

Report Title [Publication Date]	F#	Finding (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Finding Response (Agree/Disagree)	Finding Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F1	SF Environment and Recology are to be commended for their commitment to maximizing the effectiveness of their recycling efforts. San Francisco sets a positive, powerful example for how a commitment to recycling can pay off in the form of reduced landfill use.	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F2	SF Environment and Recology do not provide a sufficient amount of timely information to the public related to the disposition of material placed in the blue bins.	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F3	While significant efforts are being made by SF Environment and Recology, many residents still struggle to understand what belongs in the blue bin and what does not.	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F1	SF Environment and Recology are to be commended for their commitment to maximizing the effectiveness of their recycling efforts. San Francisco sets a positive, powerful example for how a commitment to recycling can pay off in the form of reduced landfill use.	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	F#	Finding (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Finding Response (Agree/Disagree)	Finding Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F2	SF Environment and Recology do not provide a sufficient amount of timely information to the public related to the disposition of material placed in the blue bins.	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F3	While significant efforts are being made by SF Environment and Recology, many residents still struggle to understand what belongs in the blue bin and what does not.	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F1	SF Environment and Recology are to be commended for their commitment to maximizing the effectiveness of their recycling efforts. San Francisco sets a positive, powerful example for how a commitment to recycling can pay off in the form of reduced landfill use.	Robert Haley, Zero Waste Manager, SF Dept. of Environment [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F2	SF Environment and Recology do not provide a sufficient amount of timely information to the public related to the disposition of material placed in the blue bins.	Robert Haley, Zero Waste Manager, SF Dept. of Environment [November 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	F#	Finding (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Finding Response (Agree/Disagree)	Finding Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F3	While significant efforts are being made by SF Environment and Recology, many residents still struggle to understand what belongs in the blue bin and what does not.	Robert Haley, Zero Waste Manager, SF Dept. of Environment [November 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	R# [for F#]	Recommendation (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Recommendation Response (Implementation)	Recommendation Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R1 [for F2]	City government, should establish a web page (available on both Recology SF and SF Environment sites) that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The website should be updated not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical elements.	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R2 [for F2]	The existing mobile application related to recycling should be updated to provide information that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The information should be refreshed not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R3 [for F3]	City government, should enhance citizen educational efforts on what not to place in the blue bins, so that the volume, quality, and associated revenue from blue bin recycling can be increased, while decreasing the confusion some citizens have on this topic	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R1 [for F2]	City government, should establish a web page (available on both Recology SF and SF Environment sites) that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The website should be updated not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical elements.	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	R# [for F#]	Recommendation (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Recommendation Response (Implementation)	Recommendation Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R2 [for F2]	The existing mobile application related to recycling should be updated to provide information that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The information should be refreshed not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R3 [for F3]	City government, should enhance citizen educational efforts on what not to place in the blue bins, so that the volume, quality, and associated revenue from blue bin recycling can be increased, while decreasing the confusion some citizens have on this topic	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R1 [for F2]	City government, should establish a web page (available on both Recology SF and SF Environment sites) that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The website should be updated not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical elements.	Robert Haley, Zero Waste Manager, SF Dept. of Environment [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R2 [for F2]	The existing mobile application related to recycling should be updated to provide information that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The information should be refreshed not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical	Robert Haley, Zero Waste Manager, SF Dept. of Environment [November 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	R# [for F#]	Recommendation (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Recommendation Response (Implementation)	Recommendation Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R3 [for F3]	City government, should enhance citizen educational efforts on what not to place in the blue bins, so that the volume, quality, and associated revenue from blue bin recycling can be increased, while decreasing the confusion some citizens have on this topic	Robert Haley, Zero Waste Manager, SF Dept. of Environment [November 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	F#	Finding (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Finding Response (Agree/Disagree)	Finding Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F1	SF Environment and Recology are to be commended for their commitment to maximizing the effectiveness of their recycling efforts. San Francisco sets a positive, powerful example for how a commitment to recycling can pay off in the form of reduced landfill use.	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F2	SF Environment and Recology do not provide a sufficient amount of timely information to the public related to the disposition of material placed in the blue bins.	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F3	While significant efforts are being made by SF Environment and Recology, many residents still struggle to understand what belongs in the blue bin and what does not.	Mayor [November 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	R# [for F#]	Recommendation (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Recommendation Response (Implementation)	Recommendation Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R1 [for F2]	City government, should establish a web page (available on both Recology SF and SF Environment sites) that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The website should be updated not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical elements.	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R2 [for F2]	The existing mobile application related to recycling should be updated to provide information that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The information should be refreshed not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical	Mayor [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R3 [for F3]	City government, should enhance citizen educational efforts on what not to place in the blue bins, so that the volume, quality, and associated revenue from blue bin recycling can be increased, while decreasing the confusion some citizens have on this topic.	Mayor [November 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	F#	Finding (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Finding Response (Agree/Disagree)	Finding Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F1	SF Environment and Recology are to be commended for their commitment to maximizing the effectiveness of their recycling efforts. San Francisco sets a positive, powerful example for how a commitment to recycling can pay off in the form of reduced landfill use.	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F2	SF Environment and Recology do not provide a sufficient amount of timely information to the public related to the disposition of material placed in the blue bins.	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F3	While significant efforts are being made by SF Environment and Recology, many residents still struggle to understand what belongs in the blue bin and what does not.	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	R# [for F#]	Recommendation (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Recommendation Response (Implementation)	Recommendation Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R1 [for F2]	City government, should establish a web page (available on both Recology SF and SF Environment sites) that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The website should be updated not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical elements.	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R2 [for F2]	The existing mobile application related to recycling should be updated to provide information that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The information should be refreshed not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R3 [for F3]	City government, should enhance citizen educational efforts on what not to place in the blue bins, so that the volume, quality, and associated revenue from blue bin recycling can be increased, while decreasing the confusion some citizens have on this topic.	Board of Supervisors [December 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	F#	Finding (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Finding Response (Agree/Disagree)	Finding Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F1	SF Environment and Recology are to be commended for their commitment to maximizing the effectiveness of their recycling efforts. San Francisco sets a positive, powerful example for how a commitment to recycling can pay off in the form of reduced landfill use.	Department of the Environment [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F2	SF Environment and Recology do not provide a sufficient amount of timely information to the public related to the disposition of material placed in the blue bins.	Department of the Environment [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	F3	While significant efforts are being made by SF Environment and Recology, many residents still struggle to understand what belongs in the blue bin and what does not.	Department of the Environment [November 30, 2020]

Report Title [Publication Date]	R# [for F#]	Recommendation (text may be duplicated due to spanning and multiple respondent effects)	Respondent Assigned by CGJ [Response Due Date]	Recommendation Response (Implementation)	Recommendation Response Text
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R1 [for F2]	City government, should establish a web page (available on both Recology SF and SF Environment sites) that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The website should be updated not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical elements.	Department of the Environment [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R2 [for F2]	The existing mobile application related to recycling should be updated to provide information that summarizes the recent disposition of blue bin material. The information should be refreshed not less than twice a year, with data for the preceding six months. Key trends should be identified in simple language or graphical	Department of the Environment [November 30, 2020]
A Recycling Reality Check: What Actually Happens to Things We Put in Our Blue Recycling Bins? [October 1, 2020]	R3 [for F3]	City government, should enhance citizen educational efforts on what not to place in the blue bins, so that the volume, quality, and associated revenue from blue bin recycling can be increased, while decreasing the confusion some citizens have on this topic.	Department of the Environment [November 30, 2020]		