF
Phone Number: 415 756 0692
Email: kcutler@cubsf.org

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CAROLINE LE PETTIT
Address: 1625 45th AVE, SF CA 94122
Phone Number: 415-624-6865
Email:

lepettit@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

70 Rickelnd
415 9337415

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: J DiCorleone
Address:
Phone Number: 415-305 1403
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MICHAEL BIANCHI

Address: 60 LEAVENWORTH ST

Phone Number: 415-866-7937

Email: CHICHARON2014@HOTMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Brian Escalante

Name: Brian Escalante
Address: 80 Leavenworth Apt 34
Phone Number:
Email: BESCALANTE@CALSFSTUDENT.ORG

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tai Mamoe
Address: 1544 Polk St # 7
Phone Number: 415 255-6619
Email: talataimamoe@hotmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Julian Ontiveros

100 McAllister St
801 804 1025

Julian.ontiveros@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Emmanuelle Mitchell
Address: 132 Baltimore Way SF.
Phone Number:
Email: klacmuzzy@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Joseph Benjamin
500 Jones St. apt #415
kwangetbenjamin@gmail.com
1(415) 351-3195

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Brent Johnson

678 9th Ave

#3 S, F, CA

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

ARELY SION
25 ESSEX ST APT 515 94105

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Cynthia J Carter
44 McAllister St #628
628-225-9134
None

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Cassandra Kipp
Address: 391 Turk Street Apt. 504
Phone Number: 415 212 6620
Email: Fruityou@icloud.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Horacio Bravo Horacio Bravo.
Address: 1116 Turk St. San Francisco CA. 94115
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sasha Frazier
Address: 374 5th St Apt #704 SF CA 94107
Phone Number: 415-455-7956
Email: jfrazi10@mail.ccsf.edu

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

June Kealoha-Hall

Name:

June Kealoha-Hall

Address:

191 Golden Gate Ave. SF, CA 94102

Phone Number:

415 724-6676

Email:

mizzjewelry@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Alicia
1340
415 516 7174

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Handwritten signature of Marco Hernandez, with the name and title 'Marco Hernandez' and 'San Francisco' written below it.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

402 Broadway #111
SF CA 94109

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

250 KENNERY 22/4
SF 94108

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Shelia R. Scull
242 9th St 94102

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: jtheill@h Hill
Address: 471 Orizaba Ave. SF, CA 94132
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to read "Akira Nakagawa", written over a horizontal line.

Name: Akira Nakagawa
Address: 1442 47th Avenue
Phone Number: ~~415-333-1111~~
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: M. Lee
Address: 404
Phone Number:
Email:

Wienberger
Dolores St

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Giovanna Massi

Sincerely,

Name: Giovanna Massi
Address: 1278 market st 94102
Phone Number: 415 574 9061
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Byron Rivera
Address: r 3 Fontinella Terrace SFC A 94102
Phone Number: (415) 574-6730
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Ethel Jean Hays AA/BA
the Lincoln Family (Todd's)

P.O. BOX 425633
San Francisco, Calif.
94142
415 265 3249

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

JUSTIN SIBARS
1 POLK ST. #1501 SF CA 94102
510-910-9003
JUSTIN@BOOSOT.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Michael Garcia

Address:

1423 34th Ave SF CA 94122

Phone Number:

554-362-0872

Email:

mike.garcia@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

525 5th St
(428) 749 7912

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Sarah H. Russell
Name: Sarah H. Russell
Address: 1278 Market St. SF CA 94102
Phone Number: 415.565.0825
Email: srosell10@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: DEIRDRE VISSER
Address: 1350 GLENN ST SF
Phone Number: 415 793 9624
Email: DAVISSE@YAHOO.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Manana Kestepov
Address: 1655 Mission St, SF 94103
Phone Number:
Email: manana.cal@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Katherine D. Gonzalez

Name:

Address: 1316 S. Van Ness Ave.

Phone Number: (415) 375-5664

Email:

~~KAT~~ katblack44@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

*John Philz
1728 MARKET WAY
SF CA*

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Jay Marth

Address:

2784 22nd St

Phone Number:

415 830-4771

Email:

italicise@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Cynthia Alvarez
Name: Cynthia Alvarez
Address: 2261 Bryant St. SF cal 94014
Phone Number:
Email: 415-424-7418

alvarez_cynthia01@gmail

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: CHEVONNE SAUDAETAE
Address: 600 25TH ST 2PT 66
Phone Number: (415) 573-8105
Email: goatwhorecjs6@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Robert P. Thompson

Address:

420 Jones St #15

Phone Number:

Email:

San Francisco CA

(415) 504-5927 94103

rgcmerT@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Dawn Schaffner
Address: 21701 Foothill Blvd. #145 Hayward, Ca 94541
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Josh Bevelacqua

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

1200 Treat Ave. #3 SF.CA. 94110
joshbevelacqua@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Christopher Ramirez
18 10th St Apt 325
415 658 7520

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Vesenia Ramirez
Address: 18 Tenth St # 325 SF CA 94133
Phone Number: (415) 658-7520
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sadeh Sadi
Address: 128 EDDY ST
Phone Number:
Email: 415 928 2026

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Gregory J Williams
Address: 292 Turk, SF, 94102
Phone Number: (415) 577-8222
Email: gjwjust@hotmail

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Shay R Master

Name: Shay R Master

Address: 55 Mason St. #216

Phone Number: 415 398 1194

Email: smaster305@earthlink.net

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jenny Melara
Address: 2231 Quesada Ave. SF CA. 94124
Phone Number: (415) 590-1891
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sean Lynch
Address: 391 Ellis St.
Phone Number: 401-691-2481
Email: Seanlynch21@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jon Chaney

Address: 2787 Folsom St 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: DEREK BAUMER
Address: 3824 SCOTT ST APT 4
Phone Number: 646-771-3775
Email: DEREKBAUMER@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: SANIYA YADAV
Address: 1321 MISSION ST.
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Conley
1500 [unclear] - 214

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Xali Gulien
Address: 111 Jones St
Phone Number:
Email: Xali.gulien27@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Hannah Francis
Address: 109 Summit Way
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ANNA SMITH
Address: 139 BROWN AVE # 94131
Phone Number: 415.305.9859
Email: smokit2@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Nichitash Patel

Address:

320 Alabama Street, Unit 11

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

ABRIL HERRERA

Address:

59 GROVE ST SF, 94104

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Margo Rodriguez
Address: 984 Harrison St SF CA 94107
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Natah'e Jeha
Address: 25 Camp St. #4
Phone Number: 415 310 5565
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Ashley Clement
Address: 1070 16th St 94107
Phone Number: 978-973-4388
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Brandon Fucker
Address: 1010 16th St 566, SF
Phone Number: 928 559 1834
Email: brandan.fucker@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Pamela Head
Address: 530 Hugo Street
Phone Number: 217-722-8450
Email: pamelahead@icloud.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Gina White
Address: 2418 20th Ave #208
Phone Number: 415-622-8522
Email: ginawhite1994@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

2451 Sacramento St. 308

Phone Number:

415-683-7074

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Luis, Casillas 94103

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Judy Judkis
Address: 4732 Mission
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Courtney C. Ives

Address:

56 Julian Ave. S.F. CA. 94103

Phone Number:

Email:

415-865-0964

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Laurie Carstensen
Address: Friendship House 36 Julian
Phone Number: 415 545 0964
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Carlos Chan
Address: 18 Copp St
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Or Teyger
Address: 516 Linden St SF
Phone Number: 510 489 0875
Email: orteyger@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Michael Jones

Name: MICHAEL JONES
Address: 111 TAYLOR ST
Phone Number: (415) 572-3058
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Julio Cesar Lemus Tobar
140 Julian AVE APT 305 San Francisco 94103

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jair Avalos
Address: 1801 22nd ave apt 1 94122
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Hugo Urzua
187 handels st San Francisco Ca 94114
hugo.urzua79@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Devansh Patel
Address: 141 Dove St.
Phone Number: 423-767-5638
Email: devp@

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Edda Mai Johnson

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

588 Mission Bay Blvd North
S. F., CA 94158

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Rich Schurford # 305
1350 Market
415 864-

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Kate Rivett

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

1241 - B Green St SF 94109
303.513.9708

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: ERIK PAULSON
Address: 1241 B GREEN ST
Phone Number: 720 746 8878
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Kris Willis

Address:

1123 E. 8th St.

Phone Number:

Email:

San Francisco CA 94018

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

RUDY BACLIC

Address:

701 GOLDEN GATE

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: JUSTIN LOKITE
Address: 139 BROMPTON AVE., 94131
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Monica Bathija

Address: 320 Alabama St., # 11, S.F., CA 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

510 326 9

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Marcus Garrison
Address:
Phone Number: 94124
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lanika Stewart
Address: 211 13th Ave San Francisco
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Matthew Leeds
Address: 1925 Mission St Apt 421
Phone Number: 209-873-0740
Email: mwl456@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Vanessa
Address: 520 SO VANNEO
Phone Number: _____
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

Steven Wahl
1288 Mission St SF CA 94102
(415) 772-2639
asster1200@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Leancia Regan
Address: San Valencia St
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address: 1385 Utah St. S.F. 94110

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lisa White
Address: 22 Bay St Apt 103 SF CA 94133
Phone Number: (415) 529-2012
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Catherine Art
25 Winfield St.
San Francisco
415-550-6755
car+1997@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Donald O. Pedersen
Address: 2283 30th ave
Phone Number: 415-736-3579
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

IAN DICK

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

←
3350A 16th St SF SF

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely, Joshua Whitney

Name:
Address: 766 Clementine St. San Fran 94103
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tim Boren

Address: 2791 16th ST, SF, CA 94103

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Diana Perkin

Address: 610 TX

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Tommy Avaro
Address: 582 Grove St #12, San Francisco, CA 94102
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Miko Marks

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

4100 Keller Ave

Oakland, CA 94605

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: KARI GEAR
Address: 178 HEARST AVE SF 94131
Phone Number: 915 469 7188
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: LEONARDO BETTINELLI
Address: 1848 FELL ST. 94117 SAN FRANCISCO
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Mayra Alvarenga
111 Jones st. Apt 918
San Francisco CA 94102

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Issa Phuc

Address:

4806 mammoth

Phone Number:

oakley CA 94561

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Kevin Henley
Address: 332 16th St. 94013
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: James Robinson
Address: 332 16th St. 94013
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Yaheli Garcia 1112 Ingeboron Ave

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Eniah Garcia 1112 Ingerson Ave.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Malik Banks

Address:

Phone Number:

415 6131176

Email:

Bigface415@aol.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: DALE JAE
Address: 267 Park Ave
Phone Number: 415 617 7653
Email:

szjck@guil.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Pablo Salazar
Address: 50 Lansing St. San Francisco
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: John Oliveira
Address: 104 Garces Dr. San Francisco, CA 94116
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Nicole Morisuzi
Address: 1161 Stanyan St. Apt 1
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jibby Anjo-Ani
Address: 651 Ellsworth St, SF 94110
Phone Number: 321-257,4428
Email: jibbyani@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth A. Hanson

Name:

Address: 1515 Van Ness

Phone Number: 415-559-7284

Email:

1122ykins122@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Q

OSCAR SADY VARELA

Name:

Address: 161 BOUTHWELL SF CA 94123

Phone Number: 415 424-9940

Email: OSNVS.CONSTITUTION1776@GMAIL.COM

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Joseph Ferrari
Address: 426 NAPLES ST
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: MARGOT MARTINEZ
Address: 278 - 27 AVE. SANFCO CA. 94120
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Carlos Villatoro
Address: 2329 Mission Apt 17
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Wilmer Puerto
Address: 3276 24th Street 94110
Phone Number:
Email:

to the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jason Duval

Address: 1813 63rd St Berkeley, CA

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Maria Lara

Sincerely,

Name: Maria Lara

Address: 1106 De Haro St SF, CA 94107

Phone Number: 415 574 9650

Email: marialarag@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

YERISOTTO
WILDE 135 AVE

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:
Address:
Phone Number:
Email:

Saldana V.
32 Flournoy JAIL CITY

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Devika Patel
Address: 816 York St SF CA 94110.
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors;

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Lucy Xiang
Address: ~~1234 5th St~~ 604 Buiski St., SF CA 94108
Phone Number: 510-996-8157
Email: lucyxiang06@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Seema Bhatt
Address: 94109, 1455 ALBERT ST.
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sharon Deshpande
Address: 94108
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Sonia Lilani
Address: 2283 26th Ave
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: W. H. H. H.
Address: 1941 Mission Street
Phone Number:
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Xavier Bobic
Address: Bush & Powell Kellenburger
Phone Number: 541-771-2281
Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

America Cen 94112

Sincerely,

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Crystal Lee

94134

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

A handwritten signature in black ink, appearing to be 'M. S. X' with a heart symbol at the end.

Sincerely,

94112

Name:

Address:

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Selena Buzinky

Address: 4028 26th St

Phone Number: 415-216-8506

Email: selena.buzinky@gmail.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Allison Rubenstein

Address: 3504 16th St.

Phone Number: 201-675-9095

Email: allison.rubenstein@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

DAPHNE ELIN

Address:

540 STOCKTON #10 SF

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Jenna Wang
Address: 94129
Phone Number:
Email: jw.retail@yahoo.com

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Dona Koren-Deutsch

Address:

105 Richmond Ave 94116

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name:

Louis Williams

Address:

7401 4th St

Phone Number:

Email:

To the San Francisco Board of Supervisors,

I am writing to you as a concerned, yet hopeful, resident of San Francisco, requesting your support for the proposed ban on the sale of fur products.

I am concerned with the cruel treatment of the over 50 million animals, including dogs and cats, who are confined and killed every year in the fur industry. Many of these animals, like foxes, rabbits and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives where they go insane from boredom and stress. In order to prevent damage to their skins, these animals are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Other progressive cities, such as West Hollywood and Berkeley, have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending the production of fur. By taking the proposed action, San Francisco will continue its history of protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence and become the first major city in the world to take a stand against the brutality of the fur industry.

I urge you to support this vital legislation. Animals just like our dogs and cats are counting on us, and I'm grateful for your support.

Sincerely,

Name: Izak Gonzalez
Address: 1739 Palou Ave
Phone Number:
Email:

Carroll, John (BOS)

From: Carroll, John (BOS)
Sent: Tuesday, January 23, 2018 3:35 PM
To: Ronen, Hillary; Sheehy, Jeff (BOS); Fewer, Sandra (BOS)
Cc: 'Calvillo, Angela (angela.calvillo@sfgov.org)'; (carolyn.goossen@sfgov.org); Lambright, Koledon (BOS); Yu, Angelina (BOS); Summers, Ashley (BOS); Somera, Alisa (BOS)
Subject: Post-Packet Comment Letters - Public Safety and Neighborhood Services Committee - January 24, 2018

Good afternoon, Chair Ronen and members of the PSNS committee.

The office of the Clerk of the Board has received several comment letters from interested members of the public, concerning agenda item nos. 3 and 4 on tomorrow's committee agenda. These letters were received after I prepared the committee packets for tomorrow's meeting.

For your convenience in the committee room, I have linked these within the Legislative Research Center. They are also available linked directly below:

Comment letters on File No. 171317 - Banning Sale of Animal Fur Products

Comment letters on File No. 170843 - Exploration of Good Food Purchasing Policy

I invite you to review the entirety of these matters on our Legislative Research Center by following the links below:

Board of Supervisors File No. 171317

Board of Supervisors File No. 170843

Thank you for your review.

John Carroll

Assistant Clerk

Board of Supervisors

San Francisco City Hall, Room 244

San Francisco, CA 94102

(415)554-4445 - Direct | (415)554-5163 - Fax

john.carroll@sfgov.org | bos.legislation@sfgov.org

Click here to complete a Board of Supervisors Customer Service Satisfaction form.

The Legislative Research Center provides 24-hour access to Board of Supervisors legislation and archived matters since August 1998.

Disclosures: Personal information that is provided in communications to the Board of Supervisors is subject to disclosure under the California Public Records Act and the San Francisco Sunshine Ordinance. Personal information provided will not be redacted. Members of the public are not required to provide personal identifying information when they communicate with the Board of Supervisors and its committees. All written or oral communications that members of the public submit to the Clerk's Office regarding pending legislation or hearings will be made available to all members of the public for inspection and copying. The Clerk's Office does not redact any information from these submissions. This means that personal information—including names, phone numbers, addresses and similar information that a member of the public elects to submit to the Board and its committees—may appear on the Board of Supervisors website or in other public documents that members of the public may inspect or copy.

From: Board of Supervisors, \(BOS\)
To: Carroll, John \(BOS\)
Subject: FW: URGENT letter for the public record - tomorrow's fur sales ban meeting
Date: Tuesday, January 23, 2018 2:52:58 PM
Attachments: Fur ban letter to Board of Supervisors F.pdf
image001.png

From: Board of Supervisors, (BOS)
Sent: Tuesday, January 23, 2018 2:42 PM
To: BOS-Supervisors <bos-supervisors@sfgov.org>
Subject: FW: URGENT letter for the public record - tomorrow's fur sales ban meeting

From: Fleur Dawes [<mailto:fleur@idausa.org>]
Sent: Tuesday, January 23, 2018 2:01 PM
To: Board of Supervisors, (BOS) <board.of.supervisors@sfgov.org>
Subject: URGENT letter for the public record - tomorrow's fur sales ban meeting

Dear Board of Supervisors

Please find attached a statement from In Defense of Animals for the public record in support of the fur sales ban being discussed tomorrow. In Defense of Animals is a charity that was founded in the Bay Area over 30 years ago and represents over 250,000 members in advocating for animals, people and the environment.

Please confirm receipt.

Very best

Fleur Dawes
Communications Director
e: fleur@idausa.org s: fleur.dawes

In Defense of Animals
t: (415) 448-0048 ext. 222
c: (415) 879-6879
3010 Kerner Boulevard
San Rafael, CA
<http://www.idausa.org>
<https://www.facebook.com/indefenseofanimals>
<https://twitter.com/IDAUSA>

IN DEFENSE OF ANIMALS

January 23, 2018

San Francisco Board of Supervisors
1 Dr Carlton B Goodlett Pl #244, San Francisco, CA 94102
San Francisco, CA 94102

RE: In Support of a Fur Sales Ban in San Francisco

Dear Supervisors,

In Defense of Animals is an international animal protection nonprofit that has been based in the Bay Area for over 30 years. We represent over 250,000 supporters, and we urge you to ban cruel fur sales in San Francisco.

San Francisco is the home of the peace movement and is named after St. Francis of Assisi, the patron saint of animals and the natural environment. The City should honor its history and ongoing commitment to peace, animals, and the environment by protecting the most vulnerable from cruelty and violence.

San Francisco is getting ready to make a very important decision this week: whether to ban the sale of cruel fur products. Animals brutally maimed in savage traps and suffering in torturous fur farms need your urgent support right now!

The fur industry confines and kills over 50 million animals every year, including dogs and cats. Many of the animals, like foxes, rabbits, and minks are kept in small cages for their entire lives, severely limiting their natural activities. They often go insane from stress and boredom.

The brutal end to their lives often comes as they are gassed to death or anally and vaginally electrocuted in order to prevent damage to their skins. Other animals, like coyotes, are trapped in the wild where they are separated from their children and endure days of suffering before they are bludgeoned or shot to death.

Not only is fur cruel and unnecessary, it is processed into garments using caustic and often toxic chemicals such as formaldehyde and chromium 33, which are listed as carcinogenic and hazardous to human health.

Given the inherent cruelty of fur, progressive cities such as West Hollywood and Berkeley have passed bans on fur products. Gucci, Michael Kors, and other designers have recently prohibited the use of fur in their fashion lines. And, just a few days ago, the nation of Norway committed to ending its fur production, becoming the latest of a dozen countries to pass similar restrictions.

Please do the right thing and pass this vital legislation. The animals are counting on us to condemn cruel fur to the history books.

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in cursive script, appearing to read "Fleur Dawes". The signature is written in black ink and is positioned to the right of the word "Sincerely,".

Dr. Marilyn Kroplick
President
In Defense of Animals

P.P. Fleur Dawes, Communications Director

From: Summers, Ashley (BOS)
To: Carroll, John (BOS)
Subject: FW: Legislation re the sale of Fur in SF
Date: Tuesday, January 23, 2018 9:17:27 AM

Hi John,

Can you please include Mark's email as part of the record for our Fur Ban Ordinance tomorrow at PSNS? Thanks!

Ashley Summers

Legislative Aide
Office of Supervisor Katy Tang
1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place, Room 244
San Francisco, CA 94102
(415) 554-7460
www.sfbos.org/tang

From: Mark Pasternak [mailto:markdevilsgulchranch@gmail.com]
Sent: Monday, January 22, 2018 8:11 PM
To: Arvanitidis, Laurel (ECN) <laurel.arvanitidis@sfgov.org>; Summers, Ashley (BOS) <ashley.summers@sfgov.org>; Tang, Katy (BOS) <katy.tang@sfgov.org>
Cc: info@cuesa.org; Sheila Barry <sbarry@ucanr.edu>; Stephanie Larson <slarson@ucanr.edu>; Rob Bennaton <rbennaton@ucanr.edu>
Subject: Re: Legislation re the sale of Fur in SF

Laurel,

Thank you very much for your email, and thanks for the intro to Ashley Summers. I am aware of the proposed ordinance and did send Supervisor Tang an email a few weeks ago.

While I do agree with Sec.1D.2. Findings and Purpose I would like to point out that it does not at all apply to furs from animals raised humanely for their meat, such as sheep, goats, rabbits, etc. In fact the complete use of the entire animal is more environmentally and ecologically sound than not. We make every effort to use everything from the animals we raise: from the manure for our vineyards to the pelts which are tanned for sale whole, and are made into added value products by my wife which we sell at the Farmers Market; scarves, hats, gloves, muffs, leg warmers, pillows, etc. This gives us another avenue of financial diversification to help our small, local family farm survive. Please do not confuse the use of furs from humanely raised meat animals with those from animals that are raised on factory fur farms.

Unfortunately, I will not be able to attend the hearing on Wednesday, but would hope that perhaps this email could be read.

Thanks,
Mark Pasternak
Devils Gulch Ranch

On Mon, Jan 22, 2018 at 6:40 PM, Arvanitidis, Laurel (ECN) <laurel.arvanitidis@sfgov.org> wrote:

Hi Devils Gulch Ranch!

I work for the Office of Economic and Workforce Development at City Hall and am tasked with supporting our local business community. In partnership with Sup Tang's Office, we wanted to be sure that you were aware of a piece of legislation that is being heard on Wednesday.

Sup Tang as introduced an ordinance to ban the sale of animal fur products in San Francisco. Knowing that you sell some fur products at the Ferry Plaza Farmers Market we wanted to be sure you were aware of this legislation. There are some exemptions which may cover your products but I am not sure.

For that reason I wanted to put you in touch with Ashley from Sup Tang's office so you could discuss. Here is a link to the legislation as well as the legislative digest for your review.

Additionally, the item is scheduled to be heard at the Public Safety and Neighborhood Services Committee at 10a on Wednesday in City Hall, Room 263. Here is a link to the agenda.

Best,

Laurel

PS cc'ing CUESA in case you have any other vendors I'm not thinking of that sell these sorts of products.

Laurel Arvanitidis
Director of Business Development
Office of Economic and Workforce Development
1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place, Room 448
San Francisco, CA 94102

415-554-6471
Laurel.arvanitidis@sfgov.org

Note – I will be on maternity leave 2/12/18-7/9/18

--
Mark Pasternak
Devil's Gulch Ranch
www.DevilsGulchRanch.com

www.DGES.org
cell 707 953-0923
office 415 662-1099

Carroll, John (BOS)

From: Lindsay Larris <llarris@aldf.org>
Sent: Wednesday, January 17, 2018 7:28 PM
To: Tang, Katy (BOS); Ronen, Hillary; Sheehy, Jeff (BOS); Fewer, Sandra (BOS)
Cc: Carroll, John (BOS)
Subject: Banning Sale of Fur Products in San Francisco
Attachments: ALDF Letter in Support of SF Fur Ban.pdf

Dear Supervisors –

Please see the attached letter in support of Supervisor Tang’s ordinance banning the sale of fur products in San Francisco, submitted on behalf of the Animal Legal Defense Fund.

Sincerely,

Lindsay Larris

Lindsay Larris | Acting Director, Legislative Affairs Program
Animal Legal Defense Fund | aldf.org
P 707.795.2533, ext. 1051 | C 310.923.1465
LLarris@aldf.org

SIGN UP!
Action Alerts | Facebook | Twitter | YouTube | Instagram | Causes

January 17, 2018

Supervisor Katy Tang
Supervisor Hillary Ronen
Supervisor Jeff Sheehy
Supervisor Sandra Fewer
1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Pl., Room 244
San Francisco, CA 94102

525 East Cotati Avenue
Cotati, California 94931
T 707.795.2533
F 707.795.7280

RE: Banning Sale of Animal Fur Products (Tang)

Dear Supervisors of the Public Safety and Neighborhood Services Committee:

I write on behalf of the Animal Legal Defense Fund (ALDF) and our roughly 25,000 members and supporters in California, approximately 1,000 of whom live in San Francisco County, in support of Supervisor Tang's proposed ordinance to ban the sale of animal fur products. ALDF has been working for nearly four decades to protect the lives and advance the interests of animals through the legal system, including supporting similar bans in West Hollywood and Berkeley. We hope that San Francisco continues its role as a leader of progressive legislative initiatives by becoming the third jurisdiction in the United States to stand up to the cruel fur industry.

As a practical matter, there is simply no such thing as "humanely-raised" fur as all fur products are derived from inherently cruel and wasteful production methods. Fur products are either from animals raised on fur farms – places in which fur-bearing mammals bred solely for their fur, live in cramped, unsanitary quarters, and die painful deaths (unregulated by any laws) that put preservation of pelts above animal suffering. As such, slaughter methods such as poisoning, electrocution, and gassing, are common practice in the fur industry. "Wild caught" fur is also the product of extreme suffering as this fur is derived from animals caught in steel traps who die slow and painful deaths. Steel traps are so barbaric, that the European Union, as well as many states (including California) ban the use of such traps on public lands.

San Francisco has the legal authority to protect the welfare of animals within the county limits and enacting this ordinance would certainly advance the interests of animals. Regulation and certification cannot address the inherent cruelty of the fur industry, therefore, it is imperative that progressive jurisdictions outlaw items that are the product of clear violations of animal welfare. Moreover, such legislation is in line with promoting the progressive values that have been synonymous with San Francisco for many years. I urge you to vote yes on this ordinance.

If I can answer any questions or be of further assistance please don't hesitate to reach out at 707-795-2533 ext. 1051 or LLarris@aldf.org.

Very truly yours,

A handwritten signature in black ink that reads "Lindsay Larris".

Lindsay Larris, Esq.
Senior Attorney, Legislative Affairs Program

BOARD of SUPERVISORS

City Hall
1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place, Room 244
San Francisco 94102-4689
Tel. No. 554-5184
Fax No. 554-5163
TDD/TTY No. 554-5227

MEMORANDUM

TO: Barbara A. Garcia, Director, Department of Public Health
Ben Rosenfield, City Controller, Office of the Controller
Jose Cisneros, Treasurer, Office of the Treasurer & Tax Collector

FROM: John Carroll, Assistant Clerk, Public Safety and Neighborhood Services
Committee, Board of Supervisors

DATE: December 19, 2017

SUBJECT: LEGISLATION INTRODUCED

The Board of Supervisors' Public Safety and Neighborhood Services Committee has received the following proposed legislation, introduced by Supervisor Tang on December 12, 2017:

File No. 171317

Ordinance amending the Health Code to ban the sale in San Francisco of animal fur products.

If you have any comments or reports to be included with the file, please forward them to me at the Board of Supervisors, City Hall, Room 244, 1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place, San Francisco, CA 94102.

c: Greg Wagner, Department of Public Health
Dr. Naveena Bobba, Department of Public Health
Sneha Patil, Department of Public Health
Todd Rydstrom, Office of the Controller
Amanda Kahn Fried, Office of the Treasurer & Tax Collector

BOARD of SUPERVISORS

City Hall
1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place, Room 244
San Francisco 94102-4689
Tel. No. 554-5184
Fax No. 554-5163
TDD/TTY No. 554-5227

MEMORANDUM

TO: Regina Dick-Endrizzi, Director
Small Business Commission, City Hall, Room 448

FROM: John Carroll, Assistant Clerk, Public Safety and Neighborhood Services
Committee, Board of Supervisors

DATE: December 19, 2017

SUBJECT: REFERRAL FROM BOARD OF SUPERVISORS
Public Safety and Neighborhood Services Committee

The Board of Supervisors' Public Safety and Neighborhood Services Committee has received the following legislation, which is being referred to the Small Business Commission for comment and recommendation. The Commission may provide any response it deems appropriate within 12 days from the date of this referral.

File No. 171317

Ordinance amending the Health Code to ban the sale in San Francisco of animal fur products.

Please return this cover sheet with the Commission's response to me at the Board of Supervisors, City Hall, Room 244, 1 Dr. Carlton B. Goodlett Place, San Francisco, CA 94102.

RESPONSE FROM SMALL BUSINESS COMMISSION - Date: _____

- No Comment
- Recommendation Attached

Chairperson, Small Business Commission

RECEIVED
12/12/17 @ 5:35pm
JD

Introduction Form

By a Member of the Board of Supervisors or the Mayor

Time stamp
or meeting date

I hereby submit the following item for introduction (select only one):

- 1. For reference to Committee.
An ordinance, resolution, motion, or charter amendment.
- 2. Request for next printed agenda without reference to Committee.
- 3. Request for hearing on a subject matter at Committee.
- 4. Request for letter beginning "Supervisor [] inquires"
- 5. City Attorney request.
- 6. Call File No. [] from Committee.
- 7. Budget Analyst request (attach written motion).
- 8. Substitute Legislation File No. []
- 9. Request for Closed Session (attach written motion).
- 10. Board to Sit as A Committee of the Whole.
- 11. Question(s) submitted for Mayoral Appearance before the BOS on []

Please check the appropriate boxes. The proposed legislation should be forwarded to the following:

- Small Business Commission Youth Commission Ethics Commission
- Planning Commission Building Inspection Commission

Note: For the Imperative Agenda (a resolution not on the printed agenda), use a Imperative

Sponsor(s):

Katy Tang

Subject:

Health Code - Banning the Sale of Fur Apparel Products in San Francisco

The text is listed below or attached:

[Empty box for text listing]

Signature of Sponsoring Supervisor: Katy Tang

For Clerk's Use Only: