16 Section 1. CEQA and Land Use Findings.

17 (a) The Planning Department has determined that the actions contemplated in this 18 ordinance comply with the California Environmental Quality Act (California Public Resources 19 Code Sections 21000 et seq.). Said determination is on file with the Clerk of the Board of 20 Supervisors in File No. 210866 and is incorporated herein by reference. The Board affirms
21 this determination.

22 (b) On November 18, 2021, the Planning Commission, in Resolution No. 21031,
23 adopted findings that the actions contemplated in this ordinance are consistent, on balance,
24 with the City’s General Plan and eight priority policies of Planning Code Section 101.1. The

1 Board adopts these findings as its own. A copy of said Resolution is on file with the Clerk of
2 the Board of Supervisors in File No. 210866, and is incorporated herein by reference.

3 (c) Pursuant to Planning Code Section 302, this Board finds that these Planning Code
4 amendments will serve the public necessity, convenience, and welfare for the reasons set
5 forth in Planning Commission Resolution No. 21031, and the Board adopts such reasons as
6 its own. A copy of said resolution is on file with the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors in File
7 No. 210866 and is incorporated herein by reference.

8
9 Section 2. Background and Findings.

10 (a) San Francisco faces a severe crisis of housing affordability and availability,
11 characterized by dramatic increases in rent and home sale prices over recent years and 12 historic underproduction of new housing units across income levels, particularly in the City's 13 western neighborhoods and RH (Residential, House) zoning districts.

14 (b) According to the Planning Department's 2020 Housing Inventory, the cost of 15 housing in San Francisco has increased dramatically since the Great Recession of 2008-
16 2009, with the median sale price for a two-bedroom house more than tripling from 2011 to 17 2021, from $493,000 to $1,580,000. This includes a 9% increase from 2019 to 2020 alone,
18 even in the face of the COVID-19 pandemic. The median rental price for a two-bedroom 19 apartment saw similar although slightly smaller increases, nearly doubling from $2,570 to 20 $4,500 per month, from 2011 to 2019, before declining in 2020 due to the pandemic.

21 (c) These housing cost trends come after decades of underproduction of housing in 22 San Francisco, with only 600 net new units on average added per year from 1960 to 1990,
23 compared with 37,000 per year in the Bay Area as a whole, and fewer than 1,000 units per 24 year in the 1990s, before increasing to an average of roughly 2,500 net new units per year
25

1 from 2000 to 2019, according to the Planning Department’s 2019 Housing Affordability
2 Strategies Report.

3 (d) The City’s Chief Economist has estimated that approximately 5,000 new market-
4 rate housing units per year would be required to keep housing prices constant with inflation
5 generally, rather than greatly exceeding general rates of inflation.

6 (e) Housing opportunities have not kept pace with population growth at the State level
7 either, with a 2016 report by the McKinsey Institute finding that California ranks 49th out of 50
8 states in the number of housing units per person.

9 (f) San Francisco will be challenged to meet increased Regional Housing Needs
10 Allocation (“RHNA”) goals in the upcoming 2023-2031 Housing Element cycle, which are 11 expected to be at least 72,000 units over eight years, more than 2.5 times the goal of the 12 previous eight-year cycle. At the same time, relatively new State laws like Senate Bill 35
13 (2017) would limit San Francisco’s local zoning control and discretion if the City does not meet
14 these RHNA housing production goals.

15 (g) San Francisco’s new housing production in recent years has been heavily
16 concentrated in the eastern and southeastern parts of the City, with 90% of all new housing
17 produced in just 10 eastside and central neighborhoods, according to the Housing
18 Affordability Strategies Report. These neighborhoods are home to many of the City’s most 19 established communities of color and communities most vulnerable to displacement
20 pressures.

21 (h) The majority, roughly 60%, of San Francisco’s developable land area is in the RH
22 zoning districts, with 38% zoned exclusively for single-family homes in the Residential, House,
23 One Family (RH-1) and Residential, House, One Family, Detached Dwellings (RH-1(D))
24 zoning districts, concentrated almost entirely on the City’s west side. In spite of the expansive
25

1 geographic coverage of these zoning districts throughout the City, only 10% of the total new
2 housing units in 2020 were built in these districts.

3 (i) Neighborhoods zoned for RH encompass a wide variety of housing and building
4 typologies, with a distinct historic pattern of taller, higher-density buildings routinely located on
5 corner lots throughout residential neighborhoods in the City, which predate RH zoning
6 established in the 1970s.

7 (j) The City’s COVID-19 Economic Recovery Task Force included a recommendation
8 in its October 2020 report to support construction of small multifamily buildings in low density
9 areas to support “missing middle” housing opportunities.

10
11 Section 3. Article 2 of the Planning Code is hereby amended by revising Sections 207
12 and 209.1, to read as follows:

13
14 SEC. 207. DWELLING UNIT DENSITY LIMITS.

15 * * * *

16 (c) Exceptions to Dwelling Unit Density Limits. An exception to the calculations
17 under this Section 207 shall be made in the following circumstances:

18 * * * *

19 (8) Residential Density in RH Districts. For projects located in RH Districts that are 20 not seeking or receiving a density bonus under the provisions of Planning Code Sections 206.5 or 21 206.6, residential density limits shall be waived for up to four dwelling units per lot, not inclusive of 22 any Accessory Dwelling Units as permitted under this Section 207. Projects utilizing the density
23 exception of this subsection (c)(8) shall be subject to the building standards applicable to RH-3 zoning
24 districts as set forth in Section 209.1.

SEC. 209.1. RH (RESIDENTIAL, HOUSE) DISTRICTS.

These Districts are intended to recognize, protect, conserve, and enhance areas characterized by dwellings in the form of houses, usually with one, two, or three units with separate entrances, and limited scale in terms of building width and height. Such areas tend to have similarity of building styles and predominantly contain large units suitable for family occupancy, considerable open space, and limited nonresidential uses. The RH Districts are composed of five separate classes of districts, as follows:
